Because of that, Carrickfergus Grammar School, which I left in 2000, is still waiting for new sports facilities, as Mr Lyons mentioned. We do not know whether we can invest in the site itself broadly enough to share across two school sites because we do not know whether, in the long term, the new school at Carrickfergus Academy is going to be there. Even getting certainty that it will be located there would mean that we could start to build the infrastructure around it so that shared facilities at least could be developed while we wait for the new build. With every piece of strength that I have, I urge that we at least try to give certainty as quickly as possible to the pupils, parents and staff at Carrickfergus Academy.

I referred to other schemes that have gone well. The rebuild at Corran Integrated Primary School and Nursery in Larne was announced in 2013 and has long since been built. It is up and running, and hats off again to the staff there. However, the focus goes back to the other schools that are still waiting. There is a disparity that I can never get my head around.

5.00 pm

Aside from those two schemes, there have been other projects in recent years. Woodburn Primary School has been a roaring success and a really good asset, and its numbers are up because of that. When I visited recently, all the pupils and staff were overjoyed by the standard of their new building, so we thank the Minister for getting that completed. The same applies to Acorn Integrated Primary School.

I have some concerns. Recently, the Antiville Primary School and St Comgall's College sites were sold off. Local taxpayers had put money into those schools. In future, when schools are closed and the land sold off, it would be nice if that money could be reinvested in the local school estate. In that case, it went to building houses. Maybe that could be looked at. I do not know whether that is pie in the sky thinking.

Mr Weir: Will the Member give way?

Mr Stewart: Yes.

Mr Weir: I do not have details of the individual sites. However, when any public land is sold off, there will be some restriction on where the money goes. It will depend on whether direct money has been provided for the site in the first place. Generally speaking, the money from sales goes back to public finances and the Treasury. The Member makes a reasonable point. Unfortunately, however, the money cannot be ring-fenced for reallocation within the Department of Education. My job would be a lot easier if it could.

Mr Stewart: Maybe we can look at that collectively. I do not know whether that can be done. As I said, maybe it is pie in the sky, but it was just a thought.

In my last minute, I want to comment on a couple of points. A number of rural schools have been added to the latest round of area planning, which, in my opinion, is a euphemism for earmarked for closure. It would not be right to mention particular schools. Those governors and staff are working tirelessly, and they fear becoming victims of death by a thousand cuts, Minister. It is really sad to see that. They provide a vital service in the rural community and should be given every opportunity to continue doing that. They should, at least, be kept informed, rather than having this year-on-year uncertainty.

Finally, in my last 30 seconds, if you will indulge me, Mr Principal Deputy Speaker, I have a real fear about the loss of our traffic patrolmen and women. There have never been more cars on the roads, yet every school is being told that, if their patrol person retires or, sadly, passes away, they will not be replaced. We had that at the Model Primary School with the tragic death of its patrol person last year.

Mr Dickson: Will the Member give way?

Mr Stewart: Of course, yes.

Mr Dickson: I want to comment on that particular issue with the Model Primary School. When travelling to my constituency office in Carrick, I strictly observe the 20 mph signs that are there to replace the patrol person, but I am constantly passed by other cars every time I make that journey.

Mr Principal Deputy Speaker: I am afraid that the Alliance Party has stolen your last 10 seconds, Mr Stewart. [Laughter.]

Mr McGuigan: I thank Gordon Lyons for securing the debate. I echo the comments from others in praising the school staff across the constituency of East Antrim for their work and commitment every year, but particularly this year. East Antrim is not my constituency, of course, but it neighbours my constituency of North Antrim. A small number of pupils in parts in the glens of Antrim, for example, attend schools in East Antrim. Therefore, I have a few issues pertaining to the debate that I want to put on record.

St Killian's College, on the coast road, is on one of the most picturesque and beautiful sites anywhere on this island. However, it has a building meant for 600 pupils and a current enrolment of 850. When my party colleague John O'Dowd announced and committed to a new school building in 2014, no one expected that, by 2021, no sod had yet been dug. I echo and agree with all the commentary from other Members on other schools. St Killian's is in stage 3 of planning with Mid and East Antrim Council and, hopefully, is on track for Christmas 2022. However, more than a whole school generation of pupils has missed out on a modern school environment because of bureaucracy and delay in the process. In a similar situation in another school in my constituency, I recall a member of the board of governors describing the process as trying to wade through treacle. Minister, that needs to be streamlined. We need to ensure the speedier delivery of new school buildings when they are announced.

Parts of East Antrim are particularly rural, and, whilst this is not an issue specific to schools, planning constraints and infrastructure deficits in parts of the glens of Antrim are having a major impact on our rural school estate, and I echo the commentary from John Stewart on rural schools.

Given the issues with planning and infrastructure in places like Cushendun, Cushendall, Glenariff etc, young people have to build away from where they were brought up or buy outside the community in which they were reared, and that has an impact on primary school enrolment in those places. While that is not the direct responsibility of the Minister, he needs to help to address that with his Executive colleagues.

School transport in the constituency is another issue that has been flagged up to me, particularly for children attending special educational needs schools in Ballymena and Larne. Some of those children are being picked up as early as 8.00 am and are not getting to school until after 9.00 am, and they are not getting home until after 4.30 pm. Some are spending as much as three hours travelling to and from school, perhaps because they are being taken, as it has been described to me, on a tour of East Antrim rather than via the most direct route. Again, Minister, that needs to be reviewed to ensure that those children spend less time travelling and more time at school and at home.

This is a general point about all schools, which has been raised by Gordon Lyons and others. I spoke earlier about St Killian's new build. New builds need to take account of more than just the educational needs of our school community, given the lack of sporting and other facilities, particularly in rural parts of the constituency. The Department needs to make provisions to allow schools to have excellent sporting facilities and to open up those facilities to the general public. Communities in rural areas should be able to access, after 5.00 pm, at the weekend and during the two months over the summer, good sporting and other facilities that are on their doorstep. For example, why not incorporate state-of-the-art facilities in St Killian's and allow the numerous GAA, soccer, rugby, rowing and athletic clubs in the constituency to use them? Those are just a number of things that I would like to see.

Mr Stewart: Will the Member give way?

Mr McGuigan: Yes.

Mr Stewart: I am chancing my arm because I think that you are about to finish. I will use 30 seconds of your time to get in a point that I was going to make earlier, so please indulge me. Does the Member agree that the plan by the EA not to replace traffic patrol people outside our schools, particularly those with dual carriageways outside them and even those in rural communities, is dangerous and is not in the interests of pupil safety? We have to be rightly obsessed with pupil safety inside and outside school. Given that there are more cars on the roads now than ever before, surely now is the time to invest in safety in getting to school as well as safety inside it.

Mr McGuigan: I congratulate the Member on his use of that intervention. I wholeheartedly agree. We should be passionate about making travel to school safe for our children. I agree with the point about school patrols. I also agree that that is outside this Minister's remit, but there should be a 20 mph limit outside schools. We need to work to ensure that there is active travel provision so that our children can walk and cycle safely to school. I totally agree with what the Member said.

Mr Lyons: I thank the Member for giving way. On Mr Stewart's point, it does not help in other ways either. For example, if parents know that a patrol person is there to help the children get safely across a road, that may encourage them not to drive to school. I know that a number of schools, including Linn Primary School, Greenisland Primary School and Whiteabbey Primary School, face problems with traffic, as do the residents. That is a big issue, and it should be taken into consideration before planning approval is given, because it can cause a real hassle for residents. Corran Integrated Primary School got that right with the parking on its site.

Mr Principal Deputy Speaker: Just as Alliance stole the Ulster Unionists' last 10 seconds, the DUP has now stolen Sinn Féin's last 10 seconds. I now move on to the next Member on my list, and that is Daniel McCrossan.

Mr McCrossan: I thank Member Lyons for securing the debate. I am all for such debates, particularly when it comes to putting a very bright spotlight on the school estate, its dilapidated condition in many parts of Northern Ireland and safety issues inside and outside schools. Various constituents right across Northern Ireland have shared with me, as the SDLP's education spokesperson, many stories that are truly shocking and definitely question the safety at some of the schools and the condition of some of the estates.

I do find it quite strange, however, that a Member who is in the same party as the Minister has to bring an Adjournment debate to highlight those issues. Perhaps the best thing to do is to have a conversation directly with the Minister to resolve the issues in your constituency, because I can tell you that they are not unique to East Antrim. The condition of the school estate right across the entirety of Northern Ireland is in question, and, although it is easy for all of us to point the finger at the Education Authority, the buck certainly stops with the Department of Education and the Minister, and not just Minister Weir, who has been in office for just over a year since the three-year collapse of the institutions, but consecutive Education Ministers, who have failed to grasp the nettle and resolve the issues with the school estate.

That having been said, I am not a Member for East Antrim, as Members will know, but all the issues that have been shared by Members today are reflected in schools by school leaders, principals and parents right across the entirety of Northern Ireland. I have done a fair bit of research on some of the issues, and I have looked at some correspondence from principals in East Antrim. I share Member Lyons's disappointment at the lack of commitment and willingness from the Education Authority to invest in Carrickfergus Grammar School and the disappointment of Members across the Chamber who echo his concerns. The Minister is best placed to resolve those issues and could very quickly, with a phone call or the stroke of a pen, add pressure to ensure that the steam is taken out of the delays.

Some of us might blame the Minister, and some would say that I continually blame the Minister. I understand, however, that, politically, it is a big issue. It is an issue in all our constituencies that needs to be resolved, and it is one that has been going on for many decades. I have written to the Minister in recent times about similar issues that exist in the school estate in West Tyrone and in Fermanagh and South Tyrone. The Minister will know that St Conor's Primary School in the heart of Omagh is suffering similarly. The school was built many years ago and accommodates 400 young people and many teachers. As Mr Dickson and Mr Stewart outlined, the issue lies outside the school estate. The higher volume of vehicles on the roads brings into question the safety of our children and young people. Similar to Carrickfergus Grammar, there is a very serious issue with traffic management at schools such as St Conor's in my constituency, where the main road, which is surrounded by hundreds of housing estates and residents, sees a logjam every single day. Children are coming straight out of the school gate to go to their parents' cars or to buses or taxis and are running in between and behind cars, putting themselves at risk. The issue is that there is so much congestion that it is threatening the lives and safety of those young people.

Members have highlighted Larne High School, which was built in 1957. Member Beggs said that it needs work, as it is 64 years old. In West Tyrone, Strabane Primary School is another example. It is 50 years old and has been waiting for a major refurbishment since 2004. I declare an interest, because my former primary school —.

Mr Principal Deputy Speaker: Order. Let me bring the Member to order briefly. His contribution to the debate on schools in East Antrim has been tangential to say the least. This is an Adjournment debate on the school estate in East Antrim. I am sure that, if the Member wanted to at some point in the future, we could have a similar debate on West Tyrone, but can we try to return to the theme of the Adjournment debate?

Mr McCrossan: Mr Principal Deputy Speaker, with respect, the theme of the debate is the school estate, and that is not unique to that specific constituency.

Mr Principal Deputy Speaker: Order. The title in the Order Paper is "School Estate in East Antrim". The Member is veering dangerously close to questioning a ruling of the Chair, and I am sure that that is not his intention.

Mr McCrossan: As I stated previously when mentioning Larne High School and Carrickfergus Grammar School in the context of the school estate, I am all for debates about the condition of the school estate in East Antrim, but, equally, Adjournment debates by themselves do not solve the issues.

Fluffy conversation around the issues will not resolve the school estate problems in East Antrim; what will resolve them is swift action by the Minister of Education. Less debate, more action, more money, more investment in the school estate and swift leadership are absolutely necessary to ensure that our children in East Antrim and every other constituency have the best possible access to high-quality provision.

5.15 pm

Mr Principal Deputy Speaker: I am afraid that the Member's time is up. I call the Minister of Education to respond to the comments that have been made.

Mr Weir: First, I associate myself with the remarks of Members who sent their best wishes to my colleague and friend David Hilditch for his treatment.

I am delighted to respond on this Adjournment topic. I am sure that Members will forgive me if I keep my remarks on the school estate to East Antrim. Road infrastructure, traffic management and safety on our roads may lie outside the scope. If only there were some other Minister from a different party who could answer on those issues. One assumes that there will be a quiet word rather than a debate on the subject.

I appreciate a lot of the frustrations and concerns. In the 10 minutes that I have, I hope to deal with as many as possible of the issues that have been raised directly by Members. If, however, particularly in relation to individual schools that have been mentioned, I inadvertently omit a school or do not have the time to complete a response, I will endeavour to write to Members with the specifics.

Members will be aware that the broader school estate, including special schools in the system, comprises about 1,100 schools. Part of the frustration comes from the sense that the budget for capital expenditure could, if the money were there, be spent three or four times over. That has resulted in a range of schools not being in the best possible condition.

Area planning was mentioned. I do not intend to touch too directly on that because, while we are moving to a longer-term cycle for area planning, specific decisions on individual schools are a legal process to which I have to directly respond and on which I am forbidden from commenting.

Mr McGuigan commented on special needs transport. While it does not cut down the travel time, the EA has recently launched a series of new buses with a much greater level of comfort and safety for children, with a particular focus on special needs schools. Tomorrow, I will visit Roddensvale special school in Larne. It will be interesting to see whether those transport issues are raised.

The school estate in East Antrim comprises 52 schools, with 14,000 pupils being educated in them. Under the major capital programme initiated in 2012, work on five schools in East Antrim was announced. While mention was made of the slightly quicker progress at Ulidia, that work was announced under the Fresh Start programme, which has enabled the money to be levered in directly. Of the other school projects, two — Woodburn Primary and Corran Integrated — with an investment totalling £8.7 million, are complete.

Every school would like a new build, of course, but sometimes that is not possible. The other device that has principally been used is the school enhancement programme (SEP), which enables investment of up to £4 million. Four SEP programmes have been announced for East Antrim: Roddensvale, as I mentioned, Carrick Grammar, Thornfield House and Greenisland Primary. I will come to Carrick and Greenisland in greater detail later. Two SEP programmes have been completed in recent years at Acorn Integrated, which was mentioned, and Belfast High, with total investment in the region of £5 million.

In the past three financial years, over £6 million from the minor works programme has been invested across schools in East Antrim. From the broader perspective, it is, obviously, the responsibility of the managing authorities to plan sustainable provision and, as I will touch on, to be the gateway for building applications.

I turn to some of the individual schools that have been mentioned. Islandmagee Primary School and Carrickfergus Academy share the particular pressures of being split-site schools. I was recently at Carrickfergus Academy, and I will look to see whether there is any scope for additional funding to be looked at for split-site schools. That will impact on a limited number of sites across Northern Ireland, but any adjustment to the common funding formula by way of additional money for split sites will mean, effectively, a different division of money. Any money going to one school will always have a knock-on effect on others.

There has been frustration at Islandmagee. The business case was approved in July 2019 and identified a new-build school on the Low Road. I can update Members that the design of the new build progresses well and that stage 4, which is the technical design report, was submitted by the integrated consultant team for approval by the Department on 17 May 2021. Members will be aware that the planning application for the project has been lodged with the council. We hope that it progresses.

As for Carrickfergus Academy, in the last capital call prior to devolution, mention was made of incentivising amalgamations. One of the problems, to some extent, was that nearly all the schools that went forward at that stage and were approved in that capital call were amalgamations. Carrickfergus Academy fell just a little bit below the radar in numbers. However, it is the intention for there to be a fresh capital call later in 2021. That will be scored independently by officials, but Carrickfergus Academy is well placed for it. Strong consideration will be given in the scoring. I cannot make any direct promises in relation to that; in the past, sometimes, too many promises have been made.

Mr Lyons: I thank the Minister for giving way. Will he confirm whether he thinks that there will be changes to the protocol, the scoring mechanism?

In response to Mr McCrossan's point, I say that I am glad that he was able to visit many schools in East Antrim. Mr McCrossan, whose default position seems to be outrage right now, can be assured that I raise these issues not only with the Minister but on the Floor, which is appropriate.

Mr Weir: I am glad that one Member is raising the issue of the protocol without it causing quite the level of controversy that it does in other subjects. [Laughter.] We will examine the protocol to make sure that it is fit for purpose. At times, not enough credit is given to the state of the school buildings. I assure Members that I believe that it is critical that there is a high level of scoring for split sites. As Members have pointed out, there is an inequity, and it raises the pressures that are there.

I have been to Larne High School, and I am aware of the very good work that is going on. One of the important things to note is that, in any process for capital build, be it SEP or major works, the managing authority will put forward a range of schools to be considered. The Education Authority did not put forward Larne High School in either the latest school enhancement programme call or the latest major capital works programme. Therefore, it did not even make the starting gate for consideration. That is why, I think, there needs to be continued engagement.

Greenisland Primary School has been announced in the SEP. It is at an early stage. An initial site visit has been undertaken by the EA, and procurement of a design team for the project is well-advanced. Once a design team is appointed, formal steering group meetings will take place, and that will allow the school to make an impact directly.

Good work has gone on with the sports pitches at Carrickfergus Grammar School. I know that there has been the situation in the SEP. I visited with the mayor, and there has been good work between the council and Carrickfergus Grammar School. That should be advanced.

An application was submitted for Whiteabbey Primary School, but it did not get a green light for a full announcement. However, some work has been provided for in minor works. Those projects are expected to go to tender over the next week or two.

St Killian's College was mentioned. It was announced under a major works programme in June 2014.

The business case was approved by the Department with a total capital value of £32.9 million. The current position is that the developed design stage 3 submission is being reviewed by the Department's technical advisers. Therefore, there is a level of movement there.

Abbey Community College —.

Mr Principal Deputy Speaker: Minister, this debate is scheduled to end at 26 minutes past the hour. Therefore, you have an additional minute, if you want to take it.

Mr Weir: If I had known that earlier, I could have spun this out a little bit better.

Mention was made of the Abbey Community College project as well. It was announced in 2014. The integrated consultant team has been appointed and a feasibility study completed. It identified a number of feasible options to provide accommodation for the college. A business case is being developed by the Education Authority to determine the preferred option to be taken forward.

The valid point was made that we need to look at how the process can move more quickly. Balanced against that is a need to ensure value for public money, particularly with major capital works, and that creates a need for a level of checks. As part of that, with any new build, there is a requirement to look widely for any potential venues, which means that any capital build, by its nature, will tend to be a lot more elongated than, for example, the school enhancement programme.

I thank the Members for their contributions today. I will continue to work with schools in East Antrim and beyond, because every student deserves the best possible facilities for their education.

Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation Announcement on the Astra Zeneca Vaccine

Published at 5.00 pm on 7 May 2021.

Mr Swann (The Minister of Health): Vaccines continue to save lives in Northern Ireland and to protect people from serious illness. The Astra Zeneca vaccine continues to be essential in the successful roll-out of our vaccination programme. Thanks to this programme, close to a million people here have already received their first vaccine dose, helping society to emerge carefully from lockdown.

Following the latest advice from the JCVI (Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation), my Department has today issued an update on the Northern Ireland vaccination programme.

People aged under 40 will be able to receive the Pfizer-BioNTech through the regional Trust vaccination centres.

People of all ages who have had a first dose of Astra Zeneca should proceed with their second dose of this same vaccine. As Members will know getting the second vaccine dose is very important because it further increases the level of protection against COVID-19.

Those aged under 40 can still make an informed choice to receive the Astra Zeneca vaccine, for instance where no alternative vaccine is available, or where someone has an appointment booked for vaccination in the coming days and may prefer not to reschedule to receive an alternative vaccine.

The JCVI's updated advice relates to reports of extremely rare adverse events of concurrent thrombosis (blood clots) and thrombocytopenia (low platelet count) following vaccination with the first dose of AstraZeneca vaccine. The JCVI has made clear there have been no safety concerns identified for thrombosis/thrombocytopenia associated with the second dose of the AstraZeneca vaccine.

The JCVI has updated its risk/benefit advice in relation to age groups, following a review of the current low incidence of disease and current and projected availability of alternative vaccines. In light of these factors, Pfizer is now its recommended vaccine for under 40's.

The chances of a younger person becoming seriously ill with COVID-19 get smaller as infection rates increasingly come under control in the UK. That's altered the risk benefit balance for under 40's.

The change means some logistical alterations to Northern Ireland's vaccination programme. From Monday, May 10:

- People aged 40 plus can book Astra Zeneca first dose appointments at the SSE Arena vaccination centre and community pharmacies.
- People aged 30-39 can book their Pfizer first dose appointments at the other regional Trust vaccination centres across NI. These are Foyle Arena/ Omagh Leisure Centre/ Lakeland Forum/ South Lake Craigavon/ Seven Towers Ballymena/ RVH in Belfast.
- People aged 30-39 can choose to make an informed decision to receive the AstraZeneca vaccine from participating community pharmacies if that is what they prefer or if they decide they would rather not wait to receive an alternative to the AstraZeneca vaccine.
- Anyone aged under 40 already booked for their first vaccine at one of the Trust centres, including the SSE Arena, will have this appointment honoured – with the Pfizer vaccine.
- Anyone of any age who has received an Astra Zeneca first dose should proceed with their second dose of Astra Zeneca. That's unless they have had clinical advice not to do so.

My Department has today issued detailed Q&As in relation to this update: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/updated-ni-vaccination-programme-key-questions-answered>

It is undoubtedly the case that our vaccination programme is a huge and unprecedented undertaking. I want to again pay tribute to all those involved in delivering this programme. As we look forward to a better summer, with restrictions eased, we should all be very thankful for the vaccines. Their successful development and roll-out have made – and changed – history.

Logistical challenges are inevitable in any such undertaking, but the programme has already proved itself to be highly resilient.

Given the current supply schedules, the changes announced today will delay us to a limited degree in getting to the finish line of all adults being offered a first dose. I am advised that this delay will be a matter of weeks, rather than anything longer. Demand for vaccination remains very strong and I would again appeal to people still waiting for their jab to be patient. Their turn is coming.

I would urge Members to continue to do all they can to support the vaccination programme – and encourage take-up.

It is vitally important to reiterate that the potential risk associated with the AZ first dose is extremely rare and that the threat from COVID-19 is much higher for the majority of adults.

We all need protection from Covid. It remains an extremely serious threat to individuals and society. We must always be mindful of the devastation it has inflicted in Northern Ireland and across the world. Vaccination is our best defence and give us hope for the future.

I can assure Members that every effort will continue to be made to deliver vaccines as quickly as possible across Northern Ireland.

Department for Infrastructure

Announcement of Decision to Proceed with the Enniskillen Southern Bypass Scheme, The Release of the Departmental Statement, and the Making of the Necessary Statutory Orders

Published at 11.00 am on 11 May 2021.

Ms Mallon (The Minister for Infrastructure): I wish to inform Members of my decision to release the Departmental Statement for the A4 Enniskillen Southern Bypass Scheme and to proceed to progress the scheme in readiness of funding becoming available.

I am delighted to announce this key step in the development of this significant scheme, which is seeking to reduce traffic congestion for strategic and local road users within Enniskillen Town Centre. I am very aware of how important the A4 Enniskillen Southern Bypass will be for the many people and businesses who have expressed their support for the scheme. I am committed to doing all that I can to deliver this scheme and will work with the Finance Minister and Executive colleagues to secure the necessary funding as quickly as possible.

The A4 at Enniskillen forms part of the South Western Key Transport Corridor which provides a strategic link between the east of the north, the Fermanagh Lakelands and cross border regions. Progressing a scheme of this scale represents significant investment in the region and provision of the bypass will greatly benefit both strategic and local road users by improving safety and journey time reliability. My announcement to proceed with the scheme addresses one of the proposals as outlined in the Regional Development Strategy document 2035, to improving a strategically important route within the Regional Transport Network.

I have been made aware of the difficulties faced by strategic and local motorists travelling through Enniskillen Town centre and welcome the positive outcome from the Statutory Consultation held in 2018 which did not require a Public Inquiry. Consultation will continue with key stakeholders particularly landowners affected by the scheme proposals to minimise any related impacts and I believe the scheme should be progressed as quickly as possible, subject to completing all the necessary statutory processes and securing the necessary funding.

Importantly and in parallel with this work, my Department will be exploring further opportunities to improve the town centre to create a sustainable, liveable place where people have the space to stay, meet, shop and safely walk, wheel and cycle. This will include opportunities for active and sustainable travel in the town.

Part V of the Roads (Northern Ireland) Order 1993 sets out the statutory requirements for the assessment of the environmental impacts of major road schemes. Having caused the examination of the environmental information, which includes the Environment Impact Assessment Report (EIAR), the consultation responses to the EIAR, I am satisfied that the likely significant environmental effects of the proposed scheme have been assessed. This has provided me with the necessary information which I consider reasonable and sufficient to allow me to make a reasoned conclusion on the significant effects of this project on the environment. My reasoned conclusion therefore is that the proposed scheme will not have any significant adverse impacts on the environment (including designated sites and protected species) that cannot be addressed by the mitigation and monitoring measures set out in the Departmental Statement. In deciding to proceed with this scheme, I am committing my Department to carrying out all the necessary actions to facilitate the mitigation and monitoring measures set out in the Departmental Statement.

My Department will now publish the formal "Environmental Impact Assessment: Notice to Proceed" and will make the Direction Order, the Vesting Order and the Bridge Orders for the scheme.

The Departmental Statement and associated documents are available for viewing at the Department's website; <https://www.infrastructure-ni.gov.uk/topics/road-improvements/a4-southern-enniskillen-bypass>

This is an important announcement and another step forward by my department in delivering on better connecting our communities and improving the lives of all of our citizens.

HMICFRS Efficiency Inspection 2020-21

Published on 17 May 2021.

Mrs Long (The Minister of Justice): On 2 April 2021, I invited Her Majesty's Inspector of Constabulary (HMIC) to undertake the 2020-21 inspection of the efficiency and effectiveness of the PSNI, in line with the requirements of the Police (Northern Ireland) Act 1998.

In commissioning this inspection, I took account of the request I had received from the Northern Ireland Policing Board for "a thematic inspection into the PSNI's handling of the funeral of Mr Bobby Storey – its operational decision making, application of the law in the context of the COVID-19 regulations, and review the PSNI's policy and procedures around police engagement with event organisers and others, and consistency of approach given the findings of the Public Prosecution Service (PPS) statement of 30 March 2021".

Given this context, I asked that the inspection should:

- assess whether the approach taken by the PSNI to the events surrounding the funeral of Mr Bobby Storey was within the parameters of national policing standards, in the context of COVID-19 health protection regulations; and
- Offer relevant learning to assist in policing of COVID restrictions through the 'four Es' approach in coming months.

In light of the high level of public interest in the PSNI's handling of these events, I asked that the inspection should be completed by 14 May.

I have today received the report of this inspection from Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary and Fire & Rescue Services (HMICFRS), which has been published on their website, and I have placed a copy in the Assembly Library. I am grateful to HMIC and his team for their swift response to my request and for producing such a comprehensive report.

The report concluded that the PSNI prioritised public security over enforcement of COVID-19 regulations at the funeral, an approach HMICFRS said it understood given the likelihood of tensions and because the regulations were confusing. The report also confirmed that HMICFRS saw nothing to suggest that there was bias towards one community or another in the way the PSNI dealt with the funeral. The inspectorate did have some criticisms of how the PSNI engaged with the event organisers before, during and after the funeral but emphasised that since these were not especially serious failings, they did not justify individual officers being censured or called upon to resign.

There is not just learning in the report for the PSNI. It highlights again the need for the PSNI to be better supported by those with responsibility for public health regulations in interpreting changes to the law that could affect the policing of events.

Finally, the report highlights that all politicians and community leaders have a part to play in working with the police to build and maintain public confidence in policing, and that they should be mindful of the consequences, intended or otherwise, of their comments.

In the wake of the PPS statement, I called for political leadership that upholds the rule of law and which calms rather than inflames community tensions. I would again like to remind my Assembly and Executive colleagues that we have well-established and carefully calibrated arrangements in this jurisdiction for policing oversight and accountability. Today's report demonstrates the value of allowing those charged with overseeing how the PSNI operates to exercise that role, free from any political interference.

Department of Finance

2021-22 May COVID-19 Funding

Published at 5.30 pm on 20 May 2021.

Mr Murphy (The Minister of Finance): I wish to provide Members with an update on further allocations of COVID-19 support funding for the financial year 2021-22.

COVID Funding Available

Since the announcement of the Final Budget for 2021-22 further funding of £114 million has been made available in relation to COVID-19 Barnett consequentials by the Treasury.

Given the need to ensure that the COVID-19 response continues to be as responsive as possible the Executive has now made a further set of allocations.

COVID-19 Allocations

Current Restrictions

The extension of current restrictions into the 2021-22 financial year means there is a requirement to also extend the current support measures. The Localised Business Support Scheme is projecting a cost of £64 million for 2021-22, the Large Hospitality and Tourism Business Support Scheme is projecting a cost of £14.1 million and the Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme is projecting a cost of £18 million. The total amount of funding required for these schemes is £96.1 million. Allocations in respect of these schemes is set out at Annex A.

Further Allocations

In total, departments submitted bids of £297.6 million Resource, and £30.4 million Capital in relation to this exercise. A full list of bids submitted is set out at Annex B.

The Executive has considered the position and allocations totalling £189.5 million Resource and £30.4 million Capital have been made. A full list is set out at Annex C.

DAERA

DAERA has been allocated £1.1 million Resource DEL including £0.5 million for the Rural Business Community Fund, which will bring together rural businesses and other partners to drive economic growth in rural areas.

DfC

£50.3 million is being allocated to the Department for Communities. This is to address a range of pressures including £10 million to Councils to ensure the continued delivery of local public services, as well as £3 million to support council-managed community development and advice services via the Community Support Programme.

The total also includes £13 million to Arts, Culture and Heritage to support ongoing recovery within the sector. Similarly, I am also recommending that £5 million is provided to the Sports Sustainability Fund to help alleviate the ongoing effects of the pandemic on sporting bodies, while an additional £5 million is being provided to support charities and social enterprises facing continued financial difficulties.

The pandemic has had a significant impact on levels of unemployment. £12 million is therefore also being provided to allow the Department to progress its Restart scheme, which will support older people in returning to employment.

DfE

The Department for the Economy has been allocated £9 million for the Further Education sector to ensure safe learning for students.

DE

The allocation of £32.7 million to the Department of Education will meet all sixteen of its resource bids relating to this academic year. The Executive has also met the department's capital bid to provide laptops for teachers to support remote learning.

The Education Department also bid for a range of pressures for the next academic year and these can be revisited when there is more clarity on course of pandemic and the restrictions which will be required at that time.

DoF

£2.7 million has been allocated to the Department of Finance. This will help to alleviate the pressures resulting from lost income for Land Registry and Ordnance Survey as a result of COVID restrictions.

DoH

The £50.5 million resource allocation to Health includes provision to allow the Department to continue the roll out of the Covid 19 vaccination programme. £12m is being provided to help meet the additional costs faced within adult social care as a result of Covid. Funding is also being provided to meet a range of pressures across the Health Service as it continues to recover from the impact of the pandemic, including within Cancer services, Nursing and Midwifery, as well as Cardiology. The allocation includes £1.4 million to support a number of mental health interventions and a further £1 million towards managing the long term health effects of Covid on individuals. The Department has also been allocated £9 million Capital for COVID-19 initiatives.

DfI

The £20 million resource allocation to DfI is being provided to compensate the Department for lost income as result of Covid. It is for the Infrastructure Minister to prioritise this £20m between Translink, DVA and other bodies. It is early in the year so the impact on the income of DfI agencies will continue to be monitored and will be revisited.

DoJ

I am proposing an allocation of £20.7 million Resource DEL to the Department for Justice. This allocation will support the Police, Prisons and Court Service in meeting the additional costs faced as a result of Covid. It also includes £9.1 million to address backlogs across the criminal justice system that have arisen as a result of Covid.

TEO

TEO is being allocated £1.3m to support the ongoing work of the department in Covid recovery, including the Executive Covid Taskforce.

PPS

PPS is being allocated £1.2 million to support cross-justice recovery. This is in relation to DoJ bid for cross justice recovery which will result in additional costs for PPS.

Outcome

Following this exercise there remains £14.9 million Resource, £33.6 Capital DEL and £19.3 Financial Transactions Capital available for allocation and these sums will be incorporated into the upcoming June Monitoring Round.

The Executive Office

Decisions of the Executive on COVID-19, 20 May 2021

Published on 20 May 2021.

The First Minister and deputy First Minister: Today we have been informed that the data is such that we are able to confirm that the following will come into effect from Monday 24 May:

- Reopening of unlicensed and licensed premises indoors with mitigations
- Reopening of the remainder of Tourist Accommodation including the resumption of post marriage and civil partnership events
- Removal of the restriction on staying overnight away from your normal home
- Indoor visiting in Domestic Settings
- Reopening of indoor visitor attractions - including amusement arcades, bingo halls, museums, galleries and cinemas
- The resumption of indoor group exercise and training - including soft play areas, leisure centres, gyms, swimming pools, equestrian centres, venues relating to motor sport and activity centres.
- Removal of the Stay Local messaging
- Increased numbers permitted for indoor gatherings, (not including domestic settings), with a risk assessment required for more than 15 people
- Increased numbers for outdoor gatherings to 500 or capped at risk assessment level if lower, allowing up to 500 spectators at any outdoor event. Any gatherings of over 30 people outdoors would require a risk assessment.
- Libraries will re-open
- Schools will be able to resume extra-curricular activities, indoor extra-curricular sports, outdoor inter-schools sports and day educational visits
- A full return to outdoor sport with spectators
- A return to indoor club training in squads.

Detail of the requirements in each sector is available on NIDirect and the Amendments to the Regulations will be available on the Department of Health website.

We also decided from Monday 24 May to permit the full resumption of all Sure Start services, and a further relaxation in relation to the resumption of face to face teaching in Higher and Further Education settings, as well as the resumption of student extracurricular and support activities for that sector.

On international travel, the Executive agreed to the following list of countries being included on the green list from next week:

- Australia,
- Iceland,
- New Zealand,
- Faroe Islands,
- South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands,
- Gibraltar,

- Saint Helena, Ascension and Tristan da Cunha,
- Brunei
- Falkland Islands,
- Portugal,
- Israel,
- and Singapore.

Requirement	Green list arrival
Pre-departure test required	Yes
Passenger location form to be completed	Yes
Day 2 test required	Yes
Day 8 test required	Required only for those returning from Portugal, Israel or Singapore
Self-isolation at home for 10 days	No

As always, we urge caution, we want to continue working through the Pathway out of Restrictions, but we have serious concerns about the variants. We need to be careful and measured in our behaviours to allow us to keep on this journey of making relaxations. We all need to make safer decisions.

Again, we ask everyone to take care of yourselves and each other, adhere to the public health advice, wear face coverings, keep the windows open, wash your hands, socially distance, and remember outdoors is generally safer than indoors.

Department for Communities

Amendment to the Digital Economy Act 2017 to Extend the Public Lending Rights Scheme to Include E-Lending by Public Libraries Here

Published at 12.00 noon on 25 May 2021.

Ms Hargey (The Minister for Communities): This Statement will provide you with information on my Department's decision, following engagement with Executive Colleagues and Committee for Communities, to consent to an amendment to the Digital Economy Act 2017 to extend the Public Lending Rights scheme to include the lending of e-books and e-audio by public libraries here.

My Department has been working with the Department for Digital, Culture, Media & Sport (DDCMS) to amend the Digital Economy Act 2017 in order to extend the Public Lending Rights (PLR) scheme to include the lending of e-books and e-audio by public libraries here.

The PLR scheme is an arrangement provided by the Public Lending Right Act 1979 for authors to receive payment from a central fund in relation to loans of their books to the public by local library authorities. The arrangement is a transferred matter here.

The PLR scheme originally covered the lending of physical books. However, recent changes include the provision to be extended for the loan of e-books and e-audio books from public libraries. This change was introduced by the Digital Economy Act 2017 (DEA 2017), and was brought into force for England, Scotland and Wales in 2018.

In the absence of an Assembly during the period when DEA 2017 was passing through Westminster it was not possible to obtain a Legislative Consent Motion (LCM) and therefore a separate route of approval was required. Having obtained legal advice, I engaged both the Communities Committee and Executive colleagues in respect of my intention to consent to the commencement of provisions of the Act that relate to devolved matters.

The commencement of the regulations, at a time when we have seen significant increased usage of e-books and e-audio books due to the Covid19 pandemic, will ensure that authors are fairly remunerated for access to their books which are downloaded by customers of public libraries.

There are no financial implications for DfC or Libraries NI. Payments in connection with e-lending are paid from a central fund administered by the British Library, and funded by DDCMS.

Decisions of the Executive on COVID-19, 27 May 2021

Published on Friday, 28 May 2021.

Mrs Arlene Foster (The First Minister) and Mrs Michelle O'Neill (The deputy First Minister): We continue to make good progress on our pathway out of restrictions.

The vaccination programme is progressing at pace and the key health indicators are encouraging, with case numbers and hospital admissions remaining at a relatively low level.

The Executive has yesterday confirmed the return of indoor competitive sport from 31 May, with mitigations.

Recognising the need for clarity on movement within the Common Travel Area (CTA), the Executive has agreed to update the guidance with immediate effect.

While we ask everyone to think carefully about the need to travel, anyone seeking to travel here from within the CTA may now do so for any reason without the requirement to self-isolate.

Those arriving here from another area of the CTA who are staying at least overnight, are asked to:

- Take a Lateral Flow Device (LFD) test before they make the journey; and only travel if the test is negative.
- Take an LFD test on days two and eight after arrival; and if either test is positive, self-isolate immediately.

People should not make the journey if they have Covid symptoms; and must not travel if they know they have Covid-19.

This advice applies to visitors from other parts of the CTA, and those who are ordinarily resident here and returning home from another part of the CTA.

In light of the higher prevalence of variants of concern (VOCs) in other regions of the CTA, it is important that these measures are adhered to, which will help to mitigate against the risks of transmission.

It remains crucially important that everyone follows the public health advice and takes all possible steps to keep themselves and others safe.

Licensing and Registration of Clubs (Amendment) Bill [NIA 10/17-22]

Members present for all or part of the proceedings:

Ms Kellie Armstrong (Deputy Chairperson)
Mr Andy Allen
Mr Mark Durkan
Mr Alex Easton
Ms Sinéad Ennis

Ms Karen Mullan

Witnesses:

Mr Liam Quinn                      Department for Ms Carol Reid                        Communities

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): At last week's meeting, we agreed the text of the first set of departmental amendments that we requested for clauses 4, 11, 12, 27, 28, 29 and a new clause, 24A. The remaining amendments and new clauses are in members' tabled papers. We will go through them in the order that they are dealt with in the Department's letter.

First, we will look at new clause 1A, which provides for the amendment on the removal of restrictions on late night opening on Sunday for licensed premises. Are members content with the amendment?

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): I will move on to new clause 23A, which provides for the removal of restrictions on late night opening on Sunday for clubs. Are members content with the amendment?

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): New clause 22A provides for the amendment on alterations to registered clubs. Are members content with the amendment?

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): If I do not hear anybody say no, I will move on, so if you are not content, please speak up.

I will move on to the amendment to clause 29, which is "Young people prohibited from bars". This is the amendment to provide a regulation-making power to amend the months referred to in 29(1) and the number of prize-giving ceremonies referred to in 29(2). Are members content with the amendment?

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): New clause 32A provides for the Department to produce guidance. Are members content with that amendment?

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): I will move on to new clause 32B, which provides for the Department to carry out reviews. Are members content with that amendment?

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): The amendment to schedule 1 is on one-day membership. This amendment clarifies the policy in respect of the Registration of Clubs (Northern Ireland) Order 1996, which allows a member of the public to pay a fee that allows them to use the facilities of a sporting club for a day, to ensure that it is not used to allow someone to simply use the bar facilities. Are members content with the amendment?

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): The Committee will now commence the formal clause-by-clause consideration of the Licensing and Registration of Clubs (Amendment) Bill with Liam Quinn and Carol Reid from the Department. Claire McCanny from the Bill Office has also joined the meeting. I will read out the title of the clause before I ask the formal Question on the clause. If members have any final queries for Liam or Carol, please alert me before I read out the formal Question as to whether the Committee is content with the clause as drafted or amended. Are members clear on that?

Ms Armstrong: Can we get StarLeaf to do something about your microphone? It is up and down. To be honest, I can barely hear you.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): OK. I have not been getting the same feedback that I was getting earlier. There is a little, but it is not too bad.

I advise members that, throughout this clause-by-clause consideration, I will need to hear people say yes, or I will need to see a show of hands. We will try the first couple of clauses. Kellie, if you are getting feedback or finding it difficult to hear, I will ask all members to mute themselves and use their hands-up function.

Ms Armstrong: It is not feedback, Chair, it is your microphone. The sound is dipping in and out.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): My microphone?

Ms Armstrong: Yes.

The Assistant Committee Clerk: Broadcasting have said that it is people not muting their microphones that is causing an issue with yours.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): OK. Everybody should know how to use the hands-up function on their screen. I cannot see everybody. Mark, I will ask you to use the hands-up function on your screen. I can see all the other members other than Fra, who does not appear to be on the screen at the moment. He is on the big screen. It is just my small screen that he is not on.

Can everybody please put themselves on silent? That will stop any feedback, and we will give it a go from there.

The Committee Clerk: We can take it slowly.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): We can take our time with this. Is everybody now on silent? OK.

I will just read that out again. Liam and Carol are here for any final queries that members might have. If you have a query, you need to alert me as we go along with each clause, before I say that the Committee is content. We will take our time. We will try the first one, and we will see how we get on.

Clause 1 (Removal of additional restrictions at Easter)

Mr Newton: Sunday opening does give me a problem, but I understand that it is the mind of the Committee to support the clause.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): I understand that, Robin. Thanks for highlighting that. We can reflect that. Robin has said that he has a problem with the clause but understands that it is the mind of the Committee to support it.

New Clause

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): Is the Committee content with new clause 8A as drafted for the Committee by the Bill Office? Can I see a show of hands for those in favour? I cannot see everybody; that is the problem. I will go to members as I see them on my screen. Andy, are you in favour of new clause 8A?

Mr Allen: I am content, Chair.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): Alex, are you content?

Mr Easton: I am content.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): Sinéad, are you content?

Ms Ennis: No, Chair.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): Kellie, are you content?

Ms Armstrong: I have reservations, but I am content to proceed.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): Robin, are you content?

Mr Newton: I understand that the Committee is of a mind to agree to it, so I am content.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): Karen Mullan, are you content?

Ms Mullan: No, Chair. My position is the same as it was last week: I support the Minister's position.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): Mark, are you content?

Mr Durkan: Yes. Can I record an interest? Like Kellie, I have some reservations, although they might be different reservations. I think that the amendment reflects the Committee's difficulty in its deliberations on this particular issue, so I am content.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): Fra, are you content?

Mr McCann: It is the same position as last week: no.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): I am content with clause 8A as drafted for the Committee by the Bill Office.

Question, That the Committee is content with new clause 8A, put and agreed to.

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): The Committee is content with the amendment, albeit the discussion will be reflected in our Committee report and when I get up to speak on it in the Chamber.

New Clause

The Chairperson (Ms P Bradley): Andy, are you content with clause 8B?

Mr Allen: Content, Chair.

Ms Sinéad Bradley
Ms Jemma Dolan
Mr Paul Frew
Miss Rachel Woods

The Chairperson (Mr Givan): Following the informal deliberations of the Bill's clauses that took place on 22 April, the Committee agreed that it would not be tabling any amendments to the Bill and that it was content with the Bill as drafted. Officials have also confirmed that the Department does not intend to propose any amendments to the Bill.

The Committee will now undertake its formal clause-by-clause consideration. I will go through the Bill's clauses and schedule and will put the Questions formally. Members, it should be straightforward — famous last words — given the positions that we all have on it. I need to go through it formally.

Question, That the Committee is content with clause 1, put and agreed to.

Question, That the Committee is content with clause 2, put and agreed to.

Question, That the Committee is content with clause 3, put and agreed to.

Question, That the Committee is content with clause 4, put and agreed to.

Schedule

The Chairperson (Mr Givan): I will put the Question on the schedule before I put the Question on clause 5, as clause 5 covers the commencement of the clauses and the schedule.

The Chairperson (Mr Givan): OK, members. Thank you for going through that. The draft report on the Bill is being prepared and will be circulated to members for consideration before the end of May. Once we have the draft report, that will allow us to close off the consideration process.

Thank you, members. I also thank the Committee staff for their work.

Written Answers to Questions

The Executive Office

Mr McGrath asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister how many written questions are currently unanswered from their Department.
(AQW 6948/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill (The First Minister and deputy First Minister): 192 of the Written Assembly Questions tabled to The Executive Office in the period to 20 April 2021 currently remain to be answered, including those still within the period for answer specified in Standing Orders.

Miss Woods asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister when (i) AQW 2690/17-22; (ii) AQW 4709/17-22; (iii) AQW 4873/17-22; (iv) AQW 5149/17-22; (v) AQW 5912/17-22; and (vi) AQW 5916/17-22 will be answered.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: A response to:

- AQW 2690 issued on 19 March 2020;
- AQW 4709 issued on 25 March 2021;
- AQW 4873 issued on 1 April 2021;
- AQW 5149 issues on 29 October 2020;
- AQW 5912 issued on 28 October 2020; and
- AQW 5916 issued on 2 October 2020.

Mr Buckley asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister, in light of the recent statements attributed to the Member for North Belfast, Mr Gerry Kelly, on the escape from the Maze, for their assessment of (i) the characterisation, as crass hypocrisy, of remarks during question number three of Question Time to the Executive Office on 28 September 2020; and (ii) how such statements accord with building a united community.
(AQW 8182/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Ministers in The Executive Office are committed to ending sectarianism in our society and also to engaging with members of the Assembly as we take this work forward. It is our hope that they and all public representatives will share fully in realising this objective.

Mr Muir asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) how often; and (ii) where performance statistics on Ministerial responses to Assembly Questions are published.
(AQW 10251/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Executive Office officials have recently concluded a cross departmental consultation with each of the departments on the proposed format, content and frequency of publication of written Assembly Question statistics. It is intended that these statistics will be published shortly to align with the sitting periods of the Assembly, with statistics for the period September to December 2020.

Ms Sugden asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) what discussions they have had with (a) stakeholders in the religious community; and (b) other Executive departments regarding the provision of support to faith communities that are either vulnerable to hate crime or which have been subject to hate crime; and; (ii) what plans they have to address the issue.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Racial Equality Subgroup has representation from the Belfast Islamic Centre and the Belfast Jewish Community (BJC). The First Minister and Junior Minister Kearney met with the Subgroup on 27th January 2021 and Hate Crime was one of the issues discussed at this meeting. Officials also meet regularly with the subgroup and members have actively engaged with the Marrinan Review of Hate Crime Legislation.

Hate crime is a key focus of the Racial Equality Strategy and our officials are also working with their counterparts in DoJ and other Departments to consider how to tackle the underlying enabling factors of hate, ensuring links between the Racial Equality Strategy and wider Good Relations work.

We are also aware that the Department of Justice is considering a Places of Worship Protection Scheme here, in response to hate crime attacks, echoing a similar scheme to that introduced in England and Wales and being developed in Scotland. Since the initial consideration of a funding scheme, in the context of places of worship, the potential scheme has evolved taking into consideration the needs of other key buildings also targeted by hate crime. This development has been informed by:

- The Minister of Justice's meeting with representatives from the Grand Orange Lodge Ireland who are concerned about the vulnerability of some properties in rural locations;
- Judge Marrinan's Report on Hate Crime Legislation which confirms the need to retain religion as a protected group in future hate crime legislation;
- Discussions with the Community Faiths' Forum, including a recent online engagement event, on 25 January 2021 reviewing steps to be taken to mitigate the risk of future attacks.

Emphasis must be on preventative actions protecting places of worship and other buildings from hate crime attacks.

Mr McGrath asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister, in relation to the amount of munitions and radioactive waste dumped in the Beaufort's Dyke, whether they can confirm that the Northern Ireland Executive has relayed these safety issues to the UK Government who are considering building a bridge between Northern Ireland and Scotland.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: As your companion question suggests, the existence of munitions and other material in Beaufort's Dyke is generally known, and it has not been considered necessary to bring these to the UK Government's attention. Clearly, should that Government wish to progress this proposal further this would be a major factor in evaluating the feasibility of options.

Mr Storey asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to detail the total level of COVID-19 related expenditure from their Department since 1 March 2020; and to provide an overview of each scheme or policy funded under this heading.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The total level of funding made available to TEO for COVID-19 related expenditure has amounted to £7.5million since 1 March 2020. This has been used to fund the Executive's public information and communications campaigns, the operation of the NI Hub over the emergency response phase of the pandemic, a Covid Response/Recovery team within the Department, including support for the Executive's COVID-19 Taskforce, and a grant support scheme for Travel Agents.

Mr Carroll asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister how many meetings have (i) they; and (ii) their departmental officials held in the last year in relation to developing Irish language legislation.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: There is a team of TEO officials which are engaged in progressing the legislative provisions on language, identity and culture as set out in NDNA.

Mr Clarke asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister, given that so many of their departmental staff are working from home, often in rural locations with substandard connections, whether their Department will consider covering the costs incurred by his staff to install superfast broadband, or available alternatives, in their homes.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Civil Service has published, on the DoF Internet and all departmental intranets, "Working from Home Guidance" in response to the Covid-19 pandemic. Details can be found using this link:

COVID-19 Working from home guidance v2 16.12.2020.pdf (finance-ni.gov.uk) (https://www.finance-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/dfp/COVID-19 Working from home guidance v2 16.12.2020.pdf)

All staff within our Department, and across the Civil Service, have already been advised that reimbursement for the additional cost of increased broadband data charges, incurred solely from working from home, will be considered. Staff have also been notified that where appropriate, having considered IT alternatives available, such as provision of a Data Sim for laptops or Wifi device for desktop computers and where these are found to be unsuitable, the Department may reimburse the additional cost of installing broadband at home and monthly tariffs on the basis that the charges incurred are solely related to working from home.

Mr McNulty asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to provide clarity and guidance in relation to wedding receptions/parties, including if they are permitted indoors in line with a risk assessment before 24 May 2021.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Receptions or post ceremony gatherings are not permitted at this time.

An indicative date of 24 May has been set for the reopening of hospitality, to include the resumption of post ceremony receptions or functions. This is subject to review.

Information on the current marriage and civil partnerships COVID-19 Regulations and guidance can be found on nidirect at: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-weddings-and-civil-partnerships#toc-4>

Mr Frew asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) when will live solo musicians be permitted to play music to a group of diners seated in an outside setting; and (ii) why this is not permitted when outside hospitality reopens on 30 April. (AQW 17947/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Under the current regulations live music is not permitted for licensed or unlicensed premises reopening from 30 April.

Mitigations are in place to support premises to adhere to the public health advice which recommends keeping noise levels low, to prevent shouting and singing and allow conversations to take place in a socially distanced way. These measures allow premises to reopen safely and reduce the risk of transmission.

The next review of the restrictions will take place on 13 May.

Information on the current COVID-19 Regulations and what they mean can be found on nidirect at: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you>

Ms Sugden asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to detail any plans to re-assess and revise Executive policies, post-COVID-19, in order that they reflect our changing society where more people are moving toward rural areas. (AQW 18024/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Good progress has been achieved towards the development of a new Programme for Government (PfG).

A draft Outcomes Framework was consulted on recently and responses are currently being analysed to inform design and content of the final version. This will give strategic direction to a more complete PfG, incorporating an agreed budget and linked to policies and programmes which will be brought forward for Assembly consideration in due course.

It is important that the new PfG recognises and proactively responds to the needs of a changing society and that it delivers impactful improvements in the things that matter most to people. The focus will be on designing and shaping policies and services in a way that will achieve the best possible outcomes of societal wellbeing.

To that end, it is intended that the new PfG will be a "live" web-based Programme, with progress being continually monitored to ensure that actions respond to changing needs and new challenges.

Dr Aiken asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to outline whether concerns have been raised at the EU-UK Joint Committee about potential increases in prices for Northern Ireland consumers as a result of the Protocol on Ireland/Northern Ireland. (AQO 970/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Joint Committee has responsibilities regarding the implementation and application of the Protocol. It has now met on 7 occasions, most recently on 24 February. We, along with the Junior Ministers, have ensured the Executive has been represented at all of the meetings.

We have repeatedly made clear at every possible opportunity, the need to secure the best possible outcome for our unique circumstances.

We will continue to ensure our position is taken into account, by all sides, in order to protect the interests of all of our citizens and businesses.

Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he has reached a decision to compensate farmers impacted by flooding in the Glenelly Valley in August 2017. (AQW 16862/17-22)

Mr Poots (The Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs): I recently visited the area to learn about the challenges faced by those directly affected and see the impact of the landslides. I spoke with representatives of the Ulster Farmers Union, local farmers and political representatives to hear about the work required to restore land back to productivity.

I considered carefully all the relevant issues and information presented to me, and I am pleased to inform you that £3.45 million will be made available from my Department for a support scheme. This funding will make a contribution towards compensating farmers in the area who were directly impacted by the severe flooding in the North West in August 2017.

Mr McGlone asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline to what extent his Department and the Department for Infrastructure have developed joint working procedures to ensure that the link between lax planning enforcement and illegal dumping, as identified as a central feature of the Mobuoy case, have been addressed.

Mr Poots: Since 1 April 2015 responsibility for the majority of planning decisions rests with locally elected councils. In their role as local planning authorities, local councils also have primary responsibility for the enforcement of planning control.

The engagement between my Department and the Department for Infrastructure therefore has been limited in respect of the question you raise. However I can advise that officials in both DAERA and DfI have a shared approach to addressing waste crime and work co-operatively in a DAERA led Project Board which continues to address the issues arising from the Mobuoy site.

However for completeness, and in respect of the role of local planning authorities, my colleagues in DfI have kindly advised that further to the Mills report, the DfI made changes in relation to planning policy, procedures and guidance, including the cancellation of Planning Policy Statement 9 "The Enforcement of Planning Control" and its replacement by a series of practice notes. More recently DfI has committed to the development of further targeted guidance to support district councils in their role as local planning authorities.

DfI is also developing a number of pieces of guidance relating to different aspects of the environmental impact assessment (EIA) process. The first element of guidance deals with unauthorised EIA development. This is part of a wider programme of work with councils which has also involved the development and delivery of tailored EIA training in conjunction with an external EIA expert and a clear focus on the proper management of unauthorised development.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, in relation to hunting dogs, what action his Department is taking to ensure that animal welfare standards are upheld.

Mr Poots: My Department is aware of your plan to bring forward a Private Member's Bill to prohibit the hunting of wild mammals with dogs. Hunting dogs themselves are, however, non-farmed animals. Therefore, while those responsible for hunting dogs must take into account my Department's Code of Practice for the Welfare of Dogs, responsibility for enforcing any animal welfare obligations in respect of them is a matter for local councils.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the number of (i) times; and (ii) locations when wastewater that exceeded pollution limits was released into waterways, in each of the last five years.

Mr Poots: NIEA regulate discharges to the aquatic environment under the Water Order (Northern Ireland) 1999 as amended. Wastewater refers to a range of discharges that include; sewage related discharges, industrial discharges and site drainage discharges.

I have therefore provided below the number of times and locations for all wastewater discharges and pollution incidents where an exceedance has been detected to be in breach of its Water Order Consent in each of the last 5 years.

Number of Exceedances detected in the last 5 years

Type of Discharge	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020
Private Sewage, Industrial Discharge and Site Drainage Discharges	391	403	376	495	159*
NI Water	167	187	121	108	117

Number of Locations where an exceedance has been detected in the last 5 years

	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020
NI Water	48	60	47	45	46

*Reduced Regulatory Sampling Regime due to the Covid Restrictions.

Mr Clarke asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, given that so many of his departmental staff are working from home, often in rural locations with substandard connections, whether his Department will consider covering the costs incurred by his staff to install superfast broadband, or available alternatives, in their homes.

Mr Poots: The Civil Service has published, on the DoF Internet and on all departmental intranets, "Working from Home Guidance" in response to the Covid-19 pandemic. Details can be found at: Covid-19 Working From Home Guidance.

Staff within DAERA have been advised that reimbursement for the additional cost of increased broadband data charges, incurred solely as result of working from home, will be considered.

Staff have also been notified that, where appropriate, having considered options such as the provision of a Data SIM for laptops, or an external WiFi hub, the Department may reimburse the additional cost of installing broadband and may cover monthly tariffs on the basis that the charges incurred are solely related to working from home.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether any of his Department's publications or advertising campaigns use images that have been photoshopped to alter the body of the participants.

Mr Poots: My Department's publications and advertising campaigns use a variety of images from different sources, some through stock images and some via professional photographers or taken internally by staff. No images that my Department uses have been photoshopped to alter the body of the participants.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether his Department has further plans to undertake any new studies into endangered wildlife species.

Mr Poots: My Department has responsibility for maintaining lists of priority species, and in particular, endangered species or species of conservation concern. Much of our work focuses on monitoring their status and their habitats to inform conservation measures. Much of this work is ongoing, either by Departmental staff or by external environmental organisations acting on DAERA's behalf, and has been previously detailed.

Threatened farmland birds, particularly seed-eaters and wading birds, are a current priority, and contract work is commencing this year to evaluate the impact of recent conservation measures on these. Some further studies on the freshwater pearl mussel are also planned, and there is a growing focus on threatened invertebrate species.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the number of vets that will be required to check livestock at Northern Ireland's ports on completion of the ports' infrastructure project.

Mr Poots: Livestock only enter Northern Ireland through the port of Larne. The port operates around the clock and livestock can arrive on any sailing. All consignments must be inspected.

Five veterinary inspectors are currently headquartered in Larne Port with at least one vet on each of the four shift teams.

Livestock inspections comprise only part of the vet's work but it is not anticipated that the number of animals arriving or the resource requirement for livestock checks will increase significantly in the future.

Mr Newton asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether inspections by his Department are carried on imported bees to detect and prevent the small hive beetle infection of indigenous bees.

Mr Poots: Bees moving into Northern Ireland (NI) are subject to controls within the EU legislative framework. These controls apply when moving bees between countries within the EU and including into NI. Prohibitions apply to the movements of bees generally from third countries, except for Queen bees that can be moved subject to specified conditions being met.

Movement of bees into NI from the EU are required to be accompanied by an Animal Health Certificate, issued by the competent authority of the country of origin following inspection by an official. Certificates attest that bees are free from American Foulbrood, Small hive beetle (Aethina tumida) and Tropilaelaps mite (Tropilaelaps spp.).

These bee movements are subject to pre-notification, documentary checks and physical checks, as determined by the Department on a risk basis.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on the funding to replace that received from the EU for the Rural Development Programme.

Mr Poots: At this stage there are no new funding updates. The 2019 Conservative Manifesto Commitment is to guarantee the current annual budget to farmers in every year of the next Parliament.

I have written to the Defra Secretary of State emphasising the importance of maintaining these payments to farmers, land managers and for the rural economy in Northern Ireland. EU replacement funding issues are also discussed at the regular UK Inter-Ministerial Group for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs meetings which I attend.

Alongside the Budget announcement on 3 March, UKG has launched funds for three areas - Community Renewal Fund, Levelling Up Fund and Community Ownership Fund, which you may find of interest.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what steps his Department is taking to prevent wildfires decimating biodiversity.

Mr Poots: Your question is unfortunately timely given the horrific recent gorse fire that occurred in the Mourne Mountains. I would take this opportunity to convey my thanks to the wide range of internal partners and others who provided assistance and who were involved in the efforts to extinguish the blaze.

The full extent of damage to the environment has yet to be determined but it is clear that it has had a significant detrimental effect on the habitat, flora and fauna over an extensive area. It may take generations for any areas that have been ravaged to recover and some biodiversity may be lost forever. The damage to health caused by air pollutants, the huge financial and resource strain that wildfires incur and the subsequent loss to our economy through a decrease in overseas visitors, already impacted by the current Covid-19 restrictions, who come to see our unique and beautiful landscape are equally important consequences.

The cause of the fire has yet to be confirmed however, previous experience has shown that the vast majority of wildfires in Northern Ireland have been caused by accidental damage, burning or arson.

We are in the middle of the season when wildfires typically occur and we are also entering a period when further lockdown restrictions may be eased. This will result in an increase in the number of visitors to our wider countryside, enjoying the fresh air and the associated benefits that being outdoors brings to our well-being.

I am frustrated and understandably angry that we find ourselves dealing with another major wildfire incident despite the continuing warnings about their dangers. There has been advice provided on how to prevent wildfires by my Department, the Northern Ireland Fire and Rescue Service (NIFRS) & a wide range of partners including government Departments, eNGOs & local landowners. The vast majority of the public act responsibly but unfortunately there is a small number within our society who show blatant disregard for the outcome of their actions.

This situation cannot be allowed to continue and it is clear that a more holistic and strategic approach is required across all stakeholders to combat the issue of wildfires.

In my response to AQW 16564/17-22 which you previously raised regarding the implementation of a ban on setting peat bog fires, I stated that my Department is developing a Peatland Strategy for Northern Ireland. A key action within the draft Strategy is to "Publish a Position Statement on Upland Management, with accompanying new legislation if required". This Position Statement should clarify my Department's advice with regard to the use of burning as a management tool for semi-natural peatlands in Northern Ireland.

I have also taken the following measures to address the crisis and I will closely monitor progress made.

- 1 NIEA established a NI Strategic Wildfire Group (the Group) composed of key strategic Government and Public Bodies. The first meeting took place in March 2021. The Group will have an overarching governance role in supporting and driving this work forward. Its initial task will be to develop a Strategic Framework for Wildfire work in NI and to develop associated Recommendations to take forward.
- 2 NIEA will also establish a NI Wildfire Stakeholder Forum (the Forum) encompassing a wide range of wildfire stakeholders. The Forum will develop, implement, monitor and review Action Plans to deliver the Strategic Framework and Recommendations developed by the Strategic Wildfire Group. These Plans will be developed by NIEA, in conjunction with other partners including local, national and international stakeholders and experts.
- 3 NIEA will host a UK Wildfire Conference in November 2022, an event scheduled for November 2021 but postponed due to COVID-19.

My Department will continue to work in partnership with others to reduce the threat of wildfires in our countryside.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what discussions his Department has had with (i) farmers; and (ii) industry representatives in relation to promoting wildlife-friendly farming techniques.

Mr Poots: Protecting and enhancing our biodiversity and wildlife is a key priority for my Department, as is the delivery of more wildlife-friendly farming. My officials engage with farmers and farming stakeholders on policy initiatives and schemes designed to enhance the natural environment for biodiversity and wildlife.

Through the College of Agriculture, Food and Rural Enterprise (CAFRE) my Department delivers Knowledge Transfer, Innovation and Technology Transfer programmes, which aim to improve future performance, sustainability and resilience of the agri-food industry.

My Department's Environmental Farming Scheme (EFS) supports farmers and land managers to carry out environmentally beneficial farming practices on agricultural land. CAFRE delivers training to all Environmental Farming Scheme participants, including on the wildlife friendly options within this scheme.

CAFRE also deal directly with farmers through Business Development Groups, which provide a training forum that allows sharing of knowledge (peer-to-peer learning) with the aim of improving technical efficiency and environmental performance. Wildlife friendly farming techniques are a key component of the Environmental Business Development Groups.

NIEA is working with a number of partners to develop a series of conservation management plans for our Special Areas of Conservation, involving engagement with key stakeholders over the necessary conservation measures, largely delivered through wildlife friendly farming.

My Department continues to engage farmers and the industry around current and future policy development, along with practical implementation of the necessary measures and this will continue as we move towards delivery of key national and international commitments.

Work is underway to develop the future agri-environment policy framework for Northern Ireland. Engagement with a wide range of stakeholders, including farmers, the agricultural industry, and environmental sector, will be required to inform development of future agri-environment schemes and associated policy instruments. Initial meetings with UFU and the Nature Friendly Farming Network have taken place.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what action his Department is taking to halt the decline of (i) yellowhammers; and (ii) other priority farmland birds.

Mr Poots: The Wildlife and Natural Environment Act (Northern Ireland) 2011 (the WANE Act) which places a statutory duty on my Department to maintain lists of priority species requiring conservation action, including priority farmland birds.

DAERA supports monitoring and research on farmland bird species, particularly through work by the British Trust for Ornithology, and the RSPB. This work is used to inform which species are considered priority bird species in Northern Ireland, and provides evidence on the effectiveness of conservation measures being implemented.

My Department also undertakes a range of actions which directly benefit declining farmland birds, of which agri-environment schemes, such as the Environmental Farming Scheme, are the most important. The Wider Scheme EFS(W) has a range of options designed to benefit Yellowhammer and other seed-eating birds. The Higher Scheme EFS(H) has options to manage habitats, such as upland heathland and blanket bog, which are important for upland birds, including breeding waders and threatened birds of prey. My Department has recently commissioned a large project to monitor the impact of EFS on farmland birds.

In addition, DAERA has supported a number of conservation organisations to help priority farmland birds through raising awareness and through species-specific conservation measures.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, in relation to the Wildlife (NI) Order 1985 (as amended), (i) to detail when trees, hedges and woodlands could be removed or felled; (ii) whether an assessment or survey would be required before works are carried out to remove trees, if nesting birds or bats were suspected; and (iii) if so, by whom.

Mr Poots:

- i The Wildlife Order affords protection to certain species of wild animals, birds and plants, including wild animals' places of shelter or protection, and birds' nests while in use. It does not detail when trees, hedges and woodlands can be removed or felled. The bird nesting season in Northern Ireland is taken to be between 1 March and 31 August, and these are the dates advised to farmers and landowners to avoid when cutting hedges or carrying out related land management activities.
- ii. A survey should be carried out prior to the removal of trees, if nesting birds or bats are suspected of being present.
- iii. Responsibility for such a survey lies with the land or property owner.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of the impact the abolition of the Agricultural Wages Board will have on the pay of workers and their rights at work.

(AQW 17678/17-22)

Mr Poots: Subject to Executive agreement, and successful passage through the Assembly, the abolition of the Agricultural Wages Board (through the revocation of the Agricultural Wages (Regulation) (Northern Ireland) Order 1977) would end the setting of specific wage rates, and other terms and conditions, for the agriculture sector, bringing the sector into alignment with all other sectors of the economy. The effect of this would be that agricultural workers would subsequently receive the same minimum protections as all other employees under UK and NI employment law and minimum wage rates.

Under the Agricultural Wages (Regulation) (NI) Order 1977, the Agricultural Wages Board has the power, in relation to agricultural workers, to:

- set a minimum rate of pay;
- determine the type and value of deductions that an employer may make from a worker's gross pay;
- set the amount of holiday entitlement and holiday pay; and
- set the level of sick pay.

The legislation also provides powers of investigation and enforcement, delegated to DAERA officers, and makes it an offence not to comply with the provisions of the legislation.

Should the AWB be abolished, the prospective changes in the legislative provisions are summarised in the table below:

Measure	For Agricultural Workers	For Other Workers
Minimum rate of pay	AWB NI rates (outlined below)	NMW & NLW rates (outlined below) (National Minimum Wage Act 1998)
Minimum rate of overtime	1.5 times the hourly rate of pay (for any hours over 39 hrs/week)	None set
Maximum amount deductible for provision of accommodation	£45.00/week	£58.52/week (National Minimum Wage Act 1998)
Paid holiday entitlement	5.6 weeks/year (28 days for a worker working 5 days a week) + one additional day for workers employed for over a year	5.6 weeks/year (28 days for a worker working 5 days a week) (Working Time Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2016)
Amount of paid sick leave	After one year's continuous employment and paid after being off sick for 4 or more days, a maximum of 60 days in a rolling 12 month period or 120 days in a rolling 48 month period.	Statutory Sick Pay (SSP) paid after being off sick for 4 or more days, for a maximum of 28 weeks (Statutory Sick Pay (General) Regulations 1982)
Level of sick pay	1/10th the weekly minimum rate of AWB pay for each day sick, plus SSP	SSP = £95.85/week
Powers of enforcement	DAERA	HMRC (NMW, NLW and Sick Pay) Northern Ireland Health and Safety Executive (Working Time/ Holiday entitlements) <sup>1</sup>

1 Gangmasters and Labour Abuse Authority also have powers of enforcement across these areas where appropriate

Minimum Wage Rates

The current AWB minimum rates came into effect on 1 April 2021 as below:

Grade	Rate per hour (£) <sup>2</sup>
Grade 1 (for first 40 weeks cumulative employment)	6.95
Grade 2 standard worker	7.49
Grade 3 lead worker	8.91
Grade 4 craft grade	9.58
Grade 5 supervisory grade	10.09
Grade 6 farm management grade	10.95

2 This is the minimum hourly rate before tax and national insurance deductions.

UK National Minimum Wage (NMW) and National Living Wage (NLW)

Current NMW and NLW rates as at 2021 are outlined below.

23 and over <sup>3</sup>	21 to 22	18 to 20	Under 18	Apprentice
£8.91	£8.36	£6.56	£4.62	£4.30

3 The NLW age threshold was lowered from age 25+ to those aged 23+ in April 2021

The NMW and NLW are set by the UK government on the basis of recommendations of the Low Pay Commission (LPC). The LPC is an independent body made up of employers, trade unions and economic and labour experts on a full UK basis, including the agriculture sector since the abolition of the AWB in England in 2013.

Where the NMW or NLW rates are higher than AWB rates, an agricultural worker in Northern Ireland must be paid the NMW or NLW rate.

Summary of changes and impacts

The age-based national minimum wage rates for the 20 and under age groups is lower (at £4.62 and £6.56) than the current AWB entry and standard grade pay rates (Grades 1 and 2 at £6.95 and £7.49 respectively). For workers over the age of 21 at the standard grades the NMW is higher at £8.20 and the National Living Wage applicable from age 23 (from 2021, lowered from age 25 in previous years) is higher again at £8.91. The overall trend shows increases across all rates under both AWB and NMW/ NLW pay structures, however the latter are increasing at a greater rate than the AWB rates, which, if continued could reduce the impact on workers, particularly younger workers. The gap between the AWB and NMW rates for ages 18-20 is closing, but remains 39p below the AWB rate at present. The National Living Wage shows the steepest rises.

The rates above relate to the minimums applicable and it would not necessarily follow that the statutory minimum pay rates would be the default position for all workers, instead they are the threshold below which it would be unlawful to go.

Based on the table above, the statutory minimum for holiday allowance for agricultural workers could be reduced by one day for employees with one year's continuous service unless, otherwise specified in a contract of employment. Temporary, casual or new workers would be unaffected. The amount of sick pay could be reduced for workers who meet the one year continuous service requirement, but are not under contract or agreement. Temporary, casual or new workers would be unaffected. Overtime rates may be lower if no contract is in place and the minimum is applied. It is expected that workers under contract would retain their current terms and conditions.

The impact of these changes would therefore depend on a number of factors such as age, current grade, whether a contract applies and how employers choose to implement pay rates in future. It is therefore likely that there will be a differential or variable impact on individuals ranging from negative; to positive; to none.

These factors and the impacts will be considered in more detail through the assessment of Equality, Regulatory and Rural Needs impacts. Consultation on the draft statutory impact assessments will be carried out in parallel with consultation on the policy proposals.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for a breakdown of the annual running costs of the Agricultural Wages Board.

Mr Poots: The total running cost of the Agricultural Wages Board in the 2019<sup>1</sup> calendar year was £ 24187.08. This cost is broken down as follows:

Attendance fees:	£2,557.76
Travel and subsistence:	£693.05
Advertising:	£6,594.33
Agricultural Wages Order 2019 (update to annual pay rates):	£152.10
Hospitality:	£89.45
Independent Assessor (Public Appointment process):	£1,252.49
Secretariat Support (DAERA Staff Costs) <sup>2</sup> :	£12,847.90

Running costs may vary annually depending on factors including costs relating to public appointments, legal advice, translation services, complaints investigation and enforcement or publications.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail (i) whether his Department is aware how much diesel was leaked onto Millisle beach; (ii) how his Department intends to assess the damage caused by the pollution incident, including through water quality testing; and (iii) how his Department communicates pollution incidents to the public when they occur.

Mr Poots:

- (i) The matter is still under active investigation and the quantity of diesel that escaped onto the beach it has not yet been established.
- (ii) Post-incident monitoring of any spill into the marine environment will depend on multiple factors; including the amount and nature of the discharged substance, the prevailing physical conditions at the site and the sensitivity and nature of the receiving environment. The need for monitoring is guided by recognised best practice such as the "Pollution Response in Emergencies Marine Impact Assessment and Monitoring (PREMIAM) Post-Incident Monitoring Guidelines". The monitoring of impact on biota is a more appropriate assessment method than monitoring through water sampling in this instance. Officers from the Marine Intertidal Assessment Team have been on site in the week following the incident to carry out a post spill assessment.
- (iii) The communication of pollution incidents to the public depends upon the location, type and severity of this incident. The Pollution response team liaise with the DAERA press team to develop press releases and updates. The source of this pollution incident was adjacent to the Millisle bathing water. Ards and North Down Borough Council (the bathing water operator) took immediate steps by way of press releases and social media posts to communicate that an incident was ongoing in the area and to advise members of the public not to handle or attempt to clean-up any oil or chemical spillage. The public were advised to report any pollution to the NIEA Incident Hotline on 0800 807060 or email emergency-pollution@daera-ni.gov.uk.

1 The AWB reports on a biennial basis. The latest available report covers the 2018-2019 calendar years.

2 No enforcement action was required in two-year reporting period 2018-2019, therefore no enforcement costs were incurred.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the support given to, and the conversations had with, local councils and community and voluntary environmental groups regarding litter and pollution clean-ups.

Mr Poots: DAERA uses a combined approach of legislation, education & awareness, and enforcement to tackle litter. My Department works closely with Councils & environmental NGOs to develop and support educational & promotional campaigns aimed at achieving behavioural change. The Environment Fund directly supports 'Keep Northern Ireland Beautiful' (KNIB) which runs a number of programmes, including: 'Eco-Schools'; 'Live Here, Love Here'; 'Big Spring Clean; & 'Adopt-A-Spot' projects.

Over £3m has been awarded to KNIB since 2007/8 with additional current funding of over £1m to further support its campaigns. These make environmental awareness & action an intrinsic part of the life and ethos of our communities, and focus on practical, positive environmental behavioural change.

DAERA supports the 'Big Spring Clean,' this is NI's largest community clean-up campaign. To date, 100 Big Spring Clean kits have been provided to individuals organising clean-ups during April & May of this year. Support has also been provided with plans to host beach and neighbourhood cleans with local residents and businesses, within COVID-19 guidelines, in the near future.

My Department also funds and supports the Adopt-A-Spot programme. At present, there are 392 active Adopt-A-Spots across Northern Ireland, with 80 groups on the waiting list for kits due to exceptionally high demand this year. These kits offer practical support to volunteer groups on their clean up journeys, and KNIB is available to provide advice to groups in regards to clean-up events.

Supported by the funding provided by my Department, KNIB regularly liaises with Councils through the 'Live Here, Love Here' (LHLH) initiative. This includes regular interaction to organise waste material collections; promoting media campaigns throughout 10 council areas to address litter issues; increasing awareness of littering Fixed Penalty Notices; and celebrating local initiatives, such as through the "Tales Of The Times" virtual celebration event held in March.

An additional media campaign addressing on-the-go, PPE and beauty spot littering was developed and aired last July as the first lockdown restrictions were easing and litter was becoming an obvious issue once again.

This year, through the Tackling Plastics NI project funded by my Department, coastal schools will receive focused education and help in receiving equipment to prevent litter and pollution at our coasts and in our waterways.

DAERA also provides funding to KNIB to produce the annual Marine Litter Report which contains counts of litter items, litter types and geographical breakdown of the litter items. DAERA's Marine Division produced NI's first Marine Litter Strategy in 2013, which is delivered through a coalition of partners.

My Department appointed KNIB to gather data from all councils on their use of fixed penalty notices for both litter and dog fouling offences. Each council received correspondence requesting feedback on the effectiveness of the current powers and fines. In addition, several councils submitted additional correspondence on these issues directly to me. My officials are reviewing this data to inform the Department's review of the current fixed penalty notice regime which will feed into our first Environment Strategy, which is due to be consulted upon later this year.

The Department has also issued a series of communications, delivered by the Waste & Resources Action Programme (WRAP), to support waste management and recycling behaviours and to combat fly-tipping and littering. A flyer was sent to every household in Northern Ireland with details of how to manage waste and recycling during the Covid-19 crisis. There were also radio adverts on local stations and a range of social media posts on various platforms highlighting the problems of fly-tipping, littering and illegal waste dumping.

At the outset of the Covid-19 pandemic, I recognised that continuation of council household waste management services was necessary to safeguard human health and protect the environment. There was, and remains, a need to ensure, that as far as possible, public services continue in a safe and responsible manner. The funding secured from the Executive in this financial year has resulted in a total package to all Councils worth £15.2m to assist with the additional waste costs which have arisen during the pandemic. My Department has worked closely with Council officials, throughout the pandemic, to distribute this allocation across the eleven councils – a significant element of which will assist with tackling additional litter and fly-tipping.

Of course we need to continue extensive collaboration with local councils and other stakeholders on waste management matters to build upon the public's impressive approach to recycling in recent years. The current £23 million Household Waste Recycling Collaborative Change Programme financially supports local councils to further increase recycling rates and improve the quality of recycling. To date, I have made £4.826m available for nine projects. These will not only boost the quality and economic value of recycling but also encourage responsible waste management practices, helping to reduce incidents of littering and fly-tipping.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on the investigation into the Meenbog landslide; and for a timeline of the investigation.

Mr Poots: As I have intimated previously, the Meenbog peat landslide investigation is ongoing, and any comment at this stage would be 'sub judice'.

You will be aware that as the issue originated in the Republic of Ireland, with impact on Northern Ireland territory, this constitutes a cross-border issue for investigation. As such, the Loughs Agency are leading on the investigation and officials in my Department are providing assistance where it is requested.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he will bring forward a right to roam policy to give the public greater access to the outdoors.
(AQW 17794/17-22)

Mr Poots: As part of the Outdoor Recreation Action Plan for Northern Ireland my department is currently conducting a consultation exercise on "The Provision of Access for Outdoor Recreation in Northern Ireland". We are currently focussing on how a Northern Ireland wide network of paths could be developed, with landowners consent through Permissive Path Agreements.

Initial discussions with the Ulster Farmers Union, outdoor recreation organisations and users of access legislation, such as councils, have been positive. The approach suggests that a solution which will accommodate all parties is possible. However, we are not considering an overall right to roam.

We have recently completed Stage 1 of a two stage formal consultation. Following consideration of the Stage 1 responses, we intend issuing a further consultation (Stage 2) later this year which will invite all members of the public to submit views on this issue.

Mr Lunn asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on the ongoing work to stop the release of noxious gases from Mullaghglass landfill site, Lisburn.

Mr Poots: NIEA can provide the following update on ongoing work to prevent odorous emissions from Mullaghglass landfill.

In early February, the site operator implemented a number of additional measures to minimise the frequency and level of odour from the site. In addition, site work to install a new steep slope liner was completed in early February; this area was a likely source of site odours in the early part of January.

After three site inspections by NIEA during the month of February, and prior to the most recent scheduled drilling works, the gas management at Mullaghglass Landfill has been brought back into compliance with effect from 23 February 2021.

The operator of Mullaghglass Landfill commenced its scheduled installation of a new phase of gas wells in the recently infilled area of the site on 25 February. These new wells are a necessary component of the site infrastructure, which take place at regular intervals during the lifecycle of the landfill. The new wells have been subsequently connected to the gas extraction system and are being optimised to ensure effective gas collection which provides fuel for the gas engines supplying electricity to the grid.

Elevated levels of odour can occur during such works which requires 'drilling into' the waste. The odour impact is short term and once the new wells are connected to the site's gas management system, these works will bring about a longer term improvement particularly in the post closure phase.

Further work is ongoing at the site to profile this recently infilled area in preparation for its final engineered cap during April / May. This will increase the site area with its final cap from 52% to 65% in May. Regretfully, periodic odours can occur during such works but in the medium / long term, these works will bring about significant improvements, particularly post closure.

The site is entering its last phase of operations and is due to close in the next 12-15 months. Over the coming months, the Operator will continue to install additional gas collection wells and gas infrastructure followed by installing an engineered cap of completed infilled areas.

NIEA regulate this landfill site through its environmental permit and its inspectors are carrying out additional regulatory site inspections and odour monitoring surveys in the area. A revised site Odour Management Plan is in place to ensure that the site is managed in such a way that risk of odour to local communities is minimised as far as practicably possible. Where there are issues at a site, NIEA will direct the operator to resolve these using best available techniques and to ensure that operations remain in compliance with permit conditions.

However, as previously advised, it should be noted that as a 'working landfill' there will always be a risk of periodic odours, however, these should not be sustained.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the clean-up costs incurred by each local council in relation to illegal dumping, in each of the last three years.
(AQW 17842/17-22)

Mr Poots: Currently there is no requirement for a District Council to report the cost incurred by them in the clean-up of illegally dumped wastes to the Department. Therefore, my Department holds no records in that regard.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) for an update on pet passports as required for travel between GB and NI, including details involved in their enforcement on 1 July; and (ii) how the public will be made aware of the rules.

Mr Poots: As a result of the Withdrawal Agreement and the Northern Ireland (NI) Protocol, the European Union (EU) Pet Travel Regulation (Regulation (EU) 576/2013), which details the documentary, health and compliance check requirements for the travel of pet dogs between or into EU Member States, continues to apply in NI, following the end of the transition phase. Therefore, there are now additional requirements for pet travel from Great Britain (GB) to NI, including the need for appropriate documentation, rabies vaccination and tapeworm treatment.

I am acutely aware of the impact of, what I consider to be, completely unnecessary new measures on those travelling within the United Kingdom (UK).

After engaging with my officials to find potential flexibilities, and considering pet owners have not had time to familiarise themselves with the new rules, I confirmed that DAERA will delay the introduction of any checks on pet travel from GB to NI until 1 July 2021. As a result, there will be no routine checks until then.

I have written to the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, George Eustice MP, and to the European Commission, highlighting these issues, and particularly the entirely unjustified requirements for rabies vaccination and tapeworm treatment, given that both the UK and the Republic of Ireland (RoI) are considered free from both diseases.

I have also requested that urgent consideration be given to the introduction of a 'Common Travel Area' for pets travelling between GB, NI and the RoI. A joint UK/NI/RoI working group has now been established to consider where flexibilities can be achieved, and I can advise that this group has met on a number of occasions and will continue to engage on these issues.

This matter has also now been escalated by the UK Government to the European Commission seeking urgent resolution to the matters. The Commission has responded and discussions are ongoing.

My Department is currently considering its next steps with regards to any enforcement of compliance with the European Union's requirements for pet travel from GB to NI from 1st July, if required. The present position is set out in the Department's Compliance protocol, available <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/publications/compliance-protocol-sanitary-phytosanitary-controls-and-point-entry-marketing-standards-checks-gb-ni>. However, it is my hope that sensible and pragmatic solutions can be found before then, from the discussions and processes outlined above, which will be to the benefit of all those travelling with pets into NI from GB from 1st July on. In addition, I will continue engagement with Ministerial colleagues to urgently seek derogations where possible from these unnecessary additional requirements.

In order to keep the general public updated, any progress made or flexibilities agreed in respect of the additional requirements, in addition to any changes to the current enforcement of checks, information will be published on the DAERA website <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/travelling-pets>, on the DAERA Frequently Asked Questions document <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/qas-pet-travel-1-january-2021> and communicated widely through our usual Departmental media channels.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of the benefit to local communities of Community Benefit Agreements relating to wind farms.

Mr Poots: I would refer the Member to the response for AQW 15288 which was provided on 5 March 2021 by the Department of Economy.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail (i) any active and proposed schemes designed to encourage and assist business diversification among meat and dairy farmers; and (ii) any conversations he has had with farmers and other sectors in relation to this issue.

(AQW 17935/17-22)

Mr Poots: There are two types of farm diversification for which my Department has brought forward investment support:

- 1 Diversification into a different farming activity
- 2 Diversification into a non-farming activity

Diversification into a different farming activity

The Farm Business Improvement Scheme – Capital (FBIS-C) under the Northern Ireland Rural Development Programme 2014-2020 (NIRDP) is aimed at improving the competitiveness and sustainability of the farming industry. The scheme has two separate tiers: Tier 1 is designed to support small scale investments that will improve the sustainability of farm businesses through the purchase of equipment and machinery, costing from £5,000 to £30,000, from a list of eligible items.

Tier 2 is designed to support larger investments that will enable transformational change in farm businesses across all sectors, which may include diversification into a different farming activity, through projects costing over £30,000 (subject to an overall grant limit of £250,000).

While the FBIS-Capital scheme is currently closed for applications, I am considering what further capital support can be provided under both tiers of the scheme, and within the Future Agricultural Policy Framework for Northern Ireland, which will be launched in the coming months.

Financial support may be available for farm diversification projects from the Agri-Food Co-operation Scheme, also part of the NIRDP, where a farmer would be considering working with others to progress a project. The Agri-Food Co-operation Scheme can provide up to £30,500 of funding along with 50 facilitation days to assist groups of farmers and food producers to progress a new project collaboratively.

Eligible support measures as part of this scheme include Specialist Mentoring, Training, Business Tools, Study Tours and Co-operation Support. The scheme is delivered on behalf of DAERA by Countryside Services Ltd; further details are available on the Countryside Service Ltd website at www.countrysideservices.com/agri-food-co-operation-scheme/

Diversification into a non-farming activity

The LEADER priority (six) of the NIRDP made investment support available under the Rural Business Investment scheme to assist all rural businesses, including farms, to diversify into a non-farming activity. This scheme is delivered by Local Action Groups (LAGs) across the council areas in Northern Ireland. All LAGs fully allocated their funding in order to deliver projects by 2020.

I have not had any specific conversations with farmers and other sectors in relation to diversification. However, I am aware of the interest in, and benefits which can arise from, business diversification.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what public communications he intends to publish in order to prevent wildfires such as the devastating events of the weekend.

Mr Poots: My Department and a range of other wildfire stakeholders have issued communications about the risk of wildfires through a wide range of media and other channels. We will continue to raise awareness through these channels.

The NI Strategic Wildfire Group that I established will also be considering the Theme of engagement as part of their work going forward.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail plans for the deployment of NI Environment Agency litter enforcement branch, or others, at popular visitor destinations under his Department's remit such as Crawfordsburn Country Park and Helen's Bay for periods of good weather and during the upcoming summer months.

Mr Poots: My Department has no NI Environment Agency litter enforcement branch and furthermore has no legislative power of enforcement on matters around littering. As prescribed in the Litter (Northern Ireland) Order 1994, responsibility for the enforcement of matters relating to litter on relevant land rests with the local council and requires appropriate action from this body.

Responsibility for enforcement rests solely with Ards and North Down Borough Council. I would welcome your engagement with the local council in order to prioritise this issue and take the matter forward. More robust enforcement may be needed in order to properly regulate this issue.

I am keen to see more being done to tackle the scourge of litter across Northern Ireland. DAERA is currently finalising Northern Ireland's first overarching Environment Strategy which will include consideration of new options to tackle littering and the outcome of my Department's recent review of Fixed Penalty Notices for littering offences.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs following the recent incident on Millisle beach, whether sufficient staffing resources and procedures are in place within his Department to deal with diesel spills.

Mr Poots: Diesel and other fuel oil spills can and do occur at any time and from a wide range of locations ranging from domestic properties, garage forecourts, road traffic accidents to spills from large commercial properties and from vessels at sea. In 2020, NIEA staff responded to 149 confirmed water pollution incidents involving the spillage of a variety of oil types. The level of Departmental intervention and response depends upon the volume of oil spilled, the type of product involved, the location and the potential environmental impact.

All oil spills are investigated under the Water (NI) Order 1999 and staff are trained and conduct exercises on the deployment of pollution counter-measures and to manage incidents until fully resolved. Formal external training, by professionally accredited providers, has also been provided for a number of key staff to full Maritime and Coastguard Agency Oil Spill Response Executive Commander Level for large marine spills.

Staffing is a finite resource and the ability to respond to any incident outside of normal working hours is reduced and this may in some cases impact upon the speed of response depending upon commitments to other incidents ongoing at the same time.

The Northern Ireland Coastal Contingency plan sets out a tiered approach which identifies the appropriate response capability in terms of expertise and resources for coastal incidents of different magnitudes and complexity. Whilst the Department has the capability to deal with the vast majority of oil spills reported, it is not resourced in terms of staff and equipment to 'clean up' particularly large or complex spills. In this regard NIEA will investigate and manage the incident but where necessary, specialist accredited contractors may need to be engaged.

The costs associated with large spills can be substantial and where the source of the oil is known to investigatory staff, the individual or organisation believed to be responsible would be asked to engage a 'clean up' contractor in line with the polluter pay' principle. In all cases the first response of NIEA is to prevent the worsening of the situation and the Department will engage an appropriate contractor and bear the costs if a polluter is not found.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the total area burnt by wildfires, in each of the last five years.

Mr Poots: My Department does not hold this information.

However I can confirm, as I reported in the Assembly on 26 April 2021, that Forest Service staff attended 22 fire incidents in 2020. As a result of those incidents, 70 hectares of forest and over 110 hectares of peatland were burnt.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline by-laws made to date under the Nature Conservation and Amenity Lands (Northern Ireland) Order 1985.

(AQW 18064/17-22)

Mr Poots: The following byelaw was made under the Nature Conservation and Amenity Lands (Northern Ireland) Order 1985:

- Strangford Lough Regulation of Anchoring, Mooring and Diving Byelaws 2012. Further information can be found at <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/doe/marine-legislation-strangford-anchoring-mooring-diving-byelaws-2012.pdf>

Mr McGuigan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for her assessment of the (i) short term; and (ii) medium term impact on air quality and pollution to Ballymoney town and the wider district from the fire at a business in the town on 27 April 2021.

Mr Poots: There are 21 permanent air quality monitoring sites across Northern Ireland, which measure a variety of gasses and particles. Pollutants measured include nitrogen dioxide, particulate matter, sulphur dioxide and ground level ozone. The air quality monitoring stations closest to Ballymoney are located in Ballymena (Antrim Road and Ballykeel). There are two other Air Quality monitoring stations relatively nearby. (Dungiven and Newtownabbey)

Department Officials continually review levels of pollutants on a daily basis, and on Tuesday the 27th April as a response to becoming aware of the fire at the Tyre Depot, particular attention was paid to reviewing air quality in that region throughout that afternoon. Elevated levels of pollutants were not recorded at any of these sites. However, the monitoring network in Northern Ireland was developed for the purpose of ensuring compliance with EU air quality Directives and subsequently supplemented by sites measuring nitrogen dioxide at 10 roadside locations for the purposes of assessment of the Programme for Government air quality indicator. The monitoring network was not designed to detect elevated concentrations of pollutants on a local scale across all of Northern Ireland.

Mr Humphrey asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline the measures being taken to address the problem of illegal dumping from Harmony Bridge at Glenside Park, Belfast into the Forth River.

Mr Poots: At our meeting at Harmony Bridge on 26 April, I was disheartened to see the conditions that local residents are forced to put up with because of the thoughtless actions of those with no concerns for either their neighbours or the environment.

I understand that difficulties in establishing land ownership for the Bridge and its access are hindering efforts to find a long-term solution to the problem. With this in mind, I have instructed my officials to convene an inter-agency meeting with colleagues from the PSNI, Belfast City Council and Department for Infrastructure, amongst others. I will keep you informed of the outcome of this meeting.

Mr Allen asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs how many incidents of water pollution have been reported in each year since 2017.

(AQO 1978/17-22)

Mr Poots: Reports of water pollution received by my Department are as follows:

Year	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021 Q1	Total
Reports	1906	1794	1754	1960	516	7930

Each report was investigated in person by officials of the Northern Ireland Environment Agency within my Department.

The data for 2021 comprises quarter one (January to March) figures due to validation and internal audit requirements.

Mr Frew asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on the North Antrim Hills Wildlife and Conservation Project.

Mr Poots: The member visited this area with me last July and we both understand the potential in the project for my Department to work with local landowners to sustainably manage the area, particularly in relation to managing the threat of wildfire. The threat of wildfire has been made particularly apparent with the dry weather this spring, and the recent major fire in the Mourne.

I can report that following our meeting, my Department has been able to support the North Antrim Hills Wildlife and Conservation Project with both advice and funding. The Project involves 8 landowners owning 1500 ha of land designated as an Area of Special Scientific Interest (ASSI) and as part of the Antrim Hills Special Protection Area (SPA) for breeding Hen Harrier and Merlin, and for blanket bog habitat. The work for 2020/21 has just been completed and tendering to complete a comprehensive Wildfire Management Plan is about to be initiated.

Mrs D Kelly asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of the establishment of an all-island register of persons convicted of the abuse of animals.

Mr Poots: I remain open to the possibility of creating a central register of those convicted of animal welfare offences and my officials have been exploring the matter further at my request.

However, the complexities and data sharing issues pertaining to the establishment of a Northern Ireland register would need to be fully scoped before any consideration could be given to the creation of an all island register.

As the creation of a Northern Ireland register is a cross-cutting issue, I met with the Minister of Justice on 27 April to seek her views on the matter. Given the complexities involved, it was agreed that my officials will work with colleagues in the Department of Justice, and engage with animal welfare organisations, to explore the options available for the creation of a Northern Ireland register, and develop proposals on a way forward.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline the action taken by the Northern Ireland Environment Agency to clean up the diesel spill at Millisle Beach.

Mr Poots: On Saturday 17 April 2021 the Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) received a report via the Incident Hotline of diesel pollution on the beach at Millisle County Down.

A Water Quality Inspector was deployed to the area to investigate and identified an outfall from a culverted stream which was polluted by diesel flowing onto the beach. Absorbent booms were installed to contain the oil. The source of the leak was located and stopped. A specialist oil spill contractor was appointed to undertake a clean up. It has not yet been established how much fuel escaped from the premises.

NIEA along with Marine & Fisheries Division (MFD) officers have continued to monitor the situation on the ground since the spill.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline his plans to address the reduction in recycling as set out in his Department's Local Authority Collected Municipal Waste Management Statistics reports.

Mr Poots: I have noted the reduction in the recycling performance as highlighted in the recent Northern Ireland waste management statistics. I am aware the impact that Covid has had in delivering essential waste management services and maintaining recycling rates. Nevertheless I remain committed to maintaining the progress that we had made on recycling in Northern Ireland prior to Covid, and achieving the recycling and landfill diversion targets particularly in relation to the circular economy.

My department has made available £23 million funding through the Household Waste Recycling Collaborative Change Programme which financially supports local councils to further increase recycling rates and improve the quality of recycling. To date, I have made £4.826m available for nine projects. Following a recent review of the Programme to ensure that it is achieving maximum value for money, I have set matched funding contributions from local councils at 50%. This will allow more councils to take forward their projects, ensure that the funding provided by DAERA can assist more projects and benefit local communities through increased and better quality recycling and reducing landfill.

My department also issued a discussion paper on Future Recycling and Separate Collection of Waste of a Household Nature in Northern Ireland. It put forward proposals on how to improve consistency, quantity and quality of recycling in Northern Ireland. The responses to the paper will help to develop future recycling policy and a Summary of Responses is currently being prepared, this will be available on the DAERA website in due course.

On March 24 of this year, my Department issued second public consultations alongside the rest of the UK on Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR) for packaging and on a Deposit Return Scheme (DRS) for drink containers alongside England and Wales. EPR for packaging will incentivise better design and recyclability of packaging and improved labelling, while the introduction of a DRS in England, Wales and Northern Ireland aims to increase the recycling of in-scope drinks containers and improve the quality of recycled material.

Officials from the Department continue to engage frequently with local councils on a range of waste management issues, including recycling rates, and a task and finish group has recently been established to examine ways to address the recent reduction in recycling rates.

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs given the recommendation by the Climate Change Committee of moving to carbon net zero by 2050, to outline the impact on food production of achieving net zero before this date.

(AQO 1984/17-22)

Mr Poots: In publishing the 6th Carbon Budget, in December 2020, the Climate Change Committee (CCC) acknowledged that NI had the highest proportion of its emissions emanating from agriculture, compared with the other UK devolved administrations, and that NI is a significant net exporter of agri-food products with nearly 50% of all agri-food products produced in Northern Ireland consumed in the rest of the UK.

In the various scenarios constructed by the CCC, in which the UK reaches net zero by 2050, it was not possible for NI to also achieve net zero in the same year. As such, and within the balanced pathway scenario, it is recommended that NI aims for at least an 82% reduction in greenhouse gas emissions by 2050.

Such a reduction is seen as an equivalent effort and a fair contribution to the overall UK net zero target. To help achieve this, officials are currently assessing the recommendation of the CCC report, looking at improving our low-carbon farming practices as well as improving the carbon foot print of our food production sector through innovative research and policies such as increased efficiency and the reduction of food waste.

While work is ongoing to assess the full impacts of the CCC recommendation on food production, it is not envisaged that there will be a detrimental impact on food production in Northern Ireland in terms of the UK achieving net zero by 2050, though like other sectors the food production sector will be asked to reduce net emission levels.

Department for Communities

Mr Blair asked the Minister for Communities to detail the (i) number; and (ii) location of new social housing units planned for South Antrim over the next five years.

(AQW 17578/17-22)

Ms Hargey (The Minister for Communities): The Social Housing Development Programme is a three year rolling programme of planned social housing schemes, therefore I am unable to provide you with schemes for the next 5 years. At Table 1 below I have detailed the social housing units programmed to start as part of the SHDP 2020/21 – 2022/23, listed by Parliamentary Constituency, then Onsite Year.

The published SHDP will be updated to reflect additional and re-profiled scheme proposals in due course.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Communities to outline the reasons for the delay in completing the work to restore the shop owned by the Housing Executive at the Kilcooley Square, Bangor.

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive has advised that the property at 1 Kilcooley Square was badly damaged, meaning that extensive work is required to bring the building up to standard. The 'Clear Out' work has now been completed and the fire safety report has been received. The report has identified the requirement of additional substantial work to make the building fire compliant. The final costings to complete the necessary works are currently going through the appropriate internal approvals process. Once this approval has been granted, a date can be agreed for the commencement of works which is anticipated to be within a matter of weeks.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities how many public sector homes have been completed in each month since March 2019.

(AQW 17649/17-22)

Ms Hargey: In the table below I have provided details of the number of social housing completions recorded as part of the Social Housing Development Programme (SHDP) during the period April 2019 to March 2021, broken down by month.

Department of Education

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Education to detail in what format the multi-disciplinary teams are meeting to assess children for Autism.
(AQW 16383/17-22)

Mr Weir (The Minister of Education): Whilst COVID-19 has had a significant impact on the delivery of autism assessments for children, I am aware that multi-disciplinary teams within our Trusts have been working diligently, both nationally and internationally, to identify alternative methods of delivering assessments for children which is compliant to NICE Guidelines, whilst still adhering to public health guidelines and social distancing restrictions. Clinicians have continued collating case histories and providing support and interventions for those families awaiting assessment through telephone consultation sessions or the use of technology, based on a case by case basis and the individual needs of children and families involved. Clinicians were, for a period of time, unable to conduct the observational element of assessment, Autism Diagnostic Observational Schedule (ADOS), as a result of the restrictions and the impact of PPE on the individual being assessed. This would render the assessment invalid. However, alternative methods of deploying this aspect of assessment have now been implemented by multi-disciplinary teams through the use of technology and also by securing additional accommodation to enable socially distanced observational assessments to be undertaken and ensure all public health guidelines are adhered to.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Education to detail (i) all requests for temporary variation in enrolment by schools, including numbers for the 2021/2022 academic year; and (ii) the number of additional places granted by school for the 2021/2022 academic year.

Mr Weir: Details of Temporary Variation (TV) requests received to date for admission to primary and post-primary schools for the 2021/22 school year are set out in Tables 1 and 2 respectively. I had already approved a number of additional places at Year 8 in advance of the post-primary process commencing and these are set out in Table 3.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Education to detail (i) his assessment of Pathological Demand Avoidance training not currently being mandatory for primary and post-primary teachers; and (ii) what support is currently available in schools for pupils who have PDA.

Mr Weir: Mandatory training is not in line with the Department's Teacher Professional Learning Strategy - Learning Leaders (2016) (<https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/publications/teaching-professional-learning-strategy>) which aims to empower the teaching profession to strengthen its own professionalism and expertise to meet the challenging educational needs of young people in the 21st century.

The Education Authority Autism Advisory and Intervention Service (EA AAIS) do not currently provide training or advice on Pathological Demand Avoidance (PDA) as there is no standard agreement amongst professionals on intervention strategies or categorisation of the condition at present. PDA, also referred to as extreme demand avoidance, is not a recognised diagnostic category within the existing international diagnostic classification systems. As this is a medical diagnosis, EA AAIS will continue to follow guidance and take the lead from the Department of Health.

If there is a diagnosis of PDA, the EA AAIS recommend that this is also accompanied by a treatment plan, from the health professional involved, to outline the support that the school can provide for individual pupils.

Training on autism and anxiety for Parents and Professionals may be useful for children and young people presenting with these difficulties. Parental guidance and resources are available via the EA AAIS (<https://www.eani.org.uk/services/pupil-support-services/autism-advisory-intervention-service-aais>) or through Middletown Centre for Autism (<https://www.middletownautism.com/>)

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Education to detail the youth work initiatives his Department has facilitated in order to reach the most vulnerable and hard to reach young people in each of the past five years in (i) East Londonderry; and (ii) Northern Ireland.

Mr Weir: I have arranged for this information to be placed in the Assembly Library.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Education what guidance he is giving to schools concerning where pupils should be during study leave after GCSE exams this year.

Mr Weir: In normal circumstances pupils in Years 12-14 would begin study leave during the summer term in preparation for public examinations. It remains a matter for schools to decide in their own context, the best approach for these pupils during the current Summer Term. This recognises the need for flexibility for schools and also the potential difficulty engaging some pupils following the completion of their qualifications.

However, on 22 March 2021, my Department issued advice to all schools, to encourage them to teach pupils in Years 12 to 14 for as long as possible. In particular, my Department has strongly recommended that pupils in Year 13 continue to be taught in school until the end of the Summer Term. These pupils are mid A Level course and a significant amount of face-to-face learning has been lost. Again, given the context of two periods of extended remote learning, my Department has advised schools to consider enrichment activities or taster sessions for pupils in Years 12 to 14 during June and following the submission of Centre Determined Grades for their GCSE and A Level qualifications.

You will also note that the dates for the submission of Centre Determined Grades to CCEA are 21 May for A Levels and 4 June for GCSEs. These dates have been designed to maximise face-to-face teaching for Years 12 to 14 whilst allowing time for CCEA moderation of the grades submitted by schools.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Education how many educational psychologists are working in the Education Authority.
(AQW 17837/17-22)

Mr Weir: The number of educational psychologists currently working in the Education Authority (EA) and employed by the EA in the previous four years is as follows:

Year	2016-17	2017-18	2018-19	2019-20	2020-21
Number of Educational Psychologists employed	161	144	148	134	126
Full Time Equivalent	136	118	128.9	106.42	101.9

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Education to outline how many educational psychologists have been employed by the Education Authority in each of the last five years.

(AQW 17840/17-22)

Mr Weir: The number of educational psychologists currently working in the Education Authority (EA) and employed by the EA in the previous four years is as follows:

Year	2016-17	2017-18	2018-19	2019-20	2020-21
Number of Educational Psychologists employed	161	144	148	134	126
Full Time Equivalent	136	118	128.9	106.42	101.9

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education why there is no Education Authority Numeracy Support Service for children with special educational needs in Northern Ireland.

(AQW 17863/17-22)

Mr Weir: Although there is currently no standalone 'Numeracy Support Service' within the Education Authority (EA), pupils' needs are assessed and supported across a range of individually-tailored school-based interventions at Stages 1 & 2 of the current Code of Practice on the Identification and Assessment of Special Educational Needs [1998], and the wider range of pupil support services at Stages 3 and beyond.

All of the EA's pupil support services are undergoing fundamental review as part of the Special Educational Needs and Disability Strategic Development Programme, with a view to developing an integrated support model tailored around the pupil, rather than structured as separate standalone services. Stakeholder opinion and evidence of needs in terms of numeracy support will be factored into that review process and appropriately addressed in its recommendations.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister of Education to confirm (i) whether he has engaged with principals regarding their well-being; (ii) how he will address issues or concerns they have raised as a result of COVID-19; and (iii) how he plans to look after those principals who have lead in their school community and local community generally.

Mr Weir: A Practitioners Group (PG) was established as part of the Education Restart and COVID Response and is tasked with the consideration of practical issues and the development of proposed operational solutions.

Membership of the PG comprises of school principals from across the education sector, Public Health Agency, and Education Authority staff. The PG has been involved in the development of guidance on practical arrangements for schools throughout the pandemic and has helped to inform decisions made.

Through this forum, principals are able to raise any issues/concerns in relation to their wellbeing or everyday school issues at an early stage.

To ensure a full response to this question input has also been sought from the Education Authority (EA) and its comments have been reproduced below.

DE funding has facilitated an EA multipronged approach to supporting the Health and Wellbeing of school leaders and their communities, informed by Principal voice. All programmes support the DE Wellbeing Policy and the EA Health and Wellbeing Strategy.

- EA, in partnership with DE, are providing a Coaching Service for School Leaders to support Principal wellbeing, through access to individual coaching sessions. The extension of this programme, and a resilience-building programme for all staff designed by EA in collaboration with Inspire, is now available to help Principals manage the wellbeing needs of their school communities.
- Through the DE EA Restart programme, a dedicated Health and Wellbeing section on the EA Portal was developed.
- School leaders have been offered a range of opportunities, some with a direct focus on Health and Wellbeing such as the Barry Carpenter, 'Recovery Curriculum' programme, and others, which indirectly support wellbeing, such as the 'Leadership Matters Achieve', programme with Andy Buck designed in collaboration with EA to empower school leaders.
- A Cross Organisational Link Officer (COLO) was assigned to every school; their role is to support Principals with operational queries to alleviate stress and anxiety. The COLO is also a 'listening ear', providing pastoral support. In addition, coupled with the 'Daily Queries' form, established alongside the COLO, Principals have a direct avenue to inform the system of successes, anxieties and areas of need or for further development allowing for amendments or updates to guidance materials to be identified and actioned.
- DE provided funding of £5m to the EA for onward allocation to schools to support both pupil and staff wellbeing. Schools were asked to engage with staff and pupils as to how best to use the money and as a result, staff have been supported through this funding.

In addition a Health and Wellbeing Strategy for all staff employed by the Education Authority has been developed and a programme to support health and wellbeing is in place. The Strategy was launched in January 2020 and school leaders were consulted as part of its development through the facilitation of 4 sessions over two days in the East and West of Northern Ireland. These sessions were well attended and some school leaders subsequently were involved in the launch of the Strategy and in the short video promoting the Strategy to schools.

A programme to support wellbeing is in place and in (2020/21) this included:

- 180 health and wellbeing sessions/ initiatives/ campaigns provided online for EA staff.
- EA HealthWell Hub development. "The hub" was fast-tracked in late March 2020 to meet the immediate needs of staff during the early stages of the pandemic period. The Hub now has over 19k users and 36k active sessions since inception.
- Over 87.5k programme related views (over 60k unique views).
- Increased catalogue of pre-recorded H&W sessions are available 24/7 with 22 distinct courses.
- Programme evaluation are trending at an 80% satisfaction rating overall.
- Notably higher levels of engagement and participation in the programme relating to staff in schools in 2020/21.
- For example over 50% of delegates who engaged in the sessions linked to the theme of supporting Healthy Minds at work were school based staff.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education (i) how coding is taught in the Key Stage 2 and Key Stage 3 curriculum: and (ii) what consideration has been given to introducing Web Design and Development as an option at GCSE.

Mr Weir: Using ICT is one of the three cross-curricular skills at the heart of the curriculum and teachers can measure standards of pupil competency in digital skills through this.

Pupils develop their technical skills in a range of different types of ICT, including coding. The curriculum requirements for Using ICT are set out under the 5 'E's: Explore, Express, Exchange, Evaluate and Exhibit. These apply to all pupils in primary school, from Foundation Stage to Key Stage 2. Part of 'Explore' is that pupils should: "investigate, make predictions and solve problems through interaction with digital tools." Schools can cover this element either through graphs, spreadsheets, databases; and/or coding and computational thinking.

The CCEA Digital Skills Framework for Key Stage 3 takes the concepts behind three broad tiers of digital skills and applies them to the context of a learner within a school setting. Coding is one of the essential skills which teaches pupils how to solve problems and work together. It allows pupils to control digital technology and create exciting applications. When developing coding skills at Key Stage 3, schools are encouraged to provide pupils with opportunities to solve a variety of computational problems.

CCEA has created a suite of resources which provide a progression pathway for coding in the classroom and provide teachers with practical online teaching and learning materials. CCEA has been working in collaboration with a range of industry partners to ensure that the resources are reflective of current industry practice, ensuring that the learning is relevant to today's standards. These resources ensure our young people have the necessary skills to flourish in a digital world and provide excellent opportunities for learners to progress to CCEA's GCSE in Digital Technology and GCE in Software Systems Development.

At Key Stage 4 'Web Design and Development' is an option, through the Multimedia (Route A) part of the CCEA GCSE Digital Technology specification.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister of Education (i) whether his Department is aware of UNISON's current free school meals for all campaign; (ii) for his assessment of the campaign; and (iii) whether plans are being drafted to implement its recommendations.

(AQW 18007/17-22)

Mr Weir:

- (i) Whilst I have had no direct contact with Unison, I am aware of their campaign for Free School Meals for all children in school.
- (ii) Free school meals are currently provided to ensure pupils of "non working" and low income families have access to a nutritionally balanced meal suitable as the main meal of the day when at school. The eligibility criteria are largely based on receipt of qualifying welfare benefits. The Unison campaign to provide free school meals to all pupils, regardless of need, would represent a significant departure from current policy and result in a substantial increase in the cost of providing free school meals.
- (iii) The Covid-19 pandemic has brought into focus the number of children experiencing food insecurity and I have recently agreed to commence a comprehensive review of the free school meal and uniform grant eligibility criteria. The purpose of the review is to ensure that free school meals and uniform grants are available to support the most vulnerable children in our society. The review will consider all options including the option to provide universal free school meals to all pupils or certain year groups of pupils. In developing proposals the review team will consult widely with stakeholders including trade unions.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Education why his Department did not seek any funding to assist in marking of the centenary of Northern Ireland.

Mr Weir: The UK Government has made a commitment in the New Decade, New Approach (NDNA) document to work with the Executive to mark the centenary of Northern Ireland in 2021, and to make available funding for related projects. While I will participate in Executive discussions with the Secretary of State about the implementation of the UK Government's commitment to support and fund projects, no funds have yet been secured by my Department, as the quantum and method of allocation have not yet been determined.

The Department of Finance had commissioned an exercise requesting that departments submit bids to the NDNA unique circumstances financial package of £40 million across the next four years. My Department submitted bids for funds in relation to 14 proposals (totalling £23.9m over the four year period). 4 of these proposals (totalling £675k in 2021-22) were directly or indirectly aimed at assisting schools in marking the centenary. The outcome of this exercise is yet to be finalised.

All of this will be in addition to any funding that may be considered from within the Department of Education's Resource Budget to mark the centenary.

Mr Frew asked the Minister of Education to confirm whether outdoor singing in groups is permissible and also as an after-school activity.

Mr Weir: Due to the increased prevalence of the Kent variant (B.1.1.7) of the COVID-19 virus and on the advice of the CMO and the Public Health Agency (PHA), singing was temporarily suspended, as stated in my letter of 1 April. This variant was identified as potentially being 50% to 70% more transmissible than known variants during the school term leading up to Christmas. Increased projection due to singing presented a potential enhanced increase of transmission of the new variant. It was, however, permissible to continue in an outdoor setting.

The Education Authority met with the PHA to review its guidance and updated its Music Unlocked Guidance for Schools on 16 April to reinforce the guidance on planning and risk assessing the provision of singing within schools. The guidance states that singing outdoors may be considered as long as the singers and leader are aware of the wind direction and appropriate social distancing and other mitigation measures are in place.

Following further engagement with the Department of Health and the Executive Office, I announced on 14 April 2021 that schools can now provide wraparound care for pupils with immediate effect. This included the provision of care both before and after school, for example, the provision of breakfast clubs and after school care such as homework clubs. The position remains unchanged in respect of all other extra-curricular activities. However, the Department continues to engage with the Department of Health in relation to the most appropriate means to permit a resumption of all such activities when it is safe to do so.

Mr Frew asked the Minister of Education whether secondary schools can commence all extra-curricular/after-school activity.

Mr Weir: Following engagement with the Chief Medical Officer, the Public Health Agency, the Department of Health and the Executive Office, I announced on 14 April 2021 that schools can now provide wraparound care for pupils with immediate effect. This included the provision of care before and after school, for example, for the provision of breakfast clubs and after-school care such as homework clubs.

Outdoor extra-curricular sports is permitted (not inter-school sports), but indoor or outdoor extra-curricular activities provided by school such as after schools clubs, remain paused. However, the Department continues to engage with the Department of Health in relation to the most appropriate means to permit a resumption of all such activities when it is safe to do so.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Education whether he plans to publish guidance (i) for referral paths in schools; and (ii) on how schools should run counselling services efficiently and discreetly.

Mr Weir: The Education Authority (EA) has full contract and operational management responsibilities for the Independent Counselling Service for Schools (ICSS).

As part of the contract specification, the EA has updated the ICSS Handbook (the Handbook) which provides guidance and information for young people about the counselling service. The Handbook explains the referral pathway. Referrals can be made by young people themselves, a parent/carer or a teacher. Young people can submit an online/email self-referral or speak with the school Key Contact teacher to request a referral.

The Handbook also provides guidance on the role of all the partners involved in the provision of school counselling for young people including the school management team and the school Key Contact teacher. The role of the Key Contact is to promote the school counselling service, hold and manage the waiting list, assist in the scheduling of counselling sessions, meet with the counsellor on a weekly basis and take appropriate action on child protection referrals. More information on these roles are on pages 12 and 20 of the Handbook.

Further information and access to the Handbook is available at: Counselling | Education Authority Northern Ireland \(eani.org.uk\)

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Education whether he will include student stakeholders in decision making; and how his decisions affect students' experiences.
(AQW 18068/17-22)

Mr Weir: I recognise the importance of seeking and listening to the views of children and young people on key decisions which affect them. This is integral to how my Department operates as demonstrated below:

Alternative Awarding Arrangements for examinations in 2021 and 2022

Officials have engaged with representative groups of students in schools to ascertain their opinions and feedback on the alternative awarding arrangements. Furthermore, officials met with the Secondary Students Union (NI) to listen to their views on awarding arrangements. Curriculum, Examinations and Assessment (CCEA) has also engaged with the Children's Commissioner's Youth Panel to help inform the advice provided to the Department on qualifications and examinations.

Engagement with children and young people during the pandemic

At my request the Education Authority used its 'My Voice' programme to seek and listen to the views of a significant number of children and young people to inform and support decision making for the Education Restart programme and assist in the development of relevant guidance. This engagement work with children and young people is ongoing.

Development of Children and Young People's Participation Network

DE officials are currently working in partnership with Education Authority (EA) Youth Services staff and other children's authorities on the 'Young People's Participation in Decision Making' project. The project aims to establish an inclusive network supporting children and young people to provide their views to government on policy development and decision making which impact on their lives. The project board, which includes a youth panel, is examining options for the proposed network which will be brought forward for my consideration in due course.

Participation within schools

While the Department recognises the value of all forms of pupil participation and the important contribution these can make in supporting pupils as key stakeholders and decision-makers within their schools, it is a matter for individual schools to identify the method and degree of participation which best suits the needs of their pupils and to find meaningful ways to ensure their voice is heard.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Education whether he plans to introduce mental health awareness training into teacher training courses.

Mr Weir: The Initial Teacher Education (ITE) providers already include mental health and wellbeing in a number of ITE modules.

I should also add that the ITE providers review their programmes every year to take into account any significant changes to the educational landscape, and will do so with regards to the new Children and Young People's Emotional Health and Wellbeing in Education Framework, which was launched by the Department on 26 February 2021. This will ensure student teachers continue to receive appropriate development in this important area.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Education for an update on the work by his Department to review current provision of Relationship and Sexuality Education in our schools, including a review of the Minimum Content Order.

Mr Weir: Any changes to the Minimum Content Order would require significant and extensive consultation with key stakeholders to ensure that there is a sound evidence base on which to make decisions on this issue. It would also need to safeguard the current flexibility in the curriculum and ensure that it is not unintentionally narrowed or reduced. Set against other priorities and allowing for the development of proposals for change and consulting on them will mean that this work will not be completed before the end of this mandate.

My officials are part of the Department of Justice (DoJ) Education and Awareness Working Group which is a cross departmental multi-agency group established to raise awareness and education in Northern Ireland of the issues highlighted in Sir John Gillen's review into the law and procedures in respect of serious sexual offences. As part of this work DoJ officials are in the process of setting up a sub-group of key stakeholders from the main Gillen Implementation Group to consider in detail the educational issues arising from the Review's recommendations with a focus on RSE in the curriculum.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister of Education whether he will explore the expansion of Surestart provision in Foyle.
(AQW 18140/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Sure Start programme is delivered via 38 Sure Start projects, in (at least) the 25% most disadvantaged areas in Northern Ireland (NI), as measured by the NI Multiple Deprivation Measure (NIMDM) 2010; research indicates this is where targeted early intervention can be most effective. Provision is universal within the Sure Start catchment areas, therefore all children under four (and their families) in these areas can access services. Foyle Constituency is served by Shantallow, Edenballymore, Waterside and Little Hands Sure Start projects which can extend their catchment areas where there is need and resource permits.

In light of the impact of the pandemic on many families and to help support communities to recover, I have increased the budget for Sure Start in 2021/22 to temporarily expand provision within strict parameters, based on the 2017 Northern Ireland Multiple Deprivation Measure. The HSCB (which administers Sure Start) is currently planning how these limited extended services will be rolled out on a temporary basis within existing Sure Start projects.

A review of DE targeted Early Years interventions, including Sure Start, is scheduled to commence later this year and will include consideration of the geographical scope of provision.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Education to outline how many year eight places are available per school, across North Down for the next school term.
(AQW 18213/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Year 8 places available for admission to post-primary schools in North Down for the 2021/22 school year are set out in the table below. As the admissions process is ongoing these numbers may be increased by way of Temporary Variation (TV).

School Name	School ref	Admission no.
Bangor Academy & Sixth Form College	421-0296	262
Bangor Grammar School	442-0015	135
Glenlola Collegiate	441-0097	157
Priory Integrated College	425-0024	100
St Columbanus' College	423-0107	130
Sullivan Upper School	442-0044	150

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister of Education to outline (i) what guidance his Department has issued to grammar schools regarding the transfer test and alternative arrangements this autumn; and (ii) what engagement has he had with feeder primary schools in order to allow teachers, parents and pupils to prepare.
(AQW 18259/17-22)

Mr Weir: I understand that neither test provider, the Association for Quality Education nor the Post Primary Transfer Consortium have yet announced plans for transfer tests this year. Of course any arrangements will have to take account of the public health guidance in place at the time the tests are held. My Department plays no role in the organisation or content of the tests. They are a private arrangement between the test providers and those schools that use the scores of the tests as part of the selective admissions criteria. As with last year, any alternative arrangements for the tests are a matter for the test providers. Additionally, in the absence of tests, decisions regarding alternative approaches to setting and applying admissions criteria will be a matter for individual Boards of Governors.

I issued guidance to all primary schools in 2016 setting out how they may supply support materials, carry out preparations for tests during core teaching hours, coach in exam technique and familiarise pupils with the test environment. However, that guidance is not prescriptive and it is a matter for individual schools to judge how much core teaching time and other support they devote to preparing pupils for the tests.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister of Education (i) for his assessment of the total Engage Programme budget; and (ii) whether this is likely to be increased going forward.

Mr Weir: I am confident that the c£16m of funding provided during this academic year is assisting schools in addressing the effects of the disruption to learning caused by Covid-19. It is allowing them to offer additional help to those pupils most impacted by school closures and remote learning, which will help them to reach their full potential as we emerge from the pandemic that has touched all our lives over the past year.

Given the prolonged impact of Covid-19 across the education system, I intend to continue the programme during the next academic year and broaden it to include pre-school education and other early year's settings, Special schools, and Education Other Than At School settings. As a result I envisage the budget for the programme increasing for the 2021/22 academic year. I have secured funding for the period September 2021 to March 2022 and my officials are working with representatives of the education sector to develop the detail of the programme.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister of Education to provide (i) a list of settings which would qualify to hold catch-up summer schemes; and (ii) whether he has considered daycare settings.

Mr Weir: My officials are finalising the policy regarding the offer of a Summer Scheme 2021 and will be contacting schools in May to ask them to confirm if they wish to deliver such a scheme. The programme is voluntary with an emphasis on emotional health and well-being, enjoying outside activities and socialising with friends. It is not about catch up.

Schools will be asked to consider who they may be able to work with in facilitating such a scheme, for example, other schools, local councils, childcare providers, voluntary and community groups in the area and so on, if that is considered appropriate, avoiding duplication where possible.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Education following the announcement that there will not be any GCSE and A-Level exams in 2021, to outline his plans to address schools undertaking informal assessments which would put students under unnecessary stress, given that they have not have a proper year of education.

Mr Weir: Public examinations for GCSE, AS and A level qualifications were cancelled as it was not possible to proceed with standardised examinations. To ensure that qualifications can be awarded fairly, schools are required to determine grades for GCSE, AS and A level qualifications by providing a holistic and professional assessment of the evidenced standard at which a pupil is performing in the context of the specification for which they have been entered. CCEA has provided advice on the types of evidence that might be used to support the determination of grades including, previously completed class tests, previously completed coursework, performance in mock exams, work completed in class or at home including during periods of remote learning, and assessments either set by the school or using the CCEA assessment resources.

The arrangements, which are similar across all awarding bodies, have been designed to facilitate flexibility and to take account of the different levels of disruption experienced by different schools and individual pupils. It is a matter for each school to make decisions about the amount and type of evidence to support their determinations.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Education to detail (i) the number of applications received for nursery school places by location in Newry and Armagh; and (ii) the number of children who did not receive their first choice for nursery school in September 2021.

Mr Weir: The admissions process for funded pre-school education places for September 2021 is currently underway. The process for admission to pre-school education provision is preference based, and unfortunately it is not always possible to accommodate everyone's first preference. For this reason, parents are encouraged to list a number of preferences of pre-school settings that they would be happy for their children to attend.

The Education Authority has advised that the tables below provide the outcome of first preference applications received by settings during the first stage of the pre-school education admissions process in the Armagh City, Banbridge and Craigavon District Council and the Newry, Mourne and Down District Council areas respectively.

Armagh City, Banbridge and Craigavon District Council

Mr Lunn asked the Minister of Education, pursuant to AQW 17307/17-22, (i) to detail how the recurrent funding of £5 million is being or will be spent, and (ii) what economic assessment will be undertaken.

Mr Weir: £5m recurrent funding has been made available to support implementation of the Framework for Children & Young People's Emotional Health and Wellbeing in Education, with an additional £4.05m available to support nurture provision in schools. The Health Minister has agreed to provide an additional £1.5m on a recurrent basis from 2021/22 onwards.

Work is currently being progressed on the range of proposals contained within the Framework Implementation Plan – all of which have a focus on promotion, prevention and early intervention, through which Education, Health and Community services can continue to work together in an integrated way. Some of the new programmes have already commenced, including:

- Health and Social Care Trusts (HSCT) Text A Nurse service
- EA Youth Service REACH programme (Resilience Education Assisting Change to Happen) and
- The development of the CCEA Wellbeing Hub.

Each proposed programme will be subject to the normal approval processes, including economic appraisal, and regular monitoring of delivery through an outcomes based approach. A post project evaluation will be undertaken for each programme.

A broader evaluation of the overall effectiveness of the Framework and the impact on the wellbeing of children and young people will also be considered, subject to securing the additional resources required.

The Framework Implementation Plan can be accessed at Children & Young People's Emotional Health and Wellbeing in Education Framework Implementation Plan - Feb 2021.PDF (education-ni.gov.uk)

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Education to confirm (i) when he expects to make a further announcement for capital new build projects; and (ii) whether he will include St Colm's High School.

Mr Weir: It is my intention to consider a further call for major capital works projects before the end of the 2021/22 financial year. Planning and preparation for that call will commence in the near future.

The Council for Catholic Maintained Schools (CCMS), as the managing authority for St Colm's High School, will initially consider whether the school is in need of major capital funding and if so, will submit an application on behalf of the school when a call for project applications is made by the Department.

Applications received will be assessed against criteria set out in a Protocol for selection, which is published in advance of each call being made.

Department of Finance

Mr Newton asked the Minister of Finance, following an international rose breeder's announcement of a new rose to mark Northern Ireland's Centenary, whether he will give consideration to creating a display of these flowers within the Stormont Estate. (AQW 16463/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The policy on planting on the grounds of the Stormont Estate is to approve only those requests which commemorate international events such as World Aids Day or International Labour Day. In addition, given the sensitive historic and political issues involved, I would encourage you to work with the other parties represented in the Assembly to agree a proposal on this issue which is both in line with the Department policy and that is representative of our wider community. I will, of course, give any such proposal full and fair consideration.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Finance for an update on the implementation of NI Law Commission 2013 Apartments Report Recommendations. (AQW 17755/17-22)

Mr Murphy: During the previous mandate, my Department considered the Law Commission's report and undertook preliminary work in the context of developing legislation around shared property managers, including registration of such companies and codes of conduct.

There is insufficient time left in the course of this mandate to develop and finalise a Bill and take it through the various stages in the Assembly, further work is planned that will permit an incoming Executive to consider this issue next year.

Ms Bunting asked the Minister of Finance what consideration he has given to introducing legislation to regulate estate rent charges and property management companies to them into line with other jurisdictions. (AQW 17801/17-22)

Mr Murphy: My Department has undertaken preliminary work in the context of developing legislation around shared property managers, including registration of such companies and codes of conduct.

There is insufficient time left in the course of this mandate to develop and finalise a Bill and take it through the various stages in the Assembly, but further work is planned that will permit an incoming Executive to consider this issue next year.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Finance (i) for an update on his Department's review of businesses asked to repay Localised Restrictions Support Scheme grant money; (ii) how many applications are currently being held for review; and (iii) how many of the applications reviewed were deemed eligible for payment. (AQW 17844/17-22)

Mr Murphy:

- (i) Following the recent Localised Restrictions Support Scheme (LRSS) eligibility reassessment, 480 emails were issued on 31 March 2021 to applicants who were asked to repay LRSS payments. 375 of these businesses are still in an overpayment situation.
- (ii) Excluding applications being held for administrative reasons (such as duplicate applications from the same business or incorrect bank details), 806 applications are currently being held for review. This number includes the 375 referred to in part (i).
- (iii) 44 applicants have since been deemed eligible for LRSS and are no longer required to repay LRSS support.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister of Finance to detail the level of additional funding, reported in his statement of 27 April 2021, being allocated towards funding (i) for the Bright Start School Age Grant Scheme; and (ii) supporting Derry City Airport. (AQW 18013/17-22)

Mr Murphy: Treasury has advised DoF of a significant level of additional funding for 2021-22 which could not be included in the Budget 2021-22 outcome as it had not been confirmed by the Secretary of State. To ensure this funding is used effectively the Executive agreed a number of confirmed in-year allocations which were announced alongside the Budget 2021-22.

These confirmed in-year allocations include:

- (i) £1.4 million to DE for the Bright Start School Age Grant Scheme for 2021-22
- (ii) £0.9 million to DfE for the continuation of the Public Service Route between Derry and London.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Finance to detail the (i) number; and (ii) percentage of Civil Service staff who will be (a) offered; and (b) encouraged to work from home after the further easing of lockdown rules. (AQW 18025/17-22)

Mr Murphy: Civil Service employees that are able to carry out their job roles from home or remotely, in line with departmental requirements, will have the opportunity to agree with their line management the best location for them to carry out their work. At this stage we don't know what the numbers or percentages will be.

It is understood that there are some operational job roles where working remotely will not be appropriate.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Finance what criteria was used for the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme to determine if a sports club is a separate independent business to a social club which is run by the sports club.

Mr Murphy: Sports clubs are not considered to be businesses because they are not established and operated to generate a profit for the owners. Support for Sports Clubs is the responsibility of the Department for Communities.

The Localised Restriction Support Scheme (LRSS) provides support for private sector businesses, such as restaurants or shops, restricted by the Health Regulations. This includes those where an independent and separate restricted business operates from within sporting premises and is not associated with the sports club or governing body.

An applicant in these circumstances would be asked for evidence that they are a legally separate business and are managed independently of the sports club.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Finance, following the cyber-attack on the Health Service Executive in the Republic of Ireland, what assurances he can give regarding the robustness of data security in the Northern Ireland Civil Service.

Mr Murphy: Department of Finance Digital Shared Services (DSS) provide a corporate IT infrastructure service to all NICS Departments. It has implemented multi-layered technical defences to help protect NICS Departments and its network from cyber attacks.

We have complemented these technical developments with significant staff awareness materials to provide robust data security for all organisations using the NICS network.

We continue to enhance our security operations with Department of Finance services and applications regularly audited against industry standards.

Many NICS Departments manage their own specific line of business IT applications and associated governance arrangements.

Department of Health

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health to detail his Department's policy for paying staff if (i) they are isolating due to being in contact with someone who has tested positive for COVID-19; (ii) a member of their household is isolating because they have come into contact with someone who has tested positive for COVID-19; or (iii) they have to care for a child who has been sent home from school as the child has come into contact with someone who has tested positive for COVID-19.

Mr Swann (The Minister of Health):

- (i) If a member of HSC staff has had close recent contact with someone in the community who has COVID-19, they will be contacted by a representative from the Public Health Agency. If as a consequence they are advised by Public Health to self-isolate for 10 days, they must do so. It is important they notify their line manager and Occupational Health as soon as possible. Where they can be facilitated to work from home they should do so.

Staff members who are asked to remain away from work due to health reasons should suffer no financial detriment. Staff should receive their full pay, that is, the pay they would have received had they been at work.

- (ii) In this case the staff member should continue to attend work and does not need to isolate, unless the household member is symptomatic and has a positive test.

If the household member tests positive then the HSC staff member and the rest of the immediate household members of the person who has tested positive must self-isolate until 10 days after the onset of symptoms or positive test. If any of these people develop symptoms, that person should seek a test. In the event of a positive result, their clock restarts to the date of onset of symptoms and they have to self-isolate for a further 10 days.

- (iii) Children may be sent home from school when another child has received a positive COVID-19 test result if they have been determined to be a close contact following a risk assessment by the school or the PHA. The child must then self-isolate for 10 days.

The rest of the household do not need to self-isolate unless they have also been in contact with the person who has tested positive for COVID-19. PHA guidance states that only symptomatic children should be tested.

If the staff members child is not symptomatic but is required to isolate for 10 days due to contact with the person who tested positive for COVID-19, then the rest of the household including parents/guardians do not need to isolate (unless they have also been in contact with the person who tested positive) and can continue to attend work.

Isolation of the whole household would only happen if the child or another member of the household becomes symptomatic or tests positive for COVID-19.

If childcare becomes an issue, members of staff should alert their manager as soon as possible and discuss what options are available to them to enable them to remain in work if possible, while also providing childcare for their children.

Line managers are encouraged to be as flexible as possible and offer various working options where available such as working from home, temporary working arrangements, such as compressed hours, evening or weekend work, or different hours or work patterns which will also help facilitate childcare support.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health whether a mobile testing COVID-19 centre will be placed in Omagh.

Mr Swann: The location of testing facilities across Northern Ireland, including mobile testing units (MTUs), is kept under constant review.

A walk-through testing site has been located at Lisanelly Avenue, Omagh from 8th January 2021 to date.

<https://www.publichealth.hscni.net/covid-19-coronavirus/testing-and-tracing-covid-19/testing-covid-19>

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of complaints or concerns raised about the current tracheostomy tube installation system.

Mr Swann: Information provided by Health and Social Care Trusts indicates that there has been one complaint in relation to the tracheostomy tube installation system.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health where the additional asymptomatic testing centres in the Belfast area will be located.

Mr Swann: Officials in my Department are currently working with Belfast City Council and other key stakeholders to identify appropriate sites to meet the requirement for workforce asymptomatic testing in the Belfast area.

Private sector businesses with more than 50 employees who cannot work from home are eligible to receive free lateral flow tests under the DHSC funded scheme. The cost of on-site asymptomatic testing facilities, such as those at Moy Park, must be covered by the employer.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health whether the cost of testing facilities at Moy Park will be incurred by the public purse or the employer.

Mr Swann: Officials in my Department are currently working with Belfast City Council and other key stakeholders to identify appropriate sites to meet the requirement for workforce asymptomatic testing in the Belfast area.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health under what criteria would employers be asked to contribute to the costs of COVID-19 testing facilities on their premises.

Mr Swann: Officials in my Department are currently working with Belfast City Council and other key stakeholders to identify appropriate sites to meet the requirement for workforce asymptomatic testing in the Belfast area.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health how many contact tracers were recruited for each month since April 2020, broken down by type of contract (i) full time staff; (ii) part time staff; and (iii) bank staff.

Mr Swann: The Public Health Agency (PHA) has provided details on the number of contact tracers recruited for each month since April 2020 as shown in the table below.

Number of Contact Tracers Recruited	Full Time Contract	Part Time Contract	Bank Contract	Total
Apr-20	Pilot service undertaken within pre-existing Public Health Agency (PHA) staffing structures
Jun-20	0	0	6	6

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to outline the procedures that have been put in place to ensure high risk populations are targeted for contact tracing purposes for COVID-19 including (i) members of the BAME community; (ii) those living in areas of high deprivation; and (iii) those working in high risk occupations with close contact to other members of staff or the public.

Mr Swann: The Public Health Agency (PHA) has ongoing engagement where necessary with Vulnerable Groups and with the BAME (Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic) population for COVID-19 contact tracing purposes.

The Contact Tracing Vulnerable Groups Action Plan has been developed by PHA to enable and facilitate this engagement. The plan recognises the increased risks for specific vulnerable groups within the Northern Ireland population and therefore a need for pro-active steps to optimise testing, tracing and compliance with PHA COVID-19 Guidelines.

Working with a range of bodies including for example the Inter-Ethnic Forum and the South Tyrone Empowerment Programme (STEP), and through the Health and Safety Executive and workplace networks, PHA targets messaging to specific communities or workplaces where required. This includes for example to publicise and raise awareness when Mobile Testing Units are deployed in response to local need.

The Contact Tracing Service (CTS) has access to interpreter services to facilitate communication with those for whom English is not their first language. Information on COVID-19 is available in a number of alternative languages and formats on the PHA website and through social media channels.

Where a case or contact advises that they work in health or social care, the PHA undertakes a more detailed risk assessment of their circumstances to inform necessary actions.

When PHA identifies a cluster or outbreak or an increase of COVID-19 cases in a geographic location, its Health Improvement Team works as necessary with local networks and services, including HSC Trusts, District Councils and the Department for Communities, to ensure support for high risk or vulnerable communities. In the course of engagement with cases and contacts, PHA can also connect people with sources of practical support through links with Advice NI as required.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health how Multi-Disciplinary Teams involved in the assessment of autism are currently completing these assessments.

Mr Swann: Whilst COVID-19 has had a significant impact on the delivery of autism assessments for children, I am aware that multi-disciplinary teams within our Trusts have been working diligently, both nationally and internationally, to identify alternative methods of delivering assessments for children which is compliant to NICE Guidelines, whilst still adhering to public health guidelines and social distancing restrictions. Clinicians have continued collating case histories and providing support and interventions for those families awaiting assessment through telephone consultation sessions or the use of technology, based on a case by case basis and the individual needs of children and families involved. Clinicians were, for a period of time, unable to conduct the observational element of assessment, Autism Diagnostic Observational Schedule (ADOS), as a result of the restrictions and the impact of PPE on the individual being assessed. This would render the assessment invalid. However, alternative methods of deploying this aspect of assessment have now been implemented by multi-disciplinary teams through the use of technology and also by securing additional accommodation to enable socially distanced observational assessments to be undertaken and ensure all public health guidelines are adhered to.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Health when tonsillectomy procedures will recommence.

Mr Swann: As we emerge from the latest wave of the pandemic, the focus of our health service will continue to be on resetting all elective services in an environment that is safe for both staff and patients. Health and Social Care (HSC) Trusts are working with clinicians and the HSC Board to prioritise the care needs of patients who have been referred into the HSC and also to ensure that all available capacity is utilised in a consistent and transparent manner.

The HSC Board is continuing to work with independent sector healthcare providers in order to increase the capacity available to the HSC to provide elective care, including tonsillectomy procedures, in the coming months.

The latest Trust rebuild plans are available at: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/publications/rebuilding-health-and-social-care-services-phase-5-plans>

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health for an update on the planned full resumption of adult and child respite services.

Mr Swann: Respite and short breaks services are open at a reduced capacity, in line with Infection Prevention Control (IPC) requirements and social distancing guidelines. IPC and social distancing guidelines are subject to regular review cognisant of the rollout and effectiveness of the vaccine programme and rates of infection.

Services are continuously monitored and assessed so that service uptake and unfilled spaces are reallocated where possible to do so. Aligned to this process, Trusts have been working with families and community colleagues to scope additional/ alternative supports, including Direct Payments and domiciliary care.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of the NI Human Rights Commission Annual statement on health-related rights.

Mr Swann: I welcome the Annual Statement from the Human Rights Commission and will work, as far as practicable in current circumstances, to progress the relevant issues raised.

You may be interested to note progress on the following:

Children missing from care - There is currently a joint HSC/PSNI Strategic Action Plan on Missing Children. This includes work to revise the Missing Children Protocol which was last updated in 2015. The aim of the revised protocol is to contextualise missing children in the context of a therapeutic understanding of their needs and presenting risks so that interventions and responses are appropriate and attuned to their needs. This work will consider revising the grading of risks to focus more specifically on each child's individual circumstances, patterns of going missing, intelligence relating to their missing episodes, and known risks. In addition a review of the overarching Strategic Action Plan will also be undertaken jointly with PSNI.

Implementation of legislative reform on termination of Pregnancy –You will be aware that this issue is subject to Judicial Review and I am unable to comment at this stage.

A free-standing offence for a care worker, who ill-treats or wilfully neglects - The Department carried out a recent consultation on legislative options to inform an Adult Protection Bill for Northern Ireland which sought views on whether new offences should be considered to address ill-treatment and wilful neglect. The proposed offences include introducing new 'care worker' and 'care provider' offences, similar to those already introduced in other parts of the UK. The consultation ran for 16 weeks up to Thursday 8 April. The next steps will be to analyse the results of the consultation before developing the final policy in advance of preparing the draft Bill.

An action plan for female genital mutilation in NI - A number of measures are in place and underway:

- Work to update the 2014 Multi-agency practice guidelines on Female Genital Mutilation (FGM) for frontline safeguarding professionals in Northern Ireland is currently ongoing in the context of other Departmental priorities.
- A cross-Departmental Child Protection Senior Officials Group oversees a work plan to protect girls at risk of FGM.
- Regional training, practice guidance and care pathways are in place to assist those health care professionals who may encounter FGM. Safeguarding measures include awareness raising of the risks of the practice among communities.
- NI Maternity systems record at maternity appointments if a woman/girl has been previously subjected to FGM.
- The Department is amending the Children Order to add proceedings for FGMPOs to the list of family proceedings. This will allow an applicant for an FGMPO to also apply for a care or supervision order as part of the same proceedings, rather than having to make separate applications for such orders. It will also enable a court, when dealing with an application for an FGMPO, to make other orders regarding the welfare of the child. This will increase the ability of the court to act quickly to protect children at risk.

An Adoption and Children Act in NI - Drafting of the Adoption and Children Bill has now been completed and work is ongoing to secure the final, necessary approvals to enable the Bill to be introduced in the Northern Ireland Assembly as soon as possible in the current mandate.

Processing of confidential information under the Health and Social Care (Control of Data Processing) Act 2016 - The Department places great importance on the completion of work on regulations governing the Secondary Use of Patient Identifiable Information arising from the Health and Social Care (Control of Data Processing) Act 2016. However, for the past 12 months departmental resources have been reallocated to support the Department's response to the Covid-19 pandemic.

The complex work to develop regulations for consideration by the Health Committee and the full Assembly has restarted. Health officials intend to include discussion on Secondary use of Patient Identifiable Information within the planned public engagement on a "Data Strategy for the use of Health and Social Care information". The initial phase of this work will be a consultation with key stakeholders. Draft regulations will be brought to the Assembly for formal consideration once consultations have concluded.

Analysis of the efficient and effective delivery of health and social care services is already undertaken on a daily basis using anonymised, non-attributable data, in line with best practice in the production of statistics and use of sensitive, confidential personal healthcare data.

Amendment or policy direction to ensure a full set of General Practitioner services is genuinely available to any person, including undocumented or irregular migrants - Eligibility to access publicly funded healthcare in Northern Ireland is based on ordinary residence. A person will be ordinarily resident when that residence is lawful, voluntary and for a settled purpose as part of the regular order of life for the time being. Anyone who is ordinarily resident in Northern Ireland is eligible to access publicly funded healthcare.

A person who is not ordinarily resident is a visitor. Access to healthcare in Northern Ireland is provided to visitors with exemptions being regulated for under the Health and Personal Social Services Provision of Health Services to Persons Not Ordinarily Resident Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2015 ("the Regulations") provide that some services are always exempt from charge whilst some categories of visitor are exempt from charge. The services which are always exempt from charge include

- accident and emergency services up until the point of admission into hospital and emergency treatment from a GP;
- family planning services;
- diagnosis and treatment of sexually transmitted infections;
- diagnosis and treatment of certain infectious diseases including COVID-19, and
- treatment for persons detained under the Mental Health Act.

The categories of visitor which are exempt from charge include refugees and asylum seekers, including failed asylum seekers, victims, and suspected victims of human trafficking and those individuals who are determined to be exempt from charge on exceptional humanitarian grounds.

Under the Health and Personal Social Services (General Medical Services Contracts) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2004, GP practices provide services to patients who are registered with them, to temporary residents or to patients where emergency or immediate necessary treatment is required.

Regarding access to GP and other primary health care services, Northern Ireland, as with the rest of the UK, has a system whereby anyone can get an emergency appointment or immediately necessary treatment with a GP in the locality where they are staying. This also applies to those with no fixed address.

Dedicated Emergency Department minimum care standards - In addition to existing Ministerial standards and indicators of care, there has been significant work into protecting standards of care in Emergency Departments in recent years, including the development of a "Compassion and Care in the ED" toolkit, new complaints procedures in each Trust, and the development of escalation plans for each Trust which take a stepped approach during times of increased demands.

It is also worth noting that we are currently in a period of significant reform of urgent and emergency care in NI. The forthcoming Review of Urgent and Emergency Care will set out a proposed integrated urgent and emergency care system which will deliver a safer, more effective service to patients.

A Review of Mental Capacity (NI) Act 2016 regarding mental health treatment of children below the age of 16 - When fully commenced the Mental Capacity Act (NI) 2016 will provide a statutory framework for decision making when a person over the age of 16 lacks capacity. This will be fusion legislation encompassing both mental capacity and mental health legislation. As such the Mental Health (NI) Order 1986 will be repealed for those over 16. For those under 16 the Order will continue to operate. Schedule 8 of the Mental Capacity Act amends the Order to provide additional safeguards in relation to best interests and ensuring the voice of the young person is considered in the decision making. It is expected that the amendments to the Order will be commenced at the same time as the Act is fully commenced (and replaces the Order for over 16s). There is currently no date set for full commencement of the Act.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health to detail the waiting lists for addiction services in Belfast, broken down by district. (AQW 17062/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department does not hold this information centrally and it was requested from Belfast Health and Social Care (HSC) Trust. Belfast HSC Trust have provided information pertaining to waiting lists for the Trust's Community Addiction Team.

Please find information detailed below.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister of Health what progress has been made on the plans to reopen and to provide day centre and respite care for people with disabilities and older people.

Mr Swann: Day centre and respite care services are open at a reduced capacity, in line with Infection Prevention Control (IPC) requirements and social distancing guidelines. IPC and social distancing guidelines are subject to regular review cognisant of the rollout and effectiveness of the vaccine programme and rates of infection.

Services are continuously monitored and assessed so that service uptake and unfilled spaces are reallocated where possible to do so. Aligned to this process, Trusts have been working with families and community colleagues to scope additional/ alternative supports, including Direct Payments, and domiciliary and respite options.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health to outline the timescale for Dementia Service Improvement Leads returning to their roles.

Mr Swann: Dementia Service Leads in four of the Health and Social Care Trusts have already returned to their roles. Belfast Trust's will return to their role on 3 May 2021.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of respite (i) learning disability care beds; (ii) residential care beds; (iii) nursing care beds; and (iv) mental health care beds, in each constituency.

Mr Swann: The Department does not hold this information centrally and it was requested from the Health and Social Care (HSC) Trusts.

The number of respite beds / short break beds, by HSC Trust, for the client groups 'Learning Disability' and 'Mental Health' is set out in Table 1. The number of respite beds / short break beds, by HSC Trust, situated within 'Residential Care' and 'Nursing Care' is set out in Table 2.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister of Health whether the Western Health and Social Care Trust ceased the administration of the MS drug Ocrevus during the pandemic; and what plans he has to ease the backlog in the Western Trust area given that a quick referral for Ocrevus is necessary in most MS cases.

Mr Swann: Ocrelizumab (Ocrevus) for treating multiple sclerosis (MS) is administered as an infusion during an outpatient appointment once every 6 months. In line with the regional approach to the first surge of the pandemic, the Western Health and Social Care Trust temporarily suspended ocrelizumab (Ocrevus) infusions in March 2020. They were recommenced in summer 2020. The current backlog is being addressed with the addition of Waiting List Initiative clinics.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister of Health, pursuant AQW 16763/17-22 and given the 18 month waiting time for some referrals, whether he will develop a stand alone strategy to develop occupational therapy services for the elderly.

Mr Swann: There are currently no plans to develop a standalone strategy to develop occupational therapy services for the elderly. However, the Department has carried out a series of AHP workforce reviews including into Occupational Therapy to ensure the availability of an AHP workforce capable of meeting current and future service needs. We hope to have this paper published in the near future. This is a living document which will be continuously reviewed to take account of additional requirements as service needs arise including the impacts of Covid-19.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health for an update on developing a Cancer Strategy for Northern Ireland.

Mr Swann: Delivery of the Cancer Strategy was delayed for a short period due to the redeployment of staff in response to the global pandemic. However, work has resumed fully on this programme of work and I expect that it will be available for external consultation through the summer of 2021.

Under the Cancer Strategy remit, my Department with support from the Health and Social Care Board, has prepared a draft COVID-19 recovery plan 'Building Back; Rebuilding Better'. The plan is fully aligned with the cancer strategy and targets and addresses cancer services impacted by the pandemic and will focus on a 3 year period until March 2024. The plan identifies and seeks to implement a range of actions to support and recover these services over a 3 year timeframe. There are significant costs associated with the plan and delivery will be subject to receiving the required level of investment.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health whether he has made any bids for additional resources to help clear surgery waiting lists.

Mr Swann: In acknowledging the additional pressures placed on waiting lists which has been exacerbated by Covid-19 my Department made a bid of £30.3m to the Department of Finance as part of the 2021/22 Budget Exercise in respect of Elective Services.

While this bid for additional funding was not met specifically my Department did receive Covid Rebuild funding of which I intend to use some £40m to fund Waiting List Initiatives and other Elective developments including orthopaedics.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister of Health whether vets and veterinary surgeons are on the priority vaccination list; and to outline for the rationale for this position.

Mr Swann: The vaccination policy in Northern Ireland is based on the recommendations and advice provided by the independent Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation (JCVI) which advises the 4 UK Health Ministers.

JCVI advice on prioritisation of the vaccine was published on 2nd December 2020. The ranking of priorities is a combination of clinical risk stratification and an age-based approach, which should optimise both targeting and deliverability: <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/priority-groups-for-coronavirus-covid-19-vaccination-advice-from-the-jcvi-2-december-2020>

JCVI has advised that the first priorities for the COVID-19 vaccination programme should be the prevention of mortality and the maintenance of the health and social care systems. As the risk of mortality from COVID-19 increases with age, prioritisation is primarily based on age.

Beyond health and social care workers and care home workers, JCVI have not recommended prioritisation for vaccination based on occupation. As such, Vets and their staff will be vaccinated in line with the age or clinical cohort of the population they belong to.

I am aware that other groups have asked to be considered a priority group due to the nature of their work. Whilst I understand the desire to be vaccinated as soon as possible it is essential that we concentrate on those at the greatest risk from the effects of COVID-19.

Please be assured that the COVID-19 vaccination programme in NI is continuing at pace and we are currently inviting those who are 35 years old and over to book their vaccinations. With view to offer to further age cohorts in the near future.

Mr T Buchanan asked the Minister of Health how many children, in each Health and Social Care Trust, who have been assessed by a paediatric ophthalmology and referred for surgery, have had their surgery in each of the last 3 years. (AQW 17610/17-22)

Mr Swann: The information requested is not held within the Department. The question was put forward to the Health and Social Care Trusts for their responses. Paediatric Ophthalmology Surgery is only carried out in the Belfast and Western Health and Social Care Trusts. Please see below tabulated information provided by Belfast and Western Health and Social Care Trusts.

Total Number of Paediatric (under 18) Elective Ophthalmology Procedures.

2018/19	316	84

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health how many patients accessing Health and Social Care services are prescribed cannabis medicines; and how many residents of Northern Ireland are known to be on prescriptions for cannabis medicines via the Independent Sector. (AQW 17639/17-22)

Mr Swann: There were 188 patients accessing Health and Social Care services who were prescribed cannabis medicines between 1st January and 31st December 2020.

It is not known how many residents of Northern Ireland are on prescriptions for cannabis medicines via the Independent Sector.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of the impact of the Protocol on Ireland/Northern Ireland on the supply of podiatry products from GB to the public and private sectors; and what consequential representations have been made by his Department. (AQW 17643/17-22)

Mr Swann: The UK Government and my Department have been supporting industry to adapt to changes for supplying medicines and medical devices to the Northern Ireland market from 1 January 2021.

Department officials have been dealing with a range of issues involving delays to medicine and medical device supplies. The majority related to trader readiness and most have been satisfactorily resolved at this stage.

My officials recently met with members of the College of Podiatry and a major GB supplier in relation to the continuing supply of Podiatry products to the Northern Ireland sector. A number of issues were raised relating to the supply of podiatry products including trader and courier readiness. Further engagement with my Department has been agreed, with a particular focus on Trader Readiness and courier transportation.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of the online petition from Marie Curie which has been signed by more than 10,200 people across Northern Ireland and calls for end of life care and bereavement support to be prioritised in the draft Programme for Government. (AQW 17682/17-22)

Mr Swann: An All Party Assembly Motion on 27 April 2021 called on the Northern Ireland Executive to ensure that the draft Programme for Government Outcomes Framework includes indicators around death, dying and bereavement and the importance of a good end of life experience for people in Northern Ireland.

During the debate, I assured Members of my support for dying, death and bereavement to be included in the Programme for Government and for palliative and end of life care and support in bereavement to be an intrinsic part of the Executive's collective vision to support all our citizens, from the start to the end of their lives.

It is important to recognise also that dying, death and bereavement are not just matters for Health and Social Care but require a public health approach that draws on the expertise and experience of the wider community working in partnership with Government Departments and other organisations and agencies.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health how many private child autism diagnoses have been accepted by each Health and Social Care Trust over the last three years.

Mr Swann: The number of private child autism diagnoses is not held by my Department, nor is this readily available from current Health and Social Care Trust information systems. To access this information a manual trawl would be required of hundreds of files at a disproportionate cost.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Health what steps his Department is taking to ensure quality respiratory care provision for people living in rural communities.

Mr Swann: The Health and Social Care Board (HSCB) commissions respiratory care in both acute and community settings across the whole of Northern Ireland as part of the overall Service and Budget Agreements (SBAs) with each of the Health and Social Care Trusts.

The SBAs do not include commissioning of respiratory services particularly for people living in rural communities, but do include the provision of services by community respiratory teams who help support people with respiratory illness in the community or primary care settings closer to the patient's home rather than a need to attend for outpatient/treatment in a hospital setting.

In 2016 the Regulation and Quality Improvement Authority carried out a review of Community Respiratory Services. The review recognised the very committed community respiratory services workforce, who provide a patient-centred service for those with long-term respiratory conditions but highlighted the need for equal service provision for every patient across Northern Ireland and for stronger integration across primary, community and acute services.

A Community Respiratory Services Review by the Regional Respiratory Forum NI in 2019 included a scoping exercise of community services. Whilst there was a degree in variation across HSC Trusts, all Trusts provided services for patients with Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD) with 4 out of 5 Trusts providing Bronchiectasis, Interstitial Lung Disease (ILD), Pulmonary Rehabilitation, and Oxygen Services. Some Trusts work closely with their palliative care teams and district nurses in caring for end stage respiratory patients.

The review set out a number of recommendations prioritising the following 5 developments:

- 1 Increase capacity and resources for pulmonary rehabilitation in community settings especially in HSC Trusts with waiting lists
- 2 Increase capacity of community services for patients with bronchiectasis to improve quality of care, patient experience and outcomes in HSC Trust that are currently unable to meet recommended standards of care.
- 3 Resource and implement the ILD network service model proposed in 2016 to support full implementation of NICE technology assessments of antifibrotic medication.
- 4 Review staffing requirements in all HSC Trusts for home oxygen services to take account of growing population need.
- 5 Resource all HSC Trusts for consultant and specialist nurse long term ventilation leadership to improve care of this rapidly growing patient cohort.

Whilst the Covid-19 Pandemic has impacted on the ability to progress the recommendations, the HSCB is preparing a more strategic approach to planning of respiratory care in Northern Ireland. It will be necessary to develop new services over time and this would include ensuring that the needs of rural populations are assessed and met.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of the benefits of increasing the number of Pre-Registration Occupational Therapy places from 50, as recommended in the workforce review, to 70 places annually to maximise the capability and flexibility of the workforce as outlined in the Strategic Framework for Rebuilding HSC Services.

Mr Swann: Any increase to pre-registration numbers to any Health and Social Care profession is to be welcomed.

Any additional increases to Occupational Therapy undergraduate numbers will serve to help deliver on the rebuild and redesign of Health and Social Care services.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health how many recall letters have been issued to the former patients of Dr.Watt.
(AQW 17768/17-22)

Mr Swann: A total of 276 Cohort 3 neurology patient recall letters have been issued to patients; 209 by the Belfast HSC Trust, 57 by the Ulster Independent Clinic and 10 by the Hillsborough Private Clinic.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister of Health to list the hospitals, other than Mid Ulster, Dungannon and Downpatrick, that are offering emergency cataract procedures.

Mr Swann: Cataract procedures are elective in nature and, whilst some may be prioritised as urgent, they are not deemed to be emergency interventions.

Prototype Cataract Day Procedure Centres (DPCs) were established at Downe, Mid Ulster, and South Tyrone Hospitals to deal with non-complex cataract cases.

Complex cataract procedures continue to be delivered, where possible, at Altnagelvin Hospital and Omagh Hospital and Primary Care Complex (Western HSC Trust) and at Royal Victoria and Mater Hospitals (Belfast HSC Trust).

While Covid-19 has inevitably impacted on service delivery, urgent treatments have been undertaken in both the HSC and as part of waiting list initiatives within the Independent Sector.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of (i) nurses; and (ii) midwives that have retired or left the Health Service, in each of the last five years.

Mr Swann: Information on the number of registered nurses and midwives leaving Health and Social Care (HSC) organisations in each of the last five years is provided in the table below. The information presented has been calculated by comparing snapshots of directly employed HSC staff in post at 31 March each year, for example those who appeared on the March 2019 dataset but not March 2020 were classed as leavers in 2019/20. Figures will include staff who have left HSC organisations due to retirement or for other reasons in a particular year, however not all leavers may be permanent as some may re-join HSC again at a later date. In addition these leavers from HSC organisations could be taking up employment in another part of the wider health & social care system e.g. general practice or nursing home care. Figures presented may exclude some short-term staff who were not captured on one or both datasets.

Registered Nursing & Midwifery Staff Leaving HSC organisations in each year

Year	Registered Nurses	Registered Midwives
2019/20	1,043	57

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Health whether there is a shortage of shower seats for people who are discharged from hospital; and what is the average waiting time for supply of a shower seat in each Health and Social Care Trust.
(AQW 17799/17-22)

Mr Swann: There is currently no shortage of shower seats for people after they are discharged from Hospital. Regionally, a number of Trusts reported some temporary and short-term issues with supply, some of which were related to COVID and/or EU Exit, however these have since been resolved.

The average waiting time in each of the Health and Social Care trusts is dependent on the type of shower seat required and varies from Trust to Trust.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister of Health what plans his Department has to increase the provision of mental health services in the Limavady area.
(AQW 17805/17-22)

Mr Swann: Mental health services in the Limavady area will continue to benefit proportionally from any future investment in these services in the Western Trust.

Ms Rogan asked the Minister of Health to outline the timeline for the installation of an MRI scanner at Downe Hospital, from when the need for the scanner was first accepted by the South Eastern Health and Social Care Trust to the projected installation date.

Mr Swann: The South Eastern Health and Social Care Trust submitted a proposal for a new MRI scanner in the Downe Hospital as part of a capital planning review exercise in 2018. A bid for the funding of a regional programme for diagnostic and imaging equipment was resubmitted to the Department of Finance in September 2020 as part of a four year capital budget information gathering exercise, however only a one year settlement has been confirmed for the 2021/22 financial year. My Department is unable to commence any significant new investments that will continue beyond this financial year.

The Trust is currently developing a business case for the MRI scanner and will be invited to submit this to my Department once funding is confirmed.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health for an update on the (i) status; and (ii) outcome of the consultations that have been undertaken by the Department of Health since 2016, excluding NICE clinical guideline consultations.

Mr Swann: Since 2016 there have been 56 consultations (excluding NICE) listed on the Department's website: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/consultations>

Some consultations are UK wide, led by GB departments. All, bar one, are closed; the Public Consultation on the introduction of a statutory Duty of Candour in Northern Ireland published on 12 April is due to close 2 August 2021. The outcomes of the consultations are diverse and are not replicable in this format.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health whether patients in receipt of nursing care outside a hospital setting, who requested an unacknowledged and unfulfilled assessment under Continuing Healthcare prior to February 2021, will have that request honoured and assessed according to the ECCU guidance 2010.

Mr Swann: Patients in receipt of nursing care outside of a hospital setting, who requested an assessment be carried out prior to 11 February 2021, should have had the request considered in line with the guidance contained in ECCU 1/2010 Care Management, Provision of Services and Charging Guidance, by the relevant Trust. However, as this is an operational matter, any specific issues regarding an individual case should be raised with the local HSC Trust.

The Department is currently reviewing the relevant HSC circular, to ensure that it reflects the new policy position in respect of how new applications and existing applications already in the system, should be handled.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health (i) how many vaccine registrations have been taken to date; (ii) how many of these have been administered; and (iii) how many have been refused.

Mr Swann: The uptake for the COVID-19 vaccination is generally high, with a high number of those invited for vaccine accepting the offer. With 935, 589 first dose vaccinations having been administered and 377,302 people having had two doses.

The vaccination programme is ongoing and individuals from all eligible cohorts continue to come forward. We are currently inviting those over 35 to book their vaccinations. We hope that open this to the next age cohort in the near future.

The department does not record who have not booked for vaccinations but rather those who have attended this can be found on the NI Covid – 19 Vaccinations Dashboard located at:

Figures below show the percentages of people vaccinated within each cohort as of close of play on the 27th April 2021:

- |  |   |
|--|---|
| ■ CEV: 53% first dose, 13% second dose.              | ■ 70-74 years old: 91% first dose 28%, second dose. |
| ■ Moderate Risk: 87% first dose, 4% second dose.     | ■ 65-69 years old: 81% first dose, 64% second dose. |
| ■ Practice staff: 86% first dose, 28% second dose.   | ■ 60-64 years old: 42 % first dose.                 |
| ■ Carers: 84 % first dose, 2% second dose.           | ■ 55-59 years old: 37% first dose.                  |
| ■ Trust others: 100% first dose 82%, second dose,    | ■ 50-54 years old: 38% first dose.                  |

The member will be aware that an individual may have eligibility outside their age cohort by virtue of occupation, carer or clinical status.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health to confirm whether parent and toddler groups can meet in outdoor settings once again.

Mr Swann: Under the current COVID-19 Regulations parent and toddler groups are covered by the "Restrictions on Gatherings". Currently, up to ten people (including children of all ages) from a maximum of two households can meet outdoors, and up to six people from a maximum of two households can meet in non-domestic indoor settings.

In a parent and toddler group setting the group organiser would constitute one of the two permitted households. This means that they cannot operate with more than one other household at present until such times as restrictions on normal gatherings are relaxed.

Mr Wells asked the Minister of Health why those who are clinically vulnerable and are shielding cannot yet receive a COVID-19 vaccine if their 16th birthday is after 31 March 2021; and whether he plans to allow this group to now receive a vaccine.

Mr Swann: Please note that following a reviews, a new cut-off point of the 30 June 2021 is in place for CEV and CV individuals turning 16 years of age.

Therefore those who are 16 years old at 30th June 2021 will be eligible for vaccination.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health, given the findings cited in the hyponatremia public inquiry by Justice O'Hara, how many clinicians are now under GMC investigation.

Mr Swann: The GMC have considered all doctors mentioned in the Inquiry report, including those who self-referred. Currently there are four doctors who remain subject to open cases.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister of Health (i) why a cancer patient under the care of the Belfast Health and Social Care Trust has received no contact or support from the Trust; (ii) how this delay will impact on the patient's survival rate; and (iii) how this situation matches the statement of the Trust saying all patients are being monitored.

Mr Swann: It would be highly inappropriate to discuss sensitive details of an individual's care in an Assembly Question.

Questions about an individual's care should be dealt with through confidential correspondence directed through my private office or directly to the HSC Trust.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister of Health what additional provision his Department is planning for services directed at supporting under 18's with drug or alcohol addiction in the (i) Limavady; and (ii) Coleraine areas.

Mr Swann: The Public Health Agency and the Health & Social Care Board currently commission and fund a full range of services that provide information, education and advice, intervention initiatives, and more specialist interventions and treatment specifically to children and young people presenting with alcohol and drug problems which are available in each Health & Social Care Trust area across Northern Ireland, including the Western and Northern Trusts which cover the Limavady and Coleraine areas respectively. More information on these services can be found at: <http://services.drugsandalcoholni.info/>

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health how often the Transformation Advisory Board has been involved in departmental decisions on transformation, including the number of meetings since June 2020.

Mr Swann: The role of the TAB is to support and advise me on the approach to Transformation in the context of broader strategic factors and considerations.

There have been four TAB meetings since June 2020.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health to detail the relevant charging policy under the new Continuing Health Care eligibility criteria for those individuals receiving a nursing service, in a facility outside a hospital setting.

Mr Swann: The new Continuing Healthcare Policy has introduced the single eligibility criteria question, can your care needs be properly met in any other setting other than a hospital? If the answer is "yes", then the individual will be discharged to the appropriate care setting and depending on the type of care package, be subject to the relevant charging policy. The charging policies have not changed.

In relation to receiving a nursing service the current charging policy in Northern Ireland is based on the principle that help should be given to those who cannot afford to help themselves. If an individual requires care in a nursing home, then the HSC Trust will make a weekly payment of £100 directly to the nursing home to cover the cost of providing the nursing care.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health when respite services and day centres will resume in full for service users and carers. (AQW 17939/17-22)

Mr Swann: Day centres and respite care services are open at a reduced capacity, in line with Infection Prevention Control (IPC) requirements and social distancing guidelines. IPC and social distancing guidelines are subject to regular review cognisant of the rollout and effectiveness of the vaccine programme and rates of infection. As a result, increases in service provision are unlikely until such times as the guidance or requirements have been relaxed.

Services are continuously monitored and assessed so that service uptake and unfilled spaces are reallocated where possible to do so. Aligned to this process, Trusts have been working with families and community colleagues to scope additional/ alternative supports, including Direct Payments, and domiciliary and respite options.

Ms Bunting asked the Minister of Health, in circumstances where a constituent presents in desperation for, and in urgent need of, addiction treatment, (i) whether a 10 day response period from the Belfast Health and Social Care Trust is adequate; and (ii) what will he do to streamline response times and action taken to ensure addicts and their elected representatives are provided with the necessary information, support and pathways to prevent potential relapse. (AQW 17948/17-22)

Mr Swann: Belfast Health & Social Care Trust (BHSCT) has advised me that addiction services are currently provided in line with NICE guidelines. For patients seeking addiction treatment in a 'crisis' situation who require urgent physical or mental health care, assessment will be undertaken and appropriate onward referral made.

BHSCT provides timely access to addiction services. There are a range of both statutory and Community and Voluntary sector services available to meet the requirements of patients at different steps along their recovery journey. These can be accessed through discussion with a GP and/or by referral to the BHSCT Community Addiction Service. In addition, a directory of substance use related services is available online at: <https://drugsandalcoholni.info/>.

The Department is currently leading on the co-development of our new substance use strategy, working in partnership with key stakeholders, including service users and their families. The public consultation on this new strategy closed in late February, and officials are currently analysing the many responses received with a view to finalising & publishing, subject to the necessary approvals.

The vision of the new strategy is: "People in Northern Ireland are supported in the prevention and reduction of harm and stigma related to the use of alcohol and other drugs, have access to high quality treatment and support services, and will be empowered to maintain recovery."

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 5806/17-22, what engagement his Department has had with arm's-lengths bodies, including Health and Social Care Trusts, on live streaming their Board meetings. (AQW 17962/17-22)

Mr Swann: On foot of a query from a member of the public, my officials engaged with Belfast Health and Social Care Trust who advised of their intention to live stream meetings from 1 April 2021. All Health ALBs are required to make arrangements to provide the public with access to Board meetings; the format and provision of public access to board meetings is a matter for the individual ALB Boards, in line with covid regulations.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to outline the current review programme for the Regulation and Quality Improvement Authority. (AQW 17963/17-22)

Mr Swann: The current RQIA Review Programme is set out below:

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Health for an update on the £500 special recognition payment for Health Service staff.
(AQW 17986/17-22)

Mr Swann: An FAQ on the special recognition payment, which includes eligibility criteria, has been published on my Department's website and is available at the following link;

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/news/hsc-staff-recognition-payment-faqs>

My officials are currently finalising the scheme to enable payment as soon as possible. As soon as any further information is available, it will be published on the FAQ.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health for an update on Minimum Unit Pricing consultation, including possible options for consideration.

Mr Swann: Minimum Unit Pricing: All-Ireland Basis

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health what discussions he has had with counterparts in Dublin on the introduction of Minimum Unit Pricing for Alcohol legislation on an all-Ireland basis, including a list of dates on which formal ministerial meetings occurred.

Mr Swann: I met with Frank Feighan TD, Minister for State for Public Health, Wellbeing and the National Drugs Strategy in Ireland on 16 February 2021 to discuss Minimum Unit Pricing (MUP) for Alcohol. We also discussed the issue during the British-Irish Council Ministerial Meeting of the Misuse of Substances Work Sector chaired by Minister Feighan on 11 March 2021.

At these meetings, we both acknowledged the evidence from the Scottish model demonstrated that introducing MUP could be an effective measure for reducing the harms that can be caused by alcohol consumption.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health for an update on the timeframe of the completion of the substance use strategy and the publication of a Minimum Unit Pricing consultation.

Mr Swann: As part of the co-production approach to the strategy development, the consultation responses are being analysed and discussed with the co-production writing group. The final strategy will then be subject to the necessary approvals process both within the Department and at the Executive. Subject to these necessary approvals, it is expected that a final Substance Use Strategy will be launched in the coming weeks.

I believe that the introduction of legislation for Minimum Unit Pricing (MUP) for alcohol has the potential to be a key population-level health measure to address the harms related to alcohol consumption. I have therefore made a commitment to have a full consultation on MUP within a year of our new substance use strategy being published.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health how many legal cases Brett Lockhart QC is involved in with his Department or Health and Social Care Trusts, other than the neurology recall.

Mr Swann: Mr Brett Lockhart QC is the Chairperson of the Independent Neurology Inquiry (INI). The INI operates independently of all organisations, including the Department of Health. The INI does not have responsibility for the recall of neurology patients; that is the responsibility of the Belfast Health and Social Care Trust. The Terms of Reference for the INI are available at: www.neurologyinquiry.org.uk.

Mr Lockhart is not involved in any legal cases with the Department of Health or any of the Health and Social Care Trusts.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health whether further consideration has been given to ring fencing funds garnered through the Soft Drinks Industry Levy to address conditions such as obesity and type 2 diabetes.

Mr Swann: The revenue raised from the SDIL is not set aside by the UK Government to be used to address specific issues and is received as an increase to the Northern Ireland Block Grant to be distributed across NI Departments by the Department of Finance.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister of Health what conversations he has had with his counterparts in the UK Government regarding aid that can be given to India to help with the pandemic.

Mr Swann: I have been in discussion with my counterparts in the UK Government regarding the UK's response to India's COVID-19 crisis. As has been announced I offered three Oxygen Pressure Swing Absorption generator sets and these have been gratefully accepted. In addition I can confirm that NI is providing more than 500,000 lateral flow device tests to support the UK aid package.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of missed medical appointments in each of the past three years, broken down by Health and Social Care Trust.

Mr Swann: Data relating to outpatient activity, including the number of appointments patients missed/did not attend (DNA), are published annually by financial year. The number of missed outpatient appointments, known as DNAs (Did Not Attend) is defined as 'the number of patients who did not attend, and failed to give advance warning to the hospital, for an outpatient appointment. This includes patients who cancelled their outpatient appointment on the same day on which the appointment was scheduled. These should not be confused with those who could not attend and who did warn the hospital in advance (before the day on which the appointment was scheduled)'.

The most recent publication was released in August 2020 and can be found at the following link:

Table 1 provides a breakdown of missed outpatient appointments in the past three years by HSC Trust.

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Health what plans he has to integrate community pharmacy into electronic solutions to support patient care, including repeat prescriptions; and to detail the level of capital funding to support this initiative.

Mr Swann: Work has begun on a programme of work, led by the Health and Social Care Board to consider options for replacement of the current written prescription system with an electronic prescribing system. This aims to improve the patient experience by streamlining the entire prescribing and dispensing process.

As this work is still at a relatively early stage, it is not possible to detail the level of capital funding that will be needed to support this initiative although it is hoped that we may be in a position to possibly identify and procure a suitable IT solution to progress this programme of work during 2022 thus enabling the project to move into implementation during 2023 at the earliest.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health to outline the services that his Department is providing in partnership with the Department for Communities in tackling poverty and deprivation.

Mr Swann: The Department of Health works in partnership with the Department for Communities on a range of issues relating to poverty and deprivation.

These include;

Health Inequalities

The work of the PHA to improve health and wellbeing and tackle health inequalities. This work specifically recognises and targets those groups and communities where poverty is likely to be a significant factor such as those who experience homelessness, people with a disability and people with mental health problems.

The Public Health Agency has developed a short, medium and long-term plan for the post pandemic recovery of health improvement services, the majority of which are focussed in the most deprived communities.

Some examples are investment projects to improve levels of physical activity, smoking cessation, stress reduction, breastfeeding and nutrition, fuel poverty and food poverty.

The PHA works closely with DfC on these initiatives.

Homelessness

My Department also works in partnership with the DfC on Homelessness and contributes to the DfC led inter-departmental Homelessness Strategy. Work to date has included the establishment and expansion of a health hub in the Belfast area for those experiencing homelessness and the development of a Homelessness Practice Framework for the social work profession in NI.

Specific pandemic related guidance was also developed for homelessness service providers.

My Department is represented on a newly established joint DfC/PHA/HSCB/DoH strategic planning group for homelessness which aims to ensure a more cohesive and collaborative Departmental/HSC approach,

One example of the work of this group, and jointly funded with the Northern Ireland Housing Executive and co-ordinated by Council for the Homeless NI, was the procurement and distribution of an additional 446 Home Starter Packs and 1130 'Getting Started' boxes by the PHA.

Anti-Poverty Cross Departmental Strategy

My Department is working collaboratively with DfC on the development of a Cross-departmental strategy on poverty as agreed in the New Decade, New Approach document.

Child Poverty

My Department continues to work in partnership with the Department for Communities to implement the relevant actions from the Executive's Child Poverty Strategy which aims to reduce the number of children in poverty and reduce the impact of poverty on children. Action 3.2 from the strategy is to provide support for families through Family Support Hubs. A Family Support Hub is a multi-agency network of statutory, community and voluntary organisations who work in local areas to provide early intervention services locally to help families address a range of issues, such as poor attachment or engagement with baby; improving the level of play/communication; poverty; and substance misuse. There are 29 Family Support Hubs (FSHs) operational in NI.

Between 1 April and 31 December 2020, 5,731 families were referred for support services to the Family Support Hubs.

My Department is also leading on the development of a cross-Departmental Family and Parenting Support Strategy which will, among other things, support families living in poverty to alleviate the impact of living in poverty on family life.

Anti-Poverty Practice for Social Work

My Department launched the Anti-Poverty Practice Framework for Social Workers in NI in July 2018. DfC and the advice sector partnered with us in this work. The anti-poverty practice framework aims to support social workers in NI to recognise and respond to the impact of poverty on individuals, families and communities. My Department continues to promote and embed this into social work practice.

Financial Wellbeing

My Department has also worked with the DfC on The implementation of the UK wide Strategy for Financial Wellbeing in NI. This work led to a collaboration with DfC and the Money and Pensions Advice Service to provide money guidance knowledge and skills to social workers and social care workers. Successful awareness training has been delivered by webinar and a further rollout of training is planned. In addition, we will support an additional cohort of social workers and social care workers to develop more advanced skills.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail the guidance his Department has on the use of the Big Word translation service in relation to Health and Social Care.

Mr Swann: The responsibility for procurement and use of translation services within the Health and Social Care sector lies with the Interpreting Service in the Business Services Organisation (BSO).

The use of translation services in my Department is governed through the Framework for interpretation, translation and transcription services | Department of Finance (finance-ni.gov.uk) This is an arrangement put in place and managed by the Department of Finance Construction Procurement and Delivery (CPD) Division. It applies across the Northern Ireland public sector. Big Word is currently listed on the Framework as the contractor for Telephone Interpreting Services.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister of Health for an update on the COVID-19 Recognition Payments for (i) health and social care staff; and (ii) unpaid carers.

Mr Swann: An FAQ on the special recognition payment, which includes eligibility criteria, has been published on my Department's website and is available at the following link;

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/news/hsc-staff-recognition-payment-faqs>

My officials are currently finalising the schemes for HSC staff and carers, to enable payment as soon as possible. As soon as any further information is available, it will be published on the FAQ.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister of Health whether his Department (i) will review urgently the absence of emergency dental care at weekends; and (ii) work to reinstate this service as soon as possible.

Mr Swann: Emergency dental care continues to be available at weekends. As per the General Dental Services Regulations, dentists are required to make reasonable arrangements to ensure that a patient requiring prompt care and treatment will receive such care and treatment as soon as appropriate. This may involve participation in an organised rota or provision of out of hours care by the practitioner themselves. While large scale Relief of Dental Pain Clinic rotas are currently suspended, access to emergency dental care remains good due to small scale rotas and practices providing their own emergency cover.

During the pandemic it has been necessary to establish Urgent Dental Care Centres (UDCCs) to cater for suspected or confirmed Covid positive patients requiring dental treatment, patients with genuine dental emergencies and unregistered patients unable to obtain care from any other provider. These UDCCs draw upon much of the same service capacity and infrastructure that was available for Relief of Dental Pain Clinics pre-pandemic. It is therefore not possible at this time to return to the out of hours dental care model that was in place prior to the pandemic.

The Health and Social Care Board has recently produced a report examining future options for out of hours dental care. In developing the report, the Board team met with local dentists' representatives from across Northern Ireland. The completed report has very recently been shared with the Dental Practice Committee of the British Dental Association (BDA) and the BDA have been given the opportunity to provide feedback.

As the prevalence Covid-19 continues to fall the need for the Urgent Dental Care Centres will be kept under review and my officials will work with the Board and the BDA to ensure out of hours dental service arrangements meet the needs of patients and practitioners alike.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister of Health whether he will undertake a review of the maternity leave available to Health Service staff with a view of enhancing the contractual pay available.

Mr Swann: Maternity leave forms part of the terms and conditions for staff, agreed nationally at the NHS Staff Council. There are no plans currently to review this locally.

Under current terms and conditions, an expectant mother is entitled to 52 weeks of maternity leave, the first eight of which are paid at a rate equivalent to full pay, the next eighteen weeks are paid at half pay plus any Statutory Maternity Pay or maternity allowance, and a final thirteen weeks attract Statutory Maternity pay or maternity allowance. Any further weeks are unpaid.

I am aware of a recent amendment to the Agenda for Change Handbook which clarifies the position on consecutive periods of maternity, but this provision is already applied in NI.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health, given the standing-down of the Health and Social Care Board, how he will ensure that the services and funding for community pharmacy services will be developed further after March 2022.

Mr Swann: My Department recognises the need to have a stable and sustainable network of community pharmacies, commissioned to provide services which contribute to population level improvements in health and HSC reform. Significant progress has been made over the last few years to agree a contractual framework of pharmacy services, strategically aligned to 'Delivering Together'. My Department is continuing to work and engage positively and collaboratively with Community Pharmacy NI to develop a roadmap for the long term future of community pharmacy services. This collaborative working has in the short term contributed to the agreement of a community pharmacy commissioning plan for 2021-22.

The commissioning plan for 2021-22 builds on the agreement reached on last years' commissioning arrangements and provides a coherent structure for the provision of community pharmacy services over the next 12 months. The plan continues to focus on the need to develop and support community pharmacy in their delivery of services and provides a commitment to scope, test and pilot services to inform future commissioning arrangements.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health to detail the average waiting time for a GP appointment.

Mr Swann: This information is not available. As independent contractors, GP practices are responsible for managing their own appointment systems and waiting times.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of GP vacancies in each Health and Social Care Trust.

Mr Swann: Information on the number of vacant GP posts is not available. GPs are independent contractors who contract with the Health and Social Care Board to provide primary medical services to their patients. As independent contractors, GPs are responsible for identifying and recruiting the number of GPs and other staff required to deliver those services.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health on what date the Independent Review into the resignation of board members of the Regulation and Quality Improvement Authority will be published.

Mr Swann: My Department will publish the recommendations and findings of the Independent Review into the resignation of board members of the Regulation and Quality Improvement Authority in the coming weeks.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of the legalisation of medicinal marijuana in Northern Ireland.

Mr Swann: The law changed on 1 November 2018 to allow doctors on the specialist register of the General Medical Council to prescribe cannabis-based medicinal products (CBMPs) where clinically appropriate. Specialist clinicians can now decide to prescribe CBMPs taking into account the clinical evidence available to them, the potential risks and benefits of the treatment and in line with the individual circumstances of the patient.

The National Institute for Health and Care Excellence (NICE) published Clinical Guidelines to support clinicians on the prescribing of CBMPs for people with intractable nausea and vomiting, chronic pain, spasticity and severe treatment resistant epilepsy. My Department has formally endorsed this guidance for implementation by Health and Social Care providers in Northern Ireland.

Department for Infrastructure

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure what support is available to connect domestic and commercial and residential dwellings in rural areas to essential utilities such as sewerage, water and electricity services.

Ms Mallon (The Minister for Infrastructure): Water and sewerage services fall within the remit of my Department and I will respond to those elements of your question. Electricity services fall within the remit of the Department for the Economy and you may wish to direct this question to the Minister for Economy.

A customer who applies to NI Water for a water main and/or sewer network requisition may be entitled to a reasonable cost allowance to assist with the cost of this. A requisition is a request for an extension of the public water main (or sewer network) to service a new property/properties, an existing property/properties or a new development. The allowance for an existing property, built before 1 January 2000, is £12,000 towards the cost of a water main requisition. The allowance for properties built after 1 January 2000 is £1,600 towards the cost of a water main requisition. The higher reasonable cost allowance is provided under the Department's Targeting Social Needs objective to assist isolated, and older, rural dwellings, primarily because of their distance from the road and nearest water main. These allowances are available to extend the water main in cases where there is no main within 20 metres of a property. The equivalent figures for the sewer reasonable cost allowance are £2,500 for new properties constructed after 1st January 2000 and £4,000 for existing properties constructed pre 1st January 2000. Both water and sewerage reasonable cost allowances are only available to domestic customers for domestic purposes. Further information on the reasonable cost allowance and connection costs can be found in NI Water's Scheme of Charges 2020/21, which is approved by the Utility Regulator (Microsoft Word - NI Water 2021-22 Scheme of Charges Final v2).

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail how much has been spent on the York Street Interchange Project, in each of the last ten years.

Ms Mallon: The following table provides a breakdown of the annual spend to date on the York Street Interchange in each of the last ten years.

Financial Year	£k
2011/12	602
2012/13	877
2013/14	850
2014/15	1,523
2015/16	3,250
2016-17	1,073

2017-18	4,936
2018-19	2,380
2019-20	1,639
2020-21	2,344
Total	19,474

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail how many kilometers of pop up cycle lanes were installed since the onset of COVID-19.

(AQW 17533/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Since the onset of the pandemic my Department has installed 1.8 km of pop-up cycle lanes as follows:

Two-way pop-up cycle lane: Bankmore Street – Hardcastle Street – Marcus Ward Street – Dublin Road, Belfast	0.5 km
Two-way pop-up cycle lane: Grosvenor Road, Belfast	0.5 km
One-way pop-up cycle lane, Donegall Road (north side), Belfast	0.4 km
One-way pop-up cycle lane, Donegall Road (south side), Belfast	0.4 km

In addition to this, my Department has delivered 13.7 km of other active travel infrastructure including the Blaris Greenway Path and shared footway / cycleway schemes at various locations across the North.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the targets in the new road safety strategy for reducing those killed or seriously injured.

Ms Mallon: Work on the Road Safety Strategy had been impacted by the Covid-19 crisis and the prioritisation of resources to the work on the Financial Assistance Schemes however officials continue to work on it at pace.

In developing the new Road Safety Strategy, officials are engaging with key stakeholders in advance of a formal consultation on issues such as targets. The draft Road Safety Strategy will be issued as soon as possible but I can assure you that road safety is integral to the work of the Department and it continues each and every day with initiatives such as the 20 mph scheme at schools; the road safety grant scheme; the introduction of tougher penalties for mobile phone use while driving; and enforcement actions by the DVA, in collaboration with the PSNI. There are also regular meetings with the Chief Constable on road safety.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of what role the introduction of lateral flow testing for examiners and candidates could have in accelerating the reduction of the backlog in driving tests.

Ms Mallon: I am advised that officials from the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) reviewed the criteria supplied by the Department of Health for the selection of organisations and services that would benefit from the rollout of an Asymptomatic Testing Programme for Covid-19, including the use of Lateral Flow Tests with the general public who would be in close contact with DVA staff attending a driving or MOT test.

After careful consideration the DVA decided that it would not be practical to include driving examiners and driving test candidates within this scheme as it would inevitably result in fewer tests being conducted each day and, as a consequence, increase waiting times for driving tests.

The DVA will continue to deliver driving tests in adherence with its risk assessments to ensure the necessary Covid-19 controls are implemented throughout the testing process. The appropriate mitigations proposed by the DVA went through the Executive taskforce process which included advice from the Department of Health, to enable driving tests to resume on 23 April 2021. I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, and most importantly to protecting the lives of staff and customers during this pandemic.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what level of economic activity will be included within her plans for the further development of the Comber Greenway.

Ms Mallon: My announcement in September 2020 of £3.7 million capital funding for greenways across Northern Ireland underlines my commitment to assist Councils and others in the development of greenways across Northern Ireland.

In terms of the Comber Greenway, the Member will be aware of plans to conduct a public consultation on lighting. I am also keen that better links to and from communities be developed for all greenways.

Developing economic activity would also involve the relevant Council in respect of Street Trading Designations and street trading licences. At present there are no plans to develop economic activity on the Comber Greenway.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of total mass emissions of NO<sub>x</sub>, PM<sub>10</sub>, PM<sub>2.5</sub> and carbon dioxide from roads in the York Street Interchange scheme (i) now; (ii) in the assumed year of opening; and (iii) the design year. (AQW 17735/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The Environmental Statement (ES) for the York Street Interchange scheme was published in January 2015. Chapter 8 of the ES presented an assessment of the likely effects of the current scheme on local and regional air quality (including NO<sub>x</sub>, PM<sub>10</sub>, PM<sub>2.5</sub> and carbon dioxide) in the base year and assumed opening year and design year.

In the assumed year of opening and the design year, predicted annual mean concentrations of Nitrogen Dioxide (NO<sub>2</sub>), Particulate Matter (PM<sub>2.5</sub> and PM<sub>10</sub>) would be below National Air Quality Objective Values at all assessed sensitive receptors for both the Do-Minimum and Do-Something scenarios. The scheme would reduce yearly emissions of carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>e – expressed as tonnes of carbon dioxide equivalent) by 190 tonnes in the opening year and 208 tonnes in the design year.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of the impact on air quality in relation to the York Street Interchange scheme. (AQW 17736/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The Environmental Statement (ES) for the York Street Interchange scheme was published in January 2015 and reported the findings of the completed Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) for the scheme. Chapter 8 of the ES included an assessment of the impacts upon regional and local air quality.

This assessment concluded that, in overall terms, the current scheme's effect on regional air quality would be beneficial but not significant.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of the additional emissions of carbon dioxide which would be released into the atmosphere in the design year of the York Street Interchange scheme which would not otherwise be released. (AQW 17738/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The Environmental Statement (ES) for the York Street Interchange scheme was published in January 2015 and reported the findings of the completed Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) for the scheme. Chapter 8 of the ES included an assessment of the impacts upon regional and local air quality.

The ES details predicted carbon dioxide emissions in the assumed design year under 'Do-Minimum' conditions, which is the scenario that represents the situation that would occur without the scheme in operation and predicted carbon dioxide emissions in the assumed design year under 'Do-Something' conditions, which is the scenario that represents the situation that would occur with the scheme in operation.

Comparison of the data in the two scenarios indicates that the current scheme is predicted to reduce carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>e – expressed as tonnes of carbon dioxide equivalent) by 208 tonnes for the design year.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will consider free or reduced cost parking to incentivise the purchase of electric vehicles. (AQW 17774/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I fully recognise the importance of having modern, reliable public electric vehicle charging infrastructure in providing confidence for users of ultra-low emission vehicles (ULEVs) and in respect of the connectivity improvements this would bring. My Department is, therefore, taking a number of actions in respect of the charge point infrastructure, including:

- introducing changes to the planning system, through permitted development rights which came into operation on 21 December 2020, to make it easier to expand the charging infrastructure for electric vehicles;
- contributing circa. £450,000 of match funding towards the EU INTERREG VA Funded FASTER electric vehicle network project to install a total of 73 EV Rapid charging points across the island of Ireland and the West of Scotland by 31 March 2023; and
- engaging with the Office for Zero Emission Vehicles (OZEV) and the Energy Saving Trust (EST), who administer the On-street Residential Charge Point Scheme (ORCS), to provide charge points for residents without off-street parking, and to ensure the scheme can be accessed by councils in the North.

ESB recently confirmed that it plans to replace approx. 60 charge points i.e. 30 charge posts and a further 5 Rapid charge points to upgrade and improve the reliability of the existing public network. I recently met with ESB to discuss what is required in order to ensure the current network is reliable and remains fit for purpose. Whilst the market is open to other commercial operators who would wish to provide charging infrastructure, to date, ESB is the only public network provider in the North. It is anticipated, however, that where possible the majority of EV charging should be carried out at home with the use of a home charge point. My officials are also considering the future requirements in terms of public charge point infrastructure and will continue to liaise with ESB to consider any specific requests to ensure the public network can meet the needs of EV owners now and in future. ESB currently does not charge e-car drivers for the use of its public charge points in Northern Ireland.

My Department has also been leading a Transport Working Group, set up to inform the transport elements of the Department for the Economy's Energy Strategy currently under development and consultation. A number of key areas have been identified for consideration including the electrification of transport and the charging infrastructure required to support the uptake of electric vehicles. As part of this work, my Department has commissioned research to consider future demand for charge points in Northern Ireland.

Following the British Government's announcement that it is bringing forward its plans to ban sales of new diesel and petrol vehicles in the UK to 2030, I have also written to British Ministers to seek clarity on what funding will be provided to support the North in delivering greener, cleaner transport.

Electric vehicles will play an important part in decarbonising transport and a number of other incentives are also in place to encourage the uptake of EVs. The Office for Zero Emission Vehicles (OZEV) provides funding to support the early market for ultra-low emission vehicles (ULEVs) in Great Britain and Northern Ireland including grants for plug-in cars, vans, taxis and motorcycles in addition to grants for home and workplace charging infrastructure.

Action to decarbonise transport, improve air quality and reduce congestion, will also require prioritising measures that reduce vehicle kilometres and encourage walking, cycling and public transport as primary modes of travel in our towns and cities. In addition, by reducing the space allocated to vehicles in town centres, we can create cleaner, greener places that are more attractive for people. Therefore, provision of free or reduced cost parking, whether for electric vehicles or otherwise, is not currently being considered.

I remain committed to working in partnership with Executive colleagues and others across our islands to help deliver a change in the way we travel that also helps us to tackle the climate crisis.

Ms Bunting asked the Minister for Infrastructure what consideration she has given to improving the Grahamsbridge Road/Comber Road/Old Dundonald Road junction.

Ms Mallon: As you will appreciate, the Comber Road/Grahamsbridge Road/Old Dundonald Road junction is very busy, especially during peak traffic periods.

Back in 2015 my Department commissioned a study to consider a number of possible options to improve the junction, including the provision of traffic signals. The study examined signalling the junction to varying degrees, including some and all of the movements and concluded that it would take major reconstruction of the junction before a layout could be found that would operate safely and within capacity. As such, I am advised that it is estimated a scheme at this location would cost in excess of £1M and other schemes in the Division have been assessed as scoring a higher priority for inclusion in a works programme at this time under current funding levels.

My Department considers that on balance the existing layout is the best that can be achieved at this time.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) for her assessment of her Department's current verge cutting program in relation to the biodiversity crisis; (ii) whether she will consider a 'Don't Mow, Let It Grow' policy where safe to do so.

Ms Mallon: My Department manages vegetation across our network in a number of ways, with the primary aim of maintaining road safety while also protecting wildlife and taking great care in maintaining their habitats. In this regard our current grass cutting policy seeks to achieve a balance between road safety, the control of noxious weeds and environmental protection.

As you are aware my Department has been engaged in the 'Don't Mow Let It Grow' (DMLIG) pilot project in conjunction with Causeway Coast & Glens Borough Council, Northern Ireland Environment Agency and others. This project is continuing on after its initial 3 year pilot period. Through this work, my Department has increased its understanding of the importance of road verges for biodiversity and is now engaging with a number of councils and others to consider how the lessons learned from DMLIG can be integrated into transport corridors.

As partner and supporter of the All-Ireland Pollinator Plan (AIPP) my Department recognises that road verges are an important habitat for many species of insects and animals. Having devised the specific AIPP Action, to promote pollinator-friendly management of the strategic road network in Northern Ireland, my Department is committed to reviewing its environmental policies to promote pollinator-friendly practices and to encourage their inclusion on road schemes, where practicable.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail (i) how many charging points are currently out of service; and (ii) the expected repair time for each charge point.

Ms Mallon: The electric vehicle public charge point network is owned, operated and maintained by the Electricity Supply Board (ESB). It is responsible for the operation, maintenance and development of the network. ESB can be contacted, in respect of the issues you have raised, at ecars@esb.ie or enquiries can be sent directly to ESB, Two Gateway, East Wall Road, DUBLIN 3, D03 A995.

I remain committed to working in partnership with Executive colleagues and others across our islands to help deliver a change in the way we travel that also helps us to tackle the climate crisis.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail her Department's investment in cycle lanes in Newry and Armagh since 2019.

(AQW 17828/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The following active travel facilities have been constructed by my Department within Southern Division, i.e. within the Newry, Mourne and Down District Council and the Armagh City, Banbridge and Craigavon Borough Council areas since 2019.

Year	Scheme	Type of facility provided	Length (km)
2018/19	Moy Road, Scotch Street, Portadown	New toucan crossing	-
	Carbane Way, Newry	New toucan crossing	-
	Shepherds Way, Newry	New toucan crossing	-
	Carnbane Way / Shepherds Way, Newry	Shared walking / cycling	1.7
2020/21	Nursery Road, Armagh	Shared walking / cycling	0.3
		Total length (km)	2.0

Details of these schemes are readily available in the reports presented to Council each year which are available here: <https://www.infrastructure-ni.gov.uk/publications/type/corporatereports>

My Department continues to encourage local councils to identify active travel opportunities that will help deliver sustainable positive change, particularly in the context of recovery from COVID 19, and they can apply for support in doing so from my Blue Green Infrastructure Fund.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department is exploring ways to help prospective taxi drivers complete their examinations.

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests and theory tests on 23 April, with appropriate mitigations in place.

Driver theory testing, including taxi theory testing, has resumed at the six established test centres, with additional slots at each location and extended opening hours to help address the increased demand. An additional temporary test centre, which will be located in Ballymena, will also be opened that can provide around 1,000 test slots per week. Customers can book appointments through the online theory test booking system, with priority initially being given to customers whose tests have been affected by the suspension of theory test services due to Covid-19 restrictions.

All categories of practical driving tests, including taxi driver tests, resumed from 23 April, with the booking service opening in three phases based on the expiry dates of theory test pass certificates, to give priority to those who have been waiting for the longest time. The DVA is planning to open the last phase of the booking system in mid-May, after which all customers will be provided with the opportunity to book a test.

I acknowledge that prospective taxi drivers are keen to take their practical driving and theory tests at the earliest opportunity and I can assure you that the DVA continues to work hard to maximise the availability of test slots, through extended opening hours, the provision of additional examiners and new temporary test centres.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, and most importantly to protecting the lives of staff and customers during this pandemic.

Mr Givan asked the Minister for Infrastructure what consideration has been given to the removal of on-street parking charges in Lisburn.

Ms Mallon: I am very aware that the management and operation of the road network has a wide range of impacts across businesses, communities and the environment. I am also aware that the COVID-19 pandemic has placed town centres in general, and commercial businesses in particular, under considerable pressure, in Lisburn and elsewhere. As we emerge from COVID, I am determined that we must focus on sustainable and community enhancing solutions.

The most appropriate way to review the parking of vehicles in the city centre will be within the Transport Plan prepared in conjunction with the Local Development Plan. The Transport Plan will require the Department and the Council to jointly prepare a Parking Strategy which will consider the provision, management and operation of all parking in Lisburn, both on and off street in conjunction with other modes of transport.

In the meantime, as we emerge from COVID lockdown, I am very conscious of a renewed interest in how street space in our towns and cities can best be utilised, to promote the objectives of commercial vitality and improved local public spaces. Changing our current approach to the management of parking by promoting free on-street parking is likely to result in an increase in town centre vehicular traffic, which would work against these shared objectives.

In addition, making on-street car parking more attractive than off-street parking will rule out the possibility of creating footway extensions, hospitality spill-out areas, and parklets. These measures have proved popular elsewhere, and I believe that traders and businesses in Lisburn city centre stand to gain more from these positive place-making measures than from free on-street parking. I have supported all of these measures through the COVID Revitalisation Fund and will continue to do so through my Blue Green Infrastructure Fund.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the adoption of Orandale, Strabane.

Ms Mallon: The Orandale residential development in Strabane comprises thirty dwellings, all of which have now been constructed and are occupied. The developer entered into separate bond agreements with both DfI Roads and NI Water in 2008, however, regrettably has refused to complete the road and sewerage infrastructure works despite numerous requests from both DfI Roads and NI Water. NI Water has confirmed that significant remedial works are necessary after which the roads and footways will require a final bitmac wearing course.

NI Water has served enforcement papers on the developer and has a contractor ready to move on site. On 26 April 2021 the developer indicated that he will now carry out all necessary repairs to the sewerage infrastructure and NI Water has set a deadline of 1 June 2021 to have these works complete. DfI Roads has also quantified and costed outstanding works and, should the developer not complete all works on the site, is ready to complete road works under enforcement after all NI Water works are complete.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the adoption of Nancy's Lane, Strabane.

Ms Mallon: As you may be aware, Nancy's Lane is just over 500m in length with the first 180m adopted and maintained by my Department. However the remainder of the road is in private ownership and currently does not meet a standard required for adoption.

My officials have previously apprised public representatives and the residents of the standard the road would have to be brought to up to enable my Department to adopt it and that the associated costs would have to be borne by the residents.

My Department has received no recent communication regarding proposals to improve the standard of the road however my officials remain willing to engage with the residents and/or public representatives to clarify any aspects of the works that would be required.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 4187/17-22, whether it was the Department's expressed position in court that there is, or is not, a physical overlap between the location of the existing settlement lagoons and the site of the proposed new lagoons.

Ms Mallon: You will be aware following my response of 3 June 2020 to AQW 4187/17-22 that I wrote to you directly on 10th July 2020 in relation to this matter (reference TOF-2011-2020). As previously advised the authoritative position on the issue is as stated by Treacy J in paragraph 94 of his judgment in [2014] NIQB 34.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure why 30 Balligan Gardens, Bangor was left without running water by contractors over the weekend of 24 April 2021.

Ms Mallon: NI Water has advised me that, following inspection of the public supply network to this address and surrounding area, no issues have been found with its infrastructure which could have contributed to the disruption of running water to this address.

There are ongoing housing refurbishment works in the vicinity, not related to my Department, which may have contributed to the disruption of running water to this address.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure why Virgin Media have been allowed to virtually close the entire main road network in Donaghadee causing long queues and delays of up to an hour last week without any proper traffic management. (AQW 17914/17-22)

Ms Mallon: As I have explained previously, under Streetworks legislation utility companies have a legal right to place and maintain their services in the footway and carriageway.

I am aware that there is a large investment currently being undertaken by utility companies in Donaghadee which has led to some traffic delays. My officials have worked with the utility companies in an effort to minimise the impact of the ongoing works while still facilitating the important upgrades to the local infrastructure. Virgin Media is responsible for the provision of the traffic management associated with its sites and any concerns in this respect should be directed to the PSNI for enforcement.

The report of a one hour delay to which you refer is the only record of such delays my Department has received. While some delays from such works are unavoidable, my officials have been in Donaghadee regularly during this period and I am advised any delays experienced were not considered to be excessive. Given the absence of other reports about significant delays, it appears that this may have been an isolated incident. I would welcome additional information of any other incidents that you might have for my officials to investigate.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure for a list of all streets currently waiting for traffic calming measures across North Down. (AQW 17915/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I can confirm that my officials are currently developing plans for the delivery of a range of Local Transport and Safety Measures, including schemes for the Ards and North Down Council area.

When the budget is confirmed, the annual works programme will be finalised with details included in the annual report provided to Ards and North Down Council, before it is published online.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on traffic calming measures for Ballyree Drive, Bangor. (AQW 17916/17-22)

Ms Mallon: As I advised in my response to your previous question on this matter, my officials are considering the introduction of traffic calming measures at this location. Once budgets and works programme for 2021/22 have been finalised, details will be included in a report that my Department will issue to Ards and North Down Council and which will be made publicly available thereafter.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what can her Department do to help stop the illegal parking on Church Road and Fort Road, Helens Bay. (AQW 17917/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Unfortunately, popular local areas of interest such as Helen's Bay have limited parking opportunities and therefore significant increases in visitor numbers exceed the available capacity at many of these sites, which inevitably leads to traffic progression and road safety issues on the network. Consequently, my Department has introduced waiting restrictions in the form of double yellow lines to facilitate traffic progression and improve road safety for all road users travelling in this area.

Due to the reduced traffic volumes using our roads, I took the decision to scale back the parking enforcement service during this difficult time. However, parking restrictions remain in place, and a small team of Traffic Attendants continue to be deployed on a priority basis to locations where they can contribute most to road safety and traffic progression. The Department has ensured there is flexibility in its approach and, if required, the number of Traffic Attendants can be increased. As a result, the level of parking enforcement in the Helen's Bay and Crawfordsburn areas increased from 15 March 2021.

Ms Mallon: My Department may make use of the following guidance documents for cycling infrastructure:

- London Cycling Design Standards (LCDS);
- Design Guidance Active Travel (Wales) Act 2013;
- 'Cycling by Design' Transport Scotland 2011;
- Department for Transport Local Transport Note (LTN) 1/20: Cycle Infrastructure Design.

The most recent of these, Local Transport Note (LTN) 1/20, Cycling Infrastructure Design, was published by the Department for Transport in July 2020. In line with the guidance, my Department strives to provide segregated space for walking and cycling. However, the guidance indicates that shared space may be appropriate where pedestrian numbers are very low and these are the locations where we have considered such provision. In addition, in the construction of both walking and cycling infrastructure we aim to provide effective separation from motor traffic.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for Infrastructure how the development of the York Street Interchange fits with the Executive's and Assembly's commitments to reduce carbon emissions.

Ms Mallon: The 'New Decade, New Approach' agreement commits the Executive to tackling climate change with a strategy to address the immediate and longer term impacts of climate change and creating legislation and targets for reducing carbon emissions in Northern Ireland in line with the Paris Climate Change Accord.

In anticipation of these targets, my Department has been progressing a range of initiatives to increase the use of public transport and facilitate modal shift to more sustainable travel options, including encouraging the uptake of walking, cycling and use of public transport. I have provided investment for a sustainable bus replacement programme for Translink to replace older vehicles with cleaner, more fuel efficient buses. My officials are working with councils to develop Local Transport Plans to encourage the designation of zones for development that incorporate sustainable transport options and multi-modal urban transport schemes. These climate change mitigation actions will help to reduce carbon emissions. In addition, I am working with Executive colleagues to tackle critical climate change, energy and air quality challenges in a holistic and coordinated way.

As Infrastructure Minister, I am committed to supporting a transition to carbon neutrality within the areas of my responsibility in contribution to achieving the net zero target as quickly as possible. I want to ensure that in progressing major road schemes, we are taking the necessary steps to keep global warming well below 2 degrees, as outlined in the 2015 Paris Agreement.

Strategic Roads move people and goods therefore have to balance economic and environmental issues as well as ensuring the scheme delivers for the people who live around it. The Environmental Statement (ES) for the current York Street Interchange scheme looks at a range of environmental impacts, including air quality. This was published in January 2015 and reported the findings of the completed Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) for the scheme. Chapter 8 of the ES included an assessment of the impacts upon regional and local air quality.

The ES details predicted carbon dioxide emissions in the assumed design year under 'Do-Minimum' conditions, which is the scenario that represents the situation that would occur without the scheme in operation and predicted carbon dioxide emissions in the assumed design year under 'Do-Something' conditions, which is the scenario that represents the situation that would occur with the scheme in operation. The assumed design year is 15 years after the assumed opening year and is used for comparison purposes.

Comparison of the data in the two scenarios indicates that the scheme is predicted to reduce carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>e – expressed as tonnes of carbon dioxide equivalent) by 208 tonnes for the design year. This shows that York Street Interchange will very slightly reduce carbon emissions, thereby contributing to an overall reduction in carbon emissions.

Further information is available in the ES which can be found at: <http://yorkstreetinterchange.com/environmental-statement.html>

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of road safety on the Cootehall Road, Crawfordsburn.

Ms Mallon: My Department has implemented a number of traffic management measures on Cootehall Road aimed at increasing motorists' awareness of the presence of the Primary School, and the likelihood of encountering children and parents in the area. These measures include flashing school signs, high friction surfacing and associated road markings outside the school. I am advised these measures have helped to reduce vehicle speeds and improve road safety in this area.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) for an update on when the further tranche of funding for installing part-time speed limits at schools for this financial year will be released; and (ii) how much is budgetted for the 2021/22 financial year for implementing 20mph speed limit zones outside primary schools.

Ms Mallon: Following Executive agreement of the final budget for 2021-22, I am carefully considering my funding allocations. I want to build on the success of the first tranche of funding which delivered part-time 20 mph speed limits at 103 schools across Northern Ireland. I can confirm my commitment to take forward a further tranche of funding for part-time 20mph speed limits zones outside schools in 2021-22.

While I have yet to make final decisions on the allocation of this year's budget, I am committed to a further roll-out of the scheme as it will increase driver awareness aimed at reducing vehicle speeds outside and near schools providing a safer environment for parents, children and staff as they go to and from school on a daily basis.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure when will grass cutting start along the central reservations in North Down.

Ms Mallon: I can confirm that my Department's grass cutting programme within the Ards and North Down area has commenced. To ensure the safety of our operatives and road users when grass cutting of central reservations is taking place, temporary traffic management arrangements have to be put in place which are still being finalised so I am unable to specify timings at this exact time.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure when will weed spraying start for footpaths across North Down.

Ms Mallon: I can confirm that the weed spraying programme in the Ards and North Down Council area began in early May 2021.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether priority workers will be considered for priority driving tests.

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests and theory tests on 23 April, with appropriate mitigations in place.

The DVA has received a number of requests from key workers requesting that they reinstate a priority service for them to avail of early appointments. The DVA is working with the Department of Health on priority applications. However, those priority applications are restricted to key workers whose jobs are ancillary to medical, health or social care services and who need to drive for their work. If a critical worker meets these requirements, their employer must contact the DVA and identify staff in these priority groups. The DVA will then try to facilitate priority appointments for both theory and practical driving tests.

In addition to this, the DVA has, and continues, to work hard to increase its capacity to help meet the high demand for driving tests. The DVA has taken a range of measures to maximise the availability of test slots, including the recruitment of additional examiners and the provision of new temporary test centres. They will continue to offer driving tests on a Saturday and at certain centres on Sundays where it is suitable to do so without compromising the integrity of the test. Overtime will also be used to rota off-shift dual role driving examiners to provide further capacity. Additional slots are therefore being made available for May, June, July and August to accommodate more learners.

Driver theory testing has resumed at the six established test centres, with additional slots at each location and extended opening hours to help address the increased demand. An additional temporary test centre, which will be located in Ballymena, will also be opened that can provide around 1,000 test slots per week. Customers can book appointments through the online theory test booking system, with priority initially being given to customers whose tests have been affected by the suspension of theory test services due to COVID-19 restrictions.

I acknowledge that learner drivers are keen to take their practical driving and theory tests at the earliest opportunity and can assure you that the DVA will continue to work hard to maximise the availability of test slots. However, all driving test services across these islands are experiencing high demand with longer than usual waiting times. Like all public facing services, the Covid-19 restrictions mean that the DVA has had to adapt its services to ensure that they can be provided safely and they would ask customers for their patience at this difficult time.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, and most importantly to protecting the lives of staff and customers during this pandemic.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what powers her Department has to compel non-departmental bodies to undertake repairs and reinstate footpaths that have been damaged.

Ms Mallon: The most common non-departmental bodies carrying out works on public roads are utility companies who are responsible for permanent reinstatement of footpaths to an agreed specification. While utility companies usually engage contractors to carry out works on their behalf, the utility company is ultimately responsible for the reinstatement of the street.

For all utility companies, my Department applies the procedures for inspection of reinstatements and for dealing with reinstatement failures as set out in the Northern Ireland Road Authority and Utilities Committee (NIRAUC) Code of Practice for Inspections. When reinstatements are not carried out to an acceptable standard, defects are notified to the company responsible for repair. Where necessary, additional inspections are carried out by my officials, at the company's expense, to ensure the defects have been rectified.

Mr Chambers asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she has plans to address the ongoing issue of on-street car parking in the Church Road area of Helens Bay, particularly during periods of good weather.

Ms Mallon: Unfortunately, popular local areas of interest such as Helen's Bay have limited parking opportunities and therefore significant increases in visitor numbers exceed the available capacity at many of these sites which inevitably leads to traffic progression and road safety issues on the network. Consequently, my Department has introduced waiting restrictions in the form of double yellow lines to facilitate traffic progression and improve road safety for all road users travelling in this area.

Due to the reduced traffic volumes using our roads, I took the decision to scale back the parking enforcement service during this difficult time. However, parking restrictions remain in place, and a small team of Traffic Attendants continue to be deployed on a priority basis to locations where they can contribute most to road safety and traffic progression. My Department has ensured there is flexibility in its approach and, if required, the number of Traffic Attendants can be increased. As a result, the level of parking enforcement in the Helen's Bay and Crawfordsburn areas increased from 15 March 2021.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure, in relation to the A1, what additional safety work south of Loughbrickland is being considered by her Department.

Ms Mallon: My officials are currently bringing forward the Transport Plan for the Regional Strategic Transport Network (RSTNTP). It will set out future investment and improvement for our strategic transport networks for road, rail and bus, to 2035 and reflect my commitment to improving connectivity for the benefit of our economy and communities across the North. It will help to inform my priorities for future development of the main road networks including the A1. I expect to publish the draft RSTNTP for consultation towards the end of this year and I would welcome your views on improvements to the A1 South of Loughbrickland at that stage.

In the interim, my Department has recently commenced construction and installation of 5 CCTV cameras on the A1. These cameras will be used to monitor traffic, detect any hazardous conditions and identify any incidents on the network. Traffic Control Operators will then initiate action, when appropriate, such as issuing warnings and co-ordinating with PSNI and our contractors to return the network to a safe condition. Three of these cameras are located south of Loughbrickland at Sheepbridge, Carnbane and Lower Newtown Road. Based on our current programme construction will be completed and the cameras commissioned by mid-July 2021.

Mr Dunne asked the Minister for Infrastructure what additional resources are being put into North Down to ensure the grass cutting is completed in 2021 on a more regular basis than twice in previous years on the road verges on all major roads in North Down, including the Holywood to Bangor A2 dual carriageway and the Bangor to Newtownards dual carriageway.

Ms Mallon: During 2020-21 my Department continued to provide two cuts per season for both rural and urban areas.

Grass cutting is funded from the Resource Budget allocated to my Department. The 2021-22 baseline, non-Covid Resource Budget outcome when inflationary uplifts are taken into account, represents a real terms reduction which will require difficult decisions to be made. The level of service to be delivered during the current year is under consideration and will reflect the Resource budget allocation available to me as set out in Budget 2021-22.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the number of people in East Antrim waiting for a practical driving test appointment.

Ms Mallon: At 30 April 2021, 344 people in the East Antrim area had booked a practical driving test appointment on the Driver & Vehicle Agency's booking system. The booking system does not hold information on those people that have not yet made an application for a test. It is therefore not possible to detail the number of people from East Antrim waiting for a practical driving test appointment at this time.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail all road surface improvement schemes planned for West Tyrone.

Ms Mallon: Listed below are details of the schemes planned for 2021/22 for West Tyrone, subject to the availability of budget and contractor resource:

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department is considering a re-surfacing scheme for sections of Sherwood Parks and Sherwood Avenue, Newtownabbey.

Ms Mallon: I am advised by officials that based on their condition, and when assessed against the many other competing resurfacing priorities across Antrim and Newtownabbey, it is unlikely that schemes at Sherwood Parks and Sherwood Avenue will be included in this year's resurfacing programme. However my officials will continue to carry out maintenance inspections on Sherwood Parks and Sherwood Avenue and any identified actionable defects will be repaired.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail when the last road safety assessment of Cootehall Road, Crawfordsburn was carried out by her Department, including its outcome.

Ms Mallon: I can confirm that the previous assessment of Cootehall Road was undertaken in October 2019, which indicated a scheme at this location remains a low priority when compared to other locations in the North Down area.

You will be aware that my Department has introduced a number of traffic management measures on Cootehall Road to advise motorists of the presence of the primary school and the possibility of encountering young people and parents in the area. These measures, which include flashing school signs, high friction surfacing and associated road markings outside the school, have enhanced driver awareness and helped to reduce vehicle speeds thus improving road safety in this area.

Mr Irwin asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will introduce one hour free parking opportunities in Newry city as per the recommendation of the Newry Business Improvement District.

Ms Mallon: The Member will be aware that I have already addressed queries regarding the removal of the Charged Parking Zone in Newry City Centre on several previous occasions.

I am very aware that the management and operation of the road network has a wide range of impacts across businesses, communities and the environment. I am also aware that the COVID-19 pandemic has placed town centres in general, and commercial businesses in particular, under considerable pressure, in Newry and elsewhere. As we emerge from COVID, I am determined that we must focus on sustainable and community enhancing solutions.

The most appropriate place to carry out a review of the controlled parking zones is within the development of my Department's Transport Plans. These will be developed in conjunction with each Council's Local Development Plan (LDP) Local Policies Plan. The Transport Plans will require my Department and each Council to jointly prepare a Parking Strategy, which will consider the provision, management and operation of all parking both on and off street. These strategies will also take account of the shared objectives for our towns and cities and for greater use of sustainable modes of transport including public transport, walking and cycling.

In the meantime, as we emerge from COVID lockdown, I am very conscious of the renewed interest in how street space in our towns and cities can best be utilised, to promote the objectives of commercial vitality and improved local public spaces. Changing our current approach to the management of parking by promoting free on-street parking is likely to result in an increase in town centre vehicular traffic, which would work against these shared objectives.

In addition, making on-street car parking more attractive than off-street parking will rule out the possibility of creating footway extensions, hospitality spill-out areas, and parklets. These measures have proved popular elsewhere, and I believe that traders and businesses in Newry city centre stand to gain more from these positive place-making measures than from free on-street parking. I have supported all of these measures through the COVID Revitalisation Fund and will continue to do so through my Blue Green Infrastructure Fund.

My senior officials have already met with the Managing Director of the Newry Business Improvement District about this matter. I would encourage all town and city stakeholders to consider how we can enhance the town centre experience for everyone as we lift the lockdown restrictions.

Mr McAleer asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail planning applications that are currently being processed specifically in relation to the agriculture industry; broken down by (i) farm type, including (a) pig (b) poultry (c) suckler (d) dairy; and (ii) farm size.

Ms Mallon: My Department does not collate or hold information about the agricultural industry broken down by farm type and size; however in order to be of assistance a list of live planning applications that have a development type 'agriculture' had been produced and this will be placed in the Assembly library. This list includes inter alia, pig, poultry and cattle houses, milking parlours, agricultural machinery and storage buildings, stables and slurry stores.

The applications listed are those which were in the planning system at 31st December 2020, which is in line with the Department's most recently published National Statistics

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) whether her Department has been consulted in relation to the Crawfordsburn Primary School new build construction project; and (ii) to detail the nature of the consultation.

Ms Mallon: I can confirm that my Department has not yet been consulted on the proposed new Crawfordsburn Primary School; however, my officials are aware that North Down and Ards Council Planning has received a Proposal of Application Notice for a new school. In the event that a planning application is submitted to North Down and Ards Council Planning, my Department, as a statutory consultee to the planning process, will be consulted at that stage.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department will carry out an assessment for traffic calming on Dominic Street, Newry.

Ms Mallon: I have asked my officials to carry out an initial assessment of Dominic Street that will determine if any further safety measures are warranted. They will advise you directly of the outcome when the assessment has been completed.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the schools in North Down that are being considered currently for the 20mph scheme for this financial year.

Ms Mallon: As previously advised, it is my intention to take forward a further tranche of part-time 20mph speed limits at schools. All schools across all council areas, including those in Ards and North Down, that do not already have part-time speed limits in place will be considered for inclusion in a future programme, the extent of which will be dependent upon the level of funding made available in the 2021-22 year.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the date on which the review of the speed limit in the vicinity of the Cotton will take place.

Ms Mallon: As I advised in my most recent answer, my officials plan to undertake this speed limit review when Covid-19 restrictions have eased and traffic volumes appear to be more reflective of the levels expected in the future which ensure the findings are more accurate. You will also hopefully appreciate that due to the restrictions there is a backlog of similar requests so I am currently unable to confirm specific timings; however, I have instructed my officials to advise you directly of the outcome when the review has been completed.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the number of motorists in the last year who have travelled to other parts of the UK in order to get their car MOT tested.

Ms Mallon: The Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) does not hold information on the number of motorists who travel to GB in order to get their car MOT tested.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the roads and pavements that are due for resurfacing or upgrade across North Down in this financial year.

Ms Mallon: The resurfacing programmes for roads and pavements for 2021-22 will be finalised once I have taken decisions on my Department's opening budget allocation. Once finalised, details of schemes will be included in the DfI Roads Spring report presented to Ards and North Down District Council prior to general release.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she has raised the issue of co-funding the A5 with her southern counterpart.

Ms Mallon: I want to take this opportunity to re-iterate my commitment to tackling regional imbalance, connecting communities and improving road safety. There are so many communities, particularly in rural parts west of the Bann, who can benefit from investment in the A5 Project.

I welcome the Irish Government's reaffirmation of its £75 million commitment to the A5 in 'New Decade, New Approach' and I have had useful discussions with the Irish Transport Minister, Minister Ryan and the Taoiseach on delivering on our shared commitments.

It is really good news that the Taoiseach announced last October that €500m will be made available through the Shared Island Fund to deliver on the Irish Government's commitment to build shared island infrastructure, underpinned by the Good Friday Agreement.

This funding is intended to contribute to the delivery of key infrastructure initiatives including the A5, the Ulster Canal, the Narrow Water Bridge and cross-border greenways.

I am committed to continue working with the Irish Government to ensure delivery for our citizens across our island and I wrote to Minister Ryan on 16 March to advise him on the next steps for the A5 project. The North South Ministerial Council Transport Sectoral meeting on 5 May 2021 also received an update on the project. I look forward to continuing to work in partnership to deliver on this much-needed project for citizens across our island.

Department of Justice

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister of Justice (i) how many judicial review judgements are outstanding; and (ii) to list the time each judgement has been outstanding.

(AQW 17479/17-22)

Mrs Long (The Minister of Justice): The timing and delivery of court judgments are matters for the judiciary.

The Lord Chief Justice's Office publishes a list of reserved judgments on the Judiciary NI website. <https://www.judiciaryni.uk/publications/reserved-judgments>

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Justice to detail her legislative programme for the remainder of this Assembly Mandate.

Mrs Long: Upon being appointed Minister of Justice in January 2020, I set out an ambitious legislative programme that involved a proposal to bring forward five separate Bills over the remainder of this mandate. I am pleased to advise as a result of the excellent work of the Office of Legislative Counsel, together with the concerted efforts of Departmental officials, that my plan is progressing well.

The Domestic Abuse and Civil Proceedings Bill received Royal Assent on 1 March and Departmental officials are now progressing measures to facilitate the implementation of the new powers contained in the Act.

I also have three Bills at Committee Stage in the Assembly: the Criminal Justice (Committal Reform) Bill; the Protection from Stalking Bill; and the Damages (Return on Investment) Bill.

The final Bill in my legislative programme is a Justice Bill, previously referred to as the Justice (Miscellaneous Provisions) Bill, which will legislate for a number of discrete policy areas that do not come within scope of the other Bills that I have just mentioned.

Drafting of the Justice Bill is now complete and, subject to securing the necessary Executive approvals, my introduction of this Bill to the Assembly in May remains on target.

Ms Dillon asked the Minister of Justice whether all of the strategic priority areas in the Gillen Review implementation plan which had a delivery date of 2020 or quarter 1 of 2021, have been fully implemented,; and to detail all not implemented.

Mrs Long: Whilst good progress has been made against all of the strategic priority areas in the Plan that had a delivery date of 2020 or quarter 1 of 2021, full implementation has not been achieved. Some of the delays have been linked to Covid-19, which has impacted on all sectors across Northern Ireland.

However, the transformational change stemming from the review cannot be implemented without the support of justice partners and other Executive departments meaning that a collaborative approach is needed. I am working hard to strengthen and progress this collaborative approach and have recently met with both the Education and Health Ministers.

A system wide change is required, so the biggest challenge is ensuring that things are staged properly and that change is embedded permanently, both in processes, but also in culture.

The strategic priority areas that have delivery dates of 2020 or quarter 1 of 2021 are:

- Strategic Priority Area 1 - Remote Evidence Centres – target date of Q4 2020
- Strategic Priority Area 3 – Case Progression Officers – Pilot extended to 2021
- Strategic Priority Area 5 - Support for child victims (including Child House “Barnahus” type Model) – target date “TBC as dependent on other initiatives, but Working Group by summer 2020”
- Strategic Priority Area 11 - Scoping work in relation to previous sexual history – target date of Q4 of 2020
- Strategic Priority Area 13 - Training – target date of Q4 of 2020

Further detail on progress against each of the strategic priority areas is set out below.

Strategic Priority Area 1 - Remote Evidence Centres

The Implementation Plan (<https://www.justice-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/justice/the-gillen-review-implementation-plan.PDF>) stated that a “Remote Evidence Centre (Belfast) would be ready for use by the end of 2020”. This objective has been achieved with a temporary Remote Evidence Centre (REC) for Belfast now operational. In addition, a second temporary REC for the Craigavon area is also now operational.

Whilst the commitment in the Implementation Plan has been delivered within deadline, additional work is in train to further develop REC provision to fully meet Sir John's recommendations in this area. This includes work to establish a longer term facility in Belfast (Phase 2) and the strategic roll out of further REC facilities across Northern Ireland (Phase 3).

Strategic Priority Area 3 – Case Progression Officers

The Implementation Plan indicated that the Case Progression Officers (CPOs) Pilot would be extended into 2021. This has been achieved.

CPOs have been introduced to ensure that all procedural or administrative matters in relation to Crown Court cases are being progressed by the relevant agencies and that, as far as possible, any blockages or impediments to effective case progression are addressed.

An evaluation of the pilot is scheduled for later this year and will assess the nature of the CPO role and how it can work within the criminal justice system.

Strategic Priority Area 5 - Support for child victims (including consideration of Child House "Barnahus" type Model)

This strategic priority area covers recommendations relating to support for child victims, including consideration of a "Barnahus" type model for Northern Ireland. Whilst the Implementation Plan's target of having a Working Group established by the summer of 2020 was not achieved, nonetheless there has been good progress made against individual workstreams that impact on support for children. This includes:

- a cross-departmental Steering Group has been commissioned to provide strategic direction and oversee the coordinated implementation of separate workstreams and projects to deliver the Gillen Review recommendations that could have a positive impact on children who are victims of serious offences, including sexual offences.
- a priority in 2021/22 is the development of a permanent protocol to extend and build on the good practice established through the judge-led voluntary protocol to expedite serious sexual offence cases involving children under 13, which has made a positive difference to the children and their families;
- development of a pilot to provide independent legal advice in cases involving child victims of serious sexual offences;
- we have already established temporary remote evidence facilities in Belfast and Craigavon which can provide for child witnesses to give evidence remotely, away from the court building. Phase 2 is now underway and will deliver a new Remote Evidence Centre in Belfast that will include bespoke facilities tailored to the needs of children;
- consideration is being given to the development of a pilot to test pre-recorded cross-examination and re-examination and pre-agreed questions;
- the Department is supporting PSNI to improve ABE practice and providing information to inform the review of ABE suites and technology; and
- consideration of a Barnahus-type model for Northern Ireland, which would bring all justice and therapeutic child services together under a single roof.

Strategic Priority Area 11 - Scoping work in relation to previous sexual history

An initial exercise to scope the broader research requirements recommended by Sir John has been completed and an action plan is in place.

An application to the QUB 2021 Collaborative Studentship Competition has been successful, meaning that a post-graduate student will be made available to the Gillen Review Implementation Team for 3 years commencing in October 2021. This student will take forward a research piece in relation to Article 28 applications (to admit evidence of previous sexual history into court proceedings).

Strategic Priority Area 13 - Training

A cross sectoral Gillen Strategic Training Group is in the final stages of developing a Learning Framework on key themes such as the impact of trauma, marginalised groups, disclosure, file quality, child rights, rape myths and human rights. The Framework proposes a range of training solutions for those involved in the justice system and how training will be evaluated in the short, medium and long term. It is hoped that the final version of the Learning Framework will be presented to the Criminal Justice Board for approval in June.

Strategic Priority Area 2 – Sexual Offences Legal Advice Pilot

Although it has target date of Quarter 2 2021, DOJ has also launched ahead of schedule, a pilot scheme to provide publicly funded legal advice to adult complaints in serious sexual offence cases. The service provides free independent legal advice from the point victims report a crime, up to the commencement of the trial and was launched on 1 April 2021. It is funded by the Department of Justice and delivered by Victim Support NI.

Further work is underway to resolve issues to allow complainants to be represented in court which we hope can be introduced as a Phase 2 of the pilot. Work is also about to start on the development of an equivalent model for complainants who are children. This work will be led by the Support for Children Steering Group.

The transformational change stemming from the review cannot be implemented without the support of justice partners and other Executive departments meaning that a collaborative approach is needed. I am working hard to strengthen and progress this collaborative approach and have recently met with both the Education and Health Ministers. A system wide change is required, so the biggest challenge is ensuring that things are staged properly and that change is embedded permanently, both in processes, but also in culture.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister of Justice for an update on when face-to-face prison visits may recommence.

Mrs Long: On 22 April the Northern Ireland Prison Service announced that in-person visits will be reintroduced with effect from 4 May, with the additional safeguards in place to mitigate against the risk of infection to both staff and those in our care. These safeguards will include restricting visits to one visitor over 16 years of age, using temperature checks and maintaining physical measures to minimise the risk of physical contact during a visit. The measures we are required to put in place significantly restrict our capacity and consequently we will continue to provide family virtual visits.

While only one person is permitted at this time, this and the other restrictions currently required are being kept under constant review and are consistent with visiting arrangements in other areas such as hospitals. While I recognise this is difficult for families, this is a cautious first step in the road to full recovery for our prisons.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Justice to detail the elements of the Tackling Paramilitarism Action Plan which will be used to investigate and help prevent further instances of the rioting and antisocial behaviour seen on Northern Ireland's streets in recent weeks.

Mrs Long: As the member will be aware, any investigations relating to criminal activity are an operational matter for the PSNI, and I respect the Chief Constable's operational independence on this matter.

It should also be noted that whilst members linked to paramilitary crime gangs have been present during some of the disorder, the PSNI have stated that there is no evidence of paramilitary orchestration of much of the violence we witnessed.

We are all aware that antisocial behaviour and rioting has a negative impact on a community and individuals, and has significant consequences for those who engage in it. It requires a collaborative response from across government in partnership with communities to support individuals at risk and to address underlying issues. I am pleased that there are many initiatives under the Tackling Paramilitarism, Crime and Organised Crime Programme which adopt that approach, and while these are not the only initiatives which will address the issues that we have seen in recent weeks, they have a role in addressing this behaviour.

The Programme is supporting a number of projects which focus on young people. These include early intervention projects, diversionary programmes, projects which provide direct support for those at risk, and multi-agency initiatives to co-ordinate efforts to support young people. These include the following projects: START led by Education Authority (EA); WRAP led by Department of Education; Aspire led by the Probation Board; Fresh Start Through Sport, CRISP, and Gallagh Family Support led by the Department for Communities; educational aspiration projects led by The Executive Office through Communities in Transition; the Mid and East Antrim Support Hub; and the Common Purpose initiative between EA and PSNI.

To supplement these interventions, place-based working will be developed further over the coming months and conversations have started with community partners to identify and work to address shared priorities there, some of which will have a positive impact on anti-community activity.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Justice when applications for the Troubles-related Incident Victims Payment scheme will open.

Mrs Long: Mr Justice McAlinden, President of the Victims' Payments Board, has announced his intention to open the Troubles Permanent Disablement Payment Scheme for applications from 30 June 2021.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Justice, in relation to the COVID-19 Feminist Recovery Plan published in July 2020, (i) to detail her assessment of its recommendations; (ii) what steps her Department intends to take in relation to its recommendations; and (iii) to outline how the recommendations are being factored into future Programme for Government outcomes.

Mrs Long: The COVID-19 Feminist Recovery Plan was published in July 2020 and a report with recommendations specific to my Department was received in February 2021.

The recommendations are currently being considered by officials alongside the work being led by the Department for Communities to develop a Gender Equality Strategy for the Executive as referenced in 'New Decade New Approach'.

I am due to meet with the report authors to discuss the departmental recommendations further in the coming weeks and have also raised with Executive colleagues the need to factor the report into the Covid Taskforce work on recovery. That work will in turn help inform priority areas and outcomes in the next Programme for Government.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Justice whether her Department has commissioned any research regarding the mental health outcomes of women and girls that come into contact with the Justice System.

Mrs Long: My Department has not commissioned any research specifically in relation to the mental health outcomes of women and girls that come into contact with the justice system.

We have however, during the last year, conducted extensive engagement of the women in the Northern Ireland Prison Service's care in support of the development of a range of strategies, including the health-led Mental Health Strategy and the Department's Strategy to Support Women and Girls in Contact with the Justice System. Professor Siobhan O'Neill also met personally with a number of women in our care in her capacity as Interim Mental Health Champion to ensure that their voices were heard and to inform her input to both of the aforementioned strategies.

We are very grateful to these individuals, many of whom have lived experience of mental health issues, for sharing their views in order to improve outcomes for others.

Many of those who come into contact with the justice system have a range of unmet or unidentified health needs, several of which are co-existing. This is not a problem which justice alone can fix and a truly integrated, cross-departmental approach is required to systemically address a range of issues which have an impact on mental health - including substance misuse, homelessness, educational underachievement, employability and child poverty.

Mr Beattie asked the Minister of Justice to outline the policy the NI Prison Service follows in regards to body worn cameras. (AQW 18168/17-22)

Mrs Long: The Northern Ireland Prison Service, Body Worn Video Camera Policy, was implemented in 2019 following a successful trial of this technology.

The aim of the policy is to ensure that all staff involved in the deployment, use or storage of Body Worn Video Camera recording equipment or material are fully aware of the systems and procedures required.

Department for the Economy

Ms Hunter asked the Minister for the Economy when all students can expect to have received the £500 Covid Disruption Payment.

Mrs Dodds (The Minister for the Economy): The Covid Disruption Payments were intended to be paid to eligible students by the end of March 2021. The institutions managed the payment process to the students, and have now provided my Department with the following updates. The number of Queen's University students who are eligible for the Covid Disruption Payment is 17,928. By Wednesday 31 March, the payment had been issued to 17,693 students. Between Thursday 1 April and Friday 16 April, a further 141 Covid Disruption Payments were issued. Queen's University is continuing to engage with a further 94 students who have been advised of their eligibility, but have yet to provide the information required to facilitate the payment to them. Ulster University made the Covid Disruption Payment to 16,793 students before the end of March 2021. A further 275 students have since received their payments, bringing the current total to 17,068. Another 74 payments are expected to be paid on 26 and 27 April, bringing the total to 17,142. Another 344 students remain outstanding for payment. The delay for students receiving payment after the end of March has been due to students failing to supply the relevant information to facilitate payment. 897 students at St Mary's University College were eligible for a Covid Disruption Payment. 872 students received a payment on or before 31 March. 20 students received a payment in the period 1 April to 9 April. Issues surrounding incorrect bank details resulted in delays in getting the payment to the remaining students, but St Mary's are working to resolve the matter. All 865 Stranmillis students eligible for the £500 payment were paid by the end of March 2021.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for the Economy whether she will consider a version of the COVID-19 Productive Investment Capital Grant for businesses with a turnover of less than £500,000 per year.

Mrs Dodds: The Productive Investment Capital Grant (PICG) scheme is managed and administered by Invest NI. PICG supports businesses to undertake productivity focused capital investments in response to the challenges arising from the COVID-19 pandemic. To ensure the best return on investment for the public funding available, the scheme is aimed at businesses with sufficient scale and resources to benefit from this support, hence the minimum turnover threshold of £500k per year and minimum investment requirement of £50k in capital, including new technology, software, automation or digital manufacturing technologies, to improve productivity. Due to the high level of interest in the PICG scheme, Invest NI is currently investigating scope for additional approvals and funding. It is possible that the scheme's eligibility criteria may be reviewed as part of this process.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister for the Economy, in the context of the COVID-19 economic recovery, whether she intends to provide additional financial support to facilitate new business start-ups.

Mrs Dodds: On 25 February 2021, I published my Economic Recovery Action Plan which sets out the support that I will provide for companies and individuals in the medium term.

The Plan includes a number of initiatives which will support and promote new business start-ups. For example:

- Further support for the Catalyst Co-Founders Programme, an initiative which encourages new start-up companies by entrepreneurs, students and researchers;
- Continuing the NI Business Start-Up Programme, branded as Go for It, in which the Department will work in conjunction with DfC to set revised targets for the Programme, which provides advice and support to people seeking to start their own business;
- A refresh and relaunch of the Entrepreneurship Forum in which Invest NI will work along with partners and stakeholders such as Councils, Enterprise NI, Universities, Further Education Colleges and other stakeholders to better align and integrate support available for new start businesses across Northern Ireland; and
- A review of Invest NI's Entrepreneurship Action Plan which will pursue and develop commercial opportunities for export oriented start-ups and new entrepreneurs.

The actions above are additional to Invest NI's core work supporting start-up businesses through its extensive range of support including jobs related support; Propel Accelerator and Pre Accelerator Programmes; Grow Beyond Trade; From Student to First Sale; and Research & Development support. Invest NI is also working with stakeholders to develop a number of new initiatives to boost entrepreneurship across the wider economy, including underrepresented groups.

Mr Blair asked the Minister for the Economy to detail plans to incentivise the private sector to invest in the green economy. (AQW 16962/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I would refer the Member to the reply I gave to AQW 16356/17-22.

Mr Blair asked the Minister for the Economy how often reviews will be carried out to ensure that Northern Ireland is on target to meet her Department's ambition of achieving 70% renewable generation by 2030. (AQW 16963/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The new Energy Strategy for Northern Ireland will include the Executive's renewable electricity ambition. The strategy will be formally reviewed every five years, with mid-term reviews to assist with re-scoping priorities, re-assessing cost impacts and taking account of new technologies.

Reviews on progress of the previous 40% renewable electricity target by 2020 continues to be monitored on the basis of the proportion of electricity consumption generated from renewable sources, and outcomes are published by NISRA on a quarterly basis.

The methodology and frequency of monitoring for the new renewable electricity target will be dependent on the definition of the measure adopted and the frequency of supporting data. This will be informed by responses to the Energy Strategy consultation that was published on 31 March.

Mr Chambers asked the Minister for the Economy whether there is any financial help available to wholesalers of non-essential goods who have suffered financial loss due to the closures of retailers trading in goods that they supply. (AQW 17024/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The NI Executive and the UK Government have introduced an unprecedented number of interventions and packages of financial support to help those who have been affected by the consequences of Covid-19. To date, the Department for the Economy has provided approximately £440 million of much needed funds to support to local businesses from all sectors and occupations throughout Northern Ireland.

In recent months, this Department also introduced the Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme (CRBSS), which provides support for supply chain businesses under Part B. This includes businesses that supply the goods directly or via a wholesaler or intermediary. Those businesses who successfully applied will continue to receive financial support throughout any periods of extended closure.

The Finance Minister recently announced an additional £178 million of business support grants, and a further twelve months of rates relief for sectors most directly impacted by Covid-19 and the necessary restrictions imposed by the Executive.

Looking forward, I believe that the best way to support all of our local businesses is to re-open the economy, thus enabling all of our people to commence working and trading as soon as possible, in line with the Executive's published roadmap 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions' and the associated health regulations.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for the Economy to detail her actions resulting of the Utility Regulator's report on the non-independence of the System Operator for Northern Ireland. (AQW 17029/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The issue of SONI's independence is the subject of consultation by the Utility Regulator.

As this consultation is ongoing it would be inappropriate for me to pre-empt its findings or recommendations.

I am satisfied that the Utility Regulator has the interests of NI consumers as its key focus and look forward to hearing the outcome of the consultation.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for the Economy when further education students will return to in-person classes.

Mrs Dodds: The full return to face-to-face on-site learning at the further education (FE) colleges will be subject to the phases set out in the Executive's 'Pathway out of Restrictions' which was published on 2 March 2021.

The current arrangements are that colleges can remain open to their learners by delivering distance learning to the maximum extent possible, with essential face-to-face learning taking place only when it is a necessary and unavoidable part of the course. Learners and staff have been permitted on-site to undertake examinations and assessments in line with relevant government issued industry and workplace restrictions and guidance for occupational settings.

For many learners, online learning will not be sufficient to enable them to achieve their qualifications by the end of the academic year. Students undertaking licence to practice and competency skills-based programmes will need to return on-site for the opportunity to undertake skills training and associated assessment activities if they are to successfully complete their programme and progress to employment or further education or training.

In particular, learners currently studying in 'close contact' subject areas, such as hair and beauty, sports studies, and service elements of hospitality, and where the wider sector is still under occupational operating restrictions, have not yet been able to return to face-to-face on-site education. This is impacting the ability of these learners to gain enough practical experience to allow them to undertake their assessments and subsequently gain employment or move into the next stage of their training.

At the Executive meeting on 15 April it was agreed that those learners who are training in close contact subjects can return to on-site training at FE premises from Friday 23 April 2021 (to coincide with the lifting of restrictions in the close contact services), subject to strict adherence to conditions set out in (i) a specific guidance note for close contact training services, (ii) the principles in the Framework for the Safe Resumption of On-Site Educational Provision and Related Activity which was published in August 2020 and regularly reviewed with up to date advice and guidance from the NI Executive and Public Health Agency, and (iii) site specific risk assessments.

The second phase of the 'Pathway out of Restrictions' will see a partial return to practical face-to-face learning for increased numbers of FE learners, apprentices and Training for Success (TfS) participants. This will enable those learners to undertake skills training and associated assessment activities to enable them to successfully complete their programmes. There will be no change to FE delivery in the third phase, but by the end of phase four increased face-to-face teaching will be permitted for FE learners and apprentices. Finally, by the end of phase five, FE colleges will move to a full return to face-to-face learning.

This staged and gradual approach to the easing of restrictions will be kept under review and will be informed by a range of evidence and data, which will determine the dates at which we can progress.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy (i) whether her Department has calculated the amount of renewable electricity that would be required to produce sufficient hydrogen to replace natural gas in the supply networks; and (ii) for her assessment of the level of renewable electricity generating capacity that would be required.

Mrs Dodds: On the 31st March 2021, my department published the options consultation paper to further inform the development of the Northern Ireland Energy Strategy.

Within the options consultation paper, the example cited in the question was not proposed as a potential option and therefore has not been modelled.

As we progress through the coming months, I look forward to seeing all responses to the consultation and welcome participation in this area to highlight the engagement opportunity it provides.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy to provide details of any Executive Departments or organisations which were paid for internal consultation, in each of the last four years.

Mrs Dodds: Details of the organisations which my Department has paid for internal consultancy services in each of the past four years are included in Annex A.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy to provide details of the total amount of grants given via Invest NI to Caterpillar (NI).

Mrs Dodds: From 2003 to date, Caterpillar NI (formerly FG Wilson) has received grant support of £13.33m. These payments were made against offers of support once the company had delivered the terms of the letters of offer and were for job creation, capital investment, Skills, R&D and establishment of an Engineering Centre of Excellence at its operations in Larne, Monkstown and Springvale, Belfast.

Invest NI does not hold details of payments against offers prior to this date.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy to confirm (i) whether her Department requested that statements critical of current energy governance in Northern Ireland were to be removed in University of Exeter Report on Energy governance for the Northern Ireland energy transition; and, (ii) if so, the rationale for this request.

Mrs Dodds: My Department’s role in any external research, is to help ensure it is factually accurate and supported by evidence. The researchers from the University of Exeter provided my officials with an initial draft of the report for review and comment, which was shared with a range of government stakeholders. Officials provided information to the researchers to seek to ensure the factual accuracy of the report’s contents. This would be viewed as ‘normal practice’.

It is for the authors to use any information provided to them to draw their own conclusions which, naturally, may change as additional evidence is gathered.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy (i) for her assessment of how community energy groups can contribute to lowering the reliance on fossil fuels for energy; and (ii) whether her Department has given any assistance to such groups.

Mrs Dodds: The Consultation on Policy Options for the new Energy Strategy for Northern Ireland provides a vision of net zero carbon and affordable energy by placing consumers at the heart of Northern Ireland’s energy future. The Consultation includes a proposal to develop a policy framework for community energy that meets the requirements of the 2019 Electricity (Recast) Directive, whilst also considering additional policy measures that could be included. These include providing access to finance, incentives and capability training to enable communities to generate, use, sell and share their energy.

While direct financial assistance has not been provided to community energy organisations, a small number have developed renewable electricity generating stations which are accredited under the Northern Ireland Renewables Obligation.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for the Economy (i) to confirm that, as part of the Strategic Energy Framework consultation, whether she is aware that the source of the methane gas for the putative gas storage facilities off Islandmagee includes gas extracted in North America using fracking techniques; and (ii) for her assessment of whether it is ethical and appropriate to convert this fossil gas to hydrogen and carbon gases as a way of delivering hydrogen for heating and road fuels.

Mrs Dodds:

- (i) Northern Ireland currently obtains all of its gas supplies via an undersea pipeline from the gas transmission system in Great Britain and, without significant additional infrastructure investment, this would be the expected source of gas for any potential gas storage facility sited in Northern Ireland. Consideration of alternative sources of gas for the proposed Islandmagee project is a matter for the developers.
- (ii) My Department’s current consultation on policy options for the new Energy Strategy for Northern Ireland views ‘green’ hydrogen, produced by electrolysis powered by renewable electricity sources such as excess wind, as primary in our future energy profile. The consultation also considers the potential for creating zero carbon ‘blue’ hydrogen to help meet our energy requirements in the future through steam methane reforming of fossil fuels with carbon capture. The fuels utilised in this process might include natural gas or biomethane taken from existing gas networks. It is too early at this stage of the development of the Energy Strategy to comment on issues which have yet to be fully considered and decided upon, but I welcome all responses to the consultation.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy whether a ban on petroleum licensing will be one of the options presented to the Executive when it considers the consultancy report from Hatch Regeneris.

Mrs Dodds: My Department will use all relevant information, including the report from Hatch Regeneris, to consider and evaluate all policy options before presenting an analysis and recommendations to the Executive in due course.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy (i) for her assessment of the conclusion from consultants Hatch Regeneris in its report on fracking for the Welsh government that within the UK Government, there is clearly now a supportive policy environment for the development of unconventional oil and gas, setting out to provide a safe, responsible and environmentally sound basis for the recovery of the unconventional reserves of oil and gas within the UK; and (ii) for her assessment of whether that conclusion makes the appointment of Hatch Regeneris to conduct the fracking review for her Department incompatible with the position of the Northern Ireland Assembly.

Mrs Dodds:

- (i) Regeneris Consulting, Cardiff University and AMEC Consulting produced a report into the Socio-economic Impact of Unconventional Gas in Wales in July 2015. The excerpt that the member refers to was an accurate summation of the UK government position at that point in time which was prior to changes in policy position in England and Wales.
- (ii) Hatch Regeneris was appointed to carry out Northern Ireland specific research having fulfilled the criteria set out on e-tenders at time of advertisement of the procurement. This included qualifications and experience, proposed methodology, contract management and price. Hatch has been commissioned by the Department to undertake an assessment of the environmental, social and economic impacts of onshore petroleum exploration and development in Northern Ireland. The report will not make policy recommendations. The report's findings, along with any other relevant information, will inform the Department's development of policy options in line with the policy development process and will be subject to both Executive approval and public consultation.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy to detail the total amount of grants given to FG Wilson.

Mrs Dodds: Given that the information requested is from 1999, which is after the Caterpillar Inc. acquisition, no additional information can be provided regarding grants given to FG Wilson than that provided in response to AQW 17077 17-22 which asked 'the Minister for the Economy to provide details of the total amount of grants given via Invest NI to Caterpillar (NI)'.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy for an update of when students in further education will return to face-to-face teaching, given sixth-form students in schools have already done so.[R]

Mrs Dodds: New Energy Strategy

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy, in relation to the New Energy strategy, to detail (i) the specific areas in which the green economy and in particular green energy is likely to create employment; and (ii) what steps she is taking to ensure workers in Northern Ireland will be equipped with the skills required by these employment opportunities.

Mrs Dodds: Decarbonising energy will provide many opportunities to create wealth through investment and jobs whilst ensuring our environment is sustainable. Last month I launched a consultation on the new Energy Strategy with 'Growing a Green Economy' as one of five principles of the Strategy. This is also a key pillar of my Economic Recovery Action Plan.

- (i) Through these strategic plans, we have the opportunity to develop new clean energy technologies, embrace innovation and support new skills as part of a low carbon workforce. Building on the Economic Recovery Action Plan that I published in February, proposed areas of focus in the Energy Strategy Options Consultation include energy efficiency, renewable energy, and the development and growth of our circular and hydrogen economies.
- (ii) The Energy Strategy Options Consultation identifies skills as a key priority to develop the skills needed for new jobs within the clean energy sector. This includes training and education opportunities through apprenticeships, as well as further and higher education routes. We will also consider measures to re-skill and re-train the workforce impacted by the transition from fossil fuels. The Options Consultation includes a proposal to establish an Energy Skills Forum to shape skills development for our emerging low carbon workforce. I will also soon be bringing forward a consultation on a new Skills Strategy which will outline the strategic priorities for skills development in meeting the needs of the economy.

All of these important policy proposals are discussed in more detail in the Energy Strategy policy options consultation. I would encourage you and your constituents to respond to help inform our net zero energy future.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy to detail how she will ensure energy costs will remain affordable for consumers throughout the drive to decarbonise the local energy sector.

Mrs Dodds: Our proposed vision for the new Energy Strategy is to deliver a transition to net zero carbon energy systems that has consumers at its centre.

The consultation on Policy Options for a new Energy Strategy proposes a number of policies and measures to deliver fair and affordable energy systems. These include:

- Ensuring that affordability and fairness are primary considerations when assessing the costs, investment and financial support needed to meet net zero carbon energy;
- Enabling all consumers who want to participate in the future energy system and providing adequate protections to all, particularly vulnerable consumers; and
- Adopting a “one stop shop” to make sure all consumers have access to adequate, tailored and easy to understand information and support.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister for the Economy whether she will consider reopening the Small Business Support Grant Scheme and the Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme: Parts A and B, for businesses that had not applied in time but are eligible for support.

Mrs Dodds: The Small Business Support Grant Scheme opened on 26 March 2020. The scheme closed to applications on 20 May 2020 and is now fully closed.

The Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme (CRBSS) Part A opened to applications on 28 October 2020 and Part B opened to applications on 19 November 2020. This scheme has been extended in conjunction with the amended Coronavirus Health Regulations on a number of occasions, with the latest closing date for applications to both Part A and B being extended from 31 March 2021 to 7 April 2021.

These schemes were announced and then widely publicised on a variety of media outlets, including the respective extensions referred to above. Guidance was available online via the NI Business Info website, with dedicated helplines available to deal with enquiries to aid the application process. My Department considers that the schemes have been open to applications for a suitable length of time and has no plans to re-open these schemes.

As we look forward, my Department's focus is on a speedy and un-interrupted re-opening of the NI economy as soon as possible, in line with the Executive's published roadmap 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions' and the associated health regulations.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for the Economy what plans her Department has to provide support to the wedding industry, particularly wedding dress shops that have been significantly impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Mrs Dodds: Since March 2020, the NI Executive and the UK Government have introduced an unprecedented number of interventions and packages of financial support to help those who have been affected by the consequences of Covid-19.

The Department for the Economy (DfE) has led in the delivery of business related support, providing approximately £440 million of much needed funds to support local businesses from all sectors and occupations throughout Northern Ireland, with the primary aim of helping these businesses to survive the pandemic, and protect as many local jobs as possible.

The Department has no plans to introduce any new schemes at this time. Rather, the Department's focus is on the full and un-interrupted re-opening of the NI economy. I have listened to many business representatives and employers in recent months, and this has confirmed my belief that the best way to support all of our local businesses is to enable all of our people to commence working and trading as soon as possible, in line with the Executive's roadmap, 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions', and the associated health regulations.

It will be for the Executive collectively to determine how any Covid-related funding is allocated as we progress through the roadmap and the lifting of restrictions.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy for the rationale for her Department's change in policy from opposing Contracts for Difference for renewable electricity generation to now supporting them in the energy strategy consultation.

Mrs Dodds: The majority of responses to power questions in the Energy Strategy Call for Evidence indicated that a support scheme will be necessary to encourage renewables investment in Northern Ireland at sufficient levels to meet net zero targets. This is particularly true in relation to new and emerging technology which would be necessary to address the largely intermittent nature of our current technology mix.

As a result, officials are exploring with BEIS the possibility of extending the Contracts for Difference scheme to Northern Ireland. My aim is to design a scheme that supports generation in Northern Ireland while protecting local consumers from being exposed to higher costs across the UK.

As stated in the Energy Strategy Consultation document, Northern Ireland previously consulted on joining the Contracts for Difference scheme while recognising there were a number of issues that would need to be resolved; these issues will form the basis of discussions with BEIS. However I reserve the right to develop alternative options to promote renewable generation.

The Energy Strategy options consultation was published at the end of March and will remain open until 30 June 2021.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy whether the energy strategy consultation's reference to the use of blue hydrogen supported by carbon capture and storage is compatible with the strategy's statement that Northern Ireland is not an ideal location for carbon capture and storage.

Mrs Dodds: The energy strategy consultation paper considers a range of options as we work towards net zero carbon energy by 2050 and seeks evidence on these.

The consultation does not outline a specific policy regarding blue hydrogen and we look forward to receiving responses regarding the role this could play.

With regards to carbon capture, whilst the consultation does not propose developing a policy regime to store carbon at onshore sites in Northern Ireland, it does seek to identify opportunities for capturing, utilising and transporting carbon. Again, I look forward to receiving responses to the consultation on the specific opportunities to inform policy in this area.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy (i) for an explanation of the meaning of a strategic approach to the location of renewable projects and grid infrastructure as specified in her Department's energy strategy consultation; and (ii) what it would mean in practice in terms of the regional economic balance of NI and the location of renewable energy infrastructure and electricity grid infrastructure.

Mrs Dodds: The support of local communities will be vitally important in our efforts to meet increased renewable electricity targets to 2030 and beyond. The strategic approach to planning, proposed in the options consultation for a new Energy Strategy, would require close collaboration between all key stakeholders to encourage the development of renewable electricity projects in areas where renewable resource and grid infrastructure can be optimised.

The process already followed by NIE Networks to group a number of generating stations to enable them to share network infrastructure, is a good example of this in practice. The expectation is that such an approach to planning would limit the spatial effect of future projects and the impact on local communities and the environment. Furthermore, focused rather than widespread grid development would minimise the impact on consumer electricity bills.

Developers gravitate to areas that offer the best renewable resource. This is unlikely to change and the strategic approach proposed, therefore, is not expected to have any significant effect on economic balance.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy for her assessment of whether a direct duty for the Utility Regulator to reduce carbon should be considered.

Mrs Dodds: Regulation is identified as a delivery priority in the Energy Strategy Options Consultation published at the end of March.

The consultation highlights that although the Utility Regulator has played an important role in supporting energy decarbonisation to date, energy regulation is going through a significant transition to adapt to new energy objectives and the scale of innovation required.

We therefore intend to work with the Utility Regulator to review the adequacy of its legislative remit in the context of the Energy Strategy

I look forward to receiving feedback from the consultation to help inform the future direction for energy policy and regulation in Northern Ireland.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy when she will answer AQW 13276/17-22.

Mrs Dodds: AQW 13276/17-22 was answered on 20/04/2021.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy what engagement her Department is having with further and higher education Institutions in relation to preparing for the resumption of increased in-person learning.

Mrs Dodds: The Department has engaged regularly and comprehensively with the Further Education (FE) sector throughout the course of the pandemic.

In June 2020 my Department established an Advisory and Oversight Group (AOG) to work collaboratively with the FE Sector to prepare for the safe resumption of on-site educational delivery. This group includes representatives from the Department for the Economy (DfE), each of the six FE colleges and Trade Unions, Non Statutory Contractors (NSCs) and advisors including the Department's Quality Improvement Advisor and the Education and Training Inspectorate. The Group developed a guidance document for the sector which has been provided to the colleges and NSCs to advise them on the necessary steps that must be taken to ensure health and safety. This guidance is the "Framework for Safe Resumption of On-Site Educational Provision and Related Activity" document (the Framework) and can be found at Framework for the safe resumption of on-site educational provision and related activity \(https://www.economy-ni.gov.uk/publications/framework-safe-resumption-site-educational-provision-and-related-activity\).

The AOG meets on a regular basis to address key issues that have arisen throughout the year including the practical implications of safely returning to on-site delivery, access to IT equipment to work remotely, assessment and qualifications, and payment of free school meals allowances. This approach has ensured that issues have been identified and addressed as quickly as possible.

In addition to the work of the AOG, FE Division engages with the College Principals/Chief Executives on a regular and ongoing basis, and officials work in collaboration with the relevant specialist teams within the sector to prepare for the return to on-site face-to-face learning.

The Executive's 'Pathway out of Restrictions' which was published on 2 March 2021, has provided the FE sector with the approach that will be taken as we move forward over the next few months, and my officials will continue to engage with the sector as we progress through the stages.

Most recently my officials engaged with the colleges to identify those groups of learners most at risk of not completing this year and to take steps to address this. In particular learners studying in 'close contact' subject areas, such as hair and beauty, sports studies, and service elements of hospitality, were unable to receive any face-to-face on-site education whilst the wider sector was under occupational operating restrictions which impacted the ability of these learners to gain enough practical experience to allow them to undertake their assessments and subsequently gain employment or move into the next stage of their training.

My officials collaborated with the colleges to produce specific guidance outlining the process that could be put in place in FE colleges and Non Statutory Contractors to mitigate against the risk of infection/transmission of COVID19 in these training environments with the aim of allowing learners to return to gain the required training. At the Executive meeting on 15 April it was agreed that those learners who are training in close contact subjects can return to on-site training at FE premises from Friday 23 April 2021 (to coincide with the lifting of restrictions in the close contact sectors), subject to strict adherence to specific conditions set out in the new guidance document, the Framework document, and site specific risk assessments.

The second phase of the 'Pathway out of Restrictions' will see a partial return to practical face-to-face learning for increased numbers of FE learners, apprentices and Training for Success (TfS) participants, and my officials will engage with the college principals as we progress through this and subsequent phases to ensure the best outcomes for learners in a safe environment.

As our Universities are autonomous institutions the return of face to face learning is primarily a matter for them to consider based on the public health advice from the Executive.

I recently announced an £4.1million for the provision of a safe working, learning and research environment in our Higher Education Institutes and all our Higher Education students have access to asymptomatic testing. With these measures I believe that we should be facilitating the potential return for all students as soon as it is possible, I am asking Executive colleagues to consider the current advice and to help our University students regain the learning experience they deserve.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for the Economy whether she will consider launching a scheme whereby her Department works with sponsor companies to support trainee HGV drivers through their vocational qualifications, similar to that successfully rolled out by Belfast City Council.

Mrs Dodds: The Department has a wide range of provision available to meet the current and future skills needs of employers. This includes the successful Assured Skills academies, Skills Focus and InnovateUS, delivered through the Further Education colleges. Financial support is also available through Invest NI to meet companies' skills requirements where they meet the necessary criteria.

Neither my Department, nor Invest NI, currently have any plans to cover the cost of mandatory training, such as HGV licensing.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for the Economy whether her Department has any plans to require caravan site operators that have received financial assistance to offer reductions to their site tenants who have paid a full annual fee despite caravan sites being closed.

Mrs Dodds: Whilst I have sympathy for caravan owners who have not received reductions in their caravan site annual fees, it is not for my Department to intervene on this matter.

This is a contractual issue between the caravan owners and the owners / managers of the caravan park on which they are sited.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for the Economy whether she has any plans to bring forward a bespoke support package for the Wedding and Events' Industry.

Mrs Dodds: Since March 2020, the NI Executive and the UK Government have introduced an unprecedented number of interventions and packages of financial support to help those who have been affected by the consequences of Covid-19.

The Department for the Economy (DfE) has led in the delivery of business related support, providing approximately £440 million of much needed funds to support local businesses from all sectors and occupations throughout Northern Ireland, with the primary aim of helping these businesses to survive the pandemic, and protect as many local jobs as possible.

The Department has no plans to introduce any new schemes at this time. Rather, the Department's focus is on the full and uninterrupted re-opening of the NI economy. I have listened to many business representatives and employers in recent months, and this has confirmed my belief that the best way to support all of our local businesses is to enable all of our people to commence working and trading as soon as possible, in line with the Executive's roadmap, 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions', and the associated health regulations.

It will be for the Executive collectively to determine how any Covid-related funding is allocated as we progress through the roadmap and the lifting of restrictions.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for the Economy (i) to provide an update on the £500 Covid Disruption Payment for students; and (i) when she expects all payments to be completed.

Mrs Dodds: The Covid Disruption Payments were intended to be paid to eligible students by the end of March 2021. The institutions managed the payment process to the students, and have now provided my Department with the following updates.

The number of Queen's University students who are eligible for the Covid Disruption Payment is 17,928. By Wednesday 31 March, the payment had been issued to 17,693 students. Between Thursday 1 April and Friday 16 April, a further 141 Covid Disruption Payments were issued. Queen's University is continuing to engage with a further 94 students who have been advised of their eligibility, but have yet to provide the information required to facilitate the payment to them.

Ulster University made the Covid Disruption Payment to 16,793 students before the end of March 2021. A further 275 students have since received their payments, bringing the current total to 17,068. Another 74 payments are expected to be paid on 26 and 27 April, bringing the total to 17,142. Another 344 students remain outstanding for payment. The delay for students receiving payment after the end of March has been due to students failing to supply the relevant information to facilitate payment.

897 students at St Mary's University College were eligible for a Covid Disruption Payment. 872 students received a payment on or before 31 March. 20 students received a payment in the period 1 April to 9 April. Issues surrounding incorrect bank details resulted in delays in getting the payment to the remaining students, but St Mary's are working to resolve the matter.

All 865 Stranmillis students eligible for the £500 payment were paid by the end of March 2021.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy to confirm (i) when students in further education can expect to return to full-time teaching; and (ii) for her assessment of the disadvantage faced by further education students unable to work from home and sixth-form students in schools who also take courses in further education colleges.[R]

Mrs Dodds:

- (i) Further Education (FE) colleges have continued to provide full time teaching throughout the Covid-19 pandemic, albeit mainly via online delivery during periods of additional restrictions. The full return to face-to-face learning at the FE colleges will be subject to the phases set out in the Executive's 'Pathway out of Restrictions' which was published on 2 March 2021. The Pathway has provided the approach that will be taken as we move forward over the next few months and the FE sector must comply with this.

As previously advised in AQW 171933-/17-22, at the Executive meeting on 15 April it was agreed that those learners who are training in close contact subjects could return to on-site training at FE premises from Friday 23 April 2021 (to coincide with the lifting of restrictions in the sectors).

The second phase of the 'Pathway out of Restrictions' will see a partial return to practical face-to-face learning for FE learners, apprentices and Training for Success (TfS) participants in FE colleges and non-statutory contractors (NSCs). This will enable those learners to undertake skills training and associated assessment activities to enable them to successfully complete their programme. At its meeting on 22 April, the Executive agreed that a move to phase two could commence once lateral flow testing arrangements are in place, and this is being progressed as a matter of urgency.

There will be no change to FE delivery in the third phase, but by the end of phase four increased face-to-face teaching will be permitted for FE learners and apprentices. The pathway stipulates that a full return to on-site learning will not take place until the end of stage 5, and a date for that will be determined in due course and in line with public health advice. However, this will be kept under review along with medical and scientific advice about Covid-19 transmission rates, and the process will be expedited if circumstances permit.

- (ii) As advised above, those learners who are studying “close contact” subjects and are unable to complete work at home due to the practical nature of the course, are now able to return to on-site provision, in line with the lifting of operating restrictions in the wider sector. This will allow them to undertake the necessary skills training and associated assessment activities to enable them to successfully complete their programme and progress to employment or further education or training.

Ensuring FE students can access online learning from home during the Covid-19 pandemic has been a key priority and digital hardship funding, in terms of the one-off £60 cash payment for mobile data, is only one of the measures my Department has adopted in response to the Covid-19 pandemic. The digital hardship fund secured the provision of 500 additional iPads/devices to facilitate online learning for students and prior to that, there had been an additional £4.8 million funding provided to further education colleges for IT equipment that allowed continued access from home for both college staff and students.

During periods of additional Covid-19 restrictions, a small number of FE students who do not have reliable broadband have been allowed to utilise college libraries to access internet facilities.

FE colleges play a significant role in supporting local schools in the delivery of vocational qualifications at both Key Stage 4 and post GCSE. I have agreed that school pupils, studying at colleges under the Entitlement Framework could return to on-site learning from the week commencing 19 April 2021. This specifically relates to school pupils who are undertaking practical courses including Occupational Studies or other courses with a practical element where assessments or activities, to enable the award of a Centre Determined Grade, need to be carried out.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy, pursuant to AQW 17283/17-22, (i) for her assessment of the benefits of the Erasmus Programme; and (ii) whether she will explore ways to assist with, and promote, the continued participation in the programme of students at Northern Ireland universities.

Mrs Dodds:

- (i) I fully recognise the wide ranging benefits that individuals and institutions/organisations from Northern Ireland can secure from participation in international mobility programmes, including schemes which the Department administers and/or provides funding for such as Study USA, the International Development Fund, IAESTE (The International Association for the Exchange of Students for Technical Experience) and UKIERI (UK-India Education and Research Initiative), as well as the recently launched UK Turing Scheme and the Erasmus+ programme.
- (ii) In terms of the Irish Government’s proposals for Erasmus+ to which your question refers, these proposals are being taken forward by the Irish Government and our local universities. I expect the universities to actively promote all international mobility programmes that their students might best benefit from.

Ms Mullan asked the Minister for the Economy to outline the further £27.3m student hardship fund announced in the Minister of Finance’s recent statement, in particular how students can access the fund.

(AQW 17745/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: This funding, in the Written Statement by the Finance Minister, is part of a wider financial support package totalling £37.7million for higher education agreed by the Executive, which I announced on the 4th February. This amount includes £10.4million previously allocated.

This includes:

- £22million to fund a one-off discretionary payment of £500 to all students from the UK and EU who are in full time higher education in Northern Ireland, whether that is in a university or further education college setting;
- £8.5million to address student financial hardship, digital poverty and to support student unions with mental health provision;
- £4.1million for the provision of a safe working, learning and research environment; and
- £3.1million to compensate universities for lost income arising from rental pauses and releasing students from accommodation contracts.

Regarding access to the Hardship funding, these are administered by the Universities, University Colleges and the Further Education Colleges and I would strongly encourage any student facing difficulties to contact their institution to discuss what support is available.

Mr Blair asked the Minister for the Economy what discussions he has had with (i) the Ulster Farmers Union; and (ii) other representative bodies with regard to the impacts of agriculture production on respiratory health.

Mrs Dodds: The Health and Safety Executive for Northern Ireland (HSENI) has accepted transfer of this question from DAERA as HSENI lead on issues relating to occupational health.

The Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (DAERA), along with HSENI have jointly worked with the members of the Farm Safety Partnership (FSP) to develop a strategy to introduce issues of farmers' occupational health including respiratory health into the latest Farm Safety Partnership action plan.

The Partnership is made up of the key representative bodies within Farming in Northern Ireland and includes The Ulster Farmers Union (UFU), the Northern Irish Agricultural Producers Association (NIAPA), the Young Farmers Clubs of Ulster (YFCU), The National Farmers Union (NFU) Mutual and the Farm Safety Foundation along with DAERA and HSENI.

This has resulted in the inclusion of farmers' occupational health (including respiratory health) in the latest FSP Action Plan.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for the Economy (i) as it is due to end in March 2022, what plans she has in place to meet the needs of the community and voluntary sector that depend on the European Social Fund for core funding; (ii) to list all those who currently receive support from the European Social Fund and the amount they receive; and (iii) when she expects to make any future funding proposals known to the community and voluntary sector.

Mrs Dodds:

- (i) My Department does not provide core funding for the Voluntary and Community sector. The NI European Social Funding Programme delivers support to participants with particular barriers to employment and the projects that are currently delivering were selected through a competitive process. This funded activity was only ever expected to continue for a time bound period which in this case is until the end of March 2022.
- (ii) This information is already in the public domain at <https://www.economy-ni.gov.uk/publications/66-european-social-fund-call-2-projects-by-constituency-and-council-area>
- (iii) The UK Shared Prosperity Fund (SPF) is the replacement for EU structural funds and it is expected that the full details on this Fund will be published by the UK Government later this year. However, it is now clear, that both the SPF and the Community Renewal Fund 1-year pilot Programme are to be administered directly by the Ministry for Housing, Communities and Local Government (MHCLG). As currently designed, Departments will not have any role or influence in the allocation of the funds.

Currently, organisations can apply directly for support under the CRF. Further information, including the application forms are available at: <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/uk-community-renewal-fund-prospectus>

Work has been undertaken by officials in the Department to secure additional funding to enable us to extend ESF activity beyond the end of March 2022, providing additional time to consider future policy and funding options. I hope to be able to make a formal announcement around this extension very soon.

Mr Wells asked the Minister for the Economy what arrangements have been put in place to ensure that all of the post sent to Invest NI offices is opened regularly and actioned.

Mrs Dodds: When Invest NI offices closed in March 2020 in line with NI Executive COVID restrictions, a 'Keepsafe' arrangement was put in place with Royal Mail for HQ post. Incoming post is held and then delivered on a pre-arranged date on a weekly basis. It advised its customers that the office was closed and encouraged them to email correspondence where possible.

Once delivered mail is opened by the agency's Facilities Management service provider and the contents scanned and emailed to the addressee. In the case of private or confidential mail the addressee is contacted to request permission to open, or to arrange for collection. In the regional office network one member of staff has been attending the office on a regular basis to open and disseminate the post.

During the last year much of the contact with Invest NI has moved to digital. It has dealt with 40,000 business enquiries through its Business Support Team, and dealt with on average 250 calls a day. It also launched a dedicated helpline in relation to COVID, and used its business information website to disseminate clear information to businesses, with 5.4 million visits and 9 million pages viewed last year.

Dr Archibald asked the Minister for the Economy to detail to what extent, and what number of, potential investors have engaged with Invest NI since the end of the transition period, as a result of the unique status under the Ireland/Northern Ireland protocol.

Mrs Dodds: Invest NI promotes Northern Ireland as a destination of choice for mobile foreign direct investment, based on a compelling value proposition that combines our key strengths of a talented and loyal workforce, advanced telecoms infrastructure, a pro-business environment, competitive operating costs and proximity to major markets.

Potential investors assess the aforementioned value proposition as an overall package when determining the optimum location for their international operations, rather than any individual factor being considered in isolation when evaluating our attractiveness relative to other competing locations.

Since the end of the transition period, Invest NI has identified over 30 new potential inward investment opportunities which are currently at an early stage of exploration (and are commercially sensitive).

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy for her assessment of the comments attributed to Hatch Regeneris in its evidence to a committee meeting of Fermanagh and Omagh District Council on 15 April 2021 that its consultancy review on petroleum licensing includes the baseline scenario of unlimited exploration.

Mrs Dodds: Hatch Regeneris met with the Regeneration and Community committee of Fermanagh & Omagh District Council on 15 April 2021 as part of their research into the impact of onshore petroleum exploration in Northern Ireland. The research will consider three development scenarios – high, medium and low levels of exploration and development activity. These development scenarios will be set against a baseline scenario. During discussion with FODC, Hatch referred to a “status quo” or “no production” scenario as including a limited amount of exploration activity occurring but not leading through to commercial development. The Department has since clarified this position with Hatch and confirmed its requirement that the baseline scenario should include no exploration or development activity.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister for the Economy to outline whether she has any plans to create a new apprenticeship programme that is accessible for all age demographics.

Mrs Dodds: My Department’s current ApprenticeshipsNI programme provides funding support for up to 100% of the cost of off-the-job training for 16-24 year olds, and 50% of the costs for those aged 25 and over in priority sectors only. Higher Level Apprenticeships are already available for all who meet the qualifying criteria irrespective of age or sector.

As set out in my Department’s Economic Recovery Action Plan, I am committed to making apprenticeship opportunities at levels 2 and 3 in the ApprenticeshipsNI programme available to more people and sectors by amending the current age-related criteria.

My Department continues to develop this proposal, including engaging with stakeholders across a range of sectors on implementation. I intend to bring forward proposals to make sure this commitment is delivered this year as age should not be a barrier to lifelong learning.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy, how she will ensure the potential for greater consumer protections will be considered as part of the expected review of the Caravan Act 2011.

Mrs Dodds: The Department for Communities (DfC) has advised that during this year, it intends to conduct a review of the Caravans Act (Northern Ireland) 2011.

My Department has responsibility for working with consumers and traders in relation to consumer rights and responsibilities and my officials will welcome the opportunity to effectively contribute to this review, when invited to do so by DfC.

The Executive Office

Mr O'Toole asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for their assessment on the remarks by the UK International Trade Secretary that the Protocol is unlikely to be operational by 31 December 2020; and have they met with the Trade Secretary since 8 July 2020 to discuss how this concerns the Northern Ireland business community.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill (The First Minister and deputy First Minister): The UK Government and the EU agreed at the Withdrawal Agreement Joint Committee meeting on 17 December 2020 decisions on the implementation of the Protocol. Discussions are continuing.

Miss Woods asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) for an update on phase 2 of the Tackling Paramilitarism programme and its funding; and (ii) whether there is any end of year flexibility for phase 1 projects for the 2021/22 financial year.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Executive Office has lead responsibility for Action B4 of the Executive's Action Plan on Tackling Paramilitary Activity, Criminality and Organised Crime, also known as the Communities in Transition Project.

The first phase of the Programme expired in March 2021 and the Executive has agreed to a further phase, to be delivered over a three year period up until March 2024.

In early March 2021 the cross-departmental Tackling Paramilitarism Programme Board met and agreed to funding allocations for a series of proposals in the next phase. The Communities in Transition Project will be a significant part of the community-facing element in the next three years.

With regard to end year flexibility for Phase 1, TEO's Communities in Transition Project Team has considered and approved a number of interventions to be extended until 30 June 2021 to ensure there is no gap in delivery before new projects are commissioned.

Ms Sugden asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) for their assessment of the current timetable for children returning to school; (ii) for their assessment of schools fully reopening as part of a broader social and economic recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic; and (iii) what conversations they have had with the Minister of Health regarding this issue and the wider issue of the health-led reopening of schools and business.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: As of 12 April all primary and post primary pupils returned to face to face teaching.

The return of pupils in a safe manner to full-time face-to-face learning was a key priority for the Executive.

The Minister for Education published a statement on 1 April on the return of all pupils to school which is available at: <https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/news/all-pupils-return-school-after-easter-break>

Mr Beattie asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to detail (i) the planning assumptions that has led to the belief that there may be as many as 30,000 applications to the Troubles-related Permanent Disablement Payment Scheme.; and (ii) the assumptions sent to the Government Actuary's Department that has led the lifetime cost being estimated from around £600 million to £1.2 billion.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Officials carried out extensive scoping work to determine potential numbers of successful applications to the Scheme and engaged Government Actuary's Department to provide detailed modelling based on those estimates. This has been a challenging task because there is no definitive information on numbers who may qualify, nor on the degree or permanence of their disability.

The figures provided by TEO to GAD for the purposes of modelling potential costs were based on an estimate of successful applications ranging from 9,300 as a conservative estimate to 17,200 as an upper estimate with 11,200 as a central estimate. However there will also be applications submitted that may not meet the eligibility requirements; the quantum of those is unknown and they may have a significant impact.

Mr Carroll asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to outline any conversations they have had with the British Government about its new office in Belfast.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: There has been no engagement with the First Minister and deputy First Minister on this issue in their roles as Executive Office Ministers.

Mr Muir asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister whether outdoor socially distanced classes with a personal trainer will be permitted from 12 April 2021.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Under current regulations up to 15 people (including coaches) can participate in structured outdoor sports training, through clubs or individuals affiliated to recognised sports Governing Bodies or representative organisations for sport or physical activity.

Information on the current COVID-19 Regulations and what they mean can be found on nidirect at: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you>

Mr McNulty asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to outline where (i) outdoor bowls; and (ii) road bowls sit in their Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out Of Restrictions plan.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Under current regulations, up to 10 people (including children of all ages) from a maximum of two households can take part in outdoor exercise or sports activities, and up to 15 people (including coaches) can take part in structured outdoor sports training, through clubs or individuals affiliated to recognised sports governing bodies or representative organisations for sport and physical activity.

Information on the current COVID-19 Regulations and what they mean can be found on nidirect at: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you>

Mr Humphrey asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister whether the lower North Belfast community will be included in any extension of the Communities in Transition Project.

(AQO 1968/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Executive has agreed to a further phase of the Tackling Paramilitary Activity, Criminality and Organised Crime Programme, to be delivered up until March 2024.

A contribution of £10 million has been made available to support the Communities in Transition Project over 3 years during the period April 2021 to March 2024.

The Communities in Transition Project will continue to support preventative work within communities that will build their resilience to paramilitary and criminal elements. Contrary to recent media reports, this funding is not designed to support paramilitary organisations becoming community groups but is focused on narrowing the ground within communities that Paramilitarism can use to exert control and influence.

Over the past number of months our officials have been engaging widely with elected representatives, statutory bodies and the community and voluntary sector across the 8 areas of focus to inform draft proposals for the next Phase of delivery.

We all know that paramilitaries and organised crime gangs don't limit their activities by area boundaries, and the issues that allow paramilitarism to persist are not contained by lines on a map. Engagement across the eight areas of focus has evidenced this and we have received a number of requests to extend and expand Communities in Transition activities to a range of locations, including lower North Belfast.

Our priority as we move into phase 2 is to embed and build on the progress that was made across the eight areas during phase 1. We are currently considering the extent to which the current funding contribution of £10 million can provide some support in areas of influence, such as lower North Belfast, where they have a significant impact on the current core areas of focus.

Ms Bunting asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to outline what feedback has been received from stakeholder groups on the implementation of the Communities in Transition Project.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Communities in Transition team have engaged with a wide range of stakeholders throughout the first Phase of the project including delivery partners, local elected representatives at all levels, statutory bodies and representatives from the community and voluntary sector.

In addition to this engagement a Mid-Term Review of the project has also been developed and has been informed through interviews and focus groups with interested parties and stakeholders.

Those who contributed to the review gave credit to a large amount of positive work and emerging aspects of good practice, and highlighted their support for the continuation of CIT beyond this period of funding noting that lasting change is only achieved through a sustained focus.

Positive feedback from participants stated that projects being developed in association with CIT are beginning to have a significant positive influence on their surrounding community.

The review also includes a number of recommendations which will be considered in the context of Phase 2 planning.

Over the coming weeks, in advance of procurement of the next phase of the project, officials have scheduled a number of briefings with Political Parties, PSNI and local councils.

Premarket engagement sessions have also been scheduled inviting those with an interest in CIT's work to contribute their views to the Phase 2 plans in each of the CIT areas. The feedback from these premarket engagement sessions will be considered, and where appropriate included in the plans for phase 2 projects.

Mr Hilditch asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) whether physically separated couples can be reunited when this requires international travel; (ii) to provide the rationale and data to support this guidance; (iii) to detail when any restrictions in this regard will be reviewed; and (iv) to detail any legislation that supports these restrictions.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: It is important that everyone, including long distance couples, continues to follow the requirements outlined in the Coronavirus Regulations, which state that only essential travel should take place. To stop the spread of potentially harmful variants here, the Executive agreed on 25 March to the introduction of managed isolation in hotel accommodation on return from Red List countries for a period of 10 days and a requirement to test on days 2 and 8 of the isolation period.

Anyone intending to travel directly, or via another country, to here from outside the Common Travel Area, including British and Irish nationals returning home, from a non-Red List country is required to self-isolate at home and take a test on days 2 and 8 of the isolation period.

Guidance is available on NI Direct: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-travelling-red-list-country>

The Executive will keep our travel arrangements and advice under review as we move through the Pathway and throughout our recovery phase. The following rules for entering or returning to Northern Ireland (NI) are in place: <https://www.legislation.gov.uk/nisr/2021/99/contents/made>

Mrs Barton asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for an update on their engagement at the EU/UK Joint Committee regarding the requirements for domestic pets travelling between Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: We have ensured that the issues associated with the operability of the Protocol, including the requirements for domestic pets travelling from GB, have been discussed within the Joint Committee structures.

Issues relating to pet travel are also being raised in the technical level discussions that feed into the Joint Committee. This issue was also discussed at the Specialised Committee on 23 February, which had representation from the Executive at official level.

In addition to using the Joint Committee structures, DAERA is participating in a working group, with the Irish Department of Agriculture, Food and the Marine and Defra to explore possible bi-lateral arrangements.

Mr Butler asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for their assessment on the impact of the Protocol on Ireland/Northern Ireland.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Joint Committee is responsible for the implementation of the Protocol on Ireland/Northern Ireland, while DAERA has responsibility for fulfilling the Executive's obligations in relation to Sanitary and Phytosanitary (SPS) checks. We have attended and will continue to attend the meetings of the Joint Committee to ensure that our position on the implementation of the Protocol is communicated to the EU. Departmental officials attended meetings of the Ireland/Northern Ireland Specialised Committee.

We wrote to European Commission Vice President Maroš Šefčovič on 5 November 2020 on the implications of the Withdrawal Agreement stressing that application of the Protocol should impact as little as possible on the everyday life of communities in Northern Ireland.

We are continuing to work to address the impacts of the end of the transition period as they arise, and to engage with the UK Government, the Irish Government and industry in order to find solutions.

Ms McLaughlin asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for an update on the recruitment of a Commissioner for Victims and Survivors.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: We are currently considering the comprehensive documentation required to begin the recruitment process for a new Commissioner for Victims and Survivors.

In the meantime, we recognise that continuity is important for victims and survivors, and so we have ensured that interim arrangements are in place within the Commission, to allow the provision of continued support for victims and survivors.

The Victims and Survivors Service will also continue to deliver its services to victims and survivors, which are tailored to individual needs.

Ms Hunter asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to outline any feedback their Department has received from the Commissioner for Survivors of Institutional Childhood Abuse on the interactions between victims and the Historical Institutional Abuse Redress Board.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: We met the Commissioner, Fiona Ryan, on 24 March 2021.

She updated us on her engagement with victims and survivors and the work she is taking forward to ensure that their needs are understood and met by service providers. It was encouraging to note feedback on the dedicated HIA Support Service launched in December.

The Redress Board was launched at the height of the pandemic on 31 March 2020 and, despite those restrictions, 629 applications have been considered by a panel, with determinations to a value of £13.4 million. This has been a significant achievement in difficult operating circumstances.

However, the Commissioner made the point that the process is a legal one, with clients expected to liaise with solicitors, and that many victims and survivors have limited access to their solicitor for various reasons, and lack of communication fuels anxiety. She noted a number of concerns raised by victims and survivors.

Since our meeting, the President of the Redress Board, Mr Justice Huddleston, has met four of the victims' and survivors' groups, on 31 March.

Officials will now work with the Commissioner and the Board to look at all aspects of the applicant journey, to identify what is working well; where there is scope for improvement; and where further support can be provided. This will of course involve input from victims' and survivors' representatives.

Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of the impact on the environment and local wildlife from (i) Italian bees; and (ii) the small hive beetle.

Mr Poots (The Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs): DAERA is aware of recent reports suggesting that the introduction of large numbers of bees may have a negative impact on wildlife and the environment.

Unfortunately under the Withdrawal Agreement and Northern Ireland Protocol, only certain control measures may be applied when moving bees between countries within the European Union (EU) and into Northern Ireland, and the Department has no legal basis to prevent these importations at present.

It is recognised that Small Hive Beetle (SHB) does have the potential to cause significant disruption in Northern Ireland if it were to become established here, and its impact on naïve bee populations can be devastating. In the EU however, it has only been identified in Italy where it has become established in the province of Calabria. An outbreak in Sicily caused by illegal bee movement was detected early and no further spread occurred.

EU legislation has now imposed strict controls on the export of bees from Calabria in order to ensure that SHB does not spread. This has effectively prevented the spread of SHB and my officials do not therefore consider that there is a significant risk of it arriving here with Italian imports. It would not therefore be appropriate to impose additional constraints on the movement of bees from Italy.

The Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) have considered what powers might be available to prohibit the movement of Buckfast Honeybees from Italy to Northern Ireland. NIEA have concluded that, as bees are not a protected species under the terms of the Wildlife (Northern Ireland) Order 1985, and because the Buckfast strains are already resident here, there are no legal grounds to prohibit the importation or release of Buckfast bees on this basis either.

The importation of honeybees into Northern Ireland has been ongoing for many years and beekeepers currently choose without restriction what varieties, races or subspecies of bees to keep. The genetic make-up of the Northern Irish honeybee population is poorly known but it almost certainly comprises a mixed population of honeybees from many sources, including those from continental Europe. The finding from 2018 of a pure population of Apis mellifera mellifera in Galway is therefore encouraging and along with subsequent findings of wild A. m. mellifera in Ireland shows populations can maintain genetic integrity through isolation and despite hybridisation pressure.

In support of this, my Department is also currently updating its Strategy for the Sustainability of the Honey Bee. This document recommends that beekeepers minimise imports and use bees of local provenance, not least as they are considered more suited to our climate and resistant to local pests and diseases. We are also working with the All-Ireland Pollinator Plan and Department staff sit on the Steering Group developing its forthcoming Honeybee Strategy component.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether (i) his Department; or (ii) the Forest Service have ownership of any trees within the Portavoe Reservoir site.

Mr Poots: My Department own trees on the land at the Portavoe Reservoir site, which was sold by NI Water in 2020. Forest Service has managed these trees under a management agreement with NI Water (formerly DOE) since 1978.

Following the sale of the land by NI Water to private landowners, the ownership and management of the trees continues as per the agreement with the former landowner NI Water, which is covenanted in the Contracts for Sale relating to the land transfer.

Mr Newton asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether (i) he has any concerns around the importation of honey bees to Northern Ireland; and (ii) he can provide information confirming the negative impact imported honey bees have on the indigenous black bee.

Mr Poots: DAERA officials are aware of the concerns that have been expressed surrounding the potential to introduce exotic bee diseases from Italy through the medium of imports. European Union (EU) legislation, with which Northern Ireland (NI) must continue to comply under the Withdrawal Agreement and Northern Ireland Protocol, requires that only certain control measures may be applied when moving bees between countries within the EU and into Northern Ireland.

Such moves may take place if the bees are accompanied by an Animal Health Certificate which has been signed by an official authorised by the competent authority of the country of origin. However certain conditions apply, with the certificate requiring specific attestations for American Foul Brood, Small hive beetle (Aethina tumida) and Tropilaelaps mite (Tropilaelaps spp.). Intra-community bee movements must be pre-notified using the EU's TRACES system and in writing to DAERA using a form available on our website. DAERA intends to inspect such high-risk consignments when they arrive in Northern Ireland.

Prior to EU exit, it was possible for packages of bees to be traded between the EU and UK. Due to the legislative changes associated with EU exit, restrictions now apply to movements between GB and EU in both directions. These are not however due to any change in health status.

In the EU the Small Hive Beetle (SHB) has only been identified in the Calabria region of Italy. EU legislation has imposed strict controls on the export of bees from Calabria in order to ensure that SHB does not spread. This has effectively prevented the spread of SHB, and my officials do not therefore consider that there is a significant risk of it arriving here with Italian imports. It would not therefore be appropriate to impose additional constraints on the movement of bees from Italy.

The importation of honeybees into Northern Ireland has been ongoing for many years and beekeepers currently choose without restriction what varieties, races or subspecies of bees to keep. The genetic make-up of the Northern Irish honeybee population is poorly known but it almost certainly comprises a mixed population of honeybees from many sources, including those from continental Europe. The finding from 2018 of a pure population of Apis mellifera mellifera in Galway is therefore encouraging and along with subsequent findings of wild A. m. mellifera in Ireland shows populations can maintain genetic integrity through isolation and despite hybridisation pressure. The Department is currently updating its Strategy for the Sustainability of the Honey Bee, and recommends that beekeepers minimise imports and use bees of local provenance as they are considered more suited to our climate and resistant to pests and diseases. We are also working with the All-Ireland Pollinator Plan and Department staff sit on the forthcoming Honeybee Strategy Steering Group component of that plan.

The Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) have considered what powers might be available to prohibit the movement of Buckfast Honeybees from Italy to Northern Ireland. NIEA have concluded that, as bees are not a protected species under the terms of the Wildlife (Northern Ireland) Order 1985 and because the Buckfast strains are already resident here, there are no legal grounds to prohibit their importation or release.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs pursuant to AQW 16951/17-22, whether he knew that the posts were being advertised.

Mr Poots: I can advise that I was not aware that posts were being advertised.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether his Department will provide funding for the Sion Mills masterplan.

Mr Poots: DAERA allocated £6.2m to the Local Action Group (LAG) in the Derry City and Strabane District Council area, from the NI Rural Development 'LEADER' Programme 2014-2020, to support business, services and village project activity that will continue until 2022. The LAG, working with Derry City and Strabane District Council, have invested £196k of this funding in the provision of an all ability play area that was identified as a need within the Sion Mills master plan.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on the future of funding for farmers after 2022.

Mr Poots: I understand that the UK leaving the EU will have created some uncertainty regarding agricultural funding. The EU worked on a seven year funding cycle, known as the Multiannual Financial Framework (MFF), which set out the maximum amount of spend in the EU budget each year and fixed an overall annual ceiling on payments.

The 2019 Conservative Manifesto Commitment was to guarantee the current annual budget to farmers in every year of the next Parliament. It should be noted, however, that one Parliament cannot bind another.

The Spending Review Outcome, announced on 25 November 2020 confirmed that DAERA will receive £315.6 m to support farmers, land managers and the rural economy for 2021/2022.

Funding issues are regularly discussed at Ministerial level at the Inter-Ministerial Group for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (IMG EFRA) and I take every opportunity to ensure that UK Government has a full understanding of Northern Ireland's priorities and challenges.

Mr Wells asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what arrangements have been put in place to ensure that all of the post sent to the Northern Ireland Environment Agency is opened regularly and actioned.

Mr Poots: In line with COVID-19 regulations, NIEA buildings are restricted to essential staff only. Each business area has nominated essential staff who are responsible for handling post. Staff availability can however be limited by the on-going pandemic. NIEA staff endeavour to respond to all correspondence within our Customer Standards timelines.

I apologise if this has not consistently been the case.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the number of people employed by the meat and dairy industry, broken down by job type.

Mr Poots: In 2019, the Business Register and Employment Survey (BRES) estimated that there were 15,477 employee jobs in those sectors aligned to the meat and dairy industry. A profile of these employee jobs, by gender and working pattern, is detailed in Table 1 below.

Mr Middleton asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline what role his Department has in relation to the maintenance of the city walls in Londonderry.

Mr Poots: The city walls of Derry were constructed between 1613 and 1618 by The Honourable the Irish Society and the walls are still owned by them. Since 1955, the walls have been designated a State Care Monument and they are under the guardianship of my Department. As such, my Department is responsible for conserving and maintaining the historic fabric of the walls. In 2009, my Department set up the multi-agency Derry Walls Management Group to facilitate a partnership approach to management of the Walls. The Group is responsible for strategic decision making regarding the walls and it works to deliver the Derry Walls Conservation Plan and the Derry Walls Management Plan.

The Management Group includes representatives from the Department for Communities, The Honourable the Irish Society, Derry City and Strabane District Council, the City Centre Initiative, Visit Derry, Tourism NI and The Friends of the Derry Walls.

Since 2019, my Department has also funded a Walls Manager within the City Centre Initiative who is responsible locally for the day to day management of the walls.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether his Department will carry out an extensive assessment on the full impact of the devastating Mournes wildfires on this important protected habitat for plants and animals.

Mr Poots: Yes my officials will carry out an assessment of the environmental damage caused by this major wildfire to the protected habitat of the Mournes.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he will launch a public inquiry into the cause of the devastating wildfires which destroyed protected habitats.

Mr Poots: I will not be launching a public inquiry into the cause of the recent wildfire in the Mournes.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, in development of an Outdoor Recreation Strategy, will he place an emphasis on the public to enjoy outdoor spaces responsibly.

Mr Poots: I am on record regarding the importance that is placed on each one of us to treat the outdoors with respect whether in relation to the natural environment or the land upon which we walk. My Department will continue to provide advice and guidance.

My Department chairs the cross-government Strategic Outdoor Recreation Group to oversee implementation of The Outdoor Recreation Action Plan for Northern Ireland. This includes Communication, Marketing and Promotion to participants and visitors of where they can visit and how to behave responsibly.

With the growth of outdoor recreation during Covid 19 my Department has encouraged greater awareness of these messages including through the MyNI Get Into Nature campaign and the current Right Side of Outside Campaign.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he has considered launching a public inquiry into outbreaks of wildfires.

Mr Poots: I will not be launching a public inquiry into outbreaks of wildfires.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail any active and proposed plans to encourage and support commercial fisherman to use more environmentally friendly trawling techniques and reduce by-catch.

Mr Poots: Northern Ireland was the first part of the UK to develop and adopt highly selective fishing gear to avoid unwanted by-catches of cod, haddock and whiting in the Nephrops (prawns) fishery, the main fishery in the Irish Sea for the local industry. This was a joint approach between DAERA, Agri-Food and Biosciences Institute (AFBI) and the local fishing industry, which was initiated in 2013. This joint approach continues through the Northern Ireland Gear Trials Programme. DAERA currently provides financial support for undertaking gear trials and the testing of industry identified gear technologies, focused on achieving further reductions in unwanted by-catch.

Research into highly selective fishing gear and more environmentally friendly fishing methods will continue to be supported by the Department. Current funding is in place until December 2022.

Mr McAleer asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether his Department carried out a financial assessment of herd keepers of the implementation of EU Reg No. 2016/429, the Animal Health Law.

Mr Poots: The EU Animal Health Law (AHL) is a consolidating instrument and for the most part it preserves the status quo. It does, however, make some changes which will require some modifications to domestic legislation and operational practices. This will include a number of areas where herd keepers will be impacted. My officials are continuing to analyse the AHL and supporting tertiary legislation, some of which has yet to be published by the EU Commission, to ascertain its full impact. I expect this scoping work to be completed in the coming months.

Where domestic legislative or operational changes are required in order to support the implementation of the AHL in Northern Ireland the Department will proceed with the relevant financial impact assessments where appropriate to quantify the likely impact of any proposed legislative and/or operational amendments.

The EU Commission has confirmed it will take a 'flexible and pragmatic approach' towards Member States where full implementation of the legislation by the date of application 21 April 2021 has not been possible due to EU Exit and Covid-19 response. This approach by the Commission will facilitate the additional time required by many jurisdictions impacted by the AHL to fully analyse its detail and progress facilitation of its implementation.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the current target for ensuring that Areas of Special Scientific Interest are in, or approaching, a favourable condition.

Mr Poots: There is no current target within my Department for ensuring that ASSIs are in, or approaching, a favourable condition. We report ASSI condition annually through the Northern Ireland Environmental Statistics Report.

My Department is continuing to work with landowners and other stakeholders to ensure that sympathetic management of ASSIs is in place. A range of delivery mechanisms are in place to achieve this objective. These include agri-environment schemes (EFS), EU Interreg Va Programme, the management of the DAERA estate and grant-aid support from DAERA, in addition to direct funding by NIEA through the Management of Sensitive Sites scheme (MOSS).

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what inter-agency approach is being taken to educate the public on the causes of wildfires and prevent similar events, such as the devastating Mourne wildfires, from re-occurring.

Mr Poots: I refer the Honourable Member to my response for AQW 17967/17-22 which confirmed the clear actions already taken by my Department and other partners and those proposed for the future.

As I said in my statement to the Assembly on 26 April 2021 'partnership working is not an option but a requirement'. It was clearly demonstrated during the recent major incident in the Mourne Mountains that an inter-agency approach was the key to success. I am grateful to our wide range of partners for the dedication and professionalism they showed and the assistance they provided.

My Department will continue to inform the public about the dangers of wildfires and to work with other interested parties to eradicate this problem.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether there is a difference in the operating costs of a deposit return scheme depending on whether there is a (i) variable rate deposit; or (ii) flat rate deposit.

Mr Poots: I launched a public consultation on 24 March 2021 which will close on 4th June 2021 on a Deposit Return Scheme (DRS) for drinks containers, which seeks further views on optimal deposit level.

The set-up and operational costs of a DRS for drinks containers will be met through producer fees paid by producers of in-scope drinks containers and material revenue from recycling the returned drinks containers. The deposit level should not impact the operational cost of the scheme because it is refundable and essentially should be cost neutral.

The link to the consultation document can be found on the following link. <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/consultations/introducing-deposit-return-scheme-england-wales-and-northern-ireland>

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what assessment his Department has made of whether a variable rate deposit in the upcoming deposit return scheme would lead to increasing return rates.

Mr Poots: Along with my counterparts in England and Wales I launched a public consultation on 24 March 2021 which will close on 4th June 2021 on a Deposit Return Scheme (DRS) for drinks containers. Chapter four of the consultation deals with deposit level. Consumer research suggests that the deposit level needs to be high enough to motivate use without influencing affordability.

As detailed within chapter six of the DRS impact assessment, experience from international schemes indicates a broadly positive, though variable, relationship between the deposit charged and the return rate achieved. Responses to previous consultations suggest a majority of consumers favour a flat rate but complications arise when considering, for example, multipacks.

To take account of different considerations the consultation proposes that minimum and, possibly, maximum deposit rates could be set within secondary legislation, which will describe the methodology to be used for altering the deposit level. This would give a scheme administrator the flexibility to meet statutory collection targets. Further views on this aspect of the scheme are being sought in the current live consultation.

The link to the consultation document can be found on the following link. <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/consultations/introducing-deposit-return-scheme-england-wales-and-northern-ireland>

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail what responsibility or remit his Department has in relation to Portavoe Beach, Donaghadee.

Mr Poots: DAERA is responsible for monitoring water quality at 26 identified bathing waters round the coast of Northern Ireland. However Portavoe Beach, near Donaghadee, is not an identified site.

To qualify as an identified bathing water, a proposed site must meet legally defined criteria on usage, safety, site management and provision of information. This includes the appointment of a bathing water operator such as a local council to provide the site management and information requirements. If it is confirmed that a nominated site meets the criteria, a public consultation is undertaken with a view to formally identifying as a bathing water.

Identified bathing waters are monitored to assess water quality throughout the bathing season which runs from 01 June to 15 September, with compliance data published annually.

I am aware of the increased interest in bathing at both inland and coastal waters, including Portavoe Beach, during the COVID-19 pandemic. My Department will begin the preparatory work this year for a formal review of bathing waters in 2022, consulting with the public and statutory bodies as to the suitability of current arrangements.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of the current price to farmers of (i) animal feed; (ii) silage; and (iii) fuel for agricultural machinery.

Mr Poots: On an ongoing basis, my Departmental officials collate data from various sources to assess the prices of agricultural inputs. Based on these, my assessment of the current prices to farmers are as follows:

(i) Animal feed

My Department has established a statistical series on feed prices. From this, it can be seen that annual average feed prices increased by £5 per tonne between 2019 and 2020 i.e. a price increase of 1.8%. While the statistical series doesn't extend beyond 2020, media reports indicate that feed price increases have already occurred in 2021. These reports suggest that it is a range of global factors that have driven these increases in 2021.

(ii) Silage

My Department publishes a regular statistical report that contains the average market prices for silage. The latest prices shown within this report are £15.20 per bale for March 2021, which is 4.8% higher than March 2020. Since January 2020, price trends for silage have been relatively stable with monthly averages ranging between £14 and £18 per bale. The latest price of £15.20 per bale for March 2021 is within this range.

(iii) Fuel for agricultural machinery

My Department has established a statistical series on red diesel prices. The latest prices shown within this series are 56.11 pence per litre for March 2021, which is 4.7% higher than March 2020. During 2020, there was a fall in red diesel prices and they remained at levels that were relatively low when compared to those of past years. However, red diesel prices have been increasing again during 2021 and are now back to levels that are in line with those prior to March 2020.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on progress in developing post-Brexit farm support schemes.

Mr Poots: Work is underway to develop an agricultural support framework portfolio better suited to local needs and one that will provide for and secure long term sustainability within the industry.

In developing a future support framework, priority consideration is being given to address the four desired outcomes identified with key food, farming and environmental stakeholders, namely; increased productivity, environmental sustainability, improved resilience and a competitive supply chain.

I am determined to work with our farmers, land managers and environmental stakeholders, to co-design a new approach that is focused on delivering these outcomes.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) for his assessment of the efficacy of methane-lowering animal feed supplements; and (ii) to detail any steps he has taken to encourage farmers to use such supplements to contribute to lowering the industry's greenhouse gas emissions.

Mr Poots: There are no methane-lowering feed supplements on the market in the UK at present. However, in some parts of the world there are a range of supplements which are recently released or under development, with some more advanced than others. Research findings indicate that the supplements offer a range of potential to reduce enteric methane emissions from ~10% up to over 80%.

The feed additive 3-Nitrooxypropanol (3-NOP) for ruminants (cattle, sheep, goats, deer, and other ruminants) has been researched and developed over 10 years by the Dutch company Royal DSM. Results indicate that using a quarter teaspoon daily in a cow's diet reduced enteric methane emission by approximately 30%. DSM has filed for commercial registration of 3-NOP under the trade name Bovaer® and currently await EU approval.

A livestock feed additive made from the seaweed Asparagopsis sp. has been shown to reduce methane emissions in beef and dairy cattle by more than 80% in research trials in Australia and the USA. Further research is underway and a company has been formed to scale up and commercialise a product made from Asparagopsis sp.

Other products of note include the garlic and citric acid based supplement Mootral™ being developed by a Swiss company, that has been shown to reduce enteric methane emissions by between 23% and 30% in on farm research and Agolin® Ruminant, a plant-based feed additive produced by another Swiss company that is claimed to reduce methane emissions from cattle by between 10% and 20%.

Locally, AFBI Hillsborough is currently undertaking a range of projects which aim to develop mitigation strategies for lower enteric methane emissions in dairy, beef cattle and sheep production, though dietary inclusions of seaweed additives, oil, white/red clover, multispecies forage, etc.

AFBI is also investing in infrastructure (using DAERA funding) that will improve their capacity to develop effective methane lowering strategies for adoption on NI cattle/sheep farms. This will enable research, in collaboration with Queens University

Belfast, which will identify potential methane-reducing candidates and trial successful products through a forthcoming ruminant emissions research facility. Uptake on Farm will then be encouraged by CAFRE and through working with the local feed industry, using the confidence from the scientific studies conducted in AFBI and QUB.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what assessment his Department has made of Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland each adopting different deposit return schemes.

Mr Poots: I, along with my counterparts in England and Wales, other UK jurisdictions issued a second consultation on a Deposit/Return Scheme on 24 March 2021. This proposes a scheme which will ensure consistency for major UK suppliers and retailers. This is consistent with the UK-wide approach we have taken for many years on packaging. Implementation of the Deposit Return Scheme is expected in 2024. The Republic of Ireland DRS is due to be implemented in 2022.

My department officials correspond regularly with their counterparts in the Republic of Ireland (Department of Environment Climate and Communications DECC) and all-Ireland business representatives to discuss the two schemes to ensure that the impact of any differences are minimised.

The consultation document can be found on the following link which will close on 4th June 2021. <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/consultations/introducing-deposit-return-scheme-england-wales-and-northern-ireland>.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what assessment his Department has made of a single deposit return scheme operating across the island of Ireland.

Mr Poots: This question was addressed in the Assembly in answer to AQO 1541/17-22 on 8 February 2021.

My officials have been developing options for a Deposit Return Scheme (DRS) for drinks containers, alongside England and Wales to ensure consistency for major UK suppliers and retailers. This is consistent with the UK-wide approach we have taken for many years on packaging.

Waste collection in the Republic of Ireland is operated by private firms rather than local councils so any DRS may follow a similar model which may not be suitable for NI. The Republic's scheme also has a different implementation timeline with a launch proposed for late 2022. The UK scheme is proposed to be introduced in NI, England and Wales in 2024.

My officials correspond regularly with their counterparts in the Department for Environment, Climate and Communications (DECC) and all-Ireland industry representatives to discuss the schemes and ensure that the operation of the two system don't have any unintended negative consequences.

Further detail on the proposed DRS can be found on the following link. <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/consultations/introducing-deposit-return-scheme-england-wales-and-northern-ireland>.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on his Department's work to implement the recommendations of the Sustainable Agricultural Land Management Strategy report.

Mr Poots: My Department and the then Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, Michelle McIlveen MLA, supported and attended the launch of the Sustainable Agricultural Land Management Strategy (SALMS) for Northern Ireland on 21 October 2016 titled 'Delivering our future, valuing our soils', which was published by an independent Expert Working Group (EWG).

Since that launch my Department has been working closely with the EWG and implementing actions associated with the recommendations made in the strategy report.

Significant investment has been made to assist farmers manage their land more sustainably, these include:

- Soil testing and analysis pilots schemes have been delivered across 1,613 farms and covering 49,711 hectares of land and an NI wide scheme is being developed;
- CAFRE is delivering advice to approximately 415 farms through the new Environmental Business Development Group Programme where 20 groups have been set up across the province focusing on sustainable farm systems and helping farmers identify carbon reduction measures and how to improve protection of the environment.
- Forest Service is leading on 'Forests for our Future' aiming to create 9,000 hectares of new woodland by 2030 and plan to open a new stand-alone Small Woodland Grant Scheme to help farmers integrate woodland on their farms. Also, the Environmental Farming Scheme supports over 5,000 farms via carbon friendly practices including maintaining and establishing native woodland, hedgerows, agro-forestry and peatland restoration.
- The Farm Business Improvement Scheme Capital (FBIS-C) has provided almost £14.5m of grant aid in total to over 3,000 farm businesses over the first two tranches of Tier 1, which has helped support the purchase of a large range of more efficient, precision and emissions reducing technologies. Letters of Offer have begun to issue for the third tranche of Tier 1 FBIS Capital, which has a funding allocation of £15million, following the very positive response in applications received, particularly for Low Emissions Slurry Spreading Equipment.

- The Environmental Farming Scheme (EFS) will provide approximately £59m of financial aid 3,985 wider level agreements and 775 higher level agreements under the first three tranches of the EFS scheme.

My officials will continue to develop measures of support for farms to play their part in protecting the environment while producing food sustainably. Officials will continue to work on the actions to implement key recommendations of the SALMS report, including those that will help inform the development and implementation of future agri support schemes.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on his Department's work to implement the recommendations of the Making Ammonia Visible report.

Mr Poots: In May 2018, DAERA published its initial position on the recommendations of the Expert Working Group in "Making Ammonia Visible." This document is available on the DAERA website at the link below;

<https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/daera/DAERA%20Response%20to%20EWG%20Ammonia%20Annex%20May%202018.pdf>

Since then, the DAERA commissioned scientific research programme on ammonia, as recommended in "Making Ammonia Visible", has delivered a wide range of outputs, including inclusion of more Northern Ireland specific data in the ammonia inventory, analysis on the potential for ammonia reduction in Northern Ireland and how this can be achieved most cost-effectively, case studies on ammonia reduction at individual farm level and increased ammonia monitoring at regional, farm and habitat level in Northern Ireland. The emerging conclusions from this research programme were communicated publicly via webinars in September 2020. Recordings of these webinars are available on the DAERA website at the link below;

Addressing the recommendations in "Making Ammonia Visible" will form an important aspect of the forthcoming draft ammonia strategy. This strategy will include proposals for an ambitious ammonia reduction programme, restoration and management of our most valuable habitats and a revised Operational Protocol for the assessment of impacts from atmospheric nitrogen pollution.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs pursuant to AQW 17298/17-22, to detail (i) the more than 60 water pollution incidents occurring annually in the Foyle constituency; (ii) the reasons for the incidents; and whether the causes of each incident has now been permanently resolved.

Mr Poots: From the data previously submitted in the AQW 17298/17-22 there were 62 reports of water pollution to the Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) in 2018, of which 24 had pollution confirmed, 61 reports in 2019 of which 23 were confirmed and 66 reports in 2020, of which 23 were confirmed as causing pollution. Of those 189 reports, each was physically visited by NIEA staff. Details on source, severity and outcomes are listed below in tables 1 to 4 below.

It is not possible to state that any particular incident will not be repeated at any particular location. Whilst the staff in my Department strive to prevent, educate and, where necessary, enforce in relation to water pollution issues, they cannot prevent future pollution once an investigation has been closed.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, in relation to part of the sale agreement allowing departmentally-issued angling permit holders to fish at Portavoe Reservoir, whether those permit holders can legally access the site.

Mr Poots: My Department continues to manage the fishing rights to Portavoe Reservoir until the current lease ends in December 2024.

However, my Department does not own the land surrounding Portavoe reservoir, which is in private ownership. Without the owner's permission or agreement DAERA permit holders cannot legally access the reservoir.

Discussions have taken place between my officials and the new owners, and the new owners have confirmed that they wish the site to remain private and not open to the public.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail any plans he has to create countryside management schemes, such as those for the planting of hedgerows on farmland, with a view to offsetting carbon emissions. (AQW 18172/17-22)

Mr Poots: My officials are working with farmers and land managers, agricultural industry representatives and environmental stakeholders to co-design a future agri-environment scheme. The scheme will help farmers to deliver a range of environmental outcomes, including improvements in water and air quality, biodiversity and reductions in carbon emissions. The range of measures under consideration includes the planting of hedgerows on farmland as one of the means of offsetting carbon emissions.

The Environmental Farming Scheme currently supports over 5,000 farms via carbon friendly practices including maintaining and establishing native woodland, enhancement of existing / planting of new hedgerows, agro-forestry and peatland restoration.

Mr Allen asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the cost to each council in dealing with fly-tipping in each of the last five years. (AQW 18185/17-22)

Mr Poots: My Department holds no records of these costs, as District Councils are not currently required to advise DAERA officials of the costs they incur to clean up fly-tipped waste.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he will bring forward legislative proposals to ban supertrawlers in local waters. (AQW 18195/17-22)

Mr Poots: "Supertrawlers" are typically large fishing vessels, often greater than 100m in length. Whilst they have significant catching capacity they are bound by their fishing quotas, or allocated fishing opportunities. There is no recent history of such vessels fishing in Northern Ireland waters, because they mainly target pelagic species and have little or no fishing opportunities in our waters.

Apart from Irish vessels that can avail of the reciprocal Voisinage fisheries access agreement, EU fleets that have "supertrawlers" have no access to UK waters within 12nm of the coast, which comprises most of the Northern Ireland zone for which we have management responsibility.

In my assessment there is little prospect of "supertrawler" fishing activity in NI waters and no need currently to bring forward legislation to ban such vessels. "Supertrawlers" are however permitted to transit through NI waters as long as they are not fishing and we will monitor the activity of these vessels if they enter our waters.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what inter-Departmental discussions he has had in regard to bringing forward legislative proposals to implement a statutory ban on all current and future fossil fuel exploration, including fracking. (AQW 18196/17-22)

Mr Poots: My Department is working with the Department for Economy (DfE) as part of a cross departmental steering committee to manage a research project, commissioned by DfE, into the potential economic, societal and environmental impacts of the development of both conventional and unconventional onshore oil and gas resources in NI.

It is my understanding that the outputs, from this research project, will be used by DfE to inform the development of the NI policy on conventional and unconventional oil and gas exploration and development, including fracking.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he will consider introducing a bottle deposit scheme for Northern Ireland. (AQW 18228/17-22)

Mr Poots: My officials have been developing options for a Deposit Return Scheme (DRS) for drinks containers, alongside England and Wales to ensure consistency for major UK suppliers and retailers.

I launched a public consultation on options for the DRS on 24 March 2021, which will close on 4th June 2021.

Further detail on the proposed DRS can be found on the following link. <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/consultations/introducing-deposit-return-scheme-england-wales-and-northern-ireland>

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on the pollution event which occurred on the Auglish River. (AQW 18315/17-22)

Mr Poots: On Sunday 2 May the Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) received information through the 24 hour pollution hotline advising of a fish kill on the Aghlisk River, near Dromore, County Tyrone.

This information was passed to the Loughs Agency (LA) for investigation. It has been confirmed that a fish kill has impacted approximately 5km of the Aghlisk River. Statutory samples have been collected and the investigation is ongoing.

Fish mortalities include native brown trout and juvenile Atlantic salmon. Attempts to quantify the loss of fish have been hampered by the recent heavy rain but are ongoing.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether the quarry currently operating at Craigall, Cullyrammer Road, Kilreagh, County Londonderry was the recipient of an Aggregates Levy Credit Scheme Certificate from his Department.

(AQW 18347/17-22)

Mr Poots: The operation of, and compliance with, the Aggregates Levy Scheme is a matter for HMRC. The licencing of the quarry operations and its compliance in this regard is a matter for the Department for the Economy.

Department for Communities

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister for Communities for a breakdown of neighbourhood renewal funding awarded in each of the last ten years, including the areas to which the funding was allocated.

Ms Hargey (The Minister for Communities): The table attached at Annex A details a breakdown of Neighbourhood Renewal funding awarded in each of the five financial years to 2019/20; this is in line with the departmental Retention and Disposal guidance which requires information to be retained for a period of five years. Financial accounts have not been finalised for the current financial year and therefore cannot yet be reported.

Figures reported include revenue and capital spend in each of the 36 Neighbourhood Renewal Areas (NRAs). Caution is advised in making comparisons of expenditure across NRAs. Expenditure is influenced by factors such as; the population of the area, the historic expenditure and/ or proposed investment in an area from other initiatives or mainstream sources, geographical location and proximity to existing services and the needs identified in Area Action Plans. In addition, spend reported against some NRA's includes support for services that are delivered citywide or across two or more NRAs and spend for such projects cannot be disaggregated.

The table attached at Annex B details a breakdown of funding awarded to Small Pockets of Deprivation (SPODs); and Annex C details a breakdown of funding awarded to Areas at Risk (AaR). Funding to SPODs and AaRs is enabled through People and Place: A Strategy for Neighbourhood Renewal.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities (i) when the job training opportunities through the proposed Job Start scheme will be provided; (ii) how many places will be available; and (iii) what budget will be attached to the programme.

Ms Hargey: The JobStart Scheme launched on Friday 2nd April 2021. It is estimated that the first young people will commence employment by June 2021. The period up to employment commencing is required to assess whether applications from employers meet the criteria for the Scheme, to complete due diligence checks followed by a recruitment exercise for each employer.

My Department hopes to offer over 3,300 job opportunities through the JobStart Scheme.

The Scheme was allocated £20 million in the Executive's budget for 2021/22.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for Communities how "imminent threat of closure" was established in respect of each recipient of funding from the Sports Sustainability Fund.

Ms Hargey: The objective of the Sports Sustainability Fund is to help stabilise and sustain sports' Governing Bodies, their affiliated clubs and sporting organisations, enabling them to withstand the impacts of COVID-19.

The phrase "imminent threat of closure" was not one of the criteria used in the Sports Sustainability Fund programme or included in the Guidance Notes for applicants.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Communities to outline plans for new social housing builds in Holywood.

Ms Hargey: Executive is working closely with Housing Associations to bring forward new social housing proposals for Holywood, and has highlighted the need for new social housing in the SHDP Commissioning Prospectus, which is available on-line at <https://www.nihe.gov.uk/Documents/Corporate/Commissioning-Prospectus-2021-23.aspx>.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister for Communities what engagement she has had, or plans to have, with the Minister of Education regarding the provision of childcare to facilitate parents return to work and aid economic recovery.

Ms Hargey: The provision of childcare sits with the Department of Education, and is therefore outside the remit of my Department. My Department, as part of its economic response to the COVID-19 pandemic, has developed a range of new employability initiatives. This includes the expansion of the Adviser Discretion Fund (ADF) in order to support more people to overcome barriers to employment.

Launched on 12 April 2021 it includes plans to make help available through a non-repayable grant of up to £1,500 to those for whom upfront registered childcare costs is acting as a barrier to employment.

This grant is awaiting Executive approval as it will need to be financed from the Block Grant.

In addition, my Department funds the Women's Centre Childcare Fund which provides approximately £800k per annum to provide around 77,000 two-hour childcare sessions through 14 Women's Centres.

Mr M Bradley asked the Minister for Communities what action the Housing Executive is taking to address the waiting list for housing in East Londonderry.

Ms Hargey: Due to the volume of detail required to answer AQW 17318/17-22, the information has been placed in the Assembly Library.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Communities whether specific guidance will be made available on the NI Direct website for the community and voluntary sector as COVID-19 restrictions are eased.

Ms Hargey: The NI Direct website contains current COVID 19 information and guidance for individuals and organisations. Community and Voluntary sector organisations should continue to apply the most up to date rules and guidance set by The Executive Office, Public Health Agency, and Department of Health in the coming weeks and months as the restrictions are eased.

My Department supports the NICVA to provide advice and guidance to the Voluntary and Community Sector during the pandemic, including via its website and through regular direct communications on key issues and developments.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for Communities for a breakdown of the funding that her Department has awarded to Irish language groups in each of the last three years.

Ms Hargey: The Department for Communities has provided funding to Foras na Gaeilge & made COVID relief payments to Irish language groups in the last three years (£stg) as follows:

Year	Foras Na Gaeilge	COVID Relief
2020/21	£3,193,549	£1,389,152
2018/19	£3,318,664	N/A

In relation to any other payments, I would refer the Member to the Government Funding Database which provides details of all funding provided by the public sector, including arm's length bodies, to groups within the voluntary and community sector, including the Irish language sector.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Communities how much funding will be allocated to North Down for social housing for this financial year.

Ms Hargey: Funding for the Social Housing Development Programme has been set at £162 million for 2021/22. Funds are not allocated by Parliamentary Constituency. The budget will be used to build social homes that are scheduled on the current Development Programme.

The published SHDP will be updated to reflect additional and re-profiled scheme proposals in due course.

Mr Blair asked the Minister for Communities to detail her plans to minimise the number of people living in housing stress in South Antrim.

Ms Hargey: I am committed to ensuring more social homes are built and allocated where they are needed. A radical housing transformation plan was outlined toward the end of last year and the department and key stakeholder are currently progressing this.

The Housing Executive has advised that it is working closely with Housing Associations to bring forward proposals to address housing need in the South Antrim Constituency. At the end of March 2021 there were 1,592 applicants on the waiting list in the South Antrim Parliamentary Constituency, of which 1,178 were in housing stress. The annual allocations to applicants was 237 homes. 131 new social housing units are under construction. I have provided you with details of these units are detailed in the following table.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for Communities to detail any plans her Department has to increase investment and to market Navan Fort in Armagh as a world heritage site.

Ms Hargey: Navan Fort is one of six archaeological sites that Ireland added to its Tentative List for inscription as UNESCO World Heritage Sites as part of a transnational nomination, Tentative List status does not guarantee World Heritage Site status. It is therefore not possible to market Navan Fort as a World Heritage Site.

My Department will continue to work closely with all partners, particularly Armagh City, Banbridge and Craigavon Borough Council, to promote this highly significant archaeological site.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for Communities to detail the number of (i) new claimants; and (ii) reassessments awaiting an assessment appointment for Personal Independence Payment, broken down by the number of weeks waiting.

Ms Hargey: At Table 1 below I have attached details of the total social housing bungalow completions during the period 2016/17 – 2020/21, broken down by Parliamentary Constituency. Please note that these figures include Supported Housing bungalow provision.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister for Communities when her Department will produce a COVID-19 related roadmap for the performing arts, including clarity for performers who perform live music in licensed premises.

Ms Hargey: The Executive's approach to relaxation is set out in "Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out Of Restrictions". That document includes pathways for culture, arts and entertainment and for hospitality services.

The Executive has also agreed that the restrictions in place will be considered through regular comprehensive formal reviews, the dates of which were included in the pathways document.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities how she is addressing ongoing anti-social behaviours that impact Housing Executive and social housing tenants and the wider community.

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive and registered housing associations (RHAs) have a range of powers at their disposal for dealing with antisocial behaviour (ASB).

The Department's Regulatory Framework for RHAs requires social housing providers to work in partnership with other agencies to ensure neighbourhoods are safe and that ASB is tackled effectively. All RHAs are required to have an ASB policy and the Department will seek evidence of compliance with policies when instances of ASB arise.

My Department is represented on a multi-agency Delivery Group established by the Department of Justice to consider the findings from recent consultation by that Department, to review ASB legislation, and to ensure that relevant agencies have effective and proportionate enforcement powers in place.

The consultation outcome report on the Fundamental Review of Social Housing Allocations included proposals for legislative changes that will enable the Housing Executive to ensure that, prior to the award of a tenancy, it is content that an applicant has not been involved in unacceptable behaviour that would make them ineligible.

the Department has provided guidance to the Housing Executive to assist decision making on eligibility in light of anti-social/unacceptable behaviour.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities how many individuals and families, that were defined as homeless or in housing stress, are currently in temporary accommodation.

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive has informed me that as of 23rd April 2021, there were a total of 3,276 households who were in temporary accommodation provided by the Housing Executive. Of those 3,276 households, 3,160 households were accepted as statutorily homeless. The remaining 116 households were still awaiting a decision on their homelessness application and temporary accommodation was being provided as part of the Housing Executive interim duty.

It should be noted that these figures are taken from a live database and include placements made while homelessness applications are being assessed to determine if the statutory threshold is met.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities when are the COVID-19 accommodation arrangements due to end; and how many of those individuals or families have been provided with future accommodation when temporary accommodation arrangements end.

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive has statutory responsibility for responding to Homelessness.

The Housing Executive's Reset Plan outlining its homelessness response to Covid-19, including a summary of various stages up to March 2022 can be accessed at: <https://www.nihe.gov.uk/Documents/Homelessness/homelessness-reset-plan-the-way-home>

With regard to the future provision of permanent accommodation for those currently in Temporary Accommodation, the Housing Executive will continue to make offers to families and individuals as accommodation becomes available. During the 2020/21 financial year a total of 1,374 households were moved from Temporary Accommodation to permanent social housing and efforts to ensure that offers of appropriate accommodation are made will continue.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities (i) for an update on the discussions she has had with the Department of Work and Pensions and the Treasury in relation to ending the six month rule for people with terminal illness; (ii) how far the proposals or criteria defining terminal illness have reached; and (iii) when she will update the public on progress.

Ms Hargey: I recognise the devastating impact terminal illness has on individuals and their families and am committed to reforming provision in social security benefits for those who are terminally ill.

On 10 March 2021 I had a meeting with Justin Tomlinson MP (Department for Work and Pensions Minister for Disabled People, Health and Work), and pressed him to publish the outcome of the terminal illness evaluation work that commenced in July 2019.

My officials continue to undertake policy development and analytical work on proposals to reform the 6 months rule. Once this is completed and the necessary approvals secured, I will announce the way forward.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Communities to detail any prospective areas and sites being considered to meet the demand for social housing in East Londonderry.

Ms Hargey: There are currently 126 new social housing units under construction in the East Derry Parliamentary Constituency. I have included details of these in Table 1 below.

A total of 95 units are currently programmed to start as part of the Social Housing Development Programme (SHDP 2021/22 – 2022/23). I have included details of these in Table 2 below.

In areas where housing need is identified, Housing Associations are encouraged to look out for potential sites for development in areas of identified social housing need as set out in the Housing Executive Commissioning Prospectus which accompanies the SHDP.

In general, programmed schemes can be lost or slip to future programme years for a variety of reasons e.g. relating to delays in acquiring sites and/or failure to secure Planning Approval.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Communities to outline (i) the steps she has taken to address the rising number of children living in both relative and absolute poverty; (ii) her assessment of this trend; and (iii) the conversations she has had with other bodies and Executive Ministers in relation to addressing child poverty.

Ms Hargey: In order to ensure that government continues to work collectively to tackle the issues faced by children and families impacted by poverty the Executive's current Child Poverty Strategy, has been extended to May 2022. The most recent Child Poverty Annual Report, for 2019/20, was published on the Department for Communities website in September 2020. It is planned that the Child Poverty Annual Report for 2020/21 will be published in the coming weeks.

An Executive Anti-Poverty Strategy is currently being developed by my Department. It is proposed that the Executive's actions to address child poverty will be contained within the new Anti-Poverty Strategy. The Anti-Poverty Strategy is being developed using a co-design approach with input from key stakeholders and Executive departments. A Ministerial Steering Group will meet at key points in the development of the Strategy to provide an opportunity for Executive colleagues to discuss progress and agree the way forward. The first Ministerial Steering Group meeting took place on 14 April.

Work to develop the Strategy is continuing at pace, with a public consultation exercise scheduled for later in the year. Further information on the co-design process and timetable can be found at: Social Inclusion Strategies Department for Communities (communities-ni.gov.uk) (<https://www.communities-ni.gov.uk/articles/social-inclusion-strategies>).

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Communities how much of the £17.6m COVID-19 Recovery Revitalisation Programme has been invested in (i) Coleraine; (ii) Limavady; (iii) Garvagh; (iv) Kilrea; and (v) Dungiven.

Ms Hargey: The Department for Communities, in collaboration with DAERA and DfI, has led the delivery of the £19.3m Covid-19 Recovery Revitalisation Programme across all Council areas. Causeway Coast and Glens Borough Council, which covers all of the towns you have listed, has received a total allocation of £1.45m broken down as follows: DfC £738k capital and £41k revenue; DAERA £276k capital; and DfI £395k capital.

Funding was provided to support revitalisation plans that had been developed by Causeway Coast and Glens Borough Council in conjunction with key stakeholders, and bespoke to needs identified in their Council area.

It is not possible to provide a breakdown of how much has been invested specifically in Coleraine, Limavady, Garvagh, Kilrea and Dungiven at this time, as Causeway Coast and Glens Borough Council is still processing grant applications received and is finalising the delivery of a range of initiatives across the Borough.

Mr Allen asked the Minister for Communities to detail (i) the new social homes start target; and (ii) the actual number started, in each of the last five years.

A number of applicants are 'temporarily' removed from the waiting list for a period of a time following a 'Deferral' in line with policies and procedures and the statutory rules of the Housing Selection Scheme. Once the deferral period has expired these cases are automatically added back on to the Waiting List. Those cases are not included in this table.

A number of cases have been identified as having an incorrect cancellation reason and are included in the final row of the table under 'Incompatible Code'. These cases are currently being investigated.

Some applicants who are removed from the Waiting List may subsequently re-apply for social housing at a later date and are therefore re-included on the Waiting List.

Following the first lockdown in March 2020, changes were made to the Waiting List annual renewals process and procedures to accommodate the COVID-19 restrictions.

These changes were in place throughout 2020/2021 and may have resulted in a number of applicants being retained on the Waiting List who would otherwise have been removed as a result of the No Reply to Renewal Reminder process under normal operational activity.

Mr Allen asked the Minister for Communities to detail (i) the new social homes completion target; and (ii) the actual number completed, in each of the last 5 years

Ms Hargey: In the table below I have provided details of the total social housing completions, compared to the annual targets for social housing completions, for the period 2016/17 – 2020/21.

The Housing Executive have yet to confirm what their target for completions will be in 2021/22.

Ms Bunting asked the Minister for Communities to detail the number of Northern Ireland Housing Executive properties in East Belfast that are (i) void; and (ii) derelict.

(AQW 17723/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive have advised that:

- (i) As of 1st April 2021, the Housing Executive had 116 void properties in the East Belfast Parliamentary Constituency.
- (ii) The Housing Executive does not possess a reporting category for void properties that corresponds to 'derelict', and therefore information on which if any of these properties is derelict is not available.

Ms Bunting asked the Minister for Communities to detail (i) the number (ii) the location of Housing Executive 4 bed properties in Belfast, broken down by constituency.

(AQW 17724/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The table below shows current number of 4 bedroom Housing Executive stock in Belfast broken down by Parliamentary Constituency.

(AQW 17725/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Given the large volume of information contained within the response, I will arrange for the answer to this question to be placed in the Assembly library

Ms Mullan asked the Minister for Communities whether the translation hub will be available for Irish Medium Schools to get materials translated for their pupils.

Ms Hargey: Irish Medium Schools can have materials translated to/from either Irish or Ulster-Scots by my department's central translation hub.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities to detail (i) the properties her Department owns in the Derry City and Strabane District Council area that are currently unused; (ii) the annual cost of maintaining these properties; and (iii) the plans for their future use.

Ms Hargey: My Department does not own properties in the Derry City and Strabane District Council area that are currently unused.

The member is asked to note that the term 'Properties' has been interpreted as referring to buildings. The Department does however own vacant land, and a response to a similar Assembly Question - AQW 13717/17-22 in relation to vacant land, is available in the Assembly Library.

Ms Mullan asked the Minister for Communities to detail the four sites currently being held by the Housing Executive in Foyle. (AQW 17811/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive currently has 2 sites in Foyle listed on its Undeveloped Land Schedule as shown in table 1 below. In addition, the Housing Executive has 26 sites listed classified as Existing Open Space Yes which are considered to have development potential subject to overcoming planning constraints. Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for Communities for an update Strabane Public Realm scheme.

Ms Hargey: The business case for the Strabane Town Centre Public Realm Scheme is currently being finalised by the project promoters, Derry City and Strabane District Council. Upon receipt of the final business case, my Department will then consider the business case and associated funding approval in the context of the Department's wider budgetary considerations.

Ms P Bradley asked the Minister for Communities, in relation to the COVID-19 Feminist Recovery Plan published in July 2020, (i) for her assessment of its recommendations; (ii) what steps her Department will take in relation to its recommendations; and (iii) how the recommendations are being factored into the future Programme for Government outcomes.

Ms Hargey: I welcome the COVID-19 Feminist Recovery Plan, which makes a range of recommendations targeted at mitigating the impact of the pandemic on women. I recognise the particular issues faced by women in our communities as a result of COVID-19 which are highlighted in the report. This pandemic has had a devastating impact on many areas, including employment, carers, and those already in poverty. It has exacerbated existing inequalities in our society, not least those faced by women.

My Department is leading the development of the Executive's suite of four social inclusion strategies, including a Gender Equality Strategy.

The recommendations in the Recovery Plan cut across all Executive departments and are largely reflected in the published Gender Equality Expert Advisory Panel Report. (<https://www.communities-ni.gov.uk/news/minister-publishes-expert-advisory-panel-reports-social-inclusion-strategies>). As such, the relevant recommendations are currently being considered in the development of the Gender Equality Strategy, which will include agreed actions from a range of departments.

The social inclusion strategies will underpin the new Programme for Government and each department is expected to factor relevant outcomes into the development of the actions they contribute to the strategies.

Subject to Executive agreement, it is anticipated that the new social inclusion strategies will be published in December 2021, following public consultation.

Mr Allen asked the Minister for Communities to detail the terms of reference for the Sub-Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer working group.

Ms Hargey: The overall purpose of the Advisory Working Group (AWG) for the Sub Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer (SRSP), as set out in the terms of reference, is to guide and support a 'refresh and re-engagement' exercise that provides a robust evidence base on the challenges, strategic priorities and needs of soccer from International level down to youth development.

The terms of reference detail the main responsibilities of the AWG as follows:

- 1 To oversee and facilitate evidence gathering on sub-regional sector needs, with a particular emphasis on identifying organisational and strategic changes that have impacted since 2011.
- 2 To oversee primary research/data capture exercises as needed.
- 3 To advise and input on the 'mapping exercise' underway via DfC's Professional Services Unit. This is mapping all Premier/Intermediate level club grounds and Councils pitches, showing the overall distribution.
- 4 To input into the relevant programme and policy linkages that will apply at sub-regional levels and which will need to be factored into the business case development (e.g. Community Plans, Council Pitches Strategies, etc).
- 5 Arising from findings from the work entailed in (1) to (4) above to advise on the re-validation and refinement of the core objectives to maximise their potential contribution to the SRSP.

- 6 To review and sign off on the strategic investment priorities/funding strands for the SRSP, which will emanate from the above stages of work for inclusion in the business case(s) that will be needed to secure funding approval. If required the AWG will support further consultation on the strategic investment priorities/ funding strands.
- 7 To co-design the delivery / implementation structure for the SRSP with input as needed from relevant stakeholders

Mr Allen asked the Minister for Communities to detail the timeline provided to the Sub-Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer working group to (i) report; or (ii) provide feedback to her Department.

(AQW 17874/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The purpose of the Advisory Working Group (AWG) was established to provide my Department with expert insight into soccer facility needs. AWG members meet with the Department bi-monthly, providing feedback to the Department during these meetings. My Officials also engage with members of the AWG on an ad hoc basis where their knowledge or expertise is required to guide progress on specific issues.

This ongoing engagement is guiding the shape and scope of the programme and will inform my updates to Executive colleagues on the future implementation of the Programme.

Mr Allen asked the Minister for Communities how many submissions her Department has received from the Sub-Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer working group.

Ms Hargey: Sub-Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer

Mr Allen asked the Minister for Communities to detail the total number of submissions received by her Department from stakeholders providing feedback or information to shape the Sub-Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer.

Ms Hargey: Stakeholder engagement has been critical in the current refresh of the Sub-Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer. A wide range of stakeholders have provided information and feedback, including:

- The Advisory Working Group, which includes representatives from my Department, Sport NI, the IFA, NIFL and the Chief Leisure Officers Association, have to date met on six occasions to provide expert advice on the proposed shape of the Programme.
- In August 2020, my Department issued a survey to all local soccer clubs at all levels across the region. The purpose of the survey was to identify up-to-date profiles of clubs, their facilities and what they needed in terms of 'fit-for-purpose' and inclusive facilities to achieve strategic priorities for soccer. A total of 90 responses were received from the 467 clubs contacted. There was over 80% response rate from NIFL affiliated clubs.
- My officials continue to have 1-2-1 strategic discussions and exchange of information with key stakeholders, including the IFA, NIFL, Sport NI, all 11 Councils and Disability Sport NI. In addition to discussions with my departmental officials, written input to inform the development of the programme has been received from the IFA, NIFL and MEA United.

Ms Bunting asked the Minister for Communities to outline the demand for 4-bed Housing Executive properties in Belfast, broken down by constituency.

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive has advised the Department of the following information.

Table 1 below provides a breakdown of all Applicants on the waiting list, as of the 1st April 2021, who -

- have a 1st preference area of choice within a Parliamentary Constituency in Belfast
- have a 'calculated' 4 bedroom entitlement for that area of choice

It should be noted that, in certain circumstances, the Housing Selection Scheme (HSS) rules can afford an additional bedroom entitlement to an applicant, based on their individual needs. As the 4 bedroom entitlement in this dataset corresponds to the minimum bedroom requirements under the rules of the HSS, the 'actual' bedroom need of some applicants included in it may vary from the 'calculated' need.

Ms Bunting asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the review of Housing Executive allocation points.

Ms Hargey: In December 2020, I published a Consultation Outcome Report, setting out the findings of the 2017 consultation on “A Fundamental Review of Social Housing Allocations”. The Housing Executive will now establish a project team to take forward implementation of 18 of the 20 proposals.

Two proposals – the removal of intimidation points and the removal of interim accommodation points will not proceed as I want to retain these points for those who really need them. I have asked my officials to develop alternative proposals for my consideration. I am confident that these changes will make our Selection Scheme fairer and better at responding to objective need.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities when she will make a decision on the allocation of funding for the Sub-Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer.

Ms Hargey: The Sub Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer is one of the commitments in the “New Decade, New Approach” agreement and I am committed to its implementation. My Department has been working to refresh and re-engage with the programme to provide a robust evidence base on the challenges, strategic priorities and needs of soccer at all levels.

A range of primary and secondary research tools have been adopted to inform the evidence base. This work is nearing completion and has utilised a club survey along with discussions with key stakeholders including governing bodies of football, Sport NI, councils and Disability Sport NI. The analysis of the work to date is informing the shape and scope of the programme going forward.

I intend to update Executive colleagues on the future implementation of the Programme, identifying the potential timelines for delivery and levels of support available to clubs 0.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities whether the budget for the Sub-Regional Stadia Programme for Soccer, which was established approximately 10 years ago, will be inflation proofed.

it is for the Executive to consider any changes in the funding available for this Programme, including those in relation to inflation.

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister for Communities how many people on the homeless list are waiting housing allocation, broken down by constituency.

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister for Communities to detail any prospective areas and sites being considered to meet the demand for social housing in Mid Ulster.

Ms Hargey: There are currently 15 social housing units under construction within the Mid Ulster Parliamentary Constituency. This is a Clanmil Housing scheme which is located at Molesworth Plaza in Cookstown.

Choice Housing Association is reviewing potential delivery of new social housing on two sites currently in Housing Executive ownership in Magherafelt (Leckagh Cottages and Killowen Drive), which could accommodate up to 24 units in total.

Connswater Homes is also programmed to start 20 new social homes at (lands to the rear of) 85-101 Church Street in Cookstown in 2022/23.

In addition to the above proposals, Rural Housing is seeking to deliver 7 new social homes in Swatragh in 2022/23 (for which the need was identified via a Latent Demand Test by the Housing Executive). A number of Housing Associations are also investigating potential opportunities for new social housing in Draperstown.

The Housing Executive are aware of other prospective areas and sites being considered to meet the demand for social housing in Mid Ulster. However, these proposals are at any early stage and are yet to be formally programmed for delivery as part of the Social Housing Development Programme.

The need for new social housing in Mid Ulster has also been highlighted in the Housing Executive's 'Commissioning Prospectus' for the period 2021/22 – 2023/24, which was recently published on the Housing Executive's website: Commissioning Prospectus 2021/22 - 2023/2024 (<https://www.nihe.gov.uk/Documents/Corporate/Commissioning-Prospectus-2021-23.aspx>)

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister for Communities to detail any proposed new build housing in Mid Ulster over the next three years, broken down by (i) Housing Association; and (ii) location.

Ms Hargey: At Table 1 below I have detailed the social housing units programmed to start as part of the Social Housing Development Programme 2021/22 – 2023/24, within the Mid Ulster Parliamentary Constituency. I have also included details of the provider and location.

Programmed schemes can be lost or slip to future programme years for a variety of reasons e.g. relating to delays in acquiring sites and/or failure to secure Planning Approval. Additional schemes can also be added to the SHDP 'in-year' through the Competitive Design & Build procurement route and/or the purchase of Existing Satisfactory / Off-the-Shelf properties.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister for Communities, pursuant to AQW 16798/17-22, how many applicants to the Individuals Emergency Resilience Programme were impacted by the £1200 cap per piece of equipment.

Ms Hargey: The second phase of the Individuals Emergency Resilience Programme (IERP2) was a resource funding programme with a maximum grant of £5000, although a proportion of the grant could be allowed for small items of capital equipment. As explained in my reply to your question AQW 15740/17-22, a maximum of £1,200 was applied for capital elements per application.

Arts Council records show that there were 1,564 awards from IERP2 and that 798 of those included some element of equipment. The £1,200 limit was applied in each case.

Information on how many of the successful applications had originally sought more than £1,200 for capital equipment is not recorded separately.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities how many people have been awaiting a personal independence appeal hearing for (i) 4 to 12 weeks; (ii) 12 to 26 weeks; (iii) 26 to 38 weeks; (iv) 38 to 52 weeks; and (v) 52 weeks or more.

Ms Hargey: The number of people awaiting a personal independence appeal hearing in each of the categories requested is set out in the table below.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities what assurances she can give that anyone being transferred from legacy benefits onto Universal Credit will have transitional protection.

Ms Hargey: People in receipt of existing legacy benefits<sup>1</sup> who experience a relevant change of circumstances that triggers a new benefit claim will naturally move onto Universal Credit at that time. Where there is a change of circumstances, different amounts of benefit may be payable, therefore transitional protection is not applicable for these people.

Under the next phase of Universal Credit roll out - Move to UC, people in receipt of legacy benefits will move onto Universal Credit.

I can confirm that every person who makes a claim to Universal Credit during the Move to UC phase will receive Transitional Protection, meaning they will not receive less in Universal Credit at the outset than they would have in the previous legacy benefits - assuming their circumstances remain the same.

1 Income Support, Jobseeker's Allowance (Income Based), Employment Support Allowance (Income Related), Housing Benefit (Rental), Working Tax Credit and Child Tax Credit

In addition, following the removal of the Severe Disability Premium (SDP) Gateway on 27 January, anyone with an entitlement to a SDP in their legacy benefit, when they move to Universal Credit, will receive a transitional payment broadly equivalent to the rate of SDP payable with the legacy benefit.

Some people will be financially better off on Universal Credit and anyone considering moving from their existing legacy benefit to Universal Credit should seek independent advice and check their entitlement using a benefits calculator.

The Independent Welfare Changes helpline is available for anyone needing help or advice about any changes to the welfare system, and can be contacted on 0800 915 4604.

A benefits calculator is available on the nidirect website <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/benefits-calculator>

Annex A

AQW4833/17-22

Kellie Armstrong MLA asked the Minister to (i) to detail the communication Minister, and her Department, has had with the Department for Work and Pensions and the Treasury regarding the suspension of the Move to Universal Credit; (ii) when the Move to Universal Credit is expected to happen; and (iii) what plans she has to introduce transitional protections for people moved off legacy benefits before the Move to Universal Credit is introduced.

Answer

(i) I am committed to protecting the vulnerable in our society and so officials in my Department engage regularly and closely with their counterparts in DWP on all aspects of Universal Credit as it continues to embed here and in GB.

On the move to Universal Credit, a DWP pilot started in July 2019, with the aim of testing a number of possible approaches, including the calculation of transitional protection to support people through the next phase, known as Move to UC. I am aware that due to the Coronavirus outbreak and the need to meet the priority of responding to unprecedented demand and getting payment to those who need it as quickly as possible, the Move to UC pilot in GB has been temporarily suspended for the time being.

(ii) While my Department had work ongoing in planning for a future Move to UC exercise, including monitoring closely the pilot in GB, people here were not included in the DWP pilot. However, as a result of the pandemic my Department has also faced an unprecedented increase in demand for services with reduced staff capacity. All available resources are being directed to delivering essential frontline services to those who need them, in particular the most vulnerable in our communities. Resumption of non - essential activity including work on planning for the Move to UC phase here, will take place at an appropriate time.

(iii) The UK Government has made a commitment that those people who make a claim to UC during the Move to UC phase will not receive less in Universal Credit at the outset than they would have in the previous legacy benefits - assuming their circumstances remain the same.

However, it is not appropriate to compare those who may move onto UC through Move to UC (with no change of circumstances) and those who move onto UC because of an event that triggers a new benefit claim. Where there is a change of circumstances, different amounts of benefit may be payable. Therefore, there is no 'correct' amount that can be calculated for transitional payments in comparison to what might be payable by way of transitional protection under Move to UC.

There are however additional payments of two weeks of Housing Benefit, known as a "run-on" which are already available to people moving to UC. Remaining people moving to UC under the Move to UC process will be eligible to receive a two-week Transitional Payment, in line with those who migrate to UC because of a change of circumstances.

There will also be a two-week "run on" for people in receipt of income-based Jobseekers Allowance, income-related Employment and Support Allowance or Income Support from 22 July 2020. The amount of these "run-ons" will be fixed according to the amount of the award payable immediately before claiming UC.

My Department is also currently making transitional payments to those who lost the Severe Disability Premium after moving from legacy benefits to UC.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for Communities how much funding has been set aside by her Department and its arm's-length bodies to celebrate the Northern Ireland Centenary.

Ms Hargey: The following bodies, part or fully funded by DfC, have set aside funding to mark the centenary:

- Libraries NI has set aside £10k, provided by the National Lottery Heritage Fund's Shared History Fund, to deliver the project, 'Stormont Remembered in Libraries NI resources.'
- National Museums NI has set aside £145k for its exhibition, 'Collecting the Past, Making the Future.'
- The Ulster-Scots Agency has set aside up to £170k for its programme to mark the centenary.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister for Communities for the latest data held by her Department on citizens (i) who list as a first language; or (ii) report fluency in (a) Irish; (b) Polish; (c) Lithuanian; (d) Mandarin or Cantonese; (e) Urdu; and (f) Arabic.

Ms Hargey: The Department for Communities does not hold the information required to answer the Member's question.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities what action she is progressing to change mobile library vehicles to alternative fuels such as hydrogen or electric; and when this will be completed.

Ms Hargey: As part of an overall approach to managing the environmental impacts of its operations Libraries NI is developing a vehicle replacement programme which will seek to introduce alternative fuel vehicles to its fleet. The initial focus of this programme will be a phased replacement of the 38 light commercial vehicles which make up the majority of the current vehicle fleet of 55 vehicles in total.

A study is being undertaken to evaluate alternative technologies, the supporting infrastructure currently available and the feasibility of replacing the larger, heavy commercial vehicles used as mobile libraries with vehicles operating on alternative fuel sources.

It is anticipated this study will be complete by mid-2021 and the findings will inform future approaches to mobile library vehicle replacement.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the homelessness strategy, including a publication date.

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive is currently developing a draft Homelessness Strategy for 2022-27 with a view to engaging in a public consultation during Quarter 4 of 2021. The new Homelessness Strategy will be published in April 2022.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities how objective need is used to allocate homes to applicants; and how her Department is achieving the Executive's commitment to building a shared society rather than single identity districts.

Ms Hargey: I am committed to ensuring an effective and fair housing allocations system. This is fundamental to easing housing stress and making sure allocations to social housing are based on objective housing need. The Selection Scheme awards points based on personal, housing and social circumstances. There are four categories: intimidation, insecurity of tenure, housing conditions, and health and social care needs. The total points from all categories reflect the applicant's housing need.

I recently published a Consultation Outcome Report on the "Fundamental Review of Social Housing Allocations". It details the anticipated changes that will update the Housing Selection Scheme, ensuring a more accurate waiting list. The Housing Executive has been asked to take forward implementation of the agreed proposals as soon as the budget is confirmed.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities (i) how much of a grant the legacy Department for Social Development provided to the Northside Development Trust for the construction of the Northside Village Centre in Derry; (ii) when the payment was made; (iii) what rules were in place to ensure that the proceeds of any sale of the assets were either returned to government or used for prescribed public benefit; (iv) whether the assets have been sold; (v) when the assets were sold; (vi) the value of the proceeds sold; and (vii) how those proceeds were dispersed.

Ms Hargey: My Department does not hold records in relation to a grant that may have been provided to Northside Development Trust for the construction of the Northside Village Centre.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for Communities whether she has any plans to introduce an alcohol minimum pricing policy.

Ms Hargey: I believe that the introduction of legislation for Minimum Unit Pricing (MUP) for alcohol has the potential to be a key population-level health measure to address the harms related to alcohol consumption. I have therefore made a commitment to have a full consultation on MUP once our new substance use strategy is finalised.

This consultation on MUP will examine a range of possible options in respect of alcohol pricing, including consideration of the emerging evidence of the effectiveness of MUP following its implementation in Scotland and elsewhere. Any policy considerations arising from the consultation will be brought to the Executive in due course.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Communities to detail the total average number of hours worked per week by youth workers in each constituency in each of the past five years.

Ms Hargey: My Department is unable to provide this information due to the following reasons:

- The fragmented nature of groups that utilise both paid or voluntary youth workers;
- The large number of independent groups that would hold this information locally, gathered in a variety of methods and detail;
- That volunteer unpaid youth workers are unlikely to hold accurate or indeed any records of hours worked as might be expected of paid employees;
- That paid youth workers would have a fixed contract with their employer however may work above those hours but are unlikely to be recorded, and;
- The extended length of period the information is sought.

Mr McAleer asked the Minister for Communities what funding mechanisms are available for GAA clubs to develop their grounds.

Ms Hargey: The ongoing consultation on a new strategy for Sport and Physical Activity highlights six key themes, including the provision of inclusive and shared spaces and places. When published, the Strategy will set the direction for the development of sport and physical activity for the next decade and will aim to address gaps in participation and provision.

Sport NI is a statutory partner in the community planning process and engages regularly with the respective Councils and the other statutory bodies on identifying the needs of local communities. This includes the provision and development of sporting facilities.

The Department and Sport NI will continue to work with other Departments, Councils, Governing Bodies and clubs, including GAA clubs, to ensure that quality sports facilities are available to meet the needs of local communities.

GAA clubs should continue to monitor the Sport NI website to identify any suitable capital programmes which may become available in the future.

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister for Communities whether permission was sought from the Housing Executive for the placement of a large Sinn Féin banner on Divis Tower; and whether the rooftop access security on Divis Tower will be reviewed.

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive have advised that its permission was not sought in relation to the recent banner on Divis Tower

The Housing Executive has informed my department that it has initiated an immediate review and will take appropriate action in line with its internal policies and procedures.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for Communities when libraries will reopen for browsing.

Ms Hargey: As part of the Executive's Pathway to Recovery roadmap, the Culture, Heritage and Entertainment pathway proposes limited in-library services, such as browsing, will be permitted from Phase 3, currently with an indicative date of 24 May 2021.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities to confirm (i) how many licensed premises, that have applied to change their publican licence to allow them to serve food and drink outside their property, have yet to receive a decision; and (ii) the average time taken for a licensing decision.

Ms Hargey: My Department is responsible for the policy and legislation regarding the retail sale and supply of alcoholic drinks, however the courts are responsible for issuing the licences. My Department is also responsible for the policy and legislation regarding the provision of pavement cafés, however district councils are responsible for issuing the licences. My Department therefore does not hold the requested information.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister for Communities what consideration is being given to the resumption of spectator sports in line with COVID-19 restrictions.

Ms Hargey: As this question is specific to sports I have been asked to respond.

I can confirm that since the restrictions on spectators were put in place Departmental officials have continued to meet fortnightly with representatives from the Governing Bodies, SportNI and the Sports Grounds Safety Authority to develop guidance to support a return of spectators.

That means that as soon as the Executive decides that some spectators can return to stadiums the advice and guidance will be in place to deliver safe environments that comply with the Health advice on for example social distancing, hygiene, testing, track and trace and face coverings.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities, given it is 19 years since the British government agreed to transfer the Fort George site to the Executive, why the Fort George site remains largely vacant and unused.

Ms Hargey: Although my Department purchased the site in 2004 there have been many barriers to its redevelopment including decontamination, the surrounding road infrastructure and, more recently, planning issues around the Creggan Reservoir. Remediation work completed in April 2019 and I recently agreed to dispose of part of the site for the Cityside Health and Care centre. I am committed to addressing the remaining barriers, in partnership with the Department for Infrastructure, to ensure the full potential of the site is realised.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister for Communities to outline her plans to address social isolation, including through social inclusion strategies, when COVID-19 regulations permit.

Ms Hargey: My Department will be supporting the safe return of a wide range of community services and activities that will allow people to reconnect and reduce the social isolation felt during the pandemic.

Funding provided by my Department to local councils under the Community Support Programme will help deliver essential community services, and the volunteering infrastructure supported by my Department will enable the return of safe volunteering opportunities around sport, culture, heritage and community events.

Under the People and Place Strategy, my Department will continue to support projects which target social isolation. This includes projects such as Good Morning Services for the elderly and isolated people to help reduce feelings of fear, isolation and loneliness and other projects which target women and vulnerable children who may also be at risk of social isolation.

Whilst social isolation and social inclusion are two separate but related issues, the co-design process for developing the social inclusion strategies will provide a platform for consideration of social isolation experienced by their target groups which include people who can be particularly vulnerable to, and affected by, social isolation.

The social inclusion strategies being led by my Department include the new Anti-Poverty; Disability; Gender; and Sexual Orientation Strategies which are currently in development, as well as the existing Active Ageing and Child Poverty Strategies.

It is proposed that the Executive's actions to promote social inclusion will be contained within the strategies.

Work to develop the strategies is continuing at pace, with a public consultation scheduled for later in the year.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the JobStart scheme.

(AQO 2003/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Applications for funding for the JobStart Scheme opened on 2 April 2021. Employers of all sizes, including those in the voluntary and community sector, can participate in the Scheme.

By 29 April over 230 employers had applied for funding to offer more than 680 opportunities. Applications have been received from all council areas.

The first job opportunities have been advertised on Jobcentre online and are available for Work Coaches to match interested young people with.

My officials are continuing to assess applications and carry out due diligence checks, to ensure that young people taking part in the JobStart Scheme will receive a quality job opportunity, along with the support they need to develop occupational and employability skills, that will help them achieve sustained employment in the future.

My officials continue to engage with organisations to inform them about the JobStart Scheme. These include sectoral bodies and individual organisations of varying sizes.

In addition a multi-channel (TV, Radio, Digital, Social media) advertising campaign will commence on Monday 10 May 2021. This will ensure that potential employers and young people are aware of the Scheme and know where to access information on the NI Direct and NI Business Info websites.

Mrs D Kelly asked the Minister for Communities whether she has considered establishing a mortgage rescue scheme.

Ms Hargey: My Department previously considered establishing a mortgage rescue scheme in 2016. However given the low interest rates and market forecasts at that time, it was concluded that a mortgage rescue scheme should not be pursued.

The economic impact of the COVID pandemic has refocused attention on this area. My officials are closely monitoring the position of borrowers and have commissioned research by the Ulster University Economic Policy Centre. Their initial findings are expected later this month.

This research will help inform my decision on the best way to support home owners in the future. My Department continues to provide funding to Housing Rights who provide free advice on a range of housing issues including mortgage debt related queries.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the co-design process for a new strategy for culture, arts and heritage.

Ms Hargey: The culture, arts and heritage sectors have played a critical role throughout the pandemic, helping people to stay connected to the things that mattered to them and supporting their wellbeing during really difficult times.

These sectors have been among those hardest hit by the pandemic.

The development of a Culture, Arts and Heritage Strategy is a key element in working towards the revival and revitalisation of these sectors.

While the focus for the past few months has rightly been on the delivery of the £38m Covid-19 Culture, Languages, Arts and Heritage Support Programme, it will be important that we now focus on recovery and the future of these important sectors.

This work will be taken forward through co-design with the sectors and in the light of the work of the Culture Recovery Taskforce which I expect to establish shortly and which itself will be an exercise in collaboration and co-delivery.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the measures her Department is taking to increase social housing provision.

Ms Hargey: Housing stress levels here are totally unacceptable. Our housing system is in need of transformative change. I have set out the direction of how we will achieve this through the biggest shake up of our housing system in over 50 years. A radical housing transformation plan was outlined toward the end of last year and the Department and key stakeholders are currently progressing this.

This includes working on initiatives to ring-fence funding for housing in areas of acute need, increase land supply, and the acquisition/refurbishment of existing properties, to enable the delivery of more social housing.

I can confirm that 2,403 new social homes were started in 2020/21 – almost 30% more than the target for the year (1,850 units). During the same period, 1,318 social homes were completed (against a target of 1,200). Each one of those houses represents a home for those who are on our social housing waiting list, many of whom will have been waiting for some time.

I have recently approved the new 3 year Social Housing Development Programme 2021/22 – 2023/24 which will shortly be published to the Housing Executive website. This will give the necessary assurances required by Housing Associations to enable them to progress schemes through design and planning stages.

I am committed to ensuring more social homes are built and allocated where they are needed and I am pleased to have delivered on a 'New Decade New Approach' commitment to enhance the level of investment in new social housing, with £162m being made available for 2021/22 – an increase of c£26m from 2020/21.

Equality and rights are the basis of my approach. Housing, and having a place to call home, is a fundamental right. I am committed to delivering a housing system that ensures those rights for everyone across society.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for Communities whether she has given further consideration to increasing Carer's Allowance.

Ms Hargey: I recognise and respect the vital role that carers play. The rate of Carer's Allowance was increased to £67.60 a week from April 2021 as part of the annual benefits up-rating exercise.

Carers on low incomes can access additional financial support from my Department through income-related benefits and their associated carer premiums and additions.

In addition those in receipt of Carer's Allowance may, depending on their circumstances, also be eligible to access a range of other emergency financial support that my Department is providing during the COVID-19 crisis including Discretionary Support.

In terms of providing longer term additional financial support for unpaid carers here, it is anticipated that this will be considered as part of the upcoming welfare mitigations review.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Communities to outline her powers regarding local government oversight.

Ms Hargey: My Department has the following powers of last resort, provided in the Local Government Act (NI) 2014, regarding local government oversight:

Section 104 - My Department (or any Department) may direct a council to make a report or return or supply specific information with respect to the exercise of the council's functions.

Section 105 - My Department (or any Department) may cause a local inquiry to be held along with such investigations it sees fit in connection with the administration of any statutory provision relating to the functions of a council or its committees and sub-committees

Section 106 - My Department (or any Department) may, after an inquiry or investigation has been completed and the Department is satisfied that the council has failed to discharge any of its functions, may make an order that the council is in default and direct a council to take action, within a specified period.

Department of Education

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education whether the Education Authority Literacy Support Service (i) is adequately resourced; and (ii) has the capacity to deliver the support to which children with special educational needs in Northern Ireland are entitled.

Mr Weir (The Minister of Education): Literacy difficulties in Northern Ireland are a high incidence Special Educational Need (SEN) with the Education Authority (EA) Literacy Service the largest within the family of its Pupil Support Services.

The EA has advised that the Literacy Service expenditure for 2021-22 is projected at £7.1 Million. The Service employs just under 120 FTE (full-time equivalent) teaching staff including 1 Head of Service; 3 Deputy Heads of Service and a Senior Teacher team. Non-teaching staff in the service currently includes 1 FTE Digital Content Co-ordinator and 5.2 FTE administrative staff.

Since 2018, the EA advise that the Literacy Service has managed 5,607 referrals from the EA Educational Psychology Service. The service is in high demand and referral rates currently exceed service delivery capacity.

The EA will be considering all issues pertaining to literacy difficulties within the multi-disciplinary Support Services strand of the current Special Educational Needs and Disability Strategic Development Programme.

Mr Frew asked the Minister of Education (i) whether the announcement that bands can rehearse outdoors from 23 April 2021 also applies to schools; and (ii) whether such rehearsals can take place as an after-school activity in line with the changes to allow extra-curricular/after-school sport, etc.

Mr Weir: I can advise that the Education Authority's Music Unlocked guidance, as of 12 May, has been revised to reference that the Health Protection (Coronavirus, Restrictions) Regulations (NI) 2020 now permit outdoor band rehearsals (a group of two or more persons, along with a conductor or instructor) and therefore orchestra, band and ensemble rehearsals in schools are now permitted to resume outdoors.

This is permitted provided that the band does not engage in a procession, each person in the band has an instrument, the rehearsal gathering only consists of the band and any conductor/instructor, that an appropriate risk assessment is undertaken and that all reasonable measures are taken to limit the risk of virus transmission. The regulations also state that no singing is permitted as part of an outdoor band rehearsal.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Education following a procurement process, whether his Department has received funding from the Department of Finance for the provision of laptops for teachers .

Mr Weir: A business case for provision of laptops for teachers is currently being prepared by the Education Authority for submission to DE. A procurement exercise has not been completed and would not be possible until the business case has been approved by DE and DoF, and funding subsequently confirmed.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Education (i) whether mental health and student wellbeing remains a priority for his Department as society emerges from the pandemic; and (ii) how he will communicate that priority to school principals.

Mr Weir: Emotional health and wellbeing continues to be a high priority for the Department of Education (DE), particularly as we have yet to see the full impact of the Covid-19 pandemic on the mental health and wellbeing of children and young people.

DE has been working collaboratively with the Department of Health, the Public Health Agency (PHA), the Health and Social Care Board (HSCB), the Education Authority (EA) and other Government Departments to develop a Framework for Children & Young People's Emotional Health and Wellbeing in Education, which has recently been published, alongside an Implementation Plan, and is available at the following link: <https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/articles/emotional-health-and-wellbeing>.

The main emphasis of the Framework is to support schools to promote emotional health and wellbeing at a universal level, through a holistic, multi-disciplinary approach, and providing early and enhanced support for those children and young people who may be at risk or showing signs of needing further help.

Some of the programmes of support have already commenced:

- The Health and Social Care Trusts (HSCT) Text A Nurse service;
- The EA Youth Service REACH programme (Resilience Education Assisting Change to Happen), and
- The development of the CCEA Wellbeing Hub.

Work is progressing to approve and commence other support programmes including the enhancement of the HSCT Regional Integrated Support for Education (RISE) Team for Key Stage 2 pupils which has a focus on universal support and group work within primary schools; a new Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service (CAMHS) Emotional Wellbeing Teams in Schools Service, and enhanced EA Wellbeing Services.

The Framework Implementation Plan is a "live document" and school principals will be kept informed as and when the programmes commence. Each programme will be closely monitored and evaluated to ensure it is meeting need, and if not then we will look at other ways to address issues of concerns, in consultation with stakeholders, including schools and children and young people.

The EA has put the emotional health and wellbeing of our young people at the forefront of the response to young people through the pandemic, and as restrictions lift and routines change. It will continue to prioritise the wellbeing of young people in the re-engagement with onsite learning through a range of identified initiatives which include:

- The Independent Counselling Service for Schools (ICSS).
- Critical Incident Response Team.
- A range of training resources including Bereavement and Loss, Promoting Positive Mental Health, Trauma Informed Practice Training, Physical Health and its links to mental health training.
- Partnership with Reverse the Trend Organisation.
- The Daily Mile promotion with schools.
- A Wellbeing Portal with a range of resources for staff, young people and parents/carers accessible on the EA website – <https://www.eani.org.uk/educational-support-services>.
- Advice and guidance of key Children and Young People's Services including Education Welfare Service and Education Psychology Service.
- The High Five Newsletter for Primary settings and young people published every two weeks with a focus on the "Take 5" model; and
- A range of resources from the Behaviour Support Services on reconnection and wellbeing for staff, young people and parents.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Education for his assessment of the finding of the Secondary Students Union of Northern Ireland mental health survey that only 34% of school pupils believed that their schools had addressed mental health when schools reopened in September 2020.

Mr Weir: I welcome the findings of the Secondary Student's Union of Northern Ireland (SSUNI) survey and will seek to address the issues raised to ensure a better experience for young people.

The emotional health and wellbeing of children and young people continues to be a high priority for the Department of Education (DE). I appreciate that the Covid-19 crisis has created a different dimension to mental health and emotional wellbeing, therefore as part of the Education Restart Programme DE has worked collaboratively with the Education Authority (EA) to consider how best we could ensure that all children and young people were supported when they returned to school for the new academic year.

In support of this, £5m was made available in 2020/21 directly to all schools (nursery, primary, post primary, special), as well as EOTAS and Youth Settings to help address wellbeing pressures. A further £5m has been made available for 2021/22, which is subject to the necessary approval processes.

The EA made available a range of additional services to support emotional health and wellbeing, including a suite of on-line resources for school leaders and staff, children and young people, and their parents/carers. This was supplemented by other support including webinars for schools on trauma sensitive practice and a Wellbeing Helpline facilitated by the Education Psychology Service.

We strive to provide the best possible service within the resources available, and listen carefully to feedback received. I am aware that Dr Mark Browne, Permanent Secretary met with the SSUNI on 30 March 2021 in relation to the findings in their report and these have been conveyed to the EA. The EA has advised it intends to arrange to meet with SSUNI to discuss the issues raised, particularly in relation to the delivery of counselling services.

Finally, I can advise that further supports will be made available during the summer term and into the 2021-2022 academic year and my department will continue to engage with relevant stakeholders in relation to the Children & Young People's Emotional Health and Wellbeing in Education Framework, which was launched alongside an Implementation Plan on 26 February 2021. Both documents can be accessed at the following link:- <https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/articles/emotional-health-and-wellbeing>.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Education (i) for his assessment of the finding in the Secondary Students Union of Northern Ireland mental health survey that 173 pupils who had used their school's counselling service rated it at only one out of ten; and (ii) what action his Department has taken in response to that finding.

mental health and (ii) in light of this finding, for his assessment of whether the mental health support provided before the pandemic remains suitable.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Education to detail why Year 11 pupils will not have the opportunity to complete GCSE examinations this year.

Mr Weir: Decisions about awarding CCEA qualifications through the alternative arrangements in place for 2021 were taken on the basis of the necessity of the award to facilitate progression.

Students in Year 12 and above need to be awarded their qualifications in order to progress to the next stage of their education or into training or employment. Students in Year 11 and below do not need to cash-in qualifications to progress to studies in Year 12 and will therefore have the opportunity to complete their studies in the next academic year, hopefully without further disruption.

There are two exceptions where Year 11 students will be permitted to enter for and be awarded CCEA GCSE qualifications this year, as these qualifications are required to facilitate progression to extended education opportunities in Key Stage 4. These are:

- CCEA GCSE Mathematics where the student will be entered for CCEA GCSE Further Maths in 2022 - CCEA GCSE Mathematics is a pre-requisite for CCEA GCSE Further Maths; and
- Early entries for CCEA GCSE Irish in Irish-medium schools and units or where the learner intends extending their learning through CCEA GCSE Gaeilge.

While a number of candidates in Year 11 and below enter for a range of GCSE qualifications each year, my decision was based on an assessment of whether or not those qualifications were essential for progression to further study at the same level next year.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Education to detail the steps being taken to accommodate pupils who wish to pay to sit GCSE exams in spite of not having reached the standard age.

Mr Weir: General Certificate of Secondary Education qualifications are designed to support the statutory Key Stage four curriculum and assess a pupil's knowledge and skills at the end of this stage of education.

Decisions about awarding CCEA GCSE qualifications through the alternative arrangements in place for 2021 were taken on educational grounds. My priority was to facilitate awarding of qualifications where these are required by pupils to facilitate progression. With two specific exceptions as set out in AQW 18154/17-22, students in Year 11 and below do not need to cash-in qualifications to progress to studies in Year 12.

Ms Mullan asked the Minister of Education to provide an update on the new Ardnashee school capital project in Derry, including the status of and timeframe for the project.

Mr Weir: I am pleased to report good progress on the new Ardnashee School and College project. The project secured planning approval from the Derry and Strabane District Council on 5 May 2021, which is a significant milestone. My officials and the Department's professional advisors, are currently reviewing the Education Authority's RIBA Stage 4 (Technical Design and Pre-Tender) submission, which we hope to finalise in the coming weeks.

The procurement process has commenced, with the pre-qualification stage almost complete and following approval of the RIBA Stage 4, the project will progress to Tender Stage. It is currently anticipated that work on site should commence in the autumn 2021.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Education to outline how many primary one places are available per school, across North Down, for the next school term.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Education to detail what support measures that will be introduced to deal with the increase in anxiety of school pupils who have been impacted by the wearing of face masks.

Mr Weir: In February 2021, the Department of Education published the Children & Young People's EMOTIONAL HEALTH AND WELLBEING in Education Framework (https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/education/Children %26 Young People s Emotional Health and Wellbeing in Education Framework %28final version%29.PDF). The framework is in place to support schools in dealing with the health and well-being of pupils on a range of matters.

As the COVID-19 pandemic continues, we are faced with new challenges across society. The Framework identifies a number of areas to provide the necessary support in dealing with emerging anxieties that pupils may experience as a result of the restrictions that have been put in place to curb the transmission of COVID-19.

The Department of Education currently provides funding for an Independent Counselling Service for Schools (ICSS) for pupils in post-primary schools, and post-primary age pupils attending Education Otherwise Than At School (EOTAS) provisions and special schools.

Counselling can help pupils when they are facing difficulties that are impacting on their emotional health and well-being and may need additional support beyond the normal pastoral care offered by school staff. It can help to give them new ways of coping with issues that cause them distress or upset, including feelings of anxiety.

ICSS is not available for primary school children, although it is one of a range of supports to be delivered through implementation of the Emotional Health and Wellbeing Framework, subject to securing the necessary resources.

My Department continues to work with the Department of Health, the Public Health Agency, the Health and Social Care Board, the Education Authority and other Government Departments to ensure that the emotional health and well-being of children and young people continues to be a high priority.

Mr Butler asked the Minister of Education to detail (i) how much is spent on school food annually; (ii) how school food is produced, including its source; (iii) where and by who is it produced; and (iv) how school food waste is managed.

Mr Weir: The Department does not hold this information. The Education Authority (EA) has provided the following information in relation to schools where school meals are delivered by the EA. This includes grant-maintained integrated (GMI) schools and voluntary schools (VG) schools who use the EA Catering Service. Not all GMI or VG Schools use the EA Catering service, opting for an in house or subcontracted option.

- i The annual spend on food to produce meals to schools delivered by the Education Authority is the £15,827,000 for year 2019 / 2020.
- ii. School meals are produced on site and transported to those schools that do not have a production kitchen. Food products used in the production of school meals are sourced via the EA Procurement service using a local supplier base for distribution.
- iii. School meals catering staff prepare the food products on site at each school with a school meals production kitchen. Schools that do not have a production kitchen will have meals transported in from a production kitchen and will have been prepared by the staff employed at EA Catering.
- iv. School food waste is managed through a waste collection business appointed by EA Procurement.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister of Education for his assessment of the current provision of Special Educational Needs funding for primary schools.
(AQW 18257/17-22)

Mr Weir: The delivery of special educational needs (SEN) services is very challenging, with the number of children presenting with SEN increasing year on year, and some schools have highlighted the difficulties faced in managing this growth within existing resources.

Mainstream schools are responsible for meeting any additional needs of pupils within the first three stages of the SEN Code of Practice from their delegated budgets. A range of pupil support services is also provided by the Education Authority (EA) at Stage 3. Funding for children with a statement in mainstream school settings is covered within the EA's block grant.

As part of the work to address the recommendations in the 2017 NIAO SEN report, the Department is reviewing all current funding arrangements for SEN in mainstream schools (including Learning Support Centres).

The Department has also accepted recommendation 2 of the 2021 Public Accounts Committee report, "Impact Review of Special Educational Needs", and will be commencing an independent, external review of the SEN service, provision and processes. This review will include consideration of the funding of SEN services, including the delegation of budgets to schools.

In preparation for the implementation and statutory effect of the new SEN Framework, additional funding of £7.5m in Quarter 4 of 2020-21 and £22m in 2021-22 will help in ensuring that every school has a Learning Support Co-ordinator and a Personal Learning Plan (PLP) is completed for each child on a school's SEN Register.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister of Education to detail the financial package being presented to schools for minor repair works and exterior paint works.

Mr Weir: £46.2m capital resources have been allocated to progress minor works schemes across the Schools' estate during the 2021/22 financial year.

The Education Facilities Management Service have a planned external decoration programme for the 2021/22 delivery year, this is subject to recurrent funding being available.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Education how much public funding was provided to build the Irish language school, Scoil an Droichid, in South Belfast.

Mr Weir: Approximately £934k was provided for accommodation, land and equipment for Scoil an Droichid since it was established on its current Cooke Street site in 1996. Funding has been in the form of EU grants, Iontaobhas na Gaelscolaíochta (InaG) funding and Departmental allocations to the Education Authority.

A major capital project was announced in June 2014 to provide a new seven class school and nursery for the school. The preferred site for the new school is the former Education Authority (EA) owned Ulidia Resource Centre. To date £221k has been allocated to the EA to demolish the building and clear the site. A further £252k has been incurred in design consultant fees, EA and CPD fees and planning.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Education (i) how much public funding has been provided to rent the premises used by the Irish language school, Scoil an Droichid, in South Belfast; (ii) to whom has that funding been paid; and (iii) on what basis was it established that the ownership of the site was different from the controlling interests in the school.

Mr Weir: Between the financial years 2007/08 and 2011/12 £276,621 was paid to An Droichid Ltd, in respect of a rental charge for the site at Cooke Street, Belfast. No rent has been paid for the site since then.

I am unable to provide details in response to the third part of your question as there is a dispute over the ownership of the site, or parts of it and no comment can be made as the matter is presently before the Courts.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Education to detail the enrolment figures for St Colm's High School for the last five years.

Mr Weir: The information requested is contained in the table below.

Year	Total enrolment
2019/20	482

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Education to detail his plans to narrow the educational gap between pupils entitled to free school meals and pupils not entitled to free school meals.

Mr Weir: Raising educational attainment whilst closing the educational gap between FSME and non-FSME pupils has been a Departmental priority for many years. This dual challenge is one which many countries endeavour to overcome and we are not alone in that regard. We have made steady progress over the past 5 years or more as demonstrated in increasing performance at level 2 (GCSEs and equivalent) and level 3 (A levels and equivalent) and in international studies such as PISA, TIMSS and PIRLS.

In 2018/19, the percentage of FSME school leavers achieving at least 5 GCSEs at grades A* - C or equivalent including English and maths was 49.5%, while the percentage of non-FSME school leavers achieving the same measure was 78.5%. This represents a gap of 29 percentage points between these two groups. However, this gap appears to be narrowing; in 2014/15, there was a gap of 32.4 percentage points between these groups. In the last 5 years the proportion of school leavers achieving at least 5 GCSEs A*-C or equivalent including GCSE English and Maths has risen by over 7 percentage points (up from 63.5% in 2014 to 70.8% in 2019). At over 14 percentage points, the improvement for school leavers in receipt of free school meals has been even more marked (49.5% in 2019, compared with 34.9% in 2014).

The outcomes achieved in international studies point to our children and young people more than holding their own, both in comparison with our nearest neighbours and on an international basis. The attainment of pupils entitled to Free School Meals has continued to improve and evidence from PISA 2018 points to the strong outcomes achieved by our most deprived pupils. However, more needs to be done to support children and young people from socio-economically deprived backgrounds.

That is why I commissioned an Expert Panel in September 2020 to examine and propose an action plan to address links between persistent educational underachievement and socio-economic background, including the long-standing issues facing working-class, Protestant boys. This was a New Decade New Approach commitment. I have recently received the Final Report and Action Plan which I am considering. In due course it will be submitted to the NI Executive for its consideration. I am very hopeful that the actions within the plan will make a significant contribution towards improving the educational outcomes for all pupils and particularly those children from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister of Education to confirm (i) what oversight his Department provides to monitor the effectiveness of Boards of Governors; and (ii) what action is taken if a Board of Governors of a controlled school have not met regularly and do not engage with parents.

Mr Weir: The Department does not have an official monitoring role on the effectiveness of Boards of Governors. However, the Education Training Inspectorate may evaluate the quality of the strategic and corporate work of the Board of Governors during inspections and if they are concerned about the standards of governance within a school it can recommend that the Department exercises its powers under Article 14 of the Education (Northern Ireland) Order 1998 and appoint additional governors to the board of governors.

The Education Authority (EA), which appoints Governors to Controlled schools, has an extensive training programme available to all governors and along with the Department is able to provide advice and support to Boards as appropriate.

The past year has been extremely difficult for schools and in many cases, boards of governors planned meetings could not proceed due to Covid restrictions. The Department recently approved an amendment to the Scheme of Management for Controlled schools which made provision for governors to meet remotely. The EA issued guidance during the first lockdown to advise that Boards of Governors should not meet unless required to transact urgent business.

Outside of Covid restrictions, where it has come to the attention of EA that a Board of Governors has been unable to meet, the EA can provide support to help overcome the barrier to meeting. Where however in the opinion of an individual or group, the board have not met 'regularly' enough, that is a matter for the Board to consider.

If an individual or group is dissatisfied with the level of engagement provided by the Board of Governors, the school should have a process by which concerns may be raised. These may include informal process for providing suggestions and raising such matters. Alternatively, the school will have a complaints procedure available to parents, carers, and other stakeholders that should be used.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister of Education to outline the process his Department will undertake to remove a governor of a controlled school if that governor is found to be abusing their position by bullying staff, not declaring conflicts of interest and wilfully disrupting both the operation of the board and staff team.

Mr Weir: Any complaint about a governor should in the first instance be raised with the Board of Governors.

Responsibility for taking decisions on school based matters (including complaints) rests with the Board of Governors, unless there has been a failure on the part of the Board of Governors to comply with some requirement in education legislation. Investigating and responding to complaints about schools is the responsibility of each school's governing body.

If the complaints procedure becomes exhausted, there is a right to refer the matter to the Northern Ireland Public Services Ombudsman. The Ombudsman will, however, will only consider a case once the school's internal complaints process has been fully exhausted.

The schools' Scheme of Management will have provision for the declaration of pecuniary interests by governors where they should disclose openly the nature of their interest as soon as practicable after the commencement of a meeting. They shall withdraw from the meeting during consideration or discussion of that matter and any vote on any question related to that matter.

Governors are expected to work together to fulfil the Board of Governors statutory functions in relation to the school. The Board of Governors is accountable for ensuring that its decisions support the best interests of the school and its pupils.

It must also ensure that its decisions are consistent with the principles of corporate and collective responsibility as noted in the Governor Guide. This notes that the primary purpose of the school governor, acting collectively as a member of the Board of Governors, is to ensure that the school is properly managed and delivers high quality education for all its pupils.

Apart from the school Principal or elected teacher governor, a governor ceases to be a board member if they: subsequently become an employee of any school for which the board of governors is appointed, is subsequently convicted of an offence and sentenced by a court or subsequently become bankrupt or the subject of a Bankruptcy Restrictions Order.

A member of the board shall be considered to have resigned their membership and shall cease to be a member where - there is an absence from three consecutive meetings, or for six months consecutively, whichever is the greater period, unless the failure to attend was occasioned by illness or other unavoidable cause.

Mr Buckley asked the Minister of Education to outline how many supply teachers used in schools in the Upper Bann to cover temporary vacancies, are teachers that had previously taken retirement.

Mr Weir: Teachers' Pay & Pensions Team has analysed the payroll system for temporary teachers in the academic year 1 Sept 2019 - 31 August 2020 and identified a total 55 teachers who have retired and worked in a temporary capacity in this year within the Upper Bann constituency area.

Please note the following:

- 1) Information does not include Voluntary Grammar Schools.
- 2) Teacher count is for any service carried out in the academic year 1 September 2019 - 31 August 2020 following retirement.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Education (i) to detail public spending per pupil on education in Northern Ireland; and (ii) for his assessment of how that compares to GB and the Republic of Ireland.

Mr Weir:

- (i) The public spending per pupil on education in Northern Ireland is £6,287, based on the Department's opening budget for the 2021-22 financial year.

This figure includes funding for schools and pupils from both the Aggregated Schools Budget and the Education Authority's block grant, as well as the Education Authority's earmarked budgets for schools. It excludes funding for non-statutory pre-school education providers participating in the Pre-School Education Programme and opening COVID-19 funding commitments.

Details of the Department's 2021-22 Opening Resource Budget can be accessed via the link below:

Department of Education 2021-22 Opening Resource Budget (https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/education/Department of Education 2021-22 Opening Resource Budget\_0.pdf)

- (ii) There are inherent difficulties in trying to make comparisons on per pupil funding across the jurisdictions, examples of which include, but are not limited to, regional differences in school starting ages, how different types of schools are funded and how funds, including support services to pupils, are accounted for (e.g. home to school transport, school meals, etc.).

Numerous research studies have sought to provide relative budget/expenditure comparisons across jurisdictions, but for the most part these have necessarily been limited to high-level approximations, which contain numerous qualifications and/or annotations as to the comparability of data.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education what percentage of special school staff have been vaccinated as a result of the expansion of the vaccination programme.

Mr Weir: Vaccination is a personal choice. The Department does not hold this information.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education to detail the primary school counselling pilot, including the number of primary schools included.

Mr Weir: The Department of Education (DE) recognises there is a need to address the increasingly complex issues facing our younger children.

A Primary School Counselling pilot, to include all primary schools (including special schools with a cohort of primary school pupils), is one of a range of supports to be delivered through the implementation of the Emotional Health and Wellbeing in Education Framework.

Although funding was approved during 2020/21 to support delivery of the Primary School Counselling pilot, the closure of schools due to lockdown made this undeliverable.

Work is progressing between DE officials and the Education Authority to prepare for the commencement of the pilot during 2021/22, subject to securing the necessary funding and approval processes, including the development of plans for evaluation of the impacts and benefits of this support for primary school children.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education to outline the rationale and evidence for his decision to not permit inter-schools sports at this time.

Mr Weir: My Department's guidance continues to be informed by advice from the Chief Medical Officer, the Assistant Chief Scientific Advisor, the Public Health Agency and the Scientific Advisory Group for Emergencies which is based on scientific and public health advice. On 15 April, based on the Department of Health's advice, the Executive took the decision to permit the resumption of limited competitive outdoor sport from 23 April. However, it did not permit the resumption of inter-schools sports at that point. My Department continues to engage with the Department of Health in order to allow the Executive to consider a resumption of all inter-school sports as soon as possible and when it is safe to do so.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Education whether he will introduce legislation to provide for a flexible school starting age.

Mr Weir: There are circumstances where it may be appropriate for children to delay starting school when they are due to, which is why I announced my decision to develop policy proposals to address the issue of flexibility in school starting age.

This is a key legislative priority for me in the current mandate and I have instructed my officials to work at pace scoping out the policy work for a potential Bill. At the same time I recognise that there will be significant pressure on the Executive's legislative programme and progress on any legislative changes may be impacted by other Executive and private members bills all vying for assembly time.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Education to detail the number of times the Education Authority's Critical Incident Response Team has been called out to schools in each of the last three years.

Mr Weir: The Education Authority has confirmed the Critical Incident Response Team has provided critical incident management advice, support and resources during the academic years (September to August) as follows:

Academic Year	Number of Critical Incidents
2018/19	67
2020/to date	23

These figures include circumstances in which the Critical Incident Response Team did not physically attend school premises, but provided support and advice by telephone, when appropriate.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Education how his Department is progressing Irish Medium schools in West Tyrone.

(AQW 18494/17-22)

Mr Weir: There are two Irish-medium primary schools in West Tyrone, namely Gaelscoil Uí Dhochartaigh in Strabane and Gaelscoil na gCrann in Omagh. Both schools are sustainable and have nursery units offering 26 full-time places.

There are no key issues included in the Education Authority's Annual Action Plan 2019-2021 for Irish-medium provision in West Tyrone.

Gaelscoil na gCrann - was announced to proceed to design in June 2014 for a seven class Irish-medium primary school plus a single nursery unit. The school was handed over on 16 July 2020.

Gaelscoil Uí Dhochartaigh – was announced to proceed to design in January 2013. Planning permission for the construction of a seven class base primary school plus a single nursery unit was granted in December 2020. It is estimated that construction on the project will commence in December 2021 with an estimated completion date of February 2023.

It is my intention to consider a further call for major capital works projects before the end of the 2021/22 financial year. Planning and preparation for that call will commence in the near future.

Comhairle na Gaelscolaíochta, the managing authority for Irish-medium schools, will initially consider if any schools are in need of major capital funding and if so, will submit applications on behalf of the schools when a call for project applications is made by the Department.

Applications received will be assessed against criteria set out in a Protocol for selection, which is published in advance of a call being made.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education to outline how the funding model for incidental and in year school growth is an adequate and appropriate funding model for planned school growth.

Mr Weir: The Common Funding Scheme (CFS) sets the overarching framework within which schools are funded under the Common Funding Formula, and how they can, in certain circumstances, access central funds from the Education Authority (EA), as the funding authority for all grant-aided schools.

A link to the CFS (<https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/publications/common-funding-scheme-2020-2021>) can be accessed on the Department's website.

The CFS makes provision for in-year growth through contingency funding, and recognises the impact on schools with an approved Development Proposal for growth. As a result, the qualifying threshold that applies to 'incidental growth' does not apply to new year groups in developing schools, nor to growth resulting from a Development Proposal.

A number of stakeholders have contacted my Department to outline concerns around the EA's application of contingency funding under the CFS, which includes in-year growth funding for schools with an approved Development Proposal. Finance officials in my Department and the EA have therefore been taking forward a project to review the EA's application of the CFS in relation to dual sites and contingency funding, which includes in-year growth. This work is ongoing, and it is anticipated that the outcome of the review will be known within the next few weeks.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister of Education for (i) an update on his Department's progress with regard to a flexible school starting age; and (ii) the timescale for the implementation of a new policy.

Mr Weir: Since I announced my decision to develop policy proposals to address the issue of flexibility in school starting age, my officials have worked at pace scoping out the policy work for a potential Bill. The research and scoping phase of policy development has included engagement with a wide range of stakeholders and will provide a range of evidence based policy options for my consideration.

I would emphasise that this is a key legislative priority for me in the current mandate but, at the same time, I recognise that there will be significant pressure on the Executive's legislative programme. Progress on any legislative changes may be impacted by other Executive and private members bills all vying for assembly time but I will continue to press ahead with a view to bringing changes forward at the earliest opportunity.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education to detail (i) all requests for temporary variation in enrolment by post primary schools, including numbers for the 2021/2022 academic year; and (ii) the number of additional places granted, by school, for the 2021/2022 academic year.

Mr Weir: Details of Temporary Variation (TV) requests received to date for admission to post-primary schools for the 2021/22 school year are set out in Table 1. As the post-primary admissions process is ongoing these figures are subject to change. I had already approved a number of additional places at Year 8 in advance of the post-primary process commencing and these are set out in Table 2.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education what action he is taking to ensure affordable uniform policies at all schools in Northern Ireland.

Mr Weir: The wearing of school uniform is not governed by legislation but falls to schools to determine. The day-to-day management of schools, including school uniform policy, is a matter for school Principals, subject to any directions that might be given by the Board of Governors.

To assist schools in developing their school uniform policies, the Department of Education issued guidance. This guidance advises that schools should ensure that their school uniform policy is fair and reasonable, in practical and financial terms, and that schools should have regard to their duties under relevant equality and other legislation.

The guidance was revised in June 2018 and the Department wrote to all schools reminding them of the importance of keeping the costs of school uniforms to a minimum. The guidance advises schools to ensure that items are available 'off the peg' from a number of retail outlets so that the school uniform does not become a barrier for children from low income families attending the school

I am aware of the recent Education (Guidance about Costs of School Uniforms) Act 2021 which will require schools in England to follow new statutory guidance on uniform costs, instructing them to keep prices down. The Department will monitor the impact of the new law in England however, there are no plans at present to introduce legislation in relation to school uniform in NI.

I have recently agreed to a comprehensive review of the free school meal and uniform grant eligibility criteria with a view to implementation of recommendations in 2022 or 2023 subject to available resources. The purpose of the review is to ensure that free school meals and uniform grants are available to support the most vulnerable children in our society. The review will consider the current rates of Uniform Grant as a contribution to the cost of school uniforms.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education whether he will introduce guidance or regulation to limit the requirement on pupils to purchase branded uniform.

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Education whether his Department intends to relax guidance to schools on educational visits, outside of their premises, prior to the end of this term.

(AQW 18621/17-22)

Mr Weir: The most recent version of the Department of Education's Education Restart guidance, Coronavirus (COVID-19) Education Restart Guidance for Schools and Educational Settings in Northern Ireland 4th Edition (https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/education/Coronavirus Guidance for Schools and Educational Settings - March 2021.pdf), was released at the start of March 2021. It provided an update on page 19 to say that schools could resume non-overnight domestic educational visits, provided that the school undertakes a full and thorough risk assessment, and that schools should consult with the existing health and safety guidance when considering educational visits. Visits can be done in line with protective measures, such as keeping children within their consistent group and the COVID-19 secure measures in place at the destination.

Mr Stalford asked the Minister of Education when group based and home visiting will be allowed for Sure Start services.

Mr Weir: Support provided by Sure Start to children and families facing disadvantage has never been so critical as during the COVID pandemic. As a positive first step, the Executive agreed my proposals for resumption of child only Sure Start services from 25 March; this support for children is in place.

However, it is important to also restart support for Sure Start parents and families who have been impacted by the pandemic, so that they in turn can support the development of their children. I have therefore submitted proposals to the Executive's COVID Taskforce, requesting urgent Executive consideration be given to restarting all remaining Sure Start services from 24 May.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Education when singing lessons will be allowed in school for those pupils taking a music exam.

Mr Weir: I wrote to schools on 14 April to advise that, with immediate effect, pupils taking a practical music assessment for GCSE, AS-level and A-level qualifications that require singing or the playing of a woodwind or brass instrument will be permitted to take these lessons as normal in suitable venues, ie, where mitigations, such as social distancing and in well-ventilated rooms, can take place.

The Education Authority (EA) met with the Public Health Agency (PHA) to review its guidance for its Music Service. A letter was issued to Principals dated 16 April 2021 to advise that woodwind and brass tuition could recommence, along with strings, percussion and keyboard, from 19 April 2021. However, Music Service tutors who teach singing could resume face-to-face tuition in schools to support only those pupils who are taking a practical music assessment for GCSE, AS-level and A-level qualifications. The policy to pause all other indoor singing remains in place. All Music Service tuition can continue to be delivered with appropriate mitigations in place, as detailed in the "Music Unlocked" (<https://musicservice.eani.org.uk/schools-teachers/music-unlocked-guidance-schools>) guidance and risk assessments. The Department will keep this under review with PHA input.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Education to outline when restrictions will be lifted on Sure Start premises and programmes.

Mr Weir: Support provided by Sure Start to children and families facing disadvantage has never been so critical as during the COVID pandemic. As a positive first step, the Executive agreed my proposals for resumption of child only Sure Start services from 25 March; this support for children is in place.

However, it is important to also restart support for Sure Start parents and families who have been impacted by the pandemic, so that they in turn can support the development of their children. I have therefore submitted proposals to the Executive's COVID Taskforce, requesting urgent Executive consideration be given to restarting all remaining Sure Start services from 24 May.

Mr McGuigan asked the Minister of Education to outline his plans to increase physical activity and participation in sport in schools as we emerge from the COVID-19 pandemic.

Mr Weir: As restrictions have been gradually eased, I have sought to prioritise the core curriculum activities within schools. This has meant that pupils are now able to enjoy the majority of educational activities that would have been available before schools closed, provided that appropriate guidance is adhered to and mitigations are in place.

I am committed to supporting schools as they plan, develop and implement high quality PE provision and increase opportunities for physical activity right across the school day. Members will know that I secured an exemption for PE from the general prohibition in sport and provision has therefore continued.

In terms of wider sports provision, I wrote to schools on 14 April to advise that, in relation to the provision of extra-curricular school sports, regulations have been amended to permit the resumption of outdoor extra-curricular school sports. This will enable schools to increase participation in sports not normally included in the PE curriculum. It is essential that schools adhere to the guidance set by the relevant sports' governing body.

Indoor extra-curricular sports or inter-schools sports are not permitted at this time. This remains under review and any future easing of the regulations in respect of indoor sports will inevitably lead to greater participation.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Education what plans he has to review The Education (Curriculum Minimum Content) Order (Northern Ireland) 2007 to develop further the provision of Relationship and Sexuality Education in schools.

Mr Weir: There are diverse views about the delivery, content and level of prescription of the RSE curriculum. Providing detailed lists of compulsory subject content within a curriculum does not guarantee that a subject will be well or appropriately taught or that it will reflect the needs of pupils. Further, in a subject area such as RSE, detailed prescribed content may rapidly become out of date as new issues emerge.

Any changes to the legislation would require significant and extensive consultation with key stakeholders to allow for a sound evidence base on which to make decisions on content. It would also need to safeguard the current flexibility of the curriculum and ensure that it is not unintentionally narrowed or reduced.

However, you will be aware that funding has been provided to support the production of extensive RSE resources and guidance materials through the Council for Curriculum, Examinations and Assessment's online RSE Hub. Work on the Hub is ongoing.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister of Education for his assessment of pre-school admissions criteria.

Mr Weir: Pre-school education, whilst non-compulsory, is an important phase of early education, and as such, my Department makes a funded pre-school education place available for every child in their pre-school year whose parents want it.

All admissions criteria are set by pre-school providers, taking into account guidance provided by the Department; however, current legislation requires that the top criterion for each provider prioritises children from socially disadvantaged backgrounds.

There have been many contextual changes in pre-school provision since this legislation was introduced in 1998, together with significant changes to welfare benefits, particularly the introduction of Universal Credit.

The introduction of Universal Credit alone necessitates a change to the current statutory criterion.

It was in this context, together with the many views expressed by parents and key stakeholders in recent years, that I recently launched a public consultation exercise to seek views on the continued need for the current legislative requirement and, if the criterion is to remain, consider which children should be prioritised.

This consultation will run until 16 July 2021 and I would encourage parents, carers and all early years stakeholders to respond with their views on the current legislative requirement and the proposals for changing it.

The consultation also seeks views on how the proposal to standardise the length of pre-school education sessions, which was set out in "Learning to Learn", the Framework for Early Years Education and Learning in 2013, might impact on views on the admissions process in the future. Responses to this aspect will help to inform future policy development in due course.

Mr Beattie asked the Minister of Education whether he will intervene in the decision taken by the Education Authority to close the Lurgan campus of Craigavon Senior High School and bus the children to Portadown.

Mr Weir: Development Proposal (DP) 574 was published by the Education Authority (EA) on 22 April 2021. This initiates a two month statutory objection period during which anyone can make their views known on the proposal, directly to the Department.

The DP process is a statutory process and I should point out that the EA is the proposer of the DP, but I will make the ultimate decision on the proposal, taking account of all pertinent evidence and views submitted.

As I am sure you will appreciate, as with all proposals, it is important to ensure that the statutory process is followed.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister of Education to outline what plans he has for a new controlled post-primary school building in Newtownards.

(AQO 2029/17-22)

Mr Weir: It is a matter for the Education Authority (EA) working with the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools (CCMS) and other sectoral support bodies to bring forward proposals that meet the needs of children and young people. The EA, as Managing Authority for Controlled schools, would be responsible for bringing forward any Development Proposal (DP) specific to that sector.

My Department does not become engaged in Area Planning considerations until a DP is published by the EA.

To date nothing has been published in relation to any proposal regarding a new Post-Primary school in Newtownards, nor are there any workstreams in the EA's (extended) Annual Action Plan 2019-2021 with that intent.

Mr Middleton asked the Minister of Education to outline his plans to develop further youth intervention programmes in the North West.

Mr Weir: Youth work provision is driven by assessed need at both regional and local level. It would be for the relevant local advisory group(s) to agree what additional provision, if any, is required for EA to consider.

Drawing on existing assessed need, funding has already been allocated through the EA's new funding scheme for a two year period both at a regional and local area level. A full list of organisations who have been awarded funding is publically available on the EA Youth Funding website.

In addition to this, I have secured £5m for a summer youth programme that will incorporate a wide range of activities for young people across NI.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister of Education what further engagement has he had with the Council for the Curriculum, Examinations and Assessment regarding the use of assessment tools to determine grades this year.

Mr Weir: My officials continue to meet with CCEA at least once a week to discuss all aspects of the alternative awarding arrangements, including seeking feedback from CCEA's regular meetings with post-primary principals on the ongoing implementation of those arrangements.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister of Education for an update on his plans to extend school counselling provision to primary schools.

Mr Weir: A Primary School Counselling pilot is one of a range of supports for children and young people to be delivered through implementation of the Children and Young People's Emotional Health and Wellbeing in Education Framework, which I launched jointly with the Minister for Health on 26 February 2021.

Subject to securing the necessary resources, the pilot will involve funding for primary school children (including those attending special schools) to have access to age appropriate counselling services when needed, and provide an evidence base to warrant consideration of a fully sustainable service.

Work is progressing between Department of Education officials and the Education Authority to prepare for the commencement of the pilot, subject to the necessary approval processes, including the development of plans for evaluation of the impacts and benefits of this support for primary school children.

Mr Sheehan asked the Minister of Education to outline an indicative timeframe for the full resumption of Sure Start services including group activities.

Mr Weir: Support provided by Sure Start to children and families facing disadvantage has never been so critical as during the COVID pandemic. As a positive first step, the Executive agreed my proposals for resumption of child only Sure Start services from 25 March; this support for children is in place.

However, it is important to also restart support for Sure Start parents and families who have been impacted by the pandemic, so that they in turn can support the development of their children. I have therefore submitted proposals to the Executive's COVID Taskforce, requesting urgent Executive consideration be given to restarting all remaining Sure Start services from 24 May.

Department of Finance

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Finance, pursuant to AQW 16399/17-22, to detail the cost to date for each of the approved schemes.

(AQW 16889/17-22)

Mr Murphy (The Minister of Finance): The cost to date of Department of Health COVID-19 Schemes approved under Ministerial Direction are as follows:

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Finance which Executive Departments, including arm's-length bodies and non-departmental public bodies, pay Corporation Tax.

(AQW 17221/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The table below provides details of Executive Departments, including arm's-length bodies and non-departmental public bodies that pay Corporation Tax. We are still awaiting details from the Department for Economy and will issue separately when available.

Department for the Economy

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Finance what plans he has to reduce business rates to help kick start the economy.

Mr Murphy: On 11 March I announced details of a rate relief package for the 2021-22 rating year which will deliver £230 million of support to almost 29,000 businesses here. The Rates (Coronavirus) (Emergency Relief) Regulations (NI) 2021 which came into operation on 7 May, provide for a further 12 month targeted business rate support, following updated expert and independent analysis of the local economy undertaken by the Ulster University Economic Policy Centre (UUEPC). This relief will be applied on a very similar basis to the 12 month rate relief provided in 2020/21, which businesses have acknowledged was a lifeline during the pandemic, and which will also be critical now in recovery.

The Executive has agreed a freeze in the non-domestic Regional Rate at the same level set last year following an 18% reduction, and to further assist I have delayed the issuing of this year's bills until June. In addition, support for businesses will also continue to be provided through the range of other long-standing reliefs provided through the rating system, including Small Business Rate Relief and Rural ATM schemes, which I am in the process of extending for the 21-22 rating year. All of these measures will assist businesses as our economy make progress to recovery.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Finance to detail the 850 manufacturing and business organisations that will avail of the £21 million grant for COVID-19.

Mr Murphy: To date 859 businesses have received the Manufacturing (Industrial Derating) Support Grant, totalling £20,695,000. 78 businesses received a payment of £15,000 and 781 received a payment of £25,000.

I am unable to detail the individual businesses which have, or will, receive payment of a Manufacturing (Industrial Derating) Support Grant, given sole trader data is personal data and releasing it would be contrary to the UK General Data Protection Regulation.

Mr Beattie asked the Minister of Finance when maintenance work is scheduled to repair the light fixtures on Carson's statue on the Stormont Estate.

Mr Murphy: Following routine maintenance to clean the lighting fixtures on Carson's statue, it became apparent that the units were no longer fully operational. New replacement lighting fixtures have been ordered and will be installed as soon as possible.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Finance, pursuant to AQW 17497/17-22, how many requests there have been to his Department for translation services, broken down by language.

Mr Murphy: The Department of Finance facilitated the tender process for a translation services framework in October 2017. This framework operates on a self-service basis and any requests by individual Departments for translation will be made directly to one of the appointed contractors. Since April 2021, requests for translation to Irish or Ulster Scots are carried out through the Department for Communities Translation Hub.

My Department has made 50 requests for translation services since 2017. Details are provided below:

English To Irish	25	English To Italian	1
English To French	5	English To Lithuanian	1
English To Ulster Scots	4	English To Portuguese	1
English To German	4	English To Romanian	1
English To Simplified Chinese	4	English To Spanish	1
English To Polish	2	English To Bulgarian	1

Mr Stalford asked the Minister of Finance whether the funding shortfalls from the EU will be replaced with new additional money to the Executive.

(AQW 18189/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The position in terms of replacement funding varies across programmes.

Replacement farm funding from Treasury this financial year is around £14 million short of what I would deem to represent full replacement funding.

It is increasingly unlikely that the Executive will receive direct replacements for Structural Funds and a number of competitive funds. The Community Renewal Fund will be operated from Westminster, with funding bypassing the Executive and falling short of full replacement funding. The Shared Prosperity Fund is expected to replace the Community Renewal Fund and operate on a similar basis; although the detail, including its value, remains unclear.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Finance whether he will consider continuing Localised Restrictions Support Scheme payments to businesses that can only partially reopen under the latest regulations.

Mr Murphy: The legal authority that was given to my Department to provide financial assistance relates only to those businesses that were closed or severely restricted in the services that they can offer by the Health Protection Regulations. When business sectors come out of such restrictions, my Department can no longer provide payment under the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme (LRSS). Payment has already ceased for sectors such as close contact services, outdoor attractions, non-essential retail and self-contained tourist accommodation.

I welcome the reopening from 30 April of some premises within the hospitality sector for outdoor service and gyms for individual training as a positive step forward. However, I also recognise that the businesses within those sectors continue to be subject to severe restrictions on the nature of the services they can offer, with many unable to trade at all. Therefore, I agreed as an interim measure to continue paying LRSS to those particular sectors until at least 23 May due to the restrictions that continue to apply. I will continue to keep this matter under review.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Finance whether multi-use entertainment complexes are able to continue to avail of the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme if some services within the complex are not permitted to reopen.

Mr Murphy: In my response to the Member's Question [AQW 18203/17-22], I advised that certain business sectors that are subject to closure or severely restricted by the Regulations will continue to be paid until at least 23 May. A single business operating a multi-use entertainment complex will also continue to receive LRSS up until the date the complex is permitted to open by the Regulations, although not all services within the complex may be permitted to reopen. Any separate business operating within such a complex that has properly been receiving LRSS and is not yet permitted to open, will continue to receive LRSS.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Finance when the 2021 Census results will be published.

Mr Murphy: Initial results from the 2021 Census are planned to be published in Summer 2022.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Finance when the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme for business which will continue to operate with restrictions, such as gyms and hospitality, will end.

Mr Murphy: The legal authority that was given to my Department to provide financial assistance relates only to those businesses that were closed or severely restricted in the services that they can offer, by the Health Protection Regulations. When business sectors come out of such restrictions, my Department can no longer provide payment under the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme (LRSS).

I welcome the reopening from 30 April of some premises within the hospitality sector for outdoor service and gyms for individual training as a positive step forward. However, I also recognise that the businesses within those sectors continue to be subject to severe restrictions on the nature of the services they can offer, with many unable to trade at all. Therefore, I agreed as an interim measure to continue paying LRSS to those particular sectors until at least 23 May due to the restrictions that continue to apply. I will continue to keep this matter under review.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Finance whether close-contact service businesses are included in the 100 per cent rates holiday for 2021/22.

Mr Murphy: Rate relief in the 2021-22 rating year, will be provided on a very similar basis to that in 2020-21. Although the term close-contact service is not used in the legislation, retail and retail services such as barbers, hair salons, nail or beauty services, tattoo parlours and piercing parlours will benefit from the relief.

Details of all the businesses eligible for rate relief are listed in Schedule 2 of the legislation - The Rates (Coronavirus) (Emergency Relief) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2021 (<https://www.legislation.gov.uk/nisr/2021/116/made/data.pdf>).

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Finance, pursuant to AQW 17760/17-22, (i) how many groups applied for financial support to the dormant accounts fund; (ii) how many groups that applied met the criteria; (iii) how the approved applicants were selected for funding out of the groups that met the criteria; and (iv) whether he was personally involved in the decision on which groups were selected.

Mr Murphy: There were applications from 211 groups to the Dormant Accounts Fund between 12th January and 30th April 2021.

The National Lottery Community Fund is delivering this open, rolling programme. The Department does not hold details of applications to the Fund. However, National Lottery Community Fund (NLCF) has advised that to date the success rate of applications has been relatively low.

The Fund is not a programme replacement Fund rather it is designed to meet the gaps that traditional funding models cannot address. Many of the applications sought replacement programme funding and did not meet the capacity building, resilience or sustainability aims of the Fund. The Department is working with National Lottery Community Fund to promote the overall purpose of the Fund and encourage new and resubmitted applications.

The NLCF is responsible for the administration of the Dormant Accounts Fund as set out in the Dormant Bank and Building Society Accounts Act 2008. The Minister of Finance was not involved in the decision on which groups were selected.

More information on the programme can be obtained from The National Lottery Community Fund website:
<https://www.tnlcommunityfund.org.uk/funding/programmes/dormant-accounts-ni>

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Finance, in a case where an applicant can show their Net Annual Value is close to £15,001 and that they can demonstrate they are a medium manufacturing business in terms of turnover and other measures, to detail the discretion he has on the authorisation of the £25,000 Manufacturing (Industrial Derating) Support Grant.

Mr Murphy: Land & Property Services (LPS) must administer the Manufacturing (Industrial Derating) Support Grant support in accordance with the Regulations which give the Department the legal authority to make the grants. Those regulations do not give the Department any power to apply discretion on the eligibility criteria.

The Manufacturing (Industrial Derating) Support Grant provides support to businesses that occupied commercial premises with a Net Annual Value (NAV) between £15,001 and £51,000 who benefit from industrial derating as at 1 March 2021, subject to scheme eligibility and in line with the associated Regulations. If the business's NAV is under £15,001 they are not eligible for the scheme as the NAV falls below the threshold.

LPS would also consider applications for this support grant from businesses that applied to have their NAV reassessed before the 1 March 2021. If a business made an application to LPS to have their NAV reassessed before 1 March 2021, they can contact LPS using the online form at Coronavirus: Large NAV Business Grant (nibusinessinfo.co.uk) and they will be advised of the next step. If a business has not applied to have their NAV reassessed before the 1 March 2021 there is no facility to request a review for the purpose of accessing this grant.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Finance what consideration he has given to permitting local Councils to redeem and refinance old government high interest loans without penalty.

Mr Murphy: It is appreciated that councils are repaying some historic loans at interest rates in excess of the current lending rate; as are other organisations, businesses and individuals.

However, historically, the Northern Ireland Consolidated Fund (NICF) has borrowed from the National Loans Fund (NLF) in order to finance some of these loans. DoF charges interest on loans made to councils from the NICF in order to fund the interest payable on related borrowings from the NLF. Penalties charged for early redemption on the loans are set such that they will provide cover for the loss of interest over the remaining life of the loan.

Consequently, in order for local councils to redeem and refinance these loans without incurring redemption penalties, the costs would have to be absorbed by the NI Block, as the liability to repay the interest to the National Loans Fund would remain.

The potential cost to the NICF of absorbing the redemption fees would be equal and opposite to the savings made by the councils and would effectively become a subsidy to the councils at the expense of the wider block. This could also create a local precedent where other public bodies, such as schools and the Housing Executive, would seek to redeem loans without penalty, placing a further burden on the block.

Due to the potential substantial cost to the NI block as a whole, such a policy would need to be carefully considered in the first instance by Local Government Division in the Department for Communities (DfC), who have policy responsibility for local government.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Finance how many meetings he, or his officials, have held in the last 12 months with NIPSA in relation to civil service pay.

Mr Murphy: There have been 18 meetings held between myself or Department of Finance officials with unions since 1 May 2020 in relation to civil service pay. Eight of those meetings were with NIPSA.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Finance to outline the sites being considered in Omagh town for the new digital hub.

Mr Murphy: Department of Finance officials are working to determine the optimal size and location for the Omagh Connect2 hub. Sites within Central Government's existing office portfolio in Omagh are being considered in the first instance.

My officials continue to liaise with the Chief Executive of Fermanagh and Omagh District Council and her team to explore options to maximise the local regeneration and impact of the hub.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Finance for an update on payment of the £5,000 top up grant for businesses that had previously received the £10,000 Business Support Grant.

Mr Murphy: A further payment of £5,000 will be automatically issued to businesses that received the £10,000 Small Business Support Grant in 2020, were still in occupation of the premises on 1 March 2021 and have not been paid under the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme or Covid Business Support Scheme Part B, subject to scheme eligibility in line with the associated Regulations.

These payments will be automatic. Business which received the initial £10,000 Small Business Support Grant do not need to apply. Businesses entitled to receive this grant will be informed by letter or email that a payment will be issued. It is anticipated that payments will begin to issue before the end of May 2021.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Finance to detail the total amount of unpaid rates in each of the last three years.

Mr Murphy: The end of year rating debt for the years 2017/18 to 2019/20, the last three years for which figures are available, are provided in the table below. The 2020/21 financial accounts have not yet been finalised.

Rating Year	End of Year Rating Debt
2019/20	£124.4 million
2018/19	£124.5 million
2017/18	£125.8 million

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Finance how many requests his Department received for the translation of documents into (i) Irish; and (ii) Ulster Scots, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18629/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The Department of Finance facilitated the tender process for a translation services framework in October 2017. This framework operates on a self-service basis and any requests by individual Departments for translation will be made directly to one of the appointed contractors. Since April 2021, requests for translation to Irish or Ulster Scots are carried out through the Department for Communities Translation Hub.

Details of the requests by my Department over the last 3 years are provided below;

2018	ENGLISH to IRISH	1
2019	ENGLISH to IRISH	2
2020	ENGLISH to IRISH	2
2020	ENGLISH to ULSTER SCOTS	1
2021	ENGLISH to ULSTER SCOTS	3

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Finance, pursuant to AQW 16572/17-22, for an update on the review of the draft report by the Subcommittee on Reform following the RHI Inquiry.

Mr Murphy: I refer the member to my answer to AQW 16572/17-22.

Department of Health

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health whether there is a shortage of Versatis patches; and whether there will be a change in supply in the coming months.

(AQW 12551/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department is unaware of any ongoing issues affecting the supply of Versatis patches nor at this stage does it anticipate any changes to the supply of Versatis patches in the coming months.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health what further areas of COVID-19 cooperation he is exploring with his counterpart in Dublin, Stephen Donnelly TD.

(AQW 13349/17-22)

Mr Swann: Throughout this pandemic I have sought to work closely with my counterparts across the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland to protect public health. I am committed to a continuation of that work, on issues such as cross-border travel, data sharing, contact tracing and other health related matters.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health whether he is considering implementing mandatory quarantine in hotels for arrivals to Northern Ireland from specific countries with a high incidence of COVID-19 and COVID-19 variants of concern.

Mr Swann: Department officials worked with colleagues in The Executive Office, who led a Task and Finish Group to implement managed hotel isolation for NI arrivals from red list countries. This new policy was introduced within the NI International Travel Regulations from 16th April 2021, ahead of the resumption of direct international flights into NI. There are currently no direct international flights from red list countries, however NI arrivals travelling indirectly from a red list country to NI are subject to managed hotel isolation here. Passengers travelling to NI from a red list country via GB or ROI would be subject to managed hotel isolation at the point of first arrival, before transiting on to NI.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health whether he plans to commission an inpatient eating disorder unit.

Mr Swann: The Mental Health Action Plan identified a Review of Eating Disorder services for completion by March 2021. The Review has been received by the Department, is being considered and will help shape the new 10 year Mental Health Strategy.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health (i) whether The Health Protection (Coronavirus, Restrictions) (No. 2) (Amendment) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2021 ceased to have effect as a result of a failure to be approved by resolution of the Assembly within a period of 28 days beginning with the day on which they were made in accordance with the Public Health Act (Northern Ireland) 1967; and (ii) to detail the ramifications of the failure to approve the regulations within the 28 period, including the effect on any offences allegedly committed by persons in contravention of the restrictions.

Mr Swann: The Health Protection (Coronavirus, Restrictions) (No. 2) (Amendment) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2021 were made on 7 January 2021. The Assembly was in recess from 19 December until 10 January 2021. The 28 day period for approval of a statutory rule by resolution of the Assembly does not include any period of Assembly recess therefore taking into account 4 days of recess 7, 8, 9 & 10 January 2021, the 28 day period commenced on Monday 11 January and the last day of the 28 day period was Sunday 7 February.

Under the Interpretation Act (NI) 1954 Section 39(4), Statutory Rules cannot expire on a Sunday and as a result of this stricture the expiration date accordingly moves to the following Monday. In this case the expiration date was Monday 8 February 2021. The Regulations were approved by resolution of the Assembly on Monday 8 February 2021.

If the amendment had not been approved by resolution of the Assembly within the required 28 day period, the amendment would cease to have effect but that does not affect the validity of any offences allegedly committed under the regulations before they ceased to have effect.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health when he expects restrictions on the operation of caravan parks to be lifted.

Mr Swann: As part of a balanced package of careful relaxations announced on 15 April, the Executive decided that from 30 April, overnight stays are permitted in self-contained accommodation provided it is only occupied by one household or one bubble. Self-contained accommodation may include holiday homes, self-catering houses, static caravans, touring caravans and motorhomes.

Residents in campsites and caravan parks will not be permitted to access on-site indoor communal facilities except for waste disposal.

On 2 March this year, the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions. The Pathway is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. The new process also permits a more urgent consideration of proposals from Departments deemed to have urgent or compelling reasons to fall outside the four week review process.

The Executive COVID Taskforce, through a process of cross-departmental and inter sectoral engagement, is responsible for first considering and advising the Executive on the future relaxation of regulations.

Mr Stalford asked the Minister of Health in what specific circumstances will his advisors consider lifting all COVID-19 restrictions.

Mr Swann: On 2 March 2021 the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions. The Pathway is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. The new process also permits a more urgent consideration of proposals from Departments deemed to have urgent or compelling reasons to fall outside the four week review process.

In this new process, the management of the changes to the restrictions regulations moved to the Executive Office (TEO).

TEO will now hold the lead responsibility and operational management of the process leading to Executive decisions on the ongoing need for restrictions and the requirement to amend the regulations.

This responsibility includes receiving and managing all proposals from Executive departments, management of the decision making process and facilitating consultation with departments on the drafting of amendment regulations. This work is supported by a Cross-Departmental Working Group, chaired by the Director of the TEO COVID-19 Taskforce team with membership from all 9 Departments and key stakeholders, including local government and PSNI.

Mr Stalford asked the Minister of Health in what conditions he will be recommending to the Executive the reopening of click and collect for all businesses.

Mr Swann: From April 1, click and collect purchases were allowed from garden centres and plant nurseries. On April 12, all other non-essential retailers were able to resume click-and-collect services. Restrictions on retail were further lifted on 30 April 2021, when all retail was able to resume.

Shops must take all reasonable measures to manage risk, including ensuring measures are in place to maintain physical distancing.

A face covering must be worn in any retail premises, including any indoor area of a shopping centre, unless exempt.

Information on how to stay safe when shopping is available at NI Direct.

Mr Swann: On 2 March this year, the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions. The Executive COVID Taskforce, through a process of cross-departmental and inter sectoral engagement, is responsible for first considering and advising the Executive on the future relaxation of regulations.

On 15 April the First and deputy First Minister made a Statement to the Assembly on the Executive's decision to ease restrictions. Among these were that, from 30 April, individual activities in gyms, swimming pools and other large venues are permitted – including with a carer and to allow 1-2-1 training/coaching with social distancing.

From 24 May we hope to resume indoor group exercise and training in numbers limited to suit the venue, dependent on the conditions remaining favourable.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health what consideration has been given to the reopening of golf courses.

Mr Swann: From 1 April 2021, up to 10 people (including children of all ages) from a maximum of two households can participate in outdoor sport such as golf. Up to 15 people (including coaches) can take part in structured outdoor sports events, organised through clubs or individuals affiliated to recognised sports governing bodies or representative organisations for sport and physical activity.

Outdoor sports facilities can re-open but only to permit their use for those allowed in the regulations. Club houses and indoor sports facilities (changing rooms, showers, kitchens, meeting rooms), apart from essential toilet facilities must stay closed.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail (i) the rationale for keeping garden centres closed; (ii) the rationale of keeping smaller, independent garden centres closed, even for click and collect services, while larger multinational stores selling similar products are able to remain fully open; and (iii) what conversations he has had with the Department for the Economy regarding this issue.

Mr Swann: On 1 April 2021 the Executive agreed a range of relaxations which came into effect on 12 April including the reopening of Garden Centres and Plant Nurseries. As with other businesses, they were subject to the requirement to operate safely and to follow health and safety law and guidance and to take measures to keep staff and customers safe.

On 15 April 2021 the Executive agreed that from 30 April all retail businesses were permitted to reopen.

Mr Stalford asked the Minister of Health in what precise conditions he will be recommending the reopening of close contact services in Northern Ireland to the Executive.
(AQW 15155/17-22)

Mr Swann: As part of a balanced package of careful relaxations announced on 15 April 2021, the Executive decided that from 23 April 2021, close contact services, such as hairdressers, beauticians, make-up and nails, tattoo and piercing parlours, tanning shops, massage, electrolysis, well-being and holistic treatments, (including those provided from a mobile setting) could reopen, strictly by appointment, with face coverings to be worn by staff and clients unless exempt or if not possible due to the nature of the service.

Driving instruction, theory tests and driving tests also resumed on 23 April 2021.

Close contact businesses are required to collect customer details to help with the Test, Trace, Protect contact tracing programme.

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister of Health to detail the medical and scientific evidence explaining why caravan parks and holiday parks remain closed; and when they will reopen fully.

Mr Swann: As part of a balanced package of careful relaxations announced on 15 April, the Executive decided that from 30 April, overnight stays are permitted in self-contained accommodation provided it is only occupied by one household or one bubble. The Executive, when making decisions on restrictions, takes into account the scientific and medical evidence and also the impacts of the restrictions on the economy and society. The Executive weighs up the totality of the effect each restriction can have in combination with other restrictions in reducing the rate of infections of COVID-19. It is not always possible to disaggregate the precise impact on the rate of transmission of the virus in the community for each of the individual restrictions on their own.

Scientific evidence used by the Executive for decision making purposes is now publically available: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/covid-19-scientific-evidence>

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister of Health when wedding venues can reopen in line with their own risk assessments and with adequate social distancing.

(AQW 15529/17-22)

Mr Swann: The number permitted to attend weddings and civil partnerships is to be informed by a risk assessment for the venue.

Face coverings must be worn by all unless exempt, other than those in the marriage party.

Receptions or post ceremony gatherings are not permitted at present. An indicative date of 24 May has been set for the resumption of post ceremony receptions or functions (with numbers to be informed by a risk assessment for the venue). This will be subject to review.

Customers can view the facilities of venues used for marriages and civil partnerships, such as hotels and other venues, restricted to a maximum of four customers per visit.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister of Health when swimming clubs will be able to reopen for youth training.
(AQW 15589/17-22)

Mr Swann: On 2 March this year, the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions. The Pathway is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the steps being taken reduce the stigma of mental health issues.
(AQW 15623/17-22)

Mr Swann: The reduction of stigma around mental health is a key action within Protect Life 2, the Suicide Prevention Strategy for Northern Ireland.

A range of training and awareness programmes are being delivered to reduce stigma and increase understanding of mental health and wellbeing. These include:

- Mindset Adult and Mindset Adolescent Mental health awareness training;
- Psychological First Aid;
- Stress control;
- Mental Health First Aid;
- Living Life to the full;
- Connections – Link Life suicide Awareness programme;
- Healthy Me;
- Provoking thought

During 2010 – 2020, around £1 million has been invested in 334 programmes within local communities to encourage them to be pro-active in promoting positive mental health and emotional wellbeing through the promotion of the Take 5 Steps to Wellbeing.

Considerable promotion and engagement in Mental Health and Emotional Wellbeing Campaigns have also been delivered including:

- Mental Health Awareness Week.
- A 5 week joint campaign from September to October entitled 'Working Together for Mental Wellbeing' Mental Health Campaign.
- Input to the Community Pharmacy Living Well Campaign.
- Specific COVID Take 5 messaging resources and toolkits developed and promoted.
- 'Mindingyourhead.info' website containing the new COVID wellbeing hub revamped and updated.
- Production of educational resources such as Help is at Hand, Steps to Stress booklet and self-help guides which are widely disseminated.
- Development of the HSCNI Apps Library.

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister of Health why dry cleaners are classified as an essential service in COVID restrictions; and whether this status will change.
(AQW 16113/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Northern Ireland Executive published a list of essential businesses that are allowed to stay open to the public during the coronavirus pandemic laundrettes and dry cleaners were included on that list in the interests of hygiene and public safety. As with other businesses, they were subject to the requirement to operate safely and to follow health and safety law and guidance and to take measures to keep staff and customers safe.

On 2 March 2021 the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions. The Pathway is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health when consideration will be given to the opening of indoor sport training for individual sports such as gymnastics.

Mr Swann: On 15 April the First and deputy First Minister made a Statement to the Assembly on the Executive's decision to ease restrictions. Mr Harvey asked the Minister of Health when (i) bridal shops; and (ii) mens wedding attire shops will open by appointment only, to allow brides and grooms to have their fittings.

Mr Swann: As part of a balanced package of careful relaxations announced on 15 April 2021, the Executive decided that close contact services, including dress fitting and tailoring could reopen from 23 April, strictly by appointment, with face coverings to be worn by staff and clients unless exempt or if not possible due to the nature of the service.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health what consideration he is giving to prioritising fire fighters in the vaccination programme.

Mr Swann: The member will be aware that the NI Covid-19 Vaccination Programme is grounded in the recommendations on priority groups issued by the JCVI in December 2020. Beyond health and social care workers and care home staff, JCVI has not recommended prioritisation by occupation, including fire fighters.

The vaccination programme has moved on at pace and is now vaccinating down to priority group 11, those aged over 30. I note at the time of writing some 962,585 people have received a vaccine.

While the rate limiting factor for deployment is the availability of vaccines, ultimately it is expected that all adults over the age of 18 will be offered the vaccine in coming months and it is hoped the COVID-19 Vaccination Programme will be completed as quickly as possible.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health for an update on mobile breast screening services, including any delays or backlog currently being experienced.

Mr Swann: Following a 4 month pause due to Covid-19 the Northern Ireland Breast Screening Programme resumed in July 2020. Outside of the Belfast Trust, most screening mammograms are carried out on mobile breast screening trailers. These units are working hard to reduce the backlog by providing extra clinics during evenings and weekends, whilst ensuring the recovery of the programme does not compromise on quality.

Over 25,000 women who had their screening delayed due to this pause were offered a screening appointment by the end of September 2020.

There is a backlog of 7,390 women waiting for breast screening across the four breast screening units, including mobile and static sites.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Health to detail the current (ii) target times for a child to receive an autism assessment from point of referral; and (ii) wait times for an assessment, broken down by Health and Social Care Trust.

Mr Swann: The Health and Social Care Board has set targets for Trusts that all children wait no longer than 13 weeks for assessment following referral and a further 13 weeks for commencement of specialised intervention.

Waiting times for an autism assessment for children at 31 December 2020, following a referral, are presented in Table 1.

Table 1: The number of children in Northern Ireland waiting for an autism assessment following referral by Health and Social Trust (31 December 2020)

Ms Bailey asked the Minister of Health to detail (i) the number of children currently waiting for a pica assessment; (ii) the waiting times for pica assessment in each Health and Social Care Trust; and (iii) the support available to families waiting for assessment.

Mr Swann: The number of children currently waiting for a pica assessment and the waiting times for assessments in each Health and Social Care Trust is not held by my Department, or routinely collected by the Health and Social Care Trusts. Therefore, to provide the requested information would require a manual trawl through hundreds of files at a disproportionate cost.

A pica assessment is an issue that can be identified by a range of programmes and services and support would be provided accordingly thereafter.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health to detail the waiting lists for counselling services in Belfast, broken down by district.

(AQW 17061/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department does not hold this information centrally and it was requested from Belfast Health and Social Care (HSC) Trust. Belfast HSC Trust advised that the only counselling service provided by Belfast HSC Trust is in Lifeline, all other counselling services sit in the Community and Voluntary Sector.

Please find information detailed below.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health to detail the demand for mental health services at the Tyrone and Fermanagh Hospital, Omagh.

(AQW 17101/17-22)

Mr Swann: In 2020/21, there were a total of 751 admissions to the Tyrone and Fermanagh Hospital broken down as follows:

- 666 Adult Mental Health admissions; and
- 85 Primary Care and Older People admissions.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health, in relation to Trust rebuilding plans, when respite services will resume for service users and carers.

Mr Swann: Respite services/short breaks are open at a reduced capacity, in line with Infection Prevention Control (IPC) requirements and social distancing guidelines. IPC and social distancing guidelines are subject to regular review cognisant of the rollout and effectiveness of the vaccine programme and rates of infection.

Services are continuously monitored and assessed so that service uptake and unfilled spaces are reallocated where possible to do so. Aligned to this process, Trusts have been working with families and community colleagues to scope additional/ alternative supports, including Direct Payments, and domiciliary and short break options.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health to detail the arrangements for the resumption of wedding receptions.

Face coverings must be worn by all unless exempt, other than those in the marriage party.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister of Health (i) whether he will review the current guidelines limiting hospital visiting; (ii) when he will undertake this review; and (iii) why children under 16 years of age cannot visit adult family members in hospital.

Mr Swann: My Department completed a review of visiting restrictions in all care settings, including in hospitals, and published the resulting updated guidelines for visiting on 30 April 2021, effective from 7 May 2021.

The updated guidance draws no distinction between children and adults visiting in hospitals, save that "All people visiting are expected to adhere to wearing of PPE as guided by the staff" and there is an expectation that the responsibility to ensure that children adhere to all IPC measures will rest with the adult accompanying them.

Mr T Buchanan asked the Minister of Health how many children have been assessed by a paediatric ophthalmology team, in each of the last three years, and are on the waiting list for surgery in each Health and Social Care Trust.

Mr Swann: Paediatric ophthalmology is provided as an in-reach service by the Belfast and Western HSC Trusts. Table 1 shows the number of children on the waiting list for paediatric ophthalmology surgery at 31st March in each of the last three years. These children will have previously attended an appointment at a paediatric ophthalmology clinic.

31st March 2021	191	3

Paediatric Ophthalmology refers only to children aged 15 years and younger. All children aged 16 years and older are referred to the adult ophthalmology service on their 16th Birthday.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister of Health to detail the waiting list numbers for cataract procedures for (i) routine appointments; and (ii) urgent referrals.

Mr Swann: On the 31st December 2020, there were (i) 5,545 patients awaiting a routine cataract procedure and (ii) 920 patients awaiting an urgent cataract procedure, as detailed in the table below.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health for a breakdown of Covid vaccination distribution by Health and Social Care Trust.

(AQW 17867/17-22)

Mr Swann: The member may be aware that the breakdown of the NI Covid Vaccination delivery, by the Health and Social Care Trust Programme is available on the NI Covid-19 Vaccinations Dashboard. The data and visualisations are derived from the Northern Ireland Vaccinations Management System (VMS) and provide detailed information about the vaccination programme. The Dashboard also includes a breakdown of vaccination distribution by postcode which may also be of interest to the member.

The link to the Dashboard is below:-

NI Covid-19 Vaccinations Dashboard | COVID-19 (Coronavirus) Northern Ireland (hscni.net)

The vaccination programme has been moving at pace and is now vaccinating down to priority group 11, those aged over 30. I note at the time of writing some 968,386 people have received a vaccine through the Health and Social Care Trust Programme together with their service partners, including GPs, Mobile Teams and Community Pharmacy.

While the rate limiting factor for deployment is the availability of vaccines, ultimately it is expected that all adults over the age of 18 will be offered the vaccine in coming months and it is hoped the COVID-19 Vaccination Programme will be completed as quickly as possible.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health why vaccination appointments for the 35-39 cohort are not yet available for the North West; and when does he anticipate roll-out for the area will commence.

Mr Swann: The member will be aware that the Vaccination Programme is now open to all adults aged over 30 across Northern Ireland.

The member may be aware that the vaccination programme has been moving at pace and is now vaccinating down to priority group 11, those aged over 30. I note at the time of writing some 114,799 or 45.6% of 30-39 year olds have received their vaccination since the programme was opened to the cohort from 30th April 2021.

The NI Covid-19 Vaccinations Dashboard provides detailed real time information, and plans are being developed to provide data in 5 year cohorts. The link to the Dashboard is below:-

Ms Brogan asked the Minister of Health for an update on Phase 2 of Omagh Hospital and Primary Care Complex for Acute Mental Health services and facilities.

Mr Swann: The Western Health and Social Care Trust submitted a proposal for a new Mental Health Unit in Omagh as part of a capital planning review exercise in 2018. A bid for the funding to commence the new unit was resubmitted to the Department of Finance in September 2020 as part of a four year capital budget information gathering exercise; however, unfortunately this was not delivered.

The key issue of the capital investment programme is the affordability of schemes in future years. Without additional resources and a multi-year budget settlement my Department is unable to commence any significant new investments that will continue beyond this financial year.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health how many staff have been employed in the Fire and Rescue Service in each of the last five years.

Mr Swann: The table below details the number of staff employed in Northern Ireland Fire & Rescue Service in the last 5 years.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health whether the Fire and Rescue Service has availed of any agency staff in the last five years and at what financial cost.

(AQW 17926/17-22)

Mr Swann: Northern Ireland Fire and Rescue Service has availed of agency staff in the last 5 years. The annual costs are detailed in the table below:

	Financial Year
	2017	2018	2019	2020	*2021
Agency Staff Costs (£'000)	767	1,060	1,216	1,144	1,229

* Please note 2021 figure is provisional outturn subject to audit

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health to detail the total amount spent on adapting Whiteabbey Hospital as a Covid Recovery facility; and how this investment will benefit the hospital site in the long term.

Mr Swann: £4,170,089 has been spent to date on the Whiteabbey Nightingale facilities. This has enabled the completion of works to provide a regional COVID-19 enhanced rehabilitation facility, to ease pressures on acute and ICU beds across the region. From late November 2020 to the end of March 2021, 145 patients were treated at the facility, with 1,654 acute bed days saved.

As the pressure from the current wave of COVID-19 eases, the Whiteabbey facility has now turned its focus to providing a regional rehabilitation service for non-COVID-19 patients, to help with efforts to rebuild.

At the same time, my Department and the Northern Health and Social Care Trust are exploring potential longer-term uses for the Whiteabbey Nightingale facility. While this work is at an early stage, the legacy usage will build upon the existing enhanced rehabilitation model, including the recruited staff, the facilities and the equipment available on site.

It is important to note, however, that we remain aware that COVID-19 is unpredictable and will likely remain with us, to a greater or lesser degree, for some time. That is why a key principle of the legacy work will be to ensure that the Nightingale facility retains the ability to refocus quickly again on COVID-19, should the need arise.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health how many children in the Western Health and Social Care Trust have been (i) diagnosed with gastroenterology problems; and (ii) referred to other Trust areas for paediatric gastroenterology services.

Mr Swann: The information requested is not held within the Department. The question was put to the Western Health and Social Care Trust for their response. Western Trust advised that they could not provide this information, as their systems do not capture coded information on children with gastroenterology issues, who are initially seen at outpatients clinics.

Children who are admitted as an inpatient or for a diagnostic procedure or surgery for gastroenterology issues are treated within Belfast Trust, and may be referred directly from their GP to Belfast Trust. Again, the coding of paediatric systems in Belfast Trust is such that it is not possible to accurately report the number of patients.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health how many paediatricians in each Health and Social Care Trust specialise in gastroenterology.

Mr Swann: Information provided by Health and Social Care (HSC) Trusts on the number of paediatricians employed who specialise in gastroenterology is detailed in the table below.

HSC Trust	Paediatricians Specialising in Gastroenterology
Belfast	3 (2 Consultants & 1 Specialty Doctor)
Northern	0 *
South Eastern	0

* All general paediatricians in the Northern HSC Trust would see gastroenterological problems referred from primary care, but for more specialised paediatric gastroenterology advice, patients would be referred onwards to the tertiary service in the Belfast HSC Trust.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health how many patients have travelled outside this jurisdiction to get treatment for spinal injuries or conditions over the last five years; and to outline the average cost to these patients.

Mr Swann: Information on the number of patients who have travelled outside this jurisdiction is not held within the Department, and was requested from the Health and Social Care Board (HSCB) and Belfast Health and Social Care Trust.

HSCB have advised that there are four different routes that patients can use to access orthopaedic treatment outside NI supported by the HSCB:

- a Extra Contractual Referral (ECR)
- b EU Cross Border Directive route (CBD)
- c Transfer as part of a waiting list initiative
- d Transfer as part of a service level agreement

The table below details the number of patients who have been approved under the ECR process to travel outside NI for assessment and/or treatment relating to spinal injuries or conditions over the last 5 years.

Year	2016/17	2017/18	2018/19	2019/20	2020/21
No. approvals	<10	<10	18	<10	<10

Note that small figures are suppressed to protect patient privacy.

Source: Health and Social Care Board

The average cost of spinal injuries or treatments approved via the ECR process was not held by the Department nor by HSCB. Unit costs for spinal HRGs range from £443 to £30,063 depending on complexity, and costs vary year on year.

The table below details the number of patients who have been reimbursed for treatment costs under the EU Cross Border Directive (CBD), and the average amount reimbursed over the last five years.

Financial year	2016/17	2017/18	2018/19	2019/20	2020/21
No. patients reimbursed	<10	11	<10	28	21
Average cost	£4,256	£5,657	£4,685	£5,570	£4,525

Note that small figures are suppressed to protect patient privacy.

Source: Health and Social Care Board

HSCB do not hold details on the number of patients transferred either as part of a waiting list initiative or as part of a service level agreement. The Belfast HSC Trust was unable to provide this information within the timeframe allocated.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health how he will meet the inequalities that his Department's High Level Screening Exercise identified as having a major impact relating to racial groups, age, gender and disability.

Mr Swann: You will be aware that the 2021/22 Budget settlement was extremely disappointing for Health. My Department has been able to utilise non-recurrent Covid and transformation funding to protect frontline services and maintain existing services as much as possible, and, through this minimise the impact on service delivery, patients and clients. However non-recurrent funding is not the ideal solution and will impact on all Section 75 groups as it inhibits longer term solutions which might ultimately represent better value for money.

The impacts identified in my Departments High Level Equality Screening have informed considerations in making funding allocation decisions and s75 screening will continue to inform budgetary considerations, within the constraints of the allocation.

In that context it is now the responsibility of my Departmental policy officials and ALBs to consider the equality/human rights/rural needs implications of the implementation of the Budget settlement and take forward screening, EQIAs and related consultation as required.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health how much was spent on adapting the Whiteabbey hospital as a (i) Nightingale facility; and (ii) COVID-19 recovery facility.

Mr Swann: The Northern Health and Social Care Trust makes no distinction between the Nightingale facility and COVID-19 recovery facility. The total capital spend on the adaptation of Whiteabbey hospital as a Nightingale facility/COVID-19 recovery facility was £4,170,089.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health what consideration has been given to the recommencement of parent and toddler activities.

Mr Swann: The classification of parent and toddler groups has been set out in the response to AQW 17834/17-22. The next formal review of the Regulations is scheduled to take place on or before 13 May 2021.

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Health in light of the renewed pressures and the pandemic and the increase in vacancies in Health and Social Care, whether the commissioning of allied health professionals staffing levels, including speech and language therapist undergraduate places, has been reviewed.

Mr Swann: Yes. All education and training commissioned by my Department, including that of the Speech and Language Therapy pre-registration programme, is reviewed on an annual basis. A range of factors are taken into account including staffing and vacancy levels across the HSC, recommendations from workforce reviews and the availability of funding.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail the cost associated with each Local Commissioning Group, in each of the last five years.

Mr Swann: The direct costs associated with each Local Commissioning Group (LCG), in each of the last five years are set out in the table below.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health (i) whether the definition of 'enclosed' and 'substantially enclosed' for outdoor areas in hospitality venues within the Health Protection Regulations are the same as those in regulations under the Smoking (Northern Ireland) Order 2006; and (ii) to outline such definition.

Mr Swann: The definition of 'enclosed' and 'substantially enclosed' comes from the Smoke-free (Premises, Vehicle Operators and Penalty Notices) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2007 and is directly referenced in the Health Protection (Coronavirus, Restrictions) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2021. The definition is as follows:

Enclosed and substantially enclosed premises

2.—(1) For the purposes of Article 3 of the Order, premises are enclosed if they—

- (a) have a ceiling or roof; and
- (b) except for doors, windows and passageways, are wholly enclosed either permanently or temporarily.

(2) For the purposes of Article 3 of the Order, premises are substantially enclosed if they have a ceiling or roof but there is—

- (a) an opening in the walls, or
- (b) an aggregate area of openings in the walls, which is less than half of the area of the walls, including other structures that serve the purpose of walls and constitute the perimeter of the premises.

(3) In determining the area of an opening or an aggregate area of openings for the purposes of paragraph (2), no account is to be taken of openings in which there are doors, windows or other fittings that can be opened or shut.

(4) In this regulation "roof" includes any fixed or moveable structure or device which is capable of covering all or part of the premises as a roof, including for example, a canvas awning.

This is the same definition that has been within the regulations since July 2020. There has been no change to this definition as a result of the recent amendments which allowed outdoor hospitality to open from 30 April 2021.

The focus of these measures remains to minimise the risk of transmission of the virus. In allowing outdoor hospitality to reopen, we also need to be very mindful of the risks to staff working in venues, as well as to the customers they serve and the wider public. This is why providing for good ventilation and airflow is important. Responsibility for enforcing the regulations on outdoor areas rests with local councils.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health to outline the process for appealing a decision on commissioning of services made by either the Local Commissioning Group or the Health and Social Care Board.

Mr Swann: There is no formal appeals process relating to commissioning decisions.

The HSC Board engage the HSC Trusts in the planning process to ensure there is general consensus on the services to be commissioned to deliver against the commissioning direction.

Where an HSC Trust considers that other services should be commissioned then they have a number of ways of taking this forward with the HSC Board for further consideration. This could be via correspondence to the Director of Commissioning or Chief Executive, or through regular HSC Trust/Board meetings.

In more general terms, any interested individual, representative or organisation has the right to express their views and can do so via correspondence to relevant organisations or by raising a formal complaint at any time.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health to detail the services that will be impacted by the reported £400 million blackhole for health services.

Mr Swann: The £400m relates to the minimum my Department would need to secure in the 2022/23 budget exercise to maintain services at existing levels.

As part of the 2021/22 Budget my Department has been able to utilise non-recurrent Covid and transformation funding to mitigate funding pressures in relation to existing services, to meet some new inescapable pressures, and to fund some of our New Decade, New Approach (NDNA) priorities.

Whilst we have restricted the amount of non-recurrent funding we have used in this way to around £250m, with our estimate of pay and price inflation in 2022/23 at some £150m we will require an additional £400m above our current baseline in 2022/23 just to stand still.

I will be making a robust case to secure additional funding as part of the next budget process, but if sufficient funding is not secured I will need to assess the impact on services at that time.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health what organisations are expected to avail of the £40 million outlined in his Department's budget to address elective care waiting lists.

Mr Swann: Funds will be allocated to the five Health and Social Care Trusts in Northern Ireland to support the provision of additional waiting list initiative work. In addition, given the detrimental impact of Covid-19 on elective care services there will clearly be a need to continue to utilise IS capacity both within and outside Northern Ireland in 2021/22. Furthermore, a number of private healthcare providers are providing in-sourcing services whereby privately recruited teams of clinicians are providing services for HSC patients using available HSC infrastructure.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health what direct financial support has been awarded to unpaid carers, and those in receipt of payment via the direct payments scheme, during the pandemic.

Mr Swann: My Department does not make direct financial payments to (unpaid) carers nor clients in receipt of Direct Payments.

On 28 January I announced my intention to provide our carers with a one off award as a small recognition for the exceptional contribution that they make to our society. A payment to carers will be significantly more complex to administer than recent one-off payments made to other groups.

I have written to my Executive colleagues requesting their support with this initiative as cross-departmental collaboration will be required. Work is underway to explore how we can make such a payment a reality.

The HSC Trusts do have the facility to make a cash grant payment to carers following the completion of an assessment of their need. Such payments can be made to replace a broken domestic appliance or to pay for a short break for the carer.

Direct Payments are paid by the HSC Trusts to those people who have been assessed as needing help from social services, and who would like to arrange and pay for their own care and support services instead of receiving them directly from the local trust.

Statistics on the use of Direct Payments are published quarterly by my Department. The most recent statistics available can be accessed via: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/publications/quarterly-direct-payments-statistics-month-december-2020>

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health for a financial breakdown of the £4m Carers Support Fund; and whether frontline carers will be direct financial benefactors of this fund.

Mr Swann: The Support for Carers' Fund has a total value of £4.4m. The Fund will be administered and managed by the Community Foundation NI on behalf of the Department and for this service they will receive a sum of £302k from the Fund.

The Fund will be used to provide financial grant support to organisations with charitable status who can help the Fund achieve its stated high-level outcomes, namely:

- a) Enhanced provision of, and access to, practical supports and help for carers.
- b) Improved access to, and availability of, advice services for carers, including support available through new technologies.
- c) Enhanced skills of carers to advocate for the needs of both themselves and the person they care for.
- d) Support for improved physical and mental health and wellbeing of carers.
- e) Enhanced ability for carers to lead their own lives and enjoy a work/life balance.
- f) Increased capacity to advocate for and advance carers' issues with Government and statutory bodies.
- g) Raised awareness of the contribution of carers.
- h) Improved evidence base on carers to support and inform service provision, and Government strategy.

The Fund will not make any grant payments to individuals or non-charitable organisations (e.g. private sector businesses).

It is expected that the Fund will open for applications within the next few months.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister of Health what steps are being taken to restore face to face appointments for children's speech and language therapy in the Southern Health and Social Care Trust; and whether children will continue to have the option of online appointments.

Mr Swann: Face-to-face Speech and Language Therapy (SLT) appointments currently are being provided for children from Special Schools and Special Education Needs units within the Southern HSC Trust. The SLT service is also being provided to other children in the community via telephone, virtual means, and face-to-face appointments as appropriate to the child's individual requirements. In addition, a small number of SLT sessions are carried out in homes and schools.

The SLT service will continue to offer virtual options and will consider new ways of working that have been developed during the pandemic.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister of Health when can healthcare workers will receive their £500 COVID-19 special recognition payment.

(AQW 18240/17-22)

Mr Swann: An FAQ on the special recognition payment, which includes eligibility criteria, has been published on my Department's website and is available at the following link;

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/news/hsc-staff-recognition-payment-faqs>

Work is ongoing to commence payment of the award to HSC statutory sector employees in July. This will facilitate a period in which staff can consider if payment by instalments better suits their individual financial circumstances. Other employers, such as in the Independent Sector, may work to a different timescale. Discussions are ongoing with the Independent Sector around eligibility and payment. As soon as any further information is available, it will be published on the FAQ.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister of Health whether carers in private nursing homes are eligible for the £500 COVID-19 special recognition payment.

Mr Swann: An FAQ on the special recognition payment, which includes eligibility criteria, has been published on my Department's website and is available at the following link;

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/news/hsc-staff-recognition-payment-faqs>

Those in the Independent sector will also be eligible.

My officials are currently finalising the scheme to enable payment as soon as possible. As soon as any further information is available, it will be published on the FAQ.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health how positions on the Local Commissioning Groups are appointed or assigned.
(AQW 18252/17-22)

Mr Swann: The prescribed number of persons appointed to each Local Commissioning Group is 17.

5 Members (2 Social Workers, 1 Nurse, 1 Registered Public Health Specialist and 1 professional registered under the Health Professions Order (2001) (13) ) must be employees of the Health and Social Care Board (HSCB) or Public Health Agency (PHA). An internal process is undertaken by each body for these appointments.

12 Members (4 general medical practitioners, 4 Local Government members, 2 representatives from voluntary organisations, 1 dental practitioner and 1 pharmacist) must practise/have an interest in health and social care within the area of the Local Commissioning Group. For these members, a recruitment process is undertaken for any vacant positions by the HSCB with recommendations for appointment brought to a public Board Meeting for consideration. The HSCB then seeks Department of Health approval for proposed appointments of these 12 members.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail the spend by each Health and Social Care Trust on agency staff in the last five years, broken down by service.

Mr Swann: Trust expenditure on agency staff has been incurred to ensure that safe and effective services are sustained and contributes importantly to maintaining service provision to patients and clients. HSC Trusts employ locum staff for several reasons, for example, cover for sickness and maternity/paternity leave; cover for existing vacancies; and when demand increases over the winter months. The primary aim of this is to ensure that safe and effective services are sustained at all times for patients and clients.

The Department monitors Health and Social Care Trusts' expenditure on agency staff on a quarterly basis for specific staffing categories, across financial years. Information is not collected by service area. Expenditure on Agency Staff by Health and Social Care Trust, for the last five financial years, is given below. The last available data, currently available, for a complete financial year is 19/20.

The Department is committed to sustained investment in growing the local nursing and midwifery workforce to meet ever increasing demands, for example, this year we have commissioned the highest ever number (1,325) of pre-registration nursing and midwifery training places.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health how he will address waiting lists for Crohn's, colitis and other inflammatory bowel diseases.

Mr Swann: A number of initiatives have been introduced in recent years to improve waiting times for Crohn's, Colitis and other inflammatory bowel diseases. For example, diagnosis of IBD is now supported by gastroenterology primary care pathways and the provision of laboratory tests, specifically Calprotectin testing. These have enabled clinicians to prioritise outpatient referrals for IBD and better manage patients who are already undergoing treatment for IBD. Dietitians also play a vital role in managing conditions such as Coeliac and IBS thereby freeing up consultant capacity within hospitals to see more patients with suspected IBD.

More generally, bringing our waiting times to an acceptable level across all specialties is a long term collective effort requiring sustained and substantial investment and additional staffing. It is in that context that I recently announced my intention to publish an elective care framework which will set out both the immediate and longer term actions and funding requirements.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health, other than contracts for personal protective equipment, whether his Department or Health and Social Care Trusts have engaged in any other contracts with Clandeboye Agencies.

Mr Swann: Other than contracts for personal protective equipment neither this Department nor its ALBs have engaged in any contracts with Clandeboye Agencies.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health when the development of a new Tobacco Control Strategy, including electronic cigarettes and vaping, will commence.

Mr Swann: My Department's 10-year Tobacco Control Strategy for Northern Ireland was launched in 2012. A recent review was carried out in collaboration with a number of relevant stakeholders and the report was published on the Department's website in February 2020. This includes recommendations that provide an opportunity to refocus on priority areas for the remaining term of the strategy.

Since then, my Department has been dealing with a considerable number of issues relating to the COVID-19 pandemic. This has had significant staffing implications and officials have been concentrating on assisting with the public health response to the ongoing emergency. However, consideration will be given to the future strategic direction around tobacco control in due course.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health, as part of the ongoing consultation into a duty of candour resulting from the recommendations in Justice O Hara's report into the hyponatremia scandal, what specific measures are taken to consult families who lost loved ones.

Mr Swann: The Hyponatraemia Implementation Programme has specific arrangements for consulting the families who lost loved ones about the work of the programme. Information relating to the Duty of Candour and Being Open consultation, including a copy of the Duty of Candour and Being Open consultation document, was shared with the families prior to the launch of the consultation, and there is a standing offer for those families to contact the Department if they wish to discuss any related matter.

The Duty of Candour and Being Open Workstream has also developed and agreed a Consultation Involvement plan, which includes plans to consult with a wide range of stakeholders during the public consultation, including patients and service users.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health how he will recruit staff for vacant (i) consultancy posts; and (ii) nursing posts.

Mr Swann: Responsibility for recruitment of such staff sits with Health & Social Care organisations. However, the Department has taken action to support the need for continual recruitment of staff to fill vacancies and grow the workforce. To this end, the Department, among many other actions:

- has maintained nursing and midwifery pre-registration training provision at of 1,325 places in 2021;
- has reintroduced pay parity with England for health and social care workers on Agenda for Change terms, backdated to April 2019;
- has committed to work with trade unions on a safe staffing agenda, and on measures to safely reduce reliance and spend on agencies and locums;
- has supported HSC in the recruitment of 876 international nurses and;
- is implementing a Workforce Strategy with the aim that by 2026, we have a workforce of the optimum number, with the best combination of skills and experience.

In addition, the Department is encouraging HSC employers to work in partnership with staff side at a local level to develop proposals and initiatives to support the retention of HSC staff post-Covid.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health what proportion of staff in Muckamore Abbey are (i) full time permanent; (ii) part time permanent; (iii) bank staff; (iv) redeployed staff from other Trusts or services; and (v) agency staff.

(AQW 18332/17-22)

Mr Swann: Information provided by the Belfast Health and Social Care (HSC) Trust on the number of staff in Muckamore Abbey Hospital (MAH) is detailed in the table below.

Personnel Area	Full time	Part time	Agency	Bank	Redeployed from other Trusts
Medical *	10	3	2	0	0
Administrative	19	11	0	0	0
Professional & Technical	10	3	0	0	0

Social Services	26	13	0	0	0
Support Services	0	14	0	0	0
Nursing & Midwifery	119	2	113.44	23.51	0

* Including 9 rotational trainee posts

Notes:

- 1 Personnel area defined by the Trust Organisation Management System.
- 2 Agency and Bank staff recorded as WTE based on the number of hours they have worked weekly or been allocated to work at 26th April.
- 3 Figures exclude suspended staff.
- 4 Nursing and Midwifery figures include both registrants and non-registrants who work throughout the site in wards, day care and with the other healthcare services.
- 5 A number of staff provide services to the MAH site but whose main post resides outside MAH.
- 6 Allied Health Professions, Pharmacy and Psychology sit under the Professional and Technical personnel area – MAH have good support from these services and work in the hospital even if they do not sit operationally in the structures.

Mr Newton asked the Minister of Health to detail the annual budget allocation awarded in each Health and Social Care Trust to each hospital.

Mr Swann: Information on the annual budget allocation awarded in each Health and Social Care Trust to each individual hospital is not readily available as budgets are not managed by hospital site.

Mr Newton asked the Minister of Health to detail the funding allocated by the Ambulance Service to each Health and Social Care Trust between 1 March 2020 and 30 April 2021.

Mr Swann: The Northern Ireland Ambulance Service does not allocate funding to Health and Social Care Trusts.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 16894/17-22, whether Health and Social Care staff who are on leave due to the impacts of long-Covid will have their pay reduced at any stage of their leave.

Mr Swann: As outlined in the response to AQW 16894/17-22, sickness absence related to COVID-19 does not currently form part of any absence triggers, and is not to be viewed as such in relation to a member of staff's sickness absence record. This was instigated as an early, and vital, infection control measure to prevent those who may have contracted the virus from reporting to work, and inadvertently transmitting it to colleagues or vulnerable patients.

The HSC, in line with the NHS across the other jurisdictions, has long-established mechanisms for sickness absence and pay which are applicable to illness resulting in short-term absence, as well as for longer term, chronic conditions. As we move forward, it will be important to review the current arrangements to ensure an equity of approach to all individuals with long-term illness.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Health for an update on progress on the introduction of HPV primary screening into the cervical screening programme.

Mr Swann: In January 2020, my Department asked the Health and Social Care Board to consider the actions needed to implement the National Screening Committee (NSC) recommendation that the NI Cervical Screening Programme should adopt HPV as the primary screening test for identifying those women who are at increased risk of developing cervical cancer. As a result of the diversion of resources into the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic, this work is not as well progressed as I would otherwise have expected.

In March 2019, my Department announced the commissioning of a new Cancer Strategy for Northern Ireland, it is envisaged that this will go out to public consultation this summer. In addition, a Cancer Recovery Plan - 'Building Back; Rebuilding Better' is being developed to address the immediate issues in adult cancer services that have been made much worse by the pandemic. Planning for the introduction of primary HPV testing in the NI Cervical Screening Programme will form a part of this recovery plan. I fully support the implementation of the National Screening Committee recommendations in this area.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Health for a breakdown of mental health and suicide prevention funding by constituency, over each of the last five years.

Mr Swann: Funding allocations are provided by Health and Social Care Trust rather than by constituency, therefore this information is not available.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health what assessment he has made of the potential role of community pharmacy in multi-disciplinary teams, with specific emphasis on mental health service provision, making use of pharmacy locations and accessibility in local communities.

Mr Swann: The Primary Care Multi-disciplinary Teams (MDTs) Programme introduces new physiotherapy, social work and mental health roles into general practice, to work alongside enhanced levels of nursing and the existing practice team. It aims to move from a system of treating illness to holistically supporting good physical and mental health, and social wellbeing.

There are currently no plans to expand the MDT model to include community pharmacists.

The importance of community pharmacists in the delivery of mental health services was highlighted to the Department during a recent public consultation on a new Mental Health Strategy.

The response to the Strategy is still being considered, including how the role of community pharmacy/pharmacists can best be included.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health when amenities at caravan sites can reopen.

Mr Swann: As part of a balanced package of careful relaxations announced on 15 April, the Executive decided that from 30 April, overnight stays are permitted in self-contained accommodation provided it is only occupied by one household or one bubble. Self-contained accommodation may include holiday homes, self-catering houses, static caravans, touring caravans and motorhomes.

Residents in campsites and caravan parks will not be permitted to access on-site indoor communal facilities except for waste disposal.

On 2 March this year, the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions. The Pathway is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. The new process also permits a more urgent consideration of proposals from Departments deemed to have urgent or compelling reasons to fall outside the four week review process.

The Executive COVID Taskforce, through a process of cross-departmental and inter sectoral engagement, is responsible for first considering and advising the Executive on the future relaxation of regulations.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health whether he will increase the numbers of people permitted at outdoor wedding receptions.

Mr Swann: From 12 April 2021 the numbers attending ceremonies in places of worship, a Local Government venue or other venues, such as hotels, are determined by risk assessment for the venue specific to a marriage/civil partnership ceremony. This also applies to an outdoor marriage.

A maximum of 10 people can attend including all participants and the officiant.

Receptions or post ceremony gatherings are not permitted at present. An indicative date of 24 May has been set for the resumption of post ceremony receptions or functions (with numbers to be informed by a risk assessment for the venue). This will be subject to review.

Customers can view the facilities of venues used for marriages and civil partnerships, such as hotels and other venues, restricted to a maximum of four customers per visit.

Further guidance is available on NI Direct at the following link: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-weddings-and-civil-partnerships>

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health for an update on plans to replace the Cross Border Health Care Scheme (EU Directive 24/2011 on Cross-Border Healthcare).

Mr Swann: My officials have provided me with an options paper which I have considered and I will be making an announcement shortly on this issue.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health when the findings of the Public Health Agency working group on the development of an approach supporting the safe and proportionate return to normalised visiting in care homes, including arrangements for visiting out, will be published.

Mr Swann: A new approach to supporting the safe and proportionate increased visiting in care homes has been developed by the Public Health Agency in a co-production approach including input from residents, families, statutory agencies, care home providers and other stakeholders.

New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals was issued on 30 April 2021, effective from 7 May 2021, and represents a significant easement in the restrictions formerly in place.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 18097/17-22, to detail the 'did not attend' appointments for the last three years, broken down by hospital department.

Mr Swann: Data relating to outpatient activity, including the number of appointments patients missed/did not attend (DNA), are published annually by financial year. The number of missed outpatient appointments, known as DNAs (Did Not Attend) is defined as 'the number of patients who did not attend, and failed to give advance warning to the hospital, for an outpatient appointment. This includes patients who cancelled their outpatient appointment on the same day on which the appointment was scheduled. These should not be confused with those who could not attend and who did warn the hospital in advance (before the day on which the appointment was scheduled)'.

This data is available by hospital site in the most recent publication which was released in August 2020 and can be found at the following link:

Data for 2020/21 is not available by hospital site.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail any research his Department has carried out into the effects of minimum alcohol pricing on public health.

(AQW 18406/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department previously commissioned a report from the University of Sheffield which concluded that a Minimum Unit Pricing (MUP) for alcohol would be effective in reducing alcohol consumption, alcohol-related harms (including alcohol-related deaths, hospitalisations, crimes and workplace absences) and the costs associated with those harms. This report is available in full on the DoH website at:

Once finalised, NI's forthcoming new Substance Use Strategy will contain my commitment to have a full consultation on MUP within the next year. This consultation will examine a range of possible options in respect of alcohol pricing, including consideration of the emerging evidence of the effectiveness of MUP following its implementation in Scotland and elsewhere. Any policy considerations arising from the consultation will be brought to the Executive in due course.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health to detail the current waiting list for mental health services in the Western Health and Social Care Trust, broken down by (i) time spent on the waiting list; and (ii) age bracket.

Mr Swann: The Department does not hold this information centrally and it was requested from the Western Health and Social Care Trust (WHSCT).

Table 1 sets out the number of active waits for mental health services in WHSCT, broken down by time bands.

Table 2 sets out the number of active waits for mental health services in WHSCT, broken down by age bands.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of the decision to offer a limited number of vaccination appointments in the SSE Arena for younger age groups while older cohorts in other regions, such as the north west, have struggled to get a vaccination appointment.

Mr Swann: The member may be aware that the Vaccination Centre at the SSE Arena opened at the end of March as a facility for all those who are eligible and 60 years and under, not already vaccinated through the Trust or GP Programmes as part of an earlier priority cohort.

The Community Pharmacy Programme has also now opened for all eligible age cohorts and will remain a rolling programme for some time to come. This Programme is particularly suitable on those for whom travelling to a large vaccination centre would be challenging. Booking is available on-line or, if preferred, by telephone on 0300 200 7813.

I note at date of writing Western Trust has delivered over 141,000 doses of vaccine. In addition, the SSE Arena is open to citizens across Northern Ireland to book an appointment. All adults aged 30 and over are now eligible for vaccination and at date of writing over 986,000 individuals have received a first dose with over 500,000 persons having received both doses.

The model for vaccine deployment has been designed to be pragmatic, agile and flexible, and as capacity becomes available the decision is made to open the programme to a younger cohort on a rolling basis. This is to facilitate maximum vaccine deployment and uptake, and keep vaccine wastage to a minimum.

The HSCNI Vaccination Dashboard provides a real time update on the success of the programme, particularly those in the older age cohorts, and can be found at:-

<https://covid-19.hscni.net/ni-covid-19-vaccinations-dashboard/>

While the rate limiting factor remains the availability of vaccine, the programme is continuing at steady pace and is very close to the target to vaccinate 1 million people in NI within days of writing.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail each position within primary care multidisciplinary teams that is currently being recruited, broken down by profession.

Mr Swann: The Primary Care Multi-disciplinary Teams (MDTs) model introduces new health and social care professionals into primary care, and aims to move from a system of treating illness to holistically supporting good physical and mental health and social wellbeing. It is implemented through a partnership approach, with mental health practitioners being employed by the local GP Federation and social work, first contact physiotherapy, district nursing and health visiting staff being employed by the appropriate HSC Trust.

The model has been fully implemented in the Down area, and is in development in the Derry, West Belfast, Causeway, Newry & District and Ards & North Down GP Federations.

GP Federation	Role	Band	Details
Derry	Physiotherapist	7	External recruitment has resulted in a waiting list for future vacancies for a training post, should recruitment for Band 8A physiotherapists be unsuccessful.
	Physiotherapist	8A	External recruitment ongoing to form a waiting list for future vacancies.
	Social worker	7	External recruitment has resulted in a waiting list for future vacancies.
West Belfast	Mental health practitioner	7	One post. External recruitment ongoing.
	Physiotherapist	8A	External recruitment ongoing for 0.6 WTE.
Newry	MDT Trust Project Manager	8A	One post. Internal recruitment ongoing through Expression of Interest process.
	Social Work Assistant	4	One post. Internal recruitment ongoing through Expression of Interest process.
	Physiotherapist	8A	External recruitment to compile a waiting list for future vacancies.
	Social worker	7	External recruitment to compile a waiting list for future vacancies.
	Mental health practitioner	7	External recruitment to compile a waiting list for future vacancies.

It is anticipated that recruitment will commence shortly for permanent social work, social work assistant, district nursing and mental health practitioner posts in the Ards & North Down area, as current appointments are on a temporary basis. There is no current recruitment to MDT posts in the Causeway or Down GP Federations.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health what is being done to reduce waiting times for rheumatology services.

Mr Swann: The pandemic has had an inevitable and serious impact on already unacceptable waiting times

To address this issue, I recently announced that I intend to publish an elective care framework setting out both the immediate and longer term actions and funding requirements needed to tackle our waiting lists.

Bringing our waiting lists to an acceptable level across a range of specialties, including rheumatology, is a long term collective effort requiring sustained and substantial investment and additional staffing.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health what percentage of refugees and asylum seekers have received a vaccination for COVID-19.
(AQW 18465/17-22)

Mr Swann: Plans are in place to vaccinate Asylum Seekers on 18th and 19th May 2021. This is to facilitate the end of the Ramadan period on 12th May and to ensure the availability of translators.

Vaccination will be offered to asylum seekers regardless of the status of their application. 761 individuals have been offered vaccination via this mechanism.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health what work has been done, or is being considered, to make supermarkets, food suppliers and producers reduce the quantity of sugar in their products.

Mr Swann: My Department leads on obesity prevention through the cross-Departmental framework 'A Fitter Future For All'. Within this framework there are a number of industry focused outcomes, of which the Food Standards Agency (FSA) is the main delivery partner.

The FSA's Eating Well Choosing Better (EWCB) programme implements a structured and transparent programme of food product improvement in Northern Ireland with small and medium sized enterprises and supermarkets who manufacture, sell or serve foods that contribute to nutrients of public health concern (namely sugar, saturated fat and salt) and calories in the Northern Ireland diet. The EWCB programme aligns with the UK Government's sugar reduction and wider reformulation programme with UK retailers and producers operating in Northern Ireland.

To date, reformulation work has focused on the bakery and ice-cream sectors, the two key manufacturing industries in Northern Ireland. Progress to date has included nutrition sampling of bakery products in partnership with district councils, reformulation trials and workshops with the industry, the production and distribution of sector specific guidance and regular engagement with Invest NI and local colleges who provide funding and support to the food industry for reformulation.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health what assurances he can give that concerns raised by medicines manufacturers in respect of regulatory requirements arising from Brexit are being given the highest priority, and that sufficient measures will be put in place to ensure continuity of medicines supplies into Northern Ireland in 2022 and beyond.

Mr Swann: An agreement between the UK Government and EU Commission was reached to give the pharmaceutical industry 12 months from 1 January 2021 to comply with regulatory requirements. From 1st January 2022 industry will have to supply medicines to NI that comply with the packaging and labelling requirements of the EU Falsified Medicines Directive and also comply with additional batch testing and certification on goods moving from GB to NI. The 12 month grace period appears, at present, to have broadly mitigated the immediate risk of companies reducing their products and portfolios available for supply to the NI market.

My Department has frequent and ongoing engagement with the Department of Health and Social Care (DHSC) in England and the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) to ensure a process is in place to enable industry to be ready by 1st January 2022.

In particular, DHSC has established a Northern Ireland Protocol Programme Board involving DHSC, MHRA and DoH officials. The programme will include the implementation of a multi-layered approach for the continued supply of all medicines and medical products to NI. My Department is also liaising with DHSC in the development of guidance to inform the pharmaceutical industry of what actions they need to take to be ready for 1st January 2022 and the possible mitigations that may need to be put in place.

My Departmental officials have been engaging regularly with suppliers of medical products, and with representatives from the pharmaceutical industry to discuss the industry's plans for continuing supplies into NI from January 2022. At this stage, many pharmaceutical businesses are awaiting further guidance before making their final decisions.

In February, the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, Michael Gove wrote to the European Commission to seek an extension to the current 12 month grace period (for compliance with the new importation requirements for medicines) until at least 1 January 2023. The letter from the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster also requested a long-term approach to ensure no barriers of any kind to the movement of medicines into Northern Ireland.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health to detail the meetings that he or his officials were involved in with British government representatives in relation to adding India to the coronavirus red list; and when those meetings occurred.

Mr Swann: The COVID-19 Operations Committee held an urgent UKG Ministerial call on the afternoon of Monday 19 April 2021, to discuss the reports of a worsening epidemiological situation in India. JBC provided an updated risk assessment to reflect the Variant Under Investigation (VuI). Following the COVID-O call, a decision was taken to add India to the red list in England and NI aligned in position that same afternoon. The International Travel Regulations were amended, effective from 4am on Friday 23 April, in line with other UK regions.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health (i) whether NHS patients from Northern Ireland are still able to access surgery and other medical procedures, with the cost covered by the Health and Social Care Board, in (a) other jurisdictions of the UK; (b) the Republic of Ireland; (c) the EU; and (d) private clinics; and (ii) what impact Brexit has had on these arrangements.

Mr Swann:

- (i) There are a number of different ways in which patients can access healthcare outside of Northern Ireland with the cost covered by the Health and Social Care Board.

Transfer as part of a waiting list initiative

This can occur where, as part of a drive to reduce waiting times, a provider from outside Northern Ireland is chosen to deliver additional capacity for patients waiting for HSC assessment or treatment. Such providers are normally based in the rest of the UK or in the Republic of Ireland.

Contractual arrangements/service level agreements/MoUs

A number of service level agreements are in place between Health and Social Care Trusts in Northern Ireland and providers outside Northern Ireland to secure dedicated capacity for referrals for highly specialist services which are not suitable to be provided in Northern Ireland and for which there is a sufficient, predictable annual volume of activity

There are also a number of MoUs which facilitate cross border and all Ireland healthcare such as between ambulance services and the radiotherapy unit at Altnagelvin Hospital.

Extra Contractual Referrals

The Health and Social Care Board in Northern Ireland may authorise patient travel for specialist treatment which it does not routinely commission.

This may be either because the treatment needed is of a specialist nature which is not available in Northern Ireland or because there is a clinical reason why the local service is not appropriate. The provider is chosen by the local consultant using his clinical judgement. The Health and Social Care Board expects these requests to be to NHS providers in the UK but will consider requests to EU countries including the Republic of Ireland where there is clear clinical rationale for doing so.

Private clinics

Management of waiting lists is one of the mechanisms by which the health service upholds the principle of equity of access to health and social care services free at the point of care. Where a patient chooses to pay for private treatment at the time of their choosing, doing so takes them outside the Northern Ireland HSC system's arrangements and its principles. It would be inequitable for the Health and Social Care Board to fund individuals for private treatment so that they could access care in advance of others on the waiting list who may have greater clinical need. Accordingly, the Health and Social Care Board would not cover the costs incurred.

- (ii) The UK's exit from the EU has no impact on these arrangements.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health (i) whether the £500 special recognition payment for Health and Social Care Staff is considered income; (ii) what tax and National Insurance deductions will be applicable as a result; (iii) how the payment will affect any income-related benefits of the recipient; and (iv) what the rules are for similar schemes in England and Wales relating to the same issues.

Mr Swann:

- i Yes, the £500 special recognition payment for Health and Social Care Staff is considered income.
- ii. The payment will be subject to the tax and NI rates appropriate to the individual.
- iii. As this is classed as income derived from employment, those in receipt of certain income assessed benefits may see their benefits reduced or paused, but will be better off overall. To mitigate the impact on benefits, HSC Trusts will be offering any individual concerned with the option of receiving their award in instalments.
- iv. The NHS in England has not implemented a Recognition award, NHS Wales has adopted the same principles as here, with staff being afforded an option to receive payment by instalments. Subject to formal approval from the Department of Finance, the payment to be made will be up to £735 per individual, meaning that those who pay tax at 20%, and National Insurance at 12%, will receive up to £500 after tax and National Insurance deductions

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health to outline his intentions to publish the report into the mass resignation of the Regulation and Quality Improvement Authority Board, including a timeline for publication; and when his Department received the report.

Mr Swann: My Department received the finalised version of report into the mass resignation of the Regulation and Quality Improvement Authority Board on 25th January 2021. The findings and recommendations of the report will be published in the coming weeks.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister of Health whether GP surgeries are receiving sufficient and regular supplies of COVID-19 vaccines to ensure all patients receive their second dose by the 12 week deadline as recommended by the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation.

Mr Swann: The GP Programme is receiving sufficient and regular supplies of Covid-19 vaccine to ensure all patients receive their second dose by the 12 week deadline as recommended by the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation.

GP Practices in Northern Ireland are only using AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine. This vaccine is also being used by Community Pharmacies and HSC Trusts. The recommended interval between doses is up to 12 weeks, although a 2nd dose can be given after a longer interval.

When a supply of AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine arrives in Northern Ireland it is allocated to GP Practices, Community Pharmacies and Trusts by my Department. The Health and Social Care Board then share the GP allocation across the 321 individual GP Practices.

The Health and Social Care Board are prioritising allocations to practices to provide 2nd doses based on an interval of approximately 10 weeks between 1st and 2nd doses. To facilitate this, practices have been asked to provide weekly requirements for 2nd doses since 19th March.

All practices have had these requirements met within the 12 week recommendation, including several urgent deliveries where practices have contacted the Health and Social Care Board giving short notice about planned clinics to administer 2nd doses.

The NI Covid-19 Vaccination Programme is still on target to vaccinate all eligible adults by late summer 2021.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health whether GP practices have adequate supplies of COVID-19 vaccines; and whether there have been any reports of COVID-19 vaccine supply disruption to GP practices.

Mr Swann: The GP Programme has had more than adequate supplies of Covid-19 vaccine. GP Practices in Northern Ireland are only using AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine, which is also used by Community Pharmacies and HSC Trusts.

When a supply of AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine arrives in Northern Ireland it is allocated to GP Practices, Community Pharmacies and Trusts, by my Department. The Health and Social Care Board then share the GP allocation across the 321 individual GP Practices. The Health and Social Care Board are prioritising allocations to practices to provide 2nd doses based on an interval of approximately 10 weeks between 1st and 2nd doses. To facilitate this practices have been asked to provide weekly requirements for 2nd doses since 19th March.

The GP Programme has continued at pace, with all practices having had their vaccine supply needs met within the 12 week recommendation.

The Northern Ireland Covid-19 Vaccination Programme is still on target to vaccinate all eligible adults by late summer 2021.

Department for Infrastructure

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department has the remit to, and is exploring ways to, combat littering specifically on roads.

Ms Mallon (The Minister for Infrastructure): Under the Litter (Northern Ireland) Order 1994 (as amended by the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Act (Northern Ireland) 2011) the removal of litter from a public road is for the most part the responsibility of the relevant local Council. My Department's responsibilities in relation to the removal of litter is limited to 'designated roads', which includes the motorway network and 'special roads' such as the A12 Westlink.

Sadly the main issue with litter is societal, with some people not accepting their responsibility to respect their surroundings and dispose of their litter appropriately or take it home with them. I can assure you that my Department recognises the value of maintaining a clean and tidy countryside that enhances visual amenity and protects and enhances biodiversity.

We will continue to fulfil our obligations on those roads for which we have responsibility and, if appropriate, my officials will alert Councils when we detect roads, which fall within their remit, that have an accumulation of litter and require attention.

Ms P Bradley asked the Minister for Infrastructure, in relation to the COVID-19 Feminist Recovery Plan published in July 2020, (i) for her assessment of its recommendations; (ii) what steps her Department will take in relation to its recommendations; and (iii) how the recommendations are being factored into the future Programme for Government outcomes.

Ms Mallon: I am aware that the COVID-19 Feminist Recovery Plan was launched in July 2020 and I agree that now, as we look forward to moving out of COVID-19 restrictions, we must tackle inequalities that exist in all aspects of women's life in Northern Ireland.

The Women's Resource and Development Agency also alerted me to their intention to develop a Departmental-specific plan and to meet with me to discuss their recommendations at a later time. Officials have read the Department for Infrastructure report which was published in October 2020. This recommends that in all our COVID Recovery Plans we should ensure that:

- women's groups are adequately represented in all departmental COVID-19 recovery planning procedures; and
- the women's sector is consulted with and included in the co-design of all Departmental strategies and the Programme for Government.

Other difficulties women face daily have been highlighted in the Department for Infrastructure report, and I look forward to discussing these should the WRDA wish to meet with me in due course.

Throughout the pandemic, my Department has been focused on the safe delivery of its essential services. My Department did not produce a specific COVID Recovery Plan using instead its Civil Contingency Plan(s) to guide it through this pandemic. However, given the important role of infrastructure, my Department's work will be reflected within the work the Executive is taking forward on a recovery plan for the next 24 months identifying the short to medium term interventions required to jump-start longer term renewal and Programme for Government delivery.

My Department also includes women's groups in its decision making, including the Women's Resource and Development Agency, sending links to consultations and other documents. This provides such groups with the opportunity to participate and represent women in our decision making.

Engagement with stakeholders, including representations received from women's groups, will inform the development of DfI-led actions for inclusion in the forthcoming Programme for Government.

Dr Archibald asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 16684/17-22, whether under her departmental Roads Policy and Procedure Guide the stipulation for 20mph part time speed limits that schools 'should be considered for installation where vehicle speeds outside and around schools are high or further improvements to road safety are deemed necessary' applies to schools on roads adjacent to main roads.

Ms Mallon: The Departmental policy and procedure guide 'Road Safety at Schools RSPPG E070' applies to all schools including those on roads adjacent to main roads.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department has engaged with residents about their demands for footpaths on the Glencam Road, Omagh to link up existing and future housing developments.

Ms Mallon: My Department is seeking to provide a road improvement scheme on the Glencam Road from the Killybrack Road Junction to the Gortin Road Junction that incorporates road widening and the provision of a new pedestrian/cycle link. Landowners have been consulted and the Notice of Intention to Make a Vesting Order has recently been advertised for the acquisition of the land needed to facilitate the scheme. It is anticipated that construction could commence in 2022 subject to successful acquisition of the land and the availability of funding.

My Department currently has no proposals to provide a footway on the Glencam Road between Killybrack Road and Old Mountfield Road. However, as a consultee to the planning process my Department takes into consideration many factors, including pedestrian safety, when reviewing planning applications. As such there are a number of recent planning permissions with conditions that include for the construction of footway links along the frontage of the respective sites; delivery of these sections of footway are the developer's responsibility.

At present there are many green field sites along Glencam Road which have not received planning approval. In accordance with the Department's commitment to Active Travel, an assessment will be carried out on the remainder of the Glencam Road to establish if the provision of a footway/ cycleway can be justified and where such a project would rank when compared against the many other competing schemes across the district.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail (i) the amount of cycle lanes; and (ii) total distance in kilometres in (a) North; (b) South; (c) East; and (d) West Belfast.

Ms Mallon: My Department does not record the information sought in the format requested. The table below provides detail on the lengths of various types of cycle infrastructure in Belfast.

On-road painted cycle lanes	49 km
Shared footway / cycleway	37 km
Cycle tracks physically separated from traffic and pedestrians	4 km
Traffic-free shared paths away from the road	63 km

Mr Givan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to outline how many reviews have taken place into on-street parking in town centres in recent years.

Ms Mallon: On-street Charged Parking Zones (CPZ) were introduced to towns outside Belfast in 2008, to help address parking issues in town centres where all-day parkers tended to occupy 'prime' spaces outside businesses.

In Lisburn and Newry, the establishment of CPZs followed surveys by external consultants and considerable engagement and communication with Councillors, Town Centre Management Committees and local Chambers of Commerce. There were also public consultations held on the proposals, the responses to which were broadly supportive of the proposals. A combination of tariffs and enforcement by Parking Attendants ensure that there is a sufficient turnover of spaces to meet the needs of shoppers who only require a short stay, while encouraging motorists who require a longer stay to use off-street car parking.

Any removal of tariffs for on-street parking is likely to increase congestion as well as air pollution, as car users who may otherwise have paid to park in off-street car parks would be encouraged to find a 'free' space.

The most appropriate place to carry out a review of the controlled parking zones is within the development of my Department's Transport Plans. These will be developed in conjunction with each Council's Local Development Plan (LDP) Local Policies Plan. The Transport Plans will require my Department and each Council to jointly prepare a Parking Strategy, which will consider the provision, management and operation of all parking both on and off street. These strategies will also take account of the shared objectives for our towns and cities and for greater use of sustainable modes of transport including public transport, walking and cycling.

In the meantime, as we emerge from COVID lockdown, I am well aware of a renewed interest in how street space in our towns and cities can best be utilised, to promote the objectives of commercial vitality and improved local public spaces. Changing our current approach to the management of parking by promoting free on-street parking is likely to result in an increase in town centre vehicular traffic, which would work against these shared objectives.

In addition, making on-street car parking more attractive than off-street parking will rule out the possibility of creating footway extensions, hospitality spill-out areas, and parklets. These measures have proved popular elsewhere, and I believe that traders and businesses in Newry and Lisburn city centres stand to gain more from these positive place-making measures than from free on-street parking. I have supported all of these measures through the COVID Revitalisation Fund and will continue to do so through my Blue Green Infrastructure Fund.

Mr Middleton asked the Minister for Infrastructure to outline what engagement her Department has had directly with businesses and residents in Londonderry in relation to plans to implement a one way system in the city centre.

Ms Mallon: The proposed one-way system in Ferryquay Street is one of a number of interventions planned to help better share the street space in the city centre when there is a relaxation of Covid restrictions and an expected increase in pedestrian numbers. As the planned one-way system is a temporary measure it is not subject to formal consultation; however, in accordance with its statutory duty my Department did give notice of the prohibition of turning movements into Ferryquay Street and Carlisle Road in the local papers.

While my Department has not engaged directly with businesses and residents, the measures are being introduced collaboratively with Derry City and Strabane District Council who carried out stakeholder engagement including a webinar and online survey.

Mr Middleton asked the Minister for Infrastructure to outline what her Department is doing to address the issue of vehicles blocking pavements in Northern Ireland.

Ms Mallon: Where parking restrictions are marked on the road, for example yellow lines, those restrictions also apply to the footway (pavement) or verge. My Department can therefore issue Penalty Charge Notices to vehicles which are parked on the footway or verge, in contravention of restrictions. Certain offences, such as dangerous parking or parking causing an obstruction, have not been decriminalised and responsibility for enforcement remains with the PSNI. To promote and encourage compliance, regular reminders of the Highway Code rules on footway parking are posted on our road safety and sustainable travel social media channels.

My Department has also prohibited footway or verge parking a number of specific locations in response to localised problems associated with vehicles either being parked on the footway, or damaging the verge. There is also a blanket order which prohibits parking in the following areas for traffic management and road safety reasons:

- i on a footway adjacent to a clearway;
- ii. on a footway adjacent to a controlled area at Zebra, Pelican and Puffin crossings;
- iii. on a central reservation adjacent to a clearway;
- iv. on a cycle track adjacent to a clearway; or
- v on a verge adjacent to a controlled area at Zebra, Pelican and Puffin crossings.

I am committed to increasing the level of active and sustainable travel and am aware that vehicles parked inconsiderately on pavements present real challenges for other road users, particularly when they impede footway use. I have therefore have asked my officials to explore if further measures can be introduced to limit footway parking.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail (i) what the procedure is for introducing a Parking and Waiting Restrictions Amendment Order, including required engagement with the public (ii) the reasons for the introduction of a Parking and Waiting Restrictions Amendment Order at Brompton, Bangor.

Ms Mallon: My Department's policy and procedure guide, which sets out the procedure and legislative process for traffic management measures including the introduction of waiting restrictions, can be accessed through the following link:

<https://www.infrastructure-ni.gov.uk/publications/traffic-management-procedures-rsppg-s002>

As part of this process a consultation exercise is undertaken with stakeholders likely to be affected by the proposals and a notice is placed in local papers outlining the consultation period.

Successful completion of this process will allow the waiting restrictions to be enforced.

The restriction at Brompton in Bangor is required to ensure this location is kept free of parked vehicles to facilitate road safety and traffic progression. The restrictions will also ensure access for emergency services and council staff as well as to ongoing maintenance works at the nearby Northern Ireland Water infrastructure.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure to outline (i) the indicative timelines; and (ii) the format for the review into Renewable Energy Planning.

Ms Mallon: My decision to review regional planning policy for renewable and low carbon energy was announced on 21 April 2021. In progressing this review, I am mindful of how this issue interfaces with the emerging DfE led Energy Strategy and that the draft policy options for that Strategy have been recently issued for consultation. Substantive work on this review of renewable energy planning policy will be progressed as soon as possible in parallel with the draft Energy Strategy.

The planning policy review will be taken forward in accordance with established policy making best practice. The first step in this process will be engaging with the Infrastructure Committee early next month. A detailed policy development process will be required taking account of the emerging Energy Strategy, the previous planning policy call for evidence, the independent consultant's report that my Department commissioned and wider research. As part of this there will be a period of engagement with a wide range of key stakeholders in the Autumn, including the Infrastructure Committee. I aim to publish a draft renewable and low carbon energy planning policy for public consultation by March 2022.

I also expect that any new policy arising from the review will be referred to the Executive, prior to publication in final form.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure why the item M1 All Lanes (Managed Motorway) appears in her Department's capital budget for 2021.

Ms Mallon: Cars Parking on Double Yellow Lines on Church Road and Fort Road, Helens Bay

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what powers her Department has to address the issue of cars parking on double yellow lines on Church Road and Fort Road, Helens Bay.

Ms Mallon: The Traffic Management (Northern Ireland) Order 2005 gives my Department the power to use Traffic Attendants to enforce parking contraventions by issuing Penalty Charge Notices, however, certain offences, such as dangerous parking or parking causing an obstruction, have not been decriminalised and the PSNI is therefore still responsible for some enforcement.

Mr Chambers asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she plans to improve road safety in relation to the access and egress of vehicles along Rathgael Road, Bangor.

Ms Mallon: A road improvement scheme on Rathgael Road was carried out in 2019 in association with a planned housing development and involved road widening and the provision of four pedestrian refuge islands. These measures have improved crossing facilities for the local community and enhanced road safety on this busy part of the road network. I am advised that there are no further plans for Rathgael Road at this time.

As with all busy urban roads, drivers must continue to exercise due care and attention at all times and be mindful of their own safety and that of other road users, in particular vulnerable road users such as cyclists and pedestrians.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for the DfI Roads assessment of any drainage issues that could impact on road safety on the A1.

Ms Mallon: The A1 dual carriageway from Sprucefield to the border is maintained by the Department via a Design, Build, Finance and Operate (DBFO) contract. The DBFO Contract manages and maintains all aspects of the road infrastructure, including the inspection and maintenance of drainage systems. I can confirm that any drainage issues reported have been dealt with; however, my officials would be content to investigate should you have any specific concerns. If required, please contact Aidan O'Callaghan, Departmental Representative for the relevant DBFO Contract, by email at aidan.o'callaghan@infrastructure-ni.gov.uk.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the study of the key elements of her Department's existing designated culvert network to determine if additional works are needed to comply with the most recent guidance.

Ms Mallon: As part of my Department's asset management processes, officials carry out prioritised programmes of condition assessments on the designated culvert network. Culverts relating to the roads network are also inspected as required.

In addition, to provide further assurance, my Department has commissioned consulting engineers to undertake an independent review of all screened culvert inlets and screened outlets, on designated watercourses, in line with the latest guidance. The review assesses safety and flood risk considerations at each location and identifies if any additional works need to be prioritised and taken forward. This review is well underway, however given the significant number of locations to be assessed, it is anticipated that this commission will run until at least the end of December 2021.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister for Infrastructure to outline (i) the level of public funding allocated and planning to be allocated during 2021/22 to support Derry City Airport; and (ii) the expected number of passengers that will benefit.

Ms Mallon: As Minister for Infrastructure, my powers relating to NI's three main airports are limited to the Airports (NI) Order 1994. These are powers to control noise, control land in the interests of the safe and efficient use of airports, make byelaws, provide for airport constabularies and airport consultative committees and to give grants to assist capital expenditure.

My Department currently has no funding planned to be allocated to City of Derry Airport in 2021/2022.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 17080/17-22, (i) to detail specifically the accident blackspots in East Antrim; and (ii) the number of accidents that have been recorded at each location.

Ms Mallon: The table below provides details of the collision cluster sites identified in East Antrim along with the number of collisions at each site during the period 2016-2018 (the latest available data provided by the PSNI):

Location	Number of Collisions
B59 Doagh Road / Monkstown Road, Newtownabbey.	13
B90 Old Carrick Road / Monkstown Road, Newtownabbey.	4
A2 Shore Road / Glenwell Road, Whiteabbey.	9

C75 North Road / Prince Andrew Way, Carrickfergus.	4

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure what assessment has been made in regards to the electrification of the Larne railway line.

Ms Mallon: As Infrastructure Minister, I have made addressing climate change one of my key priorities. I am focused on delivering clean public transport, however the cost of delivering a full decarbonisation of our bus and rail network will be significant.

To date, there has been no assessment to electrify the Larne railway line as this is a decision that needs to be taken strategically across the whole rail network. To that end, I can confirm that the recently announced All Island Strategic Rail review will consider the decarbonisation of the rail network on the island of Ireland.

In addition Translink's ambition is to decarbonise the public transport fleet by 2040 and is undertaking the necessary feasibility studies to examine this issue. Any decision to decarbonise the rail network will therefore need to be taken on a strategic basis considering the technologies available and the funding required at that time.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 16423/17-22, (i) to detail (a) the number of recorded incidents of spills from the network; and, (b) their locations; (ii) the number of recorded incidents of flooding in properties as a result of sewage backing up; (iii) to define the meaning of 'receiving environment'; (iv) to detail the number of unsatisfactory intermittent discharges; (v) what planning approvals and funding have been obtained thus far for improvement works; (vi) for an update on network modelling in regards to the Larne area; (vii) what engagement has been undertaken thus far with the Northern Ireland Environment Agency regarding required work; and (viii) what notice has been given to the public in regards to these issues.

Ms Mallon: NI Water has advised me of the following:

- (i) NI Water's urban drainage model developed for the Larne catchment provides information on predicted spills/ discharges from network assets into the environment. The table below outlines the predicted network spills and defines the receiving environment.

- (ii) NI Water has no properties on the external, or internal, flooding DG5 register for the Larne catchment. It has also advised that where flooding has occurred the cause would have been sewer blockages i.e. flooding other causes and not capacity related.
- (iii) The receiving environment is referenced in the table above, provided in response to question (i).
- (iv) NI Water is currently aware of 29 Unsatisfactory Intermittent Discharges (UIDs). This information is based on evidence derived from the urban drainage model, pollution incidents and operational staff, within the Larne network. NI Water has provided spill assessment data to the Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) for its consideration and to enable a formal 'Statement of Need' for Larne to be generated.
- (v) NI Water has advised that it can progress options to provide solutions, land requirements and planning when it receives the Statement of Need from NIEA. The implementation of any capital improvements in Larne will be subject to prioritisation and the availability of adequate funding. NI Water's PC21 Business Plan includes provision for network sewerage improvements within the Blackcave network.

NI Water is currently awaiting the Utility Regulator's PC21 Final Determination which will include decisions on NI Water's PC21 Business Plan proposals amounting to approximately £2 billion for the period 2021 to 2027. Funding of the PC21 Business Plan, if agreed by the Utility Regulator and NI Water, is reliant on the allocation of adequate funding by the NI Executive. NI Water has advised me that it will take multiple Price Control investment timeframes to address the wastewater system capacity issues. This presents a challenge for the Executive as to how economic development can be supported while the necessary investment is delivered. If insufficient funding is provided, a prioritisation exercise will need to be undertaken, and agreed, with my Department and NI Water's key stakeholders (the UR, NIEA, the Drinking Water Inspectorate and the Consumer Council Northern Ireland). This could lead to significant impacts upon the wastewater upgrade programme.

- (vi) NI Water is currently progressing a Drainage Area Study (DAS) of the Larne catchment (encompassing the Blackcave network). This study, which involves the creation of a detailed hydraulic model to replicate the sewerage network, is at an advanced stage with an anticipated completion date of June 2021. Substantial survey work has been undertaken in the Larne catchment to inform the DAS process (including flow survey, ancillary surveys and CCTV investigations).

The modelling appraisal has identified network capacity issues affecting the catchment. NI Water has, using the DAS process, developed a suite of outline solutions to address both pollution from unsatisfactory overflows and to reduce the risk of out of sewer flooding. The scale of the solutions generated by the DAS (based on precautionary environmental principle) represent a significant capital investment. Therefore it is likely that NI Water will seek to achieve more sustainable catchment outcomes through a parallel Integrated Environmental Modelling (IEM) study.

- (vii) NI Water provided spill assessment data on 22nd April 2021 to the Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) for its consideration and to enable a formal 'Statement of Need' for Larne to be generated. Please refer to previous answer (iv).
- (viii) NI Water has highlighted wastewater capacity issues, both in relation to Larne and other areas across Northern Ireland, for several years. It's PC21 Business Plan sets out investment requirements to begin addressing capacity issues over the PC21 Price Control period (2021 to 2027) and for future 6 year Price Controls (PC27 and PC33). The Utility Regulator also issued the PC21 Draft Determination for Public Consultation on the 30 September 2020 and presented the proposals as to how NI Water will begin to address a lack of capacity in its sewerage networks and wastewater treatment works in the PC21 period.

NI Water has made several presentations to Mid and East Antrim Borough Council during 2019/20 and 2020/21. Its staff have also met, on numerous occasions, with Councillors, Council Planners, MEA Chief Executive, MLAs and an MP.

Wastewater capacity information is available on NI Water's website: Wastewater Capacity (niwater.com) (<https://www.niwater.com/wastewater-capacity/>).

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether there are plans to extend the use of Irish language on public transport to the Armagh, Banbridge and Craigavon Borough Council area which has several Irish medium schools, Irish language centres and groups.

Ms Mallon: I recently announced that Glider services in Belfast between McKinsty Road and Millfield are soon to display passenger information signage bilingually in both Irish and English. This will be introduced as a result of a previous public consultation which was specific to this area.

In order to facilitate an extension of this approach on services in the Armagh, Banbridge and Craigavon Borough Council area a public consultation would be required to understand the current views of our citizens.

I share your enthusiasm for the visibility and promotion of Irish Language. As I am committed to ensuring equality for Irish language speakers and to delivery of NDNA commitments, I can assure you I will continue to do what I can within the resources available to me and in support of Executive colleagues given their remits in this area.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister for Infrastructure what plans are in place to better connect the road infrastructure in Craigavon to the Belfast/Dublin economic corridor of the A1.

Ms Mallon: Craigavon is connected to the A1 Economic Corridor by the M12/ M1 which joins at Blaris/ Sprucefield; and by the A27 trunk road which runs from A3 Northway, Portadown and joins the A1 at Carnbane junction, Newry.

My officials are currently developing a new suite of transport plans, and the Regional Strategic Transport Network Transport Plan (RSTNTP) is the first in line for completion. It will set out future investment for our strategic transport networks, by road, rail and bus, and reflect my commitment to improving connectivity for the benefit of our economy and communities across the North. Officials are continuing to make progress and I intend to publish the draft RSTNTP for public consultation in late 2021, with a view to issuing the finalised Plan in spring 2022. The public consultation on the RSTNTP will provide an opportunity for representations to be made, including improvements to these routes.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) whether her Department plans to keep the increased deployment of traffic attendants in Helen's Bay and Crawfordsburn over all forthcoming public holidays or periods of good weather; and (ii) whether traffic attendants have been directed to Seapark and Kinnegar in Holywood to enforce illegal parking.

Ms Mallon:

- (i) The on-street enforcement was increased on 15 March 2021 in response to particular parking issues being highlighted. This has largely been possible due to the availability of Traffic Attendant (TA) resource, as I decided that the parking enforcement service should be scaled back due to traffic reductions in response to Covid restrictions. As we return to a 'normal' enforcement service these areas will be considered as part of our routine reassessment of the enforcement schedules within our available resource. It is however not practicable to schedule enforcement to take account of likely weather conditions.
- (ii) I am advised that TAs have visited Kinnegar on 6 occasions since mid-April 2021. There have been no recent requests to enforce in Seapark; however in response to your question, arrangements have been put in place for TAs to visit these locations.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail her Department's responsibility and enforcement role over parking on grass verges at the side of a road.

Ms Mallon: There is no single piece of legislation that prohibits all vehicles from parking on footways or verges. However, where there are parking restrictions, these apply to the carriageway, footway and verge on that side of the road, and my Department can carry out enforcement action against vehicles that are parked in contravention of these restrictions. Article 30 of the Road Traffic (Northern Ireland) Order 1995 also prohibits heavy commercial vehicles from parking on verges, central reservations and footways, although enforcement in this instance is a matter for the PSNI.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail any traffic calming measures that are required by her Department outside, or near, a primary school.

Ms Mallon: There is no legal obligation to provide any form of traffic calming measures at schools, however, as Minister responsible for promoting and improving road safety, I believe the provision of such features can be very beneficial. My Department can utilise a range of traffic calming measures outside a school such as traffic signs, which can come with flashing amber lights, road markings, coloured surfacing, 'school keep clear' markings, parking restrictions, and speed limits including part-time 20 mph limits as I am currently introducing at 103 schools. Other physical features, such as improved walking and cycling measures, controlled pedestrian crossings and, where appropriate, speed cushions or speed humps, can also be used.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the total length of cycle lanes, broken down by constituency.

Ms Mallon: My Department does not maintain records of cycling infrastructure on a constituency basis. However, comprehensive information is available for Belfast through the Sustrans Belfast Bike Life report. The 2019 report has identified all potential cycle lanes, cycleways and cycle paths throughout Belfast. This includes paths through parks which are the responsibility of Councils and other agencies.

For the Belfast area the length of cycle infrastructure is as follows:

On-road painted cycle lanes	49 km
Shared footway / cycleway	37 km
Cycle tracks physically separated from traffic and pedestrians	4 km
Traffic-free shared paths away from the road	63 km

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) to outline any water supply and wastewater capacity issues that exist in the (a) Whitehead; (b) Islandmagee; (c) Ballygalley; (d) Milltown; (e) Glenarm; (f) Carnlough; (g) Glenariff; and (h) Cushendall areas; and (j) any other villages or settlements in East Antrim; and (ii) how Northern Ireland Water is working to resolve these capacity issues.

Ms Mallon:

- (i) NI Water has advised that no drinking water supply capacity issues have been identified in the East Antrim area. However, wastewater network and treatment capacity issues have been identified in parts of the Larne, Ballymena, Carrickfergus, Greenisland, Ballycarry, Portglenone, Tully Road (Carnlough and Glenarm), Whitehead/Ballystrudder/Ballycarry, Cushendall and Cushendun wastewater treatment works.

In terms of resolving issues in the East Antrim area, NI Water plans to upgrade Larne waste water treatment works (WwTWs) and its sewer catchment (Larne / Blackcave) during the period covered by its Price Control - PC21 (April 2021 – March 2027). Current estimates are ca£30 million and the upgrade is subject to funding by the NI Executive of the PC21 Business Plan. Areas assessed as nearing capacity, by NI Water's sewerage network capacity mapping tool, are not in the PC21 business plan but may be subject to future PC27 (2027-2033) business planning prioritisation processes and funding. In areas where capacity is constraining development, NI Water can consider the provision of positive planning responses for these areas where developers can demonstrate:

- (ii) (1) like for like development, (2) extant previously approved development (where NI Water has given a positive response) and (3) where the development will offer a reduced loading on the sewer network, which may include storm separation and/or attenuation. In addition, NI Water has put in place a Solution Engineering Team which can assess options for storm water offsetting within a catchment that may be funded by developers to facilitate a proposed development.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what criteria is used when deciding to refresh double yellow no parking lines.

Ms Mallon: My Department's policy in relation to maintenance of road markings is that priority should be given to regulatory road markings which includes double yellow lines and other markings restricting parking on the carriageway.

Road markings are identified for refreshment/replacement as follows:

- a during cyclic maintenance inspections - where lines that have approximately 30% of the marked area is noted as ineffective or worn away;
- b in response to requests from traffic management officials or in response to public enquiries; and

- c where Traffic Attendants or the Department's Liaison Officer has noted a faded line and is of the opinion the restriction has worn to the point where a member of the public would not know what marking was there thus making it unenforceable.

If there is any specific location within your constituency where you are concerned about the quality of road markings then please contact my officials at;

DfI Roads - Belfast South Section Office, 1a Airport Road, Belfast, BT3 9DY.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for Infrastructure, following the erection of a new play park in the area, whether her Department will carry out an urgent assessment for traffic calming along Martins Lane, Newry in front of Springfarm Heights, Altmore Gardens and Loanda Crescent.

Ms Mallon: My Department recognises the importance of road safety measures and is committed to exploring solutions that deliver better for communities and improve lives across the North. In response to your request, I have asked my officials to undertake an initial technical assessment to determine if any additional road safety measures would be appropriate for this location.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister for Infrastructure, in order to ensure a credible alternative form of transport for commuters, whether she will establish an express rail service from Derry to Belfast.

Ms Mallon: I am ambitious for our rail network, and am keen to do all that I can to explore how we can progress rail improvements within the limited budgetary envelope that I have available. I believe that rail has huge untapped potential to deliver multiple benefits across our island and I am committed to addressing regional imbalance by improving connectivity to the North West area. In line with this, I have commissioned a feasibility study to get Phase 3 of the Coleraine to Derry project back on track. I have also commissioned additional studies to explore the possibility of a half hourly service from Derry to Belfast as well as providing additional halts at Ballykelly, Strathfoyle and City of Derry Airport/Eglinton.

In respect of delivering an express rail service from Derry to Belfast, the current infrastructure does not support such a service due to the single track infrastructure presently in place. However, I believe that we can take a strategic view of these issues and the All Island Strategic Rail Review which I announced last month, along with Transport Minister Eamon Ryan TD, will allow also us to consider our network across this island to view how we can improve it for everyone. It reflects and builds on the commitment under the New Decade, New Approach agreement of the Irish and British Governments to examine the feasibility of a high/higher speed rail link between Belfast, Dublin and Cork. Minister Ryan and I have a shared ambition for rail and commitment to tackling the climate emergency, and we are keen that we use this opportunity to consider how we can improve our rail network across the island of Ireland.

To achieve this, the All Island Rail review will examine the potential for rail connections across the island including how our existing connections could be improved and where new rail links would be best placed. I want to ensure that any proposals for changes to the rail network include operational and financial viability and have a very clear focus on the part that rail can play in growing our all-island economy, while improving the ability of people to connect with and access opportunities, and addressing longstanding regional imbalances. Whilst the outcome of this review is not yet determined, I can confirm that it will explore current service levels and, should the data support it, recommendations could come forward in respect of increasing service levels along corridors such as the Belfast to Derry line.

In addition to this review, my Department is also currently bringing forward the Regional Strategic Transport Network Transport Plan (RSTNTP) and, amongst other measures, this will consider improvements to our rail network. I am keen to examine how best to optimise the existing network through increased frequency of services and reduced journey times, whilst also looking at the practicalities of expanding the network. The Draft RSTNTP is scheduled for full public consultation in late 2021, and I am determined to use these Transport Plans to help power our Green Recovery. To that end, I would welcome your input to the consultation.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she intends to launch a bike scheme, similar to the 26 counties, which will provide bicycles and e-bikes for those (i) on low incomes; and (ii) who are most disadvantaged.

Ms Mallon: I am very keen to increase the proportion of journeys made by walking, cycling and public transport right across Northern Ireland and I want to do what I can to remove barriers for people who want to walk and cycle more as they go about their everyday lives.

To date, my focus has been about providing safer infrastructure and cleaner ways of travelling that better connect our communities. A number of different schemes have been announced in both the South and in England. In light of the pressures on my Resource budget, I want to monitor how successful these are in increasing the number of people cycling before investing significant resource in developing one here.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the evidence gathered by her Department on planning policy matters such as Sustainable Development in the countryside.

Ms Mallon: I recognise the importance of ensuring regional planning policy on a wide range of planning matters is kept under review based on the latest available evidence. You will be aware that, further to a 'Call for Evidence' and independent research, I announced my decision to review regional planning policy for Renewable and Low Carbon Energy on the 21 April 2021.

I have also carefully considered all of the evidence in relation to regional policy for Sustainable Development in the Countryside and the way forward for this policy area will be made clear shortly.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the relationship between her Department and local councils when progressing potential greenways and active travel routes.

Ms Mallon: In November 2016, my Department published 'Exercise – Explore – Enjoy: a Strategic Plan for Greenways'. This strategy identified the key role of Councils in the delivery of a greenway network and provided a framework to assist them to develop their own schemes as part of a greenway network for the entire region. In the early stages, my Department provided funding to Councils, to assist them in undertaking feasibility studies and detailed designs, through the 'Small Grants for Greenways' programme.

In 2020/21, I also announced capital grant funding towards six greenway projects that were due to start construction and Councils were asked to develop their business cases for further schemes. My Walking and Cycling Champion has written to Councils seeking an update on greenway proposals that are progressing towards delivery and inviting Councils to submit business cases for any proposals that would be in a position to start construction. My Department continues to liaise with Councils in respect of the development of their business cases, in anticipation of providing further capital grant funding.

My Department considers that Councils are best placed to consult locally on their plans and to advance local community engagement (including stakeholders and landowners) to ensure the successful completion of their greenway projects.

In terms of other active travel routes and other active travel measures, I am keen to hear about Council priorities for their areas so that we can work together to deliver better places for people.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the drainage solutions her Department is focusing on outside of the greater Belfast area.

Ms Mallon: In 2021/22, DfI Rivers plan for approximately 1,500 metres of culvert rehabilitation works to be completed outside the Greater Belfast area. In addition, DfI Rivers is progressing an extensive programme of capital flood alleviation projects outside of Greater Belfast, with numerous projects at various stages of the project lifecycle. It is intended to complete feasibility studies in Strabane, Limavady and Fintona and to continue with on-going design works for potential schemes in Portadown, Newry, Eglinton, Lurgan and Mayobridge. All projects are subject to competing priorities; availability of funding and economic viability.

Other projects of note are the Shimna River Flood Alleviation Scheme in Newcastle, and the Newry Phase 1 Tributaries work which are currently at the latter stages of procurement and intended to commence on site later this year. There are also active construction sites in Lisburn and Antrim to complete flood alleviation schemes this financial year.

My Department also carries out road drainage improvement works to remove surface water from carriageways and footways, which could potentially cause flooding. Almost £6.0m is spent annually on this activity of which over £5.0m on average, is spent outside Eastern Division – an area which covers Belfast City, Lisburn and Castlereagh.

My Department's Living With Water Programme (LWWP), is initially focusing on solutions for Belfast, but I am very keen to see the LWWP approach being extended to other parts of the North. This includes within Derry, where I allocated £130k from the 2020/21 budget to start the development of a LWWP feasibility study. This study initially focused on working with the designers of the A2 Buncrana Road Strategic Road Improvement scheme to bring forward integrated drainage solutions within the Skeoge River and Pennyburn Culvert catchments.

NI Water has advised of the drainage solutions proposed for outside of the Greater Belfast area in the period 2021-2027 and these are included in Table 1. These works are subject to the Price Control (PC) 21 Business Case being approved by the Utility Regulator and the funding being provided by the NI Executive.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail Translink's future capacity plan for buses and trains.

Ms Mallon: Our public transport network is vital in our recovery from COVID-19 both economically and socially. I am really passionate about public transport and I believe it offers so much potential not just for daily commuting but also for tourism and to help address regional imbalance and tackle the climate emergency.

I am keen that we take a strategic view of the services that we deliver and to that end I have recently announced an All Island Strategic Rail review with Transport Minister, Eamon Ryan TD, which will allow also us to consider our network across this island to view how we can improve it for everyone. Reflecting and building on the commitments under the New Decade, New Approach agreement, the Review will also examine the potential for rail connections across the island including how our existing connections could be improved and where new rail links would be best placed.

In addition, my Department is currently bringing forward the Regional Strategic Transport Network Transport Plan (RSTNTP) and, amongst other measures, this will consider improvements to our rail network. I am keen to examine how best to optimise the existing network through increased frequency of services and reduced journey times, whilst also looking at the practicalities of expanding the network. The Draft RSTNTP is scheduled for full public consultation in late 2021, and I am determined to use these Transport Plans to help power our Green Recovery.

In respect of capacity during COVID-19, with the further easing of restrictions allowing shops and other businesses to re-open, we will see more and more people visiting our towns and cities. This will see more passengers using our public transport services. Translink is currently running a "Ready for You" campaign across social media, radio and outdoor highlighting all the safety measures in place and reminding passengers to wear a face covering (unless exempt), observe good hand hygiene, follow social distancing measures and use cashless payment options where possible. Translink has also implemented a range of measures including having assist buses and trains on standby to increase capacity where needed as well as enhanced cleaning of buses and trains in addition to the regular daily cleaning that is undertaken for our public transport fleet. I hope those actions give the public confidence to return to public transport.

In respect of increasing the capacity of our network in the future, my Department is investing in excess of £60m in 21 new rail carriages. Once in operation, these new carriages will see an increase in capacity on our network of around 1,600 seats. This significant investment will not only enhance capacity on the network but also deliver multiple benefits across our island. It is vital that we continue to invest and modernise our rail network as we work to build back greener and more responsibly from Covid 19.

In respect of the bus network, I have committed £66m funding for the purchase of 145 low and zero emission vehicles by Translink over the next 2 years. Whilst these buses will replace older vehicles, it will improve the quality of the service we are delivering whilst lowering emissions significantly. It is anticipated the first of these new buses will go into service in Belfast and Derry in spring 2022.

Mr Givan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail what her Department has spent on drainage maintenance in the Lisburn and Castlereagh City Council area in the last three years.

Ms Mallon: DfI Rivers carries out cyclical inspection and maintenance of designated drainage infrastructure across the Lisburn and Castlereagh council area.

Works are undertaken on a watercourse catchment area basis which can cross council boundaries. In light of this, figures have been provided on a pro rata basis based on the percentage of the Lisburn and Castlereagh City Council area within my Department's Rivers Lisburn Rural operational area. The table below outlines the approximate pro rata expenditure on drainage maintenance by DfI Rivers within the Lisburn and Castlereagh City Council area.

Expenditure by DfI Roads and NI Water is also included in the table below. The figures for Roads include structural drainage and gully cleaning. Gully cleaning is performed by an external contractor.

Year	Expenditure by Rivers	Expenditure by Roads	Expenditure by NI Water
2018/19	£212k	£208k	£175k
2020/21	£213k	£135k	£244k

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail any plans to reassess and revise her Department's policies post-COVID-19, in order to reflect changes in society where more people are moving toward rural areas.

(AQW 18174/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department's policies are regularly reviewed to ensure they continue to be relevant and appropriate. The changes in society due to COVID-19 will be fully considered when individual policy reviews are being undertaken.

I am committed to delivering cleaner, greener and healthier communities as we emerge from the COVID-19 pandemic. Providing safe routes that give people the freedom and confidence to walk, wheel and cycle as part of their everyday routine is one of the ways in which I hope to change the way we live for the better.

For example, in addition to pop-up cycle lanes in Belfast and pop-up cycle infrastructure on Foyle Riverside and Queens Quay in Derry, I have provided funding to support Councils in the construction of greenway schemes across Northern Ireland. I am keen to provide further capital funding through my Blue Green Infrastructure Fund to assist Councils to develop greenways that will provide walking and cycling links to rural areas.

I also contributed £5million to the DfC Covid 19 Recovery Revitalisation Programme which was allocated across Councils. This funding is being used for projects which improve connectivity by making it more attractive to walk and cycle to access key services and which protect and enhance our green and blue infrastructure.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for Infrastructure how much funding has been set aside by her Department and its arm's-length bodies to celebrate the Northern Ireland Centenary.

Ms Mallon: My Department and arm's length bodies have not set aside any funding to celebrate the Northern Ireland Centenary.

Mr G Kelly asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail (i) the assessment criteria for the 20mph speed limit scheme outside schools; and (ii) the result of the assessment for Gaelscoil Eanna, North Belfast.

Ms Mallon: Details of the process for assessing and prioritising schools for the part-time 20mph speed limit programme are set out in Roads Service Policy and Procedure Guide (RSPPG) E070 details of which can be found at: <https://www.infrastructure-ni.gov.uk/publications/road-safety-schools-rsppg-e070>

I can confirm that Gaelscoil Eanna scored 96 points in the assessment process. Listed below are the seven schools in the Antrim and Newtownabbey Council area that were included in the recent first tranche of the programme which had scores ranging between 137 and 213 points:

- 1 Ballyclare High School, Ballyclare;
- 2 Duneane Primary School, Toome;
- 3 Edmund Rice College, Glengormley;
- 4 Groggan Primary School, Randalstown;
- 5 Loanends Primary School, Crumlin;
- 6 Mallusk Primary School, Newtownabbey; and
- 7 Moneynick Primary School, Toome.

It is my intention to take forward further tranches of part-time speed limits at schools and I can confirm that Gaelscoil Eanna Primary School will be considered for inclusion in future programmes, the scale and extent of which will be dependent on budget allocations.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether there are any plans to permit local council planning committees a greater degree of autonomy by removing the link between departmental legislation, the Strategic Planning Policy Statement published in September 2015 and the creation of local development plans.

Ms Mallon: The Planning Act (NI) 2011 requires councils to prepare local development plans for their areas. These must take account of the Regional Development Strategy and any policy or advice contained in guidance issued by the Department, which includes the regional policies set out in the Strategic Planning Policy Statement. The Planning Act also requires councils to submit their development plan documents for independent examination, where it will be determined if the document is sound. The soundness tests are set out in Departmental guidance and reflect the legislative provisions of the Planning Act.

The Planning Act, existing regional planning policy and guidance already provide councils with the flexibility to bring forward bespoke local policies for the development of their areas, where appropriate. Councils are able to develop their own approaches to dealing with the specific economic, social and environmental local circumstances which affect communities in their areas, through the preparation of their local development plans.

This approach reflects the transfer of local planning to councils and the creation of the two tier planning system brought forward by the Executive and agreed by the Assembly. There are no plans to change these arrangements.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the minimum legal distance between streetlights.
(AQW 18210/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Lighting installations are designed in accordance with Standard BS5489 Design of Road Lighting and there is no legal requirement in respect of the minimum distance between street lights.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure how will she ensure that the Ulster Canal Greenway project from Middletown to Smithboro has the funding needed for full delivery.
(AQW 18217/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I am pleased that my Department was able to support the Special EU Programmes Body issuing a Letter of Offer, to the consortium led by Waterways Ireland, for €4.9m to complete the Ulster Canal Greenway from the INTERREG VA Territorial Co-operation Programme by December 2021.

I understand that there have been both inflationary increases and increases in construction costs which have resulted in an additional funding request for the project. This is currently under consideration by the SEUPB.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department has explored any potential revenue raising opportunities within her departmental property.

Ms Mallon: My Department has consistently considered and operated a wide range of revenue raising opportunities on property that it owns. This includes, but is not limited to, opportunities to raise revenue through the disposal of surplus property and the rental of property and land acquired for any transport schemes and opportunities relating to the Crumlin Road Gaol.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on her Department's assessment on e-scooters.

Ms Mallon: The position remains that it is illegal to use e-scooters on public roads and public spaces for rental or private use here and in GB.

DfT, in conjunction with local authorities, are running pilot e-scooter rental schemes in GB within designated areas. These schemes began in July last year and are still ongoing. The aim of the schemes, which do not extend to Northern Ireland, is to help assess the safety of e-scooters and their impact on public spaces. I have asked my officials to monitor these schemes, and once an analysis is available, to provide me with a report. I will then be in a position to give consideration to the future legal position of e-scooters here.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister for Infrastructure, in relation to booking driving tests, why are nurses not counted as critical workers.

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests and theory tests on 23 April, with appropriate mitigations in place.

The DVA has received a number of requests from key workers requesting that they reinstate a priority service for them to avail of early appointments. The DVA continues to work with the Department of Health on priority applications for key workers whose jobs are ancillary to medical, health or social care services and who need to drive for their work. If a critical worker, including a nurse, meets these requirements, their employer must contact the DVA and identify staff in these priority groups. The DVA will then try to make priority appointments for both theory and practical driving tests. The DVA are not in a position to consider any applications that do not meet the above criteria.

Following the phased reopening of the practical driving test booking service based on the expiry dates of theory test pass certificates, to give priority to those who have been waiting the longest time, I am pleased to confirm that the booking service for practical driving tests opened for all customers on 10 May 2021, providing everyone with a valid theory test pass certificate with equal opportunity to book a driving test.

The DVA has, and continues, to work hard to increase its capacity to help meet the expected high demand for driving tests. The DVA has taken a range of measures to maximise the availability of test slots, including the recruitment of additional examiners and the provision of new temporary test centres. They will continue to offer driving tests on a Saturday and at certain centres on Sundays where it is suitable to do so without compromising the integrity of the test. Overtime will also be used to rota off-shift dual role driving examiners to provide further capacity. Additional slots are therefore being made available from now until the end of August and bookings for September and October have been released to accommodate more learners.

Driver theory testing has resumed at the six established test centres, with additional slots at each location and extended opening hours being provided to help address the increased demand. An additional temporary test centre, which will be located in Ballymena, will also be opened that can provide around 1,000 test slots per week. Customers can book appointments through the online theory test booking system, with priority initially being given to customers whose tests have been affected by the suspension of theory test services due to Covid-19 restrictions.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, however, all driving test services across these islands are experiencing high demand with longer than usual waiting times and I would ask customers for their continued patience.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure to outline the current law on the use of powered wheelchairs and mobility scooters on footpaths and roads.

Ms Mallon: As Minister with responsibility for safe travel, and road safety in particular, I take very seriously my responsibility to all road users, particularly those that are more-vulnerable such as the users of these type of vehicles.

A substantial section (from the Highway Code) can be found on the NI Government website (nidirect) covering the use of powered wheelchairs and mobility scooters (called Invalid Carriages in law) which sets out what is legally required to use them on public roads and footpaths, at the following link:

<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/rules-users-powered-wheelchairs-and-mobility-scooters-36-46>

Mr Irwin asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of the current practical driving test booking system that has prevented members of the public from booking a retest immediately after a test fail, despite the availability of test slots.

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver and Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests on 23 April 2021.

In January, I announced that bookings for driving tests would open in three phases based on the expiry dates of theory test pass certificates, to give priority to those who have been waiting for the longest time. Phase one, for those customers whose theory test pass certificates will expire by 31 October 2021, opened on 26 April. Phase two, for those customers whose theory test pass certificates will expire by 31 March 2022, opened on 4 May 2021.

To ensure the process for booking driving tests was managed fairly, those customers who failed their test, since the service resumed on 23 April, were not provided with the option to book another test before other customers were given the opportunity to book a test for the first time. The only exception was for those customers who were assessed as a key worker before the scheme closed in October 2020, who under arrangements at that time, were entitled to book a second test.

The key worker priority process has been reviewed and the DVA will now consider the facilitation of priority requests identified by employers, for key workers whose jobs are ancillary to medical, health or social care services and who are required to drive for the purposes of their work. However, this approach is based on engagement with the relevant employers, rather than with the individual learners, to provide the DVA with a list of any relevant staff that fall within this priority group.

I am pleased to confirm that the booking service opened for all customers on 10 May 2021, providing everyone with a valid theory test pass certificate with equal opportunity to book a driving test, whether for the first time or after a test failure.

The DVA has, and continues, to work hard to increase its capacity to help meet the expected high demand for driving tests. The DVA has taken a range of measures to maximise the availability of test slots, including the recruitment of additional examiners and the provision of new temporary test centres. They will continue to offer driving tests on a Saturday and at certain centres on Sundays where it is suitable to do so without compromising the integrity of the test. Overtime will also be used to rota off-shift dual role driving examiners to provide further capacity. Additional slots are therefore being made available from now until the end of August and bookings for September and October have been released to accommodate more learners.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, however, all driving test services across these islands are experiencing high demand with longer than usual waiting times and I would ask customers for their continued patience.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an indicative spend on the Shared Island Fund.

Ms Mallon: I welcome the Shared Island Fund, established by the Department of the Taoiseach in December 2020, which will foster new investment and development opportunities on a North/South basis and support the delivery of key cross-border infrastructure initiatives.

Engagement, dialogue and a comprehensive programme of research across the island is informing future Shared Island Fund priorities and spend, but any decisions on spend from this fund are matters for the Irish Government.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) to outline any plans to install further bicycle repair stations, like that on the Lagan Towpath; and (ii) to detail any locations being considered or local councils being engaged.

Ms Mallon: Revenue Earned from On Street Parking Charges and Penalty Charge Notices

Mr Lunn asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the amounts of revenue earned from (i) on street parking charges; and (ii) penalty charge notices in the controlled parking zones in (a) Belfast; (b) Lisburn; and (c) Newry, in each of the last three financial years.

(AQW 18318/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department does not hold details of revenue received from Penalty Charge Notices (PCNs) issued in Controlled Parking Zones (CPZs). This is because many streets are only partly located in a CPZ, and PCNs do not record where exactly on the street they were issued.

Details of revenue received from on-street parking charges in the Belfast, Lisburn and Newry CPZs for the last three financial years, are provided in the table below:

Year	Controlled Parking Zones - Revenue
	Belfast	Lisburn	Newry
2018/19	3,057k	333k	485k
2019/20	2,975k	314k	487k
2020/21	1,208k	184k	237k

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister for Infrastructure, given the reliance on shift work and issues around fatigue across the Health and Social Care workforce as vital services are restored, what proposals is she bringing forward to speed up access to priority driving tests for these workers.

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests and theory tests on 23 April, with appropriate mitigations in place.

The DVA continues to work with the Department of Health on priority applications for key workers whose jobs are ancillary to medical, health or social care services and who need to drive for their work. If a critical worker meets these requirements, their employer must contact the DVA and identify staff in these priority groups. The DVA will then try to make priority appointments for both theory and practical driving tests. The DVA are not in a position to consider any applications that do not meet the above criteria.

Following the phased reopening of the practical driving test booking service based on the expiry dates of theory test pass certificates, to give priority to those who have been waiting the longest time, I am pleased to confirm that the booking service for practical driving tests opened for all customers on 10 May 2021, providing everyone with a valid theory test pass certificate with equal opportunity to book a driving test.

The DVA has, and continues, to work hard to increase its capacity to help meet the expected high demand for driving tests. The DVA has taken a range of measures to maximise the availability of test slots, including the recruitment of additional examiners and the provision of new temporary test centres. They will continue to offer driving tests on a Saturday and at certain centres on Sundays where it is suitable to do so without compromising the integrity of the test. Overtime will also be used to rota off-shift dual role driving examiners to provide further capacity. Additional slots are therefore being made available from now until the end of August and bookings for September and October have been released to accommodate more learners.

Driver theory testing has resumed at the six established test centres, with additional slots at each location and extended opening hours being provided to help address the increased demand. An additional temporary test centre, which will be located in Ballymena, will also be opened that can provide around 1,000 test slots per week. Customers can book appointments through the online theory test booking system, with priority initially being given to customers whose tests have been affected by the suspension of theory test services due to Covid-19 restrictions.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, however, all driving test services across these islands are experiencing high demand with longer than usual waiting times and I would ask customers for their continued patience.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Infrastructure when consideration will be given to additional schools in East Belfast being identified for the application of the 20mph speed limit zones.

Ms Mallon: I was pleased to have been able to commit funding within the capital budget towards the introduction of part-time 20mph speed limits at 103 schools across Northern Ireland, so that parents, children and staff will be safer as they go to and from school on a daily basis. Priority listings have been developed for each Division based on scores calculated using the assessment framework contained within the Department's current road safety at schools policy document.

Given the restricted budgets for works of this nature, as well as the practicalities of delivery, it was necessary to limit the first tranche of schools to around 100 in this year's programme. I am pleased to be able to confirm that Leadhill Primary School, Loughview Primary School and Knocknagoney Primary School in East Belfast have all been included in the first tranche which is due for completion by the end of the current school year.

I can confirm that it is my intention to take forward further tranches of part-time speed limits at schools and that the remaining schools within the East Belfast area will be considered for inclusion in future programmes.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she has any plans to introduce 20mph speed limits as the standard for residential areas.

Ms Mallon: As Minister responsible for promoting and improving road safety, I recognise that appropriate speed limits are part of the solution, and I firmly believe that attitudes to speeding have to change. My Department has introduced 20mph limits at over 700 locations, mostly in residential areas in conjunction with traffic engineering measures, such as road humps.

The Department ran two trials on 20mph speed limits, one using signs only 20mph speed limits, and the other using a new arrangement of signs to introduce part-time 20mph speed limits at schools.

The report on the enforceable 20mph speed limits without traffic calming measures found that this approach had little or no impact on the speed of traffic. The Department therefore has no current plans to introduce 20 mph speed limits to all residential areas but will continue to provide 20mph zones with traffic calming, as these are much more effective at reducing speeds. Previous studies show an average reduction in mean speeds of 9 mph.

I also intend to introduce part-time 20 mph speed limits outside more schools given the strong support for the 103 schools included in the first tranche of my programme.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of how long it will take her Department to implement all outstanding requests for traffic calming measures in the Eastern Division under current guidelines and procedures.

Ms Mallon: Officials within DfI Roads Eastern Division have a list of requests for traffic calming measures, which currently comprises 598 locations. This list is 'live' and is kept under continuous review.

Although an assessment is carried out and a priority ranking is provided for each location, not every location is in serious need of attention, or suitable for traffic calming measures. Also, scheme priorities can change upwards or downwards, subject to the consideration of assessment data and therefore it is more appropriate to focus on the top twenty priority ranked locations in taking forward schemes to detailed design.

A typical traffic calming scheme is estimated to cost around £50k, however actual costs depend on the nature and scale of the individual scheme. The rate at which the traffic calming programme is taken forward will depend upon budgets made available in future years for works of this nature.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail how many current requests for traffic calming measures in the Eastern Division could be alleviated by the implementation of a standard 20mph speed limit in residential areas.

Ms Mallon: As Minister responsible for promoting and improving road safety, I recognise that appropriate speed limits are part of the solution, and I firmly believe that attitudes to speeding have to change. My Department has introduced 20mph limits at over 700 locations, mostly in residential areas in conjunction with traffic engineering measures, such as road humps.

The Department ran a trial on 'sign only' 20mph speed limits without traffic calming measures which found that this approach had little or no impact on the speed of traffic. The introduction of 20 mph speed limits in residential areas would therefore not alleviate the current requests for traffic calming.

My Department plans to continue to provide 20mph zones with traffic calming, as these are much more effective at reducing speeds, with previous studies showing an average reduction in mean speeds of 9 mph. I also intend to introduce part-time 20 mph speed limits outside more schools given the strong support for the 103 schools included in the first tranche of my programme.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure what research underpins the statement at paragraph 15 of her Department's consultation paper on the review of the implementation of the Planning Act (Northern Ireland) 2011 which states that there is no evidence to suggest this is the time for another fundamental re-examination of the planning system.

Ms Mallon: My view that this is not the time for another fundamental re-examination of the planning system is formed from my ongoing observations and advice on the operation of the planning system and from engagement with key stakeholders.

It has only been 6 years since the planning system was fundamentally reformed in 2015 with the transfer of responsibility for most local planning decisions and plan making going to new local councils, as well as significant reforms to the development management and plan making processes. It is my view that the new system is still 'bedding-down', as the Department, councils and key stakeholders become more familiar with their new planning roles and responsibilities. I do not, therefore, consider that this is the time for further fundamental change.

However, I am keen to use the Review of the Implementation of the 2011 Planning Act to bring forward practical and effective fixes and improvements to the current system as quickly as possible. I will, of course, carefully review all responses to the recent call for evidence and any other relevant material and remain open to consider any improvements and changes that are necessary to the planning system.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she could provide a copy of the most recent traffic assessment of the Crieve Road, Newry.

Ms Mallon: My Department recognises the importance of road safety measures and is committed to exploring solutions that deliver better for communities and improve lives across the North.

My Department does not normally provide copies of internal working documents including traffic assessments. However, I can confirm that the most recent assessment was completed in August 2020 and a footway scheme at this location remains under consideration for possible inclusion in a future works programme.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) whether the detailed options paper is now complete for pedestrian facilities at the McDonald's restaurant on McKinsty Road, Belfast; (ii) whether her Department has now considered the options; and (iii) to detail the timescales for this work to commence.

Ms Mallon: As you are aware my officials from DfI Roads Eastern Division have commissioned a feasibility study on options to improve pedestrian facilities in the vicinity of the new McDonald's restaurant, at the McKinsty Road Roundabout, Derriaghy.

I can confirm that my officials have received an initial report and the consultants are now working on more detailed options.

After the study has been completed and options considered, my Department will then be in a position to advise on possible improvement works and the likely timescales. It is expected that the more detailed findings of this study will be available around the end of June 2021.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what large resurfacing patch schemes are planned for the Bangor area in the current financial year.

Ms Mallon: The 2020/21 resurfacing programme for the Ards and North Down Council area will be finalised once I have taken decisions on my Department's opening budget allocation. Once finalised, details of schemes will be included in the DfI Roads Spring report presented to Ards and North Down District Council prior to general release.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will consider using driving instructors to help ease the driving test waiting lists.

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April 2021 to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests and theory tests on 23 April, with appropriate mitigations in place.

The DVA has considered using Approved Driving Instructors to conduct driving tests but unfortunately this is not a viable option. Driving instructors would require the same level of training to become driving examiners as any new recruit to the DVA. In addition, Directive 2006/126/EC, Article 10, Annex IV, Clause 2.1(e) states that a driving examiner may not be active as a commercial driving instructor in a driving school simultaneously. This means that driving instructors cannot also act as driving examiners. Furthermore, in order to maintain mutual recognition of the driving licence going forwards, the driving test needs to be delivered by examiners who have completed the initial qualification set out in Directive 2006/126/EC, commonly referred to as the 3rd EU Directive.

Following the phased reopening of the practical driving test booking service based on the expiry dates of theory test pass certificates, to give priority to those who have been waiting the longest time, I am pleased to confirm that the booking service for practical driving tests opened for all customers on 10 May 2021, providing everyone with a valid theory test pass certificate with equal opportunity to book a driving test.

The DVA has, and continues, to work hard to increase its capacity to help meet the expected high demand for driving tests. The DVA has taken a range of measures to maximise the availability of test slots, including the recruitment of additional examiners and the provision of new temporary test centres. They will continue to offer driving tests on a Saturday and at certain centres on Sundays where it is suitable to do so without compromising the integrity of the test. Overtime will also be used to rota off-shift dual role driving examiners to provide further capacity. Additional slots are therefore being made available from now until the end of August and bookings for September and October have been released to accommodate more learners.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, however, all driving test services across these islands are experiencing high demand with longer than usual waiting times and I would ask customers for their continued patience.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what resurfacing road schemes are planned for the Bangor area for the current financial year.

Ms Mallon: I refer to my answer to your related question (AQW 18368/17-22).

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what large resurfacing patch schemes are planned for the (i) Donaghadee; and (ii) Millisle areas for the current financial year.

Ms Mallon: I refer to my answer to your related question (AQW 18368/17-22).

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail this year's spending plan for the Southern Roads Division.

Ms Mallon: Budget allocations and associated work programmes for Roads Southern Division for 2021-22 will be finalised following my decisions on the Department's opening budget allocation. Once finalised, details of schemes will be included in the DfI Roads Spring reports presented to the various Councils prior to general release.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she has engaged with colleagues across this island regarding the EU replacement funds set up by the British government, including the absence of a north - south dimension.

Ms Mallon: Minister Ryan and I and our respective departments continue to work closely co- on EU funding related matters. This cooperation was discussed and welcomed at the recent Transport Sectoral meeting of the North South Ministerial Council held on 5 May 2021.

I am also pleased that, as a result of this collaboration, and collaboration with the Department for Housing, Local Government and Heritage the draft PEACE PLUS Programme which recently went out to consultation included transport and waste water infrastructure investment areas proposing an allocation of approximately €197m towards north-south projects.

My Department will continue to make the case for a north-south dimension to be included within any replacement funding programmes set up by the British government.

Mr Givan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department has plans to review the current policy for parking in housing estates.

(AQW 18378/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I understand that this question relates to RSPPG E053 - Car Parking Facilities in Existing Social Housing Estates. My Department is not generally responsible for the provision of parking at residential properties, however as particular traffic progression issues were occurring in older (typically pre-1960s) social housing estates, an agreement was reached with the Housing Executive. During 2007, the Northern Ireland Housing Council asked the then Department to carry out a review of the policy, and subsequently RSPPG E053 was introduced in 2011.

It can be viewed at: <https://www.infrastructure-ni.gov.uk/publications/car-parking-facilities-existing-social-housing-estates-rsppg-e053>

I am advised that no amendments are considered necessary to this policy.

Mr Givan asked the Minister for Infrastructure, given it has been in existence since 2011, what work has been done to amend the policy on parking in housing estates.

Ms Mallon: My Department is not generally responsible for the provision of parking at residential properties, however as particular traffic progression issues were occurring in older (typically pre-1960s) social housing estates, an agreement was reached with the Housing Executive. During 2007, The Northern Ireland Housing Council asked the then Department to carry out a review of the policy, and subsequently RSPPG E053 - Car Parking Facilities in Existing Social Housing Estates was introduced in 2011. It can be viewed at: <https://www.infrastructure-ni.gov.uk/publications/car-parking-facilities-existing-social-housing-estates-rsppg-e053>

I am advised that no amendments has been made to this policy since its introduction, and none are considered necessary.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail (i) any further measures she is considering for Portrush and Portstewart in relation to traffic calming measures, beyond those already announced, in order to mitigate the negative consequences of car cruises in the towns; and (ii) the latest conversations she has had with the various stakeholders involved in this issue.

Ms Mallon: My Department has recently installed traffic calming measures, in the form of road humps, on Lansdowne Road in Portrush with the aim of limiting vehicle speeds and improving pedestrian safety. I understand that senior officials from Northern Division are also engaging with PSNI, and met with the District Commander as recently as 7 May 2021, to discuss a number of traffic related issues in the area including exploring the possibility of implementing additional traffic calming measures in Portstewart and Portrush.

Driver and Vehicle Agency technical officers also work closely with the police and carry out inspections on modified cars stopped by Police in the Portrush and Portstewart areas which can result in the issuing of Prohibition Notices to drivers or immediate bans from use on our roads due to dangerous defects.

As Minister responsible for promoting and improving road safety, I am committed to working collaboratively with all partners to ensure that we can reduce death and serious injuries on our roads. I am committed to ensuring that my officials in the DVA continue to support the PSNI, and other agencies, to conduct compliance checks on vehicles using our roads, taking the appropriate enforcement action as required.

I also look forward to the outcome of a noise camera trial commissioned by the Department for Transport in GB and how this exciting new technology could potentially alleviate the negative consequences of car cruises and help us lead the way in making our towns and cities quieter throughout Northern Ireland.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Infrastructure how the cycling, walking and roads infrastructure is to be developed to maximise the potential of the £36 million investment by Lisburn and Castlereagh City Council in the Dundonald International Ice Bowl.

Ms Mallon: As a statutory consultee to the planning authorities, my Department was consulted on the planning application for the proposed redevelopment of Dundonald International Ice Bowl.

In assessing the transport impacts of this planning application, my Department considered that the site is already well served by the existing public road network, pedestrian footways and public transport services and that adequate parking facilities will be provided for patrons. Furthermore a shared footway/cycleway to be provided within the site will connect to a new pedestrian/cycle bridge that will provide a direct connection to the Comber Greenway nearby and this will enable residents and visitors to access the Dundonald Leisure Park by walking, running, wheeling or cycling along this safe and traffic-free link.

Between 2017 and 2019, my Department spent £520k on works to resurface and widen over 7km of the Comber Greenway and are currently considering a number of other possible enhancements. My Department also provided substantial grant funding to Lisburn and Castlereagh City Council for the new pedestrian / cycle bridge. Given the measures proposed, I do not consider it necessary for my Department to provide additional transport infrastructure for the proposed redevelopment of the Dundonald International Ice Bowl.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the Transport Plan for Belfast.

Ms Mallon: My Department is currently developing a new suite of Transport Plans which includes the Belfast Metropolitan Transport Plan (BMTP). This will address future plans for roads, public transport and active travel within the five councils whose spatial area falls within the Belfast Metropolitan Urban Area (BMUA).

My officials are currently engaged with the five Councils which includes Belfast City Council, Lisburn and Castlereagh City Council, Ards and North Down Borough Council, Antrim and Newtownabbey Borough Council, and Mid and East Antrim District Council. The new BMTP aims to maximise integration between the Department's transport planning and the Councils' land use planning process. A key element will be to ensure that, as far as possible, new development is planned to make use of sustainable modes of transport and that major new transport infrastructure is planned to deal with current and future travel demand, in line with government and councils' outcomes.

A Belfast Metropolitan Transport Study (BMTS), which includes individual Transport Studies for each Council area, has been published on my Department's website. The BMTS set out an objective evidence-based assessment of current and future transport issues in the context of the Councils' growth ambitions.

The BMTP will be integrated with the formal Local Development Plan processes, so the timescales for completing the Draft Plan and its release for public consultation are still under review. However, work on the next phase of the BMTP is ongoing, and I am determined that the Transport Plan for Belfast will take account of the shared objectives for our towns and cities within the Greater Belfast area, and will deliver reduced levels of commuting by private car and greater use of sustainable modes of transport including public transport, walking and cycling.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) why her Department, as a partner in the All-Ireland Pollinator Scheme, does not have a proposed programme to re-wild all existing road verges and central reserves; and (ii) whether her Department has any plans to introduce such a programme in the current financial year.

Ms Mallon: As partner and supporter of the All-Ireland Pollinator Plan (AIPP) my Department recognises that road verges are an important habitat for many species of insects and animals. Having devised the specific AIPP Action, to promote pollinator-friendly management of the strategic road network in NI, my department is committed to reviewing its environmental policies to promote pollinator-friendly practices and to encourage their inclusion on road schemes, where practicable.

At present my Department does not have a proposed programme to re-wild existing road-verges and central reserves, or plans to create this within the financial year. My Department manages vegetation across the road network in a number of ways, with the primary aim of maintaining road safety whilst also protecting wildlife and taking care to preserve their habitats. In this regard our current grass cutting policy attempts to achieve a balance between road safety, the control of noxious weeds and environmental protection.

Relevant AIPP actions are already incorporated within our requirements for the delivery of new major road projects. A practical example of this is the planting regime for the A6 Dungiven to Drumahoe Dualling scheme which includes the provision of wildflower seeding for approximately 200,000m<sup>2</sup> over a number of locations throughout the 25.5km project. The seed mixture will consist of 60% Irish Native Wildflowers and 40% Ornamental Grasses, and include important native plants for pollinators. This planting regime also includes mixed native hedgerow planting.

At a local level action is also being taken, my officials continue to work with councils across the North to identify potential sites for to re-wild all existing roadside areas and central reserves and roadside areas which could be managed under a wild flower regime, "Don't Mow, let it grow". These areas need to be considered understanding road safety concerns and workforce priorities.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure why her Department will provide wildflower seeding for only 200,000 square metres of the 25.5km A6 Dungiven to Drumahoe dualling scheme.

Ms Mallon: The landscaping for the A6 Dungiven to Drumahoe dualling scheme was considered as part of the Environmental Assessment, which was further developed during detailed design of the scheme. The amount of wildflower seeding being provided on the A6 Dungiven to Drumahoe dualling scheme also takes account of other landscape objectives such as screening, integration and protection of the existing landscape character.

In addition to the wildflower seeding, the scheme will also incorporate approximately 800,000 square metres of native woodland and shrub planting, and approximately 80,000m of native hedgerow planting.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail where new dropped kerbs are under consideration for the Bangor area.

(AQW 18461/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I can confirm that my officials are currently developing plans for the delivery of a range of Local Transport and Safety Measures, including dropped kerbs for the Ards and North Down Council area.

When the budget is confirmed, the annual works programme will be finalised with details included in the annual DfI Roads report provided to Ards and North Down Council, before it is published online.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will prioritise or apply selection criteria to people on the driving test waiting list.

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests and theory tests on 23 April, with appropriate mitigations in place.

The reopening of the practical driving test booking service was phased, based on the expiry dates of theory test pass certificates, to give priority to those who have been waiting the longest time. I am pleased to confirm that following this, the booking service for practical driving tests opened for all customers on 10 May 2021, providing everyone with a valid theory test pass certificate with equal opportunity to book a driving test.

The DVA is also continuing to work with the Department of Health on priority applications for key workers whose jobs are ancillary to medical, health or social care services and who need to drive for their work. If a critical worker meets these requirements, their employer must contact the DVA and identify staff in these priority groups. The DVA will then try to make priority appointments for both theory and practical driving tests. The DVA are not in a position to consider any applications that do not meet the above criteria.

The DVA has, and continues, to work hard to increase its capacity to help meet the expected high demand for driving tests. The DVA has taken a range of measures to maximise the availability of test slots, including the recruitment of additional examiners and the provision of new temporary test centres. They will continue to offer driving tests on a Saturday and at certain centres on Sundays where it is suitable to do so without compromising the integrity of the test. Overtime will also be used to rota off-shift dual role driving examiners to provide further capacity. Additional slots are therefore being made available from now until the end of August and bookings for September and October have been released to accommodate more learners. Driver theory testing has resumed at the six established test centres, with additional slots at each location and extended opening hours being provided to help address the increased demand. An additional temporary test centre, which will be located in Ballymena, will also be opened that can provide around 1,000 test slots per week. Customers can book appointments through the online theory test booking system, with priority initially being given to customers whose tests have been affected by the suspension of theory test services due to Covid-19 restrictions.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, however, all driving test services across these islands are experiencing high demand with longer than usual waiting times and I would ask customers for their continued patience.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure how many parking tickets have been issued for Church Road and Fort Road in Helens Bay, over the last three month period.

Ms Mallon: There were 133 Penalty Charge Notices (PCNs) issued on Church Road, and no PCNs issued on Fort Road, during the months of February, March and April 2021.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will consider the resurfacing of the Draperstown to Desertmartin road.

Ms Mallon: The B40 Draperstown Road to Desertmartin road is approximately 8 km long. In 2019 a 1.8km stretch, from the A29 Tobermore Road junction to the U5198 Nutgrove Road, was resurfaced. A further 2.1km section, from the U5204 Drumard Road to U5197 Brackalislea Road, is included in the 2021/22 resurfacing programme.

When this year's scheme is complete, approximately 50% of the B40 between Draperstown and Desertmartin will have been resurfaced since 2019. Any further resurfacing will be prioritised alongside other competing schemes in the district for inclusion in future works programmes.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure how her Department is responding to problems being experienced with the online booking systems for driving tests since it was fully reopened on 10 May.

Ms Mallon: The Driver and Vehicle Agency's (DVA) driving test booking system opened to all customers at 10am, Monday 10 May. As anticipated, there was significant demand for bookings and while there were some technical issues, which resulted in the queue being paused for a short period of time, these were quickly resolved. The online booking service remains open and I am pleased that thousands of customers have successfully booked an appointment. The queue management system will remain in place to manage the demand and keep the system working.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, however, all driving test services across these islands are experiencing high demand and I would ask customers for their continued patience.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the development of a new Road Safety Strategy.

Ms Mallon: Work on the Road Safety Strategy had been impacted by the Covid-19 crisis and the prioritisation of resources to the work on the Financial Assistance Schemes, however officials continue to work on it at pace.

In developing the new Road Safety Strategy, officials will engage with key stakeholders in advance of a formal consultation. The draft Road Safety Strategy will be issued as soon as possible but I can assure you that road safety is integral to the work of the Department and it continues each and every day with initiatives such as the 20 mph scheme at schools; the road safety grant scheme; the introduction of tougher penalties for mobile phone use while driving; and enforcement actions by the DVA, in collaboration with the PSNI. There are also regular meetings with the Chief Constable on road safety.

Department of Justice

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Justice whether the Paramilitary Crime Multi-Agency Taskforce has met to discuss the antisocial behaviour throughout Northern Ireland relating to protests against the Irish Sea Border.

Mrs Long (The Minister of Justice): The PCTF is an operational multi-agency task force which has a dedicated focus on paramilitary groups and associated criminality. It consists of PSNI, HMRC and NCA. The PCTF, as a law enforcement structure, is fully sighted on the wider policing response to recent public disorder.

The priorities of the Paramilitary Crime Task Force is an operational matter for the Chief Constable and I respect the Chief Constable's operational independence on this matter. Any questions regarding discussions between the partners in the PCTF should be directed to the Chief Constable.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Justice (i) to detail the number of SID (Speed Indicator Devices) that have been deployed across Northern Ireland by Police and Community Safety Partnerships by Council area, and (ii) whether she will review the data being captured by the temporary SID Signs to develop a permanent solution.

Mrs Long: Policing and Community Safety Partnerships (PCSPs) are funded jointly by the Department of Justice and the Northern Ireland Policing Board in each of the eleven Council areas. They work to prioritise local community safety concerns within their areas and produce annual action plans to deliver practical solutions to address these.

In recent years, road safety has increasingly been identified as a local community safety issue in many areas. In response, PCSPs have commissioned and delivered school-based and youth-targeted road safety education and awareness raising initiatives. Following growing concern over excessive speed on local roads, PCSPs have also helped fund the introduction and deployment of Speed Indicator Devices (SIDs).

Working in partnership with local PSNI and Department for Infrastructure (DfI) personnel, PCSPs have provided a total of 98 static and 34 mobile SIDs. A list of PCSP-provided SIDs by Council area is provided in the attached table.

The data captured by these devices is governed and shared locally with the PCSP, PSNI, DfI and relevant community organisations. Following analysis, the data is used by the PSNI to identify traffic patterns and informs the deployment of enforcement teams. The data can also be beneficial to DfI when they are considering where to place new traffic calming measures.

SIDs are a useful tool as part of the broader panoply of measures used to improve road safety outcomes. They also help foster positive engagement between the PCSP, police and local communities. Any longer plan to further enhance road safety would be the policy responsibility of DfI.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Justice (i) how community groups in Derry's Creggan and Bogside areas are chosen for consultation; and (ii) on what basis the Creggan Community Forum is recognised as a representative and inclusive cross-community organisation.

Mrs Long: Any public consultation undertaken by the Department of Justice is published online and advertised in the normal manner: representations are welcome from anyone who wishes to respond. In the case of more targeted consultations, those with particular interest or expertise may be invited to participate in the process. No consultations specific to the Creggan or Bogside are being or have been recently undertaken by my Department.

Registration and/or accreditation of community organisations is generally a matter for Local Government and the Department for Communities. I understand that Creggan Community Forum brings together a wide range of interests from the area including community, schools, sports, youth workers and business.

Both I and my officials met with the Forum in recent weeks, along with local MLAs who requested the meeting. We also recently met with others in the wider Derry City & Strabane area including the Mayor of Derry City & Strabane, Brian Tierney, other elected representatives from across the City, including in the Waterside area, as well as a number of community development workers, youth workers and school Principals.

Our engagement at this time is focused on joining up efforts across Government and ensuring that those efforts are appropriately targeted to advance our Departmental objectives. Any representations on how that can be best achieved are welcomed.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Justice to detail (i) who is responsible for the regulation of Drones in Northern Ireland; (ii) the number of complaints received by the PSNI for inappropriate drone activity during 2019/2020 and 2020/2021; and (iii) how she intends to promote better understanding of the regulation of drone use.

Mrs Long: The Air Navigation Order 2016 requires anyone who controls or flies a drone outdoors to register with the Civil Aviation Authority and places restrictions on the use of small unmanned aircraft. Civil aviation is a reserved matter and is the responsibility of The Department for Transport in Westminster whom you may wish to write to directly on this matter.

You may also wish to engage directly with PSNI regarding the number of complaints received relating to the use of drones and note that information on drones is readily available on the PSNI website via the following link:

https://www.psnipolice.uk/advice\_information/drones---small-unmanned-aircraft/drone-faqs/

Mr Middleton asked the Minister of Justice to outline what her Department is doing to support the PSNI with additional funding for the security of officers and their families.

Mrs Long: The safety and security of police officers and their families are of paramount importance to my Department, the Policing Board and, of course, the Chief Constable and resources are available to police officers who are facing direct threats and intimidation. I recently met with the Secretary of State and we discussed the general security situation and the types of challenges that the PSNI is currently facing.

Following the confirmation of the PSNI's final budget allocation for 2021-22, which is still subject to debate and vote by the Assembly, there has been an additional in-year allocation of £12.3 million. Decisions on the prioritisation of resources allocated to PSNI are ultimately a matter for the Chief Constable, who is accountable to the Northern Ireland Policing Board.

I remain fully committed to working with Executive Colleagues, including the Minister of Finance, and the Chief Constable to ensure we have a police service that is properly resourced in all aspects for the challenges it faces.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Justice for an update on (i) steps she is taking to prevent cases of child human trafficking in Northern Ireland; (ii) the number of charges of child human trafficking in Northern Ireland in the last five years; and (iii) current support available for victims of child human trafficking.

Mrs Long: Equipping Northern Ireland to identify and eradicate modern slavery and human trafficking is a key priority for me as Justice Minister and my Department will shortly publish the 2021/22 Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Strategy which sets out key actions to pursue offenders; protect victims, including child victims; and prevent trafficking in all its forms. The latest annual strategy reflects views expressed during the consultation for greater visibility of children's issues, which will also be considered further in the development of a longer term three year strategy, subject to approval of relevant provisions in the forthcoming Justice Bill.

Delivery of strategic objectives requires close cooperation with other key agencies and non-statutory partners. The PSNI and Health and Social Care Trusts (HSCs), have operational responsibility for the investigation of all forms of child abuse, including human trafficking, and ensuring the effective protection of children. These organisations are represented on the DoJ Organised Crime Task Force subgroup on Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking, a forum in which partners identify and respond to issues of concern. The PSNI has recently reviewed and updated training material to ensure that front line officers are better able to recognise the potential risk factors in a human trafficking case and the indicators of potential trafficking of children.

In relation to charges, I am advised that while cases are pursued and in some instances other offences prosecuted, there have not been any charges brought in relation to human trafficking offences in respect of children in the past five years in Northern Ireland. The Public Prosecution Service is currently consulting on its revised Policy for Prosecuting Cases of Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking. The consultation ends on 13th May 2021. The consultation can be found at:

<https://www.ppsni.gov.uk/publications/policy-prosecuting-cases-modern-slavery-and-human-trafficking-draft-consultation>

In Northern Ireland the number of children who enter the National Referral Mechanism (NRM) is low, in comparison with other areas in the UK. The latest available figures show that 128 potential victims were identified in Northern Ireland in 2020; 99 were adults; 20 were children; and 9 of unknown age. The majority of children who enter the National Referral Mechanism are unaccompanied separated children potentially seeking asylum. However these children are quite often exploited in other countries on their journey to Northern Ireland. The Health and Social Care Board commissions Barnardos to deliver the Independent Guardian Service in line with Section 21 of the Human Trafficking and Exploitation (Criminal Justice Support for Victims) Act (NI) 2015.

The Working Arrangements for the Welfare and Safeguarding of Child Victims and Potential Child Victims of Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking have been produced by the HSCB and PSNI, in consultation with DoJ and DoH. These arrangements set out the pathways for supporting child victims, which are delivered through existing provision by the Health and Social Care Trusts. The arrangements note that any child or young person who is known or suspected to be a victim of human trafficking or modern slavery is by definition a child in need of protection and should be subject of an investigation under the provisions of Article 66 of the Children Order (a child protection investigation). A needs assessment is conducted in such cases and an Independent Guardian is appointed to represent the child's best interests. The document can be found at:

Ms Anderson asked the Minister of Justice to provide a breakdown of money that her Department has invested in the triangle area of the Waterside, Foyle, over the past 5 years.

Mrs Long: My Department has made no specific investment in the triangle area of the Waterside, Foyle, over the past 5 financial years from 2016-17 to 2020-21; however, my Department provides funding to a number of organisations in the Voluntary and Community sector who provide services throughout Northern Ireland, including the Foyle Constituency. Records are not kept in a manner that would make it possible to break funding down into the format requested.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Justice how much funding has been set aside by her Department and its arm's-length bodies to celebrate the Northern Ireland Centenary.

Mrs Long: No funding has been set aside by my Department and its arm's-length bodies to celebrate the Northern Ireland Centenary.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Justice to outline (i) the powers the police have relating to drinking in public places; and (ii) whether consideration has been given to reviewing the effectiveness of these powers.

Mrs Long: Police powers to curb on street drinking are manifested in a number of different pieces of legislation. The Local Government Act (Northern Ireland) 1972 gives district councils the power to make bye-laws prohibiting consumption of intoxicating liquor in public places. Once an area is designated, it is an offence to consume alcohol in that area. This legislation provides police and council officers the power to take the name and address of offenders for consideration of prosecution, although it is the Council who proceed with that prosecution and there is no power to remove alcohol from individuals. The Department for Communities (DfC) has responsibility for this legislation.

Part 5, Articles 68 – 72, of the Criminal Justice (NI) Order 2008, brought forward on behalf of the then Department of Social Development, now DfC, aimed to address the lack of power to remove alcohol in the existing bye-law system. These provisions were intended to allow for the seizure of open containers which contain, or had at any time contained, intoxicating liquor in designated areas. Subsequent legal advice has confirmed these provisions do not contain any power to seize alcohol and consequently Articles 68 - 72 of the Order have not yet been commenced.

In the meantime, the Department of Justice has provided police with additional powers, via the Justice Act (Northern Ireland) 2011, to issue fixed penalty notices for a number of public order offences related to public drinking including being drunk in a public place, indecent behaviour, disorderly behaviour and behaviour likely to cause a breach of the peace.

With regards to young people, police have powers under the Confiscation of Alcohol (Young Persons) Act 1997, allowing them to request the surrender of alcohol from under 18's and for the disposal of alcohol surrendered. Again there is no power to seize alcohol although failure to comply with this request is an offence which may lead to arrest.

A review of the effectiveness of on street drinking legislation, including Part 5 of the Criminal Justice (NI) Order 2008 and Council byelaws, is included in the current ASB Legislation Review on which my Department leads a multi-agency Delivery Group. My officials are engaging with the PSNI and DfC, as the Department with overarching responsibility for alcohol legislation, with a view to ensuring relevant legislation is appropriate to address this issue.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Justice to detail a timescale for the implementation of the Adult Restorative Justice Strategy and associated Action Plan.

Mrs Long: A public consultation on proposals for an Adult Restorative Justice Strategy was held in 2020. A summary of responses report was developed and presented to the Justice Committee in March 2021 as part of an oral briefing by my officials. This report is currently being finalised to ensure it meets accessibility criteria for those who may require assistive technology, and then it will be published. Copies will be provided to all those who were engaged in the consultation process.

Once published, the Working Group, which developed the consultation document, will be reconvened to finalise the Strategy and develop a multi-year Action Plan for implementation of the key priorities identified. I anticipate that a finalised Strategy and Action Plan will be available in the Autumn; the documents will be presented to the Justice Committee once available.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Justice for an update on the implementation of the Adult Restorative Justice Strategy and associated Action Plan.

Mrs Long: I refer to my previous answer to AQW 18482/17-22, which details my Department's plans to finalise and implement the Adult Restorative Justice Strategy and Action Plan, along with approximate timescales for this work.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Justice to detail the number of domestic abuse incidents and crimes, reported per constituency, in each of the past five years.

Mrs Long: The Department does not hold the information requested. The recording of information on offences related to domestic abuse which have been reported to the police is a matter for the Chief Constable, who is accountable to the Northern Ireland Policing Board. I am committed to respecting the operational independence of the Chief Constable and the role of the Northern Ireland Policing Board.

You may, therefore, wish to direct your question to the PSNI.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Justice to outline what legislation applies to the theft of lead fittings from buildings.

(AQW 18586/17-22)

Mrs Long: The Theft (Northern Ireland) Act 1969 applies to all instances of theft, including the items to which you refer.

Depending on circumstances the Theft (Northern Ireland) Order 1978 and the Criminal Damage (Northern Ireland) Order 1977 may also apply.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Justice to detail what laws govern facial recognition technologies in Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18605/17-22)

Mrs Long: There is currently no specific legislative provision governing the use of facial recognition technology in Northern Ireland. However, the Data Protection Act 2018 (DPA) which implements the EU's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and Law Enforcement Directive is applicable to all uses of facial recognition technology, both private and public. Part 3 of DPA implements the Directive governing the police use of data. The Human Rights Act is also of relevance.

Department for the Economy

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for the Economy (i) for an update on the Limited Company Director's Support Scheme; and (ii) to detail the number of grants paid to date.

Mrs Dodds (The Minister for the Economy): In the rolling out of the Limited Company Director's Support Scheme, a potential issue was identified relating to the tax treatment of the proposed grant. In order to prevent retrospective difficulties for applicants, the decision was taken to pause the processing of applications until a solution to the tax treatment issue was identified. Whilst I appreciate that this delay is frustrating for applicants it was considered the best approach to reduce the overall administrative burden and delay of payments.

After taking advice from relevant stakeholders, including HMRC, a solution to allow payments to proceed has been identified. Invest NI, who manage the scheme on behalf of my Department, has written to all relevant applicants providing an update and seeking all relevant additional information to enable processing of applications to proceed.

The first payments under the scheme were issued 19 March 2021 and to date £476k in support has been provided. Invest NI remain committed to assessing and verifying all outstanding applications, and processing payments, to eligible applicants as quickly as possible.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy for a list of stakeholders that Hatch Regeneris has engaged with in their recent consultation.

Mrs Dodds: Hatch Regeneris has been undertaking independent research into the environmental, social and economic impacts of onshore petroleum exploration and development in Northern Ireland. Hatch has engaged with a range of government stakeholders listed in alphabetical order below and has also engaged with seven industry, community and environmental organisations. The Department is unable to release the specific details of the industry, community and environmental stakeholders due to commercial and privacy sensitivities.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister for the Economy to outline what her Department is doing to address the need for a pay uplift for lecturers in further education colleges.

Mrs Dodds: I recognise and value the important contribution which lecturers in our further education (FE) colleges make to building our economy and improving the skills and life outcomes for learners, including many of the most vulnerable in our society. FE colleges as employers are responsible for setting the pay and conditions of their employees and my Department has not been involved in the negotiations on lecturers' pay and conditions that have been taking place between Trade Union Side (TUS) and the College Employers' Forum (CEF), which represents college management.

However, under Managing Public Money (NI) which sets out the principles which public sector organisations are required to follow when dealing with public resources, the FE colleges, as Non-Departmental Public Bodies, are required to refer to the Department for the Economy (DfE), as their sponsor department, any activities which appear novel, contentious or repercussive. The guidance also specifically requires the sponsor department to exercise "meaningful oversight of the ALB's (arm's length body) strategy and performance, pay arrangements...."

As a result, if and when an agreement is reached between the CEF and TUS through the negotiations, any resulting Business Case will have to be referred to the Department for appraisal prior to seeking my approval.

In the meantime, it is important that the negotiations are afforded the space needed to reach agreement. While I would encourage both the trade unions and the colleges to continue to engage constructively in the negotiations in order to limit any impact on learners, it would be inappropriate for me to comment further at this time

Mr Allister asked the Minister for the Economy for her Department's estimate of the percentage of laws affecting the Northern Ireland economy which now fall to be made not in Belfast or London, but in Brussels.

Mrs Dodds: Of the 325 high-level EU legislative instruments which will continue to apply to Northern Ireland by virtue of the Protocol on Ireland/Northern Ireland, around a third are relevant to the Department for the Economy (DfE).

The current working assessment that 35 of these instruments concern devolved policy areas that are wholly or partly the responsibility of DfE; and that 78 concern non-devolved areas in which DfE has varying degrees of policy interest (see table below).

There is no reliable measure of these laws as a proportion of the total body of domestic laws affecting the economy.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister for the Economy to outline what engagement she has had, or plans to have, with the Minister of Education regarding the provision of childcare to facilitate parents return to work and aid economic recovery.

Mrs Dodds: The Department of Education leads on childcare issues. I have engaged with the Minister for Education as part of considerations at the Executive on the importance of childcare, particularly as an enabler of economic recovery.

Dr Archibald asked the Minister for the Economy given that under the Health Protection (Coronavirus, Restrictions) Regulations travel was only permitted for specified purposes, whether she will revise the Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme: Part B to include travel agents that have faced loss of business as a result of overseas travel cancellations.

Mrs Dodds: The Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme (CRBSS) was launched to meet the needs of businesses specifically named as having to close or cease trading in the Health Protection Regulations, but which were not eligible for the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme.

A further element to CRBSS (Part B) was launched to support businesses which were not named in the Health Protection Regulations, but which were impacted by the closure of businesses that were named. This might be because they supply such a business or are otherwise reliant upon them being open and fully operational in order to trade.

Depending upon a travel agency's business model, they may have been eligible for Part B of CRBSS (e.g. if they were engaged in domestic tourism activity and therefore impacted by the closure of named businesses such as hotels or tourism attractions).

Businesses which were not named in the Health Protection Regulations, or which were not impacted by the closure of a named business, were unfortunately not eligible for the scheme.

At this stage, there are no plans to re-open the CRBSS or revise its criteria.

In addition to CRBSS Part B, you will be aware of the Executive Office Travel Agent Scheme which operated in March, and will pay out up to £10,000 to eligible travel agents.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy in relation to the COVID-19 Feminist Recovery Plan published in July 2020, (i) to detail her assessment of its recommendations; (ii) what steps her Department intends to take in relation to its recommendations; and (iii) to outline how its recommendations are being factored into future Programme for Government outcomes.

Mrs Dodds:

- (i) The recommendations set out in COVID-19 Feminist Recovery Plan ("the Plan") published in July 2020 are comprehensive and wide ranging. The Plan provides a thorough analysis of how the pandemic has affected women and offers policy recommendations to address gender inequalities through the Covid Recovery agenda. This includes reducing the gender pay gap, ensuring women have the appropriate skills to access digital technologies, support rural women and SME participation in the digital economy, and strengthening access to high quality broadband. It also notes that many of the issues raised are long standing issues and not directly related to the impact of Covid-19, although may have been compounded by the pandemic.
- (ii) The Woman's Policy Group's plan is a welcome contribution to the Economic Recovery conversation. Whilst many of the recommendations set out in the Plan fall outside the remit of my Department a number of them will have been supported and bolstered by the actions contained in my Economic Recovery Action plan. For example, the actions designed to support a highly skilled and agile work force include looking to the future skills needs and working closely with industry and key sectors to upskill and reskill our people. This includes support for woman returners in digital roles and work to improve participation rates and progression of girls and women in STEM education and employment.

Economic recovery is and will remain for some time a huge challenge, therefore I welcome input to wider economic recovery discussion from all sectors of the community.

- (iii) In relation to Programme for Government (“PfG”), I understand that the Women’s Policy Group have corresponded directly to The Executive Office (“TEO”) on the draft PfG Outcomes Framework. My Department will continue to feed into the wider development of the PfG, however overall responsibility for the development of outcomes rests with TEO.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for the Economy to detail the support available for small business start ups.
(AQW 18074/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I would refer the member to the answer I gave in AQW 16409 17-22.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for the Economy to detail the level of foreign direct investment secured over the last two financial years.
(AQW 18075/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: In 2018-19 and 2019-20 Invest NI support has helped secure investments from over 190 externally owned companies, including new and repeat investors. These companies have committed to creating 5,177 jobs and a total investment of £578m in the Northern Ireland economy. This information is readily available on Open Data NI, where Invest NI publishes five years of data on its financial support to businesses.

Information on the most recent financial year, 2020-21 will be available in due course, usually in June, once Invest NI has completed its end of year validation exercise.

Invest NI’s support to help businesses grow ranges from expert advice and guidance to a wide portfolio of financial support towards productivity improvements, skills development, strategic planning, job creation, Research & Development, technical capability and exporting.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy to outline any engagement she has had with Queen’s University, Belfast in relation to the ongoing industrial dispute involving its crèche workers.

Mrs Dodds: I am aware of the ongoing industrial action by crèche workers in Queen’s University Belfast. I respect the right of staff to take part in mandated industrial action and recognise that these decisions are not taken lightly.

However, whilst the Department provides funding and sets the strategic direction for the sector in Northern Ireland, universities are autonomous institutions and are responsible for their own policies and procedures, including those related to conditions of employment. Therefore this is a matter for Queen’s University Belfast, as the employer, and the staff trade unions to resolve.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy to detail the collaborative work carried out with other Departments, in particular the Department for Infrastructure and the Department for Communities, in developing the new energy strategy.

Mrs Dodds: I recognise that the development and delivery of a new Energy Strategy requires a joined-up approach across the Executive. That is why my department has led a significant collaborative work programme across central government and also involving local government, arms-length bodies, the energy industry and other key stakeholders.

The structures put in place include a Government Stakeholders Group, which bring together all departments with a remit for energy policy; the Department for Infrastructure (DfI) and Department for Communities (DfC) are both members of this. Officials from DfI and DfC, along with other departments including the Department for Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs and the Department for Infrastructure (DfI), are represented on working groups of relevance to their policy remits. In addition, DfI leads the Transport Working Group for the Energy Strategy.

The success of this collaborative approach is clearly evidenced through the Energy Strategy Policy Options Consultation published at the end of March, which covers the full breadth of energy policy issues across the Executive.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy (i) to what extent will the implementation and ongoing policy development of the new Energy Strategy be carried out by departmental officials, and external staff; and (ii) for the anticipated cost of utilising external staff for these roles.

Mrs Dodds: Whilst my department is leading on the development of the Executive’s new Energy Strategy, responsibility for policy development rests with officials from all departments with an energy remit. We have brought these officials together through the Energy Strategy Government Stakeholders Group and the five working groups (consumers, energy efficiency, heat, power and transport).

We have ensured external input to the policy development process through a range of routes including the Call for Evidence, stakeholder groups, working groups, the Expert Panel and an ongoing research and analytical work programme. The current consultation also provides a further opportunity for external input to its development. However, decision making for energy policies remains the responsibility of departmental officials, not external representatives.

The role of external staff – for example through regulated companies or delivery bodies – in implementing future energy policies will depend on the priorities identified through the Energy Strategy and will be specific to each individual energy intervention. It is not possible to anticipate the role and associated costs of external staff at this stage in the strategy development process.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for the Economy how much funding has been set aside by her Department and its arm's-length bodies to celebrate the Northern Ireland Centenary.

Mrs Dodds: Officials in my Department have sought funding from both the Northern Ireland Office and the Department of Finance in relation to events aimed celebrating and marking the Centenary of Northern Ireland.

A number of bids were submitted to the Department of Finance in November of last year as part of the New Decade New Approach.

My Department and arms-length bodies continue to work closely to put together a programme of events to mark the centenary of Northern Ireland and to promote our economy.

The programme includes a number of global showcase events which will use the Centenary of Northern Ireland as a springboard to economic recovery.

We will use these events to celebrate Northern Ireland's rich industrial and manufacturing heritage of the past 100 years whilst promoting our economic recovery and setting out economic vision for the next decade on a global stage.

My Officials have also held discussions with the Northern Ireland Office regarding funding for a centenary Investment Conference. Due to Covid restrictions and the need for certainty around planning, that conference has now been postponed until March 2022, discussions around its funding remain ongoing.

The projected cost of the programme including the Investment Conference totals £2.25million, it is expected that the funding requirements will be met from within existing budgets.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy what she is doing to challenge fire and re-hire practices.

Mrs Dodds: I refer the member to my response to AQW 17614/17-22.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy what monitoring her Department undertaking in relation to hospitality employers that withhold wages to workers.

(AQW 18162/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The Department for the Economy does not collect or hold information on employers who withhold staff wages in the hospitality or any business sector.

Employees should check their payslip and contract of employment and/or engage with their employer to see if there is an explanation as to why they have not received their full pay. Employees who believe illegal deductions have been taken from their wages may be able to complain to an Industrial Tribunal.

Anyone who finds themselves in this position may wish to consider contacting the Labour Relations Agency - Workplace Information Service on 03300 555 300 for confidential and impartial information.

In addition, the Law Centre NI provides free, independent, specialist legal advice (subject to capacity) on employment rights. The Law Centre can be contacted on its advice line on 028 9024 4401 or by email: employmentadvice@lawcentreni.org.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister for the Economy to outline the grant support provided by her Department for business start-ups.

Mrs Dodds: There is a wide range of support, financial and advisory, available from Invest NI and other organisations, for people considering starting a business.

The Northern Ireland Business Start Up Programme (NIBSUP), promoted under the Go for it (<https://www.goforitni.com/>) brand and delivered by Northern Ireland's 11 councils, is available to all potential new start businesses. The programme provides one-to-one support from an experienced business advisor, with help to develop a practical business plan and referral to follow on support options.

Besides Invest NI's role in NIBSUP, it provides a wide range of support, financial and advisory, to new start businesses:

- Propel Pre-Accelerator: delivered by IGNITE, a UK-based start-up support and investment network. The programme offers workshops, tutorials, networking opportunities, mentoring, financial support and access to investment.
- Start Ups with export potential: Such businesses can also access support for product development, skills development, market development, strategy development and well as support for job creation. High potential start-ups may also apply to five equity and debt funds as part of Invest NI's Access to Finance (<https://www.investni.com/support-for-business/funding-through-loans-and-equity>) portfolio.

Invest NI also works closely with other partners such as:

- Techstart: Proof of concept: providing grant support for entrepreneurs to explore the viability and commercial potential of an innovative concept.
- Catalyst: CO-founders: is open to individuals and teams who are interested in product development and start-ups, focused on science, technology and engineering.

Information on the wide range of support available to start ups is available through Invest NI's Business Support team on 0800 181 4422 or enquiry@investni.com.

Invest NI also provides a comprehensive range of information on www.nibusinessinfo.co.uk. Two parts of the website are particularly helpful for start-up businesses - My New Business (<https://www.nibusinessinfo.co.uk/my-new-business>) and Starting a business A to Z (<https://www.nibusinessinfo.co.uk/content/starting-business-z>).

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy to detail the (i) conversations had with; and (ii) advice given to bars and restaurants in relation to the rules on outdoor seating areas, prior to 30 April 2021.

Mrs Dodds: This is not within the remit of my Department. This is for the Department of Health.

Mr Stalford asked the Minister for the Economy what progress has been made to replace the funding shortfall to Invest NI regarding local Foreign Direct Investment.

(AQW 18188/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Invest NI is working closely with businesses and continues to support them to set-up, to expand and to attract new investors into Northern Ireland. Invest NI is very much open for business and welcome approaches from businesses seeking support.

Where there is a deficit in funding, relevant bids will be submitted to the Department of Finance through normal monitoring processes.

The Minister for Finance leads on fiscal policy and the replacement of EU funding. The UK Government has announced new UK-wide domestic funds to replace historic Structural Funds. These are competitive funds and the NI Executive has no role in determining what projects will be supported. Arms-Length Bodies will be encouraged to submit bids for relevant projects and Programmes.

Mr Irwin asked the Minister for the Economy (i) what action is required by a retailer for inclusion in the High Street Voucher Scheme stimulus package; and (ii) what sectors are included as voucher spend outlets.

Mrs Dodds: A process of consultation and engagement is being planned for stakeholders in the retail and hospitality sectors, in order to ensure key messages and materials are provided in advance of scheme implementation.

Further information on the High Street Stimulus Scheme will be released in due course via a multi-media advertising campaign to reach all audiences, including retailers.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy how many bars and/or hospitality settings were inspected in Belfast ahead of the re-opening of the hospitality sector on 30 April 2021.

(AQW 18226/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: This is not within the remit of my Department. This is a matter for Belfast City Council.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister for the Economy what mechanisms are in place to exclude businesses from grant schemes where they have been found to be withholding wages or furlough pay from their workers.

(AQW 18243/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: While specific information relating to the Coronavirus Job Retention Scheme is not captured during the application process, businesses applying for Covid support from my Department are required to submit certain information relating to both the applicant and the business, and this can be provided to other public bodies.

In relation to activities of the type outlined above, should an investigating body submit a request for such information in order to facilitate a tribunal or investigation, my Department will do whatever it can to provide it.

Where my Department (or its delivery partners) become aware of suspected or actual fraud, there are formal procedures in place to report, investigate and take action to recoup funds where necessary and appropriate.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for the Economy to outline to what extent the lag in the Republic of Ireland's COVID-19 vaccination process will impact upon Northern Ireland's tourism recovery.

Mrs Dodds: The recovery of the tourism industry in Northern Ireland will come from the domestic market and the close to home markets of the Republic of Ireland and GB. In the July to October period last year, the tourism and hospitality industry reported that they welcomed large numbers of tourists from the Republic of Ireland, with more than half visiting Northern Ireland for a holiday break for the first time.

As our own vaccination programme successfully rolls out, I have committed additional funding of £4 million to Tourism Northern Ireland for marketing campaigns in Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland this year. The Northern Ireland return to market campaign commenced on 3rd May to run through the summer. This has allowed a three-week booking period in advance of the indicative reopening date of 24th May and it is anticipated that demand will be high. The campaign will run alongside a 'We're Good to Go' Campaign, as research indicates the importance of this industry standard in providing reassurance to consumers.

When the time is right, and in line with public health advice and the lifting of quarantine rules, we will activate a timely return to market campaign in the Republic of Ireland similar to the very successful campaign that we ran in this market in summer 2020.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy whether her Department has identified areas where new primary legislation is required in regards to improving employment rights.

Mrs Dodds: The significant impact of the pandemic has resulted in a need to prioritise Covid-19 related employment legislation. Legislation has already been introduced to protect workers' rights in respect of annual leave and in relation to statutory family-related payments and redundancy entitlements for those on the furlough scheme. Legislation to extend protections against detriment to all workers in relation to any action they may take to protect themselves or others where they reasonably believe there is serious and imminent danger comes into operation on 31 May 2021. Previously this health and safety provision had only been afforded to employees. To date, it has been possible to use secondary legislation for these purposes.

In terms of primary legislation, I am pleased to have been able to make progress towards the introduction of a Bill to provide for Parental Bereavement Leave and Pay, an important employment right for those parents in work who suffer the loss of a child. This will be the only piece of employment related primary legislation I will have time to introduce during this mandate.

While Northern Ireland already has a robust framework of employment rights in place, the unprecedented impact of the pandemic means that it will be necessary to keep other aspects of employment law under review. Employment law is also continually evolving at UK level and internationally. There will therefore inevitably be requirements to introduce further secondary legislation and to introduce primary legislation in the future. Any policy proposals for new legislation would be subject to appropriate public consultation and the necessary approvals from the Executive and the Assembly.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy whether she will develop a remote working strategy, to ensure that the benefits of remote working are maximised, and current employment rights law in this area are fit for purpose.

Mrs Dodds: I have no immediate plans to develop a remote working strategy; however, my economic vision for NI, as outlined in the recently published: A 10x Economy, recognises that the Covid-19 pandemic alongside digital advancements has driven transformative change in attitudes to remote and more agile ways of working.

For many, working remotely has become the norm, with many companies indicating they will offer more flexible ways of working in the future. The current change to mass remote working of office workers occurred almost overnight and the effects of that change are not yet fully understood. Only after we have further evidence of the impact of these changes can decisions be made for the longer term.

We should remember, though, that for many, working remotely is not an option. Therefore any future decisions that we make as a society, employers and individuals, must take into account the diversity of the job market and the needs of our economy.

Currently, in terms of facilitating remote working, the right to request a flexible working arrangement is already part of our employment law framework. Many good employers recognise the positive impact flexible working can have on their workforce and productivity. I would urge all employers to accommodate flexible working patterns where possible, as this can help retain skilled workers, maximise participation in the economy and ensure everyone achieves his or her potential. The Labour Relations Agency has produced A Practical Guide to Working from Home: Covid-19 and beyond (<https://www.lra.org.uk/sites/> default/files/2020-10/A Practical Guide to Working from Home - Final Version 081020.pdf) which provides useful guidance for both employers and individuals when considering a home working arrangement.

Also, I recognise the importance of good broadband to working remotely. Project Stratum, the largest telecommunications infrastructure project undertaken by my Department, will deliver gigabit capable broadband infrastructure to more than 76,000 primarily rural premises across NI. Project Stratum will act as an enabler, helping businesses develop and extend their reach, and helping individuals fulfil their potential. As we emerge from this Covid-19 crisis, Project Stratum will play a vital role in rebuilding our economy, offering encouragement to businesses and citizens in those areas in need of broadband improvement by building the infrastructure necessary to enable their local economies to grow, compete and prosper.

In the longer term, delivering on: A 10x Economy will underpin our work on rebuilding the NI economy and promoting economic recovery and resilience. I am committed to delivering a strong, competitive and regionally balanced economy that works for everyone. For all of our people this means better jobs with better wages, in a more flexible working environment and a better overall quality of life.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy for her assessment of the adequacy of current engagement of social partners in addressing poverty and low pay, and in developing economic policy in Northern Ireland.

Mrs Dodds: In line with New Decade New Approach, the Executive's actions to address poverty will be contained within the new Anti-Poverty Strategy. The Department for Communities is leading on the development of the Anti-Poverty Strategy using a co-design approach. A public consultation exercise is scheduled for later in the year and it is planned that the Anti-Poverty Strategy will be published in December 2021, subject to Executive approval.

Further information on the co-design process and timetable can be found at: Social Inclusion Strategies | Department for Communities (communities-ni.gov.uk) (<https://www.communities-ni.gov.uk/articles/social-inclusion-strategies>)

I am fully committed to open and full engagement with all key stakeholders, including social partners, as my Department develops short and long-term economic policy.

The Executive's Programme for Government is built upon, and informed by, partnership working and collaboration both internally within the Civil Service and with our external partners. The principles of this partnership approach is applied to economic policy development throughout my Department.

I recognise that social partners have an important role to play in the development of our economy. I want to see continued collaboration between all partners as we look to the future and improve our economic performance.

By way of example, my Department has a cross sector engagement forum, which includes representatives from the business community, the voluntary & community sector, and from a wide range of sectors such as universities, retail, colleges, food, trade union, transport/haulage and local chambers of commerce. This was established in June 2017 to allow the Department to seek stakeholder views and to collectively discuss how best to work together throughout the EU Exit process.

The forum has since also facilitated engagement on issues arising from the pandemic and now on the new trading environment arising from the Protocol and the UK-EU Trade and Cooperation Agreement that could affect key sectors of the Northern Ireland economy.

I have recently launched my Economic Vision for a Decade of Innovation which provides a bold ambition to build an innovative and inclusive economy. My Department and I will continue to engage with all key partners as we develop the work programme to deliver the Vision which aims to deliver better jobs with better wages, in a more flexible working environment and a better overall quality of life. This collaboration and engagement will be crucial if we are to succeed in our ambitions for Northern Ireland.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister for the Economy to outline (i) what level of advice has been given to further education colleges for them to carry out suitable assessment adaptations for qualifications that require occupational competency, such as a licence to practice; (ii) to detail the number of students studying these types of occupational competency qualifications across each further education colleges; and (iii) whether the potential delay in awarding such qualifications would be a barrier to students seeking employment or further study.

Mrs Dodds:

- (i) There are a significant number of vocational subjects that fall within the occupational competence category, e.g. construction, hairdressing, and vehicle maintenance and repair and these are awarded across multiple awarding organisations across the UK.

Awarding organisations have provided guidance to learning centres, including Further Education (FE) colleges, on the assessment and awarding approaches to be implemented, timing on when centres need to submit information, the records that they should maintain and on the nature of any centre-based quality assurance.

There are a number of NI specific challenges, such as the shorter academic term time in the FE sector, regional variances in terms of local restrictions (the FE sector in England has been permitted to open earlier than the FE sector in NI) and the regional differences in the approaches to reopening of certain sectors on our pathway out of lockdown e.g. Close-contact services.

It is anticipated that the majority of assessments will be undertaken by Northern Ireland (NI) learners with adaptations put in place, but some assessments may need to be delayed until such times as they can be taken safely, to comply with public health guidance.

- (ii) There are currently 16,854 learners studying occupational competency qualifications in the FE colleges. The breakdown per FE college is shown below in Table 1.

College	Total Nos (2020/21)
SERC	600
SRC	4,100
SWC	3,500
BMC	1,374
NRC	5,236
NWRC	2,044
Total	16,854

- (ii) Policy makers, regulators and awarding organisations have facilitated an unprecedented range of flexibilities to allow adapted assessments to be undertaken to mitigate the impact on learners and to facilitate onwards progression as far as possible. The Department is working with the FE sector, CCEA Regulation, and relevant sector bodies and awarding organisations to ensure that the number of awards made in summer 2021 is maximised for NI learners.

This has further been facilitated by the Executive's approval of a return to on-site learning for those studying practical occupational competency subjects including those in close contact areas. All of these measures should ensure that learners will be able to complete their programme and progress into further education, training or enter the job market. For the anticipated small number of learners for whom there may be a delay in the awarding of qualifications, it will be a matter for an employer or educational institution to decide if they are content to accept a candidate whose qualification is pending.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy to detail the long term plans she has to help further and higher education students recover from the financial, educational and mental health challenges created by the COVID-19 pandemic, including local students studying in different jurisdictions.

Mrs Dodds: Wind Farms off the Coast of Northern Ireland

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy (i) whether her Department is engaged in discussions with the Crown Estate to obtain authorisation for wind farms off the coast of Northern Ireland; (ii) which locations are being considered; and (iii) what is the current state of those discussions.

(AQW 18356/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Engagement between my officials and The Crown Estate (TCE) is ongoing to ensure that Northern Ireland interests are considered in the planning process for future leasing rounds of the seabed.

TCE is currently leading on a project entitled 'Broad Horizons' which will map key resource areas for offshore wind in England, Wales and Northern Ireland waters. DfE and DAERA officials are engaged in this process.

The first stage of the project has been completed with the publication of a technical report (link below): <https://www.thecrownestate.co.uk/media/3642/broad-horizons-offshore-wind-key-resource-area-summary-report.pdf>

The mapping from this report will be supplemented with localised environmental and economic information which will inform identification of the areas that present the most viable opportunities.

Mr Buckley asked the Minister for the Economy to outline whether her Department plans to address the lack of vacancies of enterprise centres in Upper Bann, with a view of promoting economic growth.

(AQW 18400/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department has no responsibility for Local Enterprise Agencies, responsibility for local economic development rests with Councils.

Dr Archibald asked the Minister for the Economy whether Invest NI will seek to recoup the £10 million of expected credit losses which emanate from the Glenmore Biogas project.

(AQW 18429/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The aim of the Sustainable Utilisation of Poultry Litter (SUPL) Scheme was to help resolve a significant local environmental and economic issue, and to help Northern Ireland comply with EU nitrates targets to positively impact the poultry sector and the wider Northern Ireland economy.

The plant has experienced a number of challenges at various stages including design challenges and operational difficulties. Having considered its options, the company's Board decided to pursue a refinance process. Invest NI sought independent advice in terms of maximising the return on its loan, including the potential refinance of the company.

Based on the terms of the refinance, Invest NI will not recoup any of its investment in the project. However the refinance means the plant should remain operational and provide cheaper, green energy for two large Northern Ireland manufacturers.

Dr Archibald asked the Minister for the Economy for her assessment of whether the expected credit losses associated with the Glenmore Biogas project will be realised.

Mrs Dodds: The aim of the Sustainable Utilisation of Poultry Litter (SUPL) Scheme was to help resolve a significant local environmental and economic issue, and to help Northern Ireland comply with EU nitrates targets to positively impact the poultry sector and the wider Northern Ireland economy.

On the basis of the information currently available, which indicates we will not receive a return on this investment, the loan has been written off. The Department for the Economy and the Department of Finance have approved the write-off. The £10m budget cover requested to cover the write off was provided by Her Majesty's Treasury in the January monitoring round.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for the Economy whether an apprentice is able to gain international experience within the apprentice programmes delivered by her Department.

Mrs Dodds: My Department funds the cost of off the job training for apprentices at level 2 to level 7 through the ApprenticeshipsNI and Higher Level Apprenticeships programmes. Delivery of training is through Northern Ireland based colleges, universities and non-statutory contractors. Funding does not extend to meet the cost of international travel.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy, given the UK government's commitments to eradicate the use of fossil fuels as part of its preparations to host the United Nations Climate Change Conference, whether she will review the NI Sustainable Energy Programme, including its subsidies, for the continued use of fossil fuels.

Mrs Dodds: Any decisions on changes to future energy efficiency programmes, including the NI Sustainable Energy Programme, will be informed by the current policy options consultation on a new Energy Strategy which is open until 30th June 2021.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for the Economy whether there are any plans to create an enterprise zone in North Down.

Mrs Dodds: Enterprise Zones are designed to stimulate economic growth by offering tax incentives, simplified planning, business rate discounts and superfast broadband to attract new business ventures. The majority of incentives available within Enterprise Zones in GB are, with the exception of Enhanced Capital Allowances (ECAs), already devolved policy areas and the NI Executive is already taking steps to support businesses using these levers.

HM Treasury has legal responsibility for designating Enterprise Zones (EZs) in the UK, and laid the Statutory Instrument designating a pilot Enterprise Zone in Coleraine in July 2016.

My Department's role is to ensure that the designated area, called the Atlantic Link Enterprise Campus (ALEC), is developed by Causeway Coast & Glens Borough Council (CC&GC) in a way which will attract capital intensive companies.

HMT has confirmed that ECAs are not due to expire in Coleraine until 2024. A full evaluation of the pilot will take place then.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for the Economy what action her Department is taking to reduce unemployment levels, through training and apprenticeships, in North Down.

(AQW 18460/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department continues to fund the off-the-job training of apprentices enrolled in the ApprenticeshipsNI and Higher Level Apprenticeships programmes. In addition, an Apprenticeship Recovery Package was introduced last September to help minimise apprenticeship job losses, maintain and grow the supply of apprenticeship opportunities, and support apprentices who have been displaced and lost their apprenticeship.

Higher Level Apprenticeships are available to people of all ages and I am also committed to making apprenticeship opportunities at levels 2 and 3 available to more people and sectors by amending the current age-related criteria. I intend to bring forward proposals to make sure this commitment is delivered this year as age should not be a barrier to lifelong learning.

Through its Training for Success (TfS) programme, my Department provides training for approximately 140 young people (as at October 2020) in the North Down Parliamentary Constituency who are not in education or full time employment.

Reforms to the youth training system, which will deliver better outcomes for young people and better meet the needs of the local economy, will be introduced from September 2021 with Training for Success being replaced by a new NI Traineeship (at Level 2) and Skills for Life and Work (a new entry level/ level 1 programme). My Department is also developing a new vocational award at Level 3 which will support the needs of both learners and employers, whilst serving to strengthen the vocational educational pathway.

My Department's Assured Skills programme is a demand-led, pre-employment training programme which helps individuals gain the skills they need to compete for guaranteed job vacancies with new Foreign Direct Investment companies and expanding local based businesses. It provides industry-focused training which equips participants with the transferable skills that companies are looking for to compete for job opportunities, whilst offering assurances to investors who are creating new employment in Northern Ireland that the skills they require to be successful will be available. In the 2020/21 financial year 27 academies were launched, with 25 academies and 490 participants having commenced training. Thus far 19 academies have been completed with 336 individuals being upskilled, of which 332 have gained full time employment in areas such as financial services, business consultancy and data analytics. Since the start of this financial year 4 academies have been launched, with training due to start shortly. These academies are in areas such as financial services, IT and construction.

My Department's Careers Service is available to provide one to one personalised advice and guidance on the full range of available provision.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy whether vouchers issued under the High Street Voucher Scheme will be redeemable at market stalls and with independent traders operating from shared premises.
(AQW 18517/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department will be undertaking a consultation and engagement process with all relevant stakeholders to inform scheme development.

Further information on the detail of the High Street Stimulus Scheme will be made available through a multi-media advertising campaign to reach all audiences, prior to its implementation.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy for a breakdown of how the £20 million allocated to the green economy in her Economic Recovery Action Plan in this financial year is to be spent.
(AQW 18518/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Building a green economy has been identified as a priority in both my Economic Recovery Action Plan and my Energy Strategy for Northern Ireland.

The additional funding allocated to deliver on the Greener Economy Pillar of my Economic Recovery Action Plan in 2021-22 is to be spent on:

- A Green Innovation Challenge Fund which will seek applications from NI businesses on innovative low carbon technologies that will place NI at the forefront of the energy transition. A pilot scheme will be run in this financial year with the full roll-out anticipated to take place in subsequent years.
- The development of an Invest to Save Fund to finance investments in central government buildings realising energy, carbon and cost savings. This project will stimulate growth, create new jobs and encourage investment in innovative and renewable technologies.
- A second call for Invest NI's Energy Efficiency Capital Grant to further support businesses embed energy efficiency within their strategy and operations.

Some of the Greener Economy actions within my Economic Recovery Action Plan will be delivered from baseline funding while others such as the Energy Efficiency Home Retrofit Scheme are longer term actions and will require funding in future financial years.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for the Economy to detail the actions her Department is taking to invest in capital projects to promote tourism in West Tyrone.

Mrs Dodds: Tourism NI does not have any Capital Programmes open for applications at present.

Tourism NI launched two Capital Funding Programmes to develop and promote tourism across Northern Ireland in 2020 - An Experience Development Programme and a Website Development Programme. These are now closed.

Tourism NI's Experience Development Programme, launched in August 2020, aims to support the development of new and enhanced tourism experiences throughout Northern Ireland. This programme received a total of 137 applications across Northern Ireland and 47 were awarded funding within the budget available. 3 applications were received from the West Tyrone area and 2 were funded.

The aim of Website Development Programme launched in July 2020 is to improve the attractiveness and bookability of the Northern Ireland experience through investment in the online presence of experience providers. This programme was funded by the Department for Economy via Tourism NI in partnership with the Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (DAERA) and received 72 full applications, of which 70 were funded within the budget available. 3 applications were received from the West Tyrone area and 3 were funded.

Funded Projects in the West Tyrone Area.

Programme	Applicant	Amount Offered
Experience Development Programme	Wild Atlantic Distillery Limited	£37,496
Experience Development Programme	Gortin Glen Country Park	£97,876
Website Development Programme	Wild Atlantic Distillery Limited	£18,700
Website Development Programme	An Creagan	£12,432
Website Development Programme	Owenkillew Development Company Limited	£416

Tourism NI will be launching another Website Development Programme (in partnership with DAERA) and Experience Development Programme later in 2021 which will be open to potential applicants in the public, voluntary and private sectors across Northern Ireland.

Tourism NI also works in partnership with the Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to inform and support the delivery of their rural tourism capital investment programmes.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy for her assessment of fire and rehire practices.
(AQW 18597/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Employers sometimes need to make changes to staff contracts of employment because of economic circumstances. The business may need to be reorganised, moved to a new location or there may need to be changes because of new laws or regulations.

Nonetheless, I would caution any employer considering giving notice and offering a new contract with revised terms to an employee - known as 'firing and rehiring'.

There are statutory processes to follow, with employers required to follow a statutory minimum dismissal procedure. They may have to follow a collective redundancy consultation process if a group of employees is involved.

I would encourage all employers considering changing terms and conditions of employment for staff to consult their staff or their representatives to explain the reasons for their plan and to listen to alternative ideas.

Any employee who believes he or she has been unfairly dismissed from their original contract may be able to complain to an Industrial Tribunal providing they have at least one year's continuous service with their employer. Employees may also be able to claim redundancy if they have at least two years' service.

Anyone who finds themselves in this position may wish to consider contacting the Labour Relations Agency - Workplace Information Service on 03300 555 300 for confidential and impartial information.

In addition, the Law Centre NI provides free, independent, specialist legal advice (subject to capacity) on employment rights. The Law Centre can be contacted on their advice line on 028 9024 4401 or by email: employmentadvice@lawcentreni.org.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for the Economy whether she has any plans to reduce university fees in Northern Ireland for the 2021/22 academic year to encourage young people to attend higher education at a time when they are unable to supplement income through employment in the service and hospitality sector.

Mrs Dodds: I have no plans to amend university fees for the 2021/22 academic year.

However, my Department delivers financial support to eligible Northern Ireland students through Student Finance NI in the form of maintenance loans and maintenance grants as a contribution towards students' living costs during the academic year.

Prospective students should ensure that they look online at www.studentfinancenai.co.uk for all the financial assistance to which they may be entitled.

Students at Northern Ireland's universities who find themselves in financial hardship may also be eligible to receive an award from the Support Funds made available by the Department, and managed by the higher education institutions.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister for the Economy whether she has any plans to bring forward legislation to restrict the practice known as fire and rehire.

Mrs Dodds: I refer the member to my response to AQW 17614/17-22.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy (i) for her assessment of the British government's levelling up agenda; and (ii) whether she intends to replicate it to address regional economic imbalance in Northern Ireland, including the disadvantage felt by the North West.

(AQW 18650/17-22)

Mrs Dodds:

(i) For her assessment of the UK Government's levelling up agenda

The Levelling Up process has come along at a critical moment for Northern Ireland and is timely.

The UK currently invests 1.7% of GDP in R&D with an aspiration to raise that to 2.4%. Northern Ireland's R&D investment is comparable at 1.6%. So NI is not a regional outlier in UK terms and does not need to be treated differently, only fairly.

There is a requirement for more R&D investment by UK Government if the Levelling Up pledge is to be meaningful. It is also important that this funding is locally administered, within the UK-wide framework, to drive localised ownership and outcomes that matter to the NI economy.

To ensure that we get this investment we have established a multi-disciplinary team, with representation from across Northern Ireland, to respond collectively and with agility to demonstrate the opportunity for NI to be a critical player in the UK Government's future economic ambitions.

Work on the Levelling Up agenda remains ongoing, with the focus on both place and innovation becoming increasingly important to economic policy UK-wide.

(ii) Whether she intends to replicate it to address regional economic imbalance in Northern Ireland, including the disadvantage felt by the North West.

DfE is fully committed to the Levelling Up process which is focused on the nations and regions of the UK, and is a unique opportunity to promote investment across all of Northern Ireland.

Sub-regional engagement is a priority for DfE and remains strong, including in the Londonderry area. DfE and Invest NI are actively working with Derry City & Strabane District Council and regional partners to ensure a co-ordinated approach to the development and growth of the regional economy in the North West.

For the past five years, Foyle has been in the top five constituencies across Northern Ireland, in terms of assistance offered by Invest NI and planned investment, both overall and in terms of per adult population.

Both the Department and Invest NI are working with the Council and other relevant stakeholders on the emerging projects within the region's 'City Deal' proposal, with targeted investment in excess of £200m.

The recently published '10x Economy Vision' also provides a bold and ambitious framework to build an innovative and inclusive economy that will bring positive economic, social and environmental outcomes for all our people.

The Vision recognises the importance of place based investment, including: recognition of our innovation ecosystem; our thriving tourism offering; and our innovative and agile business environment. It also includes taking advantage of emerging opportunities like the flexibility offered by responding to digital advancements such as the change in attitudes to remote working.

Economic productivity is of course only one aspect of Levelling up, and disparities in education, investment, employment and health also need to be addressed to ensure access of opportunity for everyone in our society. Levelling up is as much about investment in people as it is about place.

Our approach to Levelling Up is therefore holistic and wide ranging, and the strategic approach we have developed will be to the benefit to the whole of Northern Ireland as we move forward.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy what action she intends to take in response to the RHI consultation process, which completed last month.

Mrs Dodds: My officials are giving detailed consideration to all material received in response to the consultation. The outcome of the consultation will assist the Executive in making decisions on the future of the Scheme.

Mr Sheehan asked the Minister for the Economy what assessment she has made in relation to North-South student mobility across higher and further education.

Mrs Dodds: I fully recognise the value of North-South student mobility and the contribution cross-border students make to the institutions they attend. Each student brings a different dimension to everyday engagement in lectures and other academic activity, bringing greater diversity, fresh ideas and new perspectives to university and college life. Our campuses are richer for this, therefore it is important that we continue to support these cross border flows.

The most recent figures show an increase in the numbers of students from Northern Ireland studying in the Republic of Ireland and a decrease in students from the Republic of Ireland enrolled at Higher Education and Further Education Institutions in Northern Ireland.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister for the Economy how many inward investment jobs have been secured in West Tyrone by Invest NI's overseas offices since 2017.

(AQO 2010/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: In the period 2016/17 to 2019/2020, Invest NI supported the promotion of 234 jobs by externally owned companies in the West Tyrone constituency leveraging total investment of £21.6 million and representing annual salaries of £3.5 million.

In 2021, a further 41 jobs have recently been announced by Houston Precision Engineering which will deliver a further £1 million in annual salaries to the constituency at full ramp-up.

In the period 2016/17 to 2019/20, Invest NI provided over 40 offers of other developmental assistance totalling some £2.3million to externally owned companies with operations in the constituency to drive their further growth and international competitiveness including support for research and development, skills development and to support the promotion of products and services made in West Tyrone in overseas markets.

This investment is in addition to the £3.2million in support provided by Invest NI to locally owned businesses in the constituency during the same period to support the promotion of a further 437 jobs.

It's also relevant to reflect that the West Tyrone constituency straddles two council areas; Fermanagh and Omagh and Derry City & Strabane and as such Invest NI efforts to attract international investment into these areas also creates potential employment opportunities for West Tyrone constituents. In the period 2016/17 to 2019/20, Invest NI supported the promotion of 1,356 jobs by externally-owned companies across these two council areas.

Mr Allen asked the Minister for the Economy to outline when she expects to receive completed reports from the consultants appointed by her Department to explore options regarding the future of HMS Caroline.

Mrs Dodds: During the period of temporary closure of HMS Caroline, my officials have been working to identify a range of options for the long term future of the Ship. Consultants were appointed to identify potential delivery models and options that support the retention of the Ship in Belfast and to make value for money recommendations. Maritime consultants were also appointed to provide specialist costing information. The final reports from the consultants have now been received. Discussions are actively ongoing with representatives of the National Museum of the Royal Navy and the National Lottery Heritage Fund on the options for the future of the attraction.

I re-emphasise that I remain committed to finding a solution that ensures that this important cultural and heritage visitor attraction remains in Belfast and I will make further comment on the matter in due course, once the discussions have concluded.

In the meantime, I would be happy for my officials to arrange to brief you on the project, if you would find this useful.

Mr Irwin asked the Minister for the Economy, under The Renewable Heat Incentive Scheme Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2012, if the decision of the Statutory Review Panel is final.

(AQO 2012/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Yes, the Statutory Review decision marks the final stage of the internal review process. However, should a participant be dissatisfied with the outcome of the review, they have the option to take their complaint externally to the Northern Ireland Ombudsman.

In all notification of outcome letters from the Statutory Review Officer, participants are informed of their right to take their case to the Ombudsman if they remain dissatisfied with the outcome. This notification includes sign posting to the NI Ombudsman's services and contact details.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister for the Economy to outline the support her Department will provide to hotels to prepare for the return of overseas visitors.

(AQO 2013/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department has worked closely with the hotel sector in preparation for re-opening, and the return of overseas visitors.

Hotels have been involved in Tourism NI international marketing and sales activity programmes, such as Meet the Buyer, delivered in partnership with Tourism Ireland. More events are planned for 2021.

My Department and Tourism NI have also worked with the hotel sector to produce a 'Working Safely during COVID-19 for Tourism and Hospitality Businesses' guide which explains how businesses can keep guests as safe as possible.

Tourism NI introduced 'We're Good To Go', a COVID safety accreditation, in 2020. Members are automatically eligible for the World Travel and Tourism Council international 'Safe Travels' stamp.

Tourism NI has also worked with the Northern Ireland Hotels Federation to create a webinar to help hotels prepare to reopen, and to outline available marketing support.

I have asked the Tourism Recovery Steering Group to develop a Phase Two Tourism Recovery Action Plan, which I hope to publish shortly. The Action Plan will include a range of measures aimed at supporting the tourism and hospitality industry, including the hotel sector, to drive demand and attract visitors from the domestic, Republic of Ireland and overseas markets.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for the Economy for an update on her plans to restart the economy.

Mrs Dodds: As part of the 'Pathway out of Restrictions process' my officials developed detailed proposals for the relaxing / reopening in four key areas including retail, close contact services, hospitality and tourism. These proposals have resulted in the recent reopening of close contact services, retail and outdoor hospitality. An indicative date of the 24th of May has also been agreed with Executive colleagues for the reopening of unlicensed and licensed premises indoors and the remainder of any tourist accommodation with the appropriate mitigations.

I have also launched my Economic Recovery Plan which sets out a road map to rebuilding the economy from the impact of the pandemic. Additional funding of £286.8m agreed by the Executive on the 1st of April will help deliver the plan which includes £145m for the High Street Stimulus Scheme. Other actions in the plan include the development of a flexible skills fund, widening the access to apprenticeships, development of a green innovation fund and delivering a Tourism Voucher Scheme to stimulate demand.

I also recently launched '10x Economy: An Economic Vision for a Decade of Innovation' which will provide a bold ambition to build an innovative and inclusive economy that will bring positive economic, social and environmental outcomes for all our people.

These plans focus on supporting a highly skilled workforce, stimulating research and development, building a greener economy and promoting investment, trade and exports as the drivers to our recovery.

Ms P Bradley asked the Minister for the Economy what sectors her Department is working with to create new Apprenticeship Pathways, as outlined in the Economic Recovery Action Plan.
(AQO 2015/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department supports the work of Sectoral Partnerships who operate across a wide range of sectors including Advanced Manufacturing and Engineering, Life and Health Sciences, Hospitality and Tourism and ICT. These employer-led partnerships are central to the development of apprenticeship frameworks that meet the current and future needs of industry in Northern Ireland. As an example, the Apprenticeship Challenge Fund has identified the need for a new apprenticeship at Level 2 and Level 3 in Automated Entrance Systems, the development of which is being supported by the Built Environment Sectoral Partnership.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister for the Economy when she will take action to implement the Green New Deal, as committed to in New Decade, New Approach.

Mrs Dodds: Climate change is without doubt one of the most pressing challenges facing our society today. As New Decade, New Approach rightly states, a coordinated, strategic approach and cross-departmental approach is required in our response.

Tomorrow, Tuesday 11th May, I will be launching '10x Economy: An Economic Vision for a Decade of Innovation' which will provide a bold ambition to build an innovative and inclusive economy that will bring positive economic, social and environmental outcomes for all our people. Supporting a greener and sustainable economy will be a key principle of this vision.

In both my Economic Recovery Action Plan and more recently, the Energy Strategy policy options consultation, I have identified 'Growing a Green Economy' as a key priority area.

My officials are also currently developing a strategic framework which will provide a first step in setting out a clear vision for Circular Economy in Northern Ireland.

These actions being progressed will ensure we maximise the economic impact of energy policies, invest in green innovation, develop a low carbon skills workforce and create new jobs.

Invest NI also offers a number of initiatives to support the green economy including supporting investment in a green sustainable recovery, exploiting market opportunities to deliver green jobs, and incentivising greater use of energy and resource efficiency technologies.

Mr Catney asked the Minister for the Economy whether she plans to address the difference between the £5,500 loan amount available to local postgraduate students studying in England and the £11,222 available to English students on the same course.

Mrs Dodds: Northern Ireland students commencing postgraduate courses in the UK are currently eligible to apply for a non-means tested fee loan of up to £5,500 to help with course costs. This support was introduced in 2017, following a review of postgraduate support and a supporting public consultation.

However, I recognise that since the introduction of the 'contribution to costs' loan in England, postgraduate fees there have increased significantly, thereby often creating a shortfall in support for NI students.

My officials have therefore undertaken a review of the wider postgraduate landscape in Northern Ireland. The appropriateness of the current postgraduate fee loan towards the cost of taught postgraduate courses, both locally and in Great Britain, was reviewed alongside a range of potential options for maintenance loans or grants.

In seeking to address these issues, I published a public consultation on 26th April 2021 that will remain open until 25th June 2021. Any outcomes of the review, particularly in relation to the levels of financial support available, will be dependent upon the funding that is available to my Department over the coming years.

Mr Hilditch asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister, given the outdoor and spacious nature of typical garden centre premises and the current difficulties in bringing in horticultural goods from Great Britain, to detail the rationale for not including garden centres in the recently announced expansion of click and collect services.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: When the restrictions were reintroduced from 26 December 2020, click and collect for non-essential retail was not permitted. The Department for the Economy worked with the sector on how non-essential retail could reopen. All relaxations were to be introduced gradually to minimise the risk to public health and, if necessary, could be quickly reversed. On 2 March 2021 the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions.

The Executive introduced phase 1 of click and collect on 8th March 2021 for the sectors which were most likely to have become essential for people over time.

The re-opening of garden centres and plant nurseries for 'Click and Collect' was not supported in phase 1, as the goods they retailed were not as essential when compared to the other businesses permitted to reopen. To prioritise the re-opening of these premises would have created equity concerns amongst other non-essential retailers. It was also considered that to resume click and collect for garden centres before the reopening of schools would not be in keeping with the relative prioritisation the Executive had determined.

On 1 April 2021 the Executive agreed a range of relaxations which came into effect on 12 April including the reopening of Garden Centres and Plant Nurseries. As with other businesses, they were subject to the requirement to operate safely and to follow health and safety law and guidance and to take measures to keep staff and customers safe. On 15 April 2021 the Executive agreed that from 30 April all retail businesses were permitted to reopen.

Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. The new process also permits a more urgent consideration of proposals from Departments deemed to have urgent or compelling reasons to fall outside the four week review process.

In this new process, the management of the changes to the restrictions regulations moved to the Executive Office (TEO).

TEO will now hold the lead responsibility and operational management of the process leading to Executive decisions on the ongoing need for restrictions and the requirement to amend the regulations.

This responsibility includes receiving and managing all proposals from Executive departments, management of the decision making process and facilitating consultation with departments on the drafting of amendment regulations. This work is supported by a Cross-Departmental Working Group, chaired by the Director of the TEO COVID-19 Taskforce team with membership from all 9 Departments and key stakeholders, including local government and PSNI.

The Executive, when making decisions on restrictions, takes into account the scientific and medical evidence and also the impacts of the restrictions on the economy and society. The Executive weighs up the totality of the effect each restriction can have in combination with other restrictions in reducing the rate of infections of COVID-19.

It is not always possible to disaggregate the precise impact on the rate of transmission of the virus in the community for each of the individual restrictions on their own.

Scientific evidence used by the Executive for decision making purposes is now publically available: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/covid-19-scientific-evidence>

Mr McNulty asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) whether they will clarify their position on the resumption of outdoor sports training; and (ii) whether gyms can organise outdoor training sessions by keeping to the limit of fifteen people. (AQW 16511/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Currently gyms, swimming pools and indoor leisure facilities may open for individual exercise and also one-to-one training/coaching with social distancing.

Up to 10 people (including children of all ages) from a maximum of two households can take part in unstructured outdoor exercise or sports activities. This might include football in the park or other leisure type activities.

Up to 15 people (including coaches) can take part in structured outdoor sports events, organised through clubs or individuals affiliated to recognised sports governing bodies or representative organisations for sport and physical activity.

Sports preparing for team competition may merge a small number of training groups to form a training squad but this squad size must be kept to the minimum number essential for this purpose.

Competitive outdoor sport can be organised by a club, individual or individuals affiliated, with numbers (including participants, officials, management and essential support personnel) not exceeding 100 and no spectators permitted.

Outdoor sports facilities can re-open but only to permit their use for those allowed in the regulations. Club houses and indoor sports facilities (changing rooms, showers, kitchens, meeting rooms), apart from essential toilet facilities must stay closed.

The return to sport protocols put in place by sports governing bodies should be strictly adhered to including hygiene measures, social distancing and other mitigations.

An indicative date of 24 May has been set for the return of indoor group exercise and training (numbers informed by venue) and the full return of outdoor sport (with an overall limit of 500 spectators at outdoor sporting events). The indicative date of 24 May is subject to review on 20 May.

Miss Woods asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister whether they plan to issue an indicative date for when parents can spectate at outdoor school sporting events and training. (AQW 17512/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Department for Education is lead department for this area. The current restrictions outlined in The Health Protection (Coronavirus, Restrictions) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2021 permit the resumption of outdoor extra-curricular schools' sports with effect from 14 April.

Indoor extra-curricular sports or inter-schools sports are not permitted at this time. There is no maximum number of participants specified within the regulations, however schools should seek to implement mitigating measures to ensure the safety of pupils and staff wherever possible, including the use of bubbles to reduce the number of close contacts each pupil has and by following the guidance set by the relevant sport's governing body.

An indicative date of 24 May has been given for the Schools to resume extra-curricular activities, indoor extra-curricular sports, outdoor inter-schools sports and day educational visits. The indicative date of 24 May is subject to review on 20 May.

Mr Allister asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) whether training for deerstalking with appropriate safety measures in place can take place after 23 April 2021; and (ii) if not, when they anticipate it will be able to resume. (AQW 17562/17-22)

Mr McCrossan asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for an update on the development of a Northern Ireland Violence Against Women and Girls strategy.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Much work is already ongoing in the Department of Justice and the Department for Communities to address violence against women and girls, and gender bias.

The Assembly and the Executive have, however, identified a clear need for us to act collectively to adopt a strategic approach to address this wicked problem. This will provide the opportunity to deliver cultural and societal change to ensure there are healthy behaviours and attitudes towards women and girls.

The Executive has agreed that TEO will co-ordinate the development of such a Strategy and, to this end, HOCS is considering information provided by Departments identifying all relevant work currently being taken forward. Consideration is also being given to how to resource this work. Despite this, it is worth noting that TEO does not have any direct statutory remit for this area.

Once resources are in place, we are committed to this work being taken forward at pace.

Mr Durkan asked the First and Deputy First Minister to publish a list of organisations that are funded by the Central Good Relations Fund, in each of the last three years.

Mr McGrath asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister what engagement they have had with the NIO regarding the commitment of the UK Government to bring forward funding to implement the Stormont House Agreement proposals to address Northern Ireland legacy issues, as set out in New Decade, New Approach.

(AQW 18563/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: We have not engaged jointly on behalf of the Executive Office with the NIO regarding the commitment of the UK Government to bring forward funding in relation to these issues.

Mrs Cameron asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister whether the increase in outdoor gathering numbers to 500, scheduled from 24 May, extends to marching band parades.

(AQW 18912/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The increase in outdoor gathering numbers to 500 is subject to review on 20 May. Any gatherings of over 30 people must be an organised gathering and would require a risk assessment. We would advise organisers to consider the use of Lateral Flow Tests for any planned larger events.

More detailed guidance relating to gatherings, hospitality and travel are available at:

Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs how much annual funding his Department provides to the Woodland Trust.

(AQW 15178/17-22)

Mr Poots (The Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs): The Woodland Trust does not receive any annual core funding from my Department, however it receives funding through various schemes delivered by DAERA.

During the financial year 20/21 the Woodland Trust received £185,000 made up of: £165,000 under the Forest Expansion Scheme to support new native woodland;

£2,000 of forestry grant premia payment for a number of community woodlands; and £18,000 to support a project called 'A landscape rich in native trees and woodland for wildlife and people' under the Multi-year Strategic Strand of the Environment Fund.

Mr Newton asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what progress has been made in allowing the free movement of guide dogs, and other similar types of working dogs, between Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

Mr Poots: As a result of the Withdrawal Agreement and the Northern Ireland Protocol, the European Union (EU) Pet Travel Regulation (Regulation (EU) 576/2013), which details the documentary, health and compliance check requirements for the travel of pet dogs, including assistance and working dogs, between or into EU Member States, continues to apply in Northern Ireland (NI), following the end of the transition phase.

I am acutely aware of the impact of, what I consider to be, completely unnecessary new measures on those travelling within the United Kingdom (UK). I am particularly concerned about the significant implications for guide dog users, those travelling with pets to attend shows and exhibitions, hobby breeders, and the potential impact on tourism for those wishing to holiday in NI or return to NI from Great Britain (GB) accompanied by their pets.

I have therefore written to the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, George Eustice MP, and to the European Commission, highlighting these issues, and particularly the entirely unjustified requirements for rabies vaccination and tapeworm treatment, given that both the UK and the Republic of Ireland (RoI) are considered free from both diseases.

Furthermore, I have requested that urgent consideration be given to the introduction of a 'Common Travel Area' for pets travelling between GB, NI and the RoI. A joint UK/NI/RoI working group has now been established to consider where flexibilities can be achieved, and I can advise that this group has met on a number of occasions and will continue to engage on these issues.

This matter has also now been escalated by the UK Government to the European Commission seeking urgent resolution. The Commission has responded and technical discussions are ongoing. In the interim, I will continue engagement with Ministerial colleagues to urgently seek derogations where possible from these unnecessary additional requirements.

I have also confirmed, after exploring potential flexibilities, and considering pet owners have not had time to familiarise themselves with the new rules, that DAERA would delay the introduction of any checks on compliance with the EU rules on pet travel from GB to NI until 1 July 2021. As a result, there will be no routine checks on travellers' compliance, until then.

My Department is currently considering the next steps with regards this issue. The present position is set out in the Department's Compliance protocol, available /www.daera-ni.gov.uk/publications/compliance-protocol-sanitary-phytosanitary-controls-and-point-entry-marketing-standards-checks-gb-ni.

It is my hope, however, that from the discussions and processes outlined above, sensible and pragmatic solutions can be found before then.

Any progress made or flexibilities agreed in respect of the additional requirements, along with any changes to the current enforcement approach will be published on the DAERA website <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/travelling-pets> on the DAERA Frequently Asked Questions document and communicated widely through our usual Departmental media channels.

<https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/qas-pet-travel-1-january-2021>

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs how many staff have been working in the Forest Service, in each of the last five years.

(AQW 17923/17-22)

Mr Poots: Forest Service have employed the following number of staff over the last 5 years:

- 2016-17, 215;
- 2017-18, 214;
- 2018-19, 207;
- 2019-20, 210; and
- 2020-21, 212.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail on the outcome of the 2016 Areas of Special Scientific Interest condition target.

(AQW 18054/17-22)

Mr Poots: 'Valuing Nature: A Biodiversity Strategy for Northern Ireland to 2020' was published by the then Department of the Environment in 2015. This did not include an ASSI condition target.

The strategy did contain a commitment to undertake Protected Site Monitoring as an ongoing action. NIEA continues to carry out an annual programme of monitoring of features within Areas of Special Scientific Interest (ASSIs). We report ASSI condition annually through the Northern Ireland Environmental Statistics Report.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs how much funding has been set aside by his Department and its arm's-length bodies to celebrate the Northern Ireland Centenary.

Mr Poots: DAERA submitted a bid to the New Decade New Approach (NDNA) Unique Circumstances funding at the end of 2020. The bid included £1,850,000 over a period of four years to 2025, for use in Centenary events and activities. However, this funding opportunity was not included in the Final Budget outcome.

DAERA has developed a calendar of events to be taken forward through existing work programmes and budgets, under Northern Ireland Centenary branding, with an estimated value of £733,000. This includes enhancements to the accessibility of the DAERA estate, improvements to facilities at Country Parks and delivery of the Northern Ireland Food Programme.

In addition DAERA has identified a number of specific events to mark the Northern Ireland Centenary, including new woodland planting, student bursaries and environmental projects, supported by a media campaign. An initial £40,000 has been secured for this. I am, however, keeping this under review, as I am keen to do more throughout the year.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what mechanisms exist to compensate beekeepers and growers should the Small Hive Beetle become established into Northern Ireland.

Mr Poots: The Bees (Northern Ireland) Order 1980 (the Order) sets out my Department's regulatory function to prevent the introduction and spread of pests or diseases affecting bees. The Order specifies control and eradication measures to be undertaken by the Department and beekeepers in the event of a finding of a notifiable pest or disease including the Small Hive Beetle.

Bee hives and colonies are not currently required to be registered by beekeepers in NI. In the absence of compulsory registration mechanisms, the payment of compensation for losses resulting from the application of control measures under the Order is not possible.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail any plans he has to engage with the Department for the Economy to explore farm diversification options with farmers.

Mr Poots: Officials are currently finalising a draft Rural Policy Framework which will inform the need for support for rural communities and businesses going forward. I hope to be in apposition to launch an 8 week online consultation on this framework before the summer. It is too early to say what schemes will be required as part of a support programme but I'm sure there will be opportunities to assist farmers diversifying into non-agricultural activities. Officials will engage with relevant stakeholders, including the Department for the Economy, in developing future support.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) to outline the current position with the implementation of the Voisinage Agreement; and (ii) why are South Down inshore fishermen still suffering restraints.

Mr Poots: The Voisinage Agreement is still in place. This is a neighbourhood agreement between RoI and Northern Ireland and is outside the scope of the fisheries agreement within the Trade and Co-operation Agreement between the UK and the EU. However, under the UK and EU licensing arrangements for third country vessels operating in each other's waters, we are required to exchange lists of vessels requiring access so that authorisations can be issued by the UK and the EU to vessels requiring reciprocal access.

Under the RoI Maritime and Jurisdiction Act 2006 as amended by the Sea-Fisheries (Amendment) Act 2019, a Northern Ireland (NI) vessel is required to be "owned and operated" in NI to avail of Voisinage access to the Irish 0-6 nautical mile area. Further information has been requested by the EU to confirm that all the vessels we have listed as requiring EU authorisations are eligible under the Irish Act.

We have responded to this request and are seeking a meeting with Irish officials to resolve any remaining issues. In the meantime, we have not authorised any RoI vessels to fish within our 0-6nm area.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he will publish statistics for the 2019/20 year on municipal waste collected by local councils (i) that was exported to be treated or for disposal, including the countries to which it was exported; and (ii) that was sent to Great Britain to be treated or for disposal.
(AQW 18205/17-22)

Mr Poots: Whilst local authority collected municipal waste are broken down in several ways on the Departments website, see links below

- <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/northern-ireland-local-authority-collected-municipal-waste-management-statistics>
- <https://datavis.nisra.gov.uk/daera/northern-ireland-waste-management-statistics.html>

they are not currently broken down geographically by destination, however, in 2019-20:

- (i) The quantity and proportion of local authority collected municipal waste exported for treatment (either recovery or disposal) was 175,921 Tonnes (17.6%). This was reported as being exported to the following (alphabetically ordered) countries; Belgium, Benin, Cameroon, China, Denmark, Gabon, Germany, Ghana, Greece, India, Indonesia, Ireland, Ivory Coast, Netherlands, Poland, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Thailand, Turkey, USA and Vietnam.
- (ii) The quantity and proportion of local authority collected municipal waste sent to Great Britain for treatment (either recovery or disposal) was 59,862 Tonnes (6.0%).

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what proportion and quantities of municipal waste in 2019/20 was (i) sent to landfill; (ii) incinerated; (iii) processed in other ways; and (iv) sent elsewhere for disposal or treatment, broken down by local council.

(AQW 18206/17-22)

Mr Poots:

- (iii) The quantity and proportion of local authority collected municipal waste sent for incineration (with energy recovery) in 2019-20 was 220,978 Tonnes (22.1%).
- (iv) The quantity and proportion of local authority collected municipal waste sent for landfill in 2019-20 was 240,220 Tonnes (24.0%).
- (v) The quantity and proportion of local authority collected municipal waste processed in other ways but not sent for incineration nor sent to landfill in 2019-20 was 537,787 Tonnes (53.9%).

These figures given in (i) – (iii), along with their breakdown by District Council, are already reported in Tables 3 & 4 of the LAC municipal waste data tables: 2019-20 published on the Departments website (link below)

<https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/publications/northern-ireland-local-authority-collected-municipal-waste-management-statistics-2019>

- (vi) The quantity and proportion of local authority collected municipal waste (LACMW) sent elsewhere i.e. outside of Northern Ireland for treatment (recovery or disposal) by each Council in 2019-20 is shown in the table below:

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs pursuant to AQW 16422/17-22, to detail how the decision to halt work was communicated to contractors.

(AQW 18229/17-22)

Mr Poots: In consultation with DAERA Officials, Construction and Procurement Delivery (Department of Finance), issued an instruction to the contractors advising them to move to a controlled stop on 02 April 2021.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, pursuant to AQW 16422/17-22, (i) for an update on any costs his Department has determined thus far associated with the halting of work, including for consultants, engineers and other services; and (ii) whether this issue has been raised at Executive.

Mr Poots: Further to AQW 16422/17-22 and the instruction issued to the contractors on 2 April 2021 advising them to move to a controlled stop DAERA have not received any contractor compensation claims to date.

The controlled stop, which triggered a compensation event was for an initial period of six weeks and was extended for a further three weeks on 6 May 2021. Full costs associated with the controlled stop will be clear following further scoping work and discussions with contractors. Further clarity will also be provided when compensation claims are received and any adjudication process completed.

Any additional costs incurred in relation to these works will be captured in the development of the Full Business Case (FBC). As the proposals will be significant, cross-cutting and controversial, following completion of the FBC, I intend to take options for consideration and decision to the Northern Ireland Executive.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs pursuant to AQW 15655/17-22, which are the competent authorities referred to in the answer provided.

Mr Poots: Further to AQW 15655/17-22, you have sought clarification regarding the Competent Authorities (CAs) referred to in the answer provided.

Under the terms of the Withdrawal Agreement, the NI Protocol and European Union law, the Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (DAERA) and the various local authorities as outlined within Section Two of the Department's Compliance Protocol, are designated as Competent Authorities for the delivery of Official Controls.

The various Competent Authorities and their respective statutory responsibilities for the official controls and checks on the different consignment types are detailed in Section Two of DAERA's Compliance Protocol, which is available at <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/publications/compliance-protocol-sanitary-phytosanitary-controls-and-point-entry-marketing-standards-checks-gb-ni>.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) to detail any byelaws, or other regulations made by his Department, or local councils, that prohibit the lighting of fires on land and that would apply to land owned by NIEA as per the Nature Conservation and Amenity Lands (Northern Ireland) Order 1985; and (ii) to outline how any such legislation is enforced.

Mr Poots: My Department has not made any byelaws or other regulations under the Nature Conservation and Amenity Lands (Northern Ireland) Order 1985 as amended that prohibit the lighting of fires. Councils also have separate powers to enact byelaws and my Department does not hold this information.

It would be a matter for the designated authority to investigate and to enforce any offences under the terms of the relevant legislation.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs pursuant to AQW 17100/17-22, to detail the number of enforcement actions taken against these incidents.

(AQW 18311/17-22)

Mr Poots:

- While the Northern Ireland Environment Agency's waste enforcement activity focuses primarily on large scale waste offending, it will assist District Councils with action against suspected fly tippers, where the waste material is more than 20m<sup>3</sup> in volume, or involves hazardous wastes such as asbestos and the residue from fuel laundering. In doing so, it utilises a number of enforcement tools, the nature of which will depend on the volume and type of material involved and if the activity is a first-time offence or otherwise.
- Enforcement actions employed by NIEA's Enforcement Branch in respect of small scale waste offending such as fly-tipping includes advice and warning letters, statutory notices to remove the waste (Article 27) and fixed penalty notices (FPNs) of £300 or £400. For non-payment of FPNs, or offending that presents a greater threat to the environment or human health, evidence will be presented to the PPS with a view to prosecution.
- Details of NIEA's fly tipping enforcement action since 2018 are set out in the table below:

	2018	2019	2020	2021 to date

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to provide an estimated timeframe for the financial support package aimed at farmers in the Sperrins.

(AQW 18312/17-22)

Mr Poots: My officials are currently developing the administrative systems and progressing the legislation required to support the scheme and allow the financial support to be paid out.

Given competing priorities within the Department, it is likely to be summer of 2021 before the scheme will open and applications can be made. This is subject to referral and approval by the Statutory Committee, and legislation being laid before the Assembly by the summer recess.

Further information will be published on the Department's website in the next few weeks.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he will reinstate the ANC payments for Northern Ireland farmers.

(AQW 18314/17-22)

Mr Poots: I have previously stated in the Assembly that my desire is to support all farmers; no farmer should be left behind. I have no plans to reintroduce an Areas of Natural Constraint (ANC) measure. This is an old CAP measure that has little to offer in terms of moving the industry forward. We need to look to the future rather than recreate the past.

Therefore rather than reintroducing a second area based payment I would rather focus efforts on devising schemes and support measures that are good for all farmers.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) to detail all actions taken by his Department and arm's-length bodies concerning the fish kill incident in the Aghlish River; and (ii) to outline the identified impact of the pollution incident on fish stocks in the river.

(AQW 18341/17-22)

Mr Poots:

- (i) On Sunday 2 May the Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) received information through the 24 hour pollution hotline advising of a fish kill on the Aghlish River, near Dromore, County Tyrone.

Loughs Agency (LA) are the lead investigating agency for this incident and they recognize that any major incident inevitably diverts staff from previously planned work and impacts on their limited resources. However, given the importance of this river, especially in relation to juvenile fish and the wider Foyle system, appropriate efforts have and will continue to be made to ensure a professional and comprehensive investigation.

As for the Northern Environment Agency (NIEA) staff in my Department are currently analysing the water samples that were taken following the incident and are undertaking a river invertebrate survey to assist with the investigation. My officials will continue to assist LA as and when required.

- (ii) The main fatalities have been determined to be mainly native brown trout, however juvenile Atlantic salmon of different year classes have also perished. In addition, LA staff recorded dead minnows, sticklebacks and stone loach. It is assumed that any other species such as European eels and lamprey resident in this stretch would also have been killed.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether his Department currently provides any grant schemes for landowners with a spring well on their property.

Mr Poots: My Department operates a number of grant schemes for landowners. The scope of a number of these schemes relates to measures to protect the environment, including improving biodiversity and water quality. At present there are no specific schemes for landowners with a spring well on their property, however those individuals may be recipients of funding through one of the other schemes.

My Officials are planning to undertake a scoping exercise of the current use of private water supplies as a drinking water source in Northern Ireland and to establish a baseline position on the quality and resilience of such supplies with a view to informing future policy in this area.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what incentives are available to farmers to farm in an environmentally green and clean way.

Mr Poots: Protecting and enhancing our environment is a key priority for my Department and a range of related support measures are in place for farmers.

The Environmental Farming Scheme (EFS) supports farmers and land managers to implement environmentally beneficial actions and works on agricultural land. It aims to protect and enhance biodiversity and water quality, and mitigate against climate change by sequestering carbon. After four annual intake tranches some 5,000 farmers are participating in the scheme and two further tranches are planned for this year and next. The College of Agriculture, Food and Rural Enterprise (CAFRE) also delivers training for all EFS participants.

Through the Farm Business Improvement Scheme (FBIS) capital support is available to help farmers invest in a range of equipment which deliver environmental benefits. In particular, technologies such as Low Emissions Slurry Spreading Equipment (LESSE) which reduces the ammonia and water quality impacts of slurry spreading. All investments funded under FBIS-Capital have been assessed for their potential environmental impacts, and applications which included environmental improvements have been prioritised. While the FBIS-Capital scheme is currently closed for applications, I am considering what further capital support can be provided under both tiers of the scheme, and within the Future Agricultural Policy Framework for Northern Ireland, which will be launched in the coming months.

CAFRE delivers Knowledge Transfer, Innovation and Technology Transfer programmes which aim to improve future performance, sustainability and resilience of the agri-food industry.

CAFRE also deals directly with farmers through Business Development Groups, which provide a training forum that allows sharing of peer-to-peer knowledge with the aim of improving technical efficiency and environmental performance. Environmentally beneficial farming practices are a key component of the Environmental Business Development Groups.

My Department offers a soil sampling service and training for farmers which provides them with detailed information on their soils, such as pH level and nutrient requirements. By optimising pH and applying slurry, manure and chemical fertiliser in line with crop need, farmers can maximise crop yields, increase soil fertility and increase farm profitability, while also improving environmental performance.

My Department supports carbon sequestration and storage through the creation of new woodlands and the management of existing woodlands by providing grant aid towards the cost of the work.

In addition, the Northern Ireland Environment Agency is working with a number of partners to develop a series of conservation management plans for the majority of our Special Areas of Conservation. These plans will help to inform what conservation measures, environmental works and farming practices are required for the maintenance and restoration on these sites.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the full extent of capital works carried out either directly (i) by his Department; or (ii) by the UK Government to facilitate checks at ports in Northern Ireland. (AQW 18390/17-22)

Mr Poots: DAERA has implemented temporary Point of Entry contingency arrangements at Belfast, Larne and Warrenpoint by January 2021 to ensure day one readiness. Contingency arrangements were also completed in February 2021 at Foyle Point of Entry.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail any capital investment carried out at the AFBI facilities in Loughgall; (ii) New Forge Lane; and (iii) Crossnacreevy in each of the last four years. (AQW 18391/17-22)

Mr Poots: Capital investment by my Department at AFBI facilities at Loughgall, Newforge Lane and Crossnacreevy in each of the last four years is detailed in the table below. This includes capital investment in estate infrastructure, equipment, ICT and fleet.

	2017/18	2018/19	2019/20	2020/21
Loughgall	23,283	27,666	21,756	50,072
Newforge Lane	1,147,871	2,226,056	1,459,104	550,599

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail any capital investment proposals or business cases he is considering for the AFBI facilities at (i) Loughgall; (ii) New Forge Lane; and (iii) Crossnacreevy. (AQW 18392/17-22)

Mr Poots: I am currently not considering any capital investment proposals or business cases for the AFBI facilities at (i) Loughgall; (ii) New Forge Lane; and (iii) Crossnacreevy.

However, there are also a number of smaller value capital investment proposals that are being taken forward by my Department under delegated limits.

Mr Buckley asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of the adequacy of health inspections carried out in Italy to prevent fully the transfer and introduction of Small Hive Beetle into Northern Ireland via packages of honey bees.

(AQW 18402/17-22)

Mr Poots: Apiculture trade within the European Union (EU) is tightly governed by EU legislation designed to prevent the spread of harmful pests and diseases which could spread via trade in animals and animal by-products. Bees or bee by products can only move between Member States if accompanied by valid health certificates.

As part of this, intensified checks for Small Hive Beetle, Tropilaelaps spp. and American foulbrood must be carried out at the point of origin. Only where the consignment is confirmed to be free from pests and diseases, a health certificate which travels with the consignment until its point of destination may be issued.

The National Reference Centre for Beekeeping of the Italian Istituto Zooprofilattico Sperimentale delle Venezie confirmed the first detection of Small Hive Beetle (Aethina tumida) in a bait trap in the town of Gioia Tauro, in the Italian province of Reggio Calabria on 11 September 2014. Two months later, on 7 November 2014, the national reference centre for beekeeping reported the first case of Aethina tumida in the province of Siracusa, in Sicily.

Italian authorities opted for an eradication policy, under which any infested hives are destroyed and the surrounding soil is treated. Within the space of three months a further sixty apiaries were found to be infected across the region of Calabria.

An incursion into the region of Sicily was also discovered and eradicated.

Five years later, on 20 June 2019, an apiary was found infested with Aethina tumida in the municipality of Lentini, in the province of Siracusa. The epidemiological investigation carried out by the Veterinary Services identified its origin as an unauthorized movement of beehives from Calabria to Sicily. The same control and surveillance measures already applied previously were therefore adopted and a protection area of 5 km radius around the outbreak was established, always with the support of sentinel honey bee nuclei.

Intensive surveillance continues in the Region of Calabria and in the surrounding areas, by means of colony inspections and sentinel nuclei. There has been no further evidence of spread.

To date these measures and the pre-export checks carried out by the Italian authorities have been effective in preventing any further spread of Aethina tumida across the EU including, before EU exit, the entirety of the UK.

Mr Buckley asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether every package of honey bees imported into Northern Ireland from Italy will be checked for the presence of Small Hive Beetle at the point of dispatch and the point of arrival in NI.

Mr Poots: Honey bees imported into NI from Italy are subject to pre-notification, documentary checks and physical checks at the place of destination. Consignments are required to be accompanied by an Animal Health Certificate, issued by the competent authority at the point of despatch in the country of origin. Animal Health Certificates attest that bees are free from American Foulbrood, Small Hive Beetle (Aethina tumida) and Tropilaelaps mite (Tropilaelaps spp.).

Pre-notification of the arrival of these consignments from Italy, enables the Department to make provision for DAERA Inspectors to inspect these consignments of honeybees imported into NI from Italy. Inspections include a visual inspection with samples taken for analysis to establish freedom from Small Hive Beetle.

Mr Buckley asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of whether his Department's Bee Health Inspectorate is sufficiently well resourced to fully and thoroughly check three individual consignments of over 500 packages of honey bees imported from the EU to NI.

Mr Poots: Bees moving within the EU and including EU to NI are subject to EU official controls. Movement of bees into NI requires pre-notification to DAERA and consignments to be accompanied by an Animal Health Certificate, issued by the competent authority of the country of origin.

Pre-notification enables the Department to determine the risk associated with origin of the consignments, the appropriate level of inspection and resources required to be allocated. For example, currently consignments originating from Italy, where Small Hive Beetle is present, are considered high risk and subject to 100% physical inspections.

The Department determines the resource needs for this work, as it does for its wider inspection programmes, on an ongoing basis taking account of the level of risk and volume of inspections to be met.

Mr Allen asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs pursuant to AQO 1978/17-22, to detail the number of successful prosecutions, broken down by year.

Mr Poots: The data requested pursuant to AQO 1978/17-22 is summarised in the table below:

Year	Number of Cases	Date of Incident Range
2017	21	2014-2017
2018	18	2016-2017
2019	14	2016-2019
2020	7	2018-2019
2021	3	2018-2019

An incident investigation will begin in a specific year, but investigative time, case preparation and court proceedings may result in a different year for commencement and eventual completion of a prosecution case. The final column highlights the date spread of the commencement of the cases concluded in any particular year.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the steps taken, and planned, to restore coastal habitats in Northern Ireland.

Mr Poots: The Northern Ireland marine protected area network plays an important role in protecting and restoring coastal habitats, and my Department's current focus is on establishing effective management across the network.

Research has been commissioned by my Department from the Agri-Food and Biosciences Institute (AFBI) that will identify the impacts of future climate change scenarios on the coastal habitats of Northern Ireland. Coastal habitats which are considered to be at risk will be identified and by using the best available evidence this project will identify practical ways to develop adaptation measures to protect and restore vulnerable coastal habitats. Findings from this research will inform future management and restoration activities for coastal habitats.

Coastal habitats, including saltmarsh, seagrass and shellfish beds, are important carbon stores and are referred to as blue carbon habitats. To assess the feasibility of blue carbon habitat restoration in Northern Ireland, my Department provided grant funding to Ulster Wildlife. This project will inform the development of future restoration projects. My Department is also working with potential delivery partners to develop proposals to restore blue carbon habitats and other coastal habitats. In addition to restoring degraded habitats, these proposals will include activities for protected species, improving water quality and reducing marine litter.

To help support nature recovery, I recently launched the 2021-22 DAERA Environment Fund - Green Recovery Challenge Fund. The restoration of priority marine habitats, and the development of nature based climate change mitigation and adaptation solutions, such as increased natural shoreline resilience to address coastal erosion, are included as environmental priorities within this Challenge Fund. Successful projects will help support the restoration of marine and coastal habitats and ecosystems in Northern Ireland. Further information can be found at: <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/environment-fund>

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he will address coastal erosion in Northern Ireland.

Mr Poots: It is widely recognised that current policy in this area is outdated, and that the absence of specific legislation in Northern Ireland on managing coastal change, and specifically coastal erosion has resulted in a lack of data on the state of our coastline, and how it is changing over time. It has also resulted in a lack of co-ordinated and targeted investment.

I recently met with the Infrastructure Minister, Nichola Mallon to discuss coastal change and future arrangements for the Coastal Forum, a group set up by previous Ministers as a mechanism through which coastal management issues are being progressed. The Forum has previously been chaired by Ministers and comprises of the Chief Executives of coastal councils, and the NI Director of the National Trust, with ready access to expert academic advice as required.

The Forum has devised a comprehensive Work Programme, assisted by a Working Group. The priority objective for the Forum is to address the significant gaps in our coastline data and provide a reliable evidence base and vulnerability assessment for effective future coastal management. New policy will also need to be developed. In the interim, the Forum has provided decision makers with a position paper outlining current policy and best practice for Northern Ireland. My Department has commissioned a LiDAR survey which will provide a detailed baseline survey of the entire Northern Ireland coast and is developing further project proposals to enhance the evidence base.

The Forum is due to meet soon to consider the good progress on the Work Programme to date, to be followed by a further meeting before the end of the year which I and Minister Mallon will co-chair.

DfI and DAERA staff have been collaborating closely on a range of coastal issues for some time and are currently working with Irish colleagues on securing funding from the PEACE+ programme on Marine and Coastal Management. If the North-South proposal is funded, this could deliver a significant element of the investment needed to progress the proposed Coastal Forum Work Programme.

As survey data becomes available, and expert analysis is provided to the Coastal Forum for consideration, DAERA and DfI will be collectively able to determine and implement coastal management policies which are fit for purpose and based specifically on the geography of the Northern Ireland coast.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the steps taken, and planned, to restore heathlands in Northern Ireland.

Mr Poots: My Department has a range of measures in place to restore, maintain and protect heathlands in Northern Ireland.

The Environmental Farming Scheme offers support to farmers and land managers to maintain and enhance the environmental quality of various heathland habitats through appropriate management regimes. Previous agri-environment schemes also offered similar support.

In addition to support for the maintenance and restoration of heathlands through EFS, my Department also works closely with key stakeholders on the implementation of an INTERREG Va project for managing sensitive heathland habitats at Cuilcagh Mountain SAC. My Department is planning to support further restoration activities through the development of the PEACE+ programme, which aims to build on this work and expand through Nature Recovery Networks.

My Department is also developing a series of Conservation Management Plans which aim to identify the habitat types across the majority of the Special Areas of Conservation (SACs) within Northern Ireland. After assessing pressures and threats and close engagement with key stakeholders, these plans will outline the necessary conservation measures for maintenance and restoration of habitat types, including heathlands.

The Department also ensures protection of Areas of Special Scientific Interest (ASSI), including those with heathlands, through a permitting process under the Environment Order (NI) 2002. Furthermore, advice and Environment Fund support is enabling conservation work in uplands. The Department's Management of Sensitive Sites (MOSS) Scheme also delivers management to improve the condition of a range of habitats and species within ASSIs, including recent work on heathland habitats.

A significant area of heathland was impacted by the recent fire in the Mourne. My officials have instigated an assessment of the environmental damage caused to the protected habitats of the Mourne. This will provide recommendations on restoration.

NIEA Natural Environment Division (NED) provides grant aid through the Environment Fund (EF) for not-for-profit organisations to work in partnership to support and undertake habitat management including heathland management. This has included funding to Mourne Heritage Trust and recently to the Woodland Trust to acquire substantial land holdings at Cave Hill, Co. Antrim, and subsequently manage them for the benefit of nature conservation.

An EF Environmental Challenge Fund is currently open for applications and includes opportunities for funding of priority habitats including heathland projects.

In addition, the Environmental Impact Assessment (Agriculture) Regulations protect heathlands by requiring farmers and landowners to apply to my Department for permission, above certain thresholds, before altering the use or management of areas of uncultivated or semi-natural land.

Furthermore, my Department's Cross-Compliance rules also aim to ensure protection of heathlands through a range of measures, including the prevention of over-grazing, poaching and soil erosion.

Looking forward, my officials are working with farmers and land managers, agricultural industry representatives and environmental stakeholders to co-design a future agri-environment scheme. The scheme will help farmers to deliver a range of environmental outcomes, including improvements in water and air quality, biodiversity in a range of habitats, including heathlands, and reductions in carbon emissions.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the steps taken, and planned, to restore grasslands in Northern Ireland.

Mr Poots: My Department has a range of measures in place to protect and restore grasslands in Northern Ireland.

The Environmental Farming Scheme offers support to farmers and land managers to maintain and enhance the environmental quality of certain grassland types through appropriate management regimes. Previous agri-environment schemes also offered similar support, including management of Species-rich, Semi-natural and Semi-improved grassland types.

In addition to support for the maintenance and restoration of certain grassland types through EFS, my Department also works closely with key stakeholders on the implementation of an INTERREG Va project for managing sensitive grassland habitats at Cuilcagh Mountain SAC. My Department is planning to support further restoration activities through the development of the PEACE+ programme, which aims to build on this work and expand through Nature Recovery Networks.

My Department is also developing a series of Conservation Management Plans which aim to identify the habitat types across the majority of the Special Areas of Conservation (SACs) within Northern Ireland. After assessing pressure and threats and close engagement with key stakeholders, these plans will outline the necessary conservation measures for maintenance and restoration of habitat types, including grasslands.

NIEA Natural Environment Division (NED) provides grant aid through the Environment Fund (EF) for not-for-profit organisations to work in partnership to support and undertake habitat management including grasslands. An EF Environmental Challenge Fund is currently open for applications and includes opportunities for funding of priority habitats including grassland projects.

In addition, the Environmental Impact Assessment (Agriculture) Regulations protect grasslands by requiring farmers and landowners to apply to my Department for permission, above certain thresholds, before altering the use or management of areas of uncultivated or semi-natural land, including grasslands.

My Department's Cross-Compliance rules also aim to ensure protection of grassland through a range of measures, including the prevention of over-grazing, poaching and soil erosion. Furthermore, I have retained a ban on ploughing or conversion of Environmentally Sensitive Permanent Grassland under Basic Payment Scheme rules.

Looking forward, my officials are working with farmers and land managers, agricultural industry representatives and environmental stakeholders to co-design a future agri-environment scheme. The scheme will help farmers to deliver a range of environmental outcomes, including improvements in water and air quality, biodiversity in a range of habitats, including grasslands, and reductions in carbon emissions.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) to detail the number of (a) vets; (b) environmental health officers; and (c) other ancillary staff required for each border control site at each port in Northern Ireland at present; and (ii) the projected number required.

Mr Poots: My Department is responsible for the majority of checks at the portal inspection facilities however checks on High Risk Food Not of Animal Origin and Fish Product are carried out by the following District Councils who also contributed to this response – Mid and East Antrim Council (Larne Port), Belfast Council Port Health Authority (Belfast Council) and Newry and Mourne District Council (Warrenpoint Port).

The numbers of staff currently required at each portal inspection facility is outlined in the table Annex A below. Resourcing levels do not meet DAERA's requirement as 43 posts are not presently filled. This deficit is particularly marked for vets as only 14 of 29 posts are filled.

The number of staff required per port for full build permanent facilities will be captured as part of the development of a Full Business Case, work on which is underway. As the proposals for infrastructure will be significant, cross-cutting and controversial, following development of the Full Business case I intend to take options for consideration and decision to the Northern Ireland Executive before commencing building work on the permanent facilities. Annex B provides the very approximate figures currently being considered for planning purposes. These figures will be kept under continual review and adapted in response to any changes in political agreements. Both recruitment and permanent infrastructure development are currently on hold whilst an alternative is negotiated to replace the Northern Ireland Protocol which is disrupting trade between Great Britain and Northern Ireland and unnecessarily compromising Northern Ireland traders.

To support the Full Business Case, DAERA is currently conducting a workforce planning exercise to model future resource estimates. The residual uncertainties in this model concern the additional burdens that will result from the end of the current retail grace periods. Much will depend on the supply chains and distribution models used by retailers in future. For example, goods that are currently supplied from Great Britain may be sourced elsewhere and consignments may be consolidated thus reducing certification demand and the clearance procedures necessary as goods pass into Northern Ireland.

Belfast City Council has commented that due to the scale and complexity of the work, they have established an implementation programme team on a short-term basis, to plan and further develop the service during this initial period. In addition to the figures in Annex A, this team includes several other staff, including a Senior Environmental Health Officer (EHO) and a City Protection Manager EHO, as well as programme management support. This is in addition to a small pre-existing team of Port Health EHOs based at the Port Health inspection facility, comprising of 3 other EHOs not included in Annex A.

With regard to future requirements Belfast City Council states that it is working to plan for what level of service provision will be required once retail grace periods have been removed, at which point they will deliver the full level of checks. It has commented that, "there are challenges in quantifying the scale of the increase in staff numbers required, given the continuing uncertainty in the volume of checks that will eventually be needed". As negotiations at United Kingdom (UK) / European Union level are continuing, a clear timeline for 'phasing in' additional checks once the grace period for retailers expires in October 2021, has not yet been confirmed. The Council may need to increase the staff complement significantly within the current financial year. However in the absence of an agreed timeline being confirmed by UK Government it is not possible to assess what level of increase will actually be required, the timing of when we will need to recruit, and as a result what the additional cost of this will be in this financial year. Office accommodation for any increase in staff numbers is not available in the current temporary facilities. The Food Standards Agency (FSA) has also advised that any increase in staffing requirements during this financial year, will require an in-year bid to Government spending monitoring rounds.

FSA and DAERA continue to progress work to gather better volumetric data that could inform workforce planning. Until this work is concluded, we can provide only indicative projections and estimated costs based on FSA and DAERA modelling undertaken in 2020. This data analysis produced estimates based on previous trade flows, which will likely change and adapt, and may be an unreliable indicator of future trade flows. Belfast City Council officials have raised issues with this analysis with FSA and DAERA separately. The modelling deficiencies we are aware of include:

- Gaps within the data used as an input;
- Assumptions used for the time to complete tasks; and
- Analysis of physical space requirements and staff accommodation.

The current FSA model indicates that there would need to be a significant increase in the 'on shift' teams and an associated increase in oversight roles."

The total estimates are included below in Annex B below:

Annex A

Mr Beggs asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs who is legally responsible for the staff and the associated costs at border control sites in Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18471/17-22)

Mr Poots: Under the terms of the Withdrawal Agreement, the Northern Ireland Protocol and domestic law, Northern Ireland must continue to adhere to the European Union (EU) Official Controls Regulation (OCR). Under this regulation, the relevant Competent Authorities (CAs) are legally obliged to undertake official controls on imports into Northern Ireland from non-EU countries (third countries), now including Great Britain (GB), to ensure compliance with EU law.

My Department, as a Competent Authority, has a statutory responsibility to ensure compliance with those elements of EU law relating to the areas of animal and plant health, animal welfare, and aspects of public health. As such, my Department must maintain adequate staffing to deliver the work required. DAERA authorises its own officers to deliver official controls at NI Points of Entry (POEs) on what the EU considers third country imports of live animals, including live fish; products of animal origin (POAO); animal by-products; regulated plants, plant products and other objects (such as agricultural or forestry machinery); and seeds.

Local Authorities have been designated as the relevant Competent Authority for a series of official controls at NI POEs, under the provisions of the Official Feed and Food Control Regulations (NI) 2009 (as amended), the Trade in Animals and Related Products Regulations (NI) 2011 (as amended), and the Sea Fishing (Illegal, Unreported and Unregulated Fishing) Order (NI) 2018.

As such, relevant Local Authorities also have a responsibility to maintain adequate staffing to deliver the work required and authorise their own officers to perform checks relating to high-risk food not of animal origin, fishery products (including checks on Illegal Unreported Unregulated Catch Certificates), and organics and plastic kitchenware originating in or consigned from China and Hong Kong.

Pursuant to OCR, EU member states (and NI by extension of the NI Protocol) must also ensure that adequate financial resources are available to perform official controls and other official activities, such as checks at POEs. As such, each Competent Authority is responsible for ensuring funding is in place for checks that they are legally required to deliver.

I am firmly opposed to the detrimental impact of these additional new checks and the barriers they place on the intra-UK movement of live animals, goods and products, from GB to NI.

For this reason, I have already written to Defra Secretary of State, George Eustice MP, and the European Commission, to highlight the difficulties caused by these new requirements and the practical implementation of the NI Protocol. Moreover, discussions between the United Kingdom (UK) Government and the European Commission are continuing, which I hope will find pragmatic solutions and resolutions to the current difficulties caused by implementation of these checks.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of (i) whether the introduction of the Small Hive Beetle to Northern Ireland would decimate the population of honey bees and all other pollinating insects; and (ii) the impact on fruit growers in Northern Ireland.

Mr Poots: The Small hive beetle (SHB) is a major threat to the long-term sustainability and economic prosperity of beekeeping in Northern Ireland and, as a consequence, to agriculture (including fruit growers) and the environment through disruption to pollination services.

Small Hive Beetle (SHB) is indigenous to Africa, where it is considered a minor scavenger pest of honey bee colonies, causing comparatively little harm. However, outside its native range within colonies which lack African bees' defences, adult beetles enter hives unchecked causing devastating infestations. The beetle can multiply to huge numbers within infested colonies, where it eats brood, honey and pollen, destroys combs and causes fermentation and spoiling of honey. If beetle infestations are uncontrolled they ultimately destroy the colony.

Small hive beetle is pest of social bees that live in colonies. It will infest honeybee colonies and there is evidence from North America that bumblebee colonies can also be attacked. Solitary bees, which make up the bulk of native bee species, are not likely to be affected. Other pollinating insects, e.g. flies, wasps, beetles, moths and butterflies, are not affected by small hive beetle.

The main fruit industry in NI affected by a potential decline in honeybee populations is Bramley apple production. Insect pollination is essential to proper fruit set. For example, pollination services underpinned ~65% of market output of Cox and Gala varieties[1]. In England, the economic impact of insect pollination on orchard profits was £14,500 per hectare for Bramley[2]. The extent to which apple crops rely on honeybee pollination is variable and depends on the apple variety and also the availability of other pollinators, such as solitary bees, bumblebees and hoverflies. In England, solitary bees were the most important pollinators of Bramley apples, with honeybees contributing 26% ( $\pm 30\%$ ) of pollination services[2].

We are reliant on the controls put in place by the European Union to prevent the spread of SHB from the affected province of Calabria in southern Italy. These have been effective in preventing the further spread of the pest. However if SHB was to be introduced and was not detected very soon after its arrival, it would spread rapidly into the surrounding honey bee population, making eradication very difficult. The range of chemical or biological controls available may be limited. Some of those used in other parts of the world are not licensed for use within the UK. Control methods used overseas so far have not been completely successful in eliminating SHB, merely controlling it to below damaging population levels.

If the Small hive beetle were ever to become established in Northern Ireland, then beekeepers here would have to learn to control it along the same lines as beekeepers in countries where the beetle is already present – focusing on prevention of infestation, detection and control.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) to detail the costs incurred to date for legal advice sought by his Department for the purposes of lodging judicial proceedings against the Ireland/Northern Ireland Protocol; and (ii) whether this issue has been discussed at the Executive due to its cross-cutting nature.

Mr Poots: To date there have been no costs incurred by my Department for the purposes of lodging judicial proceedings against the Northern Ireland Protocol and the matter has not been considered by the Executive.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, in relation to the stop-start nature of the ports infrastructure build, whether further costs have been incurred in addition to the £50.4 million already allocated.

Mr Poots: On 2 April 2021 an instruction was issued to the appointed contract teams to move to a controlled stop for an initial period of six weeks which was extended for a further three weeks on 6 May 2021. The controlled stop was initiated to allow officials to complete work associated with workforce planning, finalising the client brief and achieving the necessary approvals associated with spends in this financial year. The controlled stop triggered a compensation event however DAERA has not received any compensation claim to date.

Full costs associated with the stop and any delay will be clear following further scoping work and discussions with contractors. Further clarity will also be provided when compensation claims are received and any adjudication process completed.

Any additional costs incurred in relation to these works will be captured in the development of the Full Business Case.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether the destruction of protected wildlife will not be involved in his Department's Bovine Tuberculosis Strategy.

(AQW 18508/17-22)

Mr Poots: The proposed bTB (bovine Tuberculosis) Eradication Strategy for Northern Ireland aims to reduce, and eventually eradicate, bTB levels by comprehensively addressing all the recognised key factors in the spread of the disease.

Within the development of the Strategy, consideration has been given to the role of wildlife, specifically badgers, as it is widely accepted that badgers act as reservoirs of bTB infection. The Department is of the view that there needs to be some form of badger intervention if bTB spread between badgers and cattle is to be effectively addressed.

The eradication of bTB from Northern Ireland remains one of my top priorities and I have stated that I wish to consult on the new bTB Eradication Strategy, including proposals for wildlife intervention, in the very near future.

Following consideration of the responses to that consultation, it is my intention to progress implementation of the new Strategy, so that we can move towards eradication of this devastating disease from Northern Ireland.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he intends to introduce a similar scheme to the UK Government's proposed Environmental Land Management scheme.

Mr Poots: Work is underway to develop an agricultural support framework portfolio better suited to local needs and one that will provide for and secure long term sustainability within the industry.

My officials are working with farmers and land managers, agricultural industry representatives and environmental stakeholders to co-design schemes which will deliver a range of environmental outcomes, including improvements in water and air quality, biodiversity and reductions in carbon emissions.

My officials have been watching closely the development of the Environmental Land Management Scheme in England as well as those schemes being developed in Scotland and Wales and the revised Common Agricultural Policy in the Republic of Ireland. This will help inform the development of future schemes in Northern Ireland.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) when he expects the Farm Families Health Checks Programme to recommence; and (ii) to outline their work.

(AQW 18542/17-22)

Mr Poots:

- (i) The Farm Family Health Checks Programme re-commenced at Omagh Mart on 10 May.
- (ii) The Farm Family Health Checks Programme increases access to health screening services. A qualified nurses can detect ill health and offer healthy lifestyle advice on a range of issues including prevention or early detection of heart disease, obesity, cancer, diabetes and mental health problems. With the clients consent a report is sent to their GP for consideration and for those clients for whom it was recommended to see their GP, a 3 month follow up phone call is provided to reinforce health messages.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail (i) the number of pollution incidents in watercourses recorded by his Department; and (ii) any corresponding fines or prosecutions, broken down by location, in each of the last three years.

Mr Poots:

- (i) The number of water pollution incidents confirmed by the Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, broken down by constituency, in each of the last three years are presented in Table 1 below.

The total number of confirmed water pollution incidents in 2018, 2019 and 2020 were 924, 941 and 948 respectively. A small number of confirmed water pollution incidents, approximately 1.5%, each year are confirmed but with their locations below the high water mark along the Northern Ireland coastline outside of the Parliamentary Boundary and these are, as a result, not presented in the table below. In 2018, there were 19 such incidents, in 2019 there were 14 and in 2020 there were 9.

A recommendation to the Public Prosecution Service (PPS) in relation to water pollution is reserved for the most serious of cases or as a last resort. The numbers of cases are small compared to the overall number of initial reports made to the Northern Ireland Environment Agency, but each incident requiring enforcement action is assessed in line with Departmental policy and procedures and may be dealt with in a manner other than a recommendation for prosecution.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs how many requests his Department received for the translation of documents into (i) Irish; and (ii) Ulster Scots, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18567/17-22)

Mr Poots: From the information which is currently available, the number of requests received by the Department for translation of documents into (i) Irish; and (ii) Ulster Scots in each of the last three years beginning on 01 April 2018 and ending on 31 March 2021 is as follows:

(i) Irish

2018 – 2019: Nil

2019 – 2020: Nil

2020 – 2021: Nil

(ii) Ulster Scots

2018 – 2019: Nil

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail on the engagement his Department has had with the Ulster Farmer's Union and other industry representatives regarding his Department's Climate Change Bill.
(AQW 18580/17-22)

Mr Poots: My Department completed a public consultation on a 'Discussion Document on a Northern Ireland Climate Change Bill' and this consultation was issued widely, including to the Ulster Farmer's Union and other industry representatives in Northern Ireland. It sought views from the general public and a wide range of stakeholders and sectors across Northern Ireland on policy options for a climate change Bill for Northern Ireland. Analysis of the consultation responses has been commissioned from Northern Ireland Statistics & Research Agency (NISRA). The results of the analysis and summary of responses obtained from the consultation, will be published by my Department in due course.

Mr Chambers asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether the trees directly surrounding Portavoe Reservoir are under the stewardship of the Forest Service.

Mr Poots: Forest Service currently manage the trees directly surrounding Portavoe Reservoir.

Following the sale of the land by NI Water to private landowners, the ownership and management of the trees continues as per the agreement with the former landowner NI Water, which is covenanted in the Contracts for Sale relating to the land transfer.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether his Department is aware of any issues surrounding the weir in Sion Mills and the impact it is having on migratory fish.

Mr Poots: My Department is aware of the concerns regarding fish passage at the weir at Sion Mills which falls within the Lough's Agency jurisdiction.

Both DAERA and Loughs Agency officials have visited the weir to review fish passage. Lough's Agency officials have confirmed that they will be requesting an annual 6 week shutdown of the hydro-electric turbines to ensure the safe downstream passage of smolts. The site will continue to be monitored to ensure any fish passage issues are resolved as soon as possible.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on the action his Department is taking to enable the free movement of people who use assistance dogs from 1 July 2021.

Mr Poots: As a result of the Withdrawal Agreement and the Northern Ireland Protocol, the European Union (EU) Pet Travel Regulation (Regulation (EU) 576/2013), which details the documentary, health and compliance check requirements for the travel of pet dogs, including assistance and working dogs, between or into European Union Member States, continues to apply in Northern Ireland (NI), following the end of the transition phase.

I am acutely aware of the impact of what I consider to be, completely unnecessary new measures on those travelling within the United Kingdom (UK). I am particularly concerned about the significant implications for guide dog users, those travelling with pets to attend shows and exhibitions, hobby breeders, and the potential impact on tourism for those wishing to holiday in NI or return to NI from Great Britain (GB) accompanied by their pets.

I have therefore written to the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, George Eustice MP, and to the European Commission, highlighting these issues, and particularly the entirely unjustified requirements for rabies vaccination and tapeworm treatment, given that both the UK and the Republic of Ireland (RoI) are considered free from both diseases.

Furthermore, I have requested that urgent consideration be given to the introduction of a 'Common Travel Area' for pets travelling between GB, NI and the RoI. A joint UK/NI/RoI working group has now been established to consider where flexibilities can be achieved, and I can advise that this group has met on a number of occasions and will continue to engage on these issues.

This matter has also now been escalated by the UK Government to the European Commission seeking urgent resolution. The Commission has responded and technical discussions are ongoing. In the interim, I will continue engagement with Ministerial colleagues to urgently seek derogations where possible from these unnecessary additional requirements.

I have also confirmed, after exploring potential flexibilities, and considering pet owners have not had time to familiarise themselves with the new rules, that DAERA would delay the introduction of any checks on compliance with the EU rules on pet travel from GB to NI until 1 July 2021. As a result, there will be no routine checks on travellers' compliance, until then.

My Department is currently considering the next steps with regards this issue. The present position is set out in the Department's Compliance protocol, available <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/publications/compliance-protocol-sanitary-phytosanitary-controls-and-point-entry-marketing-standards-checks-gb-ni>

It is my hope, however, that from the discussions and processes outlined above, sensible and pragmatic solutions can be found before then.

Any progress made or flexibilities agreed in respect of the additional requirements, along with any changes to the current enforcement approach will be published on the DAERA website <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/travelling-pets>, on the DAERA Frequently Asked Questions document

<https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/qas-pet-travel-1-january-2021> and communicated widely through our usual Departmental media channels.

Department for Communities

Mr McGrath asked the Minister for Communities to detail the funding provided by her Department to voluntary and charitable groups in South Down, in each of the last three years, for each of the publicly available funding streams.

(AQW 17210/17-22)

Ms Hargey (The Minister for Communities): Funding awarded by public funders should be uploaded to the Government Funding Database, which is publicly accessible at <https://govfundingpublic.nics.gov.uk>.

Table 1 provides details of funding recorded on the database as having been allocated to groups in the South Down constituency by the Department for Communities in the last three years via a range of commissioning methods and approaches. These include existing funding frameworks, match funding to local government community development programmes and a number of regional partnerships.

Extensive financial support was provided by my Department to mitigate the impact of Covid-19 in the last year. While publicly available funding schemes have ended, delivery partners are currently finalising closure arrangements. Where this information is available, I have provided details of successful grant awardees at Table 2. My Department has also distributed funding directly to Councils. Some of this funding may have been allocated in the South Down constituency and each Council would be able to provide details.

Through the Neighbourhood Renewal Investment Fund administered in South Down, there is no direct funding to voluntary and charitable groups in this constituency. However, at Table 3 I have provided details of funding to Council and Statutory Bodies which have benefited residents in the Downpatrick Neighbourhood Renewal Area.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister for Communities how many people are on the housing waiting list for a bungalow.
(AQW 17633/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive has confirmed that it does not hold data for people on the housing waiting list specifically for a bungalow. Instead it has provided the following table which details the number of applicants as at 31 March 2021 on the waiting list for ground floor accommodation. This includes applicants who require ground floor accommodation as well as those applicants who have expressed a preference for ground floor accommodation. In addition, the table includes information in respect of applicants who require wheelchair accessible accommodation.

	Total
Applicants who Require Ground Floor Accommodation	8,072
Applicants who are Wheelchair Users	581

Ms Bunting asked the Minister for Communities what action she is taking to address social housing need in East Belfast.
(AQW 17726/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive has advised me that at the end of March 2021 there were 2,572 applicants on the waiting list in the Belfast East Parliamentary Constituency, of which 1,667 were in housing stress. The annual allocations to applicants was 451 homes.

Please note that this includes the following Common Landlord Areas which fall across the boundary with the Belfast South Constituency, Cregagh Castlereagh, Willowfield/Upper Castlereagh Road and Bridge End / Rotherdam Court.

I am committed to ensuring more social homes are built and allocated where they are needed. Additional actions to achieve this aim are currently being developed and the Housing Executive has been asked to identify these mechanisms. Ring fencing of the social housing budget will be reintroduced to ensure that those areas of acute housing need are prioritised.

There are currently 117 new social housing units under construction. I have already provided you with details of social housing units programmed to start as part of the Social Housing Development Programme (SHDP) 2020/21 – 2022/23, within the Belfast East Constituency in my response to AQW 17578 /17-22.

Please note that I have just approved the SHDP 2021/22 – 2023/24. The published SHDP will be updated to reflect additional and re-profiled schemes within the Belfast East Constituency.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister for Communities what action she is taking to ensure to Irish passport holders can secure National Insurance numbers in the absence of holding additional documentation.
(AQW 17824/17-22)

Ms Hargey: In order for a National Insurance Number to be allocated an individual's identity needs to be verified through the provision of documentation which needs to be authenticated by the Department.

My department is now contacting people to arrange an interview where a face to face appointment is required to complete the application process.

Once the documentation is validated a National Insurance this Number is issued to the person within days.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister for Communities for an update on restoring face to face National Insurance Number interviews. (AQW 17851/17-22)

Ms Hargey: In order for a National Insurance Number to be allocated an individual's identity needs to be verified through the provision of documentation which needs to be authenticated by the Department.

My department is now contacting people to arrange an interview where a face to face appointment is required to complete the application process.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for Communities (i) to detail the number of people in receipt of Income Support on (a) 31 March 2020; and (b) 31 March 2021; (ii) whether those in receipt of Carer's Allowance received an uplift in payments during the COVID-19 pandemic; and (iii) to outline the rationale for this decision. (AQW 17933/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The number of people in receipt of Income Support on 29 March 2020, (the closest date to 31 March for which there is data available) was 22,950. The statistics for 31 March 2021 have not yet been published

In relation to points (ii) and (iii), I refer the member to response to AQW 17934.

During the pandemic the rate of Carer's Allowance was increased in line with the Consumer Prices Index (CPI) – that is 1.7% from April 2020 and 0.5% from April 2021. In terms of the weekly rate payable under Carer's Allowance here, when the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions makes an Up-rating Order in Britain, my Department is empowered only to make a corresponding Order. My Department has no power to increase the amounts of benefit by a different or greater amount in the annual Up-rating Order.

I recognise the importance of the role of unpaid carers, especially in recent times when other support services may have been reduced or even closed and the caring role became even harder due to the need to self-isolate or shield the person they care for.

In terms of providing longer term additional financial support for carers here, it is anticipated that this will be considered as part of the upcoming welfare mitigations review.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for Communities (i) to detail the number of people in receipt of Carer's Allowance on (a) 31 March 2020; and (b) 31 March 2021; (ii) whether those in receipt of Carer's Allowance received an uplift in payments during the COVID-19 Pandemic; and (iii) to outline the rationale for this decision. (AQW 17934/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The number of people in receipt of Carer's Allowance in March 2020 was 48,730. As the statistics for 31 March 2021 have not yet been published.

During the pandemic the rate of Carer's Allowance was increased in line with the Consumer Prices Index (CPI) – that is 1.7% from April 2020 and 0.5% from April 2021. In terms of the weekly rate payable under Carer's Allowance here, when the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions makes an Up-rating Order in Britain, my Department is empowered only to make a corresponding Order. Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities what vocational qualifications trainees on the Job Start scheme will attain. (AQW 17955/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The purpose of the JobStart Scheme is to provide opportunities for young people, at risk of long term unemployment, to develop skills to help them become more employable. Employers can do this through:

- training to develop occupational related skills (specific to the job)
- training to develop employability skills (transferable skills)
- support to update their CV and interview preparation
- support to look for long-term work

While employers will determine the training and/or qualifications a young person may obtain whilst taking part in their JobStart opportunity, they will still be required to provide the Department with a detailed training plan for each job opportunity created within two weeks of the young person commencing their opportunity.

This will set out the skills development plans and inform the Department of any qualifications to be undertaken.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities to detail (i) the number of places available in the Job Start scheme; (ii) the number of employers required to meet the targeted number of places; and (c) the number of trainees who, on completion of training, are expected to secure full-time employment.

Ms Hargey: The JobStart Scheme hopes to offer over 3,300 job opportunities.

As the scheme is demand led by employers who wish to apply for funding for JobStart opportunities there is no clear way to estimate how many employers will apply. Based on current applications received, over 1,200 employers would need to apply to reach the target of 3,300 job opportunities.

The purpose of the JobStart Scheme is to provide opportunities for young people, at risk of long term unemployment, to develop skills to help them become more employable. Employers can do this through:

- training to develop occupational related skills (specific to the job)
- training to develop employability skills (transferable skills)
- support to update their CV and interview preparation
- support to look for long-term work

We have no way of estimating at this stage the number of young people who will secure full-time employment when the JobStart Scheme ends but plan to gather this data as the scheme progresses.

The Department will encourage employers to retain the young person on completion of their job opportunity.

In order to help the young person secure full-time employment afterwards the Department is working closely with the Department for Economy to promote the Apprenticeships Scheme as a route for employers to retain the young person when the JobStart Scheme ends.

Work Coaches will also assist with jobsearch activities to help find a suitable opportunity for the young person when the scheme ends through their newly acquired skills.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the consideration of an increase of Carers Allowance benefits.

(AQW 17983/17-22)

Ms Hargey: As part of the annual up-rating exercise, these benefits were increased by the rate of the Consumer Price Index (CPI) as measured by CPI for the previous September. As a result of the April 2021 up-rating Carer's Allowance was increased to £67.60 a week.

In terms of the weekly rate payable under Carer's Allowance here, when the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions makes an Up-rating Order in Britain, my Department is empowered only to make a corresponding Order. My Department has no power to increase the amounts of benefit by a different or greater amount in the annual Up-rating Order.

Additionally, in terms of providing longer term additional financial support for carers here, it is anticipated that this will be considered as part of the upcoming welfare mitigations review.

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister for Communities to outline the demand for Housing Executive properties in Mid Ulster, broken down by bedroom size.

(AQW 18003/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Table 1 below provides a breakdown of all applicants on the waiting list as of the 1st April 2021 within the Mid Ulster Local Government District boundary who have a 1st preference area of choice in Mid Ulster by calculated bedroom entitlement.

It should be noted that, in certain circumstances, the Housing Selection Scheme rules can afford an additional bedroom entitlement to an applicant, based on their individual needs. The bedroom entitlement in this dataset corresponds to the minimum bedroom requirements under the rules of the HSS, therefore the 'actual' bedroom need of some applicants included in it may vary from the 'calculated' need.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities to outline a timetable for the managed migration of benefits; and whether her Department has the number of staff needed to manage reassessments of legacy benefit claimants.

(AQW 18089/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Planning for Move to UC (formerly called Managed Migration) here, was temporarily paused in March 2020 to allow my Department to focus all available resources on the response to the increased demand for services as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.

A start date for commencement of the Move to UC phase has yet to be confirmed. My Department will keep stakeholders advised when timings are more certain.

Due to the increased demand for benefits as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, my officials continue to monitor closely the resourcing requirements for service delivery and will take into account the number of staff required for the Move to UC phase at the appropriate time.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Communities (i) whether there is a difference in the application to, and processing of, the Special Purchase of Evacuated Dwellings in the Northern Ireland Housing Executive for members of security forces as opposed to those who are not; and (ii) to outline the rationale for any differences.

Ms Hargey: The Scheme for the Purchase of Evacuated Dwellings (SPED) is administered by the Housing Executive

It is the responsibility of the Housing Executive and Police to assess eligibility under the criteria. There is an administrative difference in the processing of Security Forces applications and Civilian applications under the SPED scheme.

Security Forces applicants obtain the SPED application form from PSNI Emergency Housing Unit or the Prison Service. Completed Security Forces applications are returned directly to PSNI Emergency Housing Unit for assessment. Only those Security Forces applications which meet the criterion are then submitted to the Housing Executive for assessment under the first criterion.

The rationale for this difference in the administration of SPED applications for members of the security forces is to minimise the sharing of security force members' personal data to only the extent necessary and essential for the processing of their applications.

All applications which meet both eligibility criteria are processed thereafter in the same way under SPED by Housing Executive Land Asset & Policy Unit in relation to the purchase of the property.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities what progress she has made with the Minister of Finance and HMRC on reducing or removing VAT from labour and equipment purchased to retrofit houses with energy efficient heating alternatives.

(AQW 18236/17-22)

Ms Hargey: I have not held discussions with the Minister of Finance or HMRC about reducing or removing VAT from labour and equipment to retrofit houses.

VAT is an Excepted Matter that is the responsibility of Treasury.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities to outline the recommendations on the sub-regional stadia that were due to be published at the end of April 2021.

(AQW 18238/17-22)

Ms Hargey: I can confirm that my officials met with the Advisory Working Group on 28 April 2021 to review the evidence gathered in full and discuss the development of proposals the shape and scope of the Programme going forward.

I have asked my officials to provide me with an analysis of all the evidence gathered, including details from the latest discussion from the Advisory Working Group meeting. This will inform my update to Executive colleagues on the future implementation of the Programme in the coming weeks.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the Waterside Shared Village.

(AQW 18271/17-22)

Ms Hargey: In February 2018, the Waterside Shared Village project was awarded £6.8m under Action 3.1 (Shared Spaces Capital Development) of the European Union Programme for Peace and Reconciliation (PEACE IV 2014-20). Delivery of the project is led by Derry City & Strabane District Council in partnership with Irish Street Youth & Community Association and Hillcrest Community Trust.

Ten Project Board meetings have been held to date with the latest on 14 April 2021. Woodvale Construction have been appointed as the main contractor and construction is due to commence in June 2021.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Communities how many social housing new builds are needed to address Housing Executive waiting lists in North Down.

(AQW 18281/17-22)

Ms Hargey: New build social housing is delivered via the Social Housing Development Programme (SHDP). The SHDP is formulated taking account of the five year housing need projection by settlement. The five year projected need for the North Down Parliamentary Constituency is 551 new social homes.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for Communities for her assessment of the number of unpaid carers; and what steps she is taking to support these carers.

Ms Hargey: The figures from the 2011 Census indicate that over 212,000 people here identified as a carer and were providing some form of unpaid care from a few hours per week upwards to 50 hours per week – other reports since indicate that figure to have grown, some suggesting during the pandemic to be as high as 360,000.

My Department has responsibility for administering Carer's Allowance. I am aware that the benefit caseload numbers will not fully capture all of those people in our community that provide some degree of unpaid care and support for an ill, older or disabled family member, or friend. However the most recent figures available from November 2020 indicate that the number of claimants of Carer's Allowance is 75,610 people, with 49,870 of those in receipt of a Carers's Allowance payment.

Those carers on a low income can access additional financial support from my Department through income-related benefits and their associated carer premiums/additions. Carers in receipt of Universal Credit will also be able to benefit from the increase in the standard allowance put in place in response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

In terms of providing longer term additional financial support for carers here, it is anticipated that this will be considered as part of the upcoming welfare mitigations review.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister for Communities what support and funding her Department is providing to GAA clubs in the East Derry constituency.

(AQW 18360/17-22)

Ms Hargey: In terms of financial support, over the past 3 years my Department and Sport NI has provided almost £250,000 of financial support directly to GAA clubs in the East Derry constituency as outlined in Annex A. These lists include Covid support provided through the Sports Hardship Fund and the Covid Safe PPE Packs.

In addition to the details set out in the Annex, Sport NI also provided funding through the Sports Sustainability Fund (SSF) of just over £750,000 to Derry GAA Board for issue to clubs across the county. Details of SSF awards to these clubs, which includes East Derry constituency, can be found at <http://www.sportni.net/funding/our-funding-programmes/sports-sustainability-fund/sports-sustainability-fund-awards-list/ulster-council-gaa-approved-award/>.

Sport NI is offering ongoing free training for sports clubs and organisations through its “Supporting Sport to Build Back Better: Business Capability Support” programme. Over the next 12 months training will be offered on topics such as Business, Strategic and Financial Planning.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the progress made to take forward the recommendations published by the Housing Supply Forum in 2016.

(AQW 18395/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Housing Supply Forum Report made 10 recommendations to increase housing supply.

A table setting out progress against each recommendation is included below. It should be noted that not all recommendations are for DfC to consider and I have not sought updates on those that fall to other departments.

No.	Recommendation	Lead Department / Update
1	Consideration should be given to adopting a policy of “presumption in favour of sustainable development”	Department for Infrastructure
2	Publication and analysis of key performance information arising from local council planning decisions should be undertaken at suitably regular intervals for each council area.	Department for Infrastructure
3	Consideration should be given to completion of a mapping exercise overlapping demand with availability and zoning information and to allowing the construction industry to have access to data on available public land. To enable this to be progressed a meeting should be convened with the DFP Minister / OFMDFM with a view to targets being set for the release of publically owned land.	Department for Communities The Public Land for Housing Project ran from May 2017 to March 2021. The Project has: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Developed a digital map of DfC assets which has been published online on the Spatial NI platform;</li> <li>Provided the baseline data for the Land and Property Services (LPS) Government Land and Property Register (GLPR) project; and</li> <li>Developed new collaborative cross departmental partnerships to explore the release of unused land across the public sector.</li> </ul> The Project was also set and achieved a Programme for Government target to identify and secure the release of 10 sites for housing by March 2021.
4	There should be increased encouragement and support from Government for joint ventures between housing associations and private developers, including ‘design and build’	Department for Communities Through the Social Housing Development Programme, Housing Associations bring forward a number of schemes under the competitive design and build method of procurement each year. This has been increasing year on year and provides much needed social housing in areas of greatest need. A review of this procurement method is currently underway. The Department has been working to ensure that the Council’s Local Development Plans approach is procurement compliant. When considering proposed housing developments, where a social housing need has already been identified, local councils can require private developers to provide a certain number/ percentage of affordable homes within their Local Development Plans.
5	We recommend that independent empirical research be carried out with both statutory authorities and the development community into housing delivery time frames, to determine the actual time frames being experienced.	Department for Communities Recommendation not progressed at this time
6	Housing policy should encompass the sector as a whole, rather than its constituent parts.	Department for Communities The Department will soon publish the Call for Evidence on the draft Housing Strategy. The Strategy proposes a whole system approach to addressing Housing challenges. The whole system approach emphasises the central role of people, places and communities in considering and delivering on our housing needs and demands.

No.	Recommendation	Lead Department / Update
7	Powers should be available to the new local councils to enable sites to be assembled for the benefit of the whole community and to ensure the appropriate delivery of housing need. As the new councils are new entities, additional or amended legislation may be required	Department for Communities Recommendation not progressed at this time
8	Consideration should be given to the methodology used to calculate Road and Sewer Bond values and the release of bond capital in a timely manner as construction proceeds. There should also be investigation of whether there is an alternative approach, other than bonds, which would still ensure a high standard of infrastructure	Department for Infrastructure
9	Any further increase in Building Regulation requirements incurring additional build costs should be deferred until volumes have recovered significantly.	Department of Finance
10	We suggest conducting a pilot study to track selected housing development projects through the approval and delivery process with the purpose of identifying and removing barriers or blockages that may exist in the current system to enable a more streamlined process to be developed for NI. This should be with a view to examining the potential for the establishment of a Virtual Delivery Unit at an appropriate time.	Department for Communities Recommendation not progressed at this time

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities (i) how many people in Northern Ireland are on Universal Credit; and (ii) of that number, how many individuals do not receive welfare mitigation support for (a) benefit cap; (b) social sector size criteria, known as the bedroom tax; or (c) benefit cap and social sector size criteria.

(AQW 18397/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The most recent published statistical data for Universal Credit and Welfare Mitigations Support is available at:

- <https://www.communities-ni.gov.uk/system/files/publications/communities/dfc-ni-uc-stats-nov-2020.pdf>
- <https://www.communities-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/communities/dfc-annual-report-welfare-supplementary-payments-discretionary-support-standards-of-advice-assistance-and-sanctions-annual-report-2019-20.pdf>
- <https://www.communities-ni.gov.uk/system/files/publications/communities/benefit-cap-statistics-nov-2020.pdf>

It is important to note that entitlement to welfare mitigation support is dependent on individual circumstances. Therefore, not everyone claiming Universal Credit will be entitled to support for benefit cap, social sector size criteria or both.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Communities (i) for an update on funding packages her Department has issued to local councils to assist with town and village recovery from COVID-19; and (ii) whether she will introduce further funding packages in the current financial year.

Ms Hargey: My Department has provided a wide range of support to local councils in order to mitigate the impact of the pandemic and support recovery in settlements of all sizes.

The Department was allocated £85.3 million from the Executive for councils to alleviate projected financial losses and COVID-19 costs during 2020-21. This has been fully allocated to local councils and will help ensure Councils can positively contribute to local economic, social and environmental recovery, and help to play a very vital role in that recovery.

In addition to mainstream regeneration programmes within which my Department works closely with councils on an ongoing basis, DfC also initiated the COVID-19 Recovery Revitalisation Programme. This allocated £19.3m to council areas to support the Revitalisation Plans developed by councils in conjunction with key stakeholders in their areas and which were bespoke to the identified needs of each council area. DfC contributed £12m towards the Programme, with additional contributions of £5m and £2.3m from Department for Infrastructure (DfI) and Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (DAERA).

Over £8m was used by councils to fund small business grants to prepare premises for reopening. This included support for the provision of hand sanitising stations, safety screens and signage in town and village centres.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Communities whether she will bring forward proposals to allow council's to utilise capital borrowing powers and capitalisation schemes to assist with Voluntary Severance Schemes.

(AQW 18450/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Section 19(5) of the Local Government Finance Act (NI) 2011 allows my Department to issue capitalisation directions to councils. This permits, in very limited circumstances, specified items of expenditure normally classified as revenue to be treated as capital expenditure.

Treasury currently has an overall capitalisation limit for here of £3.4m. My officials have prepared a business case seeking to give councils more flexibility by increasing their capitalisation threshold from the current £3.4m in order to deliver efficiencies. As a result of the business case prepared by my officials, DoF is currently preparing to approach Treasury with a proposal to increase the capitalisation threshold on my Department's behalf.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Communities whether she will bring forward proposals to allow councils to restructure their outstanding loans without penalty to aid financial circumstances as a result of the pandemic.

(AQW 18451/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Councils may apply to the Department of Finance (DoF) for loans from the Consolidated Fund or take out commercial loans with private sector providers. Loans from the Consolidated Fund are agreed by DoF, including the term of the loan and the interest rates that will apply.

My officials continue to liaise with councils through ALGFO (Association of Local Government Finance Officers) and SOLACE (Society of Local Authority Chief Executives) and DoF to ascertain if there are options to restructure loans that could be utilised.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Communities whether extended trading hours has been considered to assist with the recovery of retail and to reduce the potential for crowding.

(AQW 18474/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The main legislation governing retail trading hours for which I am responsible is the Shops (Sunday Trading &c.) (NI) Order 1997 (the 1997 Order). This allows small shops unrestricted opening on Sundays while large shops (i.e. those with a floor area exceeding 280 square metres) are restricted to opening for a maximum of five hours between 1.00pm and 6.00pm.

I understand that some district councils have taken the decision not to pursue enforcement of Sunday trading hours thereby allowing retailers to trade for longer hours.

The Minister for Economy, Diane Dodds, MLA, leads on the economic recovery.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the draft Sexual Orientation Strategy; and when it will be issued for public consultation.

(AQW 18513/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Sexual Orientation Expert Advisory Panel Report was published on 5 March 2021.

A public consultation exercise is scheduled for later this year and the Strategy is due to be published in December 2021, subject to Executive approval.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Communities when her Department will formally respond to the Second Independent Review of the Personal Independence Payment Assessment Process.

(AQW 18514/17-22)

Ms Hargey: I refer the Member to my answer of 23 December 2020 to AQW 12039/17-22. A formal response will be published shortly.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities when her Department's new fuel poverty strategy will be published.

(AQW 18519/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Department for Economy has recently launched a consultation on options for a new Energy Strategy and my Department will soon issue a Call for Evidence for a Housing Supply Strategy. Responses to these will help inform future development of a Fuel Poverty Strategy.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities, given the UK government's commitments to eradicate the use of fossil fuels as part of its preparations to host the United Nations Climate Change Conference, whether she will review the Affordable Warmth Scheme, including its subsidies, that supports the continued use of fossil fuels.

Ms Hargey: A new Fuel Poverty Strategy and associated actions will need to be developed which align with the Energy and Green Growth strategies, including how energy efficiency measures will be delivered in the future.

My Department continues to work closely with colleagues in the Department for the Economy with lead responsibility for the new Energy Strategy and Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs with lead responsibility for the Green Growth Strategy.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities what work her Department and the Northern Ireland Housing Executive are undertaking in partnership with the Department for the Economy to prepare for the retrofitting of around 50,000 homes per annum to make them energy efficient as part of the programme to make the Northern Ireland economy net zero in carbon emissions by 2050.

Ms Hargey: My Department continues to work with colleagues in the Department for the Economy with lead responsibility for the new Energy Strategy and Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs with lead responsibility for the Green Growth Strategy.

A senior official represents my Department on the Energy Strategy Government Stakeholder Group. Housing officials work with colleagues in the Department for the Economy's Energy Strategy team in the Energy Efficiency, Heat and Consumer Working Groups supporting the work of the Stakeholder Group. The outputs from the Working Groups informed the options consultation on the Energy Strategy which was recently published.

Both the Department, from Ministerial level through senior and other officials, and Housing Executive sit on the many fora within DfC, DfE and DAERA to represent the interests of domestic housing and households in relation to developments around energy efficiency and climate change.

I am aware that DfE is developing plans for an energy efficiency home retrofit pilot scheme to test energy efficiency approaches. DfC officials are working closely with DfE as this develops.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for Communities whether she has considered implementing an anti-poverty Act.

(AQW 18540/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Consideration of an Anti-Poverty Act is one of a range of recommendations contained in the report of the Anti-Poverty Strategy Expert Advisory Panel, which was published on 5 March 2021. The report can be found at:

<https://www.communities-ni.gov.uk/publications/report-anti-poverty-strategy-expert-advisory-panel>.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for Communities to detail the programmes in West Tyrone targeted at tackling loneliness, especially among older people.

(AQW 18552/17-22)

Ms Hargey: My Department through the Neighbourhood Renewal Investment Fund provides financial support to community based organisations who deliver a range of programmes in West Tyrone to target loneliness, especially among older people including Good Morning Service, Meals on Wheels Service, Handyman Service, health initiatives, health check days, arts & crafts courses, counselling, mindfulness programmes and physical activity classes.

Additionally our Arts & Older People Programme, which is administered by Arts Council was set up to increase opportunities for older people to engage with the arts.

It achieves this by providing funding to arts-based projects that address related social issues such as poverty, isolation and loneliness, as well as promoting positive mental health.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for Communities how many changes of tenancy have occurred in the private rented sector since the start of the pandemic.

(AQW 18601/17-22)

Ms Hargey: A tenancy agreement is a contractual arrangement entered in to by both landlord and tenant. My Department has no role in these arrangements and therefore has no information regarding the number of changes of tenancy in the private rented sector since the start of the pandemic.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities, pursuant to AQW 17477/17-22, when she will bring forward legislation that will enable councillors and council staff to be able to meet remotely and work from home in line with Executive's Covid-19 guidelines.

(AQW 18610/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Following the Executive's agreement to my proposal to bring forward a Bill to extend the legislation to allow council meetings to be held remotely, I can confirm that the Bill is in the process of being drafted and that my Department is working to bring forward this legislation as soon as possible.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister for Communities how many people in the Strangford constituency are waiting for a personal independence payment appeal.

(AQW 18613/17-22)

Ms Hargey: My Department does not record information based on constituency. However, the number of Personal Independence Payment appeals pending for Newtownards, a town within the Strangford constituency is 371 as at 30 April 2021.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Communities to detail the cost of benefit fraud to her Department in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18658/17-22)

Ms Hargey: I refer to my response to AQW 16023/17-22. The Department's Annual Report & Accounts includes information on the estimated levels of fraud and error in social security benefits. The table below sets out the most up to date information available from the published reports.

Estimated levels of loss due to Benefit Fraud

Year	Total Benefit Expenditure £million	Estimated Benefit Fraud £million	Estimated Benefit Fraud % of Benefit Expenditure
2017	5,897	55.1	0.9%
2018	6,109	56.2	0.9%
2019	6,355	65.2	1.0%

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for Communities to detail her Department's spend on (a) maintenance; and (b) promoting Navan / Emain Macha, Armagh, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18678/17-22)

Ms Hargey: General maintenance and site presentation at our sites is carried out internally by our Conservation Works and Ranger Teams. As there are 190 State Care Monuments it is not possible to proportion staff costs between each monument.

Because Navan Fort is an earthwork monument and is not being actively grazed or farmed, its overall condition is relatively stable. Large-scale interventions are often neither necessary, nor considered appropriate ('minimum intervention'). However, a regular regime of grounds maintenance is in place including grass-cutting, litter-picking, re-fencing (stock-proofing), painting of gates, emptying bins, landscaping (including tree-surgery works), and maintaining appropriate signage and access.

My Officials have reviewed additional expenditure for the period 2018 to present at Navan Fort; the amount for this period where it is possible to extract this from more general accounts amounts to £79,064.20. Individual years are broken down in the table below. I should stress that this is the items that can be separated from more general accounts, and excludes staff costs.

Activity	2018-2019	2019-2020	2020-2021
Maintenance	£39,207	£6,697.20	£26,688
Site Management Plan	£3,535.50	£0	£0
Tree Survey and Report	£0	£2,112.50	£0
Signage	£0	£824	£0
Total	£42,742.50	£9,633.70	£26,688
Overall Total	£79,064.20

My Department actively promotes all of our State Care Monuments through social media platforms such as #LoverheritageNI and on discovernorthernireland.com. My Department also facilitates applications for events at Navan Fort as well as academic research and survey activities resulting in publication and other forms of public engagement.

The history and archaeology of Navan Fort is in addition effectively presented to the public at the Navan Centre which is owned and run by Armagh City, Banbridge and Craigavon Borough Council. My Department will continue to work closely with all relevant partners, and particularly the Council, to promote this highly significant archaeological site as we emerge from the Covid-19 pandemic.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Communities to detail the budget available for the JobStart scheme and the number of employment opportunities that will be created as a result of the scheme.

Ms Hargey: I would refer to AQW16626/17-22 which sets out the details requested.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Communities whether the review on the Caravan Act will include motor homes using caravan sites and council sites.

(AQW 18729/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The terms of reference for the review have yet to be agreed. However, while the Caravans Act 2011 does not cover motor homes, any issues raised during the review regarding motor homes would be passed to the relevant Department to take forward.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister for Communities whether fans will be permitted to attend the latter stage matches of the 2020/21 Irish Cup and Irish League Cup; and to provide the rationale or data that supports this decision.

Ms Hargey: I can confirm that the Executive has announced that from 24 May up to 500 spectators will be able to attend outdoor sporting events subject to adherence with Governing Body protocols, the Health advice including social distancing, good hygiene and face coverings, and compliance with the Health regulations.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for Communities whether she has considered introducing legislation that makes it unlawful to deny people goods and services due to their socio-economic status.

(AQW 18742/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Consideration of introducing legislation that makes it unlawful to deny people goods and services due to their socio-economic status is one of a range of recommendations contained in the report of the Anti-Poverty Strategy Expert Advisory Panel, which was published on 5 March 2021.

The report can be found at: <https://www.communities-ni.gov.uk/publications/report-anti-poverty-strategy-expert-advisory-panel>.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for Communities for her assessment on poverty levels if no progression is made on implementing a Living Wage.

(AQW 18744/17-22)

Ms Hargey: I am committed to tackling both the negative effects and the causes of poverty in our society. My Department is leading the development of an Anti-Poverty Strategy that, working collaboratively across all departments, will tackle inequalities and obstacles that directly affect the everyday lives of those experiencing poverty.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister for Communities what progress has been made in ensuring supporters return to IFA matches under prevailing COVID-19 regulations.

(AQW 18778/17-22)

Ms Hargey: At their meeting on 13 May, the Executive agreed that from 24 May, up to 500 spectators can attend organised outdoor sports fixtures or events where the sports Governing Body, club or venue operator can ensure compliance with social distancing, control numbers accordingly and have appropriate hygiene regimes in place.

Department of Education

Mr Butler asked the Minister of Education to outline when her Department will provide universities with the intake numbers for the PGCE cohort of 2021/22.

(AQW 16671/17-22)

Mr Weir (The Minister of Education): Following consultation with the Department for the Economy (which has responsibility for funding Initial Teacher Education (ITE)), the Department of Education informed the four Higher Education Institutions on 23 March 2021 that it had decided to retain ITE intakes (for both Bachelor of Education (BE) and Postgraduate Certificate in Education (PGCE) courses) at current levels for the 2021/22 academic year.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Education, pursuant to AQW 17483/17-22, to outline the potentially repercussive effects of mandatory autism training for teachers of autistic pupils on other areas of special educational needs.

Mr Weir: Following the NI Assembly motion in February 2020 to explore the introduction of mandatory autism training for all teachers and classroom assistants, the Department has received a number of requests to consider mandatory training in relation to other incidences of Special Educational Needs (SEN).

The Education Authority's Children and Young People's Services Training Programme for 2020-21 (<https://www.eani.org.uk/school-management/children-and-young-peoples-services-training-programme-2020-2021>) offers a bespoke range of specialist training for education professionals (as well as parents) from a range of services, including the Autism Advisory and Intervention Service.

As outlined in AQW 17483/17-22, the Department's Learning Leaders Strategy signals a move away from 'top-down' and 'one-size-fits-all' approaches to staff development, with teachers reflecting routinely on their own practice and assuming responsibility for their own professional learning and development, in conjunction with school leaders and based on the needs of pupils. It is then for the school leaders to identify and plan the professional development required for their own schools, providing staff with access to professional learning as their careers progress and specific incidences of SEN are presented in their classrooms.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Education what action his Department is taking to ensure the wearing of face masks in secondary schools is being implemented consistently across Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18480/17-22)

Mr Weir: Since the return of schools, the common aim has been to keep them safe for children and staff, prioritise children's education and ensure that any impact on overall transmission is as low as possible. In order to achieve this the introduction of an additional mitigating measure was introduced, i.e. the requirement for post-primary pupils to wear masks to reduce the transmission of COVID-19 with the wearing of face coverings playing an important role in reducing the risk across our communities.

No child should be refused entry to school or treated differently in school if they are unable to wear a face covering. No medical certification for an exemption is required, nor should it be sought by the school.

It is up to the individual schools to implement the wearing of face masks, however, as this remains as guidance and recommended good practice, it is at the school's discretion on how to enforce this.

If an individual or group is dissatisfied with the level of compliance provided by the school, the school should have a process by which concerns may be raised. Alternatively, the school will have a complaints procedure available to parents, carers, and other stakeholders that should be used to raise any issues.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Education to provide a breakdown of the Shared Education Budget, per school, for each of the last three years.

(AQW 18541/17-22)

Mr Weir: The tables below provide a breakdown of the Shared Education budget for partnerships involved in the Shared Education Signature Project (SESP) and the Peace IV Collaboration through Sharing in Education (CASE) programme for each of the last three academic years. The information has been provided by the Education Authority which makes the programme allocations on a partnership basis, therefore it has not been possible to provide the information per school. The funding allocations support pupil engagement and capacity building.

The Peace IV Sharing from the Start project has been awarded up to €4.3m to deliver Shared Education to pre-school settings in Northern Ireland and the border counties of Ireland for the period of the project ie: 2016 to 2021.

Notes

SESP

SESP funding has been supported by DE, TEO and Atlantic Philanthropies.

Funding provided to SESP partnerships in 2018/19 was provided through the SESP project. 2019/20 funding was provided by DE via the 2019/20 Shared Education Pilot project and SESP. Funding in the current academic year is being provided by DE through the Transition Phase budget and SESP

CASE

CASE – for cross border partnerships, funding reference applies only to NI school(s)

Covid-19 has impacted on budgets allocated to partnerships in 20/21 due to lack of opportunities for pupil engagement

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education if and when he will add Sign Language to the Key Stage 1 and 2 curriculum and at GCSE.

(AQW 18556/17-22)

Mr Weir: Many primary and special schools already choose to teach Makaton, Irish Sign Language and British Sign Language. The curriculum provides schools with considerable flexibility to adapt what they teach and to use approaches that they consider best suit the learning needs of their pupils. Within the statutory requirements there are a range of opportunities for schools to include Sign Language within their curriculum provision.

The Area of Learning 'Language and Literacy' places value on the ways in which learning another language such as sign language can improve children's communication and literacy skills and can help them to develop cultural understanding, which is one of the key elements that underpin the Northern Ireland Curriculum objectives.

Communication is one of the three Cross-Curricular Skills, transferable across all areas of the curriculum. Children are given opportunities to engage with and demonstrate the skill of communication and to transfer their knowledge about communication concepts and skills to real-life meaningful contexts across the curriculum. Modes of effective communication include talking and listening, reading and writing and also non-verbal modes of communication.

In addition, in Personal Development and Mutual Understanding in primary schools, pupils are given the opportunity to learn about personal and social relationships, including the need for tolerance and respect for others who may use different ways to communicate. This includes the exploration and appreciation of similarities and differences between groups including those with disabilities.

The Education Authority also provide a Sensory Service who are a team of teachers with specialist qualifications in working with children and young people who are deaf/have hearing loss. The service offers support for children and young people, their families and schools from the time of diagnosis and continue this work through all stages of children's education. Referrals are usually made by health professionals. However, families and education professionals can refer to the service, if school staff have specific and identified concerns based on observation/collected evidence.

The Department for Education (England) is developing content for a potential British Sign Language (BSL) GCSE and proposes to consult on this later this year. Following a period of consultation and, if this process leads to approval of a qualification by Ofqual, then it will be available for delivery by examination centres in Northern Ireland. At this point, it is not possible to provide a timescale for when the rollout of this qualification will take place.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Education how many requests his Department received for the translation of documents into (i) Irish; and (ii) Ulster Scots, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18569/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Department of Education does not store statistics on how many requests for translations of documents have been made.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Education for an update on the scale of school refurbishment required in North Down.
(AQW 18585/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Education Authority delivered circa £1m of maintenance works in the North Down constituency in 2020/21 financial year. There is £910k of maintenance works planned, subject to budget availability, for 2021/22 and 2022/23.

You will also be aware that five School Enhancement Programme projects have been announced in the North Down constituency aimed at refurbishing or extending the existing school provision. These projects are at St Columbanus' College, Sullivan Upper School, Glencraig Integrated Primary School, Kilcooley Primary School and Clifton School.

Ms Dillon asked the Minister of Education to detail (i) the post primary schools that have asked for a temporary variation; and (ii) how many additional places each school is seeking for entry in September 2021.

Mr Weir: Details of the post-primary schools for which Temporary Variations (TVs) have been requested for admission to the school at Year 8 in the 2021/22 school year are set out below.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education to outline his Department's definition of corporal punishment.
(AQW 18616/17-22)

Mr Weir: Corporal punishment in schools in Northern Ireland such as smacking, caning or shaking a child was abolished under "The Education (Corporal Punishment) (Northern Ireland) Order 1987"; the ban was extended to independent schools in June 2003, through the commencement of Article 36 of the Education and Libraries (NI) Order 2003.

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Education to outline the timescale and nature of planned maintenance works approved by the Education Authority to facilities at Ballycraigy Primary School, Antrim.
(AQW 18620/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Education Authority (EA) have advised that works to upgrade the remaining defective wooden-framed curtain walling at Ballycraigy Primary School (PS) will commence during summer 2021 and will be completed by September 2021.

The minor works Business Case to enable Education Other Than at School (EOTAS) to relocate to Ballycraigy PS is well advanced and will be completed in the near future.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister of Education to detail the average spend by his Department per pupil in (i) controlled schools; (ii) maintained schools; (iii) integrated schools; and (iv) irish-medium schools.
(AQW 18664/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Department is unable to provide a breakdown of the total funding per pupil for the sectors requested. Some central costs funded by the Education Authority (EA) are not disaggregated at an individual school level, such as home to school transport, the school library service, etc.

Every grant-aided school covered by the Common Funding Scheme receives a fully delegated budget for its day-to-day recurrent funding needs, distributed via the Common Funding Formula (CFF). The table below shows the 2021-22 per pupil funding distributed through the CFF for the: (i) controlled; (ii) maintained; (iii) integrated; and (iv) Irish-medium sectors.

Sector	2021-22 Per Pupil Funding distributed through the CFF £
Controlled	3,904
Maintained	3,960
Irish-medium <sup>2</sup>	4,183

- 1 The Irish-medium sector includes both controlled and other maintained Irish-medium schools.
- 2 The integrated education sector includes both Grant Maintained Integrated and Controlled Integrated schools. There are presently no maintained integrated schools.

The figures exclude special schools, as these schools are not funded through the CFF.

By way of comparison, when including funding for all schools and pupils from both the Aggregated Schools Budget (distributed through the CFF), the EA's block grant, and the EA's earmarked budgets for schools, the spend per pupil is £6,287 (although, as noted above, this cannot be disaggregated at a sector level). This is based on the Department's opening budget for the 2021-22 financial year, and excludes funding for non-statutory pre-school education providers participating in the Pre-School Education Programme, and opening COVID-19 funding commitments.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Education to detail the number of children with a diagnoses of Autism in (i) mainstream schools; (ii) special schools; and (iii) autism units in schools across Northern Ireland, each year for the last five years. (AQW 18676/17-22)

Mr Weir: As this question covers the academic years 2016/17 to 2020/21 it would be prudent to first explain the recent changes that have taken place to the recording of Special Educational Needs (SEN) and Medical Conditions in schools.

A review was undertaken in 2017/18 by my Department and the Education Authority to review current SEN categories and school guidance for recording children with SEN. The results of this review changed the definitions of SEN categories and provided definitions for medical categories to be included in a new electronic medical register in schools. These changes came into effect in January 2019.

The focus of the SEN register is to ensure that all of the SEN categories used to record a child's SEN relate to the child's learning difficulty which calls for special educational provision, and is based on the premise of need. The review highlighted a number of medical diagnosis anomalies (for example, Autism was included as a SEN category in the guidance for schools even though Autism is a medical diagnosis. While some pupils with Autism may have a SEN, some will not). Therefore, children with a medical diagnosis and no SEN were being incorrectly categorised as having a SEN when they did not have a learning need. This has been corrected with the creation of an electronic medical register, whereby children who have a medical diagnosis and no SEN, have been removed from the school's SEN register. Therefore, pupils with a medical diagnosis who do not have an associated SEN have been recorded on a school's Medical Register since 2019/20. Any pupil with a medical diagnosis who requires SEN provision, or who has been assessed in other SEN categories, have been recorded on the school's Medical Register as well as on the SEN Register since 2019/20. This has resulted in SEN Registers in schools now being more accurate.

Notes:

- 1 Type of Learning Support Centre was not collected by the Department prior to 2017/18.
- 2 The associated medical condition is 'Autistic Spectrum Disorder'(ASD), this will include pupils formerly recorded as Special Educational Need 'Asperger's', along with 'Autism'. In 2016/17, 2,306 pupils were recorded as Special Educational Need 'Asperger's', with 2,476 in 2017/18 and 2,580 in 2018/19.
- 3 Please note that not all pupils recorded as having a medical condition of ASD will have SEN. In 2019/20, 1,046 primary pupils (recorded with medical condition ASD) and 807 post primary pupils were not recorded as having SEN. In 2020/21, these figures were 1,032 and 955, respectively.
- 4 Resource Provision is defined as 'emergency interim resource provisions (i.e. learning support classes, albeit with some additional flexibility for schools to move children into some mainstream classes for periods according to their needs)'.
- 5 Resource Provision has been included in 2020/21 year. Resource provision learning support centres are a mix of general Learning Support and Autism specific.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Education to detail (i) his plans to provide free school meals for all pupils; (ii) the yearly cost for such a scheme; and (iii) the conversations he has had with unions and relevant stakeholders regarding the benefits of free school meals for all pupils.

Mr Weir:

- (i) Free school meals are currently provided to ensure pupils of "non-working" and low income families have access to a nutritionally balanced meal suitable as the main meal of the day. The eligibility criteria are largely based on receipt of qualifying welfare benefits. Whilst there are no plans to provide free school meals for all children, I have recently agreed to a review of the free school meal and uniform grant eligibility criteria with a view to implementation of any recommendations in future years subject to available resources. The purpose of the review is to ensure that free school meals and uniform grants are available to support the most vulnerable children in our society. The option to provide universal free school meals to all or certain year groups of pupils will be considered as part of the review.
- (ii) All viable options will be costed as part of the review. It is however clear that as 28.4% of pupils currently are entitled to free school meals, the cost of providing free meals to all pupils would represent a significant increase in the funding required. Increased demand is likely to result also in capital costs to extend the capacity in school meals accommodation.
- (iii) In developing options and making recommendations for the review of free school meals and uniform grants, the review team will consult widely with relevant stakeholders including trade unions.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education whether he will deliver a Childcare Strategy before the end of this Assembly mandate.

(AQW 18695/17-22)

Mr Weir: I am committed to moving forward with work on the Executive Childcare Strategy as quickly as possible, and while it remains my objective to make as much progress as I can within the current Assembly mandate, you will appreciate that Departmental resources will be stretched across a number of key priorities during this period. My Department is still heavily involved in developing and delivering Covid related support schemes for the Childcare sector and this continues to require significant staff time. However, we have begun to scope out the work required to progress the Executive Childcare Strategy. It will include assessing the state of the sector following the pandemic; re-engaging with key stakeholders on the objectives, priorities and key deliverables; feasibility testing, costing and prioritising options; and public consultation. It will also require Executive agreement on a range of significant policy decisions, including the overall budget.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Education how many different versions of Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) are in operation across schools.

(AQW 18810/17-22)

Mr Weir: All pupils of compulsory school age follow a mandatory Relationships and Sexuality Education (RSE) curriculum across respective Key Stages. RSE is part of Personal Development and Mutual Understanding in primary school and the Personal Development element of Learning for Life and Work in post primary school and the minimum content that must be taught is set out in legislation.

As is the case for all areas of learning within the curriculum, it is the responsibility of the Board of Governors of each school to ensure that a comprehensive programme is delivered. The policy should be developed in consultation with governors and parents.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Education to detail the ways in which he is working with communities and individuals in order to engage young people in youth services.

Mr Weir: The provision of youth services is an operational matter for the Education Authority (EA) and is based on the assessed needs of children and young people at regional and local level. In line with my Department's youth policy 'Priorities for Youth – Improving Youth People's Lives through Youth Work', inclusion, participation and collaborative working are central to their approach.

The EA consults directly with children and young people, their parents/guardians and other key community stakeholders in identifying need and in the design and development of responsive services. (The current three year Regional Assessment of Needs (RAoN) and Local Assessments of Need can be accessed via the EA's website through the following links – <https://eanifunding.org.uk/home/publications-and-resources/regional-assessment-of-need/> and <https://eanifunding.org.uk/local-assessment-of-need/>).

Youth service staff also work in partnership with a range of bodies to increase the appeal of youth services to a greater number of children and young people, promote youth services within local communities and provide advice, guidance and support on ways to engage with, and advocate for, children and young people. This includes the Regional Advisory Group (a partnership with my Department and regional voluntary youth groups), Local Advisory Groups (which include council, police, education, young people and other community and voluntary representatives), Civic Forums, Policing Community Safety Partnerships, Vulnerable People Hubs and Neighbourhood Renewal Area fora.

In addition the EA's New Funding Scheme has enabled funding to be delivered to a range of local and regional voluntary groups to engage with and introduce children and young people to youth services, including in areas where they may not previously have been available.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Education for his assessment of how youth services, including outdoor recreation facilities, youth clubs and other initiatives can be used to keep young people away from crime and antisocial activity.

(AQW 18823/17-22)

Mr Weir: Youth services, delivered by the Education Authority in conjunction with the voluntary and community sectors, support the personal and social development of children and young people. The range of provision includes generic services that assist in limiting the need for early intervention or targeted support, detached/outreach youth work that promotes safety and stability and targeted initiatives aimed at young people who may not avail of traditional youth services or that require additional supports and interventions. All of these are based on assessed need and reflect not only the more generic needs of children and young people but also the specific needs of identified groups, including those at risk of getting involved in antisocial activity and criminality.

Such targeted initiatives include:

- the START programme that works with young people who have been harmed by paramilitary groups and/or those who are most at risk of becoming involved in paramilitary activity;
- SYTES programme and Youth Volunteer Academy that promotes lawfulness and prevents radicalisation of young people in local communities;

- RAPID response service that provides diversionary activities and support to the most vulnerable young people aged 14-25 engaged in, or on the fringe of, anti-community and anti-social behaviour in identified flashpoint areas across Northern Ireland;
- Planned Interventions aimed at young people in interface areas and areas where there is the potential of heightened social unrest during the summer period.
- TBUC Camps programme to provide opportunities for young people aged 11-19 across Northern Ireland to come together to build positive relationships.

Services are delivered through a range of youth facilities including youth clubs and outdoor learning centres. The latter provide young people with the opportunity to participate in adventure activities that are exciting and engaging and which provide a sense of achievement in a managed environment. They can also create in a positive way, the risk/reward context which young people have stated they associate with anti-community behaviours and crime. Outdoor learning is an integral part of the youth service programme.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Education to confirm whether a child with Foetal Alcohol Syndrome Disorder would be eligible for a statement of Special Educational Needs.

Mr Weir: The Education Authority (EA) has advised that a child with Foetal Alcohol Syndrome Disorder (FASD) may be eligible for a statement of special educational needs (SEN).

While the needs of most children and young people can be met by their school or nursery, and/or with the help of outside specialists, where a child with FASD presents with needs which cannot be met at the school based stages of the SEN Code of Practice, then the EA will carry out a statutory assessment which may lead to the issue of a statement.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister of Education for the rationale used to exclude year 11 from consideration for COVID-19 protection measures provided for Years 12, 13 and 14.

(AQW 18900/17-22)

Mr Weir: My Department works closely with the Department of Health (DoH), the Education Authority (EA) and the Public Health Agency (PHA). This engagement has continued throughout the pandemic to maintain the education of children, to reduce the risk of outbreaks, and to respond when these occur.

I accepted a proposal from the PHA to introduce Lateral Flow Device (LFD) testing in schools for pupils in Years 12-14 following the lifting of restrictions by the Executive. This added an additional mitigation measure in post-primary schools, thereby allowing them to further reduce the potential of infections by identifying cases at an early stage.

At the time, the Regulator had only cleared the use of LFD tests for people aged 16 and over. Therefore, in order to expedite the introduction of the additional mitigation, it was agreed that testing should be introduced to Years 12-14 initially. This excluded Year 11 pupils at the time of the introduction of the LFD due to it not being sanctioned for use on persons under the age of 16.

This roll out of testing took account of the views of a number of school principals across the educational sector via the Education Practitioners Group and the views of the various Trade Union bodies, as well as colleagues from the EA and the PHA.

Discussions are ongoing on the further potential roll out of testing, but any decisions will be based on the current medical and scientific advice available.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education to set out the role, responsibilities and rulings of the EA Curriculum Complaints Tribunal.

(AQW 18906/17-22)

Mr Weir: Article 25 of the Education (Northern Ireland) Order 2006 places a duty on the Education Authority (EA) to appoint, in accordance with regulations made by the Department, a panel to hear and determine any complaint that the EA or the Board of Governors of a grant-aided school has acted or is proposing to act unreasonably with respect to the exercise of any power conferred or the performance of any duty imposed on it or has failed to discharge any such duty.

I expect that in the vast majority of cases, the concerns of parents will be addressed through the school's own complaints process, with complaints regarding the provision of the curriculum or other matters only proceeding to a Complaints Tribunal where the school's complaints procedures do not lead to a satisfactory outcome. Where this is the case the complainant should set out their complaint in writing to the EA which will set up a hearing.

Each tribunal will consist of three members drawn from a panel of eligible persons – that is people with experience in education and parents of registered pupils at a school.

The complainant may make an oral presentation to the tribunal to support their written complaint and may choose to be accompanied by a friend or representative. The respondent may also nominate a representative to make an oral presentation. The chairperson of the tribunal will determine the order of the oral presentations.

When the complaint has been fully considered the tribunal will notify all parties of its determination in writing, giving an explanation of its conclusions, details of any requirements placed on the respondent to take particular actions to resolve the complaint and details of any further recourse available.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education (i) whether or not CCEA has required schools or colleges to take into account, or in any way consider, previous centre performance in GCSE or A-Level assessments for 2021, and (ii) how are centres being asked to use this data in their assessments.

Mr Weir: Centres have been asked to use a range of evidence to arrive at a professional and academic judgement of the standard at which each student is performing in the context of the specification for which they entered and from this provide a grade to CCEA. The evidence used to inform Centre Determined Grades does not include prior attainment data.

As part of the process, schools are expected to compare subject cohort outcomes with those of previous years and satisfy themselves that any significant changes can be justified with evidence. Historical outcomes are not, therefore, a barrier to either an increase or decrease in grade outcomes this year and will not play any part in decisions taken by CCEA in the review and acceptance of grades from centres.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Education to outline whether he met with trade union bodies before making a decision around the return of CCEA public examinations.

(AQW 18951/17-22)

Mr Weir: As part of the engagement process officials met with a range of stakeholders, including trade unions.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Education to detail the number of pupils with special educational needs in North Down.

(AQW 19008/17-22)

Mr Weir: In 2020/21, there were 2,783 pupils with Special Educational Needs enrolled in schools located in the North Down Constituency.

Source: NI school census

Notes:

Figures include funded pupils in voluntary and private pre-schools, nursery schools, primary (including nursery classes, reception and year 1-7 classes), post-primary and special schools.

Figures include pupils at stages 1 – 5 on the Special Educational Needs Code of Practice.

Constituency relates to the address of the school.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Education how many complaints has his Department received from individual teachers, or their unions, in relation to Fair Employment and Treatment (NI) Order 1998, in each year since 2016.

(AQW 19094/17-22)

Mr Weir: The information requested is as follows:

Year	No of complaints received from individual Teachers	No of complaints received from individual Teaching Unions

Department of Finance

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Finance to quantify the precise amount of funding provided for the Translation Hub, as referred to in his statement to the Assembly on 27 April 2021; and the total anticipated spend of the Hub in 2021/22.

(AQW 18044/17-22)

Mr Murphy (The Minister of Finance): The Executive agreed to provide the Department for Communities with £160,000 of funding for the anticipated staffing costs of the Translation Hub.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Finance for his assessment of the proposal from victims' campaigner Peter Heathwood that there should be a wall in the grounds of Stormont containing the name of every person who died in the Troubles.

(AQW 18070/17-22)

Mr Murphy: Should I receive such a proposal I would give it full consideration. Given the sensitivities involved, I would suggest that such a proposal is discussed with all parties represented in the Assembly and that a consensus is found. For information I have attached the Department's existing policy on commemorative structures or planting on the grounds of the Stormont Estate.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Finance why boarding kennels have not been eligible for COVID-19 rates relief; and what assistance will be made available.

Mr Murphy: In 2020-21 all boarding kennels here received 4 months (33%) rates relief through Covid-19 funding. In addition, almost all dog kennel businesses also received further rate relief support from my Department's long standing Small Business Rate Relief (SBRR) scheme, which automatically applies a minimum of 20% and a maximum of 50% rate relief to rate bills of small businesses here with Net Annual Values (NAV) up to £15,000.

Many dog kennel businesses also received the £10,000 Small Business Support Grant and shortly will receive, without application, a further £5,000 of support through the Coronavirus Financial Assistance (Business Support) Scheme 2021, which my Department provided from the £178m of remaining unallocated Covid-19 funding in respect of the 2020-21 financial year.

With regard to the 2021-22 rating year, assistance from my Department will continue to be provided through the SBRR. I have also implemented a freeze in the non-domestic Regional Rates and I have also delayed the issuing of this year's bills until June which will assist businesses as we continue to make progress on our pathway to recovery. The Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs are the policy competent department and the regulatory authority for the boarding kennel sector; I have sought advice as to what support is forthcoming from that Department. However, I have not as yet received a response.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Finance what plans he has to bring forward legislation to deal with estate rent charges and regulate property management companies in this area, and to give freeholders on private and mixed-tenure estates equivalent rights to leaseholders to challenge the reasonableness of estate rent charges.

Mr Murphy: ANSWER

My Department has undertaken preliminary work in the development of legislation around shared property management, including registration of such companies and codes of conduct.

There is insufficient time left in the course of this mandate to further develop and finalise a Bill and take it through the various stages in the Assembly, but further work is planned that will permit an incoming Executive to consider this issue next year.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Finance, pursuant to AQW 17498/17-22, where is the extant legislative authority to establish these bodies.

(AQW 18704/17-22)

Mr Murphy: As indicated in AQW 17498/17-22 the preparatory work in relation to both bodies, including their establishment, has been taken forward and funded under the existing authority of the Budget Act consistent with the general ambit of the Department of Finance.

As their initial work now progresses, both organisations will be separately identified in the detail of the Department's ambit in the forthcoming Budget (No 2) Bill.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Finance whether his Department holds key performance indicators for Economic Appraisals approved for capital spending proposals from (i) Departments; (ii) arms-length bodies; and (iii) other public bodies, specifically with regards to timescales for turnaround.

(AQW 18717/17-22)

Mr Murphy: All business cases submitted for approval come from the relevant department, including those where the proposal originates from an arms-length body.

The Department of Finance has a target turnaround time of 20 working days for responding to submissions of business cases. This can be either to seek further clarification around issues raised in reviewing the business case or with an approval decision.

During 2020/21; 90% of responses were provided to departments within this timescale, with an average turnaround time of just over 10 working days.

The time taken for an expenditure proposal to be approved can depend on the quality of information contained within the business case, as well as the timeliness of departments in responding to any queries raised.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Finance how many Economic Appraisals his Department has reviewed in each of the past five financial years broken down by (i) Departments; (ii) arms-length bodies; and (iii) other public bodies.

(AQW 18718/17-22)

Mr Murphy: Economic appraisals (also referred to as business cases) are submitted by departments to DoF's Supply Division by way of seeking DoF approval for expenditure decision which are outside the department's delegated authority. Economic appraisals for expenditure decisions below departments' delegated limits are not submitted to DoF.

Irrespective of whether the case originates from an Arms Length Body or the core department; it is submitted to DoF by the department, as the Departmental Accounting Officer must be satisfied with the case before it is submitted to DoF.

The breakdown of the number of economic appraisals which DoF have been submitted to DoF to be reviewed in each of the past five years is set out in the table below, based on the information provided by departments at the time they were submitted:

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Finance for an update on the potential of Airport Passenger Duty being removed for Northern Ireland.

Mr Murphy: Air Passenger Duty (APD) on direct long haul flights departing from airports in the North was devolved and eliminated by the Executive in 2013, however the responsibility for short haul APD rests with the Treasury. As such, it is currently an Excepted Matter and outside of the Executive's control.

However, the removal of short haul APD is something I have previously called on the Treasury to take action on. It is an unfair tax which is a barrier to recovery and that disproportionately disadvantages citizens in the North compared to others on these islands. This is a point I will be re-iterating to the Treasury in the context of their ongoing consultation on aviation tax reform.

I also expect that the Fiscal Commission will consider the merits and implications of the increased devolution in respect of APD as it takes forward its work.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Finance whether he has pledged to make the necessary funding available to help repair the damage caused by the recent fires in the Mourne mountains.

(AQW 18765/17-22)

Mr Murphy: I recently visited the Mournes and saw at first hand the damage caused by the fires; I also met with the National Trust to understand the work that is needed to bring about recovery and restoration. I believe that; as an Executive, we should commit to supporting this work. I have therefore written to Ministerial colleagues with a view to forming a cross-departmental group to consider the immediate funding requirements as well as the longer term strategy for the site. This work needs to be progressed as quickly as possible and will have my full support.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Finance, pursuant to AQW 18105/17-22 and responses to questions following his statement to the Assembly on 27 April 2021, whether he was aware of bids made by the Department for the Economy to mark the centenary of Northern Ireland.

Mr Murphy: In Autumn 2020; NIO requested that DoF coordinate bids from the Executive for £40 million of Unique Circumstances funding to be administered by NIO as part of the New Decade New Approach Financial package.

The Department for the Economy submitted a bid for £500k to mark the centenary in this exercise. However; subsequent to the NIO request and prior to bids being submitted, the NIO clarified its position in a letter to First Minister (FM) and deputy First Minister (dFM) and set out its assessment of how that £40 million funding was to be allocated, including £3 million of centenary funding which was to be administered by the NIO. As the letter from NIO superseded the earlier request; no bids were provided to NIO.

The Department for the Economy submitted a bid of £4.73m for Tourism Major Events Hosting in the 2021-22 budget return and the narrative accompanying the bid indicated that funding was to be used for events such as The Open Championship; Irish Open, ISP Handa World Invitational, World Rally Championship, Fleadh Cheoil and Tall Ships. In this narrative DfE also indicated that it was considering a programme to support the promotion of the North in its centenary year but a specific bid for a centenary celebration was not submitted.

As I have stated previously; no centenary funding bids were submitted to DoF in relation to the Executive's Budget process, or for Executive funding for the 2021-22 year.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Finance whether he intends to write-off debts accrued in situations where applicants received overpayments under the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme as a result of an error made by Land and Property Services.

(AQW 18790/17-22)

Mr Murphy: There are no plans to write-off any debt due to overpayments under the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme.

Because this Scheme was developed at great pace to provide support to businesses required to close or severely curtail their services by the Health Protection restrictions, and because the restrictions evolved rapidly adding to the complexity of the scheme, it was recognised from the outset that there was a risk of errors in the administration of LRSS payments. Therefore, it was always the intention that Land & Property Services (LPS) would carry out a review of each applicant's eligibility under the Scheme to ensure each was paid correctly and identify cases where payments were made contrary to the Regulations. Such post event assurance action in Covid-19 grant schemes was recommended by the Northern Ireland Audit Office last September.

Once it has been identified that payments have been made contrary to the Regulations LPS must seek to recoup those payments.

The published information on the Scheme states that any payments made contrary to the Regulations will have to be repaid. This condition was clearly stipulated and had to be accepted by applicants during the application process.

It is recognised that repaying monies paid in error may present a significant financial challenge to some businesses. LPS will work with businesses to put in place an arrangement for repayment over an agreed period of time.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Finance how applicants to the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme that were overpaid as a result of administrative error were notified of the overpayment; and how quickly they were notified after the error was discovered.

(AQW 18791/17-22)

Mr Murphy: Work to review the eligibility of all Localised Restriction Support Scheme applications has been ongoing between late January and early May 2021. Land & Property Services put applications on hold as soon as a possible overpayment was identified to ensure that no further payments, which could increase the level of overpayment, were issued. Applicants identified as having received an overpayment were informed by email on either 31 March or 14 May 2021.

The date when a possible overpayment was identified and the date on which the applicant was informed of the possible overpayment will be different in each case. Land & Property Services is unable to provide a complete breakdown regarding how quickly each applicant was informed.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Finance how many businesses that applied to the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme were initially overpaid as a result of being assigned the incorrect level of support; and how many were the result of errors by staff administering the scheme.

Mr Murphy: Of the 654 applicants currently in an overpayment situation, 400 of these relate to applicants who have now been determined to have no eligibility for payment under the Scheme and 254 relate to applicants who are eligible but have been overpaid.

The financial support under the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme (LRSS) is linked to the restrictions placed on businesses by the Health Protection Regulations. These restrictions have changed several times since October 2020, making the LRSS increasingly complex. As result there are various reasons that led to overpayments under Localised Restrictions Support Scheme. Land & Property Service has not done any analysis of the overpayment situation to determine the number caused by applicant error or by administration error, so I am unable to provide you with a breakdown.

The review and validation of all LRSS applications will continue to be an essential part of administration of this scheme to ensure the scheme is being administered in line with the associated regulations. Businesses can appeal this decision and provide evidence to support their eligibility for payment under the LRSS. LPS will give full consideration to any evidence supplied and will change the decision on eligibility where appropriate.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Finance, pursuant to AQW 18105/17-22, why the bid for funding to mark the Centenary of Northern Ireland from the Department of the Economy was declined.

(AQW 18838/17-22)

Mr Murphy: In Autumn 2020, NIO requested that DoF coordinate bids from the Executive for £40 million of Unique Circumstances funding administered by NIO as part of the New Decade New Approach financial package.

The Department for the Economy prepared bids for Centenary Funding and provided this to DoF however, subsequent to the NIO request and prior to bids being submitted to NIO or the NDNA Joint Board, the NIO clarified its position on the Unique Circumstances funding in a letter to FM and dFM.

This letter set out its assessment of how the £40 million funding was to be allocated, including £3 million of centenary funding which was to be administered by the NIO.

As the letter from NIO superseded the earlier request, no bids were forwarded to NIO.

As I have stated previously, no Centenary funding bids were submitted to DoF in relation to the Executive's Budget process or for Executive funding for the 2021-22 year. Departments have scope to reallocate funding for this purpose should they wish.

Mr Stalford asked the Minister of Finance for an update on the review of Arm's-Length Bodies.

(AQW 18843/17-22)

Mr Murphy: At its meeting on the 18 June 2020, the Executive agreed to a review of Arm's Length Bodies, in accordance with the requirements set out in the New Decade New Approach (NDNA) document. On 4th May 2021 I circulated a draft Executive paper recommending that legislation is enacted which enables Ministers to reform their ALBs. It is now for the Executive to decide whether to enact this reforming legislation or to maintain the status quo.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Finance for an update on the review of business rates.

Mr Murphy: The context of the Review of Business Rates undertaken in 2019 was completely different to that now faced by our economy and business community as we emerge from the pandemic. The Review did, however, provide some important insights and I am pleased that significant progress has been made in respect of many of the issues highlighted during the public consultation.

Firstly, the overall high level of business rates and the balance of business rates to domestic rates were issues raised during the public consultation. In response, I reduced the regional business rate by 18% for 2020-21 and, in addition to this, I held this rate at the reduced amount for 2021-22. I also froze the domestic rate for the last two years. I extended the Small Business Rate Relief scheme and restored the Rural ATM Relief Scheme in response to feedback received during the consultation. Finally, I also made two changes that had been sought to assist District Councils in relation to District Rates.

The unprecedented level of COVID-funded additional rate relief of £288 million in 2020-21 and £230 million in 2021-22, which was provided after I received independent expert advice from the Ulster University, has superseded the need for further immediate review. However, I am keeping the matter of business rates and the economic recovery under close scrutiny as we move forward in this business year.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Finance, given the closure of PEACE IV funding in 2020 and the opening of the PEACE PLUS programme later this year, to outline the assistance he can provide to community groups that face a gap in funding.

Mr Murphy: Due to the COVID pandemic, many PEACE IV projects now have the opportunity to continue spending into 2023. A number of project partners are taking the opportunity to extend project end dates in order to complete planned activity which was placed on hold during lockdown. This is being facilitated where possible.

The new PEACE PLUS programme is not however a continuation of the current PEACE IV programme and some projects will end as originally planned. There is therefore no mechanism to provide gap funding to projects in anticipation of them receiving future support under the new programme. Each programme has its own unique objectives and priorities and separate applications will need to be made to the new programme.

I am hopeful that the new PEACE PLUS programme will open for project calls towards the end of this year, therefore PEACE IV & PEACE PLUS will overlap in delivery throughout 2022 and 2023, which may keep gaps in funding to a minimum.

My officials will work closely with SEUPB and all Accountable Departments to ensure as smooth a transition as possible into PEACE PLUS. For those projects that may have already or are due to conclude activity this year, I would encourage them to raise their concerns immediately with SEUPB and continue engaging with them in the event of any Programme slippage becoming available.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister of Finance for an update on the New Decade, New Approach commitment to review arm's-length bodies.
(AQO 2056/17-22)

Mr Murphy: At its meeting on the 18 June 2020, the Executive agreed to a review of Arm's Length Bodies, in accordance with the requirements set out in the New Decade New Approach (NDNA) document. On 4 May 2021 I circulated a draft Executive paper recommending that legislation is enacted which enables Ministers to reform their ALBs. It is now for the Executive to decide whether to enact this reforming legislation or to maintain the status quo.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Finance to outline the rationale behind the pay offer made to Civil Service staff for 2020-21.
(AQO 2057/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The pay offer agreed by the Executive represents a 4.8% increase on the civil service pay bill over two years at a cost of £44 million. The rationale for this pay offer is that it is the most that can be afforded in the context of a standstill budget from the British Government. Importantly, it departs from the British Chancellor's pay freeze for civil servants in England next year, which I believe is unfair to public sector workers.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Finance to outline the bids submitted by the Minister for Infrastructure for increased funding for road resurfacing programmes.
(AQO 2058/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The bid submitted by the Department for Infrastructure for 2021-22 as part of the Executive's Budget process, for Roads Structural Maintenance, which is the term used for the resurfacing programme, totalled £120 million, of which £75 million was identified as inescapable, and the remaining £45 million as high priority.

In its 2021-22 Final Budget, the Executive allocated a record £722.5 million Capital to the Department for Infrastructure. This was sufficient to cover all of DfI's inescapable capital commitments and provide a significant amount for capital expenditure identified by DfI as high priority. It is now for the Infrastructure Minister to decide on how to prioritise this within her Department's business areas, including road resurfacing.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Finance for an update on the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme, including the backlog of payments.
(AQO 2059/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The department has received 24,321 applications for the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme. 15,321 applications have been successful and over £306 million has been paid to successful applicants.

9,076 businesses in the close contact, retail and outdoor activity sectors have received payments covering them up to the date that they were permitted to re-open.

A further 4,688 businesses in the tourism, hospitality and indoor activity sectors have received payments covering the period up to the 12 May 2021. Following the Executive's decision on Thursday 13 May 2021 that all remaining businesses can re-open on 24 May 2021, my department will be issuing the final payment to those businesses this week.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Finance whether he will provide any additional funding to offset income tax and other contributions related to COVID-19 recognition payments.

(AQO 2060/17-22)

Mr Murphy: I wrote to the Treasury asking that the recognition payments were not subject to income tax or other Government deductions. The Financial Secretary to the Treasury responded, advising that he didn't believe there was a case for granting an exception in relation to this payment.

Subsequently the Department of Health sought and received an additional allocation of £25m in February 2021 to mitigate the impact of income tax and other contributions related to the Healthcare Workers recognition payment.

My Department has not received any further bids for additional funding from the Department of Health related to this measure. Similarly, there have been no further bids received in relation to the Department for Communities acknowledgement payment to Supporting People staff. Should a bid be made, it would be for the Executive to agree any additional allocation.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Finance to advise whether (i) any Departments have experienced attempted cyber or ransomware attacks; and (ii) whether she has had any discussions with the Dublin or UK Governments to help prevent such attacks.

Mr Murphy:

- (i) Assessments provided by the National Cyber Security Centre (NCSC) highlight the government sector as being an attractive target for malicious cyber actors. Many organisations including NICS Departments regularly experience attempted cyber attacks and we continue to enhance our defences and security operations.
- (ii) NICS Department of Finance has excellent collaborative arrangements in place with the NCSC, Cabinet Office, Irish officials, NCSC and Devolved Administrations, aimed at increasing cyber resilience and preventing successful cyber attacks.

Department of Health

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health when the surgical Peritoneal Dialysis catheter insertion programme will recommence.

(AQW 6734/17-22)

Mr Swann (The Minister of Health): As we emerge from the latest wave of the pandemic, the focus of our health service will continue to be on resetting all elective services in an environment that is safe for both staff and patients.

The surgical peritoneal dialysis catheter insertion programme is a regional service performed in the renal unit at Belfast City Hospital. Currently there are no dedicated elective general anaesthetic surgical lists for renal access surgery. However in the past year the Belfast Health and Social Care (HSC) Trust has availed of surgical lists in seven different Independent Sector and HSC Trust hospitals, including Tyrone County Hospital, to operate on renal failure patients requiring renal access procedures. As of 19 March 2021 there have been 118 arteriovenous (AV) fistulae created and 39 peritoneal dialysis catheters inserted by Belfast Trust surgeons.

However, COVID-19 remains a very real threat. It is no easy task to rebuild services back to pre-existing levels and this must be balanced against the need to maintain capacity to deal with COVID-19 cases. HSC Trusts are responsible for operational decisions about how and when normal service will resume, and any decisions must be taken in the context of the numbers of infections prevalent at the time.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health (i) how many prisoners have been diagnosed with a mental illness or mental health condition, in each of the last ten years; and (ii) how many prisoners diagnosed with a mental illness or mental health condition have spent time in Care and Supervision Units within the Northern Ireland Prison Service, in each year.

Mr Swann: Information on (i) the number of prisoners diagnosed with a mental illness or mental health condition, and (ii) the number of prisoners diagnosed with a mental illness or mental health condition have spent time in Care and Supervision Units is not available.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of Health and Social Care workers with a positive COVID-19 test result, for each month since February 2020.

(AQW 10811/17-22)

Mr Swann: Information on the number of HSC Trust workers who tested positive for COVID-19 each month from February 2020, was provided by each Health and Social Care Trust, and is detailed in the table overleaf.

Number of HSC Trust workers who tested positive for COVID-19 by HSC Trust

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health, in relation to the work of the Chief Nursing Officer on the banding issue around bands five and six, whether a budget has been set aside to enable an uplift in pay for intensive care unit nurses backdated to the beginning of the current financial year.

(AQW 11644/17-22)

Mr Swann: This interim uplift will apply for the period 1st October 2020 until 31st March 2021 and will be met from within existing budget allocations.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health why the Health and Social Care workforce appeal is no longer accepting expressions of interest for contact tracing.

(AQW 12739/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Public Health Agency (PHA) has advised that the Contact Tracing Service has a sufficient staff complement to deal with their current workload. They have a contingency plan in place which would involve the redeployment of a large number of PHA staff who have been trained as contact tracers to meet any future sudden increase in demand. PHA has advised that it does not therefore currently need access to the Health and Social Care Workforce Appeal to recruit additional contact tracing staff.

Mr Frew asked the Minister of Health what critical threshold is being used for the PCR swab tests; and how this complies with best practice and standards.

(AQW 14008/17-22)

Mr Swann: Each laboratory test will have recommendations from the manufacturer specifically around how a test should be run and a guide to interpretation. However, it is best and standard practice to assess locally the exact performance of all tests. This includes establishing a cut off cycle threshold for PCR tests that contribute to the interpretation of a result as positive or negative. Each PCR test, be it for bacteria, virus or fungi, will undergo rigorous local assessment to establish individual cut off threshold cycle and limit of detection.

For SARS-CoV-2 testing, there are multiple platforms and kits in use in Northern Ireland; each one of those has been assessed individually with its own cycle threshold cut off. No one cut off cycle threshold can be applied to multiple systems.

From a laboratory perspective the Ct (cycle threshold) value is only one of a number of criteria that is considered when interpreting test results. Other criteria may include, for example, multiple SARS-CoV-2 gene targets detection, fluorescence levels, sigmoidal shape of amplification curves, and confirmatory testing using assays with alternative specificity profiles, where required. This is in line with good laboratory practice and the World Health Organisation (WHO) papers on PCR testing for SARS-CoV-2 detection.

Mr Stalford asked the Minister of Health what plans for restrictions are being considered for autumn 2021 and winter 2021/22.

(AQW 14602/17-22)

Mr Swann: 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions, was published on 2 March 2021 and easements on a range of areas have been announced since then.

The Executive has committed to a four-week review cycle, where we monitor the data on a range of health and societal impacts, before considering what relaxations can be made safely. While the Executive formally reviews and make decisions on restrictions every four weeks, our monitoring cycle provides us with the ability to move more rapidly on emerging priorities should the need arise before the next review point.

Decisions for autumn and winter will be taken on the basis of the scientific information available at the time.

Mr Stalford asked the Minister of Health what is the estimated R rate for the return of click and collect services for all businesses.

(AQW 15072/17-22)

Mr Swann: On 15 April 2021 the Executive agreed that from 30 April all retail businesses were permitted to reopen. Any businesses that are permitted to reopen are subject to the requirement to operate safely and to follow health and safety law and guidance and to take measures to keep staff and customers safe.

On 2 March 2021 the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions. The Pathway is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. The new process also permits a more urgent consideration of proposals from Departments deemed to have urgent or compelling reasons to fall outside the four week review process.

In this new process, the management of the changes to the restrictions regulations moved to the Executive Office (TEO).

TEO will now hold the lead responsibility and operational management of the process leading to Executive decisions on the ongoing need for restrictions and the requirement to amend the regulations.

This responsibility includes receiving and managing all proposals from Executive departments, management of the decision making process and facilitating consultation with departments on the drafting of amendment regulations. This work is supported by a Cross-Departmental Working Group, chaired by the Director of the TEO COVID-19 Taskforce team with membership from all 9 Departments and key stakeholders, including local government and PSNI.

The Executive, when making decisions on restrictions, takes into account the scientific and medical evidence and also the impacts of the restrictions on the economy and society. The Executive weighs up the totality of the effect each restriction can have in combination with other restrictions in reducing the rate of infections of COVID-19. It is not always possible to disaggregate the precise impact on the rate of transmission of the virus in the community for each of the individual restrictions on their own.

Scientific evidence used by the Executive for decision making purposes is now publically available: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/covid-19-scientific-evidence>

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the criteria and scientific rationale for businesses to remain open to the public for (i) normal, in-store shopping; and (ii) click and collect shopping.

(AQW 15129/17-22)

Mr Swann: On 15 April 2021 the Executive agreed that from 30 April all retail businesses were permitted to reopen. Any businesses that are permitted to reopen are subject to the requirement to operate safely and to follow health and safety law and guidance and to take measures to keep staff and customers safe.

On 2 March 2021 the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions. The Pathway is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. The new process also permits a more urgent consideration of proposals from Departments deemed to have urgent or compelling reasons to fall outside the four week review process.

In this new process, the management of the changes to the restrictions regulations moved to the Executive Office (TEO).

TEO will now hold the lead responsibility and operational management of the process leading to Executive decisions on the ongoing need for restrictions and the requirement to amend the regulations.

This responsibility includes receiving and managing all proposals from Executive departments, management of the decision making process and facilitating consultation with departments on the drafting of amendment regulations. This work is supported by a Cross-Departmental Working Group, chaired by the Director of the TEO COVID-19 Taskforce team with membership from all 9 Departments and key stakeholders, including local government and PSNI.

The Executive, when making decisions on restrictions, takes into account the scientific and medical evidence and also the impacts of the restrictions on the economy and society. The Executive weighs up the totality of the effect each restriction can have in combination with other restrictions in reducing the rate of infections of COVID-19. It is not always possible to disaggregate the precise impact on the rate of transmission of the virus in the community for each of the individual restrictions on their own.

Scientific evidence used by the Executive for decision making purposes is now publically available: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/covid-19-scientific-evidence>

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Health whether his Department is considering future investment to improve facilities capacity for GP services in Ballyclare, due to the growth in local population.
(AQW 15232/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department is not currently considering any future investment in the facilities capacity for GP services in Ballyclare.

In terms of delivery of GP services, Ballyclare Group Practice is one of the largest Practices in Northern Ireland, offering a large range of enhanced services to its registered patients. The Health and Social Care Board has confirmed that is not aware of any particular issues with the current delivery of GP services in Ballyclare.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health to detail the rationale for the absence of definitive dates in the COVID-19 exit and recovery plan.
(AQW 15693/17-22)

Mr Swann: 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions', was published on 2 March 2021 and easements on a range of areas have been announced since then.

We are moving in the right direction and it is important to bring optimism and certainty to this improving picture and the Executive understands the call for more dates and certainty.

We also must not lose sight of the fact that the virus is still a threat. We need to be sure that we are keeping the Rt number below 1; that there is capacity in the health service; that the vaccination programme remains on track; that our Test, Trace and Protect strategy continues to be effective and that there is good adherence to the public health advice.

The Executive has committed to a four-week review cycle, where we monitor the data on a range of health and societal impacts, before considering what relaxations can be made safely. While the Executive formally reviews and make decisions on restrictions every four weeks, our monitoring cycle provides us with the ability to move more rapidly on emerging priorities should the need arise before the next review point.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Health how much funding has been provided to GP practices for in-house counselling services in each of the last five years, broken down by constituency.
(AQW 15832/17-22)

Mr Swann: A NI Local Enhanced Service is in place for the provision of practice based counsellors. This service enables the employment of practice-based counsellors to provide counselling for patients with mild to moderate depression.

The details of this provision is not readily available broken down by constituency; however the table below provides a breakdown at LCG level. The table sets out the practice budgets for Mild to Moderate Depression for the five years from 2016/2017 to 2020/21 for GP practices.

Table 1: MMD Practice Budgets by Year

Ms Brogan asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 15095/17-22, whether he has given consideration to prioritising the vaccination of school staff involved with the education and care of pupils with special educational needs, or a statement, who attend mainstream primary and post-primary schools; and to detail a timeline on when such vaccinations will begin.
(AQW 15871/17-22)

Mr Swann: The member will be aware that, whilst I acknowledge the anxieties of staff, parents and carers for children and young people who attend special schools, JCVI has not recommended prioritisation by occupation.

Therefore, staff in mainstream schools will be vaccinated in line with their age or clinical cohort.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health whether Equality Screening has been conducted into the proposed prioritisation and delivery methods of the mass general population vaccination programme envisaged for summer 2021 under Phase 4 of the Covid-19 Vaccination Programme Phased Plan.

(AQW 16154/17-22)

Mr Swann: The member can be assured that Equality screening was conducted before the proposed prioritisation and delivery methods of the mass general population vaccination programme envisaged for summer 2021 under Phase 4 of the Covid-19 Vaccination Programme Phased Plan.

PHA have established a dedicated team to identify areas of low uptake, potential reasons for this and to assist the programme in targeting areas of low uptake to ensure equity in vaccine access for the entire population.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health (i) which groups are exempt from the 10-day quarantine rule for travellers coming back from GB; (ii) whether there is a planned relaxation of this rule; and (iii) whether relatives travelling back from GB after providing childcare to relatives must quarantine for 10 days.

(AQW 16219/17-22)

Mr Swann: People should not travel in or out of Northern Ireland except where it is essential to do so.

If you are arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area and you plan to remain here for at least 24 hours, public health advice is that you should self-isolate upon arrival for 10 days, unless you are exempt.

Some people travelling within the Common Travel Area may be exempt from self-isolation due to the job they do. Information on sector specific exemptions is available at:

<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-travel-within-common-travel-area-sector-exemptions>

An indicative date of 24 May has been set to allow individuals to travel within the Common Travel Area to visit family and friends.

This means you will not have to self-isolate for 10 days if you are arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area to visit family or friends, however the public health advice is to take a pre-departure Lateral Flow Device (LFD) test, and then a LFD test on day 2 and day 8 post arrival in NI.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of COVID-19 cases closed by contact tracing after no telephone calls were attempted.

(AQW 16237/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Public Health Agency (PHA) has advised that since the establishment of the NI Contact Tracing Service there have been 116,548 positive cases added to the Contact Tracing system. Of these, 95.7% received a call.

For the remaining 4.3% that did not receive a call, PHA has advised that the majority of these cases occurred during October 2020 when case volumes rose significantly in a very short period. In this period a number of cases exceeded the 72 hour period when contact tracing is most effective.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health to detail (i) how the GP Out of Hours Service works in the Southern Health and Social Care Trust; and (ii) the number of (a) GP; and (b) nursing and support shifts to be filled each week in the Southern Trust, broken down by location.

(AQW 16350/17-22)

Mr Swann:

(i) How the GP Out of Hours Service works in the Southern Health and Social Care Trust

The Southern Health and Social Care Trust (SHSCT) provides Out of Hours General Practitioner Medical cover through the Out of Hours Urgent Care Service (previously known as GP Out Of Hours).

The Service is contactable by patients who are registered with a SHSCT locality GP Surgery or are temporarily residing in the SHSCT area and presenting with a medical condition which cannot wait to be dealt with until their normal GP surgery reopens.

The Service is contactable by telephoning 028 38 399201 between the hours of 6pm-8am Monday to Friday and over the 24 hour period at weekends and Public Holidays.

When service users (or their carers) make contact with the Service, a trained Call Handler logs their demographic details and presenting symptoms along with any relevant history provided, and prioritises the call in line with Service training and procedures.

Patients are then contacted by an Out of Hours Clinician, who may be a GP, a Nurse Practitioner, a Nurse Advisor or Pharmacist. The Primary Care Clinician undertakes an initial telephone triage assessment with the service user and an appropriate treatment plan is devised which can include a base visit, home visit, self-management or referral to another service.

(ii) The number of shifts to be filled in the Southern Trust, broken down by location.

The table below shows the number of GPs providing cover to the 5 local bases weekly:

	Dungannon	Craigavon	Newry	Kilkeel	Armagh
Weekday 6-12pm	2	2	2	1	1
Red eye – 12mn – 8am	1		1
Weekend 8am – 12mn	2 GPs each morning, afternoon and evening	2 GPs each morning, afternoon and evening	4 GPs each morning, 3 GPs afternoon and evening	1 GP in the morning and evening ( 3hour shift)	1 GP each morning, afternoon and evening

Each base offers various opening times to ensure clinical cover by GPs and nurses at all times within the SHSCT. However, with a change in the delivery of the Service, some of these hours can be covered by GPs who are working from home and providing clinical triage.

In addition to the GP cover, 53 nursing and support staff shifts are also provided. The Nurse Advisors provide a triage function and this can be delivered from any base or home, there is no set rota for this and depends on capacity and demand. There are Reception staff in each base, along with Drivers in Newry, Craigavon and Dungannon as required

It should be noted that the information included in the table is only meant as a guide. The allocation of all staff and resources is subject to ongoing review of the presenting demand and staff availability therefore the actual allocation of staff to specific clinic sites is liable to change.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of (i) GP; and (ii) nursing and allied health professional shifts in the GP Out of Hours Services shifts that have gone unfilled in each of the last 24 months, broken down by location.

(AQW 16351/17-22)

Mr Swann: The tables below outline the number of shifts which were not filled by (i) GPs for each base location, and (ii) nursing and allied health professionals

(i) GPs for each base location

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Health whether his Department or Health and Social Care Trusts determine how many miscarriages a woman will undergo before medical tests for the cause of the miscarriages are undertaken; and what is that determination.

(AQW 16487/17-22)

Mr Swann: The current criteria for consideration of a referral by GPs to Secondary Care gynaecology services for miscarriage investigations, which may include medical testing, were developed by the gynaecology workstream of the Outpatient Reform Programme in 2016. They are based on the guidance from the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists. The criteria are:

- All women with 3 or more consecutive miscarriages;
- All women with 1 or more second trimester miscarriages;
- All women with a history of miscarriage and an associated condition such as antiphospholipid syndrome, PCOS, chronic medical disorder;
- All women over 35 years old with 2 or more miscarriages.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the current COVID-19 regulations on church services.

(AQW 16518/17-22)

Mr Swann: Churches are permitted to open for acts of worship, although most made a voluntary decision to close for in-person services from 7 January 2021.

If the number of attendees exceeds the current indoor gathering limits of 6 people from more than 2 households or outdoor gatherings of 10 people from more than 2 households, including at wedding and funerals, the person responsible for organising or operating the gathering must carry out a risk assessment and put in place, implement and maintain mitigating measures to reduce the risk of virus transmission.

From 24 May, subject to review by the Executive on 20 May, the numbers permitted for indoor gatherings, (not including domestic settings), will be as permitted by a risk assessment of the venue. Where the gathering is of more than 15 people, it must be an organised gathering with a risk assessment and mitigating measures.

Face coverings are mandatory within a place of worship and when entering or leaving, except for the person leading the service and the two parties to a marriage or civil partnership.

Funerals, marriages and civil partnerships have additional requirements. A person responsible for the organisation or operation of a marriage or civil partnership or the organiser or operator of the funeral or associated event must take measures to obtain visitor information either in advance or at the time of attendance. This consists of the name and telephone number of each person aged 16 years or above in attendance; the date and time of arrival; record the visitor information in a filing system; and retain visitor information for a period of 21 days beginning with the date on which the visit occurred.

The organiser or operator must destroy visitor information as soon as reasonably practicable after the 21 day period unless there is another basis on which the details may lawfully be retained. The visitor information must be provided to a relevant person as soon as reasonably practicable but in any event within 24 hours of a request, if so requested by that person.

Whether a person is attending or is responsible for organising or operating a funeral or associated event in a Church, funeral directors or elsewhere they must comply with the guidance for handling the infection risks when caring for the deceased and managing funerals issued by the Department of Health <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/publications/covid-19-guidance-surrounding-death>

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Health to outline the reasons for the current waiting times for a child to receive an autism assessment; and what action he is taking to reduce these waiting times.

(AQW 16995/17-22)

Mr Swann: I am acutely aware of the significant waiting lists for autism assessment and it is well documented that these have increased due to the impact of the pandemic. Throughout this time, the ability of our Trusts to deliver the observational element of the autism assessment was severely constrained due to the need to adhere to public health guidelines and also the impact of PPE on the individual being assessed; this would render the assessment invalid.

Throughout this time, Trusts have worked diligently to identify an alternative method of conducting this element of assessment and support and interventions have continued to be provided through digital platforms and clinician led helplines.

Whilst autism assessments are operational matters for individual Trusts, I acknowledge that the extensive waiting times are presenting challenges for the families involved. In recognition of this I have recently published an interim autism strategy, which will work towards implementing an integrated and streamlined pathway of care for children and young people across the region and will place emphasis on the need for early intervention approaches and support to meet the needs of individuals and their families and carers.

My officials are in discussions with colleagues in the Health and Social Care sector to identify factors which are contributing to delays in assessment and the actions being taken to address them. This will further inform actions to be progressed within both the interim autism strategy and the future direction of a longer term strategy.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of categorising people that work at asymptomatic testing centres as health and social care workers for the purposes of vaccination priority.

(AQW 17040/17-22)

Mr Swann: As you may be aware, vaccination policy in Northern Ireland is based on the recommendations and advice provided by the independent Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation (JCVI) which advises the 4 UK Health Ministers.

JCVI has advised that the first priorities for the COVID-19 vaccination programme should be the prevention of mortality and the maintenance of the health and social care systems. As the risk of mortality from COVID-19 increases with age, prioritisation is primarily based on age.

The vaccine was initially targeted at those considered most at risk or HSCWs working closely with those considered most at risk. JCVI did not recommend prioritisation by occupation. Since that initial phase the programme has moved on to other priority groups and the Programme has reached Priority Group 11.

Public facing Test Centre staff have now been approved for vaccination out of age cohort, and some 275 vaccination letters to staff wishing to avail if the vaccine have been issued. Some of this cohort may have already been vaccinated as part of a prior priority group.

The rate limiting factor for the Programme remains the availability of vaccine.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Health what action is being taken to enforce the COVID-19 Public Health restrictions concerning close contact services, specifically hairdressing and barbering.

(AQW 17046/17-22)

Mr Swann: I appreciate the thought, time and expense that business owners have given to putting additional safety measures in place, however businesses must also continue to take necessary precautions as restrictions ease to remain COVID secure and protect employees and customers.

In consultation with industry, guidance has been produced on how to work safely in different types of workplace. Guidance for close contact services is available at:

<https://www.economy-ni.gov.uk/publications/keeping-workers-and-clients-safe-during-covid-19-close-contact-services>

The Health and Safety Executive is the lead body responsible for the promotion and enforcement of health and safety at work standards in Northern Ireland, though it shares this responsibility with the 11 local councils. Relevant Departments, organisations and local government will continue to provide advice and support.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health to outline his plans to expand or improve respite provision in Foyle.

(AQW 17108/17-22)

Mr Swann: Mencap and Golden Lane have been commissioned to develop a new facility, which will open in Autumn 2022, offering provision to seven service users at time. In relation to children's services, a recruitment exercise is underway to expand provision by September 2021.

The Trust are reviewing the current range of short breaks options for older people and considering all options available.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister of Health to detail (i) the number of children currently waiting for an ADHD assessments; (ii) the waiting times for ADHD assessment in each Health and Social Care Trust; and (iii) the support available to families waiting for an ADHD assessment.

(AQW 17126/17-22)

Mr Swann:

(i) and (ii) – The number of children currently waiting for an ADHD assessment and the waiting times for ADHD assessments in each Trust area are as follows:

HSC Trust	No of Children	Waiting times
Belfast	1,287	208 weeks
Northern	60	4 – 6 weeks
South Eastern	467	68 weeks

HSC Trust	No of Children	Waiting times
Southern	205	38 weeks
Western	562	238 weeks

- (iii) There is a range of support available for families waiting for an ADHD assessment, which include formal programmes, one to one support as well as online resources, as follows:
- RISE NI, (Regional Integrated Support for Education): A parent website for the parents and carers of children in mainstream nurseries and primary schools (up to P4).
  - Parenting NI: which provides a range of parenting support, including managing challenging behaviour, walking on egg shells etc. for both primary and secondary school aged children.
  - ADD-NI: a charity that works to support carers regionally, based in Belfast.
  - Family Support Hubs: which provide support and intervention in the community for families who are managing a range of systemic stressors, which are all important to consider in understanding and managing a child's behaviour – including those awaiting ADHD assessment.
  - Relate NI: Relate's mission is to enhance emotional wellbeing in individuals, couples, families and communities by delivering professional counselling and therapeutic services.
  - New Life Counselling: New Life Counselling provides high quality counselling services and is part of Action Mental Health.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health how five-year and ten-year survival rates in Northern Ireland, for each type of cancer, compare to other parts of the United Kingdom, and the Republic of Ireland.

(AQW 17173/17-22)

Mr Swann: At present the Northern Ireland Cancer Registry (NICR) have not carried out ten-year survival analysis on any type of cancer. It does however routinely carry out five-year survival analysis on many of the cancer sites. This analysis was part of an international study led by the EUROCARE-5 project investigating survival of cancer patients diagnosed in 2000-2007 with residence in Europe. This survival information, and a UK and Republic of Ireland comparison, is detailed in Table 1 below for 25 major cancer sites.

Relative Survival Cumulative (RSC), Lower Bound 95% Confidence Interval (LB), Upper Bound 95% Confidence Interval (UB)

* Age standardised survival value is unexpectedly high compared to the European mean for this rapidly fatal cancer. This can be due to several reasons including: i) random variations and instability in one or more age classes; ii) problems in the follow up ascertainment; iii) problems in capturing all incident cases, particularly those with worse prognosis, or difficulties in accessing death certificates or in tracing back cases known by death certificate only.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Health to outline the reasons for the current waiting times for adults to receive an autism assessment; and what action he is taking to reduce these waiting times.

Mr Swann: I am aware of the extensive waiting lists for autism and that this situation has been further impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. I am also mindful that given the prevalence rates of autism in our children today we must consider the impact that this will have on adult service provision in the years to come.

A review of adult autism services, which would include the reasons for waiting lists and how we plan for future provision, was due to commence last April, however due to the emerging priorities that were placed upon to the Health and Social Care sector, this work had to be paused. However, this has been included as a key priority in my interim autism strategy for action in 2021 and 2022.

There is no current Commissioning Plan Direction target for adults to receive an autism assessment from point of referral. Current waiting times for an adult autism assessment, broken down by HSC Trust are provided in Table 1.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Health why his original answer to AQW 15365/17-22 was changed.
(AQW 17260/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department routinely discusses with other Departments, including the Department of Finance, the Answers to Questions for Written Answer when they concern matters that are the responsibility of more than one Department.

Following such a discussion between officials on AQW 15365/17-22, it was apparent that that my Answer was inaccurate in not making clear that 3(1)(d) of the Derry and Strabane City and District Council area provisions provided an exemption for "a gathering in a workplace, when it is not reasonably practicable for the duties of any person participating in the gathering to be carried out at that person's private dwelling".

When the inaccuracy became known to me I apologised to the Member and provided a corrected Answer, which was placed in the Library of the House.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health (i) to detail the current restrictions on travel within the Common Travel Area; and (ii) what consideration has been given to easing these restrictions.
(AQW 17468/17-22)

Mr Swann: People should not travel in or out of Northern Ireland except where it is essential to do so.

If you are arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area and you plan to remain here for at least 24 hours, public health advice is that you should self-isolate upon arrival for 10 days, unless you are exempt.

Some people travelling within the Common Travel Area may be exempt from self-isolation due to the job they do. Information on sector specific exemptions is available at:

<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-travel-within-common-travel-area-sector-exemptions>

An indicative date of 24 May has been set to allow individuals to travel within the Common Travel Area to visit family and friends.

This means you will not have to self-isolate for 10 days if you are arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area to visit family or friends, however the public health advice is to take a pre-departure Lateral Flow Device (LFD) test, and then a LFD test on day 2 and day 8 post arrival in NI.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health what consideration he has given to the easing of COVID-19 travel restrictions to other parts of the UK.

The Executive has committed to a four-week review cycle, where we monitor the data on a range of health and societal impacts, before considering what relaxations can be made safely. While the Executive formally reviews and make decisions on restrictions every four weeks, our monitoring cycle provides us with the ability to move more rapidly on emerging priorities should the need arise before the next review point.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health how many people received the drug Epanutin to treat epilepsy or other neurological conditions over the last 10 years.

Mr Swann: The dispensing data, collected by the HSC Business Services Organisation (BSO), does not capture the indication for which a drug has been prescribed and subsequently dispensed. However, between January 2011 and December 2020, there were a total of 2,763 unique patients who received some form of the drug Epanutin and/or the generic equivalent drug, Phenytoin. There were 1,417 unique patients who received the branded Epanutin.

The table overleaf, a breakdown of patients per calendar year, shows the number of individual patients who received Epanutin and/or Phenytoin in each of the last 10 years.

Number of patients receiving Epanutin/Phenytoin, 2011 - 2020<sup>1, 2, 3, 4</sup>

Year	Number of Patients Receiving Epanutin and/or Phenytoin <sup>5</sup>	Number of Patients receiving Epanutin	Number of Patients receiving Phenytoin
2011	1,856	1,270	630
2012	1,749	1,204	1,059
2013	1,438	180	1,344

- 1 The number of individual patients who received the specified drug in the year that the prescription was scanned and paid by BSO. Patients may be counted more than once over the ten year period. Similarly, patients may have received both the branded Epanutin and generic Phenytoin. In 2012, the company that manufactured Epanutin transferred its Marketing Authorisations to another company which debranded or genericised the drug.
- 2 All information is for prescriptions prescribed in primary care and dispensed by a community pharmacist or dispensing doctor and based on the year of payment. Data on secondary care prescribing and private prescriptions are not included.
- 3 The number of patients is the number of estimated unique patients whose dispensed scripts have been successfully matched against the central GP patient register in each year. If a patient has one or more prescriptions, the patient will be counted once.
- 4 The full list of Epanutin products included in the table are: Epanutin 25mg capsules, Epanutin 50mg capsules, Epanutin 100mg capsules, Epanutin 300mg capsules, Epanutin 30mg/5ml oral suspension, Epanutin Infatabs 50mg chewable tablets, Epanutin Ready-Mixed Parenteral 250mg/5ml solution for injection ampoules, Phenytoin sodium 25mg capsules, Phenytoin sodium 50mg capsules, Phenytoin 50mg chewable tablets, Phenytoin sodium 100mg tablets, Phenytoin sodium 100mg capsules, Phenytoin sodium 300mg capsules, Phenytoin sodium 250mg/5ml solution for injection ampoules, Phenytoin 30mg/5ml oral suspension.

- 5 Please note, the 'number of patients receiving Epanutin' and the 'number of patients receiving Phenytoin' do not sum to the 'number of patients receiving Epanutin and/or Phenytoin'; those patients who have received both drugs in the time period are only counted once in the total for 'number of patients receiving Epanutin and/or Phenytoin'.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health when Coronavirus regulations will be amended to allow partners to attend hospital and medical appointments.

(AQW 17543/17-22)

Mr Swann: My officials recently completed a review of the guidance for all healthcare settings. New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals was issued on 30 April 2021, effective from 7 May 2021.

The updated guidance allows that, in the majority of cases:

"One person only to be facilitated to accompany each patient where the environment is COVID secure."

The full guidance (<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/Covid-19-visiting-guidance>) sets out the detailed guidance for each category of care.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister of Health what action is being taken by his Department to ensure that a permanent solution is found to secure the future of Bannview Medical Practice in Portadown.

(AQW 17548/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Southern Health and Social Care Trust is continuing to work closely with the Health and Social Care Board and the Department to address the current situation at Bannview and put longer term arrangements in place to maintain the provision of GMS services in the Practice.

In the meantime I would like to assure you, and the patients of Bannview, that the Practice remains open and patients should continue to contact the Practice as normal for their ongoing care.

All the necessary clinics, for example vaccination and smear clinics, are continuing. Additional clinical staff, for example pharmacists, physiotherapist, mental health nurses, have been made available by the Southern Trust.

The administration team remains fully operational.

The Health and Social Care Board advertised the contract for the provision of GMS services to patients currently registered with Bannview, with perspective applicants having until Friday 30th April to apply for the contract.

A number of applications have been received and the Health and Social Care Board will now work through the process of assessing these applications with a view to securing a permanent long term solution that ensure that patients will continue to have access to GP led services.

I would ask patients and local political representatives to remain patient as we continue to work through this important process.

I hope this provides you with reassurance that we are working to ensure GMS services continue to be provided to the patients of Bannview Medical Practice.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health for an update on the Pay Review Body for staff for 2021-22.

(AQW 17574/17-22)

Mr Swann: The NHS Pay Review Body (NHSPRB) is an advisory non-departmental public body, sponsored by the Department of Health and Social Care in England.

Any decision on a pay award for NI health workers will be taken after the pay review bodies make their recommendations. I do not intend to pre-empt those recommendations. NHSPRB is expected to publish its report in May/June 2021.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to list each occasion since taking office that he has directly met with his counterparts in (i) Cardiff; (ii) Dublin; (iii) Edinburgh; and (iv) London.

(AQW 17653/17-22)

Mr Swann: All my meetings with external stakeholders are published on a quarterly basis; <https://www.opendatani.gov.uk/dataset>

My meetings from January-March 2021 will be published in May, with the same accessible link.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Health in what circumstances residents of Northern Ireland are permitted to travel to the Republic of Ireland.

(AQW 17664/17-22)

Mr Swann: Although there is currently no legal barrier to travel into and out of Northern Ireland for any reason we continue to ask everyone to avoid travel unless absolutely necessary in the interests of public health. Guidance on essential travel is provided at <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-travel-within-common-travel-area>

For those returning to Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area and who plan to remain here for at least 24 hours, the public health advice is that they should self-isolate upon arrival for 10 days, unless you are exempt

An indicative date of 24 May has been set to allow individuals to travel within the Common Travel Area to visit family and friends. This means that people will not have to self-isolate for 10 days if they are arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area to visit family or friends, however the public health advice is to take a pre-departure Lateral Flow Device (LFD) test, and then a LFD test on day 2 and day 8 post arrival in NI.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health what consideration has been given by Health and Social Care Trusts to relax restrictions for pre and anti-natal maternity services.

(AQW 17676/17-22)

Mr Swann: My officials keep the visiting guidelines under constant review. New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals - including Maternity and other services, is in the final stages of consultation with stakeholders and will be issued shortly.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health whether a review has taken place regarding the visitation arrangements in residential care facilities for family members.

(AQW 17677/17-22)

Mr Swann: A new approach to supporting the safe and proportionate increased visiting in care homes is being developed by the Public Health Agency and will include updated arrangements for the safe management of care home residents receiving visitors, as well as residents being able to visit other households, community facilities and take part in excursions.

This new guidance for visiting care homes in Northern Ireland will be issued shortly.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health when restrictions will be lifted to allow partners to attend maternity appointments.

(AQW 17679/17-22)

Mr Swann: My officials keep the visiting guidelines under constant review. New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals - including Maternity and other services, is in the final stages of a rapid consultation with stakeholders and will be issued shortly.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health for an update on the £500 Covid Recognition Payment to Health Service staff.

(AQW 17690/17-22)

Mr Swann: An FAQ on the special recognition payment, which includes eligibility criteria, has been published on my Department's website and is available at the following link;

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/news/hsc-staff-recognition-payment-faqs>

My Department is currently finalising the scheme and will make payment as soon as possible.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health how many people will be included in the third Neurology recall; and whether this will include those who were not part of the second recall.

(AQW 17717/17-22)

Mr Swann: A total of 276 patients are included in the neurology patient Cohort 3 recall. No patients who received a Cohort 3 recall letter on 20 April 2021 were previously invited to attend an appointment as part of Cohort 2 recall.

For a further 495 patients, who have been identified as currently being prescribed 'low risk' anti-platelet medication, the Trust will require additional information from their GP to establish whether a further consultation is needed.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health for an indicative date for the start of the Public Inquiry into Neurology Services under Dr Watt.

(AQW 17718/17-22)

Mr Swann: The non-statutory Independent Neurology Inquiry was established in May 2018 as part of a series of actions in response to the recall of neurology patients by the Belfast Health and Social Care Trust.

The Inquiry was converted to a statutory inquiry, under the Inquiries Act 2005, on 11 December 2020.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health how many staff working in Muckamore Abbey have been charged by the PSNI.

(AQW 17721/17-22)

Mr Swann: While I cannot comment on an ongoing police investigation, I can confirm that none of the seven individuals who were referred to in the Public Prosecution Service statement of 16 April are currently working at Muckamore Abbey Hospital.

Mr Newton asked the Minister of Health what development plans he has for the vacant ground, the former Joss Cardwell site, at the junction of the Holywood Road and the Circular Road, Belfast.

(AQW 17732/17-22)

Mr Swann: This site remains critical to planning of the Belfast Trust's Children's Residential Care Services and the Trust have submitted a proposal for the development of the site. A bid for the funding to commence the new unit was resubmitted to the Department of Finance in September 2020 as part of a four year capital budget information gathering exercise however, as you are aware, only a one year settlement has been confirmed for the 2021/22 financial year. The key issue of the capital investment programme is the affordability of schemes in future years. Without additional resources and a multi-year budget settlement my Department is unable to commence any significant new investments that will continue beyond this financial year.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail the capital and resource spend on autism services for (i) 2020; and (ii) 2021.

Mr Swann: My Department has made significant investment in autism services since 2016, with an additional £2 million being allocated to children's autism services on a recurrent basis.

However, service provision and supports for both adults and children are funded across a range of programmes and services, which, dependent on need, may include both generic services and those of a specialist nature provided by multi-disciplinary staff.

As funding in relation to these services are covered by a number of budgets it is not possible to give precise details for specific spend on autism services.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to outline the timeframe for designing a new long-term autism strategy in partnership with service users, their families, staff and community and voluntary sector organisations.

(AQW 17742/17-22)

Mr Swann: You will be aware that my Department has in recent weeks published an Autism – Interim Strategy for the years 2021 and 2022. My officials are currently working with colleagues across Departments and within the Health and Social Care sector as we implement the actions being taken forward by the strategy. However, you are aware of my commitment to develop a longer term strategy which will be due for implementation in 2023. In preparation for this my Department has established an Autism Forum which is comprised of community and voluntary sector representatives and also autistic people, their families and carers. An initial meeting of the Forum, in workshop format, was held on 28 April 2021 with further engagement planned. The role of the Forum will include informing priorities and assisting with the co-production of a longer term autism strategy for the period 2023-2028. Timescales will be determined as this progresses.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health when the report into the Regulation and Quality Improvement Authority board resignations will be published.

Mr Swann: The final report containing recommendations has been submitted to the Department for consideration. The Department shall be publishing the findings soon along with any further response or actions required.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the mechanisms in place to ensure (i) the organisation in charge of distributing money from the Carers Support Fund correctly determines which applicants should receive funding; (ii) that those carers not affiliated with a community and voluntary group will receive funds; (iii) the personal data of applicants for the fund is protected; and (iv) that those who need the money from the fund receive it.

(AQW 17786/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Support for Carers' Fund has been established with the aim of providing funds to charitable organisations who can deliver the following outcomes in support of carers:

- a) Enhanced provision of and access to practical supports and help for carers.
- b) Improved access to and availability of advice services for carers, including support available through new technologies.
- c) Enhanced skills of carers to advocate for the needs of both themselves and the person they care for.
- d) Support improved physical and mental health and wellbeing of carers.
- e) Enhanced ability for carers to lead their own lives and enjoy a work/life balance.
- f) Increased capacity to advocate for and advance carers' issues with Government and statutory bodies.
- g) Raised awareness of the contribution of carers.
- h) Improved evidence base on carers to support and inform service provision, and Government strategy.

The Fund will be open to community and voluntary sector organisations with charitable purposes offering support to carers and operating within Northern Ireland. The Fund will not provide for cash sums to be paid to individuals.

The Community Foundation NI (CFNI), who will manage the Fund on the Department's behalf, have begun work to develop the Fund and ensure that when it opens for applications it will be effective in reaching eligible organisations and encouraging applications which can deliver on the above outcomes. The organisation is compliant with all the necessary data protection legislation.

Community Foundation NI will engage with carers and those working at the community level to ensure funding reaches the areas of need and to encourage projects.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health when patients' partners will be allowed to attend hospital appointments.

(AQW 17839/17-22)

Mr Swann: My officials keep the visiting guidelines under constant review. New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals - including Maternity and other services, is in the final stages of a rapid consultation with stakeholders and will be issued shortly.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health when patients attending rehabilitation centres and appointments will be able to attend with family members and partners.

(AQW 17841/17-22)

Mr Swann: My officials keep the visiting guidelines under constant review. New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals - including Maternity and other services, is in the final stages of a rapid consultation with stakeholders and will be issued shortly.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health whether safeguards will be put in place to protect Northern Ireland's access to treatment, including non-branded drugs from UK pharmaceutical companies and suppliers, currently threatened by post-Brexit red tape.

(AQW 17866/17-22)

Mr Swann: At the end of 2020, the UK government negotiated a phased implementation of the Northern Ireland Protocol (NIP) requirements for medicines moving from Great Britain to Northern Ireland with the European Union Commission, to give Industry up to the 31 December 2021 to prepare to adapt to the regulatory measures required by the Protocol.

My Department is working closely with DHSC, the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA), other NI and UK Departments as well as the pharmaceutical industry to mitigate any risk to the medicines supply chain.

The DHSC preparation plans include a multi-layered approach for medicines and medical products to help ensure continuity of supply. This includes ensuring industry is aware of the action they need to take and the possible mitigations to put in place.

In addition, the Northern Ireland Protocol Programme Board has been set up by DHSC to work towards solutions for industry and to mitigate any risk to the Northern Ireland medicines supply chain. The Programme Board is attended fortnightly by my officials, and this work is ongoing.

There are already national and locally tried and tested mitigation arrangements in place for the surveillance of supply chains and for dealing with any supply disruptions to ensure that patients continue to get the medicines and medical supplies they need. These include (but not limited to) communicating with the primary and secondary healthcare settings detailing any potential shortages or issues with the supply chain and the best alternative products.

We can assure the public that we are working with all stakeholders to mitigate against disruption.

Mr McGlone asked the Minister of Health what mechanisms are in place to collect information about the side effects of, and reactions to, COVID-19 vaccines.

(AQW 17869/17-22)

Mr Swann: Reports of any suspected adverse drug reactions (ADRs) are made directly to the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) via the Yellow Card scheme.

The Yellow Card scheme is the UK system for collecting and monitoring information on suspected safety concerns or incidents involving medicines and medical devices. MHRA will consider all the information received and decide if the vaccine requires further investigation.

The purpose of the scheme is to provide an early warning that the safety of a product may require further investigation and relies on voluntary reporting of suspected ADRs by health professionals and members of the public (patients, users, or carers).

Reports can be made for all medicines including vaccines, blood factors and immunoglobulins, herbal medicines and homeopathic remedies, and all medical devices available on the UK market. A link to a summary of data from these reports is below:-

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-vaccine-adverse-reactions>

In addition to this each Trust has a clinical incident reporting system where staff report any incident involving a medicine. Arrangements are in place to ensure there is a regional approach taken on the reporting of all suspected adverse reactions which might be connected to the Covid-19 Vaccines. These reports are shared with Departmental officials who will continue to monitor the situation.

Further information about the Yellow Card scheme, including its contribution to identifying safety issues can be found on the Yellow Card website.

Mr Newton asked the Minister of Health to detail the average waiting time for occupational therapy in East Belfast, from GP referral until a patient visit is undertaken; and what action is being taken to reduce the waiting time.

(AQW 17889/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department does not hold this information centrally and it was requested from Belfast Health and Social Care (HSC) Trust. Information on the average waiting time for an appointment with an Occupational Therapist is not available, however information on waiting times (in bands) for active waits is available and shown in the table below.

Table 1. Number of active waits by time bands for occupational therapy, from GP referral until a patient visit is undertaken, in East Belfast, as at month end March 2021.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health when AQW 16478/17-22 will be answered.

(AQW 17895/17-22)

Mr Swann: An answer to AQW 16478/17-22 has been completed and the member ought now to have received the response.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister of Health whether the pandemic has led to an increase in trauma related referrals for people with autism.

(AQW 17919/17-22)

Mr Swann: The number of trauma related referrals for people with autism as a result of the pandemic is not held by my Department, nor is this readily available from current Health and Social Care Trust information systems.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health whether pregnant women will access the Pfizer-BioNtech vaccine from their doctors or community pharmacists.

(AQW 17922/17-22)

Mr Swann: Due to the additional handling and governance considerations for Pfizer Biontech, this vaccine is only available through Trust Vaccination Centres and is not available through GP practices or community pharmacy.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health whether out of hours GP services will continue to be provided at Magherafelt Hospital.

(AQW 17960/17-22)

Mr Swann: Dalriada Urgent Care (DUC) is the organisation responsible for GP Out of Hours services provided in the Northern Area which includes Magherafelt.

Since the Covid-19 pandemic and the increasing use of remote consultations, fewer patients who contact GP Out of Hours services have needed to be seen face to face in an Out of Hours base.

After a review of infection control, staffing and patient safety issues at the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic DUC's face to face services have been temporarily relocated from Ballymena, Whiteabbey and Magherafelt to the Antrim Hospital site.

The Coleraine centre remains on the Causeway Hospital site, and the Ballymena GP OOH base has become a Covid Centre site for the Northern Area.

The current arrangements for the provision of the OOHs service will be kept under review as we emerge from the current pandemic.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail the funding provided to the Patient and Client Council, including spend broken down to associated areas of responsibility and duties.

(AQW 17961/17-22)

Mr Swann: Funding has been provided to the Patient Client Council as follows:

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Health what action he is taking in response to the suspension of early medical abortion services in the Western Health and Social Care Trust; and how he will ensure that Trusts meet Northern Ireland's legal responsibilities to provide abortion services.

(AQW 17981/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department was informed by the Western Health and Social Care Trust on 23 April 2021 that its Early Medical Abortion (EMA) service would be temporarily paused with effect from that evening due to staff resource issues. My Department is continuing to monitor ongoing efforts by the Trust to restore delivery of these services with minimum disruption. At this stage it is not known how long services will be paused for. In the meantime, and in the event of a prolonged pause in service, it is likely that women residing in the Western Trust area will be referred to the central contact point for the English services which remain available to women from Northern Ireland (managed by the British Pregnancy Advice Service).

The Abortion (Northern Ireland) (No 2) Regulations 2020 provided a new legal basis for medical professionals in Northern Ireland to terminate pregnancies lawfully from 31 March 2020. Under the Regulations, my Department is not required to commission the relevant services, however my Department has advised Trusts that the Regulations require such terminations to be carried out on Health and Social Care premises by registered medical professionals.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health whether there are any specific issues with the delivery of second vaccine doses to adult centres.

(AQW 18039/17-22)

Mr Swann: The vaccination programme was delivered to adult day centres by the various Trusts.

At time of writing, Southern, Western and Belfast Trusts have completed delivery of both doses to vaccine to adult day centres. Western Trust have been delivering second doses on 11th and 12th May with a final clinic on 19th May.

Northern trust was delayed by one week with the delivery of second vaccine to service users in Adult Day Centres. This was due to staff on sick leave and the ability to release appropriately trained staff with the skill set required to administer the vaccine. To address this issue, one service user was vaccinated at a Trust vaccination centre but all other service users accepted the position and received their second dose at 11 weeks which is within JCVI guidance.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 17013/17-22, for a breakdown of the services purchased into types of services, for each year.

(AQW 18052/17-22)

Mr Swann: Pursuant to AQW 17013/17-22, a breakdown of the services purchased from the Republic of Ireland, by type and year, are set out in the table below.

Services Purchased	2015/16 £000's	2016/17 £000's	2017/18 £000's	2018/19 £000's	2019/20 £000's

Mr Chambers asked the Minister of Health for an update on the £500 special recognition payment for Health Service staff. (AQW 18079/17-22)

Mr Swann: An FAQ on the special recognition payment, which includes eligibility criteria, has been published on my Department's website and is available at the following link;

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/news/hsc-staff-recognition-payment-faqs>

We are working to commence payment of the award to HSC statutory sector employees in July. This will facilitate a period in which staff can consider if payment by instalments better suits their individual financial circumstances. Other employers, such as in the Independent Sector, may work to a different timescale. Discussions are ongoing with the Independent Sector around eligibility and payment.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health what measures have been taken to ensure that people who are blind or partially sighted can get access to information on vaccines.

Mr Swann: My Department has been working closely with communities and support organisations to help those people who need additional arrangements in order to be vaccinated, in particular both the Royal National Institute for the Blind (RNIB NI) and Guide Dogs NI.

The Public Health Authority (PHA) have produced vaccination information leaflets in a number of formats including audio recordings.

In addition, Covid-19 vaccinators are drawn from health care professional groups and are familiar with the adjustments required so that all of the eligible population are vaccinated. They are able to provide advice and reassurance at the vaccination appointment.

We have actively sought input and advice from RNIB and have been working closely with them to address the issue and ensure that our service is accessible.

RNIB have kindly allowed the use of their phone line to provide support and offer the details of participating pharmacies. The details of the helpline have been uploaded to NIDirect, COVIDCare and PHA webpages.

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Health to detail any discussions he has had in relation to community pharmacy supporting any future COVID-19 booster vaccination programme.

(AQW 18099/17-22)

Mr Swann: As the member will be aware, vaccination policy in Northern Ireland is based on the recommendations and advice provided by the independent Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation (JCVI) which advises the 4 UK Health Ministers.

We await advice from the JCVI on the scope of the booster programme for autumn / winter.

In the absence of this advice, which is awaited, there is no definitive position around which particular groups/age cohorts will be recommended for vaccination by JCVI, which vaccine(s) will be available or even recommended for particular groups by JCVI.

The design of the winter vaccination programme will depend on the outcome of a number of factors including what the future JCVI recommendations may be.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to outline the financial contribution to the Middletown Centre for Autism for each of the last five years, broken down by area of spend.

(AQW 18117/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Middletown Centre for Autism is not funded by my Department. The Centre is jointly funded by the Department for Education (NI) and the Department for Education and Skills (ROI).

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of times a community care package for learning disability ended due to (i) scheduled difference in care needs; and (ii) a crisis admission to an acute service, in each of the last three years, broken down by Health and Social Care Trust.
(AQW 18119/17-22)

Mr Swann: The information requested is not held by the Department and would require a manual trawl of records at a Trust level, therefore this represents a disproportionate cost to HSC resources.

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Health how his Department is futureproofing the services provided by allied health professionals, such as speech and language therapists, when planning the transformation of the Health and Social Care.
(AQW 18177/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Chief Allied Health Professional (AHP) Officer has a standing invitation to the Rebuilding Management Board to ensure that the voice of AHPs is built into rebuilding proposals. Furthermore, the starting point for major transformation is always the needs of the local population, including in relation to AHP services.

The Chief AHP officer is also involved in many of the Department's major reform projects and staffing models in relation to service transformation always include AHPs, where relevant.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Health how much funding has been set aside by his Department and its arm's-length bodies to celebrate the Northern Ireland Centenary.
(AQW 18180/17-22)

Mr Swann: Whilst I obviously very much celebrate Northern Ireland's centenary the opportunities to mark this important milestone are limited from a Department of Health perspective. As such no funding has been set aside.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to list each Integrated Care Partnership, including a breakdown of the full time membership of each partnership.
(AQW 18190/17-22)

Mr Swann: There are currently 17 Integrated Care Partnerships (ICPs) working throughout Northern Ireland across the five Local Commissioning Group areas.

Each partnership comprises of 15 members across a range of sectors including Community and Voluntary Sector, Service Users and Carers, Local Council officers, Northern Ireland Ambulance Service (NIAS), GPs, Pharmacists and HSC Trusts.

Information on current membership is available on the HSC Board website for each local area at: <http://www.hscboard.hscni.net/icps/integrated-care-partnerships/>.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health what consideration has been given to the reviewing of self-isolation for those travelling into Northern Ireland from other parts of the UK.
(AQW 18220/17-22)

Mr Swann: People should not travel in or out of Northern Ireland except where it is essential to do so.

If you are arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area and you plan to remain here for at least 24 hours, public health advice is that you should self-isolate upon arrival for 10 days, unless you are exempt.

Some people travelling within the Common Travel Area may be exempt from self-isolation due to the job they do. Information on sector specific exemptions is available at:

<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-travel-within-common-travel-area-sector-exemptions>

An indicative date of 24 May has been set to allow individuals to travel within the Common Travel Area to visit family and friends.

This means you will not have to self-isolate for 10 days if you are arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area to visit family or friends, however the public health advice is to take a pre-departure Lateral Flow Device (LFD) test, and then a LFD test on day 2 and day 8 post arrival in NI.

The Executive has committed to a four-week review cycle, where we monitor the data on a range of health and societal impacts, before considering what relaxations can be made safely. While the Executive formally reviews and make decisions on restrictions every four weeks, our monitoring cycle provides us with the ability to move more rapidly on emerging priorities should the need arise before the next review point.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health what follow up work Health and Social Care Trusts and his Department have completed with people that have side effects from the vaccine.

(AQW 18222/17-22)

Mr Swann: The member can be aware that Reports of any suspected adverse drug reactions (ADRs) are made directly to the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) via the Yellow Card scheme.

The Yellow Card scheme is the UK system for collecting and monitoring information on suspected safety concerns or incidents involving medicines and medical devices. MHRA will consider all the information received and decide if the vaccine requires further investigation.

The purpose of the scheme is to provide an early warning that the safety of a product may require further investigation and relies on voluntary reporting of suspected ADRs by health professionals and members of the public (patients, users, or carers).

Reports can be made for all medicines including vaccines, blood factors and immunoglobulins, herbal medicines and homeopathic remedies, and all medical devices available on the UK market. A link to a summary of data from these reports is below:-

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-vaccine-adverse-reactions>

In addition to this each Trust has a clinical incident reporting system where staff report any incident involving a medicine. Arrangements are in place to ensure there is a regional approach taken on the reporting of all suspected adverse reactions which might be connected to the Covid-19 Vaccines. These reports are shared with Departmental officials who will continue to monitor the situation.

Further information about the Yellow Card scheme, including its contribution to identifying safety issues can be found on the Yellow Card website.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister of Health to outline his commitment to an inquiry into the underspend of adult learning disability services in the Western Health and Social Care Trust.

(AQW 18275/17-22)

Mr Swann: As per AQW 17202/17-22, Departmental Officials have recently engaged with Western Health & Social Care to seek an update on progress made by the Trust, lessons learned, financial planning and engagement with carers. Options on any future investigation are also in development for my consideration and I expect to receive detail in the near future.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health how many people diagnosed with inflammatory bowel diseases have personalised care plans.

(AQW 18290/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department does not hold this information centrally and it was requested from the Health and Social Care (HSC) Trusts. The HSC Trusts advised that information on personalised care plans for counselling for persons diagnosed with inflammatory bowel diseases is not collected.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail his plans to recommence normal visitation rights of partners to expectant and new mothers in hospitals.

Mr Swann: My officials recently completed a review of the guidance for all healthcare settings. New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals was issued on 30 April 2021, effective from 7 May 2021, and represents a significant easement in the restrictions formerly in place.

In general hospitals, one daily visit from one of two nominated individuals (from up to two households) can be permitted, with the timing/ duration agreed with the person in charge.

In respect of maternity, a chosen birth partner will be facilitated to accompany the pregnant woman to any pregnancy related appointments or ultrasound scans, and to accompany the pregnant woman for induction of labour, duration of labour and birth and, for up to three hours after the birth.

Where the woman is receiving inpatient care, one daily visit from one of two nominated individuals (from up to two households) can be permitted.

Full implementation of the new guidance will be subject to a dynamic risk assessment, but all five local Health & Social Care Trusts have undertaken to work to ensure measures are put in place to facilitate this as soon as possible.

The full guidance (<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/Covid-19-visiting-guidance>) sets out the detailed guidance for each category of care.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health what strategies are in place to stop the transmission of HIV; and whether there is a target date for zero transmissions.

(AQW 18345/17-22)

Mr Swann: The international UNAIDS 95: 95: 95 HIV elimination strategy targets (1) the proportion of diagnosed individuals receiving treatment and (2) the proportion of those in treatment being virally suppressed have now been surpassed here. However, modelling suggests that the target for the proportion of individuals infected with HIV being aware of their diagnosis has not yet been reached. A target date for zero transmissions has not been set but my Department and the HSC aspire to ending new transmissions here at the earliest possible date.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health whether he has considered issuing guidance or regulations for people to holiday at home rather than travel abroad this summer.

(AQW 18386/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Written Ministerial Statement on 13 May 2021 from the First Minister and deputy First Minister set out a further set of relaxations agreed by the Executive on 13 May 2021.

We have reviewed the 'Stay Local' messaging and concluded that with the reopening of tourism and other areas, it is time to step away from that message, to focus more on individuals' behaviours rather than distance travelled.

In relation to travel within the Common Travel Area (CTA), at present there is advice not to travel in or out of Northern Ireland except where it is essential to do so. The list of essential reasons to travel is published on NIDirect.

From 24 May, subject to review on 20 May, we have decided to remove the essential travel reasons requirement and retain the guidance on self-isolation and add two new exemptions to this:

- visits to family and friends;
- those who have completed mandatory managed quarantine on arrival at a point of entry elsewhere in the CTA and travelled directly to Northern Ireland.

Those exempt from self-isolation will be asked in guidance to take a pre-departure LFD test, and LFD tests and days 2 and 8 post arrival in Northern Ireland.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health, given the expected increase in medical graduates, what action he is taking to ensure an adequate number of foundation training places are available in the Health Service.

(AQW 18388/17-22)

Mr Swann: I am aware of the significant increase that will be required to the future number of posts available under the Northern Ireland Foundation Programme, particularly from 2025 onwards. It will be necessary to address a temporary increase in medical graduates from the QUB Medical School, combined with the additional output that will be generated by Ulster University's new Graduate Entry Medical School.

My officials will be working with the Northern Ireland Medical and Dental Training Agency and HSC Trusts to identify the necessary postings and additional finance. I expect that, working in partnership with these organisations, the Northern Ireland Foundation Programme will be expanded to provide new medical graduates with excellent foundation training opportunities that will launch their careers in the HSC.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health to detail the sickness absence of the Northern Ireland Ambulance Service in each month of the last three years.

(AQW 18411/17-22)

Mr Swann: The metric used to measure sickness absence is percentage hours lost. Information provided by the Northern Ireland Ambulance Service (NIAS) on the percentage hours lost in each month due to sickness absence in each of the last three years is detailed in the table below. Figures exclude Covid-19 self-symptomatic and self-isolation related absence figures.

Month	2018/19	2019/20	2020/21

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health how many patients in each Health and Social Care Trust were (i) treated for; and (ii) diagnosed with (a) obesity; (b) poor oral health; and (c) type 2 Diabetes, in each of last three years.

(AQW 18420/17-22)

Mr Swann: Data is either not available, or the terms used in this question are too broad to allow appropriate data to be supplied in response.

The number of people diagnosed with obesity is not collected centrally. There are numerous possible treatments for obesity, including GP advice on diet and exercise, medication and bariatric surgery.

Poor oral health may refer to a wide range of conditions, including dental caries, gum disease and oral cancer, and it is not possible to provide either the number diagnosed with or treated for poor oral health.

Diabetes is one of the disease registers in the Quality and Outcomes Framework. Disease prevalence data collected as part of the QOF can be found at <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/articles/prevalence-statistics>. The diabetes register contains the number of patients aged 17 years and over with diabetes mellitus (specified as type 1 or type 2 diabetes). Although GP practices must record whether a patient has Type 1 or Type 2 diabetes, this level of detail is not collected centrally, therefore the register size cannot be disaggregated by type of diabetes. The number of people treated for Type 2 diabetes is also not available, as various treatments can be used. For example, treatment can be simply diet and exercise, but some people may require medication; treatment will vary depending on the individual needs.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health how many people who contracted COVID-19 have subsequently suffered a stroke.

Mr Swann: At this point, it is not known how many people who contracted COVID-19 have subsequently suffered a stroke. This is a complex issue that would require a significant data linkage project to address. Such projects may be dealt with in the appropriate research setting when full data becomes available.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health, over the last five years, how many Belfast Health and Social Care Trust rheumatology patients have paid for private treatment as a result of not receiving treatment from the Trust.

(AQW 18468/17-22)

Mr Swann: Information on the number of Belfast Health and Social Care Trust rheumatology patients that have paid for private treatment as a result of not receiving treatment from the Trust is not held by the Department, Health and Social Care Board nor the Belfast Health and Social Care Trust.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health to detail the current waiting list for mental health services in the Southern Health and Social Care Trust, broken down by (i) time spent on the waiting list; and (ii) age bracket.

(AQW 18478/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department does not hold this information centrally and it was requested from the Southern Health and Social Care Trust (SHSCT).

Table 1 sets out the number of active waits for mental health services in SHSCT, broken down by time bands.

Table 2 sets out the number of active waits for mental health services in SHSCT, broken down by age bands.

Table 1: Number of active waits for mental health services in SHSCT, broken down by time bands, as at 31st March 2021.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health how the new visiting arrangements in health care settings will be implemented in (i) Diasy Hill Hospital, Newry; and (ii) Craigavon Area Hospital.

(AQW 18479/17-22)

Mr Swann: Full implementation of the new guidance will always be subject to dynamic risk assessment, but all five local Health & Social Care Trusts have undertaken to work to ensure measures are put in place to facilitate this as soon as possible.

The Southern Health & Social Care Trust has confirmed that for all their facilities they have been opening up to further patient visiting as of Wednesday 12th May. Visiting will be facilitated via a ward appointment system, to ensure social distancing can be safely managed. Visiting will take place in visiting slots over the period from 2pm to 8pm and will accommodate one nominated visitor at any given time.

There are a small number of areas with immunocompromised patients where visiting will be risk assessed and will need more carefully considered. This is purely on the basis of patient safety.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 17789/17-22, to detail the number of (i) nurses and (ii) midwives that have joined Health and Social Care Trusts in each of the last five years.

(AQW 18486/17-22)

Mr Swann: Information on the number of registered nurses and midwives joining Health and Social Care (HSC) organisations in each of the last five years is provided in the table below. The information presented has been calculated by comparing snapshots of directly employed HSC staff in post at 31 March each year, for example those who appeared on the March 2020 dataset but not March 2019 were classed as joiners in 2019/20. Not all joiners will be newly qualified, as some could be taking up employment in HSC organisations having left another part of the wider health & social care system e.g. general practice or nursing home care. Figures presented may exclude some short-term staff who were not captured on one or both datasets.

Registered Nursing & Midwifery Staff Joining HSC organisations in each year

Year	Registered Nurses	Registered Midwives
2015/16	1,054	55
2016/17	1,038	77
2017/18	1,061	69
2018/19	1,162	65
2019/20	1,393	70

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health how much each Health and Social Care Trust has spent on agency nursing staff in each of the last five years.

(AQW 18487/17-22)

Mr Swann: Trust expenditure on agency staff has been incurred to ensure that safe and effective services are sustained and contributes importantly to maintaining service provision to patients and clients. HSC Trusts employ locum staff for several reasons, for example, cover for sickness and maternity/paternity leave; cover for existing vacancies; and when demand increases over the winter months. The primary aim of this is to ensure that safe and effective services are sustained at all times for patients and clients.

The Department monitors Health and Social Care Trusts' expenditure on agency staff on a quarterly basis for specific staffing categories, across financial years. Information is not collected by service area. Expenditure on Agency Staff by Health and Social Care Trust, for the last five financial years, is given below. The last available data, currently available, for a complete financial year is 19/20.

The Department is committed to sustained investment in growing the local nursing and midwifery workforce to meet ever increasing demands, for example, this year we have commissioned the highest ever number (1,325) of pre-registration nursing and midwifery training places.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail (i) the estimated number of unpaid carers; (ii) the number of unpaid carers that would qualify for carers' allowance; (iii) the estimated savings from the work of unpaid carers; and (iv) a breakdown of the ages of those people cared for by unpaid carers.

Mr Swann:

- (i) The 2011 Census showed that there were 213,863 people who indicated that they provided some level of unpaid care in Northern Ireland. We do not hold any data on the current numbers of people providing unpaid care;
- (ii) Carer's Allowance is administered and overseen by the Department of Communities;
- (iii) While UK-wide estimates of between £57 billion and £100 billion have been produced no independent NI research has been commissioned to account for local factors; and
- (iv) This information is not available.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health whether he has plans to investigate the adult learning disability underspend in the Western Health and Social Care Trust.

(AQW 18492/17-22)

Mr Swann: As per AQW 17202/17-22, Departmental Officials have recently engaged with Western Health & Social Care to seek an update on progress made by the Trust, lessons learned, financial planning and engagement with carers. Options on any future investigation are also in development for my consideration and I expect to receive detail in the near future.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health whether his Department has any plans for capital investment in the Glenside Day Centre, Strabane.

(AQW 18493/17-22)

Mr Swann: In 2017-18 the Western Health and Social Care Trust invested £400,000 in a modular redevelopment for Glenside Day Centre which has improved the delivery of services to clients. During 2020-21, the Trust commissioned a condition survey of all its built estate which has identified Glenside Day Centre to be of satisfactory standard.

There are no current plans for any capital works on this site in 2021-22.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health (i) for his assessment of neurology service provision; (ii) how his Department intends to address the waiting lists for this service; and (iii) for an update on the progress of reforming neurology services.

(AQW 18498/17-22)

Mr Swann: I recognise that the Neurology Service is under considerable pressure. Challenges include the workforce, with demand greater than capacity at consultant level. Despite the best efforts of staff, outpatient waiting lists have grown in recent years. There is also a need to provide more timely assessment of patients who present at Emergency Departments with suspected neurological conditions.

In the immediate term, constraints on the workforce mean that innovative approaches are being developed involving nursing, allied health professionals and GPs working alongside consultant posts.

Alongside these developments, the Regional Review of Neurology Services is tasked with identifying the optimal configuration for the Neurology Service and the long term improvements required to deliver that configuration. While the Review was necessarily paused in March 2020 to enable resources to be redirected to the COVID-19 pandemic, it is intended that the Neurology Review Team will be reconvened in the coming weeks to progress this important work.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail (i) the increase in the number of out-of-hours hospital appointments created in the past year in order to deal with waiting lists; and (ii) any funding bids he has made to the Executive and Westminster in order to fund the tackling of growing waiting lists.

Mr Swann: It is normal practice for the HSC to schedule additional clinics out of hours to help address hospital waiting times for assessment. While the Covid-19 pandemic reduced the level of additional capacity which could be provided, there were still 8,982 outpatients seen out of hours during 2020/21.

My Department's only option to secure additional funding is through the Department of Finance (DoF) led Budget exercises which determines the budget allocations for NI Departments and are agreed by the Executive.

As part of the 2021/22 Budget Exercise, my Department in acknowledging the additional pressures placed on waiting lists which has been exacerbated by the Covid-19 pandemic made a bid of £30.3m to DoF in respect of Elective Services.

While this bid for additional funding was not met specifically my Department did receive Covid Rebuild funding of which I intend to use some £40m to fund Waiting List Initiatives and other Elective developments including orthopaedics.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of Regulation and Quality Improvement Authority inspections in each month since February 2020, broken down by (i) virtual or remote inspections; and (ii) on-site inspections.

Mr Swann: The table below provides details of all RQIA inspections conducted during the period 01 February 2020 to 30 April 2021.

Please note: the figures in table above differ slightly from the figures provided in a previous response to AQWs 15475/17-21 and 15476/17-21, as the data have been subject to validation at year end.

1 April 2021 figures are provisional.

- * Blended inspections involve elements of both remote and on-site inspection.
- ** From April 2020 onwards RQIA recorded inspections as onsite, remote or blended. No breakdown held for February or March 2020.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health how many (i) maternity services; (ii) general visiting services; and (iii) care homes are COVID-19 secure as per the definition in the visiting guidance.

(AQW 18578/17-22)

Mr Swann: The use of the term “COVID-19 Secure” relates to the delivery and organisation of visiting, and not to a specific setting. For a visit to be COVID-19 Secure, as described in the latest guidance, requires the maintenance of:

- A social distance of 2 metres wherever possible
- Optimal hand hygiene and personal hygiene measures
- Good ventilation
- Use of PPE when required
- Face Coverings

While there are specific issues in a small number of settings due to the size/layout of some of their facilities, all five Health & Social Care Trusts have committed to put the necessary measures in place to allow the implementation of the latest guidance as far as possible. Thus, subject to ongoing dynamic risk assessments, COVID-19 Secure visits should be facilitated for all those in healthcare settings in Northern Ireland.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health (i) which Health and Social Care staff are due to receive the £500 special recognition payment; (ii) whether those working for private care employers are also eligible; (iii) in instances where staff choose the pattern of instalments, rather than a lump sum, how will it be paid and over how long and; and (iv) whether staff will be signposted to the independent advice sector or will independent advice be invited into workplaces.

Mr Swann:

- i All HSC staff on the Business Service Organisation payroll – including doctors, community dentists and Agenda for Change staff.
- ii. Those working in the Independent Sector providing contracted and regulated services, such as in nursing homes, will also be eligible.
- iii. Staff will have the option of receiving the payment over 3 instalments.
- iv. Staff will be advised to seek appropriate advice independently, from, for example, Advice NI or Citizens Advice.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health what steps are being taken to reduce to waiting time for patients with Inflammatory Bowel Disease to receive a full diagnosis.

(AQW 18593/17-22)

Mr Swann: A number of initiatives have been introduced in recent years to improve waiting times for inflammatory bowel diseases. Diagnosis of IBD is now supported by gastroenterology primary care pathways and the provision of laboratory tests, specifically Calprotectin testing. These have enabled clinicians to prioritise outpatient referrals for IBD and better manage patients who are already undergoing treatment for IBD. Dietitians also play a vital role in managing conditions such as Coeliac and IBS thereby freeing up consultant capacity within hospitals to see more patients with suspected IBD.

Bringing our waiting times to an acceptable level across all specialties is a long term collective effort requiring sustained and substantial investment and additional staffing. It is in that context that I recently announced my intention to publish an elective care framework which will set out both the immediate and longer term actions and funding requirements.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health how many Inflammatory Bowel Disease nurse specialists there are in each Health and Social Care Trust.

(AQW 18594/17-22)

Mr Swann: Information provided by Health and Social Care (HSC) Trusts on the number of Inflammatory Bowel Disease nurse specialists employed is detailed in the table below.

HSC Trust	Inflammatory Bowel Disease Nurse Specialists
Belfast	3 (2.98 WTE)
Northern	3.6 WTE
South Eastern	2 (2 WTE)

HSC Trust	Inflammatory Bowel Disease Nurse Specialists
Southern	3 (3 WTE) *
Western	2 (1.5 WTE) #

* A fourth person is currently employed providing temporary cover for one IBD Nurse Specialist.

There is also 1 (0.45 WTE) vacant post.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Health how many requests his Department received for the translation of documents into (i) Irish; and (ii) Ulster Scots, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18630/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department did not receive any requests for the translation of documents into either (i) Irish; or (ii) Ulster Scots, in each of the last three years.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister of Health whether he will consider the Holywell Hospital new build as the location for the new perinatal mental health 6 bed inpatient unit that is currently being developed.

(AQW 18642/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Public Health Agency will shortly commence work to develop a business case for a regional mother and baby unit. This work will involve scoping the need for such a unit and possible locations.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health for an update on the recruitment of a permanent Mental Health Champion for Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18643/17-22)

Mr Swann: The competition to appoint a permanent Mental Health Champion was advertised on 4 March 2021 and closed on 9 April.

Interviews are scheduled for June 2021 and I am planning to have a permanent Champion in post by early Autumn.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister of Health what action he is taking to reduce waiting times for endometriosis.

(AQW 18651/17-22)

Mr Swann: The pandemic has inevitably had a negative impact across many aspects of elective surgery, including access to gynaecology surgery. Addressing the backlog of patients waiting will be challenging given the reduced operational capacity across the HSC. Going forward, the focus of the HSC will be on resetting all elective services in an environment that is safe for both staff and patients.

Additional non-recurrent funding has been made available in 2021/22 to enable Trusts to undertake additional activity to reduce elective care waiting lists across a range of specialties. This funding has been targeted at those patients with the highest clinical priority, including those with suspected or confirmed cancer and thereafter at those waiting the longest for assessment and treatment.

Bringing our waiting lists to an acceptable level across a range of specialties, including endometriosis, is a long term collective effort requiring sustained and substantial investment and additional staffing. It is in that context that I recently announced my intention to publish an elective care framework which will set out both the immediate and longer term actions and funding requirements needed to tackle all waiting lists.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of the (i) prevalence; and (ii) health impact of nitrous oxide use.

Mr Swann: There is currently no population-wide prevalence data related specifically to nitrous oxide use, as this substance is likely to fall within the wider category of solvents, with only isolated reports of nitrous oxide being used in NI. The Drug & Alcohol Monitoring & Information System (DAMIS) recently received information from partner agencies regarding a number of small, empty, branded gas type / nitrous oxide canisters being found in parts of Belfast. There has also been reports of associated anti-social behaviour from young people thought to be involved in inhalation of this substance as well as concerns about the dangers to their health.

Commonly associated with creating feelings of euphoria, nitrous oxide slows down the brain and body's responses and can cause severe headaches, dizziness, confusion, as well as short-lived but intense feelings of paranoia. It is very dangerous to inhale nitrous oxide directly from the canister or in an enclosed space is. The health risks from taking too much nitrous oxide include falling unconscious and/or suffocating from the lack of oxygen. Mixing nitrous oxide with alcohol is especially dangerous as it can increase the risks associated with both substances and can lead to an increased risk of accidents.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health when he will recommend that travel restrictions between Northern Ireland the rest of UK are lifted.

(AQW 18661/17-22)

Mr Swann: People should not travel in or out of Northern Ireland except where it is essential to do so.

If you are arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area and you plan to remain here for at least 24 hours, public health advice is that you should self-isolate upon arrival for 10 days, unless you are exempt.

Some people travelling within the Common Travel Area may be exempt from self-isolation due to the job they do. Information on sector specific exemptions is available at:

<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-travel-within-common-travel-area-sector-exemptions>

An indicative date of 24 May has been set to allow individuals to travel within the Common Travel Area to visit family and friends.

This means you will not have to self-isolate for 10 days if you are arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area to visit family or friends, however the public health advice is to take a pre-departure Lateral Flow Device (LFD) test, and then a LFD test on day 2 and day 8 post arrival in NI.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health whether his Department is monitoring the connection between breastfeeding and deprivation.

(AQW 18667/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department monitors breastfeeding and inequalities as reported in the PHA Breastfeeding Briefing 2020. Full details can be found at: https://www.publichealth.hscni.net/sites/default/files/2020-05/Hi%20Brief%20Breastfeeding%20February%202020%20FINAL\_0.pdf

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of children awaiting assessment for autism in each Health and Social Care Trust; and what plans he is putting in place to reduce those waiting lists.

(AQW 18674/17-22)

Mr Swann: The number of children awaiting an assessment for autism, following a referral, in each Health and Social Care Trust are presented in Table 1.

Table 1: The number of children in Northern Ireland waiting for an autism assessment following referral by Health and Social Trust (31 March 2021)

HSC Trust	Number of children waiting for assessment following referral by time waiting
Belfast	1,866
Northern	1,880
South Eastern	70
Southern	179
Western	1,129
Northern Ireland	5,124

Source: Autism Waiting Times (Children) return, Health and Social Care Board

Whilst autism assessments are operational matters for individual Trusts, I acknowledge that the extensive waiting times are presenting challenges for the families involved. In recognition of this I have recently published an interim autism strategy, which will work towards implementing an integrated and streamlined pathway of care for children and young people across the region and will place emphasis on the need for early intervention approaches and support to meet the needs of individuals and their families and carers.

My officials are in discussions with colleagues in the Health and Social Care sector to identify factors which are contributing to delays in assessment and the actions being taken to address them. This will further inform actions to be progressed within both the interim autism strategy and the future direction of a longer term strategy work on which will commence later this year.

Mr Wells asked the Minister of Health what steps he is taking to reduce the current 18 month waiting list for ear wax removal in South Eastern Health and Social Care Trust.

Mr Swann: The pandemic has had an inevitable and serious impact on already unacceptable waiting times.

All patients referred for possible treatment are assessed by a local consultant to determine their clinical priority. Generally, this assessment will establish whether the patient's treatment need should be considered as "urgent" or "routine".

Due to the constraint in resources and the increasing demand for services, the Trust has to prioritise the capacity for the most clinically urgent patients. This regrettably means those other patients, who are considered less urgent, may have to wait longer for their assessment and treatment.

Bringing our waiting lists to an acceptable level across a range of specialties, including ENT, is a long term collective effort requiring sustained and substantial investment and additional staffing.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health whether he will bring forward a maternity service strategy.
(AQW 18690/17-22)

Mr Swann: I can confirm that the Department still intends to commence a review of Maternity and Neonatal Services and following the review to develop an updated Maternity Strategy. Unfortunately the review had to be paused due to the challenges and disruption associated with COVID-19.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health to detail the hourly rate paid to domiciliary care workers in each Health and Social Care Trust.
(AQW 18692/17-22)

Mr Swann: The hourly rates paid to domiciliary care workers are outlined in the table below. Trusts utilise a mix of Band 2 and Band 3 staff, the Banding of posts is a matter of the responsibilities of a particular role, not the job title. The pay rates are in line with nationally agreed Agenda for Change Terms and Conditions pay scales, last updated in April 2020. The pay round for 2021/22 is yet to be settled.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health whether he will establish a regional pay rate for domiciliary care workers.

Mr Swann: The hourly rates paid to domiciliary care workers are outlined in the table below. Trusts utilise a mix of Band 2 and Band 3 staff, the Banding of posts is a matter of the responsibilities of a particular role, not the job title. The pay rates are in line with nationally agreed Agenda for Change Terms and Conditions pay scales, last updated in April 2020. The pay round for 2021/22 is yet to be settled.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister of Health, given the Health and Social Care Census found that a third of the midwifery workforce are aged over 50 in March 2020, (i) how his Department will ensure capability and capacity in the workforce; and (ii) when interim reports will be published on the capacity and capability within midwifery, including on progress towards an adequate level.

Mr Swann: In line with recommendations of the Nursing and Midwifery Task Group, my Department is committed to stabilising the midwifery and nursing workforce, therefore ensuring safe and effective care. The recommendations commit to developing and preparing midwives and nurses for leadership positions, through the development of a new leadership framework and investment in leadership training for midwives and nurses.

The Department is committed to investing recurrently within postgraduate education, which will increase the capacity and capability of the midwifery workforce, supporting the development of a strategic workforce plan which will systematically enhance the roles of midwives within maternity services.

To further maintain workforce capacity, the Department has been investing in pre-registration midwifery training places commissioned from the Queen's University, Belfast. These have increased by 106 (166%), from 64 in 2015/16 to 170 in 2021/22.

The Department does not intend to publish interim reports on the capacity and capability within midwifery. The implementation of the Nursing and Midwifery Task Report recommendations will strengthen the capacity and capability of the midwifery workforce.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Health to detail the average waiting time for someone with suspected rheumatoid arthritis to get a first appointment with a consultant in each Health and Social Care Trust.

(AQW 18768/17-22)

Mr Swann: Outpatient waiting times are reported by my Department on a quarterly basis. These publications refer to the position at the end of a given quarter, detailing how many patients are still waiting for a first consultant led outpatient appointment broken down by HSC Trust, Specialty and length of time waiting.

Quarterly National Statistics on Outpatient Waiting Times Information is published at the following link:

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/articles/outpatient-waiting-times>

Data on waiting times for someone with suspected rheumatoid arthritis to get a first appointment with a consultant is not available. Table 1 shows the average length of time that patients have been waiting for a first Rheumatology outpatient appointment in each HSC Trust at 31st December 2020.

Table 1: Number of patients waiting and average waiting time for a first Rheumatology outpatient appointment as at 31st December 2020

HSC Trust	Number waiting	Average waiting time (weeks)
Belfast	5,090	126
Northern	2,754	71
South Eastern	4,005	100
Southern	2,112	80
Western	2,042	60

Source: DOH Outpatient Waiting Times Dataset

Note: Average weeks waiting refers to how long, on average, patients had waited as at 31st December 2020, and not the total average time that patients will wait.

Mr Frew asked the Minister of Health whether he will meet with beneficiaries of La Dolce Vita Project that have been affected by domestic abuse and parental alienation and who may also be in a position to support early intervention plans on policy and potential advice on practical guidance for professionals.

(AQW 18771/17-22)

Mr Swann: Officials from my Department and the Department of Justice have engaged with La Dolce Vita Project to discuss the topic of parental alienation and work which both Departments will be taking forward through a Private Family Law Early Resolution Joint Action Plan. My Department would welcome the support by key stakeholder organisations, like La Dolce Vita Project, to implement the plan.

Mr Frew asked the Minister of Health when the first meeting will take place on the focus/task and finish groups to be held on the early intervention plans to support policies in connection to parental alienation; and how will the organisations be selected for these focus/task and finish groups.

(AQW 18772/17-22)

Mr Swann: Officials from my Department and the Department of Justice have engaged with a range of stakeholders to discuss the topic of parental alienation and work which both Departments will be taking forward through a Private Family Law Early Resolution Joint Action Plan. These stakeholders have been identified due to the nature of their work with people who have lived experience of the behaviours associated with parental alienation. This engagement will continue as the plan is implemented.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister of Health to detail attendance figures at Emergency Departments in each Health and Social Care Trust in each month since January 2020.

(AQW 18777/17-22)

Mr Swann: Information on the number of monthly attendances at each Emergency Department is published on a quarterly basis and available to view or download at the link below:

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/health/hs-niwts-ecwt-data-q4-20-21.html>

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to outline the membership and terms of reference for the Autism Forum; and for a breakdown of the forum membership.

(AQW 18779/17-22)

Mr Swann: Invitations to nominate an individual for the Autism Forum issued to twenty one organisations, of which nine accepted as follows:

- National Autistic Society
- Orchardville
- Autism NI
- Mencap
- NOW Group
- Autism Initiatives
- Barnardo's
- ARC (an umbrella organisation representing the learning disability sector)
- Cedar Foundation

Members nominated to the Forum are comprised of people with lived experience and representatives of the organisation. A number of nominees have dual membership as both. Representatives from the Health and Social Care sector and a cross-departmental representative will also participate in the Forum. Membership will be reviewed as required.

Terms of reference will be agreed at the next meeting of the Forum in June and will be based upon communication, shared experience, informing priorities and accountability.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Health whether he intends to amend the StopCOVID NI app to display a person's vaccination status.

(AQW 18792/17-22)

Mr Swann: The StopCOVIDNI app was created to reduce the likelihood of onward transmission of the virus by alerting people to the possibility of having been in close contact with a person who subsequently tested positive for Covid. The app was built with privacy in mind and specifically designed not to hold personal information.

The StopCOVIDNI app would not be suitable for the purpose of displaying personal vaccination status.

Mr McGlone asked the Minister of Health what actions are being taken to introduce fair pay for nursing.

(AQW 18832/17-22)

Mr Swann: The pay round for 2021/22 for NHS and HSC staff has not yet been finalised.

Any decision on a pay award for nurses and other NI health workers, will be taken after the pay review bodies make their recommendations. I do not intend to pre-empt those recommendations. The NHS Pay Review Body is now expected to publish its report in June 2021.

Our pay award decisions can also only be taken in the context of a wider public sector pay policy set by the Department of Finance.

Please be assured that both I and my Department remain committed to a fair pay settlement for all our healthcare staff going forward.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister of Health whether the drug Translarna will be available on the Health Service until January 2023, as is the case in England.

(AQW 18842/17-22)

Mr Swann: Highly specialised technologies recommended by the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence (NICE) are available to all suitable patients in Northern Ireland within the parameters set by NICE.

Ataluren (Translarna) for treating Duchenne muscular dystrophy (HST3) was recommended for use by NICE in July 2016. The managed access agreement for ataluren has been extended to January 2023.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of access to the drug Translarna for Duchenne muscular dystrophy.

(AQW 18870/17-22)

Mr Swann: Highly specialised technologies recommended by the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence (NICE) are available to all suitable patients in Northern Ireland within the parameters set by NICE.

Ataluren (Translarna) for treating Duchenne muscular dystrophy (HST3) was recommended for use by NICE in July 2016.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health for a breakdown of the numbers of children diagnosed with autism in each Health and Social Care Trust, for each of the last three years.

(AQW 18964/17-22)

Mr Swann: My department publishes statistics for the number of children diagnosed with autism in each Health and Social Care Trust on a quarterly basis. This information is available on the Department website at the following link: <http://www.health-ni.gov.uk/articles/autism-statistics> .

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health whether there are any plans to offer the vaccine to people in the 12-16 age group and specifically to those who are clinically extremely vulnerable, such as those with serious lung conditions.

(AQW 19056/17-22)

Mr Swann: Throughout the planning and rollout of the Northern Ireland Covid-19 Vaccination Programme we have been guided by JCVI.

On the issue of vaccinating those aged 12 and over, we would again be guided by JCVI. At this point in the vaccination programme, JCVI have not recommended the vaccination of children. In addition, the two vaccines currently available are not authorised for use with children although MHRA do keep this position under review.

Dr Aiken asked the Minister of Health whether he made a specific bid for funding to address waiting lists during the 2021/2022 budget exercise.

(AQO 2066/17-22)

Mr Swann: In acknowledging the additional pressures placed on waiting lists which has been exacerbated by Covid-19 my Department made a bid of £30.3m to the Department of Finance as part of the 2021/22 Budget Exercise in respect of Elective Services.

While this bid for additional funding was unfortunately not met I intend to use some £40m of Covid rebuilding funding to fund Waiting List Initiatives and other Elective developments including orthopaedics.

Mr Clarke asked the Minister of Health, following recent safety concerns about the use of the AstraZeneca vaccine for people under the age of 30 years, how his Department will encourage uptake of the COVID-19 vaccines among younger people.
(AQO 2067/17-22)

Mr Swann: Mr Speaker, as Members will be aware, following further advice from JCVI, all persons under 40, as opposed to under 30, it is preferable if they receive an alternative vaccine to the AstraZeneca where possible. This will be accommodated via the Trust vaccination centres which will now provide the Pfizer vaccine to those under 40 years of age.

Anyone aged 40 or over can still receive the AstraZeneca vaccine and they can book their appointments at the SSE Arena vaccination centre or at any of the 349 participating community pharmacies.

Close to a million people in Northern Ireland have received their first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine and AstraZeneca was and continues to be essential in the roll out of our program.

The JCVI's updated advice relates to reports of extremely rare adverse events of concurrent thrombosis (blood clots) and thrombocytopenia (low platelet count) following vaccination with the first dose of AstraZeneca vaccine. The JCVI has updated its risk/benefit advice in relation to age groups, following a review of the current low incidence of disease and current and projected availability of alternative vaccines. In light of these factors, the Pfizer vaccine is now the preferred vaccine for under 40's, when available.

The JCVI has made clear there have been no safety concerns identified for thrombosis/thrombocytopenia associated with the second dose of the AstraZeneca vaccine and advises those who have received their first dose of AstraZeneca, no matter what age they are, should also receive the second dose where they have not had an extreme adverse reaction to the first dose. This will further increase the levels of protection offered and help our society emerge prudently from lockdown.

Vaccine uptake to date in Northern Ireland has been very good with almost 1 million people having received at least one dose and it is essential this momentum is maintained as we move to younger age cohorts. We all want to get back to normal life and protect our loved ones.

To encourage vaccine uptake a mass media campaign 'Every vaccination brings us closer, together' was launched on Monday 10 May and will run until mid-June on TV, radio, outdoor and digital platforms. The campaign aims to encourage anyone not already vaccinated to take up their invitation.

A key message within the campaign is even if you don't think you need the COVID-19 vaccination it will help protect you and those close to you. Qualitative testing undertaken by PHA indicated getting back to normal and protecting loved ones were motivating factors that would encourage uptake of the vaccine in the under 30 age group.

Alongside the advertising campaign, messaging is regularly going out on social media and other free channels including messaging on pregnancy, fertility and vaccine safety.

In addition to monitoring uptake of the vaccine the PHA will commission quantitative research to track and monitor public knowledge and attitudes regarding the vaccine and measure campaign awareness and response to the campaign.

We are aware that even before the programme has opened to those under 30, over 52k people in that age bracket have been vaccinated as part of other cohorts, such as HCWs, CEV or carers etc. I am confident the young people of Northern Ireland will play their part in protecting themselves, their loved ones and help society return to normal.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of concerns reported by constituents that in-person GP services have become increasingly difficult to access.
(AQO 2068/17-22)

Mr Swann: I am aware of the narrative, as indicated again in this question, that GP services are becoming increasingly difficult to access. Let me be clear – evidence shows that is not the case.

The most recent figures from two weeks ago shows that in that particular week there were 164,137 consultations. That is a rate of 82 per 1,000 patients. Almost 40% of these were face to face.

The pre-covid consultation rate was 86 per 1,000 patients and 50% face to face. So that shows the number of consultations, and the proportion of those which are face to face, are only very slightly reduced.

General Practice has changed the way it works in responding to the current pandemic and despite the demands and capacity limits that COVID has created, GPs have maintained all of the core elements of general practice services.

The GP practice telephone first triage system introduced at the start of the pandemic allows patients to continue to seek medical advice from their GP for both routine and urgent problems. The GP then uses their clinical judgement to decide if the patient can be safely managed over the telephone or whether a face to face appointment is required.

Technologies such as video conferencing and enabling patients to send photographs by text has helped to facilitate diagnosis and ensures that patients are only required to visit surgeries where it is absolutely essential.

GP practices are open and are providing face to face appointments for those patients who are assessed as requiring them. If the Member has concerns about any particular practice then of course I would urge him to write to my Department immediately. I am assured that the vast majority of our general practitioners are working diligently, albeit under ever increasing stresses and pressures.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of eating disorder services, including waiting times.
(AQO 2069/17-22)

Mr Swann: Every Trust has a specialised community based Eating Disorder Service for both young people and adults. Services for young people are based within Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services (CAMHS) Teams and the Adult Eating Disorder Service within Adult Mental Health and Learning Disability Services.

Inpatient services for young people with an eating disorder are based in Beechcroft Hospital, Belfast Trust and inpatient services for adults with an eating disorder are based in local Trust Mental Health Acute Inpatient Units.

Although each Trust's Eating Disorder Service exists independently, CAMHS and Adult Eating Disorder Services are part of a regional group known as the Regional Eating Disorder Network Group (REDNG). REDNG includes clinicians and senior managers from all Trust Eating Disorder Teams, Health and Social Care Board, Public Health Agency and Service User representation from the Eating Disorder Association.

REDNG ensures local developments are coherent and standardised as far as possible. Their role is to promote the uniformity of approaches to patients across Trusts and share best practice and learning from service developments.

All Trusts work to the same regional 'You in Mind Eating Disorder Care Pathway (2015)' which uses a stepped model of care, commissioned to deal with the severe, enduring, and treatment resistant cases of Anorexia Nervosa, Bulimia Nervosa, and associated atypical eating disorders. Depending upon an individual's assessed need, HSC Trusts offer a range of care and treatment options which are evidence based and ensure that the right care is delivered at the right time, in the right place by the best professionals to meet those needs. Services can range from targeted prevention, early intervention and supported self-help, specialist physical and mental health services, specialist eating disorder services, to highly intensive mental health services, which are usually intensive daily support and hospital based care.

The Health and Social Care Board (HSCB) also oversees a regional contract delivered by the Eating Disorder Association (EDA). The objectives of this service are to provide support, information and advice. This consists of a telephone helpline service, the use of electronic media (website and email), a drop in centre based in the greater Belfast area and signposting for Health and Social Care professionals.

As part of this contract, EDA also provide services to both the Belfast Trust and South Eastern Trust catchment areas. Services include awareness raising programmes, delivered to schools youth clubs and other community settings and local Support Groups.

Each of the Trusts aim to assess urgent referrals within one week and routine referrals are accessed within 9 weeks. This target is normally met within CAMHS, where there have only been 7 breaches of the 9 week target over the past 2 years. This is not the case for waiting times within Adult Mental Health, where on average 17 people per month over the last 2 years have had to wait longer than 9 weeks to access eating disorder services.

I fully appreciate that every patient should be able to avail of the best treatment that the health service can provide, and in a timely manner. It is regrettable that any patient has to wait longer than they should for assessment, diagnosis or treatment and I fully understand the distress and anxiety caused by longer waiting times.

I am acutely aware that the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic has disproportionately affected people with eating disorders. In general, more of the most vulnerable people in our society are currently unwell and those with eating disorders have, unfortunately, experienced more challenges than others and many are now more unwell than normal.

It is vital therefore that proper consideration is given to the future of eating disorder services. Action 9.2 of the Mental Health Action Plan contains a commitment to review specialist mental health services including ensuring that we provide better services for those people diagnosed with eating disorders.

Options for improving eating disorder service provision across Northern Ireland have been examined by HSCB through the Regional Eating Disorders Network Group.

I have approved the strategic policy direction for future eating disorder services flowing from the REDNG review and this will be reflected in the Mental Health Strategy 2021-31, which I intend to publish in the summer.

This will be a significant first step in improving mental health services for Northern Ireland and ensuring that those with eating disorders get the care and treatment they need.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health for an update on his Department's work to improve outcomes for people with endometriosis.
(AQO 2070/17-22)

Mr Swann: The waiting times for diagnosis and treatment of endometriosis are unacceptable.

My Department endorsed the NICE guideline on the treatment and diagnosis of endometriosis in October 2017.

The Public Health Agency is leading on the development of a designated NI digital platform for pain management aimed at people living with chronic pain, including those with endometriosis.

Furthermore, the Belfast Health and Social Care Trust is already an accredited British Society for Gynaecological Endoscopy Endometriosis Centre and the Western Trust is working towards accreditation. Both Trusts have also appointed endometriosis specialist nurses.

Importantly, the Belfast Trust also intends to submit a full business case this year for a Regional Endometriosis Centre. My Department will then consider it through normal processes. Approval will of course be contingent on available funding being made available, but I would share the view of most within this house that it should be taken forward with high priority.

Mr McAleer asked the Minister of Health to provide an update on plans to provide GP-led Multi-Disciplinary Teams in health centres west of the Bann.

(AQO 2071/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Primary Care Multi-disciplinary Teams model introduces new physiotherapy, social work and mental health roles into GP practices, to work alongside enhanced levels of nursing staff and the existing practice team.

Like many transformation projects the expansion of the programme has been affected by the Covid pandemic. However the MDT model is already fully implemented in the Down GP Federation and is currently in development in 5 other areas across Northern Ireland – Derry/Londonderry, West Belfast, Causeway, Newry & District and North Down & Ards. Of these, the Derry GP Federation is the largest in Northern Ireland, and significant progress in implementing the model in that area is making a real difference to those in the North West.

My Department and the HSCB are currently engaged in a process to develop a 'road map' for the implementation of MDTs across all remaining GP Federations. This involves engaging with those in general practice and HSC Trusts across Northern Ireland to agree realistic and achievable proposals, which will then be aligned with overall strategic priorities and current or emerging pressures.

Development of the road map is expected to be completed before summer 2021, and will enable robust planning around the cost and timescale for the rollout of the model to the remainder of Northern Ireland.

Further rollout of the model is however dependent on the availability of a suitably qualified and experienced workforce, readiness of accommodation and the appropriate funding.

Mr Storey asked the Minister of Health what plans his Department has to increase the number of intensive care beds.

(AQO 2072/17-22)

Mr Swann: As a region, Northern Ireland has a funded capacity of 72 critical care beds with flexibility to scale up capacity as required in response to additional demand, for example, during the flu season.

Robust escalation plans have been in place during the COVID-19 pandemic. The Critical Care Network for Northern Ireland (CCaNNI) developed a critical care surge plan, which was updated in advance of the third surge and provided the ability to flex critical care capacity to an absolute maximum of 177 ICU beds across the region. CCaNNI continues to manage, monitor and review critical care capacity for the region.

My Department will continue to monitor the trajectory of the virus and will not hesitate to recommend measures again should they be required to protect HSC. Surge plans will also remain in place ready to be reactivated if required, including the re-opening of the ICU Nightingale facility at Belfast City Hospital and the 'step-down' Nightingale facility at Whiteabbey.

The key limiting factor on the HSC system comes not from a lack of bed space but from pressures on staff resources, such as nursing staff. For example, to increase critical care beds by 15, requires more than 100 additional nurses. In order to open these beds, nurses therefore have to be redeployed from other parts of the HSC, with a severe impact on other activity.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health for an update on the current waiting times for speech and language therapy for children.

(AQO 2073/17-22)

Mr Swann: Firstly, I would wish to clarify that my Department only holds general waiting list information for speech and language therapy patients, it is not age specific.

Therefore, I can advise that the total number of people, of all ages, waiting for speech and language therapy, as at 31st March 2021, is 5,742 people. Of these, there are 2,454 people who have been waiting longer than the target of 13 weeks.

As Minister of Health I understand fully the very important role speech and language therapy services play in addressing the wide and varied range of challenges experienced by children with speech, language, and communication difficulties.

The figures that I have quoted should be taken in the context of the sheer scope of service users who require the help of our hard-working Speech and Language Therapists. Emerging evidence suggests a high level of need for Speech and Language Therapists working with people with speech, language and communication difficulties.

As well as children's services, Speech and Language Therapists are providing support and working right across a wide range of services such as those for dementia, psychosis, schizophrenia, stroke, Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) and adult learning disability.

Our Speech and Language Therapists therefore play a significant role in the fields of social, emotional and mental health. They are important, integral parts of multi-disciplinary teams supporting people with mental health issues.

In respect of children's services, I can advise members that the Speech and Language Therapy Service has continued to provide their face-to-face service to children in Special Schools and Special Educational Needs units.

During the pandemic, other children in the community have been given the opportunity to avail of alternative methods to access this therapy, such as by telephone or by virtual means. Depending on each child's individual needs, face-to-face sessions have been offered and carried out in homes and schools.

Going forward, as we rebuild services, the full range of those innovative methods developed during the pandemic will continue to be utilised and their ongoing application should positively impact on waiting times for Speech and Language Therapy.

I am acutely aware of the considerable challenges which are being experienced by individuals and families who are awaiting Speech and Language appointments. However, I must remind the Member that this is not a situation that is unique to Speech and Language Therapy.

In fact, as recently as Tuesday 13 April, I made an oral statement to this House in which I described our 'absolutely dire waiting lists'

I said then that the pandemic had highlighted fragilities in our health and social care system and I acknowledge that yet another example of these fragilities is being highlighted today.

I said in my statement on 13 April that we must put waiting lists right – and this must include waiting lists for Speech and Language Therapy.

Mr G Kelly asked the Minister of Health to outline what work is being carried out to address high levels of respiratory disease in deprived communities.

(AQO 2074/17-22)

Mr Swann: Respiratory disease refers to a wide range of illnesses that can be acute or chronic. Many, though not all, respiratory conditions are preventable and it is important to acknowledge that there are a range of factors that can influence respiratory health.

Reducing inequalities in health generally is a huge challenge. It needs sustained collaboration across departments and agencies, local government, the community and voluntary sector, and with communities themselves to address the factors which impact on health and wellbeing locally and regionally.

Making Life Better (MLB) is the overarching strategic framework for public health through which the Executive committed to creating the conditions for individuals, families and communities to take greater control over their lives, and be enabled and supported to lead healthy lives. Departments continue to work together on a range of issues, including mitigating the impacts of poverty and tackling the conditions that create health inequalities.

In terms of lifestyle factors, one of the most significant impacts on respiratory health is from tobacco use. 17% of the Northern Ireland population currently smoke. Sadly, smoking prevalence in the most deprived areas is more than two and a half times that in the least deprived areas. Disadvantaged people who smoke are a priority group in the Department's tobacco control strategy and actions in the accompanying implementation plan are aimed at reducing smoking prevalence amongst this group. Many smoking cessation services are available within or near socially and economically disadvantaged communities. The Public Health Agency works with Healthy Living Centres to ensure Stop Smoking services are delivered in a community setting at times and locations which suit local people.

In recent months, much of the focus has been on the specific respiratory impact of COVID-19. In recognition of the higher infection rates and poorer outcomes amongst those in the most deprived areas, the Test Trace Protect Contact Tracing service operated by the PHA also seeks to provide advice and support to those who need additional help and to help to people to isolate as required when they have a positive test.

Unfortunately not all respiratory disease is preventable and the Health and Social Care Board (HSCB) commissions respiratory care in both acute and community settings across the whole of Northern Ireland as part of the overall Service and Budget Agreements with each of the Health and Social Care Trusts.

In primary care, GPs have an important role to play in the management of respiratory conditions. The Quality and Outcomes Framework (QOF) sets out a number of clinical indicators and guidance to support the treatment and care of patients with Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD) and Asthma. Practices can also participate in a Northern Ireland Local Enhanced Service (NILES) for Chronic Respiratory Conditions. This builds on the QOF and seeks to contribute to both reducing pressure on secondary care and improving the long-term health and well-being of patients with Asthma and COPD.

Mr Lynch asked the Minister of Health for an update on the Cancer Recovery Plan.

(AQO 2075/17-22)

Mr Swann: The COVID-19 pandemic has undoubtedly had a devastating impact on cancer services and I understand the worry and concern that long waiting times cause for both patients and their families.

I am committed to dealing with this problem and to this end I'm currently finalising a Cancer Recovery Plan, 'Building Back; Rebuilding Better'.

The plan is fully aligned with the short term recommendations of the Cancer Strategy, and will set the direction of travel for the next 10 years; the Cancer Recovery plan will focus on the initial 3 year period of the strategy – from now until 2024.

The recommendations in the cancer recovery plan have been co-produced with the Health and Social Care Board and colleagues from across the Health Trusts and cover 11 key areas throughout the cancer journey - from awareness and early detection through to palliative and end of life care.

In addition, I have introduced a grant scheme using COVID-19 funding of £10.7 million. This funding will afford cancer charities the opportunity to bid under a number of criteria which are aligned with recommendations in the cancer recovery plan. The grant will be available and managed through Community Foundation NI.

While work on the Cancer Strategy had been delayed by the response to the pandemic, it has continued to progress well. Indeed it is nearing the end of its development and will have a 12 week public consultation period through the summer of 2021; during that time the public will have the opportunity to review the strategy and put forward their views.

Department for Infrastructure

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail her Department's role and responsibilities concerning the Ulster Canal Greenway project.

(AQW 18216/17-22)

Ms Mallon (The Minister for Infrastructure): The Ulster Canal Greenway Project is funded under the Sustainable Transport Thematic Objective of the INTERREG VA Programme. My Department, together with the South's Department of Transport, fulfils the role of Accountable Department for the Thematic Objective and is one of five NI Accountable Departments for the Programme.

My Department is responsible for the regularity, propriety and value for money for the applications/projects to the INTERREG VA programme within the Sustainable Transport Thematic Objective. In the case of the Ulster Canal Greenway project, my Department provides funding to SEUPB for the project, based on project expenditure forecasts, as detailed in the Terms and Conditions of Grant to enable payments to be made to the project partners.

The proposed Phase 2 of the Ulster Canal greenway stops short of Middletown village at Annagola Bridge, where a footway link to the village is to be constructed by my Department.

Armagh City, Banbridge and Craigavon Borough Council has put forward a separate proposal to extend the greenway beyond where it ends at Annagola Bridge. This would enable easier access to the village of Middletown from the GAA pitch, for walking, wheeling and cycling. My Department wrote to all Councils in September 2020 asking them to develop business cases for their proposals (including this proposal) with a view to securing capital grant funding.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the actions her Department will commit to with regards to rural development.

(AQW 18285/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Since taking office last year, I have been clear that my priorities include addressing regional imbalance, better connecting communities and, importantly, ensuring that we shape our places around our people, for our people and with our people. This is particularly important when considering the infrastructure associated with rural development. Our rural areas, including our towns and villages, have a key role to play in supporting economic growth and rural renaissance.

Connectivity is a key issue for these areas and I recognise the important role that the strategic road network, public transport and community transport play.

My department is currently delivering two schemes on the A6 and I am committed to the delivery of the A5. In addition, in June last year, I announced my commitment to fund the continued development of a number of Strategic Road Improvement schemes. All of these schemes will assist rural development by helping to tackle regional imbalance, improving the economy, job prospects and prosperity, connecting communities and improving road safety.

Recognising the historic under investment in our roads, in 2020-21, I allocated £12 million to a Roads Recovery Fund, £10 million of which was directed towards rural roads across the North. These improvements have targeted many short lengths of roads that are in particularly poor condition and it is estimated that over 750 locations on the rural road network will benefit from these improvements. I am committed to the continuation of a rural roads fund.

As well as improving our public transport network and delivering an extensive programme of new and extended Park & Ride facilities, I will continue to provide funding, via the Rural Transport Fund, to Rural Community Transport Partnerships to deliver the Dial a Lift service which enables some of the most vulnerable within our rural communities to access local goods and services. I have also provided additional in-year capital funding recognising the financial challenges as a result of COVID-19. This will all help to ensure the long term viability of the Partnerships.

I recognise the massive untapped potential that rail has to deliver multiple benefits across our island and have announced, in conjunction with the Transport Minister, Eamon Ryan TD, an All Island Strategic Rail Review. This review will allow us to consider our rail network and determine how we can improve it, or if appropriate expand it, for everyone.

NI Water is investing approximately £10.5m in its 6 year PC21 Rural Wastewater Improvement Programme and will support economic Article 76 Watermain Extensions to support new development in rural areas. Developers are encouraged to contact NI Water as early as possible regarding potential water and wastewater needs by making use of NI Water's Pre-Development Enquiry (PDE) service.

I am committed to changing the way we live for the better, providing safe routes that give people the freedom and confidence to walk, wheel and cycle as part of their everyday routine. Building a better future that delivers more for our citizens, socially and economically, is a priority as well as delivering cleaner, greener and healthier communities, as we emerge from the COVID-19 pandemic. I have provided funding to support Councils in the construction of greenway schemes across Northern Ireland and I am keen to provide further capital funding, through my Blue Green Infrastructure Fund, to work with Departments, Councils and partners to support a broad range of interventions, including in rural areas.

Our navigable waterways, such as the Shannon Erne Waterway, Erne System and Lower Bann, also make an important contribution to the development of our rural communities.

My Department has lead responsibility for the Rathlin Island Policy and Action Plan and continues to work with the island community to ensure that our only offshore island continues to grow and prosper from within.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) whether the Driver and Vehicle Agency will hire additional driving examiners to help address the test backlog; and (ii) to provide the rationale for any decision on this issue.
(AQW 18373/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests and theory tests on 23 April, with appropriate mitigations in place.

The DVA currently has 37 full time driving examiners and 40 dual role examiners who conduct both vehicle and driving tests. To increase driving test capacity the DVA is in the process of completing the recruitment of an additional 30 temporary and permanent vehicle examiners, which will free up the dual role examiners to conduct more driving tests.

Additionally, 10 new dual role examiners have been identified for driving examiner training, and the first tranche of these examiners should be available to conduct Category B (private car) driving tests before the end of May. The DVA is also currently progressing an external recruitment competition for 10 new full-time driving examiners. These measures will significantly increase the number of driving examiners that are available to deliver driving tests to help meet the increased demand for this service.

Following the phased reopening of the practical driving test booking service based on the expiry dates of theory test pass certificates, to give priority to those who have been waiting the longest time, I am pleased to confirm that the booking service for practical driving tests opened for all customers on 10 May 2021, providing everyone with a valid theory test pass certificate with equal opportunity to book a driving test.

The DVA has, and continues, to work hard to increase its capacity to help meet the expected high demand for driving tests. In addition to the recruitment of additional examiners the DVA has taken a range of measures to maximise the availability of test slots, including the provision of new temporary test centres. They will continue to offer driving tests on a Saturday and at certain centres on Sundays where it is suitable to do so without compromising the integrity of the test. Overtime will also be used to rota off-shift dual role driving examiners to provide further capacity. Additional slots are therefore being made available from now until the end of August and bookings for September and October have been released to accommodate more learners.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, and most importantly to protecting the lives of staff and customers during this pandemic.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail (i) what process there is for critical workers to access driving tests as soon as possible; and (ii) who is defined as a critical worker.
(AQW 18374/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April 2021 to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests and theory tests on 23 April, with appropriate mitigations in place.

The DVA has received a number of requests from key workers requesting that they reinstate a priority service for them to avail of early appointments. The DVA is working with the Department of Health on priority applications. However, those priority applications are restricted to key workers whose jobs are ancillary to medical, health or social care services and who need to drive for their work. If a critical worker meets these requirements, their employer must contact the DVA and identify staff in these priority groups. The DVA will then try to facilitate priority appointments for both theory and practical driving tests. The DVA is not in a position to consider any applications that do not meet the above criteria.

I am pleased to confirm that the booking service for practical driving tests opened for all customers on 10 May 2021, providing everyone with a valid theory test pass certificate with equal opportunity to book a driving test.

The DVA has, and continues, to work hard to increase its capacity to help meet the expected high demand for driving tests. The DVA has taken a range of measures to maximise the availability of test slots, including the recruitment of additional examiners and the provision of new temporary test centres. They will continue to offer driving tests on a Saturday and at certain centres on Sundays where it is suitable to do so without compromising the integrity of the test. Overtime will also be used to rota off-shift dual role driving examiners to provide further capacity. Additional slots are therefore being made available from now until the end of August and bookings for September and October have been released to accommodate more learners.

Driver theory testing has resumed at the six established test centres, with additional slots at each location and extended opening hours being provided to help address the increased demand. An additional temporary test centre, which will be located in Ballymena, will also be opened that can provide around 1,000 test slots per week. Customers can book appointments through the online theory test booking system, with priority initially being given to customers whose tests have been affected by the suspension of theory test services due to Covid-19 restrictions.

I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, however, all driving test services across these islands are experiencing high demand with longer than usual waiting times and I would ask customers for their continued patience.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on her Department's work in relation to vehicle testing to become more aligned with the 26 counties.

(AQW 18375/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Progress on this issue has been delayed due to the impact of Covid-19 and the priority which was given to financial support schemes. However, I intend to issue a Call for Evidence on biennial vehicle testing by the end of June to consider a range of factors including the potential impact on the automotive industry in the North. Any subsequent introduction of biennial vehicle testing would require the development of primary legislation which would not be deliverable within the current Assembly mandate.

Mrs D Kelly asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) to provide details of the legislation her Department has requested The Executive Office to submit to the Business Committee for timetabling; and (ii) when was it requested.

(AQW 18415/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department currently has no requests with the Executive Office for legislation to be timetabled with the Business Committee.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she is considering a residential parking plan for Belfast.

(AQW 18433/17-22)

Ms Mallon: You will be aware that a Residents' Parking Scheme has been in operation in your South Belfast constituency since April 2018, in the Rugby Road and College Park Avenue area. This was the first such scheme to begin operation in Northern Ireland.

My Department is currently developing a new Belfast Metropolitan Transport Plan (BMTP) which will address future plans for roads, public transport and active travel within the five councils whose spatial area falls within the Belfast Metropolitan Urban Area (BMUA).

The BMTP will be developed in conjunction with each Council's Local Development Plan (LDP) Local Policies Plan and will include the joint preparation of a Parking Strategy. This will consider the provision, management and operation of on and off street parking throughout the City of Belfast and in towns within the neighbouring councils, and will potentially include options for Residents Parking Schemes. Work on the next phase of the BMTP is ongoing, and I am determined that the Transport Plan for Belfast will deliver reduced levels of commuting by private car and greater use of sustainable modes of transport including public transport, walking and cycling.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister for Infrastructure what consideration she has given, for a limited period, to ensuring all but dangerous parking infringements are not issued with tickets as local commercial town centres reopen after lockdown.

Ms Mallon: I am very aware that the management and operation of the road network has a wide range of impacts across businesses, communities and the environment. I am also aware that the COVID19 pandemic has placed town centres in general, and commercial businesses in particular, under considerable pressure.

In response to the latest Covid-19 lockdown, Parking Enforcement was scaled back in line with road usage from the end of January 2021. A small team of Traffic Attendants (TAs) were retained to be deployed to those locations where they could contribute most to road safety and traffic progression. However now that traffic levels are increasing it is necessary for more TAs to be brought back from furlough to help keep our roads and streets safe.

The enforcement of parking restrictions, either time bound or charged, deters all day parking in town centres and facilitates customer access to businesses, by encouraging an ongoing turnover of parking spaces. The enforcement of restrictions is also important in encouraging the use of dedicated carparks, creating better places for people and reducing the number of cars circulating and seeking on-street spaces.

Selective enforcement for dangerous parking infringements only is unlikely to be a benefit to businesses, as it would encourage drivers to park for longer periods reducing the availability of spaces. Incentivising drivers to use their cars to access town centres also counters efforts being made by the Department to persuade people to use public transport and other sustainable modes of transport.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether there is a register or a planned register for the flora and fauna on the Comber Greenway.

(AQW 18501/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department does not maintain a register of flora and fauna on the Comber Greenway and there are currently no plans to introduce such a register.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the planned road maintenance programme for East Belfast over the next twelve months.

(AQW 18503/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I can assure the Member that I want to do more to improve the condition of the road network for all road users and support the need for investment in roads infrastructure to help address regional imbalance, help communities and improve safety.

Whilst the 2021-22 budget for Eastern Division has yet to be confirmed, I can confirm that a provisional list of schemes is being developed across all programmes for delivery during the 2021-22 financial year. Once agreed, details of the structural maintenance programme will be included in the Spring Council reports which will, in due course, be presented to Belfast City Council before being made publically available online.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure how many potholes have been repaired, broken down by constituency, during the the 2020-21 financial year.

(AQW 18527/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department does not maintain records by constituency area; however, the following table provides details of the number of carriageway, hard shoulder and layby surface defects (which includes potholes, cracking, depressions etc.) that have been repaired from 1 April 2020 to 31 March 2021, by DfI Roads Section Office area:

DfI Roads Section	Surface Defects Repaired (1 Apr 2020 - 31 Mar 2021)
Antrim & Newtownabbey	5261
Ards & North Down	3500
Armagh, Banbridge & Craigavon - East	5929
Armagh, Banbridge & Craigavon - West	5031
Belfast North	1785
Belfast South	2388
Lisburn & Castlereagh	5124
Causeway Coast & Glens - East	2368
Causeway Coast & Glens - West	5445
Fermanagh & Omagh East	3439
Fermanagh & Omagh West	5778
Londonderry & Strabane	6343
Mid & East Antrim	6956
Mid Ulster North	7905
Mid Ulster South	3843
Newry, Mourne & Down - East	5110
Newry, Mourne & Down - West	6150

It is important to note that there can be a time lag between when a repair is carried out and the associated records are updated on my Department's maintenance management system, particularly in the current circumstances. As a result, the figures supplied for the number of repaired defects in 2020/21 may increase as records are updated.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure how many roads have been resurfaced, broken down by constituency, during the the 2020-21 financial year.

(AQW 18528/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department does not maintain records by constituency however the table below provides details by Council area of the number of road resurfacing schemes that have been carried out from 1 April 2020 to 31 March 2021:

Council Area	Number of Carriageway Resurfacing Schemes 1 Apr 2020 – 31 Mar 2021
Antrim and Newtownabbey	15
Ards and North Down	20
Armagh City, Banbridge and Craigavon	32
Belfast	43
Lisburn and Castlereagh	17
Causeway Coast and Glens	70
Fermanagh and Omagh	49
Derry City and Strabane	33
Mid and East Antrim	22
Mid Ulster	50
Newry, Mourne and Down	20

It is important to note that the number of resurfacing schemes alone does not give a complete picture of the improvements that have been delivered in any area, as the type of work undertaken and length/area of resurfacing will vary across schemes. Some resurfacing schemes may improve relatively short lengths of road in poor condition whereas other schemes may be for much longer lengths or involve full reconstruction of the road.

Information on the locations where resurfacing schemes have been completed will be included in the forthcoming DfI Roads' spring reports to Councils. As well as providing a list of resurfacing schemes that were completed in 2020/21, the reports will also include details of the resurfacing programmes for the current 2021/22 financial year.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure how many footpaths have been resurfaced, broken down by constituency, during the the 2020-21 financial year.

(AQW 18529/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department does not maintain records by constituency; however, the table below provides details by Council area of the number of footway resurfacing schemes that have been carried out from 1 April 2020 to 31 March 2021:

Council Area	Number of Footway Resurfacing Schemes * 1 Apr 2020 – 31 Mar 2021
Antrim & Newtownabbey	9
Ards & North Down	20
Armagh City, Banbridge and Craigavon	15
Belfast	18
Lisburn and Castlereagh	4
Causeway Coast and Glens	61
Fermanagh and Omagh	17
Derry City and Strabane	19
Mid and East Antrim	30
Mid Ulster	15
Newry, Mourne and Down	29

- * The number of footways resurfaced includes footways that were resurfaced as part of wider carriageway resurfacing schemes

It is important to note that the number of resurfacing schemes alone does not give a complete picture of the improvements that have been delivered in any area, as the type of work undertaken and length and area of resurfacing will vary across schemes. Some resurfacing schemes may improve relatively short lengths of footway in poor condition whereas other schemes may be for much longer lengths or involve full reconstruction of the footway.

Information on the location of completed resurfacing schemes can be found in the forthcoming DfI Roads' spring reports to Councils. These reports will provide a list of resurfacing schemes completed in the 2020/21 year as well as a forward looking programme of resurfacing work for the 2021/22 financial year.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure when she is going to hold major telecommunications companies, such as BT and Virgin media, accountable for the sub-standard work they are carrying out on footpaths across Bangor and Donaghadee. (AQW 18530/17-22)

Ms Mallon: As I have explained in my previous answers to questions on this subject, under the Streetworks legislation utility companies have a legal right to place and maintain their services in the footway and carriageway and are required to adhere to certain standards, including in respect of reinstatements.

While it is acknowledged the ongoing utility work may have impact on the visual appearance of the footways, they remain serviceable and safe for users.

My Department will continue to carry out checks on the reinstatements undertaken by all the utilities and identify any areas which fall outside the agreed standards. Any safety issues which are identified will be notified to the relevant utility for remedial action.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure when will she publish the public consultation on the fixed penalty notice for careless driving. (AQW 18532/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Work is underway on drafting proposals for a consultation that will consider making careless driving a fixed penalty notice offence and this consultation will be issued as soon as possible. I have met with the Chief Constable to discuss progress on the issue as well as a number of other road safety policy and legislation areas.

Court referrals for every level of careless driving offence is resource intensive for the justice system. I am therefore committed to working with the Justice Minister and the PSNI to determine the best way forward.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for a timeline for the introduction of Operation Snap. (AQW 18534/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Implementation of Operation SNAP in Northern Ireland will require amendment of existing road traffic legislation so that the existing offence of careless driving can be discharged by means of a fixed penalty. The introduction of a new disposal option requires public consultation and work is underway on drafting proposals which will be issued as soon as possible for consultation.

The submission of dash cam footage, obtained safely and appropriately, will have significant benefits for road traffic law enforcement here. Therefore, I recently discussed this issue with the Chief Constable and we will be ensuring that progress is made in this area.

The actual timeline for introducing Operation Snap in Northern Ireland will be for the Department of Justice and PSNI to decide following a fixed penalty disposal option becoming available. For my part, I will ensure the legislative process moves forward as quickly as is possible.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she is considering a greater role for elected officials within the Road Safety Partnership. (AQW 18535/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I am very supportive of the work carried out by the Road Safety Partnership. The Partnership Board members include senior representatives from the Department of Justice, The Police Service of Northern Ireland, the Northern Ireland Courts and Tribunal Service, the Northern Ireland Policing Board. Officials from my Department also attend in an advisory capacity.

I have recently met with the Chief Constable and we discussed the Road Safety Partnership. The Department of Justice is the lead partner in the Road Safety Partnership and my department is a supporting delivery partner.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail (i) the spend on awareness raising and educational road safety measures last year; and (ii) the projected spend for this year. (AQW 18536/17-22)

Ms Mallon: During the 2020/21 financial year my Department's spend on raising awareness and education on road safety was £1,981,623.87. The breakdown of budget spend was:

Road Safety Awareness Raising (through campaign advertising, etc.)	£1,410,124.82
Road Safety Grant Scheme	£ 80,806.64
Road Safety Education	£ 490,692.41

Projected budget allocations for 2021/22 are not yet available.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) to detail the current budget for upgrading the Limavady sewer network; and (ii) as a result, what works will be carried out in the next financial year.

(AQW 18546/17-22)

Ms Mallon:

- (i) In terms of the budget for upgrading the Limavady sewer network, NI Water has advised me the budget required for upgrading the Limavady sewer network, contained within NI Water's £2 billion business plan for the period 2021 to 2027 (PC21), is ca£5 million. Funding of the PC21 Final Determination, which was published on 13 May 2021, is subject to the appropriate funding being made available to my Department and NI Water by the NI Executive.
- (ii) NI Water initiated early survey work in March 2021, which is scheduled for completion during the 2021 school summer holiday period. The Limavady sewer catchment model will then be updated, and provided to NIEA for their assessment and development of a Statement of Need. Following this, NI Water will develop detailed designs to address NIEA's Statement of Need requirements, with a view to construction commencing by 2023.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 14724/17-22, to detail the measures that were taken by her Department prior to local government reform to comply with the law on the retention and disposal of public records in respect of (i) pre-1973 minerals planning application files; (ii) the old planning register maps where pre-1973 planning applications were physically plotted; and (iii) where these documents are currently stored.

Ms Mallon: As you will be aware my Department was formed in May 2016 and the Department of the Environment (NI) would have been responsible for the retention and disposal of records prior to local government reform in 2015. Retention and disposal of public records prior to local government reform would have been carried out in accordance with the retention and disposal schedules applicable to the Department of the Environment during that period. I should point out, there is a distinction between the retention and disposal of records and the requirement to maintain a public register of planning decisions. This register is required to be kept by each planning authority and any held by DoE(NI) prior to local government reform have been transferred to the appropriate local council.

A request for an extract from this register should in the first instance, be made to the relevant council. Pre 1973 planning applications would have transferred to councils when planning functions transferred in 2015. I am however, informed that the referencing system for files has changed several times and understand that a search for historical files can present difficulties.

Mr Givan asked the Minister for Infrastructure what landscaping and planting will take place once the flood alleviation scheme on Prince William Road, Lisburn is complete.

(AQW 18591/17-22)

Ms Mallon: As you may be aware I recently announced a new flood alleviation scheme along the Flushbridge Stream in the Prince William Road area of Lisburn. This £900,000 scheme consists of the installation of approximately 850 meters of new culverts to increase the capacity of the drainage network and improve protection from flooding to approximately 100 properties. The works are currently due to be completed in the autumn of this year.

A landscaping and planting schedule has been designed for the scheme which aims to utilise native species of grasses, shrubs and trees to create a vibrant space following completion of the works. Areas which have been cleared to facilitate works will be reinstated with a similar planting type and density as they had previously.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister for Infrastructure to list all of the current undischarged road bonds in Strangford.

(AQW 18611/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department does not hold a list of undischarged road bonds by constituency however my officials have produced a list of all current undischarged road bonds in Ards & North Down and Newry Mourne & Down council areas. This list has been extracted from my Department's Private Streets Database and has been placed in the Assembly library. Details of the current undischarged road bonds in the Strangford constituency area can be extracted from this list.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Infrastructure how utility companies are held to account regarding the quality of reinstatement work to the public highway following repairs to their equipment.

(AQW 18636/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Utility companies are responsible for permanent reinstatement of roads to an agreed specification. While they usually engage contractors to carry out works on their behalf, the utility company is ultimately responsible for the reinstatement of the street. Where a utility company does not reinstate a road in a satisfactory manner, the Department applies its procedures for inspection of reinstatements and for dealing with reinstatement failures as set out in the Northern Ireland Road Authority and Utilities Committee (NIRAUC) Code of Practice for Inspections.

When a utility company fails to carry out the reinstatement to an acceptable standard, the utility company responsible for the repair or replacement is duly notified. Where necessary, additional inspections are then carried out by my officials, at the utility company's expense, to confirm that any defects identified have been corrected.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether all new developments are required to implement sewer and storm water separation.

(AQW 18669/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Under Article 161 of the Water and Sewerage Services (Northern Ireland) Order 2006, there is a requirement for developers to enter into agreements for adoption of all sewers serving two or more properties. Article 161 agreements state that the developer must construct all sewers in accordance with Sewers for Adoption NI Edition 1, which requires separate foul and surface water sewer systems to be provided. Developers must construct the sewerage in accordance with the terms of the agreement in order to have the sewers adopted by NI Water.

Additionally, officials in the Department of Finance have advised that Part N (Drainage) of the building regulations provides for separate drainage systems for foul water and rainwater from a building to the point where they meet a sewer or other specified point of disposal.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 18085/17-22, to detail the specific areas where development has been constrained in East Antrim by problems with water infrastructure.

(AQW 18670/17-22)

Ms Mallon: NI Water is a statutory consultee on planning decisions and provides information on issues such as water quality, sewerage and drainage infrastructure, including Waste water Treatment Works (WwTW) and network capacity. It has advised me that development in East Antrim is not being constrained by its drinking water infrastructure.

NI Water does not receive notification from planning authorities on the reasons for planning refusals. Local Councils, as the Planning Authority for the majority of planning applications, would be best placed to provide this information.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 18018/17-22, whether any studies have ever been completed to electrify any part of the Northern Ireland railway network.

Ms Mallon: I am ambitious for our rail network and am keen to do all that I can to explore how we can progress rail improvements within the limited budgetary envelope that we have. I also want to ensure that any proposals for changes to the rail network include operational and financial viability and have a very clear focus on the part that rail can play in growing the all-island economy, improving the ability of people to connect with and access opportunities and addressing regional imbalance.

To date, there has been no studies completed in relation to the electrification of any part of the Northern Ireland railway network. However the All Island Strategic Rail Review, which Minister Ryan and I recently announced, will allow us to consider our network across this island to view how we can improve it for everyone. Whilst it reflects and builds on the commitment under the New Decade, New Approach agreement of the Irish and British Governments to examine the feasibility of a high/higher speed rail link between Derry, Belfast, Dublin and Cork, Minister Ryan and I have a shared ambition for rail and commitment to tackling the climate emergency, and we are keen that we use this opportunity to consider the decarbonisation of our rail network across the island of Ireland.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 18085/17-22, to provide further detail for each of the areas, except for Larne, where problems have been identified.

Ms Mallon: NI Water has advised that, of the Waste water Treatment Works (WwTW) located in the East Antrim constituency area (excluding Larne WwTW), the Mullaghboy WwTW is currently operating above its design capacity.

In the Whitehead, Ballystrudder, Ballycarry, Tully Road (Carnlough and Glenarm), Cushendall and Cushendun areas, issues relate to the sewers nearing capacity. In these areas developers should engage with NI Water's Developer Services Solution Engineering Team, which will conduct more detailed analysis of the wastewater system and, if required, investigate potential developer led solutions to address capacity issues.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether the full dualling of the Larne line has been considered as part of the future of the Northern Ireland railway network.

Ms Mallon: I am ambitious for our rail network and am keen to do all that I can to explore how we can progress rail improvements within the limited budgetary envelope that we have. I also want to ensure that any proposals for changes to the rail network include operational and financial viability and have a very clear focus on the part that rail can play in growing the all-island economy, improving the ability of people to connect with and access opportunities.

Since coming into office, I have been clear that my priority is addressing regional imbalance, better connecting communities and, importantly, ensuring that we shape our places around our people, for our people and with our people. Last month I was delighted to announce with Transport Minister, Eamon Ryan TD, an All Island Strategic Rail Review. This review will allow us to consider our rail network across this island to view how we can improve it for everyone. Whilst it reflects the commitment under the New Decade, New Approach agreement, Minister Ryan and I are keen that we use this opportunity to consider how we can improve our rail network across all areas of the island of Ireland. This Review will consider our rail infrastructure to Larne.

My Department is also currently preparing a new Regional Strategic Transport Network Transport Plan (RSTNTP) which will set out my priorities for future development of the main road and rail networks to 2035. I expect to publish the Draft RSTNTP for consultation towards the end of this year and I would welcome your input into improving rail infrastructure and services across Northern Ireland including Larne.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister for Infrastructure when the anticipated abandonment order for Conway Square will be made.

(AQW 18681/17-22)

Ms Mallon: A review of the records held by my Department would indicate that no formal application for Abandonment has been made in respect of Conway Square and consequently there is no Abandonment process currently being taken forward by my Department.

I can advise that should a formal application be made it generally takes between 6 and 18 months for the Abandonment process to complete with factors affecting the timeline being the nature and complexity of the application and whether or not any objections are received during the consultation process.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister for Infrastructure to list the roads in the Strangford constituency that have had a road bond for (i) one year; (ii) two years; (iii) three years; and (iv) more than three years, specifying the number of years for those more than three years.

Ms Mallon: My Department does not maintain information by constituency area and unfortunately the information you have requested is not readily available or accessible from my Department's Private Streets Database.

However officials have produced a list from my Department's Private Streets Database which includes all current undischarged road bonds for the Ards & North Down and Newry Mourne & Down council areas. This list is placed in the Assembly library and the roads in the Strangford constituency with a road bond can be identified from it. Providing the additional information requested would require officials to identify and then analyse each road bond separately in order to categorise each one in the format requested and unfortunately this labour intensive exercise could not be justified.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the unadopted roads in the Strangford constituency with an outstanding road bond, where the houses have been occupied for more than one year.

(AQW 18684/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department does not collate or record information relating to the dates on which houses are occupied nor do we maintain information by constituency. However my officials have produced a list of all current unadopted roads with an outstanding road bond in the Ards & North Down and Newry, Mourne & Down council areas which has been extracted from my Department's Private Streets Database and this list is placed in the Assembly library. The roads in the Strangford constituency with an outstanding road bond can be identified from this list.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department or local councils would be responsible for authorising the redevelopment of the Barry's Amusements in Portrush into residential or tourist accommodation.

(AQW 18688/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Under the Planning (Development Management) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2015 planning applications for development are categorised in accordance with the hierarchy of development and as laid out in the Schedule to the regulations.

A potential planning application for the re-development of Barry's Amusements in Portrush into residential or tourist accommodation would be categorised in accordance with the hierarchy of development as local or major development, depending upon the threshold or criteria met, and in either case would be the responsibility of the relevant council to process and determine. In this instance this would be Causeway Coast and Glens Borough Council, as the local planning authority for the area.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) to detail the qualifications needed to become a driving test examiner; and (ii) whether all examiners are trained to the same standard.

(AQW 18703/17-22)

Ms Mallon: There are two pathways to becoming a driving examiner. The first pathway is through internal recruitment from within the Driver and Vehicle Agency (DVA) from the existing pool of staff in the technical and administrative grades.

The second pathway is for new entrants to the Northern Ireland Civil Service. For applicants on this pathway, the educational qualifications required are, GCE 'A' level passes in 2 separate subjects, GCSE/GCE (O' level) at grade C or above in both English and Maths. Applications will also be considered from applicants with relevant formal qualifications considered by the selection panel to be of an equivalent or higher standard to those stated.

Applicants must be at least 23 years old and have a valid full Category B car driving licence for at least 3 years which enables them to drive in the UK. The applicant should not have more than 3 penalty points or have been disqualified from driving in the last four years, which is the same requirement for internal recruitment.

For new entrants to the NICS there is a five stage process

- Stage 1 – An online aptitude test
- Stage 2 – An eligibility sift
- Stage 3 – An interview
- Stage 4 – A special practical driving test
- Stage 5 – A four week formal assessment course

Existing DVA staff have to complete Stages 2, 4 and 5. It is only when all these criteria have been met that the applicant be offered a post as a driving examiner.

My officials in the DVA have confirmed that all staff are trained to the standards set out in Directive 2006/126/EC, commonly referred to as the 3rd EU Directive.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) how many car parking spaces her Department owns for use by staff; (ii) how many of those are available to staff for free; (iii) whether her Department has plans to reduce the number of staff car parking spaces; and (iv) how many spaces have provision for electric vehicle charging.

(AQW 18716/17-22)

Ms Mallon:

- (i) My Department (including the DVA) owns 1,283 car parking spaces for use by staff. Of these parking spaces 37% are shared with customers.
- (ii) There is no charge to staff or customers for use of these car parking spaces.
- (iii) At present, there are no plans to reduce the number of staff car parking spaces owned by the Department.
- (iv) There are two spaces owned by the Department with provision for electric vehicle charging.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department plans to reduce the bureaucracy for planning applications at local councils.

(AQW 18728/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department is working closely with key stakeholders in a number of ways to improve processes, increase efficiency and where possible, reduce bureaucracy around the planning system. A review of the implementation of the Planning Act (NI) 2011 is underway which will provide an opportunity to consider any improvements which may be required to the way in which the Planning Act has been commenced and implemented in subordinate legislation. Work is also ongoing with statutory consultees through a cross government Planning Forum to improve processes around statutory consultation. In addition, my Department as part of a collaborative project with 10 councils, will be delivering a new Planning IT system next year which will improve the submission and processing of planning applications.

It is considered that the outcome of all of this work will assist in reducing elements of unnecessary bureaucratic processes within the planning system and my Department will continue to seek continuous improvement in this regard.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department had a service level agreement with BT Open Reach in relation to the quality of work on footpaths in Bangor.

Ms Mallon: As explained previously, under Streetworks legislation utility companies have a legal right to place and maintain their apparatus in the footway and carriageway but in doing so are required to adhere to certain standards, including in respect of reinstatements.

The Street Works (Northern Ireland) Order 1995 is the basis for the approved code of practice which sets out the reinstatement standards for openings in roads and footways across Northern Ireland and consequently there is no requirement for a service level agreement.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) what is the current bond rate for adopting roads during developments; and (ii) what is the proposed increase being brought forward by her Department's officials.
(AQW 18733/17-22)

Ms Mallon:

- (i) I fully acknowledge the importance of developers entering into an Agreement with my Department to provide roads and footways to an adoptable standard in new developments, and that this is properly secured by a road bond.

My Department calculates the value of each road bond using construction rates and quantities, which reflects the cost to my Department of bringing the development road up to a standard that can be adopted, should the developer fail to do so.

- (ii) My officials are presently undertaking a fresh exercise to review the rates used to calculate road bonds to ensure they fully reflect the cost of constructing development roads. This review is likely to involve local stakeholders in the construction industry and surety providers and final decisions around any need for change will follow.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 18016/17-22, to outline what action is being undertaken to reduce collisions at the locations detailed.

Ms Mallon: As stated in my previous response, my Department routinely reviews collision cluster sites to identify locations where it may be possible to reduce the number and severity of collisions by seeking to address specific collision types with appropriate road safety engineering measures.

I am advised that remedial measures are implemented at cluster sites when considered appropriate to do so, an example being at the A8/Pound Street junction in Larne where specific traffic management measures were implemented to address poor lane discipline and potential ambiguity in relation to road markings. This scheme has proven to be particularly beneficial in reducing targeted collisions from 8 collisions in a three year period to 3 collisions in subsequent years.

I can confirm that options for collision remedial measures were also being considered at the Doagh Road/Monkstown Road junction but as a recently approved planning application includes provision for an upgrade of this junction, it was decided not to proceed with works at this time. At the remaining sites identified in my previous response, due to the varied nature and differing causation factors of collisions, it has not been possible to identify a specific problem that might be addressed through implementation of engineering measures.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 18187/17-22, to define the term independent in the context of the answer.
(AQW 18774/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My previous answer referred to the requirement for councils to submit their development plan documents to the Department for independent examination. An independent examination is a public examination commenced, conducted and concluded by an independent examiner to determine if the development plan document is sound. This is an impartial, external examination by a party other than the council, or Department and is carried out by the Planning Appeals Commission or a person appointed by the Department.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 18187/17-22, how value for money can be demonstrated using the above system when preparing local development plans.
(AQW 18775/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Under the two-tier planning system councils have primary responsibility for local plan making.

Local Development Plans are important documents that will guide the future use of land in their respective areas and inform developers, the general public, communities, government, public bodies and other interested parties of the policy framework that is used to determine development proposals. They are a fundamental tool in the implementation of central government policies and strategic objectives.

All councils have been actively progressing their plans under this process undertaking a soundness based approach which is mirrored in other jurisdictions, and reliant on up to date and robust evidence.

My previous answer referred to the requirement for councils to submit their development plan documents to the Department for independent examination. DfI have a role as a statutory consultee in the process as well as an oversight responsibility, however the remit to consider value for money within this process is something for each individual council.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 18187/17-22 and specifically how councils are able to develop their own approaches to dealing with the specific economic, social and environmental local circumstances which affect communities in their areas, through the preparation of their local development plans, when these plans must strictly follow the instructions contained in the departmental Strategic Planning Policy Statements.

Ms Mallon: The Strategic Planning Policy Statement (SPPS) was published in September 2015 following agreement of the Executive. It provides an overarching statement of the general planning principles underlying the planning system and provides a robust planning policy framework within which councils will prepare local development plans (LDPs) and also manage development. The provisions of the SPPS apply to the whole of Northern Ireland and must be taken into account in the preparation of LDPs which are key documents to furthering of sustainable development and implementing the SPPS.

In the preparation of LDPs, councils may develop local policy responses to their specific social, environmental and economic circumstances, albeit within the context of the strategic policy direction provided by the SPPS.

A key feature of the new LDP process requires development plan documents to be tested for 'soundness', based upon three categories which relate to how the plan has been produced; the alignment of the plan with regional and strategic policy and guidance; and, the coherence, consistency and effectiveness of the content of the plan.

Mr Clarke asked the Minister for Infrastructure when resurfacing works will be carried out on the Portglenone Road, Randalstown.

Ms Mallon: In addition to our routine cyclical maintenance process, my Department also delivers an annual programme of reconstruction and resurfacing works which is implemented on a scheme priority basis and reflects availability of funding. While resurfacing programmes for 2021-22 have not yet been finalised, I am pleased to be able to advise that Portglenone Road, Randalstown is currently included within our provisional programme however, before any resurfacing work can take place some essential enabling works need to be completed. The enabling works, which include side strengthening and drainage works, are currently planned for the 2021/22 financial year with subsequent programming of resurfacing works depending on availability of funding.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for Infrastructure following concerns regarding road safety being raised by parents and carers of children at St Joseph's Convent School, whether she will carry out a traffic calming assessment on (Upper) Catherine Street, Newry.

Ms Mallon: I have asked my officials to carry out an assessment of Catherine Street to determine if any additional safety measures are warranted.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for Infrastructure, in relation to the recommendation in the 2019 Audit report on structural maintenance of the road network for her Department to look at providing more fairer coverage of rural roads within the structural maintenance budget, whether she will increase investment in rural roads within her structural maintenance budget in this financial year.

(AQW 18787/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department is committed to delivering the best possible services with the funds available. In response to the NIAO recommendation to which you refer, arrangements are in place to agree an annual budget for resurfacing on the Trunk Road network, the objective of which is to maintain its condition while also maximising the budget for non-trunk roads, including rural roads.

I recognise that there has been historical under-investment in our road network for a significant number of years and that many rural roads are in need of repairs. In response, I allocated £12m of my 2020-21 Capital budget to a Roads Recovery Fund, of which £10m was specifically directed towards rural roads. These improvements have targeted many short lengths of rural roads that were in particularly poor condition.

I am currently considering my capital allocations for 2021-22, however, I remain committed to setting up a further Roads Recovery Fund from the available 2021-22 Budget to continue delivering this important work to improve connectivity and help rural communities. It is also worth noting that the rural road network, both Trunk and Non-Trunk, makes up around 78% of the total road network in the North and it is therefore inevitable that a significant proportion of the overall budget allocated for Structural Maintenance will be targeted towards the rural road network.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Infrastructure, in relation to when Covid restrictions relax to permit people to meet indoors, whether she will change the rules for the Strangford Ferry to permit school children and other foot passengers to use the passenger shelter on each of the ferries.

(AQW 18817/17-22)

Ms Mallon: School children and other foot passengers are already allowed to use the passenger compartments on both ferries, but in line with guidance they are expected to social distance.

I can assure you that our approach will continue to be reviewed as the Covid-19 regulations and guidance are updated.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister for Infrastructure how many bus and coach operators were able to access her Department's sector specific support fund.

(AQW 18871/17-22)

Ms Mallon: All eligible bus and coach Operators that held a valid Northern Ireland bus operator licence and had suffered a significant adverse impact on income arising from the loss of business due to the Coronavirus Restrictions and met the requirements of the schemes were able to access my Department's financial assistance schemes.

Out of 140 applications for the first bus operator financial assistance scheme, 105 were eligible for financial assistance. Applications continue to be processed for the second scheme.

The main reason for ineligibility for the first Bus Operator Financial Assistance Scheme is that some operators are still profitmaking, despite a decline in business. However, as the scheme has been set up to provide funding only when losses have been incurred, it has been successful in providing targeted help to those most in need and in ensuring value for money.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will provide further support to the bus and coach sector moving forward, particularly for those smaller companies that had difficulties with previous schemes.

(AQW 18872/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My current priority is implementing the second financial support scheme for bus and coach operators. While my officials and I will continue to work with the sector to monitor the impact of Covid-19 restrictions on operators, the Executive will need to consider how support and funding will be taken forward for all areas of the economy for 2021/22.

Both financial assistance schemes I have brought forward to support bus operators have been set up to provide funding, irrespective of the size of the business. As the schemes provide support only when losses have been incurred, they provide targeted help to those most in need and therefore ensure value for money

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department has undertaken a Transport Study to identify problems and solutions for the improvement of traffic flow through Donaghadee.

Ms Mallon: As you are aware, there is currently a considerable amount of work being undertaken by utility companies within Donaghadee and in addition a large housing development of approximately 390 units is being constructed on the Newtownards Road. The combination of these projects would appear to have been significant contributory factors in the recent traffic delays being experienced.

I can confirm that my Department currently has no plans to undertake a traffic study of Donaghadee; however I have asked my officials to monitor traffic flows following completion of these works and if at that stage traffic progression issues are evident, a traffic study may then be considered.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure how a Tree Preservation Order can be removed by (i) her Department; or (ii) by a local council.

(AQW 18928/17-22)

Ms Mallon:

- (i) The Department (DfI) has the power to remove any Tree Preservation Order under the powers conferred by section 124(1) (Power for Department to make tree preservation orders) of Planning Act (Northern Ireland) 2011;
- (ii) Councils do not currently have the power to remove Tree Preservation Orders.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 14100/17/22, (i) whether the proposal to divert the watercourse adjacent to the new park and ride facility on lands 60m north of 92 Glenshane Road, Derry featured in the original proposals for the A6 strategic road; and (ii) where the details of the diversion can be found in the referred environmental statement.

(AQW 18930/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The proposal to divert the watercourse adjacent to the park and ride facility at Drumahoe was assessed as part of the A6 Derry to Dungiven Environmental Statement that was published in December 2011.

The watercourse diversion is included as reference WD-10A in the Environmental Statement Volume 1 Chapter 16 under the description of Sub-Catchment SC-07. It is also shown in Environmental Statement Volume 2 Part C and Volume 3 Part B Figure 16.4 (Sheet 7).

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what plans Translink has to increase the number of bus journeys from Bangor to the Ulster Hospital, Dundonald.

(AQW 18942/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Whilst demand for all bus services remain constantly under review to allow for adherence to social distancing, Translink has outlined that it is not experiencing any increase in customer demand from Bangor to the Ulster Hospital and, in that regard, there are no current plans to increase service levels.

Mr McAleer asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) for an explanation and the rationale for the placement of cameras in the Derry City and Strabane District Council area in respect of planning applications (a) LA10/2019/1386/F; and (b) LA11/2019/1000/F; and (ii) whether the local community was consulted in relation to the decision to install these cameras. (AQW 18963/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The Department had no prior knowledge or role in the placement of cameras. This matter was first brought to DfI's attention by a local councillor and in following this contact up, it is the Department's understanding that the purpose of the erection of these cameras was to carry out traffic surveys to assist with the preparation of an Environment Statement which is proposed to be submitted to accompany planning applications LA10/2019/1386/F and LA11/2019/1000/F.

My Department also understands that there was not engagement with the local community prior to the erection of these cameras.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will consider Finaghy Primary School for inclusion in the 20mph zones at schools scheme. (AQW 19065/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I was pleased to have been able to commit funding within my capital budget towards the introduction of part-time 20mph speed limits at 103 schools across Northern Ireland, so that parents, children and staff will be safer as they go to and from school on a daily basis. Priority listings have been developed for each Roads Division based on scores calculated using the assessment framework contained within my Department's current road safety at schools policy document.

Given the restricted budgets for works of this nature, as well as the practicalities of delivery, it was necessary to limit the number of schools to around 100 in last year's programme. Unfortunately, based on its assessment score, Finaghy Primary School was not ranked as highly as the other schools included within last year's programme. However, it is my intention to take forward further tranches of part-time speed limits at schools and I can confirm that Finaghy Primary School will be considered for inclusion in future programmes, the scale of which will be dependent on the funding available.

Department of Justice

Dr Archibald asked the Minister of Justice what action is being taken by her Department in partnership with mobile phone network providers and internet providers to prevent scams through mobile phone messages and emails. (AQW 18333/17-22)

Mrs Long (The Minister of Justice): My Department works to tackle the issue of scams by supporting and contributing funding to initiatives of the Scamwise NI Partnership which was established in November 2016.

The Partnership is chaired by the PSNI and involves over 40 partners working collaboratively to raise awareness of scams. Partners include the Department of Justice, NI Policing Board, Trading Standards NI, the Consumer Council, the Commissioner for Older People, representatives from the retail and banking sector including Royal Mail and the Post Office and a number of faith and youth groups.

There are many different types of scams including phone, online doorstep and postal. The most prevalent are undertaken online or by telephone. I am pleased therefore, that Ofcom, the Communications Regulator, joined the Partnership at the start of this year. They will assist the Partnership in working more closely with mobile phone network operators and internet providers to prevent scams. I understand that Ofcom, supported by the telecommunications industry, is currently leading on work to transition the UK telephone network to Voice Over Internet Protocol technology (VOIP) by 2025. This will enable a technical solution to prevent number 'spoofing' where a caller impersonates another number. This method of 'spoofing' caller numbers is frequently seen in Northern Ireland and used to impersonate banks and utilities to obtain personal financial details or other sensitive information.

The Scamwise Partnership undertakes a range of awareness raising activities and has developed resources for all age groups. These include: a Scamwise Champion initiative aimed at young people through youth organisations and schools which highlights a wide range of scams including phishing; a series of video clips mainly for use on social media and a series of books on scams. One of these books is 'The Little Book of Cyber Scams' which was developed jointly by the Scamwise NI Partnership and The PSNI Cyber Security Centre. It provides details of various methods of phishing and outlines steps that can be taken to prevent them.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Justice (i) for her assessment of police numbers in the Causeway Coast and Glens area; and (ii) to detail what conversations she has had with the Chief Constable regarding this issue. (AQW 18408/17-22)

Mrs Long: Decisions relating to the deployment of police officers, including to the Causeway Coast and Glens area, are ultimately an operational matter for the Chief Constable of the PSNI, who is accountable to the Northern Ireland Policing Board (NIPB). I have not spoken with the Chief Constable specifically about police officer numbers in the Causeway Coast and Glens area.

I am committed to respecting the operational independence of the Chief Constable and the role of the NIPB.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Justice whether her Department has made any approaches to the Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs in relation to the transfer of land for the provision of sporting facilities at Newforge Lane.

(AQW 18481/17-22)

Mrs Long: My Department has made no approaches to the Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs in relation to the transfer of land for the provision of sporting facilities at Newforge Lane.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister of Justice when is it anticipated that the fees legislation for diversionary courses as an alternative to a fixed penalty will come into being.

(AQW 18533/17-22)

Mrs Long: The Protection of the Police and Public, Courts and Sentencing Bill is currently at Committee Stage at Westminster and will need to work its way through the parliamentary process.

The Bill includes provisions relating to certain devolved matters that engage the Legislative Consent Motion process. These include measures placing the National Driver Offender Retraining Scheme (courses as an alternative to prosecution) on a statutory footing, which would provide a clear legislative basis for this scheme and for any excess income to be used for promoting road safety. It will come into effect, if and, when legislation is approved by Parliament and the Assembly.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Justice for an update on the work of the Organised Crime Taskforce's Cross Border Fuel Fraud Enforcement Group.

Mrs Long: The Organised Crime Task Force (OCTF) is the strategic forum for delivering a coordinated response to tackling organised crime in Northern Ireland. The OCTF is supported by thematic sub groups focusing on distinct areas of organised crime. The sub group themes are reviewed on an ongoing basis to ensure the focus remains on priority areas of work.

The OCTF has established a new sub group which is currently focussing on organised crime in relation to the UK's exit from the European Union. A key focus of the sub group is to assess any change in threat from organised crime in a post EU Exit context and prioritise a coordinated operational response to organised criminal activity that may be associated to changes in arrangements post EU Exit. The work on cross border smuggling, including smuggling of fuel, is now considered by this group rather than having a standalone fuel fraud sub group. This enables fuel fraud to be considered as part of developing a full strategic picture of the threat posed by criminals seeking to exploit the common travel area and routings in and out of Northern Ireland. The focus and priorities of this sub group are flexible and will adapt to respond to emerging threats or issues.

Extensive multi-agency and cross border cooperation is a key element in the operational response to organised crime. HMRC continues to work in partnership with other enforcement agencies including Revenue in Ireland. This effective collaboration was demonstrated recently in a joint Revenue and HMRC operation to disrupt a fuel laundering plant in December 2020 in Co Monaghan.

Cross-border co-operation is essential in the fight against organised criminality on this island. We have a strong track record of working in partnership with our colleagues in the South, including through the operational Joint Agency Task Force established as part of a concerted and enhanced effort to tackle organised and cross jurisdictional crime.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Justice to detail what facial recognition technologies are used by the Criminal Justice System in Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18603/17-22)

Mrs Long: There is currently no facial recognition technology being used within the Criminal Justice system in Northern Ireland.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Justice to detail (i) what data her Department holds in relation to dating fraud and romance scams in Northern Ireland; and (ii) what actions her Department is taking to raise the awareness of, and address dating fraud and romance scams in Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18604/17-22)

Mrs Long: My Department does not hold any data in relation to dating fraud and romance scams in Northern Ireland. Action Fraud is the UK's national fraud and internet crime reporting centre and has been responsible for recording fraud (including romance scams) and internet crime, with effect from 01 April 2015. Action Fraud figures relating to fraud and cybercrime occurring in Northern Ireland are provided to PSNI on a monthly basis. The PSNI monitor scams on an ongoing basis, however they do not hold any specific data on this type of scam.

Most dating and romance scams are carried out online. The increasing popularity of online dating websites has opened up opportunities for fraudsters to trick genuine users. They will use a range of methods to get access to cash. These include: setting up fake profiles; moving contact off the dating website as soon as possible to avoid detection; being very flattering and keen to build a relationship; and making excuses as to why it is not possible to meet face to face.

Addressing and raising awareness of all types of scams involves working at a multi-partner level. My Department works to tackle the issue of scams by supporting and contributing funding to initiatives of the Scamwise NI Partnership which was established in November 2016.

The Partnership is chaired by the PSNI and involves over 40 partners working collaboratively to raise awareness of scams. Partners include DoJ, PSNI, NI Policing Board, Trading Standards NI, the Consumer Council, the Cyber Security Centre, the Commissioner for Older People, Ofcom, representatives from the retail and banking sector including Royal Mail and the Post Office and a number of faith and youth groups.

As part of its awareness raising activities, the Scamwise Partnership NI has developed a series of books aimed at raising awareness of scams. The 'Little Book of Big Scams' contains a section on dating and romance fraud. It provides a comprehensive guide on how scams operate, how people can fall victim to fraudsters and, most importantly, how people can protect themselves and spot scams.

In addition, the Partnership has developed a series of video clips, including one on dating and romance scams. With part funding from my Department, this video outlines how not everyone is who they appear to be online and how victims can be targeted for financial gain rather than romance.

Working in partnership with Banks, Building Societies, and the Post Office they have taken steps to raise staff awareness of such scams and have trained them to encourage asking certain questions when customers are requesting access to large amounts of cash.

It is important to ensure that the Scamwise message reaches a wide audience through social media. My Department uses its own social media channels (including Twitter & Instagram) to highlight current scams and inform the public about what they should be wary of. These DoJ channels are also used to signpost the public to the NI Direct Scamwise NI page for up to date information and support as well as highlighting who to contact if they fear they have been targeted by a scam, including the PSNI and Action Fraud.

Mr Beattie asked the Minister of Justice, pursuant to AQW 18168/17-22, to provide a copy of this policy.
(AQW 18614/17-22)

Mrs Long: A copy of the Northern Ireland Prison Service, Body Worn Video Camera Policy has been deposited in the Assembly Library.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Justice how many requests her Department received for the translation of documents into (i) Irish; and (ii) Ulster Scots, in each of the last three years.
(AQW 18631/17-22)

Mrs Long: The Department has not received any requests for the translation of documents into Irish or Ulster Scots in the last three financial years.

Mr Frew asked the Minister of Justice (i) how many social workers were working in Woodlands Juvenile Centre Bangor between and during the months of January and March 2021; (ii) how many people were residing in the centre; and (iii) what measures were deployed to redeploy social workers to other departments.
(AQW 18633/17-22)

Mrs Long: Woodlands, Juvenile Justice Centre is Northern Ireland's only custodial facility for young people under the age of 18 in Northern Ireland. Woodlands, provides a 24 hour/365 day service for young people who are admitted to custody through PACE, Remand or Sentence, through the Police Service of Northern Ireland or the Northern Ireland Court System.

- (i) Between January and March 2021 a total of 21 social workers worked in Woodlands across a rotating shift pattern and as part of a multi-disciplinary team.
- (ii) The number of young people that reside in the Centre fluctuates on a daily basis

	Jan 21	Feb 21	Mar 21
Average	7	8	5
Maximum	10	11	8

- (iii) In order to provide the appropriate level of safe and secure care to vulnerable young people in Woodlands it is critical that the appropriate level of qualified and experienced staff are available to meet operational need. Given this, coupled with the unpredictable and fluctuating nature of the population levels within Woodlands, the capacity to redeploy social work staff is limited.

Throughout the Covid-19 pandemic Woodlands have monitored staffing levels within the Centre to ensure adequate supervision and care can be provided to our young people.

Mr Frew asked the Minister of Justice what steps are taken to ensure that staff in Woodlands Juvenile Centre are notified when a colleague has a positive diagnosis of COVID-19.

(AQW 18634/17-22)

Mrs Long: Woodlands Juvenile Justice Centre has liaised closely with the Public Health Agency Northern Ireland over the course of the pandemic and supported its role in contact tracing and identifying potential close contacts of those who test positive for Covid-19.

The Woodlands Contact Tracing Procedure, which was drawn up in collaboration with the PHA, describes the purpose and process of identifying close contacts within the workplace of staff who test positive for Covid-19. It establishes the criteria for identifying someone as a close contact and sets out the actions that result from identifying someone as a close contact of a staff member testing positive.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Justice to detail the number of convictions secured for (i) being armed with an offensive weapon with intent to commit an offence; (ii) possessing an article with a blade or point in a public place; (iii) possessing an article with a blade or point on school premises, in each of the last three years; and (iv) whether she has any plans to further legislate on knife crime or the sale of knives.

Mrs Long: Information in relation to this question was provided in the answer to AQW 16024 17-22 on 25 March 2021. No further update on the numbers of convictions provided in that answer is available. Neither has there been any change to the situation in relation to plans to further legislate on knife crime or the sale of knives in Northern Ireland.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Justice (i) why neither the PSNI or Prison Service notify victims of crimes that the perpetrators of those crimes are due to be released from prison; and (ii) how she will ensure that victims of crimes are informed that the perpetrators are due for release from prison.

(AQW 18730/17-22)

Mrs Long: The Prisoner Release Victim Information Scheme already provides for registered victims to be given a range of information about offenders including information about their release from prison.

Mr Clarke asked the Minister of Justice (i) how long records are held by the Coroners Service; and (ii) what happens to records no longer being held by the Service.

(AQW 18780/17-22)

Mrs Long: As with all departmental records, the disposition of the records of the Coroner's Service NI is governed by the department's Retention & Disposal Schedules, which are drawn up in consultation with the Public Record Office of NI, and in line with the requirements of the Public Records Act 1923 and the Disposal of Documents Order 1925.

To acquire legal force, the legislation requires that these Schedules are laid in the library of the NI Assembly for 10 sitting days; the current schedules (Version 4.0) went through this process and came into force in May 2016. The full Schedule may be found at: <https://www.justice-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/doj/retention-and-disposal-schedule-final-signed-copy.pdf>.

The following extract from the schedules lays out how the Coroner's records must be disposed of:

Coroners
13.16	Day Books, Inquest files – which do proceed, including Post Mortem reports	Transfer to PRONI – 20 Years after closure – historical record	Coroners Act (NI) 1959, 1984 Coroners Rules; Police and Criminal Evidence (NI) Order 1989 (PACE)	Permanent Preservation
13.17	Inquests – which do not proceed; Pro Forma letters, forms & death certificates	15 years after closure	Coroners Act (NI) 1959, 1984 Coroners Rules	Destroy

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Justice to detail (i) what specific training is provided to PSNI officers in relation to dealing with members of the public on the Autism Spectrum or have learning disabilities; and (ii) the number of officers who have undertaken such training, in each of the last five years.

(AQW 18896/17-22)

Mrs Long: Decisions relating to the training of police officers are ultimately an operational matter for the Chief Constable of the PSNI, who is accountable to the Northern Ireland Policing Board (NIPB).

I am committed to respecting the operational independence of the Chief Constable and the role of the NIPB. Therefore, you may wish to raise your issues directly with the Chief Constable.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Justice (i) what is the name of the events company with which the PSNI co-operated in respect of the Storey funeral; (ii) is it licensed: and (iii) for what purposes.

(AQW 19059/17-22)

Mrs Long: These are operational matters for the Chief Constable, who is accountable to the Northern Ireland Policing Board. I am committed to respecting this operational independence.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Justice, in light of recent media revelations contradicting that a licensed events company was involved in the funeral of Bobby Storey, whether she will reassess the findings of the HMICFRS report.

(AQW 19132/17-22)

Mrs Long: The inspection I commissioned from HMICFRS, at the request of the Northern Ireland Policing Board, was of the PSNI's handling of the events surrounding the Bobby Storey funeral. The actions of those involved in the funeral were neither part of the scope of this inspection nor within the remit of HMICFRS to inspect.

Department for the Economy

Mr McHugh asked the Minister for the Economy to detail any schemes available to people wanting to introduce solar energy to their homes.

(AQW 15497/17-22)

Mrs Dodds (The Minister for the Economy): No schemes are currently available to support domestic solar energy.

My Department is leading on the development of a new Energy Strategy, however, which will set the policy direction for NI's contribution to achieving the UK's commitment to achieve net zero emissions by 2050.

Officials are liaising with key stakeholders to consider options on the support measures needed to encourage increased levels of renewables from a wide range of technologies, including solar.

I published an options consultation on the Energy Strategy on 31 March 2021.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy what progress her Department has made in developing a regionally balanced economy, as agreed in New Decade, New Approach.

(AQW 16489/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: While the focus since the Covid-19 pandemic emerged has rightly been on supporting our businesses and economy through immediate interventions and planning for economic recovery, it is also important to prepare for the future of the economy.

On 25th February my Department published an Economic Recovery Action Plan which set out a range of decisive actions to kick-start economic recovery as we emerge from the COVID-19 pandemic.

In many cases, these actions are intertwined and cross-cutting, delivering against multiple priorities identified within the 'Rebuilding a Stronger Economy' framework such as:

- Delivering better jobs;
- Addressing regional imbalance;
- People and Wellbeing; and
- Resilience.

The actions will deliver opportunities for our people and drive economic recovery that is inclusive and regionally balanced.

My Department has supported the City and Growth Deals through identifying projects for inclusion and plans to invest heavily in place based innovation as part of continuing support for this programme.

The Department's £165million Project Stratum broadband improvement scheme will radically transform rural broadband connectivity once completed, helping to ensure that people in rural areas are not held back by lack of access to online services.

The Covid-19 pandemic, Brexit and the Climate Crisis present unprecedented challenges for our economy. These challenges, in combination with the persistent structural weaknesses of our economy, mean that we must strive to reshape the economy in a way we have not done before.

I launched a bold and ambitious new vision for the Northern Ireland economy through a decade of innovation on 11 May. The vision places innovation at the centre of addressing the uneven impacts of the pandemic and the wider societal and environmental challenges of our time. It is important that economic growth, within this decade of innovation, is inclusive and means something for all our people and places.

We are seeking to achieve success, in part, through having a renewed focus on place-based economic investments and investing in local projects, to boost support to localities across NI which are tailored to their unique proposition. Although the Department does not create jobs in specific locations to address regional economic imbalances, the vision will seek to promote economic growth across Northern Ireland by building on our strengths, such as our innovation ecosystem, and responding to opportunities such as increased remote working.

The vision sets out a high level ambition which will be supported by a work programme to outline priorities and actions that will enable our economy to meet the challenges presented to us and to take advantage of economic opportunities.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy when (i) AQW 15383/17-22; and (ii) AQW 15610/17-22 will be answered. (AQW 16781/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: A response to AQW 15383/17-22 was issued on 14 April 2021 and a response to AQW 15610/17-22 was issued on 31 March 2021.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy to detail her role in resolving the current pay dispute with further education lecturers. (AQW 18387/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I want to take this opportunity to set out clearly what my role and that of my Department is in relation to the current dispute as there appears to be some misunderstanding at present, and my role may differ from other Ministers in other Departments.

The Further Education (Northern Ireland) Order 1997 which established the Further Education Colleges specifies that:

“The terms and conditions of the employees of the governing body of an institution of further education ..... shall be such as may be determined by the governing body after consultation with representatives of the employees concerned.”

The Governing Bodies of the colleges are therefore employers in their own right and negotiations on lecturer's terms and conditions take place through the Lecturers Negotiating Committee which is comprised of representatives of Colleges as the employers and the Trade Unions. As I have said previously, neither the Department nor I as Minister have any role in these negotiations and I understand that this position has been adopted consistently by previous ministers, both in the Department for Economy and previously the Department for Employment and Learning, during earlier negotiations.

The Department's role and my role as Minister reflect our respective responsibilities in ensuring that proper governance is in place around the use of public resources. Colleges are Non-Departmental Public Bodies of the Department and are required under their respective Financial Memoranda to refer “any activities which appear novel, contentious or repercussive” to DfE as their sponsor Department for approval. In addition, colleges are required to ensure that annual pay increases for staff must be in accordance with the Department of Finance guidance. All proposed pay awards must have prior approval of both the Department and the Department of Finance before implementation.

As a result, any Business Case developed as a result of the negotiations will have to be referred to the Department for appraisal prior to seeking my approval before approval is sought from the Department of Finance.

The Departmental appraisal of the Business Case will consider the issue of affordability and will identify the extent of any additional financial resources which would be required to deliver the preferred option. I will then explore at that point, how any additional requirements can be met including whether a bid for additional resources is required. However, you will note that I cannot submit a formal bid for additional resources until there is an approved business case in place and I have clarity on the quantum of resource required.

I considered that it was important to provide this level of detail as comparisons have been made between my role and the role which the Minister for Education played in the recent negotiations on teachers' pay. Teachers' terms and conditions are negotiated within the Teachers' Negotiating Committee (TNC) which is made up of DE, employing authorities and the five recognised teachers' unions (known collectively as NITC). DE determines pay and uses TNC to negotiate it:

“in accordance with the provisions of Article 69(1) and (6) of the Education and Libraries (Northern Ireland) Order 1986, following negotiations with Teachers' Unions, the Department of Education has determined that the salaries and allowances to be paid to teachers in grant-aided schools shall be...”

In addition, in relation to my role, the fact that I and my officials meet with the Colleges regularly but have not met with the Trade Unions is being cited as evidence that neither the Department nor I can carry out an impartial and objective assessment of any business case developed as a result of the negotiations.

As I explained earlier, DfE is sponsor Department for the six FE Colleges and I as Minister, am ultimately accountable to the Assembly for their efficiency and effectiveness. This necessitates regular meetings between colleges and their sponsor Department to obtain assurance on how public funding is being utilised. That is a key part of my role and of DfE's role as a sponsor Department. I do not have a similar function in relation to trade unions.

I have gone into some detail in this response in order to clear up some of the misconceptions which have been circulating recently and I hope this provides some clarity around the role that I and my Department are required to play during the current negotiations. I would stress that in no way should our requirement to carry out that role be seen as an impediment or a barrier to the negotiations which are currently ongoing.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for the Economy what action she is taking to assist the traders' associations on Belfast's arterial routes to aid local business recovery.

Mrs Dodds: My Economic Recovery Action Plan sets out the actions that will enable us to build a more competitive and inclusive economy as we move forward from today. That is why on 30th April I was delighted to announce my intention to implement the High Street Stimulus Scheme, which is a cornerstone of my Economic Recovery Action Plan aimed at boosting demand in our struggling towns, city centres and providing much needed support to our local businesses.

As part of the recovery agenda I have assisted our retail sector through the provision of the Covid-19 Digital Selling Capability Grant which assisted small or medium-sized retailers prepare for growth, develop their customer base and find new markets by enhancing their digital offering, building e-commerce capability and increasing online sales. This was extended to micro-businesses with the introduction of the Covid-19 Micro-business E-commerce Grant.

My Department is also represented on the Executive Office's High Street Task Force. The strategic aim of this is to contribute to the development of thriving and sustainable city, town and village centres.

The purpose of the Taskforce is to contribute to:

- developing the strategic approach to delivering the vision and responding to the economic and social challenges facing village, town and city centres;
- building and strengthening the partnerships that will deliver the strategic response; and
- building the capacity needed to achieve the vision.

The Taskforce will also look at a longer-term vision based upon our town and city centres being diverse business ecosystems that meet the needs of communities. Making town and city centres more attractive to visitors will benefit all businesses within that eco-system.

On May 11th, I launched a bold and ambitious new vision for the Northern Ireland economy. The vision sets out our long term ambition for the economy including delivering economic prosperity across all of Northern Ireland, for all our people.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for the Economy to confirm what actions she is taking to provide increased university and further education places for students leaving post primary schools in 2021, to ensure young people, whose education has been disrupted by COVID-19, have the opportunity to progress in education.

(AQW 18607/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Higher Education

As noted in my Economic Recovery Action Plan, increases to higher education undergraduate places were introduced in 2020-21 and these places will be funded for two further academic years.

FE Capital Projects

My Department is continuing its investment in the Further Education (FE) estate to deliver modern, efficient, fit for purpose campuses that are welcoming, comfortable, healthy, neutral and vibrant places to learn and innovate.

In 2020, two major capital projects to build new campuses were completed in Banbridge and Armagh with a further new campus, in Enniskillen, being completed last month. These three buildings represent an investment of approximately £80million and, although they do not increase the capacity of the estate, it is hoped that sector wide marketing and promotional campaigns undertaken over the coming months will encourage an increased number of students leaving post primary schools in 2021 to avail of the state of the art, accessible facilities provided.

In addition these new campuses will offer significantly improved student facilities and support infrastructure, providing a greatly enhanced curriculum offering utilising the latest technology and equipment.

Learner Numbers

Over recent years FE colleges have faced a number of factors including a "demographic dip" in 16-19 year olds, improving school exam performance and most recently the impact of the Covid 19 pandemic, which have combined to reduce learner numbers in colleges by 14.5% from 82,818 in 2015/16 to 70,847.

The resulting availability of capacity within new state of the art accommodation equipped to industry standards means that colleges are particularly well placed to accommodate any students who have found their education disrupted by the recent pandemic and to provide them with the knowledge and skills they need to progress to employment or higher education.

Marketing the FE Sector

In order to raise public awareness of these opportunities available through Further Education, DfE has now commissioned the six colleges to work together to create a collective identity for the sector and to develop an annual campaign which will focus specifically on promoting the unique product offering for full time FE and HE provision.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for the Economy whether she has met with Queen's University Belfast and Ulster Ulster to review entry level qualifications to take account of the disruption due to COVID-19.

(AQW 18609/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: No, I have not met with the Higher Education Institutions to review their entry level requirements.

As autonomous bodies, universities are responsible for their own policies and procedures on admissions.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister for the Economy whether she will extend the £500 COVID-19 Disruption Payment to further education students.

(AQW 18617/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: While I have given due consideration to extending the Covid Disruption Payment Scheme to include further education students, I am content that the decision not to include these students remains appropriate.

The rationale for excluding FE students was that, on the whole, FE students are less likely to be paying accommodation costs/ tuition fees and other expenses that HE students face. Moreover, my Department has provided £29.5m financial support in 2020/21 to FE students and colleges.

Students on FE courses at local colleges are already being supported through a range of mechanisms. To date, I have secured additional funding of £7.7m, of which £4.8m is being used to provide additional IT equipment to allow continued access from home for both college staff and students and to help address digital poverty, including providing almost 1,200 SIM cards, and the remaining £2.9m for an additional 500 devices, and a one-off payment of £60 to eligible full-time and part-time FE students to help with data costs.

The Department provides a range of interventions annually to support FE students throughout the Covid-19 pandemic, including adaptations to existing financial support programmes to encourage continued participation in FE courses. This included FE Grants; FE Hardship Fund; Care to Learn childcare scheme; Home to College Transport; Free School Meals/ Clothing Allowance; and Additional Support Fund for those with a disability. The combined value of these existing support arrangements totals £13m per annum.

Furthermore, the Department has worked with the colleges to increase the flexibility of these policies in relation to student support, to make them more accessible. This has included paying childcare retainer fees during the initial lockdown; FE Grants and Hardship Fund have been updated to facilitate claimants participating in distance learning with an extension to the closing date for FE grant applications in both the 2020/21 and 2021/22 academic years; Free School Meals and holiday payments for all eligible school age FE students have been made directly into households, continuing into term 3 of the academic year. Specifically within the Hardship Fund, increases have been made to the Dependant Student rate, which provides eligible FE students with an additional £15 per week; and making part-time and repeat students eligible to apply to all elements of Hardship Fund. It has also been agreed to extend these flexibilities into term 3 of the academic year.

A comprehensive review of the collective package of FE Student Support is currently underway, and my Department will continue to keep FE student support arrangements under review in response to evolving needs.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy (i) for her assessment of the international progress on the use of green hydrogen for property heating; and (ii) whether her Department is aware of any major housing schemes that have successfully used green hydrogen for property heating.

(AQW 18647/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Although heating is just one of a number of potential applications for hydrogen, I am aware that other countries are trialling the use of a hydrogen blend in their natural gas networks to explore this as a decarbonisation option, such as:

- Green HySLAND – Mallorca (2020)
- EU Wide HIGGS project (2020)

In the UK, Phase one of HyDeploy, which is a pioneering hydrogen energy project designed to help reduce UK CO2 emissions and reach the Government's net zero target for 2050, has been trialling a twenty per cent hydrogen blend into a closed gas network at Keele University.

After Phase one is completed, HyDeploy will move to a larger demonstration on a public network in the North East. After that, HyDeploy will have another large demonstration in the North West.

Mr Chambers asked the Minister for the Economy whether she will consider any form of intervention to ensure that the iconic and economically important Barry's leisure and funfair site in Portrush continues as a going concern.

(AQW 18662/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I was saddened to hear of the proposed closure of Barry's Leisure & Entertainment Complex in Portrush after several generations of providing family fun and entertainment on the north coast. The Trufelli family have operated the complex since 1926 and it has become an iconic site synonymous with Portrush ever since.

The Complex is a private and commercially run establishment and it is my understanding that it has been a personal and business decision of the Trufelli family to cease their business operation and put it up for sale. The media has reported that the Trufelli family had sought to sell the Portrush site since October 2019, with the process disrupted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Neither Tourism NI or Causeway Coast & Glens Borough Council have had any direct contact with the owners of Barry's on this matter, partly due to the fact that it is a private business that is making a personal and/or commercial decision to sell.

I understand that Causeway Coast & Glens Borough Council are currently engaged in a bid process for the sale of the Dunluce Centre Leisure and Tourism Facility in Portrush for the purposes of tourism and recreation.

Causeway Coast & Glens area attracts the second highest level of tourism spend throughout N. Ireland at £190m (2019) and Tourism NI has invested heavily in the Giants Causeway Visitor Centre, Causeway Coastal Route, The Open Golf tournament in 2019 among other interventions over the past 10 years or more.

Tourism NI also works very closely with Causeway Coast & Glens Borough Council supporting stakeholders and tourism operators in the area who offer visitor experiences in the immediate and wider area including surfing, boat trips, tours, food and drink experiences, world class golf courses and heritage attractions.

Tourism NI will continue to work closely with Causeway Coast & Glens Borough Council and other key stakeholders in the area to ensure that Portrush continues to provide a high quality and sustainable tourism and leisure offering on the North Coast.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister for the Economy given the potential impact on the local tourism industry after 1 October 2021, whether she has any plans to work with her counterparts in the British Government to restore the Collective Passport List for Travellers of visiting school groups from the EU.

Mrs Dodds: Immigration matters are excepted under the Northern Ireland Act 1998, and remain the responsibility of the UK Government.

The UK Government has decided to end the List of Travellers scheme (which allows a non-EEA pupil legally resident in an EU Member State to visit or transit to another EU Member State without a passport and/or visa-free as part of an organised school group) on 1 October 2021 along with the change to travel on EEA and Swiss identity cards. It means all pupils based in the EEA and Switzerland, no matter their nationality, will, unless they have protected rights under the Citizens' Rights Agreements, need a passport - and visa if required - to visit the UK on an organised school trip with effect from the same date.

My Department will continue to engage with the UK Government to ensure the immigration system meets the needs of the Northern Ireland Economy.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy for her assessment of (i) the connections between her Department and the gas industry; and (ii) the influence of the gas industry on her Department's policy making.

(AQW 18866/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department's principle objective under Article 14 of the Energy (Northern Ireland) Order 2003 is to promote the development and maintenance of an efficient, economic and co-ordinated gas industry in Northern Ireland. In line with this objective, the Department has ongoing engagement with the Utility Regulator and gas industry representatives across a range of legislative, market, and regulatory issues, including a more recent focus on potential options for taking forward decarbonisation of gas networks.

As part of work to develop the new Energy Strategy for Northern Ireland, due to be finalised later this year, the Department has sought the views of a range of stakeholders, including the gas industry. The gas sector is represented on the Energy Strategy's Heat Working Group, along with the electricity sector and other stakeholders. This Group is currently looking at a range of potential options for decarbonising heat as part of the pathway to net zero. My Department has also recently written to the natural gas sector asking for their proposals for a credible, robust, and evidence based pathway to Net Zero by 2050.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy how her Department intends to promote digital innovation and business transformation in order to assist with the operation of the Protocol on Ireland/Northern Ireland and the facilitation of trade between Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18867/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I am fully committed to a digitally innovative economy. My Department's economic vision '10X Economy – an economic vision for a decade of innovation', which was recently published, seeks to enhance innovation to deliver a 10 times better economy with benefits for all. It embraces our innovative culture and sets a pathway to see more of our businesses, especially our small businesses and emerging entrepreneurs, putting new ideas into practice to build a competitive advantage in this decade of innovation.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy whether she intends to make representations to Hovis following workers industrial action over pay.

(AQW 18883/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: As you will appreciate, it would be inappropriate for me as Minister for the Economy to comment on an ongoing dispute relating to a specific employer.

Nonetheless, I would encourage both sides, if they have not already done so, to consider engaging with the Labour Relations Agency Collective Conciliation service in the hope of reaching an early and fair settlement to this dispute.

The Agency's Collective Conciliation service can help employers, employees and Trade Unions to try to reach acceptable settlements in relation to a collective dispute.

The Agency's Conciliator is there to bring a neutral, independent perspective, and to encourage parties to consider if there are options that will enable them to break the deadlock.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy to outline any further or new assistance in place to help self-employed musicians financially.

(AQW 18949/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The Department for Communities (DfC) has lead responsibility for supporting the arts sector in Northern Ireland, and through the Arts Council of Northern Ireland, has provided funding to support artists and performers with grants of up to £5,000 during the COVID-19 crisis.

DfC has recently established a Culture, Arts & Heritage Recovery Taskforce to consider measures to support reopening and recovery of these sectors in the short-term, paving the way for a longer term strategy for future years.

I would suggest therefore that this question would be more appropriate for that Department.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for the Economy further to the response to AQW 16803/17-22, can the 35 EU laws falling directly within the devolved ambit be precisely identified.

(AQW 18972/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: It is currently considered that the following 35 high-level EU instruments which apply to Northern Ireland by virtue of the Protocol on Ireland/Northern Ireland, concern policy areas which are wholly or partly devolved and engage, to varying degrees, the responsibilities of the Department for the Economy. This is the most up-to-date working assessment but is potentially subject to change.

Written Answers to Questions

The Executive Office

Mr Carroll asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister whether sports massage therapists and gyms can open on 6 July 2020; and by what guidance they must abide.

(AQW 5116/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill (The First Minister and deputy First Minister): The relaxations to the Coronavirus regulations announced by the Executive provided for the reopening of close contact businesses, including massage, from 6 July 2020 and for indoor gyms from 10 July. These relaxations applied on the basis that there is adherence to all relevant public health guidance and mitigating measures.

The NI Engagement Forum has produced "Covid-19: Working Through It Together: A Practical Guide to Making Workplaces Safer" guidance which businesses can access online at NI Business Info. Workplace guidance has been produced for Close Contact Services and, advice and guidance is also available from trade and business bodies. Local protocols for the reopening of gyms have been developed in conjunction with councils, sports and groups representing the leisure industry including UK Active.

Mr Allister asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister whether the £21.6 million identified to the Department of Finance as a pressure in relation to the victims' pension is the figure anticipated as necessary to pay these pensions in 2021/22.

(AQW 13128/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The figure of £28 million which has been quoted for Year 1 of the Scheme was an early estimate based on potential throughput of applications. In light of the information received from the Government Actuary's Department, cost estimates for Year 1 for payments are £19 million with further administrative costs of £6.7 million.

The Executive has approved £6.7 million in 2021/22 for administrative costs of the Scheme, demonstrating the Executive's commitment to the delivery of the Scheme.

The Executive Office has also provided an undertaking to the Court that payments will be made to successful applicants under the Scheme. This undertaking provides reassurance and confidence that payments will be made when they fall due under the terms of the Scheme, regardless of where the funding comes from.

We will continue to progress financial discussions with the Secretary of State and NIO in the context of their funding responsibilities for the scheme.

Mr McNulty asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister whether they plan to allow florists to open for Mother's Day on 14 March, even to permit deliveries or click and collect services.

(AQW 15027/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: All non-essential retail re-opened on 30 April 2021, this includes florists.

Shops must take all reasonable measures to manage risk, including ensuring measures are in place to maintain physical distancing.

Face coverings (<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-face-coverings>) must be worn when attending any retail premises, including any indoor area of a shopping centre, unless exempt.

Information on how to stay safe when shopping is available here:

<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-staying-safe-while-shopping>

Miss Woods asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister, further to announcements made on 18 February on COVID-19 restrictions, whether outdoor markets can sell non-essential, non-food items.

(AQW 15270/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: From 30 April, all non-essential retail, including outdoor markets, is permitted to open.

The Health Protection (Coronavirus, Restrictions) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2021 can be found at: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/publications/health-protection-coronavirus-restrictions-regulations-northern-ireland-2021>

NI Direct guidance can be found here:

Miss Woods asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) for an update on funding allocations for the payments to be made under the Victims' Payment Scheme; and (ii) to detail the estimated costs in year one.

(AQW 15361/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill:

(i) Update on funding allocations

The Executive has approved £6.7 million in 2021/22 for administrative costs of the Scheme, demonstrating the Executive's commitment to the delivery of the Scheme.

The Executive Office has also provided an undertaking to the Court that payments will be made to successful applicants under the Scheme. This undertaking provides reassurance and confidence that payments will be made when they fall due under the terms of the Scheme, regardless of where the funding comes from.

We will continue to progress financial discussions with the Secretary of State and NIO in the context of their funding responsibilities for the scheme.

(ii) Estimated costs in year one.

Officials carried out extensive scoping work to determine potential numbers of successful applications to the Scheme and engaged Government Actuary's Department to provide detailed modelling based on those estimates. This has been a challenging task because there is no definitive information on numbers who may qualify, nor of the degree or permanence of disability.

The approximate costs for payments up to the financial year end 2021/22 have been calculated as £19m.

Mr McNulty asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister where bookmakers fit into Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out Of Restrictions.

(AQW 15887/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Executive published Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway out of Restrictions on Tuesday 2 March 2021 and it is available here- Coronavirus (COVID-19) regulations: Pathway out of restrictions | nidirect (<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-pathway-out-restrictions>).

A review of the restrictions took place on 15 April and a number of relaxations were announced.

This included allowing all non-essential retail including bookmakers to re-open from 30 April 2021.

Ms S Bradley asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister what engagement they have had with the British Government to ensure the vaccination programme in Northern Ireland continues until such times as the island of Ireland is considered COVID-19 resistant.

(AQW 16212/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The vaccination programme is progressing well in line with the prioritisation as recommended by the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation.

The roll out of the programme remains critically dependent on vaccine production, supply and distribution. The Department of Health has the lead responsibility for the Vaccination Programme. Details on vaccination roll out can be found here <https://covid-19.hscni.net/>

We and the Minister of Health and the Chief Medical Officer remain in regular and close contact with our counterparts across the Common Travel Area to ensure a coordinated approach to Covid Recovery.

Mr McNulty asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to outline where (i) motor sports; (ii) car washes; (iii) Irish dancing; (iv) one-to-one music tuition; and (v) one-to-one martial arts fit into their Pathway to Recovery plans.

(AQW 16512/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Moving Forward: The Executives Pathway out of Restrictions sets out the Executive's agreed approach for moving out of the current Coronavirus restrictions.

Motor Sports, Martial Arts and Irish Dancing will be covered under the Sports and Leisure Pathway, car washes under the Retail and Services Pathway and one-to-one music tuition under the Education and Young People Pathway.

The Pathway outlines five phases of how we plan to reduce and remove the restrictions that are currently in place.

We will use a broad range of data, information and statistical indicators to inform decisions on the relaxation of restrictions when the time is right, or indeed whether we need to return to strengthening them. These decisions will be driven by data, not dates.

Mr Carroll asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to detail how many organisations are expected to access funding via the Communities in Transition programme.

(AQW 17278/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: During the first delivery phase of the Communities in Transition Project, which has run from November 2019 to date, 34 individual interventions have been delivered covering a variety of themes such as Health and Wellbeing, Community Safety and Community Development.

For these interventions, a total of 272 individual organisations are involved in the Project. Of these, 19 different organisations have been awarded contracts as lead delivery partners with 56 further organisations participating as formal tender partners. Other groups involved in the Project include community groups, churches, schools, youth clubs, sports clubs, local businesses, etc.

At an individual level, over 1,300 people have participated in the Project to date.

In terms of how many organisations are 'expected' to access funding through the upcoming second phase of the Communities in Transition Project, it would not be possible to say at this point as all phase two projects will be subject to an open tender process (which is due to commence in May 2021). This process may result in single lead organisations being appointed, or alternatively partnerships and consortia may come forward to lead delivery on individual projects. It is anticipated that a similar number of projects will be supported in the second phase of the Project as has been during this initial phase.

Mr Gildernew asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister what measures they have taken to introduce COVID-19 mandatory hotel quarantine arrangements for passengers arriving at ports and airports.

(AQW 17329/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: To stop the spread of potentially harmful variants, more stringent measures are in place for people who have travelled from or passed through a country on the list where travel is banned (the red list) in the last 10 days before arrival.

Since 19 April everyone who arrives here from a red list country must book and enter managed isolation for 10 full days from the point of their arrival, unless they are exempt. Further details can be found on NI Direct - <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-managed-isolation-and-testing-after-travel-red-list-country>

Mr Dickson asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister whether self-contained touring caravans and motorhomes are included in the recent COVID-19 restriction easing plans for self-contained accommodation.

(AQW 17470/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: A review of the current restrictions took place on 15 April and package of relaxations were announced.

From 30 April, overnight stays are permitted in self-contained tourism accommodation (such as self-catering houses, caravans and motor homes). This includes any accommodation which does not require guests to share washing facilities, toilets or kitchens.

Guests can only share holiday accommodation with the people they live with in their household, and people in their bubble.

Information on the current COVID-19 Regulations and what they mean can be found on NI Direct at: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you>

Mr Robinson asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for an update on economic and job development at the 700 acres of the former Shackleton Barracks.

(AQW 17728/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: MJM Group, the new Shackleton Site owner, agreed to regenerate Shackleton and provide 100 jobs on the 621 acre site. Pre-pandemic 23 jobs had been delivered on site.

Due to the impact of Covid 19, MJM has consolidated its workforce to its headquarters but has confirmed that it will rebuild its workforce on Shackleton in line with the easing of restrictions and economic recovery.

MJM Group confirmed recently that planning permission to build a Data Centre on site has been granted. When delivered the Data Centre will provide significant jobs on Shackleton. We are aware that the company is currently developing several other planning applications and is happy to discuss their plans for the site with you directly.

Miss Woods asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to provide the rationale for allowing poetry readings, on the hour every hour, as opposed to a musician behind a Perspex screen and socially distanced, as a way of entertainment to comply with The Licensing (Northern Ireland) Order 1996.

(AQW 18265/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Under the current regulations live music is not permitted for licensed or unlicensed premises.

Alternative lower risk forms of entertainment are permitted in line with the licensing law.

These measures allow premises to reopen safely and reduce the risk of transmission.

Further guidance for restaurants, pubs and bars is available at: <https://www.tourismni.com/covid-19/practical-guidance-for-working-safely-during-covid-19/guidance-for-restaurants-pubs-and-bars/>

Ms McLaughlin asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister (i) what instructions have been issued to local councils' environmental health officers on the implementation and interpretation of the Health Protection regulations relating to outdoor spaces for use by restaurants, bars and cafes; (ii) when these instructions were issued; (iii) why the regulations are being implemented or applied differently this year than in 2020; and (iv) whether those running restaurants, bars and cafes were notified of the different application of the rules prior to the week in which they reopened.

(AQW 18270/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Executive published a statement on 29 April confirming the position in relation to the regulations in advance of the re-opening of outdoor hospitality. It is available on the Executive Office website at: <https://www.executiveoffice-ni.gov.uk/news/executive-statement-outdoor-hospitality>

Coronavirus guidance for the hospitality sector is published by Tourism NI.

Specific guidance on the reopening of outdoor hospitality is available at <https://www.tourismni.com/globalassets/covid19/downloads/guidance/outdoor-hospitality/summary-of-restrictions-outdoor-hospitality.pdf>

Ms McLaughlin asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister given it is 19 years since the British government agreed to transfer the Ebrington site to the Executive, why a large proportion of the Ebrington site remains empty and unlet.

(AQW 18453/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: Significant progress has been made on Ebrington since The Executive Office took responsibility for the regeneration of the Site in April 2016.

It is not the case that a large proportion of the site remains unlet. All land and buildings have been let or pre-let with all site buildings having a Lease, Agreement for Lease in place, or a preferred bidder identified.

Miss Woods asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister what engagement they have had with the UK Government in relation to the Canada-UK Trade Continuity Agreement and its impact on Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18931/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: As international trade falls within my Portfolio, I have led the engagement with the UK Government on the Canada-UK Trade Continuity Agreement.

This agreement is largely a technical replication of the EU-Canada Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA), consequently engagement was principally by way of updates from the Department of International Trade on the progress of continuity negotiations.

The UK-Canada Trade Continuity Agreement contains a review clause which will see a more comprehensive negotiation take place in the future. You may be aware that only last week the Department of International Trade launched a call for evidence into this future agreement. More information on how you can contribute to this call for evidence is at: <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/trade-with-canada-and-mexico-call-for-input>. My Department will also be engaging with local stakeholders to inform offensive and defensive priorities for Northern Ireland in a future deal.

Ms Sugden asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister to detail any correspondence they have had with the UK government regarding extending the deadline for the EU Settlement Scheme, in particular for older people and those in care homes.

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: While Immigration including the EUSS are not devolved matters we acknowledge the valuable contribution EU Nationals living here make to our society, culture and economy.

Officials continue to liaise with the Home Office on the impacts of EUSS and in regular discussions have encouraged consideration of an extension to the EUSS deadline. They have also sought flexibilities and protections for those having 'reasonable grounds' to make a late application. While the Home Office has advised that extension of the deadline is not being considered, guidance on 'reasonable grounds' to make a late application has been provided which includes where someone is isolated, vulnerable or who did not have the digital skills to access the application process. This aligns with the barriers older EU Nationals may face.

To encourage uptake, the Executive Office has supplemented the UK wide public information campaign with a local campaign and since March 2021 has expanded this to cover TV, out-of-home and press advertising to help target individuals such as the elderly who are harder to reach.

Mr Nesbitt asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for an update on the work of the Interdepartmental Working Group on Mother and Baby Homes, Magdalene Laundries and Historical Clerical Child Abuse.

(AQO 1089/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The Inter-Departmental Working Group was established by the Executive to take forward work on historic Mother and Baby Homes and Magdalene Laundries and historical clerical child abuse which fell outside the terms of reference of the Historical Institutional Abuse Inquiry. The Department of Health leads the work on Mother and Baby Homes and Magdalene Laundries while the Executive Office leads the work on historical clerical child abuse.

On 26 January, we announced that the Executive had agreed an independent investigation into Mother and Baby Homes and Magdalene Laundries following the publication of the outcomes of research by the Working Group, chaired by Judith Gillespie on the matter.

The group also intends to commission a research project on historical clerical child abuse.

Since her appointment, the Independent Chair has undertaken a programme of stakeholder engagement which has included meetings with victims and survivors, political representatives and other stakeholders.

She has established Reference Groups of victims and survivors both in relation to Mother and Baby Homes and Magdalene Laundries as well as historical clerical child abuse.

Mr Middleton asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for an update on the High Streets Task Force.

(AQO 1967/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: The first meeting of the Task Force took place on 23 February, chaired by the Junior Ministers. The Task Force formally adopted its terms of reference, and the vision of:

“sustainable city, town and village centres which are thriving places for people to do business, socialise, shop, be creative and use public services as well as being great places to live.”

Since then, four subgroups have been established on:

- influencing policy and strategy;
- promoting the development of capacity;
- developing and promoting good practice; and
- influencing and shaping intervention and investment.

Meetings of the subgroups are being arranged to initiate the formal projects for each of the key functions, and a programme of comprehensive engagement and co-design with stakeholders.

Ms Mullan asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for an update on the implementation of the recommendation in the Historical Institutional Abuse Inquiry Report in relation to a public apology.

(AQO 2041/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: We are pleased to report that significant progress has been made on this key recommendation.

We met the Commissioner for Survivors of Institutional Childhood Abuse, Fiona Ryan, on 24 March. Part of our conversation focused on how best to deliver the right apology in a way that addresses the issues of most concern to victims and survivors.

Officials, in consultation with the Commissioner, are working on proposals for the content and timing of the apology.

Victims and survivors deserve a full apology, and we will confirm dates and agree consultation arrangements with them in the near future.

Mr Gildernew asked the First Minister and deputy First Minister for an update on the delivery of the Together: Building a United Community Strategy.

(AQO 2044/17-22)

Mrs Arlene Foster and Mrs Michelle O'Neill: There has been significant progress in delivering the Together: Building a United Community Strategy.

Over 24,000 young people have taken part in T:BUC Camps and five Urban Villages areas have been established.

Four Shared Education Campuses have been approved and are progressing. 10 shared neighbourhoods, providing 483 new homes, have been completed.

Over 6,000 young people have participated in the Peace4Youth programme. Over 26,000 young people have engaged with the Uniting Communities through Sport and Creativity Programme.

The number of interface barriers has been reduced by 14.

We provide some £19 million annually to support Strategy delivery.

Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on works being carried out at Learmount Forest Park, including the Footstick Bridge.

(AQW 17023/17-22)

Mr Poots (The Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs): Forest Service has over recent months carried out a selected removal of some trees in Learmount forest enabling the remaining trees to have more room to grow and improve both the aesthetic and biodiversity value of the forest.

Tree felling and extraction works are now complete and timber stacked at roadside is expected to be removed by the end of May 2021. Following completion, Forest Service will carry out remedial repair works to forest roads used for timber harvesting operations.

Recreation provision at Learmount is managed in partnership with Derry City and Strabane District Council and works associated with the footstick bridge are undertaken by the Council.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail how much his Department has spent cleaning up (i) illegal dumping on Forest Service land; and (ii) after the dumping of illegal fuel sludge cubes, in each of the last five years.

(AQW 17179/17-22)

Mr Poots: Illegal dumping on Forest Service land is a serious and concerning matter. Clean-up operations are the responsibility of Forest Service who manage over 75,000 hectares, often in remote rural areas. Over the past five years expenditure has been in the region of £456,000 and it is shown in the table below.

Financial Year	Expenditure
2016 -17	£52,000
2017-18	£67,000
2018-19	£89,000
2019-20	£66,000
2020-21	£182,000

Forest Service does not hold separate records of expenditure associated specifically with cleaning up dumped fuel sludge cubes, however from operational observation it appears that this has been a minor element of the costs set out above.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail (i) the size and location of any areas of East Londonderry which have been (a) designated; or (b) proposed for future woodland expansion as part of the Forests of Our Future programme; and (ii) the species of trees involved.

Mr Poots: When I launched the Forests for Our Future Programme I wrote to Council Chief Executives and Ministerial colleagues, requesting their support to bring forward suitable public land for afforestation. Forest Service is working with public authorities, including in the East Londonderry area, in the preparation of afforestation plans. I am advised that at this stage almost 40 hectares has been identified as potential for new woodland creation in the area. Additionally 19 applications for 27 hectares of new native woodland have been approved for planting on privately owned land. In preparing and approving the plans, each woodland project is assessed for compliance with UK Forestry Standard and environmental regulations applying to designated areas.

The Forest Service's Forest Expansion Scheme and the Small Woodland Grant Scheme will reopen in summer this year to support new planting in the winter of 2021/22. The Forest Expansion Scheme supports a wide range of species and woodland types including conifer, broadleaf and native trees. The Small Woodland Grant Scheme is designed to support new woodlands with native tree species. I would encourage land owners in East Londonderry with an interest in woodland creation to apply for these schemes.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) whether there are any Forest Service nurseries in Northern Ireland; and (ii) when the last Forest Service nursery closed.

(AQW 18436/17-22)

Mr Poots: Forest Service does not own or manage any tree or plant nurseries in Northern Ireland.

Forest Service produced seedlings and transplants to meet the requirements of its own estate from a single centralised nursery at Castledearg, which ceased plant production in 2009.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the cost (i) of additional (a) vets; (b) environmental health officers; and (c) other ancillary staff required for each border control site at each port in Northern Ireland at present; and (ii) for the projected number required.

(AQW 18470/17-22)

Mr Poots: My Department is responsible for the majority of checks at the portal inspection facilities however checks on High Risk Food Not of Animal Origin and Fish Product are carried out by the following District Councils who also contributed to this response – Mid and East Antrim Council (Larne Port), Belfast Council Port Health Authority (Belfast Council) and Newry and Mourne District Council (Warrenpoint Port).

The annual cost of staff prior to EU Exit, based on salary figures from June 2020, was approximately £1,863,408. The cost of staff currently required at each portal inspection facility is outlined in the table at Annex A below. Resourcing levels do not meet DAERA's requirement as 43 posts are not presently filled. This deficit is particularly marked for vets as only 14 of 29 posts are filled.

The cost of staff required per port for full build permanent facilities will be captured as part of the development of a Full Business Case, work on which is underway. As the proposals for infrastructure will be significant, cross-cutting and controversial, following development of the Full Business case I intend to take options for consideration and decision to the Northern Ireland Executive before commencing building work on the permanent facilities. Annex B provides very approximate staff costs currently being considered for planning purposes. These figures will be kept under continual review and adapted in response to any changes in political agreements. Both recruitment and permanent infrastructure development are currently on hold whilst an alternative is negotiated to replace the Northern Ireland Protocol which is disrupting trade between Great Britain and Northern Ireland and unnecessarily compromising Northern Ireland traders.

To support the Full Business Case, DAERA is currently conducting a workforce planning exercise to model future resource estimates. The residual uncertainties in this model concern the additional burdens that will result from the end of the current retail grace periods. Much will depend on the supply chains and distribution models used by retailers in future. For example, goods that are currently supplied from Great Britain may be sourced elsewhere and consignments may be consolidated thus reducing certification demand and the clearance procedures necessary as goods pass into Northern Ireland.

Belfast City Council has commented that due to the scale and complexity of the work, they have established an implementation programme team on a short-term basis, to plan and further develop the service during this initial period. In addition to the figures in Annex A, this team includes several other staff, including a Senior Environmental Health Officer (EHO) and a City Protection Manager EHO, as well as programme management support. This is in addition to a small pre-existing team of Port Health EHOs based at the Port Health inspection facility, comprising of 3 other EHOs not included in Annex A.

With regard to future requirements, Belfast City Council states that it is working to plan for what level of service provision will be required once retail grace periods have been removed, at which point they will deliver the full level of checks. It has commented that, "there are challenges in quantifying the scale of the increase in staff numbers required, given the continuing uncertainty in the volume of checks that will eventually be needed". As negotiations at United Kingdom (UK) / European Union level are continuing, a clear timeline for 'phasing in' additional checks once the grace period for retailers expires in October 2021, has not yet been confirmed. The Council may need to increase the staff complement significantly within the current financial year. However in the absence of an agreed timeline being confirmed by UK Government it is not possible to assess what level of increase will actually be required, the timing of when we will need to recruit, and as a result what the additional cost of this will be in this financial year. Office accommodation for any increase in staff numbers is not available in the current temporary facilities. The Food Standards Agency (FSA) has also advised that any increase in staffing requirements during this financial year, will require an in-year bid to Government spending monitoring rounds.

FSA and DAERA continue to progress work to gather better volumetric data that could inform workforce planning. Until this work is concluded, we can provide only indicative projections and estimated costs based on FSA and DAERA modelling undertaken in 2020. This data analysis produced estimates based on previous trade flows, which will likely change and adapt, and may be an unreliable indicator of future trade flows. Belfast City Council officials have raised issues with this analysis with FSA and DAERA separately. The modelling deficiencies we are aware of include:

- Gaps within the data used as an input;
- Assumptions used for the time to complete tasks; and
- Analysis of physical space requirements and staff accommodation.

The current FSA model indicates that there would need to be a significant increase in the 'on shift' teams and an associated increase in oversight roles.

It must be stressed that cost estimates are based on the best available data and a range of heavy caveats and assumptions, and exclude the extra costs for larger premises, sampling or other costs associated with a larger staffing model. Therefore, the total cost of a larger service would likely be higher."

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what considerations he has given to tougher penalties for repeat offenders under the Water (Northern Ireland) Order 1999.
(AQW 18510/17-22)

Mr Poots: Under the terms of the Water (Northern Ireland) Order 1999, it is an offence to cause pollution of a waterway. Where the source of pollution can be traced, it is the policy of the Northern Ireland Environment Agency to take enforcement action against the offender(s). Article 7 of the Water Order provides the Department with the powers to prosecute offenders and Article 8 gives the Department powers to prohibit or place conditions on any activity which has caused the pollution event or which could cause a recurrence. This can be applied to both new and repeat offenders.

The Water (NI) Order 1999 enables the courts to impose a fine of up to £20,000, or a custodial sentence or both on those found guilty of water pollution. The actual sentence applied in individual cases is, of course, a matter for the courts, taking account of the relevant sentencing guidelines.

There are no plans to amend the legislation.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of the All-Ireland Pollinator Plan.
(AQW 18600/17-22)

Mr Poots: The initial All-Ireland Pollinator Plan (AIPP) (2015-20) identified 81 science-based actions to halt the decline of pollinators. All of these actions were delivered by partners, government and non-government bodies, communities and individuals. The plan was supported by over 108 organisations including Agri-Food and Biosciences Institute, Ulster Farmers Union, Ulster Beekeeping Association, Translink, NI Water, Lidl, Keep Northern Ireland Beautiful, local councils, schools and many other businesses.

The AIPP received international acclaim, providing an exemplar of cross-border partnership delivery within a common framework. It has been used by many countries as a template for their own pollinator plans and strategies

The new All-Ireland Pollinator Plan 2021-2025 has built on these successes and includes an ambitious 186 actions to achieve six objectives to protect pollinator food sources and nest sites on both private and public land.

Two representatives from the Department sit on the AIPP Steering Group, reporting back actions and progress, and promoting local measures. Following the first AIPP, a publication was produced summarising completed initial actions entitled 'Working together for Biodiversity', available to download from the All-Ireland Pollinator website <https://pollinators.ie/resources/>

Mr Beattie asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) whether his Department has been made aware of the river bank erosion occurring at the old landfill site at the Seagoe area of Portadown as a result of items previously placed in the landfill are now falling into the river; and (ii) what plans he has to stop more items from the landfill site falling into the river.

Mr Poots: NIEA is aware of the erosion along the river bank adjacent to the Seagoe landfill site that was operated by the Local Council at the time. NIEA inspectors have visited the site and did observe materials visible on the river bank but little to no impact on the river itself. There was no evidence of leachate escape or pollution of the river at the time. NIEA has contacted Armagh, Banbridge and Craigavon Borough Council and I understand that the Council's officers are investigating the matter.

I am advised that this is an historic landfill that closed in the 1980's when landfills such as this were operated and regulated by local councils. The Landfill Directive (1999/31/EC) was fully transposed in Northern Ireland by the Landfill Regulations (NI) 2003. Landfills that closed prior to the transposition of the Landfill Directive on 16 July 2001 are outside the regulatory remit of my Department.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what was the aggregate amount of net greenhouse gas emissions in Northern Ireland in 1990.

(AQW 18701/17-22)

Mr Poots: In 1990, net greenhouse gas emissions, in Northern Ireland, stood at 24.3 Mt CO<sub>2</sub> equivalent.

This comprised of 26.1 Mt CO<sub>2</sub> equivalent of emissions from sources that were partially offset by 1.8 Mt CO<sub>2</sub> equivalent removed by sinks.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, following his recent statement on the redevelopment of CAFRE's campuses, to detail on the development plans for Greenmount.

(AQW 18707/17-22)

Mr Poots: The planned redevelopment at my Department's College of Agriculture, Food and Rural Enterprise (CAFRE) Greenmount Campus is projected to cost £32m over a 5 year period. The initial contracts for professional services including architectural services and design will be issued in August 2021 and building work will commence in 2023.

The existing buildings will be demolished and new student bedrooms, dining room, classrooms and laboratory, conference hall and office accommodation will be built in their place.

The new buildings will ensure compliance with safeguarding regulations and will be phased so that the work will have minimal impact on existing CAFRE business.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the environmental scope of the full-time and part-time courses currently provided by CAFRE.

(AQW 18708/17-22)

Mr Poots: CAFRE provides a range of courses in agriculture, horticulture, food and equine management from Level 2 to Honours degree and a Master's Degree in Business for Agri-food and Rural Enterprise. Further Education courses (Levels 2 and 3) follow a UK National Curriculum, while Higher Education courses are validated by the two Northern Ireland Universities. Environmental topics are embedded within these qualifications either as standalone units / modules within the overall qualification structure or embedded within the learning outcomes of the qualification units / modules.

The CAFRE Estate is a Leaf Marque (Linking Environment and Farming) accredited facility and students gain experience of environmental sustainable practices implemented on the estate as they develop their practical skills and knowledge.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether there are any plans to further develop the environmental scope of the full-time and part-time courses provided by CAFRE.

(AQW 18709/17-22)

Mr Poots: The courses provided by CAFRE are subject to regular review by Awarding Organisations and validating Universities, normally every five years. These reviews are undertaken to ensure that the course content meets the current and future needs of the industry which graduates are planning to enter.

In the 2020/21 academic year, CAFRE revalidated its Foundation degree in Agriculture and Technology and its Foundation degree in Horticulture with Ulster University. A core theme within both programmes is environmental sustainability.

Also in 2020/21 CAFRE validated through Ulster University an Honours Degree in Sustainable Agriculture, a top-up degree in Horticulture and a Level 6 Higher Level Apprenticeship in Food and Drink Manufacture. All three degree programmes cover a broad range of relevant environmental topics. Within the BSc (Hons) in Sustainable Agriculture students can specialise in agri-environment issues.

In addition the environmental component within CAFRE's Further Education courses has increased and as new DAERA policies emerge these will be integrated within the curriculum.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline plans to further develop environmentalism in learning for the next generation of farmers, growers and agri-food personnel.

(AQW 18710/17-22)

Mr Poots: My Department's college, CAFRE, regularly reviews the content of its education courses in line with the requirements set by Awarding Organisations and validating universities to ensure that course content is relevant and meets the needs of the industry which graduates wish to enter, whilst supporting the delivery of my Department's Policy objectives.

CAFRE's curriculum has been revised to reflect an increased focus on environmentalism. The curriculum changes include a greater focus on agri-environment and sustainability across all of our existing Further and Higher Education courses as well as the recent launch of an Honours degree in Sustainable Agriculture which will take in its first group of students in September 2021.

Further development of the curriculum will take place as future policies emerge to promote environmentalism for the next generation of farmers, growers and agri-food personnel.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the university accredited courses currently provided by CAFRE.

(AQW 18711/17-22)

Mr Poots: My Department's College of Agriculture, Food and Rural Enterprise (CAFRE) delivers a range of Higher Education programmes at undergraduate and post graduate levels across the four disciplines of Agriculture, Food, Horticulture and Equine. All CAFRE undergraduate programmes are validated by Ulster University. CAFRE also delivers the first two years of the BSc (Hons) in Agricultural Technology, which is a Queen's University Belfast (QUB) degree.

The Undergraduate "university accredited" courses currently provided by CAFRE are as follows:

Agriculture

- BSc (Hons) in Agricultural Technology (QUB degree with CAFRE delivering year 1 and year 2)
- BSc (Hons) in Sustainable Agriculture – Land Management and Agri-Business pathways (commencing September 2021)
- Foundation Degree in Agriculture and Technology

Equine

- BSc (Hons) in Equine Management
- Foundation Degree in Equine Management

Food

- BSc (Hons) Degree in Food Technology
- BSc (Hons) Degree in Food Innovation and Nutrition
- BSc (Hons) Degree in Food Business Management
- Foundation Degree in Food Manufacture and Nutrition
- Higher Level Apprenticeship Level 6 in Food and Drink Manufacture, (commencing in September 2021)
- Higher Level Apprenticeship Level 5 in Food and Drink Manufacture

Horticulture

- BSc (Hons) Degree in Horticulture (commencing in September 2021)
- Foundation Degree in Food Manufacture and Nutrition

In addition CAFRE offers a Master's Degree in Business for Agri-food and Rural Enterprise, which is validated by Queen's University Belfast (QUB).

Further information on all CAFRE education courses can be found on the CAFRE website at cafre.ac.uk.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs when the Travelling with Pets section of his Department's website will be updated to ensure all pet owners travelling to and from GB are aware of the requirements needed to prevent their pet from being quarantined when they return to NI.

(AQW 18757/17-22)

Mr Poots: The information on the 'Travelling with Pets' section of the DAERA website has been reviewed and updated several times in recent months to reflect the developments regarding the requirements and the commencement date for checks in relation to pet travel between Great Britain (GB) and Northern Ireland (NI). The most recent of these updates was made on 11 May 2021.

The 'Travelling with Pets' section fully outlines all the European Union (EU)'s pet travel requirements for pet owners with which compliance is necessary to prevent their pet from being quarantined when they return to NI. The 'Q&As for Pet Travel from 1 January 2021' section which is also regularly updated, most recently 17 May 2021, is available <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/qas-pet-travel-1-january-2021>

My Department is currently considering the next steps with regards to any enforcement of compliance with the EU's requirements for pet travel from GB to NI from 1 July, 2021. The present position is set out in the Department's Compliance protocol, available

<https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/publications/compliance-protocol-sanitary-phytosanitary-controls-and-point-entry-marketing-standards-checks-gb-ni>. It is my hope however, that sensible and pragmatic solutions can be found before then. In addition, I am continuing to engage with Ministerial colleagues to urgently seek derogations where possible from the unnecessary additional requirements.

My officials will continue to update the DAERA website as the situation develops regarding flexibilities agreed and/or changes to the current enforcement approach. I can assure you that any updates to the DAERA website will allow sufficient time for pet owners to prepare their pets appropriately for travel, in conjunction with their vet. Updates will also be communicated widely through our usual Departmental media channels.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) what action he has taken to enable the free movement of people who use assistance dogs from 1 July 2021; and (ii) what Equality Impact Assessment has been done to ensure the rights of people with disabilities who use assistance dogs are not going to be impacted by a lack of progress in this matter.

Mr Poots: The European Union (EU) Pet Travel Regulation (Regulation (EU) 576/2013), which details the documentary, health and compliance check requirements for the travel of pet dogs, including assistance and working dogs, between or into European Union Member States, continues to apply in Northern Ireland (NI), following the end of the transition phase. This is as a result of the Withdrawal Agreement and the Northern Ireland Protocol.

I am acutely aware of the impact of what I consider to be completely unnecessary new measures on those travelling within the United Kingdom (UK). I am particularly concerned about the significant implications for guide dog users, those travelling with pets to attend shows and exhibitions, hobby breeders, and the potential impact on tourism for those wishing to holiday in NI or return to NI from Great Britain (GB) accompanied by their pets.

I have therefore written to the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, George Eustice MP, and to the European Commission, highlighting these issues, and particularly the entirely unjustified requirements for rabies vaccination and tapeworm treatment, given that both the UK and the Republic of Ireland (RoI) are considered free from both diseases.

Furthermore, I have requested that urgent consideration be given to the introduction of a 'Common Travel Area' for pets travelling between GB, NI and the RoI. A joint UK/NI/RoI working group has now been established to consider where flexibilities can be achieved, and I can advise that this group has met on a number of occasions and will continue to engage on these issues.

This matter has also now been escalated by the UK Government to the European Commission seeking urgent resolution. The Commission has responded and technical discussions are ongoing. In the interim, I will continue engagement with Ministerial colleagues to urgently seek derogations where possible from these unnecessary additional requirements.

I have also confirmed, after exploring potential flexibilities, and considering pet owners have not had time to familiarise themselves with the new rules, that DAERA would delay the introduction of any checks on compliance with the EU rules on pet travel from GB to NI until 1 July 2021. As a result, there will be no routine checks on travellers' compliance, until then.

My Department is currently considering the next steps with regards this issue. The present position is set out in the Department's Compliance protocol, available <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/publications/compliance-protocol-sanitary-phytosanitary-controls-and-point-entry-marketing-standards-checks-gb-ni>. It is my hope, however, that from the discussions and processes outlined above, sensible and pragmatic solutions can be found before then.

Any progress made or flexibilities agreed in respect of the additional requirements, along with any changes to the current enforcement approach will be published on the DAERA website at <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/travelling-pets>, on the DAERA Frequently Asked Questions document <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/qas-pet-travel-1-january-2021> and communicated widely through our usual Departmental media channels.

- (ii) An equality screening exercise was carried out by DARD in 2014 regarding changes to the EU Pet Travel Scheme and the proposed amendment of the Non-Commercial Movement of Pet Animals (NI) Order 2011. This screening exercise found that there would be no impact on equality of opportunity and therefore an Equality Impact Assessment (EQIA) was deemed to be unnecessary.

As outlined, my Department is currently considering the next steps with regards this matter in considering that the EU now defines GB as a third country for the purposes of pet travel. I can assure you that all relevant equality-screening exercises will be carried out, as necessary, with regards to enforcement of the requirements as detailed above. Should the equality screening exercise deem that an EQIA is necessary it will be carried out as required.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs how much compensation was paid in 2020/21 for animals slaughtered by his Department.

Mr Poots: In 2020/21, my Department paid £22,489,334 in compensation for animals slaughtered for disease control purposes. Of this, £22,271,501 was paid in compensation relating to bovine Tuberculosis; £231,833 was paid in compensation relating to avian influenza; and £4,000 was paid in compensation relating to Caprine Arthritis Encephalitis.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the steps being taken to facilitate Northern Irish lobster and crab fishermen selling to EU markets; and for his assessment of how the effects of (a) Brexit and (b) COVID-19 have impacted on this trade.

Mr Poots: My Department has engaged closely and routinely with stakeholders throughout the pre- and post-transition period of Brexit in order to keep the Northern Ireland Fishing Industry and Seafood Sector informed.

Commencing in July 2020 and running through to the end of the transition period, a number of external webinars have taken place for the Fishing and Aquaculture sectors. These events kept stakeholders up-to-date on new information, emerging issues that had the potential to affect their business, and requirements post-transition. A specific Inshore Fisheries stakeholder event for the crab and lobster sectors was held on 11 December 2020. This included a number of exporters of crab and lobsters, Producer Organisations and fishermen themselves.

In addition a number of one to one meetings have taken place with individual businesses in this sector, the purpose of which was to provide information and a greater understanding of the I/NI Protocol, in order to allow them to look at the EU trading route options available to them.

In terms of an assessment of the impact of Brexit on the sector it has not been reported to us as one of those that has been significantly affected as a result of EU Exit and this is mainly attributed to the fact that the export of both these products has continued, albeit through a direct route to the mainland EU markets via ROI, which has experienced little disruption compared to the problems experienced when exporting from GB to the EU mainland.

This sector has however been significantly affected by the impact of COVID 19 due to the loss of export markets and the closure of the local hospitality sector. In response, since March 2020, my Department has provided the crab and lobster fleet with £394,000 towards their fixed costs of operation to offset lost market opportunities and reduced prices. I have also encouraged such vessels to apply to the UK-wide Seafood Response Fund that provided financial assistance for the same issues relating to the first three months of 2021.

I am committed to engagement with the industry representative groups on this matter. I am always receptive to considering any proposals that may emerge relating to the shipping of produce to established, or indeed new, export markets for our quality shellfish.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline his Department's powers in relation to enforcement measures to facilitate fish migration in waterways.

Mr Poots: The Fisheries Act (Northern Ireland) 1966, as amended and Sections 54, 58 and 59, in particular, set out my Department's powers to protect fish and facilitate fish (salmon, trout and eel) migration in relation to physical barriers in Northern Ireland.

The Fisheries Act also provides for my Department to grant exemption certificates on application, where it is satisfied that compliance with the Act is not required or in cases, where superior alternative protection measures can be provided. In such cases an exemption permit(s) issued by DAERA will contain such conditions as DAERA considers will be required to ensure fish protection at the site. Any such conditions imposed are legally enforceable to ensure compliance.

Fish migration can also be impacted by in-river works which may include the removal of material from the river bed. Such works in the DAERA area of responsibility require authorisation from my Department, the Loughs Agency have similar powers in their area. Under Section 48 of the Fisheries Act my Department may issue a permit to allow the planned works to take place, including specific conditions to protect fish stocks which must be adhered to by the applicant.

Water abstraction can impact fish migration, and my Department has powers under the Water Abstraction and Impoundment (Licensing) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2006 to regulate such abstractions. Where a licence to abstract water is issued, water levels of abstraction are regulated to facilitate fish passage at these sites.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, in light of the recent pollution events in West Tyrone, to outline how his Department intends to replenishing lost wild fish stock.

(AQW 18826/17-22)

Mr Poots: The main fatalities of the recent fish kill were native brown trout, but juvenile Atlantic salmon of different year classes have also perished. The river was located in the Loughs Agency area and they will have a key role in identifying any remedial measures required to assist fish stock recovery in the affected stretch.

The Loughs Agency will seek compensation for any fish mortalities once an offender has been identified and successfully prosecuted in any follow up court action. Any money awarded usually goes to fund habitat enhancement programmes to aid the natural recovery of wild fish populations in the rivers affected, rather than to simply restock with farm reared fish.

Only in exceptional circumstances, for example in cases where the entire fish population has been killed, would stocking be considered. The presumption is to aid the recovery of the remaining fish in affected rivers, rather than restocking. Fish in rivers are often genetically adapted to their particular environment and introduced fish, which are genetically different, can actually pose a risk of weakening the survival of the native fish.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the number of times his Department has raised concern regarding obstructions to fish migration in waterways in either public or private ownership, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18827/17-22)

Mr Poots: My Department has specific powers to deal with obstructions to migratory fish as outlined in various sections of the Fisheries Act (Northern Ireland) 1966 and these apply to salmon, trout and eels. I have provided details below regarding the number of incidences and breaches of legislation, detected by my staff, relating to obstructions to fish migration. Each incident will have resulted in a variety of enforcement action being taken, including prosecution of offenders.

- 2018/19 – 5 incidents under the following sections 48, 54, 58 and 59 of the Fisheries Act (NI) 1966 involving 5 breaches of this legislation.
- 2019/20 – 7 incidents under the following sections 48, 54, 58 and 59 of the Fisheries Act (NI) 1966 involving 11 breaches of this legislation
- 2020/21 – 38 incidents under the following sections 48, 54, 56, 58 and 59 of the Fisheries Act (NI) 1966 involving 55 breaches of this legislation.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail the number of enforcement actions taken against public or private bodies in relation to obstructions to fish migration in waterways, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18828/17-22)

Mr Poots: My Department has specific powers to deal with obstructions to migratory fish as outlined in various sections of the Fisheries Act (Northern Ireland) 1966.

I have provided details below regarding the number of incidences and breaches of legislation, detected by my staff, relating to obstructions to fish migration. Each incident will have resulted in a variety of enforcement action being taken, including prosecution of offenders.

- 2018/19 – 5 incidents under the following sections 48, 54, 58 and 59 of the Fisheries Act (NI) 1966 involving 5 breaches of this legislation.
- 2019/20 – 7 Incidents under the following sections 48, 54, 58 and 59 of the Fisheries Act (NI) 1966 involving 11 breaches of this legislation
- 2020/21 – 38 Incidents under the following sections 48, 54, 56, 58 and 59 of the Fisheries Act (NI) 1966 involving 55 breaches of this legislation.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his Department's assessment of the effect that municipal waste incineration will have on his Department's climate objectives.

(AQW 18852/17-22)

Mr Poots: Addressing Climate Change in Northern Ireland is a priority for my Department and I want to ensure that Northern Ireland plays its part in minimising greenhouse gas emissions.

I have commissioned resources in my Department to deliver on the commitment made by the Executive in the 'New Decade, New Approach' agreement regarding a Climate Change Act for Northern Ireland. I want to introduce this Bill and see it complete its legislative passage within the lifetime of the current Assembly mandate.

As previously advised (AQW 17135/17-22 refers) the Committee on Climate Change report on Reducing Emissions in Northern Ireland published in February 2019 highlighted that the emissions from waste are almost entirely (95%) methane, the main source of which was anaerobic decomposition of biodegradable waste in landfill sites (75%). Further analysis of the NI Greenhouse Gas Inventory indicates that waste incineration generates 0.017% of Northern Ireland's annual carbon emissions.

Whilst energy recovery can be necessary in certain circumstances, my Department is committed to applying the waste hierarchy in accordance with Article 4 of the Waste Framework Directive. Where waste cannot be prevented, reuse should be encouraged. If reuse is not suitable or the item has reached the end of its useful life, recycling should be undertaken. Only once these options have been exhausted should energy recovery or landfill be considered.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what plans his Department has to increase animal welfare standards for the local pig farming industry.
(AQW 18853/17-22)

Mr Poots: I am committed to ensuring that Northern Ireland remains at the forefront of animal welfare standards. At present, however, I do not have any plans to introduce any changes to existing standards as I am satisfied that they are sufficiently robust.

Welfare standards for pigs, and indeed for all farmed animals, are protected and enforced by my Department under the Welfare of Animals Act (Northern Ireland) 2011, and the Welfare of Farmed Animals Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2012.

The Regulations transpose into Northern Ireland law EU requirements on welfare standards for farmed animals.

I can also assure you that my Department also has in place a robust inspection and enforcement regime, and DAERA veterinary officials investigate any potential breaches of the legislation governing the welfare of pigs.

Furthermore, my Department has published codes of practice for farmed animals, including one for pigs. The Code of Practice for Pigs provides practical guidance regarding owning and keeping pigs, under all husbandry systems. Codes are reviewed in line with scientific developments.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs what steps his Department is taking to increase uptake of environmental land management schemes amongst agricultural businesses.

Mr Poots: The Environmental Farming Scheme (EFS) is the main environmental land management scheme in Northern Ireland. The first EFS agreements commenced in 2017 and, following four tranches, there are now approximately 5,000 EFS Agreement Holders. In advance of, and during, the opening of each EFS application period my officials conduct a promotional press campaign, and highlight the scheme through social media channels and on the DAERA website where information is continually available.

The College of Agriculture, Food and Rural Enterprise (CAFRE) also holds information events to support farmers in their applications, option selection and scheme understanding, at appropriate times of the year.

EFS Group projects are funded to encourage scheme uptake and support EFS agreement holders in specific, targeted areas, such as environmentally designated land, priority habitat, or water catchments. EFS Group projects are delivered by independent facilitator organisations and the five projects in place support over 500 Group members.

Scheme officials, working closely with NIEA and using geographic information system technology, have proactively contacted businesses within priority river catchments or priority habitat areas.

Throughout the year, the scheme regularly features in the Farm Advisory Service newsletter which issues to all farm businesses in Northern Ireland from CAFRE. In addition, the benefits of EFS and environmentally sensitive farming in general, are promoted through the Business Development Groups, led by CAFRE and, in particular, to the new Environmental Development Groups.

Mr Blair asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his Department's assessment of the effectiveness of the existing legislative framework on agricultural waste management.

Mr Poots: In the past, agricultural waste was not covered by general waste controls. However, the same regulations that apply to commercial and industrial waste now also apply to agricultural waste. Therefore a farm business that produces waste has duty of care obligations for that waste which means that a farmer must ensure that:

- the waste does not escape their control and that it does not cause pollution or harm while they hold it;
- they can demonstrate that they have taken into account the waste hierarchy when making decisions on the management of their waste;
- they only pass waste to someone who is authorised to take it. If they do not check, and the person they have passed their waste to disposes of it illegally, they may be held responsible, prosecuted and fined.
- they must keep records of all transfers of their waste.

The duty of care has no time limit. A farm business is specifically responsible for its waste from when it is produced until it has been transferred to an authorised person. If the farm business believes that its waste is not being managed correctly it must take action to check and prevent this.

In terms of the effectiveness of the existing legislative framework I can confirm that my officials in the Northern Ireland Environment Agency are content that the legislation governing agricultural waste is sufficient for their regulatory function.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, in relation to an introduction of a common travel area for pets travelling between GB, NI and the Republic of Ireland (i) for an update on the joint UK/ROI/NI working group; and (ii) whether his Department has received any correspondence from the UK Government or the European Commission.

Mr Poots: I have written to the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, George Eustice MP, and to the European Commission, requesting that urgent consideration be given to the introduction of a 'Common Travel Area' for pets travelling between Great Britain (GB), Northern Ireland (NI) and the Republic of Ireland (RoI). A joint UK/NI/RoI working group was established to consider where flexibilities can be achieved, and I can advise that this group has met on a number of occasions. To date, no decisions or proposals have been made by the group, however, the group will continue to engage and consider options on these issues.

This matter has also been escalated by the UK Government to the European Commission seeking urgent resolution. The Commission responded in writing on 10 February 2021. The UK Government is aware of the serious concerns and this issue is part of the ongoing discussions on the implementation of the Protocol between the European Union and United Kingdom (UK). In the interim, I will continue engagement with Ministerial colleagues to urgently seek derogations where possible from the entirely unnecessary additional requirements, in particular the need for rabies vaccination and tapeworm treatment, given that both the UK and the RoI are considered free from both diseases.

I am acutely aware of the impact of what I consider to be the completely unnecessary new measures on those travelling within the United Kingdom as a result of the Withdrawal Agreement and the NI Protocol. I am particularly concerned about the significant implications for guide dog users, those travelling with pets to attend shows and exhibitions, hobby breeders, and the potential impact on tourism for those wishing to holiday in NI or return to NI from GB accompanied by their pets.

I have confirmed, after exploring potential flexibilities, and considering pet owners have not had time to familiarise themselves with the new rules, that DAERA would delay the introduction of any checks on compliance with the EU rules on pet travel from GB to NI until 1 July 2021. As a result there will be no routine checks on travellers' compliance until then.

My Department is currently considering the next steps with regards this issue. The present position is set out in the Department's Compliance protocol, available <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/publications/compliance-protocol-sanitary-phytosanitary-controls-and-point-entry-marketing-standards-checks-gb-ni> It is my hope, however, that from the discussions and processes outlined above, sensible and pragmatic solutions can be found before then.

Any progress made or flexibilities agreed in respect of the additional requirements, along with any changes to the current enforcement approach will be published on the DAERA website <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/travelling-pets>, on the DAERA Frequently Asked Questions document <https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/articles/qas-pet-travel-1-january-2021> and communicated widely through our usual Departmental media channels.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, pursuant to AQW 18087/17-22 and in relation to the potential centralisation of funding, for his assessment of the deliverability of local priorities in regards to the future of agriculture.

(AQW 18889/17-22)

Mr Poots: I understand that the UK leaving the EU will have created some uncertainty regarding agricultural funding.

UK Government has committed to maintain the funding available to farmers and land managers in every year of this Parliament, supplementing the remaining EU funding that farmers and land managers across the UK will receive for agri-environment and rural development projects.

It is clear that business as usual in relation to agricultural support is not an option. The future is about doing more with the funding at our disposal in a sustainable and smart way. As we redefine our agricultural policies and support schemes outside of the EU, I intend to provide opportunities for all of our farmers. Schemes and support are needed to help farmers develop their businesses, no matter where they farm, to become more efficient and to maximise the sustainable returns they can achieve from the assets at their disposal.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) to detail any plans or options he has to facilitate an increase in the farm-gate prices that smaller, family-owned farms receive for their meat; and (ii) for his assessment of the threat of industrial farming on such farms.

Mr Poots: Farms operate within an open competitive environment where it is not possible, nor desirable, to engineer a situation where a particular subset of farms face a different price regime for a given product. Product differentiation is, of course, possible, (e.g. organic production) but that is not necessarily related to farm size.

'Industrial' farming is an emotive term with no particular definition. I recognise that for economic reasons, average farm sizes have been increasing for many generations and that today's modest family farm would probably seem large and "industrial" to our forebearers. In developing a new agricultural support framework, I am considering the needs of the entire farming sector. It has been a long time since we have been able to shape farm policy to the needs of our farmers and I want to make the most of this new opportunity.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (i) for an update on his engagement with farmers and the Northern Ireland Hemp Association regarding the expansion of the industry; and (ii) for his assessment of the opportunities available to farmers of developing hemp production on land currently used for other types of farming.
(AQW 18902/17-22)

Mr Poots: My response dated 8 October 2021 to your AQW 7703/17-22 outlined the engagement there had been between my officials and hemp farmers and the Northern Ireland Hemp Association at that time. There has been no further engagement on the matter since then.

My Department has not, at present, conducted any assessment of the potential for developing hemp production on land currently used for other types of farming.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for an update on the learning from monitoring wastewater for COVID-19 in Northern Ireland
(AQW 18916/17-22)

Mr Poots: The DAERA and Science Foundation Ireland co-funded a research project to establish an integrated system for all-island SARS-CoV-2 (coronavirus) wastewater surveillance and reporting was completed at the end of March 2021.

Under the project, the Queens University Belfast (QUB) established a wastewater epidemiology capability and methodologies to track SARS-CoV-2 viral levels in wastewater samples.

Wastewater sampling commenced at 2 sites on 11th January 2021 and processing of samples on 26th January 2021. On the 19th April 2021 additional sampling commenced at a further 12 sites across the province covering approximately 36% of the population of the province.

Results to-date indicate varying levels of coronavirus in wastewater treatment works sampled and trends are in line with clinical testing trends. Wastewater surveillance is currently being used to inform and support public health interventions across Northern Ireland. This work has involved close cooperation between Queen's University Belfast, DAERA, Department of Health, Public Health Agency and Northern Ireland Water.

My officials have continued to work with DEFRA, other Devolved Administrations and Science Foundation Ireland (SFI), to inform development of a NI programme for SARS-CoV-2 (coronavirus) surveillance in wastewater.

DAERA officials are continuing to work collaboratively with counterparts in the Department for Health (DoH), the Public Health Agency (PHA) and the Department for Infrastructure and Northern Ireland Water (NIW) to progress the development of an effective cross-departmental approach to wastewater surveillance.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his Department's estimate of the percentage of laws affecting Northern Ireland's environment and agriculture which now fall to be made not in Belfast or London, but in Brussels.

Mr Poots: The legislation with which Northern Ireland will need to comply is specified in Annex 2 of the Ireland/Northern Ireland Protocol. The remainder of the body of EU legislation was moved to retained legislation in UK law as a consequence of the EU (Withdrawal Agreement) Act 2020. No attempt has been made to quantify what proportion of law is covered by the Ireland/Northern Ireland Protocol vs retained law nor is it likely that any analysis could be undertaken in any meaningful way given the huge diversity and scope of law that might fall into such an analysis.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to detail (i) the percentage of lamb and beef, and derived products, sold in Northern Ireland that originate from outside (a) Northern Ireland; (b) the UK; and (c) the UK and EU combined; and (ii) any steps being made to incentivise companies and supermarkets to use Northern Irish beef and lamb.

Mr Poots: HMRC Regional Trade Statistics show that Northern Ireland imported meat and meat preparations (this includes pig and poultry meat) with a value of £442m from EU and £4m from non-EU in 2020. However, these figures do not necessarily reflect the country of origin of the product but only where the product was purchased from by the Northern Ireland importer. There are no equivalent figures available for trade from GB to NI. The Department does not hold any statistics on the origin of meat and meat products sold in Northern Ireland.

I am passionate about promoting our Northern Ireland food products. My own ambition is for Northern Ireland to be recognised both at home and abroad as a world-class food-producing region, known for its sustainability, quality, safety and knowledge based approach. I have written to the main NI retailers to encourage them to make greater use of product sourced from NI farmers.

In addition I have recently opened my Department's Northern Ireland Regional Food Programme, which seeks to raise the profile of quality regional food. This year the programme will also provide support for a NI consumer focused promotional campaign. This campaign will cover all sectors of the NI food industry highlighting the quality, sustainability and reputation of the food that is produced on local farms.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether any foreign companies currently trading in Northern Ireland, under his departmental portfolio, have access to the Investor Court System or the Investor-State Dispute Settlement.

(AQW 18983/17-22)

Mr Poots: Investment protection provisions within trade agreements are not part of my Department's remit. Trade agreements are reserved and this issue is therefore a matter for the Department for International Trade.

Mr McAleer asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline the grants available to the food processing industry, including farms with butchery.

(AQW 19045/17-22)

Mr Poots: There are no grants available from my Department for the food processing industry. My officials are currently processing a number of Expressions of Interest under the pilot Micro Food Business Investment Scheme which closed on 15 April 2021. The outputs and an evaluation of the scheme will help inform the need for any similar support going forward.

The focus of grant support available from my Department is for primary agricultural and horticultural production. Letters of Offer are currently being processed under the recent tranche 3 of my Department's Farm Business Improvement Scheme-Capital Tier 1 which supports on-farm investment projects to improve the sustainability of agricultural production holdings.

I have commissioned, jointly with Minister Dodds, the Independent Strategic Review of the NI Agri-Food Sector (ISRAF), which is considering the challenges facing both the food processing and primary agriculture industries as well as making recommendations on how to take full advantage of new opportunities.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he is aware of a technical issue with the website which prevented farmers from completing transfer of entitlements by the deadline on 4 May 2021.

(AQW 19068/17-22)

Mr Poots: I am not aware of any technical issues with my Department's website which prevented farmers completing entitlement transfers by the deadline. The website was operational throughout the application window, from 1 March to 4 May 2021. During this period my Department received a total of 6,876 transfer applications online, the last of which was submitted at 11.59pm on 4 May.

The Transfer Service was also supported by a skilled Advisory Team who were available to provide guidance and support to farm businesses if required.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs pursuant AQW 18264/17-22, (i) to detail any legislation that prohibits the lighting of fires on land owned by NIEA; and (ii) how any such legislation is enforced.

(AQW 19073/17-22)

Mr Poots: There are a number of pieces of legislation relating to the issue of wildfires and / or prescribed burning on protected sites. The Nature Conservation and Amenity Lands (Northern Ireland) Order 1985 and the Environment (Northern Ireland) Order 2002 relate to designated sites, and The Wildlife (Northern Ireland) Order 1985 (As amended) relating to protected species across Northern Ireland.

Other legislation relating to wildfires includes The Game Preservation Act (Northern Ireland) 1928, The Accidental Fires Act (Northern Ireland) 1944, The Local Government Act (Northern Ireland) 1972, The Criminal Damage (Northern Ireland) Order 1977, The Forestry Act (Northern Ireland) 2010 & The Fire and Rescue Services (Emergencies) Order (Northern Ireland) 2011.

Whilst there is no legislation that specifically prohibits the lighting of fires on lands owned by NIEA, this issue would be governed by the same legislation regulating the lighting of fires in general.

It would be a matter for the designated authority to investigate and to enforce any offences under the terms of the relevant legislation in accordance with the powers given.

Mr Wells asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs whether he has any plans to make it illegal to sell horticultural peat in Northern Ireland in line with the recent decision announced in England.

(AQW 19105/17-22)

Mr Poots: My Department currently has no plans to make it illegal to sell horticultural peat in Northern Ireland. I have approved a consultation on a draft Peatland Strategy which is intended to set out objectives for the protection and management of peatlands to ensure their future sustainability.

It is my intention to develop an Implementation Plan for the strategy which will take account of issues relating to the extraction and use of peat and peat-based products in Northern Ireland, including any future legislative needs.

Mr McAleer asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to outline any studies, or any other information, on the benefits of covering slurry tanks.

(AQW 19114/17-22)

Mr Poots: Putting a cover on an above-ground store or lagoon decreases airflow across the surface and reduces the amount of ammonia emitted into the air. This helps retain valuable nutrients within the slurry and can reduce the amount of any additional chemical fertiliser required. Impermeable slurry store covers will also prevent rain from filling the storage. This can result in more predictable store capacity and, with less water, there will be less slurry volume to store, haul and apply. Costs associated with storage, haulage and application of slurry may be reduced, particularly in areas of high rainfall. Covering slurry stores is highlighted within the Code of Good Agricultural Practice for the Reduction of Ammonia Emissions, available at the link below;

<https://www.daera-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/daera/code-of-good-agricultural-practice-for-the-reduction-of-ammonia-emissions.pdf>

The addition of a solid cover to a manure store may reduce ammonia emissions by up to 80%. Floating covers may reduce emissions by 60%. These assessments of ammonia reduction are informed by the United Nations' Economic and Social Council's Guidance document on preventing and abating ammonia emissions from agricultural sources, available at the link below;

https://unece.org/fileadmin/DAM/env/documents/2012/EB/ECE\_EB.AIR\_120\_ENG.pdf

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs for his assessment of the effect to local farmers of NI being subject to a zero-tariff, zero-quota trade deal with Australia.

(AQW 19151/17-22)

Mr Poots: The agreement of such a deal presents a high level of risk to farmers in Northern Ireland and across the UK, particularly in the beef and sheep sectors. Australia has a number of distinct advantages over Northern Ireland and the rest of the UK in terms of the land available for farming, climate and lower standards that allows its farmers to have considerably lower costs of production. Australian beef and sheep products have the potential to undercut UK producers and to reduce Northern Ireland's market share in GB which is our most important market for these products.

I have long maintained that tariff & quota protection must be retained for sensitive agricultural products and have emphasised the importance of this to UK Government Ministers. I have written to Defra Secretary of State George Eustice to express my strong opposition to the prospect of a zero tariff, zero quota Free Trade Agreement (FTA) between the UK and Australia and will continue to make this case to the Government.

Department for Communities

Ms Mullan asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the status of the Derry Housing Executive Business Case; and funding for the dispersed and emergency accommodation project for the city.

(AQW 17233/17-22)

Ms Hargey (The Minister for Communities): The Housing Executive has provided this response.

The development of additional services within Derry city is a priority for the Housing Executive due to the scale of demand within the area. As part of this development of additional services, the Housing Executive will continue to explore the opportunity to develop dispersed intensively managed emergency accommodation in Derry city.

After recently receiving confirmation of funding allocations for 2021/2022 the Housing Executive will endeavour to progress the development of a

Derry based Dispersed Intensively managed emergency scheme within this financial year.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister for Communities for a breakdown of the investment that her Department has made in the Triangle area of the Waterside, Foyle, over the past five years.

(AQW 18272/17-22)

Ms Hargey: A new Social Housing scheme is currently under construction adjacent to 66 Duke Street, which will deliver 42 units. Work started on-site in March 2019 and is due to be completed in October 2021. The total associated Housing Association Grant is £3.72m.

Social Housing Development Programme (SHDP - New Build)	Triangle Area,Foyle	0	0	0	0	£3.72m

While there has been no direct financial investment through Neighbourhood Renewal Investment Fund to the Triangle area over the past five years, DfC provide funding to Waterside Neighbourhood Partnership for a Strategy Manager who liaises with and supports all groups in the Waterside Neighbourhood Renewal Area. The Strategy Manager provides support and engages with the residents in the Triangle area to identify need, with a view to developing the most effective and efficient services, projects and interventions that will deliver on the areas identified priorities.

The Government Funding Database is a public database that holds records of applications from and funding to voluntary and community sector organisations. You may find it helpful to search the database to obtain details of funding awarded to specific organisations registered within this area. Please note, information within the database is held according to the registered address of the organisation, which may not correspond to the location of the group benefitting from the funding awarded. The Government Funding Database can be accessed at: <https://govfundingpublic.nics.gov.uk/Search.aspx>

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for Communities to detail (i) the number of people in Newry and Armagh on the housing waiting list with the Housing Executive or a Housing Association in each month of the last three years; and (ii) the number of people deemed homeless in Newry and Armagh in each month of the last three years.

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive does not report the housing waiting list information on a monthly basis but does so quarterly. It has provided the following table detailing the quarterly waiting list numbers for the Newry and Armagh Parliamentary Constituency for the last three years.

Newry & Armagh Parliamentary Constituency	All Applicants
Mar-18	1898

While the Housing Executive does not hold homeless data on a Parliamentary Constituency basis, it does retain data for Council Areas. The monthly Homeless Acceptance figures for those accepted as homeless for both the Armagh, Banbridge and Craigavon Borough Council and for the Newry, Mourne and Down District Council Area are provided below. These figures cover the last 3 years from 1st April 2018 to 31st March 2021.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities to detail the number of public sector homes in (i) Northern Ireland; (ii) Belfast; and (iii) East Belfast regarded as being under occupied.

(AQW 18504/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Information requested is available for Housing Executive tenants only.

The definition of under-occupation differs between the Social Sector Size Criteria rules and the Housing Selection Scheme rules therefore this response cites two separate data sources which define and address under-occupation differently. They should not be conflated or aggregated in any way, as this may lead to double-counting.

The level of under-occupation as determined by the Social Sector Size Criteria rules apply only to tenants in receipt of Housing Benefit or Universal Credit and the Housing Executive has advised that the latest available figures for these are as follows;

Total: 22,660

South & East Belfast: 1,852. It is not possible to provide a breakdown for East Belfast only)

In the context of the Housing Selection Scheme (HSS), under-occupation points may be awarded to a tenant of a Participating Landlord if their current accommodation exceeds the needs of their household, and all other persons residing in the dwelling, in respect of the number and size of available bedrooms. Guidance on bedroom requirements from the HSS is available at <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/changes-to-housing-benefit>. This guidance is used by the designated officer in determining whether under-occupation points are applicable. Please note that under-occupation points are only available to Transfer Applicants.

The number of Housing Executive Transfer Applicants on the social housing waiting list at 30th April 2021 who have been awarded housing needs points due to under-occupation of their home is;

Total: 3493

Belfast (combined Parliamentary Constituencies): 1095

East Belfast Parliamentary Constituency: 19

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Communities (i) for her assessment of the Report on Standards of Decision Making by the Department for Communities in 2017/2018; and (ii) what steps her Department intends to take to improve initial decision making.

(AQW 18516/17-22)

Ms Hargey: I note the comments from the Independent Chairperson who in the report foreword states “with regard to the standard of decision making, the report indicates, the performance of decision makers has been satisfactory this year with small percentage variances from the benchmark standards and provides assurance that procedures to secure on-going improvement of the service are in place”.

The 2019 report which was recently published shows an improvement in overall performance from the 2018 position against the benchmarks set. Moving forward the Department will look to maintain the gains already made and seek to drive further improvement.

Mr Allister asked the Minister for Communities how many requests her Department received for the translation of documents into (i) Irish; and (ii) Ulster Scots, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18568/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Before the establishment of the Central Translation Hub on the 19th April 2021 the Department for Communities did not have responsibility for the provision of translation services.

As at 18th May 2021 the Translation Hub has received 21 requests for Irish translation and 5 requests for Ulster-Scots translation.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for Communities how many people have fallen into rent arrears since the start of the pandemic.

(AQW 18599/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive has advised that of its tenants there are 22,356 who previously had a clear rent account that went into arrears after the emergence of COVID-19. 11,932 of these tenants subsequently have come out of arrears, leaving 10,410 new gross arrears cases at 09 May 2021.

In terms of those tenants renting from Registered Housing Associations the Department does not hold up-to-date information but has been conducting Covid-19 surveys to determine the impact of the pandemic on RHAs and tenants. However while these surveys asked about overall arrears, they did not enquire about the number of tenants who had fallen into arrears.

The Department does not hold information regarding rent arrears for those tenants in the private rented sector.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities when she will amend departmental policy to enable regeneration funding for rural towns with a population over 2500, such as Portaferry.

(AQW 18606/17-22)

Ms Hargey: I have initiated discussions with the Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs and the Department for Infrastructure, who also have a role, on developing a more collaborative approach to rural regeneration.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister for Communities (i) how many households in the private rented sector are in receipt of Local Housing Allowance, through universal credit housing costs, and through housing benefit; (ii) how many of those households have rents that exceed the local housing allowance (LHA); and (iii) of these households what the median average gap is between the rent and the LHA, for each broad rental market area, for the most recent period for which data is available since the realignment of LHA to the 30th percentile.

Ms Hargey:

- (i) As at the end of March 2021, there were 32,506 households in the Private rented sector in receipt of Universal Credit. The number of claimants in receipt of Housing Benefit who are impacted by Local Housing Allowance (LHA) is currently 31,620.
- (ii) Of the Universal Credit cases, 28,589 were in receipt of an LHA-capped housing payment that was lower than their declared rent. The Housing Executive has advised that information to answer parts (ii) and (iii) is not available for Housing Benefit claimants.
- (iii) For Universal Credit cases, the median gap between rent and LHA for each of the broad rental market areas is shown below:

Broad Rental Market Area	Median gap
Belfast	£120.30
Lough Neagh Lower	£138.48
Lough Neagh Upper	£111.29

Broad Rental Market Area	Median gap
North	£106.70
North West	£113.61
South	£139.39
South East	£110.48
South West	£124.64

For those people who experience a shortfall between their rent and the amount of Local Housing Allowance payable for their particular household needs, further financial help may be available through the Discretionary Housing Payment Scheme.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister for Communities, pursuant to AQW 15238/17-22, for an explanation for the reduction in claimants from 2016-20 from 510 to 180.

(AQW 18624/17-22)

Ms Hargrey: A comparison over the four year period from 2016- 20 cannot be made as the figures provided in AQW 15238 /17-22 are yearly figures which will vary depending on the number and type of claims received and processed each year where Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) is identified as the main disabling condition.

Applicants who suffer from ADHD often suffer from a number of comorbidities which can affect them to a lesser or greater extent than their ADHD. In instances where the comorbidity results in greater needs than their ADHD, then ADHD would not be recorded as the main disabling condition. This may also account for fluctuations in yearly figures.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister for Communities what further steps she is taking to ensure that workers are aware of their entitlements if required to self-isolate to stop the spread of Coronavirus.

(AQW 18625/17-22)

Ms Hargrey: Detailed information on the current financial support available is on the niDirect website and this is updated regularly.

The Public Health Agency (PHA) has included a link to the niDirect Coronavirus (COVID-19) and Benefits webpage under the heading - Financial Support and Practical help.

Anyone in need of further support, including those who have been identified as clinically extremely vulnerable, can contact the COVID-19 Community Helpline (Freephone 0808 802 0020, Email: covid19@adviceni.net. Text: ACTION to 81025) which provides personalised advice and referral to appropriate support depending on an individual's circumstances.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Communities to detail any grant schemes or financial assistance available from her Department to sports clubs to enhance security of their premises.

(AQW 18713/17-22)

Ms Hargrey: Sports clubs should continue to monitor the SportNI website at <http://www.sportni.net/funding/> to identify any suitable capital programmes which may become available.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities (i) how much has been allocated for neighbourhood renewal in each of the last five years; (ii) what evaluations are made to determine value for money of that expenditure; and (iii) what outcomes are used to measure those evaluations.

(AQW 18720/17-22)

Ms Hargrey:

- (i) The table attached at Annex A details how much has been allocated for neighbourhood renewal in each of the last five years to 2020/21 for both capital and revenue projects.
- (ii) At between six and twelve months after project completion, Post Project Evaluations (PPE) are completed to determine the value for money of the expenditure. The PPE compares outturn against the estimated costs and benefits identified at the initial assessment stage and generally reviews success in achieving objectives.
- (iii) Currently, the NR model is output focused with progress at project level being monitored and reported through NR Outcomes and Indicators. These provide a common set of project output and outcome indicators agreed for Neighbourhood Renewal supported projects. However work is ongoing on a strategic review of People and Place as part of the Executive's Anti-Poverty Strategy to move to an outcomes based methodology in line with the Programme for Government's Outcomes Framework.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities how many responses were received to the Northern Ireland Housing Executive consultation on its proposed Cavity Wall Action Plan.

(AQW 18722/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Housing Executive received a total of seven responses to its proposed Draft Cavity Wall Insulation Action Plan consultation.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Communities whether she will meet with me to discuss governance at Mid and East Antrim Borough Council.

(AQW 18751/17-22)

Ms Hargey: My Private Office has responded to you on this matter.

Mr Allen asked the Minister for Communities, pursuant to AQW 17715/17-22, how many cancellations due to a no reply to a renewal reminder subsequently reappeared.

(AQW 18840/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive has advised that over the 5 year period from 01 April 2016 to present, there were 28,460 applications cancelled because of 'no reply to reminder'. 7,028 of these resulted in a subsequent reapplication.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Communities, pursuant to AQW 17041/17-22, (i) to detail the reasons for non-capture of waiting list data for by children waiting for Pica assessment; and (ii) whether there are any plans to capture this information going forward across all Health and Social Care Trusts.

Ms Hargey: Pica assessment is an issue that can be identified through a range of programmes and services, therefore the capture of data would be dependent on the service to which the child was referred.

However, this is an operational matter for individual Health and Social Care Trusts and the Department is not aware of any plans to capture waiting list data in relation to pica assessment for children going forward.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Communities for an update on the introduction of the Welfare Mitigation Bill.

(AQW 18859/17-22)

Ms Hargey: A draft Bill to provide for the extension of the Social Sector Size Criteria welfare mitigation scheme has been shared with Executive colleagues.

Pending approval, my Department will continue to make payments under the sole authority of the relevant Budget Act. This will ensure that eligible people are not disadvantaged.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities, pursuant to AQW 18269 17-22, (i) why her Department does not hold records relating to the grant funding of the construction of the Derry Northside shopping centre; (ii) what happened to the legacy records from the Department for Social Development; and (iii) how long records in relation to substantial grant funding are stored.

(AQW 18865/17-22)

Ms Hargey: My Department does not hold records in relation to the grant funding of the construction of the Derry Northside Shopping Centre as legacy records for grant funding back to this period were destroyed in accordance with the terms and condition of the funding programme and in line with Departmental retention and disposal policy at the time.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister for Communities to outline her Department's next steps regarding the establishment of a mortgage support scheme following the receipt of Ulster University's Economic Policy Centre's research findings, expected later this month.

(AQW 18909/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The research has not yet been completed. Decisions on the way forward cannot be taken until the report is received and the content considered by the Department.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister for Communities whether the findings of Ulster University Economic Policy Centre's research on developing a mortgage support scheme will be made publicly available.

(AQW 18910/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The research report has not yet been completed. A decision on publication cannot be taken until the content of the report is considered and assessed for any commercially sensitive material it may contain.

Mr Allen asked the Minister for Communities how many applicants have been on the housing waiting list for (i) 1-2 years; (ii) 2-3 years; (iii) 3-4 years; (iv) 4-5 year; and (v) more than 5 years.

(AQW 18921/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Housing Executive has provided the following table detailing the number of applicants on the waiting list for i) less than 1 year; ii) 1-2 years; iii) 2-3 years; iv) 3-4 years; v) 4-5 years and vi) and more than 5 years as at 31 March 2021.

End of March 2021	Applicants
Less than 1 year	11,337
1-2 Years	9,505
2-3 Years	6,359
3-4 Years	4,045
4-5 Years	2,853
Over 5 Years	9,872

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities what criteria was used in the selection and allocation of the money for female sport within the Sports Sustainability Fund; and how grassroots clubs and eligible organisations were made aware of the funding opportunities.

(AQW 18922/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Sports Sustainability Fund was open for recognised sports Governing Bodies to apply to on behalf of either their affiliated clubs and/or the Governing Body itself. All applicants committed to the programme principles of equality, diversity and inclusion and were required to ensure that the needs of all parts of their sport (or club) were taken into consideration, and treated equitably, in submitting their application. Funding for female sport will therefore be included within club applications.

Increasing participation in sport and physical activity, particularly amongst females and other under-represented groups, is a priority for my Department and that commitment will be reflected in the new strategy for Sport and Physical Activity.

In relation to how grassroots clubs and eligible organisations were made aware of the funding, Sport NI held six briefing sessions and clinics with governing bodies prior to and over the course of the application period to provide information on the process and how to complete the application forms. Sport NI publicised the programme information through its social media channels (website, Facebook and Twitter) throughout the period it was open to applications. Eligible sport Governing Bodies similarly publicised the programme to their own clubs through their own social media channels, direct communication and also held information sessions specific to their own clubs.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities to provide a rationale for why, out of 19 financial awards made under the Sports Sustainability Fund, 16 were made to Gaelic sports associations and clubs, with 3 being awarded to all other sports associations and clubs.

Ms Hargey: The information outlined in your question is incorrect.

Full details of the breakdown are available at:

<http://www.sportni.net/funding/our-funding-programmes/sports-sustainability-fund/sports-sustainability-fund-awards-list/>

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities how many Housing Executive tenants are living in fuel poverty.

(AQW 18936/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The most recent estimate of fuel poverty by tenure was calculated based on the data gathered in the 2016 House Condition Survey. At that time, approximately 22% of all households here (159,530) were in fuel poverty.

In terms of Housing Executive-owned dwellings, ten per cent of its households (7,950) were estimated to be in fuel poverty in.

The Housing Executive plans to carry out the next full House Condition Survey in 2022, and will provide updated fuel poverty statistics by tenure.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities whether she will publish the Home Energy Conservation Authority's response to the Housing Executive's consultation on its Cavity Wall Action Plan.

(AQW 18937/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Sustainable Development Manager, who leads on HECA activities within the Housing Executive, was a member of the internal working group that prepared the Draft Cavity Wall Insulation Action Plan. Thus HECA has not produced a separate response, but I am assured that its insight and experience have contributed to the Cavity Wall Action Plan through its membership of the working group.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for Communities to detail (i) the number of regular volunteers operating in Northern Ireland; and (ii) the estimated amount these volunteers save the public purse each year.

(AQW 18961/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The most recent NISRA survey data on volunteering shows that approximate 28% of the population aged sixteen and over regularly volunteer. This equates to an estimated 416,948 people aged sixteen or over regularly volunteering.

Estimates of value are based on the number of volunteers, hours of volunteering, the type of volunteering and the national/regional average wage.

Based on an assumption that volunteers offer 2 hours per week of their time and valuing this at the average hourly wage we would estimate the economic value of volunteering in 2019/20 to be approximately £566million.

Ms Mullan asked the Minister for Communities, pursuant to AQW 17744/17-22, whether Irish Medium Education schools have to pay for translation services through her Department's translation hub.

(AQW 18988/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Executive agreed the way forward for the Translation Hub should be a phased approach which includes an in-house translation team moving to a hybrid model which will also allow access to an outsourced framework contract providing translation for all languages, use of this contract will incur a charge.

Where there is capacity to undertake translation in-house there will be no charge for the service

If demand for translations exceeds the capacity of the in-house team, as it is expected to do, the hub can arrange for the translation to be undertaken by a third party contractor. Officials have met with Comhairle na Gaelscolaíochta and further meetings are planned to ensure efficient access to the service for Irish medium schools.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Communities given that gas is currently more expensive than oil, contributes to the net zero carbon target, and is a carbon emitting fossil fuel, for her assessment of the success of the Affordable Warmth Scheme in addressing fuel poverty.

Ms Hargey: Fuel poverty is defined as needing to spend more than 10% of the total household income on all fuel use to maintain a satisfactory level of heating, that is, 21°C in the living room and 18°C in other occupied rooms. It is generally caused by a combination of three factors, poor household energy efficiency, low income and fuel costs.

The Affordable Warmth Scheme is the Executive's main intervention to fight the effects of fuel poverty by providing a range of heating and insulation measures to improve the energy efficiency of low income households.

Since the inception of the Affordable Warmth Scheme in September 2014, over £85m has been invested to improve energy efficiency for more than 19,500 low income households.

Interventions, for those in fuel poverty, available through the Affordable Warmth Scheme will need to be reviewed in the context of supporting a contribution to reducing greenhouse gases and moving to net zero carbon by 2050.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister for Communities to detail (i) the eligibility criteria applied by the Housing Executive or social housing associations to potential applicants for social housing; and (ii) any planned consultations on, or amendments to, these criteria.

(AQW 19019/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Full information on eligibility and disqualifications is available at www.nihe.gov.uk/Housing-Help/Apply-for-a-home/The-Housing-Selection-Scheme.

I recently published a Consultation Outcome Report on the "Fundamental Review of Social Housing Allocations". It details the anticipated changes that will update the Housing Selection Scheme.

I have approved two proposals which will make legislative changes to eligibility for applicants involved in unacceptable behaviour. The aim is to enable the Housing Executive to ensure that, prior to the award of a tenancy, it is content that an applicant has not been involved in unacceptable behaviour that would make them ineligible.

The proposed changes will enable a more efficient allocations system with greater tenancy sustainment, providing tools to aid decision-making around eligibility in the light of serious anti-social behaviour.

The Housing Executive has been asked to take forward implementation of the agreed proposals.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Communities whether she has sufficient resources to bring forward new affordable housing schemes funded by Financial Transactions Capital.

(AQW 19102/17-22)

Ms Hargey: I am committed to maximising my Department's use of Financial Transactions Capital (FTC) to increase housing supply and to provide people and families with a greater range of housing options.

My Department approved an allocation of £145 million last year to Co-Ownership for the delivery of 4,000 much needed homes over four years. I announced an additional £13 million allocation [to Co-Ownership] to deliver a further 422 homes in January of this year.

To facilitate the development of new and innovative intermediate housing products, my Department recently published a revised definition of affordable housing. A wider range of products should support housing supply by providing alternatives to shared ownership and more choice to suit differing household needs and circumstances.

Intermediate Rent is one such product in development, aimed at delivering a new supply of affordable, good quality, well-managed homes with longer tenancies. It can provide a better, more affordable rental solution for some, and act as a stepping stone into low-cost home ownership for others.

An Over 55s shared ownership product is also under consideration, which will support those who wish to downsize or move to more suitable homes to do so.

A key part of my ambitious programme to deliver transformative change across housing is the development of a Housing Supply Strategy.

I recently launched a Call for Evidence to inform the development of the draft Strategy. It includes questions about if and how we might better utilise public funding, such as FTC, more effectively to increase housing supply.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister for Communities how people make an appointment to obtain a national insurance number.

(AQW 19106/17-22)

Ms Hargey: People can contact the National Insurance Number Helpline on 028 71 855407 or 028 71 855406. The Helpline is open from 9.00am-4.00pm Monday to Friday and an appointment will be arranged at the earliest opportunity.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Communities, pursuant to AQW 17956/17-22, how her Department will encourage employers to retain a trainee on completion of their job opportunity.

(AQW 19134/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Department will be encouraging employers to retain the young person, particularly as they will have invested time and resource to provide them with the necessary skills required.

The Department is also working closely with the Department for Economy to promote the Apprenticeships Scheme as another pathway for employers to continue to retain the young person. Moving across to an apprenticeship opportunity would also allow the young person to further develop their skills as this would lead them to undertake an accredited level of NVQ training.

Should a young person not be kept on by their employer at the end of the JobStart Scheme Departmental Work Coaches will assist with jobsearch activities to help find a suitable alternative opportunity for the young person through their newly acquired skills.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Communities how much funding has been allocated to community organisations in Bangor for the Small Pockets of Deprivation programme, for this financial year

(AQW 19159/17-22)

Ms Hargey: The Small Pockets of Deprivation (SPOD) funding programme is administered by the Housing Executive on behalf of the Department for Communities. There are two designated SPOD areas within Bangor; Harbour and Rathgill.

In 2021/22, £123,829.05 grant funding will be made available to community residents through programmes and activities coordinated by North Down YMCA and Rathgill Community Association respectively.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Communities how much has been allocated to community organisations in Bangor for neighbourhood renewal, for this financial year.

(AQW 19161/17-22)

Ms Hargey: My Department through the Neighbourhood Renewal Investment Fund has provided financial support of £135,603.37 in the 2021/2022 financial year to three community organisations in the Kilcooley Neighbourhood Renewal area in Bangor.

Neighbourhood Renewal areas do not have individual budgets. Funding is allocated to projects working in the areas.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister for Communities, given that 40% of mixed doubles curling playing nations are competing at the World Championships in Aberdeen for eight 2022 Winter Olympic spots, how she plans to support curling locally as an age-inclusive, mixed-ability-accessible, non-politicised sport.

(AQW 19164/17-22)

Ms Hargey: Sport NI did not receive any requests for support from the sport of curling ahead of the World Championships which took place in Aberdeen between 17th and 23rd May.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Communities how her Department can help improve sports infrastructure development in Donaghadee.

(AQW 19217/17-22)

Ms Hargey: My Department recognises that the provision and development of good quality, modern sports infrastructure is something that continues to require ongoing investment by central and local Government, sports Governing Bodies and clubs.

Sport NI is a statutory partner in the community planning process and engages regularly with the respective Councils and the other statutory bodies on identifying the needs of local communities, including in the North Down area. Such engagement explores the need for the provision and development of sporting infrastructure.

Clubs and other organisations who wish to develop their sports facilities should monitor the Sport NI website which provides details of grant programmes that may be suitable for those seeking capital funding. The information on the website is updated regularly.

Department of Education

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Education pursuant to AQW 17833/17-22, to detail (i) the SAGE evidence quoted for a reduction of transmission COVID-19; and (ii) whether this is within school age population.

(AQW 18590/17-22)

Mr Weir (The Minister of Education): The advice from the Department of Health (DOH), the Chief Medical Officer (CMO) and the Public Health Agency (PHA) is that wearing face coverings in environments with reduced capacity for social distancing is an effective risk mitigation for the wearer and surrounding pupils. The Scientific Advisory Group for Emergencies (SAGE) evidence suggests that there is a 7% - 45% reduction in transmission of the COVID-19 virus when wearing face masks. The recommendation has been for post-primary school-age children to wear masks. There has been no requirement for primary school children to wear face masks.

The PHA continues to publish weekly and monthly bulletins on the COVID-19 pandemic in Northern Ireland. Information on school COVID-19 incidents is based on situations reported to the PHA COVID School Team. Information on cases associated with schools are provided every week in the bulletin. The information gathered by the PHA schools team, together with information produced by expert groups across the UK and beyond is used to brief Ministers in the NI Executive to inform their decision making on measures to control COVID-19.

Ms Ennis asked the Minister of Education to detail the progress made to date on the establishment of autism specific learning centres in the Newry Mourne and Down Council area.

(AQW 18596/17-22)

Mr Weir: The table below shows the existing Education Authority (EA) autism provision for 88 children and young people in the Newry, Mourne and Down council area in both primary and post primary schools and the status of each. Currently, there is no approved autism provision within post primary schools.

School Name	Type of Provision	Status	Classes	Capacity	Key Stage
Cumran PS	Social & Communication Unit	Approved	2	16	F, 1 & 2
Kilkeel PS	Autism Specific Class	Approved	1	4	F & 1
St Dallans PS, Warrenpoint	Autism Specific Class	Temporary	1	8	1
St Joseph's Convent PS, Newry	Autism Specific Class	Approved	1	8	F & 1
St Joseph's PS, Bessbrook	Autism Specific Class	Approved	2	16	F & 1
St Paul's HS, Bessbrook	Autism Specific Class	Temporary	1	4	3
The High School Ballynahinch	Social & Communication Unit	Temporary	4	32	3 & 4

The EA is currently reviewing pressures across the region including Newry, Mourne and Down Council area, in relation to the placement of children in specialist provision in mainstream and special schools for September 2021. The need for additional specialist provision in this area is recognised and the EA has made contact with primary and post primary schools, to gauge their interest with a view to establishing or expanding provisions from September 2021, on a temporary basis, based on identified need and availability of accommodation

In addition, the EA intends to provide additional classes for children with autism needs and St Joseph's Convent PS, Newry, will expand provision to include a new specialist provision (learning) class for KS2 pupils from September 2021.

The EA is currently considering responses received to its consultation on Special Educational Needs (SEN) Area Planning Frameworks for Special Schools and Specialist provision in mainstream schools, (October 2020 - closing in April 2021). The outcome of the consultation will determine how specialist provision in mainstream will be established in the future.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Education to detail the number of (i) teachers; and (ii) classroom/learning assistants employed in schools in each of the last five years.

(AQW 18677/17-22)

Mr Weir:

- (i) The number of teachers employed in schools in each of the last five years is given in the table below.

Year	Headcount of teachers	FTE teachers
2015/16	19,835	18,571
2016/17	19,778	18,489
2017/18	19,867	18,490
2018/19	19,762	18,336
2019/20	19,904	18,423

Source: Teacher workforce statistics in grant-aided schools in Northern Ireland 2019/20.

Notes:

- Figures are based on a reference week in the autumn term.
- Teachers employed at more than one school are counted at the school at which they work the majority of their time.
- Full-time equivalent teacher numbers are based on a 32.4 hour week.

- (ii) The number of classroom assistants employed by the Education Authority and voluntary grammar and grant maintained integrated schools in each of the last five years is given in the table below.

Year	Headcount	FTE
2016/17	10,544	6,609
2017/18	10,969	6,831
2018/19	11,165	6,868
2019/20	11,389	6,940
2020/21	12,561	7,893

Source: Education Authority and annual survey of voluntary grammar and grant maintained integrated schools non-teaching staff.

Notes:

- Figures are based on a reference week in the autumn term.
- The EA data will capture temporary employees covering substantive post holder as the current system cannot extract this data.
- For EA data, if an employee was recorded on the timesheet for the relevant week, and the hours recorded in that week were not zero, the post and the employee are included in the data.
- For EA data, if an employee was recorded as being absent within the week, they were not included in the data.
- For VG and GMI figures classroom assistants include general, special needs and add. Special needs classroom assistants.
- Headcounts figures mean a part-time classroom assistant will count the same as a full-time classroom assistant.
- For VG and GMI schools classroom assistant headcount may include double counting if someone works in more than one schools.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Education what awareness is given to Foetal Alcohol Syndrome Disorder in the curriculum. (AQW 18800/17-22)

Mr Weir: The curriculum provides schools with considerable flexibility to choose contexts, topics and themes appropriate to their learners, whilst adhering to a framework of statutory minimum requirements. Teachers can provide awareness about Foetal Alcohol Syndrome Disorder (FASD) within Personal Development and Mutual Understanding (PDMU) in primary schools and Learning for Life and Work (LLW) in post-primary schools, under the topic of Personal Health.

In PDMU in primary schools, pupils are taught about the importance of rights, responsibilities, making good choices and being aware of the effects of drugs and alcohol on their own health and others. The Council for the Curriculum, Examinations and Assessment's (CCEA) non-statutory guidance also recommends that at the end of Key Stage 2 pupils should learn, in an age-appropriate way, how babies are conceived, grow and born.

In LLW in post-primary schools, pupils explore: the concept of health as the development of a whole person; investigate the influences on physical and emotional / mental personal health, including addiction; and investigate the effects on the body of legal and illegal substances and the risks and consequences of their misuse. In addition, Science and Technology includes requirements within the Science strand for pupils to learn about alcohol use during pregnancy. There are also a number of qualifications at Key Stage 4 and post-16 that explicitly cover issues linked to FASD.

CCEA provides curricular guidance and teaching support materials for use in schools and have produced a range of resources that cover issues linked to FASD. As with all areas of learning within the curriculum, it is a matter for teachers to decide how the curriculum should be delivered, which resources to use, and which specific topics should be covered.

Furthermore, my Department tasked a Working Group to produce a trauma and attachment informed resource booklet 'Putting Care into Education' which includes information on FASD and how this may impact on the child's ability to engage with learning. In January 2019, the booklet was delivered to every school in Northern Ireland with multiple copies for school staff in an attempt to raise awareness of this issue.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister of Education, given the assertion neither he nor his Department have any management responsibility or legal control over school governors, why the Education Authority requires governors to attend their training courses.

Mr Weir: Boards of Governors play an important role in supporting schools to ensure that pupils have every opportunity to develop to their full potential within a caring and stimulating learning environment. The Department and the Education Authority have different responsibilities. For instance the Education Authority provides governors with a range of resources and support, including training, to help them become more effective. Training is not mandatory for Governors, however it is expected that they would attend the following:

Training Course	Number / Category of governor required to attend
The Safeguarding Role of the Chairperson and Designated Governor	Chairperson and Designated Governor
Child protection Awareness Training Level 1	All governors
An Introduction to Recruitment and Selection	At least one member of each board of governors who will sit on recruitment panels

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Education what engagement he has had with UNISON on the issue of nutritious free school meals.

(AQW 18913/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Regional Director of UNISON has written to me recently in relation to the campaign by UNISON calling for universal nutritious free school meals for all children. I have had no other engagement with UNISON to date on this issue.

I have recently agreed to a review of the free school meal and uniform grant eligibility criteria. The purpose of the review is to ensure that free school meals and uniform grants are available to support the most vulnerable children in our society. The option to provide universal free school meals to all or certain year groups of pupils will be considered as part of the review. In developing options and making recommendations for the review of free school meals and uniform grants, the review team will consult widely with relevant stakeholders including UNISON and other trade unions.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Education whether he intend to bring forward legislation on nutritious free school meals during the current Assembly mandate.

(AQW 18914/17-22)

Mr Weir: Articles 58 and 59 of the Education and Libraries (NI) Order 1986 require the Education Authority (EA) and Boards of Governors (BoGs) of Voluntary Grammar Schools (VGS) and Grant Maintained Integrated Schools (GMIS) to provide milk, meals and other refreshments in accordance with arrangements approved by the Department. The arrangements approved by the Department outline, among other things, the eligibility criteria for free school meals and the compulsory nutritional standards for school lunches. <https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/publications/milk-and-meals-arrangements-education-authority-voluntary-grammar-and-grant-maintained>

The current nutritional standards have been in place since 2007 and require updating to ensure they are in keeping with up to date government guidance on healthy eating. The Department undertook a public consultation on the draft "Update to Nutritional Standards for School Food" from 30 January to 27 March 2020. <https://www.education-ni.gov.uk/articles/nutritional-standards>

However due to competing priorities as a result of the Covid-19 pandemic, this work was paused. Work on the analysis of the responses has recently been restarted and it is hoped to finalise the updated nutritional standards soon to enable their introduction, on a phased basis, from September 2021.

I have recently agreed to a review of free school meals and uniform grant criteria and I will consider any amendment to the current legislation as a result of that review. That review is unlikely to be completed within the current Assembly Mandate.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister of Education when face to face SureStart services will resume.
(AQW 18939/17-22)

Mr Weir: Support provided by Sure Start to children and families facing disadvantage has never been so critical as during the COVID pandemic. As a positive first step, the Executive agreed my proposals for resumption of child only Sure Start services which have been in place from 25 March.

It is also important to support Sure Start parents and families who have been impacted by the pandemic, so that they in turn can support the development of their children; the Executive approved my proposals, allowing all remaining Sure Start services to restart from 24 May.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Education whether any foreign companies currently trading in Northern Ireland, under his departmental portfolio, have access to the Investor Court System or the Investor-State Dispute Settlement.
(AQW 18994/17-22)

Mr Weir: There are no foreign companies currently trading in Northern Ireland which fall within my Departmental portfolio.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Education to detail the number of (i) fully funded; and (ii) part-funded nursery places available for the next school term.
(AQW 19007/17-22)

Mr Weir: Pre-school education provision is provided through a mixed model of full-time places (provided for at least 4 hours and 30 minutes on each school day) and part-time places (provided for at least 2 hours 30 minutes and less than 4 hours 30 minutes). All pre-school places are fully funded.

The pre-school admissions process for the 2021-22 academic year is currently underway, so final figures are not yet available. The Education Authority has advised that at the end of stage one of the process, 8367 full-time and 12530 part-time places had been offered, with 627 full-time and 1774 part-time places still available for children not yet in receipt of an offer of a place in a setting of their parents' preference.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Education what consideration has he given to the rise in the prevalence of the B.1.617.2 COVID-19 Indian variant in relation to the recommencement of public exams.
(AQW 19020/17-22)

Mr Weir: Decisions in relation to the recommencement of public exams in 2022 will continue to be informed by up-to-date medical, scientific and public health advice from the Department of Health, the Chief Medical Officer, the Assistant Chief Scientific Advisor, the Public Health Agency and the Scientific Advisory Group for Emergencies.

The Department will review any changes to that advice and act on their guidance.

Contingency arrangements for alternative awarding based on centre professional judgement will be in place should they be required.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Education for his assessment of the Forest Schools initiative.
(AQW 19050/17-22)

Mr Weir: My department has not conducted a formal assessment of Forest Schools. I am aware that a number of schools use the Forest School initiative. It would however, be the responsibility of individual schools to determine how beneficial or cost effective this initiative is within their own school setting.

I am aware of the benefits of outside play, exploration and supported risk taking and am hopeful that the Summer Scheme being provided this year by schools and the EA's Youth Sector Teams will provide opportunities for similar activities to take place.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Education to outline how many kitchen canopy cleaning inspections were carried out in schools in the Belfast area in the last 12 months.

(AQW 19091/17-22)

Mr Weir: The 2020/21 canopy inspection programme was not commenced due to the Term Service Contractor (TSC) for the Belfast area ceasing their contract at short notice.

The guidance for the cleaning of kitchen canopies recommends annual inspection as a minimum. However, as meals kitchen locations were closed for the majority of the 2020/21 year, coupled with a fully compliant 2019/20 programme, until a new contract is awarded, any maintenance issues relating to kitchen canopy cleans will be addressed by the Education Authority as they arise.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Education for an update on the future of youth services in Castleberg.

(AQW 19115/17-22)

Mr Weir: The EA continues to work with the Principal of Castleberg High School to facilitate the re-opening of the Derg Valley Youth Wing from September 2021.

The school, in partnership with the EA Area Youth Worker, has established a focus group of 13 to 16 year olds to develop plans for the facility and ensure an adequate assessment of need of children and young people in the Castleberg area is completed.

From September 2021 onwards a core youth service programme will be developed, based on the local assessment of need and will consist of youth work programmes, projects and engagement on aspects of health and wellbeing, safety and stability, learning and achieving, good relations, participation, inclusion, diversity and equality of opportunity.

The EA has approved the deployment of a fulltime Youth Support Worker in Charge (YSWinC) to oversee the youth service programme and provide outreach services. Additionally, and to oversee service delivery when the fulltime worker is operating outreach, a part-time YSWinC, supported by two assistant youth support workers has also been approved. This core youth work team will be supported by an Area Youth Worker and a Senior Youth Worker 1, with responsibility for Strabane and the outlying areas (including Castleberg).

Current youth provision in the area includes young people participating in projects such as Minds Matter and Transition projects at the Strabane Resource Centre. A summer programme is also planned that will cater for 5 to 18 year olds and provide fun activities such as Creative Arts and Yogi/Yoga Workshops, 3 educational visits to the Belfast Zoo, Tayto Park and Jungle NI and conclude with a celebration event involving parental engagement as part of a wider fun day. Young people from the focus group will receive training to enable them to volunteer throughout this summer programme.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Education to detail the summer schemes his Department funds in West Tyrone.

(AQW 19119/17-22)

Mr Weir: Planning for delivery of the Summer Scheme 2021 is in progress and schools have been given until Friday 28 May to confirm if they wish to proceed in facilitating a scheme this year.

DE officials will analyse the information provided by schools and following that, will confirm budgets prior to schemes starting.

The EA Youth Service also provides a range of summer interventions, including Planned Interventions (summer diversionary activity), T:BUC Camps and, for 2021, a summer youth programme to support young people to re-engage with their peers and provide support in relation to their Covid journey. Applications for these interventions, which have now closed, were open to youth groups across the province, including in West Tyrone.

Mr Lyttle asked the Minister of Education to detail (i) the roles and responsibilities of the Education Authority Child Protection Support Service; (ii) how parents refer a complaint to the EA CPSS; (iii) the threshold for EA CPSS to refer a complaint to Social Services; and (iv) how many times EA CPSS has referred a parental complaint regards the actions of (a) a school, (b) school staff or (c) a board of governors to social services.

Mr Weir: I can confirm the following in answer to your questions regarding the Education Authority's (EA) Child Protection Support Service (CPSS).

- (i) The CPSS works regionally with schools, youth provisions and other services within the EA in supporting compliance with safeguarding and child protection responsibilities. Core activities relate to a wide range of functions including provision of advice, support to the EA Board, child protection training, multi-partnership working through operational and strategic groups, participating in Safeguarding Board for Northern Ireland sub-groups and the registration, regulation and protection of children involved in entertainment and employment.
- (ii) Information regarding the CPSS is available via the EA website and the following link provides advice on how parents can raise a complaint: <https://www.eani.org.uk/contact/comments-suggestions-and-complaints>

In addition to this, anyone can make contact with the CPSS via their dedicated helpline on 028 95985590.

In terms of the threshold for the CPSS to refer a complaint to Social Services, each case is assessed on its own merit within the defining principles in the Children (Northern Ireland) Order 1995 and with reference to guidance contained in:

- (iii) 'Co-Operating to Safeguard Children and Young People - Department of Health 2017' and 'DE Circular 2015/13 Dealing with Allegations of Abuse Against a Member of Staff'.
- (iv) Parents are encouraged to contact Social Services directly with any concerns and only in very small number of cases (less than 5), has the CPSS made a referral directly to Social Services.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Education pursuant to AQT 1296/17-22, to detail the processes or actions that would be taken by the Education Authority if a school, without good reason, does not follow their advice, and does not have their decisions or actions endorsed by EA.

(AQW 19140/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Board of Governors of a school is a body corporate and responsible for making a wide range of decisions affecting the running of the school.

Where the Education Authority is called upon to provide advice to a controlled school on any matter, this is provided pursuant to all relevant procedural and legislative frameworks as appropriate.

It can occur that the Education Authority provides advice on a matter, and the Board of Governors decides to take an alternative course of action.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Education what action his Department has taken to progress the Independent Review of Integrated Education Recommendations 1 and 4.

(AQW 19145/17-22)

Mr Weir: As both recommendations impact on the way an integrated school is defined, I have ensured that both recommendation 1 and recommendation 4 of the Independent Review of Integrated Education will be considered as part of the work of the forthcoming Independent Review of Education.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister of Education (i) for his assessment of the reasons for NI pupils' consistent out-performance of English and Welsh students at GCSE and A-Levels; (ii) how NI pupils compare with their counterparts in Scotland, taking into account the different qualifications awarded; (iii) how NI pupils compare with their counterparts in the Republic of Ireland, taking into account the different qualifications awarded; and (iv) for his assessment of the reasons for NI pupils' comparative performance against Scottish and Irish jurisdictions.

Mr Weir: Whilst comparative data for Scotland and the Republic of Ireland is unavailable due to the difference of qualifications involved, Northern Ireland GCSE and A level results compare very favourably by comparison to other jurisdictions offering GCSEs and A levels.

By way of example, information from the Joint Council for Qualifications (JCQ) shows that in 2019 82.2% of GCSE grades awarded to students in Northern Ireland were A* to C. This was over fifteen percentage points higher than the proportion of A*-C grades attained by GCSE candidates in England and Wales.

Similarly at A level, in 2019 84.8% of grades awarded to students from Northern Ireland were A* to C. This was over eight percentage points higher than the proportion of A*-C grades awarded in the other jurisdictions.

These results reflect the high quality of teaching in Northern Ireland, the knowledge and skills of our learners and the positive attitudes of students towards their learning.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister of Education when pupils, who are not taking practical assessments for examinations or tuition, will be permitted to sing inside school premises.

(AQW 19178/17-22)

Mr Weir: To reflect the latest public health advice, the Education Authority (EA) recently revised their Music Unlocked guidance for schools to say that one-to-one indoor singing lessons may resume for all pupils. This updated guidance is available on the EA website.

The public health advice and subsequent position that singing indoors in groups is not permitted in schools remains unchanged. My Department will continue to engage with the Department of Health to ensure that all restrictions on singing are lifted as soon as it is safe to do so.

Mr Harvey asked the Minister of Education when a decision will be made regarding the proposed amalgamation of St Patrick's Grammar School, De La Salle High School and St Mary's High School in Downpatrick.

(AQW 19194/17-22)

Mr Weir: The statutory two-month objection period for these Development Proposals (DPs) ended on 29 March 2021. During this period my Department received a significant volume of responses and will require time to assess these alongside all other available pertinent evidence.

Unfortunately I am unable to offer a specific date for a decision, but I am acutely aware of the need for certainty for the interested parties and I will not delay a decision any longer than necessary.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Education whether he intends to introduce financial education and planning as part of the post-primary curriculum.

(AQW 19206/17-22)

Mr Weir: Financial Capability is already a statutory element of our curriculum. Schools are required to provide pupils with opportunities to develop a range of skills to promote independence through planning, managing and using resources, across a number of areas of learning.

At post-primary level, pupils should be enabled to develop further their competence as discerning consumers in preparation for independent living. At Key Stage 4, pupils can be taught to understand the implications of credit and debt including overdrafts and different loan arrangements, and ways to compare interest rates, within the area of financial knowledge and understanding. Financial responsibility is also taught which raises awareness and understanding of the wider implications of personal financial decisions.

The Council for the Curriculum, Examinations & Assessment (CCEA) offers a number of qualification options that enable young people to develop their Financial Capability skills and use this learning to gain certification. Such qualifications include: GCSE Learning for Life and Work; Level 1 and 2 Preparation for Adult Life; as well as established qualifications in Mathematics and Economics. The CCEA GCSE in Learning for Life and Work includes substantial content on making financial decisions based on a knowledge of personal loans, current accounts and different savings schemes. This also includes learning about the consequences of poor budgeting and the dangers of fraud and identity theft.

Through its Financial Capability microsite, CCEA provides schools with resources and links to case studies and ideas on how to provide opportunities for pupils to engage in activities related to money management, relevant to all Key Stages. As with all areas of learning within the curriculum, it is a matter for teachers to decide how the curriculum should be delivered, which resources to use, and which specific topics should be covered.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister of Education (i) to provide an update on the Sign Language GCSE being tested by Signature in England; (ii) whether testing has completed; and (iii) whether he is committed to adding the Sign Language GCSE as a choice for Northern Ireland students.

(AQW 19255/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Department for Education (England) is developing content for a potential British Sign Language (BSL) GCSE and proposes to consult on this later this year. As Northern Ireland operates an open qualifications market, if this process leads to accreditation of a qualification by Ofqual, it would then be available for delivery by examination centres in Northern Ireland, once it goes through the standard qualification approval process.

There are several stages to go through before a qualification becomes accredited for use by learners and the GCSE currently being developed is in the early stages. At this point, it is not possible to provide a timescale for when the rollout of this qualification will take place.

Ms Bunting asked the Minister of Education, given some families are temporarily rehoused by the Northern Ireland Housing Executive in other constituencies due to homelessness, what consideration has he given to provide (i) temporary transport; and (ii) temporary financial assistance to make sure that children are able to get to and home from school.

Mr Weir: The Home to School Transport policy enables the Education Authority (EA) to consider cases for home to school transport assistance which fall outside of the policy provision where there are exceptional circumstances. Whilst these cases are dealt with by the EA on a case by case basis, the forced relocation of a family may be considered as an exceptional circumstance.

Parents can apply for transport assistance for their children on the grounds of exceptional circumstances using forms which are available on the Education Authority website. The application will then be considered by the EA Exceptional Circumstances panel and if the circumstances are held to be exceptional, transport assistance can be provided on a temporary basis.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister of Education for his assessment of the impact on pupils and staff of Saint Conor's College being split across two sites.

Mr Weir: I recognise that operating on a split site is far from ideal and that is the reason why the protocols for selecting schools for capital investment include a factor relating to split site operation.

Saint Conor's College was included in my Major Capital Works Programme announcement of 23 June 2020. Work is currently ongoing to procure an Integrated Consultant Team to undertake an initial feasibility study to identify potential options for providing accommodation and outdoor space suitable for a school with an approved enrolment of 730 pupils.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Education for an update on his plans to hold a Strategic Insight Lab on childcare.
(AQW 19307/17-22)

Mr Weir: The Department is still heavily involved in developing and delivering Covid related support schemes for the childcare sector and this continues to require significant staff time. However, we have begun to scope out the work required to progress the Executive Childcare Strategy, including the Strategic Insight Programme.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Education given its implications for recruitment into the Maintained school sector, to detail his plans to abolish the Catholic Certificate in Education.
(AQW 19391/17-22)

Mr Weir: There are currently no active proposals being brought forward in relation to the removal of the Certificate in Religious Education. Employment matters are kept under constant review.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Education whether he intends on collating weekly school data regarding COVID-19 to share with the Committee for Education.
(AQW 19430/17-22)

Mr Weir: Management information on pupil and workforce attendance, including COVID-19 absences, is already published each week on the Department of Education website, and is therefore accessible by the Committee for Education, and all other interested parties.

The information is derived from two sources: a weekly survey sent to all grant-aided schools and pre-school education settings to gather information on workforce attendance; and a cumulative weekly report on pupil attendance taken directly from the School Information Management System (SIMS) to avoid any further burden being placed on schools. COVID-19 specific absence codes have been included in SIMS since 4 January 2021.

These publications are available at Management information on attendance of pupils and workforce in schools | Department of Education (education-ni.gov.uk).

Department of Finance

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Finance what is the budget for the Troubles-related Incident Victims Payment scheme; and whether the budget has received Executive approval.
(AQW 17208/17-22)

Mr Murphy (The Minister of Finance): The Executive has approved £6.7 million in 2021/22 for administrative costs of the Scheme, demonstrating the Executive's commitment to the delivery of the Scheme.

The Executive Office has also provided an undertaking to the Court that payments will be made to successful applicants under the Scheme. This undertaking provides reassurance and confidence that payments will be made when they fall due under the terms of the Scheme, regardless of where the funding comes from.

Ministers will continue to progress financial discussions with the NIO on the basis that it remains their shared view that the Scheme should be funded by the Westminster Government as an addition to the Block Grant and in a manner consistent with the Statement of Funding Policy.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Finance whether he intends to increase the financial support made available to the Mourne Heritage Trust.

Mr Murphy: I refer the Member to the answer provided in AQW 18765/17-22.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Finance whether he intends to increase the financial support made available to the National Trust.
(AQW 18762/17-22)

Mr Murphy: I refer the Member to the answer provided in AQW 18765/17-22.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Finance to detail his request to the Minister of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs to establish a cross-departmental task force to address the recent wildfire in the Mournes.
(AQW 18763/17-22)

Mr Murphy: I refer the Member to the answer provided in AQW 18765/17-22.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Finance what level of funding will be made available for a restoration project in the Mournes.

(AQW 18764/17-22)

Mr Murphy: I refer the Member to the answer provided in AQW 18765/17-22.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister of Finance for the latest data held by his Department on citizens (i) who list as a first language; or (ii) report fluency in (a) Irish; (b) Polish; (c) Lithuanian; (d) Mandarin or Cantonese; (e) Urdu; and (f) Arabic.

(AQW 18807/17-22)

Mr Murphy: Statistical information on first language or language fluency is unavailable.

However the 2011 Census included a question on ability in the Irish language. In total 184,898 individuals aged 3 years and over indicated that they had some ability in the Irish language.

The 2011 Census also included a question on main language for individuals aged 3 years and over. In total 17,731 people reported Polish as their main language, 6,250 Lithuanian, 2,214 Chinese (type not specified), 966 Cantonese, 400 Mandarin Chinese, 308 Urdu and 549 Arabic.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Finance whether any foreign companies currently trading in Northern Ireland, under his departmental portfolio, have access to the Investor Court System or the Investor-State Dispute Settlement.

(AQW 18992/17-22)

Mr Murphy: My Department has no foreign companies currently trading in the North under its portfolio.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Finance for his assessment of the decision by NIPSA members to reject the pay offer to Civil Service staff.

(AQW 19022/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The two-year, £44m pay offer made to Civil Service unions and staff is the best possible offer against the very real constraints of a stand-still budget from Westminster. Importantly, the Executive agreed the two-year pay offer which breaks away from the public sector pay freeze imposed for most public servants in England for 2021.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Finance whether officials in his Department, responsible for granting Localised Restrictions Support Scheme funding, liaised with colleagues in the Department for the Economy in respect of individual applications and Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme.

(AQW 19084/17-22)

Mr Murphy: I can confirm that for the administration of the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme (LRSS), my Department has, and continues to, share information under a Data Sharing Agreement with the Department of Economy and Invest NI who administer the Covid Restriction Business Support Scheme (CBRSS) Parts A and B.

The shared information is used to review applications for both schemes to ensure that businesses have received the correct level of support, for the correct period of time, through the correct scheme. Where it was identified that a business had applied for and received payment from both Schemes, LRSS payments were put on hold to prevent double funding.

Where it was determined that a business was entitled to LRSS, applicants have been contacted to inform any payments made under the CBRSS will be offset against the businesses full LRSS entitlement.

Land & Property Services informed businesses which had received financial support under LRSS that they were not eligible for that the monies paid in error would be recovered.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Finance whether any provisions in The Construction Playbook, recently published by the Cabinet Office, apply to Northern Ireland.

(AQW 19139/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The policy provisions in the Construction Playbook apply to England only as procurement is a devolved matter.

The Procurement Board is currently refreshing extant procurement guidance and will consider best practice initiatives in the Construction Playbook in any revised policy and guidance here.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Finance (i) how many Civil Service staff have availed of counselling under the Employment Assistance Programme, in each of the last five years; (ii) how many counselling sessions staff are entitled to under the EAP as standard; and (iii) what criteria is used to assess whether a staff member is entitled to counselling support beyond the standard number of sessions.

(AQW 19143/17-22)

Mr Murphy:

- I. The number of Civil Service employees who have availed of counselling under the EAP (currently provided by Inspire Workplaces) in each of the last 5 years is detailed in the table below:

Financial Year	No of Clients*	No of Sessions
16/17	481	2294
17/18	575	2912
18/19	651	3811
19/20	747	4007
20/21	421	2176

* Due to a system replacement statistics for number of clients from Aug 2019 onwards includes all new and returning clients (from previous years). Figures prior to Aug 2019 recorded only new clients.

- II. Civil servants are entitled to a standard maximum of six sessions of counselling in a rolling calendar 12 months.
- III. The criteria to assess whether a staff member is entitled to counselling support beyond the maximum number of six sessions is:
- i. If the Inspire counsellor feels there is clinical justification for the additional sessions and that the client would benefit from additional sessions (this must be agreed during the original six sessions).
  - ii. If Inspire is contacted by the individual who is attending the counselling within four weeks of the completion of the original session requesting additional sessions.

In such cases the counsellor discusses the case with the clinical lead in Inspire who (if they feel justified) will approach the named approver for the Department in question for approval (anonymised request). In all cases the clinical lead in Inspire will advise if there is clinical justification for additional sessions.

Extra session requests are limited to a maximum of an additional three.

If a staff member approaches Inspire but has exceeded the maximum allowed sessions, or is outside the timeframe for consideration of extra sessions, they are signposted to the internal Civil Service Welfare Support Service to help them consider alternative options.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Finance pursuant to AQW 17167/17-22, when the transfer of staff will be completed.
(AQW 19170/17-22)

Mr Murphy: NICSHR is currently working to transition agency staff from the 2016 agency worker framework to the new Contracts which were awarded in January 2021 to CPL, Staffline and Premiere People.

The majority of transitions (approximately 2,000 agency staff) are expected to be completed by July 2021. There is a small number of agency staff (approximately 100) on the 2016 framework with assignment end dates post July 2021. These agency workers will be transitioned at their assignment end date.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Finance, pursuant to AQW 18794/17-22, whether he intends to instruct Land and Property Services to carry out an analysis of the overpayments to determine the number caused by (i) applicant error; and (ii) administration error.

Mr Murphy: I have no plans to instruct Land & Property Services (LPS) to carry out such an analysis of the reasons for overpayment under the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme (LRSS).

Significant time and resources have been spent in reviewing applications to ensure that they were paid in accordance with the Scheme Regulations, as recommended by the Northern Ireland Audit Office. To date the LRSS has paid out over £314m to over 15,300 businesses. 654 applicants have been identified as being overpaid or having received LRSS payments they are not eligible for. The amount involved in these cases is £5.22m, which is less than 1.7% of all payments made under the scheme to date.

To undertake an in-depth analysis of each of the 654 applications to determine if the overpayment was as result of applicant error or administrative error, or indeed due to the complexity of the scheme as a result of the frequently changing health regulations, would not be an effective use of LPS time and resources. Directing resources to such an in-depth analysis would have a negative effect on LPS' ability to administer ongoing business support schemes and deliver its normal functions.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Finance to detail the number of deaths in each of the last five years where the cause of death was recorded as an Eating Disorder, broken down by constituency.

(AQW 19250/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The Northern Ireland Statistics and Research Agency (NISRA) collates data on death registrations.

The table provides the number of deaths where the underlying cause was an eating disorder (ICD10 F50) for the last 5 years.

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Finance why eligibility for the Manufacturing (Industrial Derating) Support Grant was changed to exclude those who had received the Retail, Hospitality, Tourism and Leisure Grant subsequent to the opening of scheme applications on 10 May 2021.

(AQW 19302/17-22)

Mr Murphy: The criteria for the Manufacturing (Industrial Derating) Support Grant have not changed. The scheme was agreed by the Executive to provide assistance for industrial businesses in premises with a total Net Annual Value between £15001 and £51000 which were unable to access grant funding during 2020. I made this explicit in my statement to the Assembly on 15 March.

When the guidance for the Manufacturing (Industrial Derating) Support Grant was being written, it was not anticipated that a business operating from premises that benefit from industrial de-rating would have qualified for the £25,000 Retail Hospitality Tourism and Leisure Grant last year, given the nature of the businesses that were supported by that scheme. It was only when the list of payees for the grant was being prepared that my Department became aware of the overlap between the two schemes and the guidance was then updated accordingly. This was a case where it became necessary for the department to clarify the rules of the scheme in the light of the experience of implementing the scheme. However, the eligibility criteria or principles of the scheme did not change, which are to support a class of business that had been excluded from the previous support schemes.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Finance how many economic appraisals he has requested from The Executive Office following bids for funding, since October 2019.

(AQW 19336/17-22)

Mr Murphy: Since the beginning of October 2019, some 23 economic appraisals have been submitted to my Department by TEO. It is the responsibility of a department to seek the necessary approvals for expenditure. Therefore none of these economic appraisals were directly requested by DoF.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister of Finance when he will answer AQW 17355/17-22.

Mr Murphy: AQW 17355/17-22 was answered on 20 April 2021 and a copy of that answer is supplied below.

Work is underway to develop proposals for a new Civil Service Management Trainee Scheme (similar to the GB Fast Stream model and the Scottish Government Graduate Development Programme), aimed at recruiting graduate talent into the Civil Service and expanding the leadership talent pool.

This work is alongside other activities, such as high volume open recruitment exercises (never done before), expanding the apprenticeship offering and increased student placement opportunities, both paid sandwich placements (for up to 51 weeks) as well as work experience opportunities.

Individual Civil Service Departments can apply to avail of a six month placement of British Government Civil Service Fast Stream staff (who are on a three to four year development programme, gaining experience via a rotation of placements in Civil Service departments and other public sector organisations). This year, the Department for the Economy has obtained one Fast Stream General Service placement which started on 1 April 2021.

Department of Health

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health what measures he is considering to reduce the impact of a potential second wave of COVID-19 on low income and deprived communities.
(AQW 5724/17-22)

Mr Swann (The Minister of Health): I am aware of the inequality issues identified during the COVID-19 pandemic and emerging evidence of the disparities in outcomes for those diagnosed with COVID-19 across a range of groups. It is vital that the Health and Social Care system and other government departments continue to work closely together to reduce the risk and the impact of COVID-19 on low income and deprived communities. This approach is at the heart of Making Life Better, which is the Executive's overarching strategic framework to improve health and address health inequalities. My Department, with the Public Health Agency and other Government Departments will continue to work collaboratively to look at the factors that impact on health and wellbeing in Northern Ireland.

The Public Health Agency Health Improvement Division is currently implementing a Health Improvement Recovery Plan. This ensures that, during the COVID-19 pandemic, health and social wellbeing improvement services, such as drugs and alcohol, mental health and wellbeing and family support, are sustained and repurposed, when relevant, for those in need and those who are most vulnerable. It also aims to be assured of the safety and quality of services provided throughout Northern Ireland.

Since the beginning of the pandemic, the Department for Communities has also adopted a cross-sectoral partnership approach to ensure support is in place for the most vulnerable. This complements the range of existing programmes that the Department has in place to support individuals and communities in need.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health for an assessment of how his request that people stay at home is consistent with the maintenance of private tests, which have already been postponed, occurring in school halls on weekend mornings.

Mr Swann: Currently any person responsible for organising or operating a gathering of over 15 must:

- a) have carried out a risk assessment which meets the requirements of the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2000, whether or not that person is subject to those Regulations;
- b) take all reasonable measures to limit the risk of transmission of the coronavirus, including implementing the preventive and protective measures identified in the risk assessment and comply with any relevant guidance issued by a Northern Ireland Government Department.
- c) A person responsible for organising a gathering must, if requested to do so by a relevant person, provide a copy of the risk assessment and an account of the reasonable measures taken.

For specific guidance on schools I would refer you to my colleague, the Minister of Education.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health whether he will consider introducing rapid COVID-19 testing for special schools.
(AQW 13102/17-22)

Mr Swann: A programme of regular testing for all staff and children in special schools commenced at the beginning of March 2021. The testing programme in special schools uses a new testing technology called LAMP (loop-mediated isothermal amplification) which utilises a less invasive saliva based testing process.

Test kits have been issued to all 39 special schools.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the rationale of imposing an 11:00pm curfew on hot food delivery services. (AQW 14252/17-22)

Mr Swann: When the restrictions were reintroduced from 26 December 2020, restaurant takeaways and deliveries were not permitted as a necessary and proportionate response to the pandemic by limiting the hours that businesses were allowed to operate.

All relaxations were to be introduced gradually to minimise the risk to public health and, if necessary, could be quickly reversed.

On 15 April 2021 the Executive agreed a range of relaxations which came into effect on 30 April, including the ending of the curfew on restaurant and takeaway food deliveries. As with other businesses, they were subject to the requirement to operate safely and to follow health and safety law and guidance and to take measures to keep staff and customers safe.

The Executive, when making decisions on restrictions, takes into account the scientific and medical evidence and also the impacts of the restrictions on the economy and society. The Executive weighs up the totality of the effect each restriction can have in combination with other restrictions in reducing the rate of infections of COVID-19.

It is not always possible to disaggregate the precise impact on the rate of transmission of the virus in the community for each of the individual restrictions on their own. Scientific evidence used by the Executive for decision making purposes is now publically available: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/covid-19-scientific-evidence>

On 2 March 2021 the Executive 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions'. The pathway is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. The new process also permits a more urgent consideration of proposals from Departments deemed to have urgent or compelling reasons to fall outside the four week review process.

In this new process, the management of the changes to the restrictions regulations moved to the Executive Office (TEO).

TEO will now hold the lead responsibility and operational management of the process leading to Executive decisions on the ongoing need for restrictions and the requirement to amend the regulations.

This responsibility includes receiving and managing all proposals from Executive departments, management of the decision making process and facilitating consultation with departments on the drafting of amendment regulations. This work is supported by a Cross-Departmental Working Group, chaired by the Director of the TEO COVID-19 Taskforce team with membership from all 9 Departments and key stakeholders, including local government and PSNI.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the scientific rationale behind limiting the delivery of hot food to 11:00pm, as per the current regulations.

(AQW 15039/17-22)

On 2 March 2021 the Executive 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions'. The pathway is supported by a revised process for a 4-week Executive review cycle. The new process also permits a more urgent consideration of proposals from Departments deemed to have urgent or compelling reasons to fall outside the four week review process.

In this new process, the management of the changes to the restrictions regulations moved to the Executive Office (TEO).

TEO will now hold the lead responsibility and operational management of the process leading to Executive decisions on the ongoing need for restrictions and the requirement to amend the regulations.

This responsibility includes receiving and managing all proposals from Executive departments, management of the decision making process and facilitating consultation with departments on the drafting of amendment regulations. This work is supported by a Cross-Departmental Working Group, chaired by the Director of the TEO COVID-19 Taskforce team with membership from all 9 Departments and key stakeholders, including local government and PSNI.

Mr Stalford asked the Minister of Health what the estimated R rate of opening up gyms with appropriate personal protective equipment and restrictions would be.

(AQW 15071/17-22)

Mr Swann: As you will be aware, on 15 April the Executive decided that gyms could reopen for individual activities from 23 April. It also gave an indicative date of 24 May for group activities to return in gyms. This was ratified by the Executive on 20 May.

The Executive, when making decisions on restrictions, takes into account the scientific and medical evidence and also the impacts of the restrictions on the economy and society. The Executive weighs up the totality of the effect each restriction can have in combination with other restrictions in reducing the rate of infections of COVID-19.

It is not always possible to disaggregate the precise impact on the rate of transmission of the virus in the community for each of the individual restrictions on their own.

Scientific evidence used by the Executive for decision making purposes is now publically available at: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/covid-19-scientific-evidence>

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister of Health what medical and scientific evidence there is to prevent (i) essential homeware shops that sell items such as bedding and kitchenware; and (ii) office supply businesses that supply ink, stationery and photocopying services to the public, operating as click and collect.

(AQW 15188/17-22)

Mr Swann: When the restrictions were reintroduced from 26 December 2020, click and collect for non-essential retail was not permitted. The Department for the Economy worked with the sector on how non-essential retail could reopen. All relaxations were to be introduced gradually to minimise the risk to public health and, if necessary, could be quickly reversed. On 2 March 2021 the Executive published its planned pathway out of the current COVID-19 restrictions.

On 1 April 2021 the Executive agreed a range of relaxations which came into effect on 12 April including click-and-collect services for all retailers. On 15 April 2021 the Executive agreed that from 30 April all retail businesses were permitted to reopen.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 8938/17-22, in what format the Public Health Agency collects information it shares with its equivalents in the south of Ireland for contact tracing purposes.

(AQW 15266/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Public Health Agency (PHA) has advised that contact tracing information is collected electronically in Excel spreadsheet format.

The electronic information collected for COVID-19 positive cases and close contacts includes name; contact details, demographic details; date of symptom onset; date of testing and travel related information.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to detail the funding awarded to the Health and Social Care Research and Development division for each financial year since 2011/12.

(AQW 15344/17-22)

Mr Swann: Details of funding awarded to the Health and Social Care Research and Development division for each financial year since 2011/12 is set out in the table below.

Financial Year	Allocated funding DoH (£m)
2011-12	10.19
2012-13	10.38

Financial Year	Allocated funding DoH (£m)
2013-14	10.34
2014-15	11.17
2015-16	11.17
2016-17	12.23
2017-18	11.88
2018-19	11.68
2019-20	12.80

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Health to detail (i) whether GPs are paid to meet virtually at GP partnerships with Health and Social Care Trusts; (ii) the rationale for this decision; and (iii) the rate of payment.

(AQW 15835/17-22)

Mr Swann: An attendance allowance is available for independent contractors – such as GPs – for statutory meetings or when attendance of professionals is essential to the development or implementation of a policy. Independent contractors may also claim an allowance for locum expenses or financial loss up to a maximum rate.

As set out above, the rationale for this is to cover attendance and financial loss/ locum expenses. The standard rate of payment for 20/21 is set out in circular HSC (F) 06-2020 which details an attendance allowance of £260 per day or £130 for meetings up to 4 hours long. As per the circular, unpaid members of committees may be paid a financial loss allowance to reimburse actual certified loss of earnings resulting from attendance at meetings; alternatively unpaid members of committees may be paid a deputising (locum) allowance to reimburse the full cost of employing a person to provide cover or substitution to enable attendance. Claims must be accompanied by documentary evidence. Rates payable in this regard is up to a maximum rate per day of £400 or £200 per half day.

Some flexibility in terms of the rate of payment may be offered in relation to specific projects where the nature of the work demands a high degree of ongoing input from GPs.

Overall, the purpose of payments is to secure the knowledge, expertise and participation of GPs as independent contractors as key leaders in achieving the successful development and implementation of reform of our health and social care system.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health what mechanisms are in place to quality assure calls made by COVID-19 clinical contact tracers.

(AQW 16009/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Public Health Agency has advised that the Contact Tracing Service has a call coaching system to assure and improve the quality of calls delivered. As part of a wider programme of quality assurance and training, a sample of calls are monitored “live” with learning used to inform quality review discussions with tracers and personal development plans as required.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health to detail his Covid Recovery Plan for GP services.

(AQW 16682/17-22)

Mr Swann: GP practices are open and are providing face to face appointments for patients who are assessed as requiring them.

Recently collected figures indicate that in that particular week there were 164,137 GP and Practice Nurse consultations. That is a rate of 82 per 1,000 patients. Almost 40% of these were face to face.

For comparison, information collected in November 2019 shows a consultation rate of 86.8 per 1,000, of which 50% were face to face. The 2019 face to face activity would have included activities such as screening, which are now gradually being reintroduced.

General Practice has changed the way it works in responding to the current pandemic and despite the demands and capacity limits that COVID has created, GPs have maintained all of the core elements of general practice services.

The response to the COVID-19 pandemic has meant the introduction of innovative ways of working.

GP practices are operating a telephone first triage system which allows patients to continue to seek medical advice from their GP for both routine and urgent problems. The GP then uses their clinical judgement to decide if the patient can be safely managed over the telephone or whether a face to face appointment is required. Technologies such as video conferencing and enabling patients to send photographs by text have helped to facilitate diagnosis and ensure that patients are only required to visit surgeries where it is absolutely essential.

I recognise that face to face appointments are valued by many people as the norm for GP delivered care and that patients have at times found it difficult to access GP services via telephone. However, the model of primary care in place prior to the pandemic was already under considerable pressure and was not sustainable without significant change.

The scale of demand for GP led services has continuously grown over recent years. Figures collected in November 2019 indicate that total contacts with general practice stood at almost 15 million per year. For comparison, in 2014 the estimated total number of contacts was 12.7 million.

The need for transformation in primary care was already clear and initiatives such as the Multi-Disciplinary Team Programme; investment in technology, including telephony; the introduction of Advanced Nurse Practitioners and additional General Practice Nurses were making a difference to how services are delivered in primary care.

The use of more innovative ways of working, including telephone triage and telephone and video consultations, is now widely embedded within the primary care sector. As we emerge from COVID, it will be necessary to complement traditional ways of working by building upon new approaches, including the use of digital innovation and skills mix, to help ensure the sustainability of GP services in the face of increasing pressures and demands.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister of Health why in-person hospital and dental appointments can be made but GP appointments cannot; and what guidance his Department has provided to GPs in respect of in-person appointments.
(AQW 16772/17-22)

Ms Bunting asked the Minister of Health, in light of the recent blood clot announcements in the UK over the AstraZenica vaccine, what is being done to ascertain its impact on those in receipt of this vaccine who have (i) a medical history; and (ii) been diagnosed at risk of stroke or any type of thrombosis.
(AQW 17034/17-22)

Mr Swann: Reports of any suspected adverse drug reactions (ADRs) are made directly to the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) via the Yellow Card scheme.

The Yellow Card scheme is the UK system for collecting and monitoring information on suspected safety concerns or incidents involving medicines and medical devices. MHRA will consider all the information received and decide if the vaccine requires further investigation.

The purpose of the scheme is to provide an early warning that the safety of a product may require further investigation and relies on voluntary reporting of suspected ADRs by health professionals and members of the public (patients, users, or carers).

In addition to this each Trust has a clinical incident reporting system where staff report any incident involving a medicine. Arrangements are in place to ensure there is a regional approach taken on the reporting of all suspected adverse reactions which might be connected to the Covid-19 Vaccines. These reports are shared with Departmental officials who will continue to monitor the situation.

Further information about the Yellow Card scheme, including its contribution to identifying safety issues can be found on the Yellow Card website (<https://yellowcard.mhra.gov.uk/the-yellow-card-scheme/>).

The Member will be aware of the updated advice from JCVI that all persons aged under 40 should be offered an alternative to the AstraZeneca vaccine wherever possible.

The MHRA advice is that anyone who experienced cerebral or other major blood clots occurring with low levels of platelets after their first vaccine dose of COVID-19 Vaccine AstraZeneca should not have their second dose of that vaccine.

The vast majority of cases of these rare blood clots have occurred after the first dose of vaccine. The JCVI advise that those who have had a first AZ dose without incident should take up the offer of the 2nd dose, which is very important for full protection. JCVI and MHRA will continue to keep the data under review.

All persons over 40 who remain unvaccinated, will now primarily receive the vaccine at a community pharmacy or by their GP, who both exclusively use the AstraZeneca vaccine. As such, the vaccines are administered by health care professionals who will be aware of the contraindications around administration of the AstraZeneca vaccine and will not administer this vaccine where an alternative is considered more suitable.

Everybody who has already had a first dose of the AstraZeneca vaccine should receive a second dose, irrespective of age, except for the very small number of people who experienced blood clots with low platelet counts following their first vaccination.

Ms Bunting asked the Minister of Health in light of the recent blood clot announcements in the UK over the AstraZeneca vaccine, what advice will be issued to those who have received this vaccine and have a medical history of stroke or any type of thrombosis.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the COVID regulations relating to booking and using domestic holiday homes and other tourist accommodation.

(AQW 17098/17-22)

Mr Swann: As of 24th May 2021, all remaining travel and tourism facilities are permitted to open. This decision was ratified by the Executive on 20th May.

Up to six people from two households can stay together overnight. If a household has six or more members the number staying together can be greater than six, as long as it is not more than 10. Children aged 12 years and under are not counted in the total in both cases.

Accommodation providers will be required to collect customer details to help with the Test, Trace, Protect contact tracing programme (<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-testing-and-contact-tracing>). Additionally, those providers which sell or provide food or drink for consumption on the premises must have carried out a risk assessment and take all reasonable measures to limit the risk of transmission of COVID-19.

Further information relating to travel and tourism, as well as the restrictions generally, is available at NI Direct on the link below:

Mr Newton asked the Minister of Health what plans are being put in place to address post-pandemic increased mental health needs forecast by health professionals.

(AQW 17125/17-22)

Mr Swann: The implementation of the Mental Health Action Plan and the new Mental Health Strategy are key elements of responding to the post-pandemic mental health needs of the population.

The new Strategy will set the strategic direction for mental health services for the next decade, and will take full account of the new context and demand created by the pandemic.

Ms Dolan asked the Minister of Health for an update on the guidelines provided to GPs on providing face-to-face appointments.

(AQW 17289/17-22)

Mr Swann: GP practices are open and are providing face to face appointments for patients who are assessed as requiring them.

Recently collected figures indicate that in that particular week there were 164,137 GP and Practice Nurse consultations. That is a rate of 82 per 1,000 patients. Almost 40% of these were face to face.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health how many people who have been called for COVID-19 vaccination have yet to take up the offer, broken down by age group.

(AQW 17529/17-22)

Mr Swann: The member will be aware that most people book their own appointments only those in groups being vaccinated by GP are actually contacted.

The department does not record who have not booked for vaccinations but rather those who have attended. Figures below show the percentages of people vaccinated within each cohort.

- >80 years old: 100%, 82,396 first dose and 74,911 second dose,
- 70-79 years old: 96.47%, 138,211 first dose and 131,269 second dose.
- 60-69 years old: 98.66%, 193,061 first dose and 146,966 second dose.
- 50-59 years old: 86.92%, 223,067 first dose and 97,794 second dose.

- 40-49 years old: 75.57%, 182,911 first dose and 61,656 second dose
- 30-39 years old: 53.91%, 135,505 first dose, 43,609 second dose.
- 18-29 years old: 19.34%, 54,983 first dose, 35,020 second dose.

The member will be aware that an individual may have eligibility outside their age cohort by virtue of occupation, carer or clinical status.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health what joined up approach between England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland is being taken to travel within the UK to ensure consistency.

(AQW 17538/17-22)

Mr Swann: Travel outside of NI is vital to connecting families, boosting businesses and underpinning the economy. The Executive also appreciate how much families are looking forward to their holidays when it is safe to do so.

It is absolutely essential that any steps we take now lay the groundwork for a sustainable return to travel that is able to weather the challenges we continue to face, despite the success of our vaccine programme, which have been brought home to us so clearly by recent surges in infections in many other countries.

From 24 May, people will not be asked to self-isolate when they return to Northern Ireland if they have visited family or friends in other parts of the CTA. In addition, from 24 May, travellers who have come to Northern Ireland but have completed mandatory quarantine on arrival at a point of entry elsewhere in the CTA will also not have to self-isolate. Those exempt from self-isolation will be asked to take lateral flow device tests for COVID-19 pre-departure, as well as on days two and eight post-arrival into Northern Ireland.

On 20 May the Executive agreed to the following list of countries being included on the international travel 'green list' from next week, without the need for people to quarantine on their return to Northern Ireland. The countries and territories are: Australia, Iceland, New Zealand, Faroe Islands, South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands, Gibraltar, Saint Helena, Ascension and Tristan da Cunha, Brunei, Falkland Islands, Portugal, Israel, and Singapore.

People arriving from these destinations will be required to undertake a pre-departure test and to complete a UK passenger locator form together with a day 2 test. Those returning from Portugal, Israel or Singapore will be asked to take an additional Day 8 PCR test, and information will be available on how they can obtain this free of charge. This will be kept under review.

Mr M Bradley asked the Minister of Health when Coronavirus regulations will be amended to allow partners to attend hospital and medical appointments.

Mr Swann: My officials recently completed a review of the guidance for all healthcare settings. New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals was issued on 30 April 2021, effective from 7 May 2021, and represents a significant easing in the restrictions formerly in place.

In the main, where someone is attending a hospital for an appointment, one person only may be facilitated to accompany them where social distancing and other Infection Prevention and Control measures can be ensured.

Where someone has been admitted to a general hospital, one daily visit from one of two nominated individuals (from up to two households) can be permitted, with the timing/ duration agreed with the person in charge.

In respect of maternity, a chosen birth partner will be facilitated to accompany the pregnant woman to any pregnancy related appointments or ultrasound scans, and to accompany the pregnant woman for induction of labour, duration of labour and birth and, for up to three hours after the birth.

Where the woman is receiving inpatient care, one daily visit from one of two nominated individuals (from up to two households) can be permitted.

Full implementation of the new guidance will be subject to dynamic risk assessment, but all five local Health & Social Care Trusts have undertaken to work to ensure measures are put in place to facilitate this as soon as possible.

The full guidance (<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/Covid-19-visiting-guidance>) sets out the detailed guidance for each category of care.

Mr M Bradley asked the Minister of Health when travel restrictions will be eased for travel to other areas of the UK for purposes other than employment.

(AQW 17647/17-22)

Mr Swann: From Monday 24 May, travel within the Common Travel Area will no longer require an essential reason. Until that time only essential travel should occur within the Common Travel Area.

From 24 May, people will not be asked to self-isolate when they return to Northern Ireland if they have visited family or friends in other parts of the CTA. In addition, from 24 May, travellers who have come to Northern Ireland but have completed managed isolation on arrival at a point of entry elsewhere in the CTA will also not have to self-isolate. Those exempt from self-isolation will be asked to take lateral flow device tests for COVID-19 pre-departure, as well as on days two and eight post-arrival into Northern Ireland.

Further guidance, as well as regular updates on travel is available on the NI Direct website, as linked below.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health whether foreign holidays will resume this year.

(AQW 17668/17-22)

Mr Swann: Travel outside of NI is vital to connecting families, boosting businesses and underpinning the economy. The Executive also appreciate how much families are looking forward to their holidays when it is safe to do so. We also understand how important business and holiday travel is for airports and airlines, alongside the important transit of goods, which has been more essential than ever during the pandemic.

It is absolutely essential that any steps we take now lay the groundwork for a sustainable return to travel that is able to weather the challenges we continue to face, despite the success of our vaccine programme, which have been brought home to us so clearly by recent surges in infections and increasing prevalence of variants of concern in many other countries.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister of Health when hospital visiting hours for partners of women in labour or who have given birth will be extended.

(AQW 17730/17-22)

Mr Swann: My officials recently completed a review of the guidance for all healthcare settings. New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals was issued on 30 April 2021, effective from 7 May 2021, and represents a significant easement in the restrictions formerly in place.

In respect of maternity, a chosen birth partner will be facilitated to accompany the pregnant woman to any pregnancy related appointments or ultrasound scans, and to accompany the pregnant woman for induction of labour, duration of labour and birth and, for up to three hours after the birth.

Where the woman is receiving inpatient care, one daily visit from one of two nominated individuals (from up to two households) can be permitted.

Full implementation of the new guidance will be subject to a dynamic risk assessment, but all five local Health & Social Care Trusts have undertaken to work to ensure measures are put in place to facilitate this as soon as possible.

The full guidance (<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/Covid-19-visiting-guidance>) sets out the detailed guidance for each category of care.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister of Health what discussions he has had regarding 10-day quarantine for travel within the Common Travel Area.

(AQW 17765/17-22)

Mr Swann: From Monday 24 May, travel within the Common Travel Area will be no longer require an essential reason. Until that time only essential travel should occur within the Common Travel Area.

From 24 May, people will not be asked to self-isolate when they return to Northern Ireland if they have visited family or friends in other parts of the CTA. In addition, from 24 May, travellers who have come to Northern Ireland but have completed managed isolation on arrival at a point of entry elsewhere in the CTA will also not have to self-isolate. Those exempt from self-isolation will be asked to take lateral flow device tests for COVID-19 pre-departure, as well as on days two and eight post-arrival into Northern Ireland.

Further guidance, as well as regular updates on travel is available on the NI Direct website, as linked below.

Coronavirus (COVID-19): travel within the Common Travel Area | nidirect (<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-travel-within-common-travel-area>)

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health to detail the Sure Start Capital Projects, and their location, that his Department are planning or expect to fund during the (i) 2021/22; (ii) 2022/23; and (iii) 2023/24 financial years.

(AQW 17846/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department of Education has guaranteed the Health and Social Care Board (HSCB) £177k in 2021/22 to enable the completion of Sure Start capital works projects at:

- Abbey Sure Start, Newtownabbey;
- Shankill Sure Start, Belfast; and
- Ards Surestart, Kircubbin.

I am not in a position to guarantee funding beyond the current financial year.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health for an update as to when his Department will be recommending GP surgeries services can return to business as usual.

(AQW 18176/17-22)

Mr Swann: GP practices are open and are providing face to face appointments for patients who are assessed as requiring them.

Recently collected figures indicate that in that particular week there were 164,137 GP and Practice Nurse consultations. That is a rate of 82 per 1,000 patients. Almost 40% of these were face to face.

For comparison, information collected in November 2019 shows a consultation rate of 86.8 per 1,000, of which 50% were face to face. The 2019 face to face activity would have included activities such as screening, which are now gradually being reintroduced.

General Practice has changed the way it works in responding to the current pandemic and despite the demands and capacity limits that COVID has created, GPs have maintained all of the core elements of general practice services.

The response to the COVID-19 pandemic has meant the introduction of innovative ways of working.

GP practices are operating a telephone first triage system which allows patients to continue to seek medical advice from their GP for both routine and urgent problems. The GP then uses their clinical judgement to decide if the patient can be safely managed over the telephone or whether a face to face appointment is required. Technologies such as video conferencing and enabling patients to send photographs by text have helped to facilitate diagnosis and ensure that patients are only required to visit surgeries where it is absolutely essential.

I recognise that face to face appointments are valued by many people as the norm for GP delivered care and that patients have at times found it difficult to access GP services via telephone. However, the model of primary care in place prior to the pandemic was already under considerable pressure and was not sustainable without significant change.

The scale of demand for GP led services has continuously grown over recent years. Figures collected in November 2019 indicate that total contacts with general practice stood at almost 15 million per year. For comparison, in 2014 the estimated total number of contacts was 12.7 million.

The need for transformation in primary care was already clear and initiatives such as the Multi-Disciplinary Team Programme; investment in technology, including telephony; the introduction of Advanced Nurse Practitioners and additional General Practice Nurses were making a difference to how services are delivered in primary care.

The use of more innovative ways of working, including telephone triage and telephone and video consultations, is now widely embedded within the primary care sector. As we emerge from COVID, it will be necessary to complement traditional ways of working by building upon new approaches, including the use of digital innovation and skills mix, to help ensure the sustainability of GP services in the face of increasing pressures and demands.

Mr McGuigan asked the Minister of Health, in the context of the improved public health situation, whether he will review the visiting guidance for Health and Social Care facilities and services, including (i) maternity services; and (ii) care homes; (iii) general hospital wards; and (iv) long-term care facilities.

Mr Swann: My officials recently completed a review of the guidance for all healthcare settings, including maternity services, general hospitals and care homes. The new guidance was issued on 30 April 2021, effective from 7 May 2021.

The full guidance (<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/Covid-19-visiting-guidance>) sets out the detailed guidance for each category of care.

In respect of other long-term care facilities, my Department intends publishing updated guidance shortly.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister of Health whether he will review urgently the current restrictions on (i) hospital visiting; and (ii) partners attending maternity appointments and births.

(AQW 18353/17-22)

Mr Swann: My officials recently completed a review of the guidance for all healthcare settings. New guidance for visiting in hospices and hospitals was issued on 30 April 2021, effective from 7 May 2021, and represents a significant easement in the restrictions formerly in place.

In general hospitals, one daily visit from one of two nominated individuals (from up to two households) can be permitted, with the timing/ duration agreed with the person in charge.

In respect of maternity, a chosen birth partner will be facilitated to accompany the pregnant woman to any pregnancy related appointments or ultrasound scans, and to accompany the pregnant woman for induction of labour, duration of labour and birth and, for up to three hours after the birth.

Where the woman is receiving inpatient care, one daily visit from one of two nominated individuals (from up to two households) can be permitted.

The full guidance (<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/Covid-19-visiting-guidance>) sets out the detailed guidance for each category of care.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health what work his Department has undertaken on the connection between homelessness, housing stress and poor mental health.

(AQW 18385/17-22)

Mr Swann: I recognise that homelessness is a multi-faceted issue that presents significant challenges to many individuals, including contributing to poor mental health.

In recognition of this, my department works collaboratively with the Department for Communities and the Northern Ireland Housing Executive (NIHE), which have statutory responsibility for homelessness and the delivery of the Inter Departmental Homelessness Action Plan (IDHAP).

The IDHAP was co-produced by Government Departments, statutory partners, homelessness service providers and service users, and was developed to complement the NIHE's Homelessness Strategy by focussing on addressing gaps in non-accommodation services. A number of actions have been attributed to my Department.

The progress report on the Year Two IDHAP, including health related actions, was published on 17 May on both my Department's and the Department for Communities websites.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health how many GP practices operate without being commissioned for services.

(AQW 18439/17-22)

Mr Swann: The standard model for GP provision in Northern Ireland is via GPs operating as independent contractors. These GPs contract with the Health and Social Care Board, via the General Medical Services (GMS) contract, to provide primary medical services to their patients. The number of GP practices can be found in the Quarterly General Medical Services Statistics at: <http://www.hscbusiness.hscni.net/services/3174.htm>.

Information on the number of GP practices which operate without being commissioned for services via a GMS contract is not available as this is outside the standard model for GP provision in Northern Ireland.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health to outline the rationale for the wearing of face masks in churches when those present remain socially distanced following arrival.

(AQW 18463/17-22)

Mr Swann: Coronavirus (COVID-19) usually spreads by droplets from coughs, sneezes and speaking. These droplets can also be picked up from surfaces, if you touch a surface and then your face without washing your hands first. The use of face coverings in certain indoor settings, including churches, is a proportionate and necessary response to the pandemic alongside other measures to help control the virus, such as social distancing, ventilation and regular hand hygiene.

It is important to follow all the other government advice on coronavirus (COVID-19) including the advice available on NI Direct on staying safe outside your home, at: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-staying-safe-outside-your-home>

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health to detail the findings of the Public Health Agency report on the safe and proportionate return to normalised visiting in care homes, including arrangements for visiting out.

(AQW 18485/17-22)

Mr Swann: At the request of my Department, the Public Health Agency undertook the development of a plan to return to a more normal arrangement for visiting in care home settings.

I accepted their report which recommended a graduated approach to easing the restrictions in all care homes in Northern Ireland. My Department issued new visiting guidance for care homes here, "Visiting with Care - A Pathway", which has been effective from 7 May 2021. It is available on the Department of Health website, at <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/Covid-19-visiting-guidance>.

This Pathway represents a significant easement in the restrictions formerly in place, and includes arrangements for residents to receive visitors, as well as facilitating residents to leave the home to visit other households, community facilities and excursions.

Progression along the pathway will be as fast as possible while fully taking into account the risks in specific areas and will be monitored by the Trusts, the Public Health Agency and the Department of Health.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health how many complaints have been made relating to delays in accessing GP services, in each of the last four years.

(AQW 18506/17-22)

Mr Swann: I have been advised by the Health and Social Care Board that, during the last 4 years, the number of complaints received relating to delays in accessing GP services is as follows:

Year	Appointments	Telephone/Delay/Access	Total
2017/18	16	22	38
2018/19	10	34	44
2019/20	18	15	33
2020/21	10	18	28
Total	54	89	143

Mr Durkan asked the Minister of Health, following the announcement by the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation, whether people under the age of 40 living in Northern Ireland will be offered the ability to choose an alternative to the Oxford/AstraZenca vaccine.

(AQW 18561/17-22)

Mr Swann: At the time of booking a Covid-19 vaccination appointment on the HSC booking portal, people under the age of 40 are being directed to the Citizen's Choice section which will provide information which offers them the ability to make an informed decision whether to take the Oxford/AstraZeneca or choose an alternative vaccine.

The JCVI advice of 7th May is that, as a precaution, it is preferable to offer people under the age of 40 with no underlying health conditions the choice of an alternative vaccine to the Oxford/AstraZeneca vaccine.

Those under the age of 40 are being offered an alternative vaccine, only where this is available and only if this does not cause any substantial delays in being vaccinated.

The JCVI position remains that the benefits of the COVID-19 Vaccine AstraZeneca against COVID-19, with its associated risk of hospitalisation and death, continues to outweigh the risk from vaccination for the vast majority of people.

Anyone who has specific questions or concerns in respect of their personal circumstances will be able to discuss them with their GP, who is best placed to provide help and support.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Health how vaccine stock management will be improved to ensure continued availability of Covid vaccines to community pharmacy.

(AQW 18564/17-22)

Mr Swann: Stock management of Covid-19 vaccine is very carefully monitored to ensure allocation to vaccinators most in need, due to the volume of their appointments. My department has a dedicated team to ensure the continued availability of vaccine to Community Pharmacy, together with the other Programmes.

To date the Community Pharmacy Programme has administered over 50,000 vaccination doses, with the only rate limiting factor being the available supply from the producers of the vaccine.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health whether there is a regional policy for respite care.

(AQW 18571/17-22)

Mr Swann: There is no one regional short breaks or respite care policy that covers all Programmes of Care. The provision of scheduled short breaks of whatever nature or duration is based on an assessment of need with the resulting service response agreed with the individual and their family/carer and in line with the legislative and statutory duties placed on HSC.

The format of the assessment and potential range of services available will vary depending on age (i.e. child or adult) and the specific needs of the individual (i.e. Mental Health, Disability, Older People, Dementia etc).

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health how his Department is encouraging greater uptake of the COVID-19 vaccine by those aged between 30-39 years.

(AQW 18592/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department is working closely with our delivery partners, including the PHA and community organisations to encourage greater uptake of the Covid-19 vaccine by those aged between 30-39 years; e.g. the PHA have prepared a targeted media campaign, currently underway, to encourage uptake by younger people, through social media and peer influencers, particularly from the fields of sport and entertainment.

The HSCNI Vaccination Dashboard provides a real time update on the of the programme's notable progress, particularly for those in the younger age cohorts with over 134,000, or 53.5% those in the age range of 30-39 years already vaccinated since the programme was opened to them from 30th April 2021. The Dashboard can be found at the following link:-

<https://covid-19.hscni.net/ni-covid-19-vaccinations-dashboard/>

While the rate limiting factor remains the availability of vaccine, the programme is continuing at a steady pace and has already met the target of vaccinating 1 million people in NI.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of a traffic light system for international travel during the pandemic.

(AQW 18598/17-22)

Mr Swann: Travel outside of NI is vital to connecting families, boosting businesses and underpinning the economy. The Executive also appreciate how much families are looking forward to their holidays when it is safe to do so. We also understand how important business and holiday travel is for airports and airlines, alongside the important transit of goods, which has been more essential than ever during the pandemic.

It is absolutely essential that any steps we take now lay the groundwork for a sustainable return to travel that is able to weather the challenges we continue to face, despite the success of our vaccine programme, which have been brought home to us so clearly by recent surges in infections and increasing prevalence of variants of concern in many other countries.

On 20 May the Executive agreed to the following list of countries being included on the green list from 24 May, without the need for people to quarantine on their return to Northern Ireland. The countries and territories are: Australia, Iceland, New Zealand, Faroe Islands, South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands, Gibraltar, Saint Helena, Ascension and Tristan da Cunha, Brunei, Falkland Islands, Portugal, Israel, and Singapore.

People arriving from these destinations are required to undertake a pre-departure test and to complete a UK passenger locator form together with a mandatory day 2 test.

In addition those arriving from Portugal, Israel or Singapore will be requested to take a voluntary Day 8 PCR test, which will be provided free of charge. This will be kept under review.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Health, given that the decision has been taken to give under 40s vaccines other than AstraZeneca and that AstraZeneca is the only vaccine available via community pharmacies, whether he will make other vaccines available to community pharmacies, in order for those under 40 to be able to access vaccinations locally.

(AQW 18622/17-22)

Mr Swann: The JCVI advice of 7th May is that, as a precaution, it is preferable to offer people under the age of 40 with no underlying health conditions the choice of an alternative vaccine to the Oxford/AstraZeneca vaccine.

The JCVI position remains that the benefits of the COVID-19 Vaccine AstraZeneca against COVID-19, with its associated risk of hospitalisation and death, continues to outweigh the risk from vaccination for the vast majority of people.

Those under the age of 40 are being offered an alternative vaccine, only where this is available and only if this does not cause any substantial delays in being vaccinated.

There are no plans to provide Pfizer vaccine to Community Pharmacies, as the handling requirements of Pfizer at low temperatures does not allow it to be stored in the required small quantities. It is important, however, that under 40s are given the choice of being vaccinated with AstraZeneca at their local community pharmacy.

To date the Community Pharmacy Programme has administered over 50,000 vaccination doses of AstraZeneca, with the only rate limiting factor being the available supply of the vaccine.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health what measures are being taken to enable proof of COVID-19 vaccinations to be presented for international travel when this is permitted.

(AQW 18663/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department of Health is working on a solution to enable proof of vaccination to the agreed standard. It is anticipated that a paper based option will be available in the first instance, from a specialist printing service. This requires infrastructure to be developed, allowing citizens to request certification which is securely linked to their personal data. Further details will follow shortly. In the meantime it should be noted that neither GP Practices or other HSC organisations are able to issue letters for travel purposes.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health how his Department will increase awareness post-pandemic of the benefits of breastfeeding.

(AQW 18666/17-22)

Mr Swann: Improving breastfeeding rates requires a multi-faceted approach, which is detailed within the 20 Actions of the Breastfeeding Strategy. PHA will continue post pandemic to increase awareness of the benefits of breastfeeding through established initiatives such as the UNICEF UK Baby Friendly Initiative and the PHA Breastfeeding Welcome Here Scheme. It is essential that these internationally recognised standards continue to be maintained as we move out of the pandemic. PHA supports a number of CV sector organisations with providing information and support to expectant and new parents. These organisations are essential to raising awareness about the importance of breastfeeding to health, and to the public understanding of why it is a major public health issue. Initiatives such as these will ensure evidence based policies are in place, staff are trained and mothers and babies are well supported to get off to a good start with breastfeeding.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail (i) the latest regulations regarding the permitted size of wedding receptions; (ii) the dates and details of anticipated changes to these rules, including outdoor receptions; and (iii) any risk assessments that will be required prior to hosting wedding receptions.

(AQW 18689/17-22)

Mr Swann: Weddings and civil partnerships are celebratory social events, which are particularly prone to the spread of COVID-19 and restrictions are therefore necessary to reduce the risk of transmission.

The arrangements for weddings are as set out in The Health Protection (Coronavirus, Restrictions) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2021, available at:

The Health Protection (Coronavirus, Restrictions) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2021 | Department of Health (health-ni.gov.uk)

A frequently asked question document is available on the Executive's website: Guidance for marriages, civil partnerships or other celebratory events

Guidance for places of worship is also available at: Coronavirus (COVID-19): places of worship

From 24 May 2021, post wedding and civil partnership receptions are permitted, with the numbers determined by the venue on a risk assessed basis. To determine the maximum number of people permitted to attend an indoor gathering, in a non-domestic setting, the organiser or operator must carry out a risk assessment. Indoor gatherings of 15 people or fewer do not need a risk assessment.

A person responsible for organising a gathering must, if requested to do so by a relevant person, provide a copy of the risk assessment and an account of the reasonable measures taken. The organiser must also take all reasonable measures to limit the risk of transmission of the coronavirus.

There are no restrictions on the number of people seated at the top table, but other tables should not exceed 10, with no household restriction. Children under 12 excluded are not counted for the table numbers. No dancing is permitted, except for the couple's first dance. Music must be at ambient level to permit normal conversation.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health what plans he has for a publicity campaign to promote getting the second dose of the COVID-19 vaccine.

(AQW 18697/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department is working closely with our delivery partners, including the PHA and community organisations to promote uptake of both doses of the Covid-19 vaccine for maximum protection from the Covid virus.

Media campaigns have been produced both nationally and locally to send the message for people to become fully vaccinated for their own health and well-being but also for society, e.g. the powerful TV ad "Every vaccination brings us closer, together" delivers a message to look forward to travel and events, shared together.

My Department is particularly keen to reach out to younger people and is working with the PHA to produce a targeted media campaign. Uptake is being encouraged through social media and peer influencers, particularly from the fields of sport and entertainment.

While the rate limiting factor remains the availability of vaccine, the programme is continuing at a steady pace and has already administered over 590,000 second doses. The HSCNI Vaccination Dashboard provides a real time update of the programme's notable progress, and can be found at the following link:-

<https://covid-19.hscni.net/ni-covid-19-vaccinations-dashboard/>

The NI Vaccination Programme is specifically designed to appeal to as many people as possible to protect the population, particularly older and vulnerable citizens in our community and help us move gradually towards the easing of restrictions in society, when it is safe to do so.

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister of Health to detail the current waiting list for mental health services in the Northern Health and Social Care Trust, broken down by (i) time spent on the waiting list; and (ii) age bracket.

(AQW 18736/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department does not hold this information centrally and it was requested from the Northern Health and Social Care Trust (NHSCT).

Table 1 sets out the number of active waits for mental health services in NHSCT, broken down by time bands.

Table 2 sets out the number of active waits for mental health services in NHSCT, broken down by age bands.

Mr K Buchanan asked the Minister of Health whether out of hours GP services will continue to be provided at Magherafelt Hospital.

(AQW 18738/17-22)

Mr Swann: Dalriada Urgent Care (DUC) is the organisation responsible for GP Out of Hours services provided in the Northern Area which includes Magherafelt.

Since the Covid-19 pandemic and the increasing use of remote consultations, fewer patients who contact GP Out of Hours services have needed to be seen face to face in an Out of Hours base.

After a review of infection control, staffing and patient safety issues at the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic DUC's face to face services have been temporarily relocated from Ballymena, Whiteabbey and Magherafelt to the Antrim Hospital site.

The Coleraine centre remains on the Causeway Hospital site, and the Ballymena GP OOH base has become a Covid Centre site for the Northern Area.

The current arrangements for the provision of the OOHs service will be kept under review as we emerge from the current pandemic.

Mr T Buchanan asked the Minister of Health to detail the (i) benefits of face coverings; and (ii) scientific evidence to prove their effectiveness.

(AQW 18808/17-22)

Mr Swann: The use of face coverings is now required in certain indoor settings across Northern Ireland, unless a person is exempt or has a reasonable excuse.

The best available scientific evidence is that, when used correctly, wearing a face covering may reduce the spread of coronavirus droplets in certain circumstances, helping to protect others.

Scientific evidence used by the Executive for decision making purposes is now publically available at: <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/covid-19-scientific-evidence>

The Executive has committed to a four-week review cycle, where we monitor the data on a range of health and societal impacts, before considering what relaxations can be made safely. While the Executive formally reviews and make decisions on restrictions every four weeks, our monitoring cycle provides us with the ability to move more rapidly on emerging priorities should the need arise before the next review point. The next formal review of the coronavirus restrictions will be on 10 June 2021.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of family requests for an assessment for Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder in the last five years, broken down by (i) gender; (ii) education area; and (iii) a diagnosis of ADHD. (AQW 18836/17-22)

Mr Swann: This AQW was transferred to my Department from Department of Education.

- (i) The number of referrals received by Health and Social Care Trusts for assessment of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) in the previous five years is displayed by gender in Table 1.
- (ii) The number of referrals for ADHD assessments is not routinely collected by education area, and is therefore set out by Health and Social Care (HSC) Trust in Table 1.
- (iii) ADHD diagnoses are not routinely collected by my Department, and to obtain this would require a manual trawl of hundreds of files at a disproportionate cost.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of the connection between deprivation and obesity; and what action his Department intends to take to reduce the prevalence of obesity.

(AQW 18864/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department leads on obesity prevention through the cross-Departmental framework 'A Fitter Future For All' and works across departments and agencies to tackle obesity. The link between deprivation and obesity is clear – trend data over the last 10 years shows that people from the most deprived quintile are more likely to be living with obesity than those either the median or the least deprived quintile. These trend tables are published online at <https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/publications/tables-health-survey-northern-ireland>.

Obesity continues to be a key issue of concern in NI, with a strong social class gradient and serious implications for health. The drivers of weight are complicated and vary from person to person but include genetic make-up, biological and social factors. Socio economic factors such as unemployment or poverty play a key role in driving obesity and ill health. Tackling the problem at a societal level requires action by a wide range of sectors.

The Public Health Agency are the lead partner in delivering the outcomes of 'A Fitter Future For All'. The Agency invests in a number of obesity prevention programmes and continues to work with a range of other partners such as Department of Health, Department of Education, Department for Communities, Department for Infrastructure, Department for Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs, HSC Trusts, Primary Care, Local Government, Safefood, Food Standards Agency and many non-statutory partners to promote activities that will encourage healthy lifestyles that contribute to obesity prevention. The programmes commissioned, promoted and/or supported by PHA are grouped into themes of healthy eating, weight management, and physical activity.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 16881/17-22, on what date he requested support from the Executive for a Carers Payment.

(AQW 18897/17-22)

Mr Swann: I wrote to Executive colleagues on this subject on 4 March 2021 and have subsequently followed this up with a second memo dated 20 May.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 18487/17-22, to detail (i) the average hourly expense to Health and Social Care Trusts for agency nursing staff in the year 2019-20; and (ii) the same average hourly expense for nurses directly employed by Trusts.

(AQW 18903/17-22)

Mr Swann: The charging structure within the Agency framework (that is payable by HSC to agencies) is made up of several elements including the equivalent Agenda for Change (AfC) hourly rate for a given pay band, experience level and shift. There should be no difference between what a Trust employee receives and an agency worker receives, assuming they are on the same pay Band and point of the AfC scale.

Whilst the basic hourly rate is the same as AfC, the amount that the agency pays to the individual could vary. Appointments made outside of the Framework will not be the same as they are based on individual agency costs and taking account of demand and supply for the specific post needing to be filled.

Precisely what an agency nurse is actually paid is not known to the HSC Trust.

HSC Trusts employ agency staff for several reasons, for example, cover for sickness and maternity/paternity leave; cover for existing vacancies; and when demand increases over the winter months. The primary aim of this is to ensure that safe and effective services are sustained at all times for patients and clients.

The Bengoa expert panel report warned of "stark increases in costs associated with locum and agency staff to provide a safe service where it is not possible to recruit to permanent positions". It made clear that rising locum and agency costs are due to the current configuration of services and that "changing the model of care" is the only solution. Pending this transformation, locum and agency expenditure is required to maintain safe services and keep hospital units open. It is accepted that ongoing stark increases in these costs are not sustainable in the long-term.

The agency worker expenditure provided in AQW 18487/17-22 relates to the total nursing & midwifery workforce including registered and support workers. During the period in question it is important to note that the directly employed HSC nursing & midwifery workforce increased by a headcount of 1,033 (4.7%), comparing staff numbers in post at 31st March 2016 with those in post at 31st March 2020. However, HSC nursing & midwifery vacancies actively in recruitment also increased during that period but reached a peak of 3,057 vacancies (12.0%) as at 30th June 2019.

A Regional Agency Reduction Implementation and Planning Group has been established to co-ordinate the improvement of staff utilisation, with the aim of reducing unsustainable agency spend, beginning with off-contract arrangements. The main function of the Group is to develop and implement a plan, with local and regional commitment and coordination, to safely facilitate, and manage the service impact of, reducing unsustainable agency and locum spend.

We are committed to sustained investment in growing the local nursing and midwifery workforce to meet ever increasing demands, for example, this year we have commissioned the highest ever number (1,325) of pre-registration nursing and midwifery training places.

This unprecedented level of intake will be maintained for a minimum of a further 2 years.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 18487/17-22, why the amount spent on agency nursing staff by Health and Social Care Trusts increased in 2019-20 to nearly 600 per cent of the cost in 2015-16.

(AQW 18904/17-22)

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister of Health to outline the evidence base in favour of Minimum Unit Pricing for alcohol, including reference to early indications of its effectiveness in Scotland.

(AQW 18917/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department previously commissioned a report from the University of Sheffield which concluded that a Minimum Unit Pricing (MUP) for alcohol would be effective in reducing alcohol consumption, alcohol-related harms (including alcohol-related deaths, hospitalisations, crimes and workplace absences) and the costs associated with those harms. This report is available in full on the DoH website at:

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/dhssps/alcohol-and-drug-mup-ni-report-from-university-of-sheffield.pdf>

MUP has been in place in Scotland from May 2018. With the first evaluation results now being published, initial signs are very encouraging that it is an effective measure, however it is still too early to be definitive.

Once finalised, NI's forthcoming new Substance Use Strategy will contain my commitment to have a full consultation on MUP within the next year. This consultation will examine a range of possible options in respect of alcohol pricing, including consideration of the emerging evidence of the effectiveness of MUP from Scotland and elsewhere. Any policy considerations arising from the consultation will be brought to the Executive in due course.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Health what steps he has taken to address the societal stigma of (i) mental ill health; and (ii) addiction.

(AQW 18940/17-22)

Mr Swann: The reduction of stigma around mental health is a key action within Protect Life 2, the Suicide Prevention Strategy for Northern Ireland. An extensive range of training and awareness programmes are being delivered to reduce stigma and increase understanding of mental health and wellbeing.

During 2010 – 2020, around £1 million has been invested in 334 programmes within local communities to encourage them to be pro-active in promoting positive mental health and emotional wellbeing through the promotion of the Take 5 Steps to Wellbeing.

Considerable promotion and engagement in Mental Health and Emotional Wellbeing Campaigns have also been delivered and the Covid Wellbeing NI Hub contains a wide variety of information and courses to support wellbeing.

With regards to substance use, there has been a range of additional work taken forward by the Department and the PHA to reduce the stigma around those seeking help – particularly in relation to harm reduction services. In order to further build on this, one of the actions in the forthcoming Substance Use Strategy is to work with services users, experts and key stakeholders to further address stigma as a way to reduce barriers to seeking treatment, to improve prevention and to reduce harm.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health whether his Department is planning to introduce the NHS Covid 19 Vaccination Certificate App, similar to the rest of the United Kingdom.

(AQW 18946/17-22)

Mr Swann: Citizens in NI are able to undertake international travel from Monday 24th May.

My Department is working on a solution to enable proof of vaccination to the recently agreed international standard. It is anticipated that a paper based option will be available in the first instance followed by a smartphone app at a later date. The overall solution requires infrastructure to be developed, allowing citizens to request certification, securely linking to their personal data.

In the meantime it should be noted that neither GP practices, or other HSC organisations, are able to issue letters for travel purposes.

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Health which members of the Blood Cancer community were invited to join the Cancer Strategy steering groups; and whether he has engaged with the Blood Cancer community.

(AQW 18967/17-22)

Mr Swann: In 2019 coproduction work began on the development of a new 10 year Cancer Strategy for Northern Ireland, with policy makers, health representatives, those with lived experience and charities actively working on its development.

Each of the seven sub-groups includes key expert representatives to contribute advice and opinions across HSC, charity and service user perspectives. There is representation from Bloodwise on the Palliative and End of Life Care sub-group. Consultant haematologists have participated in the treatment sub-group helping shape the recommendations of the Cancer Strategy.

In preparation for external consultation, Patient Client Council facilitated several stakeholder engagement events where several service users who had blood cancer were in attendance. In addition, CLIC Sargent facilitated specific engagement sessions for parents of children with cancer and for teenagers and young adults with cancer, most of whom had blood cancers.

Consideration has been given to ways of improving support for patients along the whole cancer pathway, such as recognising all cancer types and equal resources and accessibility for patients across cancer services, including blood cancer.

Work is also underway to implement the Oncology-Haematology Stabilisation Plan which, through 3 year expansion in local multi-disciplinary teams and an investment in advanced practice roles, will provide increased service capacity and resilience going forward. Vitally, this plan seeks to expand acute oncology provision, including that of haematology. It is extremely important that my Department receives the funding necessary to implement this plan in full.

There is no doubt that delivery of the Cancer Strategy has been delayed due to the impact of the global pandemic. However, it is still my intention that this important piece of work will be available for external consultation through the summer of 2021.

The strategy will also include an implementation plan which will include key performance indicators and targets for the implementation of recommendations. This will be costed, monitored and reported upon.

In the meantime, the Public Health Agency's 'Be Cancer Aware' website, www.becancerawareni.info, which launched in 2015, provides information about cancer signs and symptoms, explains what to do if you are concerned, and signposts individuals to recommended sources of support or further information. This includes specific information on the signs and symptoms of some of the specific blood cancers including Hodgkin's and non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma.

In September last year I took part in Leukaemia & Lymphoma NI's Blood Cancer Awareness Month campaign launch. As with all cancers, it is vitally important that anyone experiencing signs and symptoms should seek early medical advice and treatment.

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Health, given the rising incidence of blood cancer diagnosis, whether the next Cancer Strategy will (i) recognise and give parity to blood cancers alongside solid tumour cancers; (ii) provide dedicated resources for blood cancer services; and (iii) provide equitable patient access to oncology and haematology medicines.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health what his Department is doing to ensure that people will have increased access to their GP.

(AQW 18974/17-22)

Mr Swann: GP practices are open and are providing face to face appointments for patients who are assessed as requiring them.

Recently collected figures indicate that in that particular week there were 164,137 GP and Practice Nurse consultations. That is a rate of 82 per 1,000 patients. Almost 40% of these were face to face.

For comparison, information collected in November 2019 shows a consultation rate of 86.8 per 1,000, of which 50% were face to face. The 2019 face to face activity would have included activities such as screening, which are now gradually being reintroduced.

General Practice has changed the way it works in responding to the current pandemic and despite the demands and capacity limits that COVID has created, GPs have maintained all of the core elements of general practice services.

The response to the COVID-19 pandemic has meant the introduction of innovative ways of working.

GP practices are operating a telephone first triage system which allows patients to continue to seek medical advice from their GP for both routine and urgent problems. The GP then uses their clinical judgement to decide if the patient can be safely managed over the telephone or whether a face to face appointment is required. Technologies such as video conferencing and enabling patients to send photographs by text have helped to facilitate diagnosis and ensure that patients are only required to visit surgeries where it is absolutely essential.

I recognise that face to face appointments are valued by many people as the norm for GP delivered care and that patients have at times found it difficult to access GP services via telephone. However, the model of primary care in place prior to the pandemic was already under considerable pressure and was not sustainable without significant change.

The scale of demand for GP led services has continuously grown over recent years. Figures collected in November 2019 indicate that total contacts with general practice stood at almost 15 million per year. For comparison, in 2014 the estimated total number of contacts was 12.7 million.

The need for transformation in primary care was already clear and initiatives such as the Multi-Disciplinary Team Programme; investment in technology, including telephony; the introduction of Advanced Nurse Practitioners and additional General Practice Nurses were making a difference to how services are delivered in primary care.

The use of more innovative ways of working, including telephone triage and telephone and video consultations, is now widely embedded within the primary care sector. As we emerge from COVID, it will be necessary to complement traditional ways of working by building upon new approaches, including the use of digital innovation and skills mix, to help ensure the sustainability of GP services in the face of increasing pressures and demands.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health to detail the (i) Terms of Reference for the Public Inquiry into Neurology; (ii) timescale for the Inquiry; and (iii) psychological support Neurology patients now and throughout the Inquiry.

Mr Swann: A link to the Terms of Reference for the Independent Neurology Inquiry (INI) is attached: <https://neurologyinquiry.org.uk/sites/ini/files/media-files/Independent%20Neurology%20Inquiry%20Terms%20of%20Reference%2011-12-%202020.pdf>

The INI was announced in May 2018. The INI operates independently of all bodies, including the Department of Health. In December 2020, I converted the INI from a non-statutory public inquiry to a statutory public inquiry under the Inquiries Act 2005. As was made clear in my statement at the time, this change in status was not intended to add to or alter the work or timescales of the INI, nor was it intended to change the way that evidence has been gathered or how public access has been provided. The Inquiry Panel is determined to produce a meaningful report which addresses all relevant issues, and in doing so it is necessary to adequately investigate all lines of enquiry. The Inquiry is mindful of the processes involved in producing a final report. It is therefore not possible at this stage to provide an indicative timescale in relation to the final report.

Patients impacted by the Neurology Recall will continue to be supported by the Belfast Trust. Patients who have been recalled have access to an expedited psychology pathway. A Neurology Advice Line, 0800 9801100, is also open Monday to Friday 9am to 6pm and Saturday and Sunday from 9am to 1pm. Patients also have access to the Neurological Care Advisory Service.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health how many people had taken a Selective Serotonin Reuptake Inhibitor in the weeks before their death, for each year since 2019.

(AQW 18985/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Business Services Organisation holds information on medicines prescribed in primary care and subsequently dispensed by a community pharmacist. However, this information is not routinely linked to mortality data, which is owned by the General Register Office for Northern Ireland.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health for his assessment of the Health Service's cyber security measures, including levels of funding and staffing arrangements.
(AQW 18987/17-22)

Mr Swann: Effective cyber-security is achieved through an array of initiatives and investments that combine: dedicated cyber-security resources with specialised skills; collaboration between cyber, infrastructure and networks teams across an enterprise; modern hardware that has built-in preventative measures; a strong Enterprise Architecture capability that 'designs-in' security to all systems; a number of tools for detection, compliance and protection of IT assets; and a persistent operational management and monitoring capability.

In response to the rise in cyber-attacks Health and Social Care organisations regularly review such investments in cyber-security measures. This work is managed by the HSC Cyber-Security Programme, instigated in response to the 2017 NHS Wannacry attacks.

Cyber criminals are known to access publically available information in relation to potential targets to ascertain nature of counter measures and strength of cyber defences. Therefore, in line with industry best practise, details of resources allocated to this work are not normally publicised.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health why COVID restrictions in Northern Ireland differ from the rest of the United Kingdom in relation to overseas holidays.
(AQW 19005/17-22)

Mr Swann: Travel outside of NI is vital to connecting families, boosting businesses and underpinning the economy. The Executive also appreciate how much families are looking forward to their holidays when it is safe to do so. We also understand how important business and holiday travel is for airports and airlines, alongside the important transit of goods, which has been more essential than ever during the pandemic.

It is absolutely essential that any steps we take now lay the groundwork for a sustainable return to travel that is able to weather the challenges we continue to face, despite the success of our vaccine programme, which have been brought home to us so clearly by recent surges in infections and increasing prevalence of variants of concern in many other countries.

On 20 May the Executive agreed to the following list of countries being included on the green list from 24 May, without the need for people to quarantine on their return to Northern Ireland. The countries and territories are: Australia, Iceland, New Zealand, Faroe Islands, South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands, Gibraltar, Saint Helena, Ascension and Tristan da Cunha, Brunei, Falkland Islands, Portugal, Israel, and Singapore.

People arriving from these destinations will be required to undertake a pre-departure test and to complete a UK passenger locator form together with a mandatory day 2 test.

In addition we will also request those arriving from Portugal, Israel or Singapore to take a voluntary Day 8 PCR test, which will be provided free of charge. This will be kept under review.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health to outline the laws governing the sale of illegal drugs.
(AQW 19009/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department has a statutory obligation to ensure compliance with national and international legislative requirements regarding the sale of medicines. The governing medicines-related legislation under which it acts includes the Human Medicines Regulations 2012, the Medicines Act 1968 and the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971 (together with a raft of attendant subordinate legislation), the Pharmacy (Northern Ireland) Order 1976 and the Poisons (Northern Ireland) Order 1976.

My Department, working with key partner agencies such as the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA), UK Border Force, the Police Service of Northern Ireland and the Department of Justice, continues to be extremely proactive in acting against those who willingly import or unlawfully sell illicit medicines.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health what work his Department has carried out on the impact of minimum unit pricing for alcohol; and its impact on those in poverty or deprived areas.
(AQW 19021/17-22)

Mr Swann: My Department previously commissioned a report from the University of Sheffield which concluded that a Minimum Unit Pricing (MUP) for alcohol would be effective in reducing alcohol consumption, alcohol-related harms (including alcohol-related deaths, hospitalisations, crimes and workplace absences) and the costs associated with those harms. This report is available in full on the DoH website at:

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/sites/default/files/publications/dhssps/alcohol-and-drug-mup-ni-report-from-university-of-sheffield.pdf>

One of the main conclusions from the modelling used by the University of Sheffield is that MUP would have larger impacts on those in poverty, particularly high-risk drinkers, than those not in poverty. However, those in poverty would also experience larger relative gains in health and are estimated to marginally reduce their spending due to their reduced drinking under the policy.

Once finalised, NI's forthcoming new Substance Use Strategy will contain my commitment to have a full consultation on MUP within the next year. This consultation will examine a range of possible options in respect of alcohol pricing, including consideration of the emerging evidence of the effectiveness of the real-time impact of MUP from Scotland and elsewhere. Any policy considerations arising from the consultation will be brought to the Executive in due course.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of (i) new; and (ii) repeat prescriptions issued by each GP practice in each of the last five years.

Mr Swann: It is not possible to detail the number of new and repeat prescriptions issued by each GP practice in each of the last five years. A repeat dispensing scheme, whereby a patient receives a set of prescriptions at one time, which are then presented to the pharmacist and dispensed when required, is available in Northern Ireland. However, not all practices use this system. It is also not possible to tell from this system if a batch of prescriptions were new or a repeat of a previous batch.

Also, the majority of repeat prescriptions are not issued via the repeat dispensing service; instead, a patient will contact their practice to ask for a repeat of medication previously received. There is no tracking on the system that can identify if prescriptions are new or repeat.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Health to detail the number of patients registered in each GP practice.

(AQW 19031/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Business Services Organisation publishes the number of patients registered in each GP practice within the quarterly General Medical Services Statistics publication. The most recent quarterly publication reports data up to the quarter ending December 2020 and is available at General Medical Services Statistics (hscni.net) (<http://www.hscbusiness.hscni.net/services/3174.htm>). Table 1.6 within this publication contains patient numbers registered by General Practice each quarter. The next release is due on 10th June 2021 and will report data up to the quarter ending March 2021.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health which hospitals use a cash only payment system for parking.

(AQW 19034/17-22)

Mr Swann: The majority of public car parks on hospital sites across the Health and Social Care estate currently operate a cash only payment system with the exception of the following:

- Royal Victoria Hospital (5 of 6 pay stations offer cashless option)
- Belfast City Hospital (cashless option expected to be operational in June 2021)
- Altnagelvin Hospital (card/contactless option available)
- South West Acute Hospital (a pilot for a card payment option is underway)

The Northern and South Eastern Trusts are currently working on implementing a card/contactless payment system on their hospital sites.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health to outline the measures his Department has taken to afford people living with dementia additional protection during the pandemic.

(AQW 19035/17-22)

Mr Swann: The COVID-19 pandemic has created many challenges for everyone, but particularly for those in vulnerable, at risk groups and their carers. As I am sure you are aware this is especially true for people living with a dementia who, because of cognitive impairment, may have difficulty in understanding the changes which COVID-19 has forced upon us e.g. use of PPE and social distancing, or the reasons for these changes. Many people living with dementia will have other significant health vulnerabilities and needs that place them at particular risk from the COVID-19 virus.

Measures have been put in place to provide protection against the virus for people living with a dementia, either in their own homes or in a care home setting. This protection includes the appropriate application of Infection Prevention and Control measures such as the use of appropriate Personal Protective Equipment by care staff; the introduction of social distancing wherever possible and restrictions on visiting within care homes.

It remains my position that care home visiting and implementation of the care partner role is of critical importance to the health and wellbeing of care home residents and in particular those with a dementia.

Current guidance sets out our clear expectation of care homes in relation to care partners. My Department, alongside the PHA, is working to support care homes to implement care partner arrangements, with over 2,600 care partners currently in place. Where homes are seeking to implement visiting and care partner guidance, funding has been available to them.

New guidance which will facilitate increased visiting in all care settings in Northern Ireland has been issued, and came into effect from Friday, 7 May 2021. The new visiting guidance for care homes sets out an agreed new approach to supporting safe and proportionate increased visiting in care homes. This includes updated arrangements for the safe management of care home residents receiving visitors, as well as residents being able to visit other households, community facilities and take part in excursions.

Health Trusts have been asked to assure themselves that care homes are operating in accordance with the visiting guidance. Trusts are also continuing to work with individual care homes to provide the support they might require to move forward with the facilitation of safely managed and meaningful visiting arrangements and implementation of the care partner concept.

A number of regional supports have also been made available to care homes with dementia units including staffing and financial support, and on a regional and Trust basis, the provision of extra training and education sessions related to supporting dementia residents and care staff. The aim of this being to understand and respond to changes in behaviour in people with a dementia during the COVID-19 pandemic.

In addition, Health Trusts were requested to develop support plans that ensure that they and service providers are working closely together to maintain services in a safe and effective way. Along with the Community and Voluntary sector, Trusts continue to provide local support to people with a dementia and their carers. This has included telephone calls to provide information and offer reassurance and the use of other technologies including Apps and video links. Trust Memory Services have also adapted to current circumstances and through the use of technology and other innovative practices, are able to undertake assessments and care reviews.

Over the course of the pandemic the HSC, including my Department, has and will continue to provide information and guidance in relation to a range of COVID-19 related issues that impact on those who have a dementia, whether they live in the community or are placed in a care home setting. Work has been ongoing to ensure that all messaging is presented in a format that is accessible and easily understood, and information about dementia and COVID-19 is available on the NI Direct and Department of Health websites.

I am also pleased that people living with dementia who are in receipt of residential or nursing home care were among the top priority groups for the first round of vaccinations. Further to this the rollout of COVID-19 vaccines in all NI care homes is now complete.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister of Health for an update on the work of his Department in relation to making dementia a stand-alone priority through the ongoing reform of the adult social care system.

(AQW 19037/17-22)

Mr Swann: In relation to the Reform of Adult Social Care, the Expert Panel's report 'Power to People - Proposals to Reboot Adult Social Care' set out sixteen high level proposals to address the challenges faced by the Adult Social Care system in Northern Ireland. My Department established a Reform of Adult Social Care Project and a number of work streams to consider how each of the Power to People proposals could be taken forward. These proposals were merged into the six strategic priorities listed below:

- 1 A Valued Workforce - Staff who work in Social Care will be valued, competent and resilient.
- 2 Individual Choice and Control - To ensure the individual has control over the decisions affecting their social wellbeing and their care and support needs.
- 3 Prevention and Early Intervention - A renewed focus on prevention and early intervention to support people to achieve their own social wellbeing.
- 4 Supporting Carers - Carers will be supported in their caring duties and entitled to support in their own right.
- 5 Primacy of Home - The purposes of adult social care, including group care services, is to support citizens to live well in their own home in connection to their families, social networks and communities, providing maximum choice and control of their daily living arrangements and their care and support provision.
- 6 Sustainable System Building - To build a stable, sustainable adult social care system.

Although The Power to People report did not identify dementia as a standalone priority, the area would cut across the six strategic priorities and be positively impacted by all the recommendations.

The Health and Social Care workforce is working on behalf of everyone in society to provide vital care for the most vulnerable, including those living with dementia, and the COVID-19 pandemic has highlighted the invaluable role and commitment of HSC staff, including those social care workers in the Independent Sector employed in all care settings.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Health to detail the recruitment plans for the Northern Ireland Fire and Rescue Service in West Tyrone.

(AQW 19048/17-22)

Mr Swann: Northern Ireland Fire and Rescue Service (NIFRS) maintains a rolling recruitment programme for On-Call Firefighters. The next On-Call recruitment campaign is scheduled to commence at the end of June 2021, for appointments from January 2022 onwards.

Within West Tyrone, Newtownstewart and Castlederg stations are likely to fill vacancies as part of this campaign. Omagh and Strabane do not require recruitment at present.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Health, given the apparent medical consensus that Ivermectin is proving effective against COVID-19, why is it not available to be prescribed in Northern Ireland.

(AQW 19057/17-22)

Mr Swann: Ivermectin is not currently authorised in the UK or EU for the treatment or prevention of COVID-19 and the UK or EU medicines regulators have not received any applications for its use in this way.

A research article (The FDA-approved drug ivermectin inhibits the replication of SARS-CoV-2 in vitro) in the Antiviral Research publication in June 2020 described the effect of ivermectin on SARS-CoV-2 in a laboratory setting. Laboratory studies such as this are common at early stages of drug development. However, additional testing is needed in humans to determine whether ivermectin might be appropriate to prevent or treat COVID-19. Until further evidence is available, ivermectin should only be used for the treatment or prevention of COVID-19 in a controlled clinical trial setting.

Ms Ní Chuilín asked the Minister of Health to detail the funding awarded by the Health and Social Care Trusts and his Department for mental health support for the Community and Voluntary Sector, broken down by constituency.

(AQW 19064/17-22)

Mr Swann: Funding allocations are provided by Health and Social Care Trust rather than by constituency, therefore this information is not available.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Health for an update on the New Decade, New Approach commitment to funding for an addiction centre in Derry.

(AQW 19085/17-22)

Mr Swann: Under the heading "Addressing Northern Ireland's Unique Circumstances" within "New Decade, New Approach", the UK Government committed to making funding available for a number of areas, which could include additional funding to support the Derry/Londonderry addiction centre. It is anticipated that the level of funding made available will not be sufficient to cover all the areas set out in New Decade, New Approach. It is my understanding that the specific projects this funding is aimed at supporting are to be determined by a joint board which includes the Secretary of State and the First and deputy First Ministers.

Neither my Department nor the Health & Social Care Board nor the Public Health Agency have been involved directly in this process to date. We would obviously welcome any further investment in substance use services, however this needs to be in line with identified need and our priorities for service development within the strategic commissioning and planning processes.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Health whether his Department has any plans to carry out a review of addiction services.

(AQW 19086/17-22)

Mr Swann: Alcohol and drugs services across Northern Ireland are provided in line with the Regional Alcohol & Drugs Commissioning Framework through a combination of Primary and Secondary Care services commissioned by the Health & Social Care Board, along with prevention, treatment and support services commissioned by the Public Health Agency.

The forthcoming new Substance Use Strategy contains a commitment to develop a new strategic planning framework for alcohol and drug services in NI. Future funding for substance use services will be reviewed in line with the new strategy and this new framework. In the meantime, resources for substance use services continue to be managed on a regional basis.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Health for a breakdown of the number of admissions made by each Health and Social Care Trust to the Northland Addiction Treatment Centre in Derry, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 19087/17-22)

Mr Swann: The number of referrals received from each HSC Trust to the Northlands Addiction Treatment Centre: 2018 – 2020

	Western HSC Trust	Northern HSC Trust	Southern HSC Trust	S. Eastern HSC Trust	Belfast HSC Trust
2018	16	4	3	0	0
2020	6	0	0	0	0

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health (i) to provide details of any plans to introduce a mechanism for travellers to provide confirmation of a COVID-19 vaccination, similar to those being discussed in Great Britain; and (ii) what plans he has to enable Northern Irish people to access a relevant NHS app to facilitate this.

(AQW 19107/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department of Health is working on a mechanism to enable proof of vaccination to the agreed standard for travellers. It is anticipated that a paper based option will be available in the first instance, from a specialist printing service.

This process requires infrastructure to be developed, allowing citizens to request certification which is securely linked to their personal data. Further details will follow shortly.

There are currently no plans for a mechanism to enable Northern Irish people to access a relevant NHS app to facilitate travel to and from Northern Ireland.

In the meantime it should be noted that neither GP Practices nor other HSC organisations are able to issue letters for travel purposes.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister of Health to detail the amount of blood donated in each of the last five years.

(AQW 19111/17-22)

Mr Swann: The information requested is not available within the Department. The Northern Ireland Blood Transfusion Service (NIBTS) was approached for information. Please see below information provided by the NIBTS detailing the units of whole blood and platelets donated in the last five years.

Units of whole blood and platelets donated to the Northern Ireland Blood Transfusion Service in the last five years, 2016/17-2020/21.

Donations	2016/17	2017/18	2018/19	2019/20	2020/21
Whole Blood	48,542	43,706	43,828	40,914	37,491
Platelets	4,632	4,434	4,127	4,196	3,403

Mrs Cameron asked the Minister of Health when he will sign off the Occupational Therapy Workforce Review Report that was completed in 2017.

(AQW 19124/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Department has completed a series of AHP workforce reviews including Occupational Therapy which commenced in 2017. Their aim is to ensure the availability of an AHP workforce capable of meeting current and future demands across all services. Work on finalising the Occupational Therapy Workforce review has continued throughout the pandemic. The review has now been finalised and is one of a number of reviews to go to the Top Management Group (TMG) for consideration in the near future. The reviews will then be forwarded to me for approval and publication on the Department's website.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Health whether there have been any cyber attacks on the Health Service in 2021.

(AQW 19128/17-22)

Mr Swann: Assessments provided by the National Cyber Security Centre (NCSC) highlight the public sector organisations as being an attractive target for malicious cyber actors. HSC organisations regularly experience attempted cyber-attacks and they continue to enhance defences and security operations.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health when the recommendations from the Speech and Language Workforce Review 2018 will be fully implemented.

Mr Swann: My Department is committed to taking forward the recommendations contained in the Speech and Language Therapy Workforce Review Report, including those which relate to further expansions in pre-registration training places. However, funding for the proposed expansions in this pre-registration programme will be required on a recurrent, multi-year basis. The current budgetary pressures facing my Department mean that there is no funding for any such expansion.

In the field of healthcare, funding is always finite and the need seemingly infinite, so inevitably it is necessary to prioritise. I have placed on record my view that the 2021/22 budget for my Department is extremely disappointing. While the additional resource allocations provided are to be welcomed, the non-recurrent nature of much of this funding means that I face some very difficult decisions.

The present funding model that we operate within is simply not fit for purpose, particularly so when considering long term investment in providing and skilling up the workforce. What is really needed is sustained investment and multi-year Budget settlements.

I can assure you the need to expand this programme will be considered, alongside other Departmental priorities, in future budget build exercises

In relation to other recommendations from the Speech and Language Workforce Review, the AHP Programme Steering Group recently approved the further development of a Workforce Review Implementation Plan for all AHPs, including Speech and Language Therapy. As part of this Plan, a Regional AHP Professional Advisory Forum will soon be established by the Department's Chief AHP Officer.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health, in relation to the £500 special recognition payment for Health and Social Care staff on the Business Service Organisation payroll, whether there are any staff that would be exempt from the payment if they were on sick leave, or other forms of leave, during 2020.

(AQW 19141/17-22)

Mr Swann: An FAQ on the special recognition payment, which includes eligibility criteria, has been published on my Department's website and is available at the following link;

<https://www.health-ni.gov.uk/news/hsc-staff-recognition-payment-faqs>

As set out in the FAQ, anyone who was off work shielding or on any form of maternity/shared parental/adoption leave is treated for the purposes of the payment as having been in work, and will have their contracted hours reflected in their payment.

Similarly, any staff member who was absent due to illness will have their normal hours included in the calculation. Only periods of illness in which a staff member is on a zero rate of pay are NOT included.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Health to outline his plans for a pay rise for nurses in this financial year.

(AQW 19160/17-22)

Mr Swann: The pay round for 2021/22 for NHS and HSC staff has not yet been finalised.

Any decision on a pay award for nurses and other NI health workers, will be taken after the pay review bodies make their recommendations. I do not intend to pre-empt those recommendations. The NHS Pay Review Body is now expected to publish its report in June 2021.

Please be assured that both I and my Department remain committed to a fair pay settlement for all our healthcare staff going forward.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health whether mental health workers, working as part of the Multi-Disciplinary Teams, will be employed by GP Federations or the Health Trusts in the future roll out of MDTs.

(AQW 19166/17-22)

Mr Swann: The MDT model is complete or well developed in 5 of the 17 GP Federations in Northern Ireland – Down, Londonderry, West Belfast, Causeway and Newry & District Federations. Additionally, a small MDT footprint is currently being introduced jointly in the North Down and Ards areas.

Across the current MDT areas, 5 Mental Health Managers and 56.46 Mental Health Practitioners (whole time equivalent figures) are employed. All are GP Federation employees and there are currently no plans to change the employment status of these staff or newly recruited MDT Mental Health employees going forward.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister of Health given that Scotland, Wales and England now have systems either in place or in development, to detail the solutions his Department is considering in regards to proving COVID-19 vaccination status for those seeking to travel.

Mr Swann: The NI Vaccination Programme is being concentrated on the vaccination of the population to protect everyone, particularly older and vulnerable citizens in our community. It will also help us move gradually towards the easing of restrictions in society, and particularly for travel, when it is safe to do so.

The Department of Health is working on a solution to enable proof of vaccination to the agreed standard. It is anticipated that a paper based option will be available in the first instance, from a specialist printing service. This requires infrastructure to be developed, allowing citizens to request certification which is securely linking to their personal data. Further details will follow shortly. In the meantime it should be noted that neither GP practices or other HSC organisations are able to issue letters for travel purposes.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health to list each COVID-19 vaccine that is available per (i) vaccination centre; (ii) GP practice; and (iii) community pharmacy.

(AQW 19189/17-22)

Mr Swann: The following is a list which details each Covid-19 vaccine available for each of the Covid-19 Programmes:-

Trust	Vaccine administered
Northern Trust	Pfizer only
Southern Trust	Pfizer only
Belfast Trust	Pfizer only
Western Trust	Pfizer and AstraZeneca
SSE Arena	Pfizer and AstraZeneca
GP Practices	AstraZeneca only
Community Pharmacy	AstraZeneca only

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health, pursuant to AQW 18779/17-22, (i) how many positions are on the Autism Forum; and (ii) what is the ratio between HSC representatives and others.

(AQW 19190/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Autism Forum will not be confined to a specific number of positions or ratios in its configuration, rather it will be based upon the needs and work being undertaken by the Forum at any given time. As previously stated in AQW 18779/17-22, an invitation extended to twenty one organisations, of which nine accepted. This invitation requested a nominee from the organisation and also a person with lived experience, for example an autistic person, family member or carer. Some members of the Forum fulfil a dual role.

The Health and Social Care sector is represented by the Health and Social Care Board and cross-departmental representation is fulfilled by my Department. Additional members will be invited to attend the group as required.

It should be noted that while this Autism Forum will inform development and co-production of a longer term autism strategy at a strategic level, my Department will also continue to participate in regional multi-agency autism forums in each Trust area, these are comprised of people with lived experience, multi-disciplinary clinicians, community and voluntary groups and public and government sector representatives. This will enable wider consultative input and co-production of a longer term strategy and influence the shaping of future policy and service in relation to autism.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Health whether the vaccination centre in the SSE Arena administers (i) only Oxford AstraZeneca vaccinations; (ii) Oxford AstraZeneca and Pfizer vaccinations; or (iii) Pfizer only vaccinations.

(AQW 19192/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Vaccination Centre at the SSE Arena administers both the AstraZeneca and Pfizer vaccines. Due to fluctuations in vaccine supply, there have been short periods of time when the Pfizer vaccine was only available as second doses.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Health whether consideration has been given to the relaxation of face masks during indoor church services and worship.

Mr Swann: Face coverings are mandatory within a place of worship and when entering or leaving, except for the person leading the service and the two parties to a marriage or civil partnership or if a person has a reasonable excuse. No special consideration has been given to relaxing this requirement in churches.

The Executive has committed to a four-week review cycle, where we monitor the data on a range of health and societal impacts, before considering what relaxations can be made safely. While the Executive formally reviews and make decisions on restrictions every four weeks, our monitoring cycle provides us with the ability to move more rapidly on emerging priorities should the need arise before the next review point. The next formal review of the coronavirus restrictions will be on 10 June 2021.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health whether he plans to make funding for access to Medtronic Continuous Glucose Monitors available through his Department or Health and Social Care Trusts.

(AQW 19233/17-22)

Mr Swann: The use of Continuous Glucose Monitoring (CGM) systems may not be appropriate for all patients to manage diabetes, however, where this treatment option is deemed clinically appropriate, it would be funded by the appropriate Health and Social Care Trust, subject to available resources.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Health when 16-17 year olds who are deemed vulnerable and meet the criteria for vaccination online, but don't meet the criteria over the phone, will receive their COVID-19 vaccine.

(AQW 19237/17-22)

Mr Swann: The member will be aware that 16-17 year olds who are deemed vulnerable are included in Priority Group 6.

Those who are 16-64 years and clinically extremely vulnerable (not in residential care) have been invited for vaccination by their GP since 22 February, by means of a telephone call. Those who are 16-64 years and clinically vulnerable (not in residential care) have been offered a vaccination appointment via the HSC booking portal since 8 March. They would require a letter from their GP to take with them to their appointment.

The telephone number for bookings has been arranged for those who are unable to access the booking portal and therefore there is no barrier to those making a call.

The member will appreciate the programme is responding to many complex scenarios, and therefore calls may not have been made to the most appropriate provider for their eligibility criteria. It is however designed to be pragmatic, agile and flexible, and will continue to proactively seek to vaccinate all those in priority groups not already vaccinated.

A management information report is produced internally within the Department to monitor progress of the vaccination programme and provide details of those not yet vaccinated. This is to facilitate maximum vaccine deployment and uptake, and keep vaccine wastage to a minimum.

If a person has an issue with booking an appointment there is a dedicated email address for queries, at:-

Covid-19VaccinationProgramme@health-ni.gov.uk

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Health whether he will bring forward proposals as a matter of urgency to harmonise travel restrictions and isolation rules for holidays within the Common Travel Area with those relating to overseas holidays.

(AQW 19310/17-22)

Mr Swann: Travel outside of NI is vital to connecting families, boosting businesses and underpinning the economy. The Executive also appreciate how much families are looking forward to their holidays when it is safe to do so.

It is absolutely essential that any steps we take now lay the groundwork for a sustainable return to travel that is able to weather the challenges we continue to face, despite the success of our vaccine programme, which have been brought home to us so clearly by recent surges in infections and increasing prevalence of variants of concern in many other countries.

From 24 May we have decided to remove the essential travel reasons requirement for Common Travel Area travel. The guidance on self-isolation will be retained but with two new exemptions to this:

- visits to family and friends;
- those who have completed mandatory managed quarantine on arrival at a point of entry elsewhere in the CTA and travelled directly to Northern Ireland.

Those exempt from self-isolation will be asked in guidance to take a pre-departure LFD test, and LFD tests and days 2 and 8 post arrival in Northern Ireland.

On 20 May the Executive agreed to the following list of countries being included on the green list from 24 May, without the need for people to quarantine on their return to Northern Ireland. The countries and territories are: Australia, Iceland, New Zealand, Faroe Islands, South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands, Gibraltar, Saint Helena, Ascension and Tristan da Cunha, Brunei, Falkland Islands, Portugal, Israel, and Singapore.

People arriving from these destinations are required to undertake a pre-departure test and to complete a UK passenger locator form together with a mandatory day 2 test.

In addition, those arriving from Portugal, Israel or Singapore are requested to take a voluntary Day 8 PCR test, which will be provided free of charge. This will be kept under review.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Health what information is collected on the prevalence in specific geographocal locations of (i) severe headaches; (ii) nausea; and (iii) vomiting.

(AQW 19388/17-22)

Mr Swann: This information is not collected centrally; if recorded, it would only be recorded on GP practice clinical systems. Also, GPs may not always be informed of the occurrence of these conditions and in such cases, their occurrence would not be recorded at all.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Health (i) whether there has been full recall of patients that have undergone a procedure for female sterilisation utilising the Essure device; and (ii) for an update on his Department's work to address the waiting list of women requiring surgery as a result of Essure devices.

(AQW 20555/17-22)

Mr Swann: The Essure device is no longer in use in Northern Ireland. Most Health and Social Care Trusts stopped using this device in 2017, with the Belfast HSC Trust ceasing use in 2016.

The advice from the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) was that the devices were acceptably safe to use and there was no evidence to suggest any increased risk to patient safety.

As such, a full recall of patients who have undergone a procedure for female sterilisation using the device has not been considered necessary.

Women requiring surgery as a result of Essure device complications are added to the gynaecology waiting list which is managed in chronological order, with the most urgent patients seen and treated first, although currently only emergency surgery in life-critical and cancer cases is able to take place. On 15th June 2021, I published an Elective Care Framework, the purpose of which is to set out both the immediate and longer term actions and funding requirements needed to tackle our waiting lists. The framework builds on the actions and initiatives that are already underway to maintain and transform elective services.

Department for Infrastructure

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of flooding issues in Stockmans Lane, Belfast.

(AQW 18576/17-22)

Ms Mallon (The Minister for Infrastructure): My officials carried out an investigation into the recent flooding that occurred on Stockman's Lane during which it was noted that water was discharging from Musgrave Park onto Stockman's Lane carriageway. Liaison with Belfast City Council, which manages Musgrave Park, is ongoing to determine how this can be prevented.

A follow-up investigation also identified a number of broken connections to the existing road drainage system and work instructions to carry out the necessary remedial work have now issued to our contractor.

In relation to infrastructure improvements in the Stockman's Lane locality, my Department's Living With Water Programme seeks to promote a new approach to the provision of drainage and wastewater infrastructure, which promotes holistic and integrated solutions that achieve multiple benefits at reduced cost with less disruption.

Public consultation has recently concluded on Living With Water in Belfast – An Integrated Plan for Drainage and Wastewater Management in Greater Belfast. The plan includes delivery of major sewerage and drainage network improvements in the Boucher Road / Stockman's Lane areas through NI Water's Glenmachan Sewerage Improvement Project which, subject to funding and approvals, is scheduled to commence in 2021/22.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) for her assessment of the impact the recent Planning Appeals Commission decision 2020/A0017 to grant planning permission to a major housing development over the line of the disused railway track at Victoria Road, Derry will have on her vision of an all-island strategic rail network; and (ii) whether her Department will exercise its oversight and scrutiny role to examine how this material planning consideration factored into any decision.

Ms Mallon: The All Island Strategic Rail Review which I announced last month, along with Transport Minister Eamon Ryan TD, will allow us to consider our network across this island to view how we can improve it for everyone. Minister Ryan and I have a shared ambition for rail and commitment to tackling the climate emergency, and we are keen that we use this opportunity to consider how we can improve our rail network across the island of Ireland, including the North-West.

To achieve this, the All Island Rail review will examine the potential for rail connections across the island including how our existing connections could be improved and where new rail links would be best placed. During this exercise, the Review will consider the high level viability of any new connections including the potential benefits and risks to any proposed rail track including the current structures or planning approvals in place.

The planning application has been through the full rigours of local decision-making including an appeal before the Planning Appeals Commission (PAC), an independent appellant body and their decision is final. The opportunity to bring all material planning matters before the PAC was open to all parties including the Council and the local community. The Department, as regional planning authority, had no prior knowledge of or role in this local planning process.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the number of complaints her Department has raised with utility companies, regarding the quality of their reinstatement work, in each of the last three years.

Ms Mallon: Utility companies are responsible for the permanent reinstatement of roads to an agreed specification. When utility companies do not reinstate roads in a satisfactory manner, the Department applies the procedures for inspection of reinstatements and for dealing with reinstatement failures as set out in the Northern Ireland Road Authority and Utilities Committee (NIRAUC) Code of Practice for Inspections.

I can confirm there were 895 failed inspections in 2018/19, 1024 in 2019/20 and 757 in 2020/21 when a utility company did not carry out a reinstatement to an acceptable standard. The reinstatement defects were subsequently notified to the company responsible for the necessary remedial works.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department has received Barnett consequentials as a result of England's Future High Streets Fund to enable her Department to regenerate city and town centres in Northern Ireland.
(AQW 18719/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My department has not received any Barnett consequentials from this fund. Barnett consequentials that derive from additional spending on comparable services in England are unhypothecated. Therefore, it is for the Executive to determine how this funding is used, based on its own priorities.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure how much has her Department paid out to adopt roads that should have been funded by developers, in each of the last ten years.

Ms Mallon: The majority of new developments are successfully completed by developers and then adopted by my Department. Where a development has been determined for adoption under the Private Streets (NI) Order 1980, the developer is responsible for providing roads and footways to a standard suitable for adoption by my Department. It is illegal for a developer to start a new development without first entering into an Agreement to provide roads, secured by a road bond. Where a developer starts without an Agreement and bond, my officials can progress enforcement action.

Where a development is not progressing, my officials will generally encourage the developer to complete the development in a timely manner. Should a developer fail to respond, my officials can then issue an enforcement notice. Where this course of action is unsuccessful, my Department can complete the works and seek to reclaim these costs from the surety or developer.

Over the last 10 years my Department has undertaken works to complete road infrastructure in a number of developments prior to adoption. Where this has occurred, my officials seek to recoup the full cost from either the surety or the developer. This is often a complex and lengthy process. Unfortunately, information on the final outturn cost of these works to my Department is not readily available.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the number of current departmental private street inspectors, compared to before the most recent Voluntary Exit Scheme.
(AQW 18735/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I understand that, prior to the NICS Voluntary Exit Scheme in 2014/2015, the former Department for Regional Development had 43.5 full time equivalent staff undertaking private streets functions across Northern Ireland.

Following VES, the number of full time equivalent staff in the Department for Infrastructure currently undertaking these functions is 22.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for Infrastructure, pursuant to AQW 18019/17-22, for her assessment of the risks to (i) public health; and (ii) the environment from identified sewage overflow incidents.
(AQW 18748/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Sewage overflow incidents are operational matters for NI Water and any associated risks, and consequences, are for it, and its environmental regulators, to mitigate against and address. The Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) is responsible for protecting public health and the environment by providing effective and efficient regulation and enforcement of water supplies. Responsibility for the regulation of discharges from the Larne Sewage Network falls under the remit of the NIEA. A number of measures including legislative requirements, have been put in place by both NI Water and NIEA to mitigate risks associated with sewage overflows in the Larne area

NI Water has advised that sewer networks have a finite capacity and are designed to overflow to relieve pressure on the system. The overflow is released through safety valves or Combined Sewer Overflows (CSOs) which flow into the receiving freshwater or marine environment. The CSOs operate on a sewer network during periods of storm/ extreme wet weather and bring significant dilution in the receiving environment, which minimises the risks to the environment, The CSOs are also to stop the internal flooding of households and businesses with sewage which would present a risk to public health.

The NIEA is responsible, under the Urban Wastewater Treatment Directive, for protecting the environment from the adverse effects of urban wastewater discharges. I understand that the NIEA is currently engaging with NI Water in relation to a number of improvements required to the sewerage network in the Larne area. These improvements are intended to mitigate any risks to neighbouring bathing and shellfish waters and reduce the impact of sewage spills from the sewer network.

Mr Clarke asked the Minister for Infrastructure when resurfacing works will be carried out throughout Neillsbrook, Randalstown.
(AQW 18781/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Allocations to Divisions are being finalised. Once this is complete, the 2021-22 resurfacing programme for Antrim and Newtownabbey will be finalised and details of schemes will be included in the DfI's Roads Spring report to Antrim and Newtownabbey Council.

Mr Clarke asked the Minister for Infrastructure when resurfacing works will be carried out on the Ahoghill Road, Randalstown.
(AQW 18782/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Allocations to Divisions are being finalised. Once this is complete, the 2021-22 resurfacing programme for Antrim and Newtownabbey will be finalised and details of schemes will be included in the DfI's Roads Spring report to Antrim and Newtownabbey Council.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the funding allocation for 2021-22 for (i) Southern Division; and (ii) rural roads within Southern Division.

Ms Mallon: Whilst the 2021-22 budget for Southern Division has yet to be confirmed, I can advise that a provisional list of schemes is being developed across all programmes for delivery during the 2021-22 financial year. Once finalised, details of schemes will be included in the DfI Roads Spring reports presented to the various Councils prior to general release.

I recognise the historic underinvestment in rural roads and I am committed to building on the success of the £12m allocation I made to a Roads Recovery Fund in the 2020-21 financial year, of which £10m was specifically directed to rural roads. I plan to establish a further Roads Recovery Fund in 2021-22 to continue this important work and help rural communities.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for Infrastructure when funding will be allocated to complete resurfacing for (i) Carrivekeeneey Road; and (ii) Cloghogue Heights, Newry.

Ms Mallon: Allocations to Divisions are being finalised. Once this is complete, the Department will develop a works programme for the 2021-22 financial year which will include consideration of the delivery of resurfacing works at Carrivekeeneey Road and Cloghogue Heights.

Unfortunately, works programmes have the potential to be delayed due to legal issues surrounding the award of my Department's new resurfacing contract for the area.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) whether she has agreed a budget for road maintenance that gives full regard to the health, safety and equality concerns of the deterioration of rural roads and; (ii) how she will address regional imbalance, specifically for roads in West Tyrone.
(AQW 18796/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The budget for road maintenance is not distributed solely on a geographical basis but rather is allocated to each of the four Roads Divisions on the basis of need using a range of weighted indicators tailored to each maintenance activity (e.g., resurfacing, patching). Divisions broadly use these indicators when apportioning across council areas and this ensures, as far as practicable, an equitable distribution of funds across the whole of the North, including West Tyrone.

I recognise that there has been historical under-investment in our road network for a significant number of years and that many rural roads are in need of repairs. In response I allocated £10m of my 2020-21 Capital budget to specifically address defects on rural roads.

I remain committed in this new financial year to the continuation of a roads recovery fund to help rural communities. I can assure you my Department is committed to delivering the best possible services with the funds available and our divisional teams are currently finalising their work programmes. Details of our works programmes will be provided in the reports presented by Divisional Roads Managers to the various District Councils at the forthcoming round of spring meetings.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister for Infrastructure, in relation to health and safety concerns of road users, whether she will ensure that the road defects on the Derrybard Road and Greenmount Road, Fintona will be rectified.

Ms Mallon: You may be aware that some resurfacing work has already taken place during the past year that has greatly improved the running surface on these roads. Both of these roads are inspected on a three monthly cycle and the next scheduled inspections are due in the first week of June. All actionable defects identified during these inspections are recorded and repaired within the timeframes established under the current limited service.

Ms Armstrong asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) how will she ensure local councils and Translink provide safe bus stops across rural communities to prevent vulnerable people and children from having to stand on a 60mph roadside with no protection, lighting or timetable displayed; and (ii) whether her Department has discussed capital investment options to secure funding needed to improve rural bus stops to the same standard used in urban areas.

Ms Mallon:

- (i) When developing new roads or making improvements to existing roads my Department consults with Council, Translink and other stakeholders to make sure that the needs of all road users including the needs of those using public transport are fully integrated into the design. Where appropriate street lighting, footways and bus lay-bys can be incorporated as part of the road improvement.

When there is an opportunity to deploy new shelters or if Translink receive requests from passengers or local representatives, they will assess the passenger usage along with a number of other factors including the usage from vulnerable passengers and this information will help inform if the stop should be upgraded to a shelter with lighting. They will then work with the local stakeholders to provide the shelter and manage the maintenance of them. Translink also remains open to working with, and to receive requests from, local communities to improve bus stops/shelters where possible.

- (ii) My Department works closely with Translink on capital planning and securing capital funding for bus shelters across the North. This year, I have provided funding of £321,000 to Translink for the refurbishment and erection of new bus shelters. In addition, funding is also available within the 'Local Transport and Safety Measures' budget to improve rural bus stops, where a need has been identified by Translink in conjunction with local communities.

Mrs D Kelly asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the establishment of an Infrastructure Commission for Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18830/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I established a Ministerial Advisory Panel on Infrastructure in August 2020 to consider how an Infrastructure Commission for Northern Ireland might support more effectively the long term planning and development of relevant infrastructure here. The Panel presented a report on their findings to me on 2 October 2020.

I have shared the report with Executive colleagues; the Infrastructure Committee and the Speaker. I have also published the report on my Department's website.

I am continuing to engage with Executive colleagues and am pleased to have received confirmation of support from a majority of Ministers. Looking at the demonstrable success of Infrastructure Commissions around the world, a Commission in Northern Ireland has a critical role to play in our economic recovery from Covid, in the face of Brexit and if we are to deliver on ambitious net zero targets. I therefore continue to work with all Executive colleagues to find consensus on how we might best move forward.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the total amount of money spent from the Blue/Green Fund in 2021/22, broken down per project.

(AQW 18862/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I am currently finalising my budget allocations, however, I have made it clear that I intend to invest in a Blue/Green Infrastructure fund for this year. My Department is currently finalising a full delivery programme.

You have asked what has been spent to date within 21/22 and I can confirm that my Department has, so far, made binding Blue Green Fund grant and contractual commitments amounting to £1.9 million for the following projects in 2021/22:

Forth Meadow Community Greenway	£450,000
Lagan Gateway Greenway	£550,000
Strabane North Greenway	£470,000
Strathfoyle Greenway	£150,000
Strangford Ferry emissions reduction	£300,000
Total	£1,920,000

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure why a combined footway and cycleway is proposed as part of the A4 Enniskillen Southern Bypass as opposed to segregated cycle paths.

(AQW 18863/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I recently announced my decision to proceed with the Enniskillen Southern Bypass scheme and make the statutory Orders. I have made clear my commitment to making road improvements to tackle regional imbalance, improving the economy, job prospects and prosperity, connecting communities and improving road safety. To complement the bypass, provision for active travel has been incorporated into the scheme with 3.4km of new footway/cycleway to be constructed as part of the scheme.

The scheme design assessed the need for a footway/cycleway along the Bypass and identified a shared facility as a suitable provision. As part of my decision to proceed with the scheme, my Department will be looking at further opportunities to maximise the footway/cycleway provision including separation from the carriageway within the vesting line of the Bypass.

In parallel with this work my Department will also be exploring further opportunities to improve the town centre to create a sustainable, liveable place where people have the space to stay, meet, shop and safely walk, wheel and cycle. This will include opportunities for active and sustainable travel in the town.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure what plans her Department has to create a cycle path from Groomsport to Donaghadee.

(AQW 18875/17-22)

Ms Mallon: In order to promote walking and cycling infrastructure, my Department is currently working with Ards and North Down Borough Council to develop a series of greenways within the Ards and North Down area; this includes a link between Groomsport to Donaghadee.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on ESB efforts to receive match funding to upgrade the charge point network.

Ms Mallon: The British Government has announced that it is bringing forward its plans to ban sales of new diesel and petrol vehicles in the UK to 2030. My Department is engaging with the Office for Zero Emission Vehicles (OZEV) which is currently carrying out extensive stakeholder engagement across the UK about meeting this challenge. I have also written to British Ministers to seek clarity on what funding will be provided to support the North in delivering greener, cleaner transport. Funding opportunities for the installation of charge point infrastructure in Great Britain and in Northern Ireland are provided by OZEV.

I recently met with ESB to identify further opportunities to advance the e-charging network in order to help tackle the climate crisis. My officials are currently considering the future requirements in terms of public charge point infrastructure and will continue to liaise with ESB to ensure the public network can meet the needs of EV owners now and in the future.

I am committed to supporting the transition to electric vehicles as part of wider transport decarbonisation work and to working in partnership with Executive colleagues and others across our islands to help deliver a change in the way we travel that also helps us to tackle the climate crisis.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the percentage of her total budget that was allocated for cycling infrastructure in 2020-2021.

(AQW 18880/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department had an opening capital budget of £558m in 2020-21; of which £300m was required to cover contractual commitments and Executive Flagship schemes.

There was an allocation of £6m specifically for cycling and supporting greenway initiatives in the opening budget for 2020-21; which represents 2.3% of the budget that was available for allocation and is an increase on the previous year.

In addition there are activities within structural maintenance and road schemes that benefit cyclists however this cannot be separately identified.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will commit to only pursuing segregated cycle lanes to future proof the cycling network with best practice.

(AQW 18881/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I am fully committed to delivering sustainable infrastructure that transform our communities and people's lives and that includes the provision of good infrastructure that will make walking, wheeling and cycling more attractive to everyone.

My Department strives to provide separated space for walking and cycling, as well as effective separation from motor traffic. As highlighted in my previous answer (AQW 17920/17-22), my Department prioritises the use of the most up-to-date best practice, currently being Local Transport Note (LTN) 1/20, Cycling Infrastructure Design, which was published by the Department for Transport in July 2020.

However, the guidance indicates that shared space may be appropriate where pedestrian numbers are very low and these are the locations where we will consider such provision. It is crucial that we maximise opportunities for cycling infrastructure for communities across the north as much as possible, even with shared infrastructure where segregated isn't possible.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 16337/17-22, why no assessment was carried out for an independent public transport regulatory body for buses.

(AQW 18882/17-22)

Ms Mallon: As outlined within the Transport Act (Northern Ireland) 2011, most public passenger transport services, including bus services, are delivered within Northern Ireland by the Northern Ireland Transport Holding Company (NITHC), an Arm's Length Body of my Department.

By having a public sector body delivering public transport bus services, there is a high level of regulation over NITHC given the legal and contractual relationship between my Department and NITHC. This position was supported in the Northern Ireland Audit Office report into the Effectiveness of Public Transport in Northern Ireland. Within that same report, it outlines that the then Department for Regional Development (DRD) did not bring forward an independent regulatory body for public transport on the basis that a contract was being developed with NITHC for the provision of public transport. This contract was subsequently put in place between the then DRD and NITHC in October 2015 and continues to be managed by my Department.

Within the NIAO report, it outlines that DRD put in place the structures “in light of prevailing budget restraint and in the interests of cost effectiveness in delivering the public transport reform programmes.” As you will be aware, my Department faces a difficult budgetary position given the impact of COVID-19 for the year ahead and, given the already regulated nature of the bus sector, resources would not currently permit an assessment of an independent public transport regulatory body for buses.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister for Infrastructure, in relation to the latest traffic volumes that have been recorded on sections of the A5, to detail (i) the precise location of each survey point; (ii) the date that the survey was conducted; and (iii) the volume of traffic detected.

Ms Mallon: The table below provides details of the latest traffic volumes that have been recorded on the A5, together with survey dates and locations:

Traffic Site Location	Date Range	Annual Average Daily Traffic (AADT)
A5 GNR at Enterprise Centre (Opposite Brookmount Junction)	28 Sep - 4 Oct 2020	15,907
A5 Beltany road at Tully Bog	28 Sep - 9 Oct. 2020	5,947
A5 Beltany Road, Omagh. (Fairy Water Bridge)	24 Mar - 13 Apr 2021	11,700
A5 Beltany Road, Omagh.(site of old factory)	24 Mar - 13 Apr 2021	10,936

It is worth noting that the results from these surveys will have been impacted by COVID-19 restrictions and therefore are unlikely to be representative of actual traffic volumes anticipated to be using the road in the future in the post-pandemic period.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) for her assessment of the effectiveness of the pop-up cycle lane on Dublin Road, Belfast; and (ii) where else in the city centre area she regards as priority for a similar intervention.

Ms Mallon: My vision is to deliver sustainable infrastructure that transforms our communities and lives, and as part of this, during the Covid-19 pandemic, the Department installed a series of pop-up cycle lanes in Belfast, including on the Dublin Road, Bankmore Street, Hardcastle Street and Marcus Ward Street.

As these are pilot schemes, my Departments has been monitoring the cycle lanes on an ongoing basis and making adjustments as necessary.

A review is currently being carried out on a number of pop-up cycle lanes, including the Dublin Road, and the outcome of this will be determine the effectiveness, lessons learnt and how additional cycling infrastructure can be rolled out in the future.

Ms Bradshaw asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the report on the Belfast Cycling Network, due for publication after Easter 2021.

(AQW 18918/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The Belfast Cycling Network aims to set out how we will develop connected, continuous and coherent cycling infrastructure across Belfast over the next ten years. My Department is currently preparing the document for publication and I am planning to publish it within the next few weeks.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) whether her Department provides guidance to local councils on Tree Preservation Orders, including guidance in relation to the Planning Act 2011; and (ii) what type of evaluation or assessment method is used.

Ms Mallon:

- (i) The Department responds to ad hoc queries from councils in relation to the legislation, regarding Tree Preservation Orders, in the Planning Act (NI) 2011. While the Department has not published any formal guidance, for local councils, councils may avail of guidance in other jurisdictions where similar provisions apply. Each council can, of course, produce its own guidance in relation to Tree Preservation Orders. In addition, the legislation in the Planning Act is based on the previous legislation i.e. the Planning (NI) Order 1991. Guidance regarding the Planning Order is still available on the Department's website [Tree Preservation Orders - A Guide to Protecting Trees (infrastructure-ni.gov.uk)].

- (ii) Councils and the Department, have professional planning officers working for them who can offer planning advice, particularly on the interpretation of planning law e.g. on whether particular trees merit protection via a Tree Preservation Order. Councils also have dedicated tree officers to provide appropriate advice and guidance. Consideration will be given as to whether it is expedient in the interests of amenity to apply a Tree Preservation Order to protect trees or woodlands which may be under threat. This will include a visual consideration of the trees and their contribution to the local environment, as well as an assessment of their condition.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure how her Department will ensure that walkers and cyclists on the Clondeboye Way, as part of the Ulster Way network, can safely cross the A2 Bangor to Belfast Road.

(AQW 18932/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Clondeboye Way is a stretch of the Ulster Way that is remote from the road and does not form part of the adopted network. Due to its rough terrain it would not be considered accessible for all users and an alternative option for walkers and cyclists exists alongside the A2 at this location which stretches between Bangor and Ballyrobert. Given the limited usage of this crossing point, my Department has no plans at this time to implement a formal crossing point.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) how long the review into the Northern Ireland rail network will be open; and (ii) where should submissions to the review be sent.

Ms Mallon:

- (i) The procurement process to appoint a service provider to undertake the All Island Strategic Rail Review was launched in April 21 and it is expected that selection of the successful tenderer will be announced in July, with the Review to commence thereafter. While the ultimate duration of the review will be determined by the work programmes submitted by tenderers, it is a requirement of the published request for tender that the work take no longer than 12 months in total.
- (ii) As part of the request for tender, there is a stipulation that the service provider must undertake a public engagement exercise. The successful tenderer will provide an open invitation to all interested parties to make a submission and participate in the public engagement phase of the study. The details on this exercise will be considered through the procurement process and, once a preferred bidder has been selected, both Departments will seek to commission this phase of the study and will publish details in due course.

Mr Easton asked the Minister for Infrastructure how much extra money her Department has requested from the Department of Finance for repairs to roads.

Ms Mallon: As outlined in my response to your previous AQW (AQW 15004/17-22) I made Monitoring Round bids totalling £17.5m for road maintenance during the 2020-21 financial year and was only allocated £2m.

To try to enhance funding for our roads, I was able to re-allocate £4.5m within my Departments budgets in January to supplement available funding for road repairs. Draft outturns for my Department are indicating expenditure of £100m on structural maintenance of the road network.

For the current financial year, as part of the Budget information gathering exercises, I had presented additional bids for funding in 2021-22 for priority areas of work including road repairs. DfI budget allocations are being finalised. I will also continue to use in year monitoring rounds to consider opportunities to bid for additional funding, as part of my continued commitment to doing the basics well and achieving regional balance.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) how many homes have been developed on side roads accessed from Killyglen Link, Larne; and (ii) who must use Killyglen Link to access the gritted road network.

Ms Mallon: My Department does not hold the information requested on how many homes have been developed on side roads accessed from Killyglen Link, Larne, nor do we hold details of who must use this road to access the gritted network.

My officials advise it is their intention to update the traffic count on the Killyglen Link Road during the early part of the next winter season which will form part of a re-assessment of this route for potential inclusion onto the gritted network. I have asked my officials to advise you of the outcome once the review has been completed.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether any foreign companies currently trading in Northern Ireland, under her departmental portfolio, have access to the Investor Court System or the Investor-State Dispute Settlement.

Ms Mallon: None of the publicly owned companies that I have governance responsibility for are foreign companies or businesses.

My Department currently holds contracts with two non-UK companies. However, it is not known, at this time, whether either of these companies have access to the Investor Court System or the Investor-State Dispute Settlement.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 13544/17-22, whether she will include Foyle in the feasibility study to pilot suicide prevention infrastructure on her Department's property.

(AQW 19004/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The feasibility study being undertaken relates to the recommendations arising from the recent 'Relink the Westlink' project. As this project considered the specific infrastructure along the M2/Westlink corridor it would be inappropriate to transfer its specific recommendations to another location.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the process taken during the appointment of Harbour Commissioners.

(AQW 19010/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I am responsible for the appointment of the Chair and Non-Executive Board Members (Commissioners) to three trust ports.

All of my Department's public appointments are regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments for Northern Ireland (CPANI).

I can advise that Harbour Commissioner appointments are made in line with the relevant Harbour Order legislation and follow the process as detailed in the CPANI Code of Practice for Ministerial appointments in Northern Ireland. All of my Departments public appointments are made through open public competition. For your reference I provide a link to the Code of Practice on the CPANI website (https://www.publicappointmentsni.org/sites/cpani/files/media-files/CPANI\_Code\_of\_Practice\_JL2\_December\_2016.pdf).

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the pass rates of driving tests compared to pre-COVID-19 levels.

(AQW 19014/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The table below details the pass rates for practical driving tests conducted in 2020-21 compared to pre-COVID levels in 2019-20. These have been split by high-level test category.

	Private Car	Motor-cycle	LGV	PCV	Taxi	Other	Overall
2019-20	54.6	73.6	75.3	73.4	64.5	81.1	57.9
2020-21	65.4	71.4	78.0	67.3	-	92.4	68.1

Notes

- 1 Due to Covid-19 restrictions driving tests conducted in 2020-21 are significantly lower than for previous 'normal' years. As pass-rates are derived from tests conducted, this is an important consideration when drawing comparison with 2019-20 figures.
- 2 Pass-rates are calculated using conducted tests only; those where the customer failed to attend are excluded.
- 3 A '-' symbol in the table indicates that the pass-rate has been suppressed due to a low number of conducted tests.

These statistics form part of the Departments quarterly National Statistics publication, available on our website: <https://www.infrastructure-ni.gov.uk/articles/driver-vehicle-agency-activity-statistics>

The quarter four edition, covering January to March 2021 and including final statistics for the 2020-21 financial year, was published on Wednesday 26 May.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of reports that NI Water supplied water that was unfit for human consumption in the Newry area.

(AQW 19023/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I am aware that, following an investigation by the Drinking Water Inspectorate, NI Water is being prosecuted for a water quality event relating to a localised taste and odour issue with water supplied to 43 homes in the Meigh area of Newry in 2018. NI Water has acknowledged that customers in the area were inconvenienced during the incident, and that the water supplied was not up to the expected standards. The case was listed for first mention in Newry Magistrates Court on 17th May 2021, and has been adjourned until the 19th July 2021.

NI Water has established procedures to ensure that, if a failure occurs, its staff can immediately react to protect the public and the environment. In this case, NI Water has advised me that it reacted quickly at the time of the incident by carrying out sampling and analysis of the water from customers' taps, issuing 'Do Not Use Tap Water for Drinking or Cooking' notices to affected properties, and providing temporary supplies of bottled water. I have been further advised that NI Water maintained a continuous line of communication with customers and visited the community, as well as updating elected representatives on the situation.

NI Water has a pre-emptive system of robust testing and sampling which sees over 120,000 samples lifted and analysed each year. This system of monitoring provides an early warning to highlight any issues that might be unfolding with drinking water quality. In recent years, NI Water has recorded its highest ever quality of drinking water, with an average of 99.9%.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail the involvement her Department has had in the development and maintenance of Forest Crescent, Drumlegagh.
(AQW 19049/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The roads and footways at Forest Crescent, Drumlegagh have not been adopted and consequently are not maintained by my Department. However, during the reorganisation of local government in 1973, responsibility for the street lighting in the development transferred from the council to my Department in and continues to be maintained by Western Division's street lighting team.

Un-adopted roads can be adopted into the maintained road network under Article 9 of the Private Streets Order where they satisfy the following criteria:

- a) the majority of landowners or occupiers of the land in or adjoining the street consent and request in writing that the street should become a public road;
- b) the Department is satisfied that the street in all respects is fit and proper to become a public road and that the majority of the frontage of the road is developed; and
- c) that any plans to bring the street up to the standard suitable for adoption be subject to an application through Planning Service, noting that the cost of any such application and improvement works needs to be borne by the frontagers.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure how her Department has advertised the Planning Engagement Partnership event to be held on 25 May 2021.
(AQW 19071/17-22)

Ms Mallon: This event has been advertised through a press release issued on Monday 17th May to all news outlets across Northern Ireland, broadcast and print. Information has been posted on the Department's website. The event has also been advertised through social media during the week commencing 17th May, via Facebook and Twitter.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure (i) for her Department's assessment of the impact of the Taxi Accessibility Regulations (NI) 2015 on the availability of wheelchair accessible vehicles in Northern Ireland; and (ii) what her Department is doing to increase the availability of wheelchair accessible vehicles.

Ms Mallon: The number of wheelchair accessible vehicles (WATs) licensed as Class B taxis, ultimately depends on drivers and operators purchasing and using them, but as policy maker and regulator, clearly the actions my Department takes can have an impact on the market.

Since May 2016 the Department has been monitoring the number of WATs throughout Northern Ireland and routinely publishes quarterly statistical reports, with the latest figures for the quarter ending 31 December 2021 confirming there were a total of 506 taxi vehicles licensed in Class B which is a slight drop from 534 in 2013 which predates the Taxi Accessibility Regulations (NI) 2015.

To make it easier for taxi drivers and operators to get WATs, the DVA has reviewed the process and guidance available to prospective buyers of WATs, and for those companies that supply and modify the vehicles.

In addition, to ensure that operators remain fully compliant with laws around disabilities, officials have previously met with the Consumer Council, the Inclusive Mobility and Transport Committee (IMTAC) and the Equality Commission. The discussions were positive and have led to direct contact between the Commission and the three largest taxi operators in NI.

My officials continue to monitor the number of WATs on a quarterly basis and will continue to engage with stakeholders to keep apprised of developments.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether the new Regional Strategic Transport Network Transport Plan will include measures to promote the decarbonisation of transport in NI.
(AQW 19076/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I am committed to tackling the climate emergency and doing all that we can, as quickly as we can, to reduce our emissions. In that regard, I have recently invested £50m in 100 zero emission double deck vehicles for our bus network. These buses will be delivered by spring 2022 and will be made up of 20 hydrogen and 80 battery electric vehicles. This is in addition to the three zero emission hydrogen buses that recently went into service within the Belfast Metro network.

In addition, Translink has a strategic vision to see fully zero emission bus services in Belfast and Derry by 2030, and the whole public transport network to be net zero emission by 2040. They are undertaking an in-depth feasibility study to investigate options for decarbonising the public transport network including the rail network. These studies will consider options for electrification, hydrogen or indeed a combination of both.

My officials are currently developing a new suite of transport plans, and the Regional Strategic Transport Network Transport Plan (RSTNTP) is the first in line for completion. It will set out future investment for our strategic transport networks, by road, rail and bus, as well as active travel.

Officials are continuing to make progress and I intend to publish the draft RSTNTP for public consultation in late 2021, with a view to issuing the finalised Plan in spring 2022. The public consultation on the RSTNTP will provide an opportunity for representations to be made on future investment in cleaner transport.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister for Infrastructure for her assessment of the current circumstances whereby private coach operators can be fined for the consumption of alcohol on board their vehicles, yet have no power to search passengers.

Ms Mallon: The offence of consuming alcohol on a bus is committed only by the person consuming the alcohol. The bus operator commits no offence. Enforcement of the ban on consumption of alcohol on board a bus is the responsibility of the PSNI.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department will consider the use of drainage nets to capture plastics on NI Water drainage systems.

Ms Mallon: NI Water has advised me that it uses a number of methods within its foul and combined sewer network to ensure that solids, including plastics, are not released into the environment. The primary method for removal of solids (including plastics) is via powered screens at the inlets to wastewater treatment works (WWTW). This meets a requirement by the Northern Ireland Environment Agency.

Static nets or sack systems, which are equivalent to drainage nets, are in use at some older NI Water sites but are no longer installed at new sites. This is due to the challenges associated with removing and replacing them once they have become full of solid material (including plastics). NI Water has advised that the screens it uses are more effective.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure to outline her Department's policy in terms of the Don't Mow, Let it Grow rewilding initiative within the Ards and North Down Borough Council area.

Ms Mallon: My Department manages vegetation across our network in a number of ways with the primary aim of maintaining road safety while also protecting wildlife and taking care in maintaining their habitats. In this regard my current grass cutting policy seeks to achieve a balance between road safety, the control of noxious weeds and environmental protection.

In recent years my Department has been engaging in a 'Don't Mow Let It Grow' (DMLIG) pilot project in conjunction with Causeway Coast & Glens Borough Council, Northern Ireland Environment Agency and others. Through this work, my Department has increased its understanding of the importance of road verges for biodiversity and will now be engaging with other councils, including Ards and North Down Borough Council, to consider how the lessons learned from DMLIG might be integrated into other transport corridors.

As partner and supporter of the All-Ireland Pollinator Plan (AIPP), my Department recognises that road verges are an important habitat for many species of insects and animals. Having devised the specific AIPP Action, to promote pollinator-friendly management of the strategic road network in NI, my Department is committed to reviewing its environmental policies to promote pollinator-friendly practices and to encourage their inclusion on road schemes, where practicable.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister for Infrastructure what consideration has been given to providing traffic lights at the top of the Trooperslane road, Greenisland to promote free flowing traffic once the park and ride facility has been completed.
(AQW 19172/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I can confirm that as part of the planning process, consultants engaged by Translink were required to assess the impact of the proposed park & ride facility on the existing road network.

I am advised that the assessment submitted, which was reviewed by my officials as part of the planning process, concluded that the junction of Trooperslane Road/Upper Road had sufficient reserve capacity and did not require any traffic signals or upgrading.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister for Infrastructure what planning regulations are in place in regards providing Air bnb in an existing domestic property or building a domestic property for the purpose of providing Airbnb.

Ms Mallon: There are no specific planning regulations in place relating to Airbnb in an existing domestic property. Planning permission may be required to use a house, apartment, student accommodation or other premises for a short-term holiday let, such as Airbnb. The need for planning permission will depend on the extent to which the short-term holiday let changes the use and character of the property and the degree to which it impacts on its surroundings.

Planning applications seeking the change of use of an existing building or for a new build to provide Airbnb or self-contained holiday accommodation will normally be determined by the relevant local council planning authority. Each application will be assessed on its individual merits, having regard to the local development plan, regional planning policy (including the tourism policies in the Strategic Planning Policy Statement (SPPS) and retained Planning Policy Statement 16: Tourism), local circumstances and all other material considerations. The relevance and weight to be given to all material considerations is a matter for the council to decide.

Miss McIlveen asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will consider the inclusion of St Mary's Primary School, Comber in the next tranche of 20mph part-time speed limits at schools.

Ms Mallon: As you will be aware St Mary's Primary School is accessed directly from the A21 Belfast Road Roundabout and therefore the provision of a part-time 20mph speed limit may be problematic at this location. I am advised that problems being experienced in the vicinity of this access may be assisted by alternative access arrangements and I have asked officials to explore this further with the school.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure, pursuant to AQW 18928/17-22, to detail (i) what the consultation with the appropriate council consists of, as outlined in Section 124 of the Planning Act 2011; (ii) whether any other person is consulted or notified before the Tree Preservation Order is revoked; and (iii) how, and to whom, her Department communicates that a Tree Preservation Order has been revoked.

Ms Mallon:

- (i) It is considered appropriate under Section 124 of the Planning Act 2011 that consultation with the council would consist of written correspondence.
- (ii) Consultation under Section 124 of the legislation is only required to take place with the council.
- (iii) As the local planning authority, the council is best placed to carry out the actions required to communicate that a Tree Preservation Order has been revoked i.e.:
  - give notice to those affected by the revocation order [regulation 8(1)(b) of the The Planning (Trees) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2015]; and
  - remove the copy of the original Tree Preservation Order made available for public inspection [regulation 8(1)(c)]; and
  - amend the planning register [Section 242(1)(l) (Planning register) of the Planning Act]; and the register of statutory charges [Section 245 (Registration of matters in Statutory Charges Register) of the Planning Act].

Therefore, the Department may choose to ask the council to carry out these actions. In any event, these actions would be carried out to ensure those affected by the revocation order are aware that it has taken effect.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether, under Section 122(1) of the Planning Act 2011, there is an agreed, or statutory, definition of the interests of amenity for the provision for the preservation of trees and woodlands for use by local councils.

(AQW 19197/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The term "interests of amenity" is used in section 122(1) of the Planning Act (NI) 2011 however, it is not defined. Councils therefore need to exercise judgement when deciding whether it is in their power to make a Tree Preservation Order.

In planning terms, it is generally accepted that "amenity" relates to the qualities, characteristics and attributes people value about a place and which contribute to their quality of life. Therefore, the protection of trees, via a Tree Preservation Order under section 122(1), is justified where the loss of the trees would have a significant negative impact on the local environment and its enjoyment by the public.

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether her Department is assessing how to improve road safety on Newry Road, between Silverbridge and Crossmaglen.

(AQW 19200/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department recognises the importance of road safety measures and is committed to exploring solutions that deliver better for communities and improve lives across the North. If you have concerns about any specific locations along this road, please advise my officials who will arrange to give any locations identified careful consideration.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will increase efforts to keep planning applications processed in a timely manner, in line with legislation, for projects related to decarbonisation.

Ms Mallon: My Department is working closely with key stakeholders in a number of ways to improve processes and increase the efficiency of the planning system to ensure that applications are processed in a timely manner and in line with legislation.

A review of the implementation of the Planning Act (NI) 2011 is underway which will provide an opportunity to consider any improvements which may be required to the way in which the Planning Act has been commenced and implemented in subordinate legislation. Work is also ongoing with statutory consultees through a cross government Planning Forum to improve processes around statutory consultation. In addition, my Department, as part of a collaborative project with 10 councils, will be delivering a new Planning IT system next year which will improve the submission and processing of planning applications.

The improvements delivered from this work will benefit planning applications promoting the key principles of sustainable development, including projects related to decarbonisation.

Mr Boylan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will improve the communication and awareness between the DVA and customers that theory test 'placeholder appointments' are not bookings.

(AQW 19225/17-22)

Ms Mallon: All theory test appointments, from 26 December 2020 up to and including 22 April 2021, were rescheduled following the Executive's decision to increase lockdown restrictions to help stop the spread of Covid-19.

Rather than cancel tests, they were rescheduled for 60 days later, into a temporary placeholder appointment. Affected customers were emailed to advise them of this together with instructions explaining how to change this to an actual appointment. However, not all customers provided email contact details, therefore a small number would not have received this information. The Driver and Vehicle Agency is working with the theory test provider to identify and contact these customers by other communication methods such as text message or post, and additional information has been included on nidirect.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister for Infrastructure what actions are being taken to assess the cost of electrifying (i) the Belfast to Newry rail service; (ii) the Belfast to Bangor rail service; (iii) the Belfast to Larne rail service; (iv) the Belfast to Londonderry rail service; and (v) the Coleraine to Portrush rail service.

Ms Mallon: I am ambitious for our rail network and am keen to do all that I can to explore how we can progress rail improvements within the limited budgetary envelope that we have. I also want to ensure that any proposals for changes to the rail network include operational and financial viability and have a very clear focus on the part that rail can play in growing the all-island economy, improving the ability of people to connect with and access opportunities and addressing regional imbalance.

I can confirm that an initial technical study has recently been commissioned within Translink to determine the impact of electrification on the existing infrastructure assets e.g. bridges, station canopies, signalling equipment etc. The study will estimate the capital costs to electrify the network including the associated annual operating costs and delivery of the programme. In addition, the All Island Strategic Rail Review, which Minister Ryan and I recently announced, will allow us to consider our network across this island to view how we can improve it for everyone. Whilst it reflects and builds on the commitment under the New Decade, New Approach agreement of the Irish and British Governments to examine the feasibility of a high/higher speed rail link between Derry, Belfast, Dublin and Cork, Minister Ryan and I have a shared ambition for rail and commitment to tackling the climate emergency, and we are keen that we use this opportunity to consider the decarbonisation of our rail network across the island of Ireland.

Following the completion of the study being undertaken by Translink and the All Island

Strategic Rail Review, a base of evidence will be in place to assist on determining how to take forward decarbonisation of the NIR rail network.

Mr Sheehan asked the Minister for Infrastructure whether she will prioritise the delivery of a puffin crossing on Whiterock Road, in the vicinity of Britton's Parade.

(AQW 19258/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Following an earlier request for the provision of a pedestrian crossing facility on Whiterock Road in the vicinity of Britton's Parade, my officials carried out a detailed assessment of this location which indicated it was highly placed on the prioritised list of pedestrian crossing requests in the Belfast area.

I am very keen to support proposals that better develop active travel routes and have asked my officials to explore the potential provision of this crossing from within available funding.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister for Infrastructure what action is her Department is taking to prevent the repeated severe flooding on the Portadown Road, Lurgan, adjacent to the Gilpinstown Road junction.

(AQW 19259/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I can confirm that my officials are aware of the drainage issue on the Portadown Road, Lurgan adjacent to the junction of the Gilpinstown Road.

Initial investigations indicate there may be a partial blockage of the drainage system with localised flooding occurring during periods of intense rainfall although this gradually disperses due to the system still being partially operational.

Further investigatory work and has been commissioned to fully diagnose the problem, after which remedial works will be undertaken that are expected to be completed over the summer months.

Mr Robinson asked the Minister for Infrastructure to detail at what point, under legislation, in a planning application should a bat survey be carried out if required.

(AQW 19275/17-22)

Ms Mallon: In order to comply with the Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations (NI) 1995 (as amended) a planning authority must ensure that it has adequately considered any potential impacts on bats from a development proposal. Case law has established that impacts on European protected species such as bats, must be adequately considered before planning approval is granted. Therefore, all necessary ecological surveys should be carried out before planning approval is granted.

The Habitats Regulations do not specify the point, in a planning application, when a bat survey should be carried out. If one is required, it should ideally be carried out before an application is submitted, or as soon as the need has been identified and at the appropriate time for bat surveys. It will then be a material consideration in the planning authority's determination of the application.

DAERA advice on the matter is to use the NI Biodiversity checklist to determine if a survey is needed and, if so, it should accompany any planning application. Failure to submit a bat survey, where one is required, will result in a delay in determining the application and may ultimately result in the refusal of the application.

Miss Woods asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 18582/17-22, (i) which body was responsible for ensuring the orderly transfer of historic minerals planning files to local councils; (ii) what inventories exist of the files transferred; and (iii) why, after six years since Local Government Reform, some local councils are directing citizens to her Department when requests are made to view these historic permissions.

(AQW 19368/17-22)

Ms Mallon:

- (i) The Department of the Environment was the prevailing department at the time of local government reform in April 2015.
- (ii) The Department retained a number of live files at the time of transfer along with associated history files. Those files not retained by the Department were subsequently transferred to the local councils and the member may wish to consult the relevant council/s to seek an inventory of the files they received from the Department.
- (iii) The member may wish to seek a response to this from the relevant local council/s.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the compilation of the feasibility study for Phase 3 Derry-Londonderry to Coleraine rail line upgrade.

(AQW 19373/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Work on the feasibility study is ongoing with a number of topographical and pilot studies underway and the report is still on schedule to be completed by November 2021. A full business case will then be prepared and submitted to me in spring 2022. This will ensure that all future spend is fully informed by a robust business case and that there is high-level assurance on costs and on risk and benefit realisation.

Mr Muir asked the Minister for Infrastructure pursuant to AQW 16249/17-22, when will she confirm a works programme for North Down for 2021/22.

(AQW 19374/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Allocations to Divisions are being finalised. Once this is complete, the Department will develop a works programme for the 2021-22 financial year for the Ards and North Down Council area.

Mr O'Toole asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on her Department's work on delivering on all-island infrastructure.

(AQO 2082/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I have had constructive discussions with the Taoiseach and the Irish Transport Minister, Minister Ryan T.D., on delivering on our shared commitments. I very much welcome the Taoiseach's October 2020 announcement that €500m will be made available through the Shared Island Fund to deliver on the Irish Government's commitment to build shared island infrastructure, underpinned by the Good Friday Agreement. This funding is intended to contribute to the delivery of key transport infrastructure initiatives including the A5, the Ulster Canal, cross-border greenways and the Narrow Water Bridge.

Last month I was delighted to announce, with Transport Minister, Eamon Ryan TD, an All Island Strategic Rail Review. This Review will allow us to consider the rail network across this island and how we can improve it. Whilst it reflects the commitment under 'New Decade, New Approach' to examine the feasibility of a high/higher speed rail link between Belfast, Dublin, Cork and Limerick, Minister Ryan and I are keen that we use this opportunity to consider how we can improve our rail network across the whole island. I remain committed to advancing the Narrow Water Bridge Project, and I am continuing to engage with Minister Ryan to consider how best to ensure the multiple benefits from a bridge can be realised.

I am very pleased that my Department was able to support the Special EU Programmes Body issuing a Letter of Offer to the consortium led by Waterways Ireland for €4.9m, from the INTERREG VA Territorial Co-operation Programme, to complete the Ulster Canal Greenway by December 2021.

My Department also fulfils the Accountable Department role in relation to the three cross border greenways funded through the INTERRG VA Programme by the Special EU Programmes Body. The three greenways are the Ulster Canal Greenway, the North-West Greenway and the Carlingford Lough Greenway. I am pleased that my Department has been able to support the issuing of Letters of Offer.

I can assure you that I am fully committed to continuing to work closely with my Irish counterparts to ensure delivery for all our citizens across this island.

Mr Lynch asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the A32 Omagh to Enniskillen Road scheme.
(AQO 2086/17-22)

Ms Mallon: A route improvement strategy for the A32 Omagh to Enniskillen was developed several years ago as part of the transfer of acute hospital services away from Omagh to Enniskillen which identified a number of improvement schemes. My Department has delivered two schemes along this route: an on-line improvement at Drumskinny; and an off-line realignment at Shannaragh. Of the remaining schemes that were identified, the proposed off-line realignment at Cornamuck is my next priority along this route. Design and development work, together with the necessary statutory processes are now complete on this scheme.

My Department has also progressed another proposed scheme at Kilgortnaleague that has been developed to the Preferred Route stage. I recognise the importance of investment in our roads infrastructure, including the A32, to address regional imbalance, improve safety and to connect communities.

I am committed to the delivery of improvements to the A32 Omagh-Enniskillen route and will work with the Finance Minister and my Executive colleagues to secure the necessary funding as quickly as possible, but that will be dependent on the outcome of future spending reviews and other capital funding priorities.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on her Department's commitments in New Decade, New Approach.
(AQO 2088/17-22)

Ms Mallon: The commitments made in 'New Decade, New Approach' will be transformational and I am committed to doing all that I can to deliver on them. My Department is progressing Executive Flagship projects on the A5 and A6 along with other key infrastructure projects including the A1 Junctions safety programme, the iconic Narrow Water Bridge and York Street Interchange. Work is also progressing to develop the design of the Newry Southern Relief Road and other statutory requirements in advance of public consultation.

New Decade, New Approach also recognises that significant investment in our wastewater systems, including upgrading our sewers, pumping stations and wastewater treatment works. Progressing action on this, my officials are currently preparing a consultation report on the responses received to the public consultation on 'Living With Water in Belfast' which closed on 29 January 2021.

Collaboration across our islands is absolutely key to ensuring delivery of the commitments in NDNA as the agreement also contains pledges from both the Irish and British Governments. I have met and had useful discussions with the Irish Transport Minister, Minister Ryan, to discuss how we can work in partnership to progress these shared commitments to improve the lives of all of our citizens who share this island.

In line with the commitments within the New Decade, New Approach, in April 2021, I and Minister Ryan, were delighted to announce an All Island Strategic Rail Review that will allow us to consider our rail network across this island and how we can improve it for everyone. Officials are currently working together to progress the review, and, in addition, my plan is to put the strategic transport plan out for public consultation this year.

I have also met with Minister Robin Walker to discuss the necessity for the British Government to honour its commitments which underpin New Decade, New Approach. I have also had a positive, helpful conversation with the Secretary of State for Transport and our Finance Minister to discuss the issues we face here and seek reassurance as to the priority of investment in our critical infrastructure.

Working in partnership within the Executive and across these islands, I am determined to see progress on delivery of the commitments within New Decade, New Approach, to ensure that we can improve lives and opportunities for all our communities.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the Roads Recovery Fund.
(AQO 2089/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I recognise that there has been historical under-investment in our road network for a significant number of years and that many rural roads are in need of repairs. In response, I allocated £12m of my 2020-21 Capital budget to a Roads Recovery Fund, of which £10m was specifically directed towards rural roads.

This funding allowed targeting of many short lengths of roads that were in particularly poor condition and it is currently estimated that over 750 locations on the rural road network will have benefitted from this funding.

I am currently considering my capital allocations for 2021-22, however, I remain committed to setting up a further Roads Recovery Fund from the available 2021-22 Budget to continue delivering this important work to improve connectivity and help rural communities.

Mr Durkan asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the rollout of LED street lighting.
(AQO 2087/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Out of a total stock of just under 290,000 street lights, approximately 112,000 (39%) street lights have been changed to more energy efficient LED units by my Department.

Since the commencement of this programme in 2015, a significant reduction in energy consumption of 24 Giga-Watt Hours or 24% has been achieved. This programme has also delivered savings in maintenance costs due to the much longer operating life of LED's as well as providing environmental benefits.

I am committed to achieving further reductions in energy use and I am pleased to inform the Member that it is my intention to make further allocations towards LED retrofitting in 2021/22.

Mr Lunn asked the Minister for Infrastructure what budget exists for the A5 upgrade in the financial year 2021-2022.
(AQO 2085/17-22)

Ms Mallon: I am fully committed to the delivery of the A5 Western Transport Corridor flagship project, which I acutely recognise is of significant strategic importance to the North West region and wider island, helping to tackle regional imbalance, improving the economy, job prospects and prosperity, connecting communities and improving road safety.

Funding for the A5 forms part of my consideration of Capital Budget allocations for 2021-22. I will however be allocating sufficient funding to allow work to progress at pace to move towards the publication of a new Environmental Statement Addendum this autumn, with a view to a reconvened public inquiry next year.

Mr T Buchanan asked the Minister for Infrastructure to outline the criteria used by her Department to determine the bond required by a developer prior to commencing a private housing development.
(AQO 2084/17-22)

Ms Mallon: My Department manages the adoption of roads in new developments under the Private Streets (NI) Order 1980 and this requires developers to enter into an Agreement and bond with my Department before commencing development. When a bond is requested by a developer my Department will calculate the value of the road bond using a range of construction rates and quantities to reflect the cost to my Department of constructing the road, footway, road drainage and street lighting systems to a standard suitable for adoption. Similar arrangements are in place with Northern Ireland Water (NIW) to cover infrastructure that they will maintain on satisfactory completion of all works.

I fully appreciate the value for property owners of developers entering into Agreements and bonds with my Department as they provide an important mechanism that ensures the delivery of appropriate infrastructure in developments should developers fail to meet their obligations.

I am fully committed to ensuring that homeowners in new developments are not left with incomplete roads and my Department is presently undertaking a fresh exercise to review the construction rates used to calculate road bonds to ensure they reflect the full cost of constructing roads in new developments. This review will involve local stakeholders in the construction industry, as well as surety providers.

Mr Irwin asked the Minister for Infrastructure to outline the frequency of road surface maintenance inspections for each class of road.
(AQO 2083/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Article 8 of the Roads (Northern Ireland) Order 1993 places a duty on my Department to maintain all public roads in reasonable condition. In recognition of its duty of care, my Department has put in place a set of Maintenance Standards for Safety, which are designed to ensure a consistent service level across the network and safe highways for all road users.

Essentially, my Department utilises a system of regular inspections of the road network. Inspection frequencies reflect traffic volumes and range between daily cycles for motorways to six monthly inspection cycles for carriageways carrying low volumes of traffic. Within that range higher trafficked roads are inspected on a monthly basis with medium trafficked roads on a 3 monthly cycle.

Under my Department's Maintenance Standards for Safety, defects are prioritised for repair according to their severity. The urgency of repair is determined from a number of factors, including the depth of the defect, volume of traffic and the location of the defect in terms of carriageway width.

Mr Beggs asked the Minister for Infrastructure for an update on the current average waiting time for a driving test.
(AQO 2081/17-22)

Ms Mallon: Following the Executive's decision on 15 April to relax some Covid-19 restrictions, the Driver & Vehicle Agency (DVA) resumed practical driving tests and theory tests on 23 April, with appropriate mitigations in place. The reopening of the practical driving test booking service was phased, based on the expiry dates of theory test pass certificates, to give priority to those who have been waiting the longest time. I am pleased to confirm that following this, the booking service for practical driving tests opened for all customers on 10 May 2021, providing everyone with a valid theory test pass certificate with equal opportunity to book a driving test, regardless of their past test history or previous priorities.

The DVA has made additional tests slots available between now and the end of August and bookings for September and October have also been released to accommodate more learners. As of 18 May 2021 approximately 16,000 customers have booked a driving test and circa 4,000 slots remain available to book across the network of test centres. The waiting time to get a test date will vary depending on the chosen centre and, while there is limited availability between now and the end of August, additional slots will become available as new driving examiners continue to be appointed over the coming months, or when tests are cancelled.

Due to the constantly changing position, customers are advised to keep checking the booking system for availability. If slots are not initially available at a customer's preferred test centre, they may wish to consider booking a test at another centre. I remain committed to minimising disruption and ensuring the DVA's plan for the restoration of services is in hand, however, all driving test services across these islands are experiencing high demand with longer than usual waiting times and I would ask customers for their continued patience.

Department of Justice

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister of Justice whether her Department will provide updated guidance for students who are required to travel away from home for access to adequate resources, including wifi, to enable them to complete their course, as to whether this will be deemed as an essential journey.
(AQW 13159/17-22)

Mrs Long (The Minister of Justice): Travel guidance is available at: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/information-and-services/coronavirus-covid-19/travel-advice-and-guidance>

Where daily cross border travel is required to access education, this is considered essential and does not require self-isolation, however all social distancing measures should be strictly adhered to.

However, where students are travelling between places of residence, such as returning home from university accommodation, they should self-isolate upon their return to Northern Ireland for 10 days.

Students are advised to minimise their movements between their term time residence and permanent residence as far as possible, and where learning is delivered remotely to access this from one location for as long as is feasible.

From 24 May it is not required to self-isolate for 10 days if arriving into Northern Ireland from within the Common Travel Area to visit family or friends, which would include any students returning home for the summer break. However the public health advice is to take a pre-departure Lateral Flow Device (LFD) test, and then a LFD test on day 2 and day 8 post arrival in NI.

Mr Easton asked the Minister of Justice to outline the law governing the use of air rifles.
(AQW 18659/17-22)

Mrs Long: The Firearms (Northern Ireland) Order 2004 (the 2004 Order) provides the legislative framework for the control of firearms, including air guns. A firearm certificate is required for an air gun with a kinetic energy in excess of one joule.

Articles 4 – 6 of the 2004 Order set out the application, grant process and conditions on obtaining a firearm certificate and Article 7, as amended, sets out how 16 and 17 year olds are granted a firearm certificate in specified circumstances.

Schedule 1 to the 2004 Order sets out certain exemptions from requiring a firearm certificate and paragraphs 8 and 9, as amended, include exemptions relating to air guns.

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister of Justice for an update on her Department's work on legislation concerning animal welfare.
(AQW 18694/17-22)

Mrs Long: All animal welfare matters, including the creation of offences and penalties in legislation for abuse of animals and their enforcement, are the policy and legislative responsibility of the Department of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Affairs (DAERA) under the Welfare of Animals Act (Northern Ireland) 2011.

You may, however, be interested to know that I recently met with Minister Poots regarding the creation of a register of those banned from owning animals. While any policy decision regarding the creation of a register of those convicted of animal cruelty is purely the responsibility for DAERA, I have agreed that my officials will provide assistance and advice with respect to the management of criminal records in order to assist with this work.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister of Justice whether she will consider bringing forward legislation to ban clamping vehicles on private property by private firms.

(AQW 18696/17-22)

Mrs Long: My Department previously carried out a public consultation which focused exclusively on identifying the best option for the future regulation of vehicle immobilisation on private land in Northern Ireland. The results of the consultation did not provide sufficient evidence to suggest a need to ban vehicle immobilisation on private land in Northern Ireland. I do not believe there is sufficient justification to reopen this matter and commence a further consultation.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Justice to detail the number of arrests made and successful prosecutions in relation to drugs offences, for each of the last five years, broken by (i) constituency; and (ii) Police Command Area.

(AQW 18754/17-22)

Mrs Long: The Department does not hold the information requested in relation to the number of arrests made in relation to drugs offences. The recording of information on arrests made for drugs offences is a matter for the Chief Constable, who is accountable to the Northern Ireland Policing Board. I am committed to respecting the operational independence of the Chief Constable and the role of the Northern Ireland Policing Board.

You may, therefore, wish to direct that part of your question to the PSNI.

The Department does hold information in relation to the number of successful prosecutions for drugs offences in each of the last five years. However, Departmental datasets do not contain information in relation to the location of an offence, so it is not possible to provide information broken down by Assembly Constituency or by Police Command Area. Therefore, information in relation to the numbers of cases in which there was a conviction at court, or an out of court diversionary disposal, in cases where there was a drugs offence, has been provided for the last 5 years in the following table:

Convictions at courts and out of court diversions for drugs offences, 2015 - 2019

Year	Convictions/Out of court diversions
2015	3,788
2016	3,632
2017	3,530
2018	3,950
2019	4,314

Note:

- 1 Convictions included relate to initial disposal disposals at court. Appeals are not included.
- 2 Out of court diversions included relate to cautions, informed warnings and Youth conference Plans.
- 3 Figures relate to defendants dealt with where at least one of the offences concerned was a drugs offence.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister of Justice to detail the number of drugs finds/seizures by the PSNI, broken down by (i) constituency; and (ii) drug type in each of the last four years.

(AQW 18755/17-22)

Mrs Long: The Department does not hold the information requested. The recording of information on drugs finds/seizures by the PSNI is a matter for the Chief Constable, who is accountable to the Northern Ireland Policing Board. I am committed to respecting the operational independence of the Chief Constable and the role of the Northern Ireland Policing Board.

You may, therefore, wish to direct your question to the PSNI.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Justice for her assessment of the prevalence of Foetal Alcohol Syndrome Disorder within the justice system.

(AQW 18801/17-22)

Mrs Long: My Department does not hold information in relation to the prevalence of Foetal Alcohol Syndrome Disorder (FASD) within the justice system in Northern Ireland.

International research suggests that 10.9% - 11.7% of young persons in custody have FASD, compared to 0.1 – 5% of the general population. However, it is widely recognised that a diagnosis of FASD is difficult to make in adolescence, often due to the lack of available history.

While the Youth Justice Agency works with young people who have, or are suspected of having FASD, and provides input on assessments which are led by the Department of Health in relation to the condition, information on prevalence is not recorded on the Agency's database.

In relation to the Northern Ireland Prison Service, healthcare services are provided through the South Eastern Health and Social Care Trust. Information on all aspects of health, including where there has been a diagnosis of FASD, is held confidentially by the Trust.

Ms Flynn asked the Minister of Justice to outline what training is available for staff on Foetal Alcohol Syndrome Disorder. (AQW 18802/17-22)

Mrs Long: Staff working in the Youth Justice Agency have been able to avail of awareness sessions on Foetal Alcohol Syndrome Disorder (FASD) delivered by the Health and Social Care Trusts. FASD is also referenced in the mandatory child protection training which staff must undertake every 3 years.

Within the Northern Ireland Prison Service, prison officers receive a comprehensive training programme which includes awareness of trauma informed practice and adverse childhood experiences. Training is provided to officers enable them to respond appropriately to challenging behaviours displayed by people in custody.

Specific training on FASD is not provided to prison officers.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Justice, further to the response to AQW 13436/17-22, has her Department yet engaged with the firearms dealers and other interested parties. (AQW 18837/17-22)

Mrs Long: Officials have held initial discussions with a number of relevant partners and stakeholders on a range of issues; feedback provided on firearms dealer holdings did not favour adopting a similar approach to previous engagement on this issue. Officials will continue to engage with key partners to ensure a suitable method for assessing the need for a review is progressed, specifically how best to engage with all registered firearms dealers.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister of Justice to outline (i) what steps her Department is taking to implement harsher sentencing toward human traffickers; (ii) how many human trafficking prosecutions have taken place in the last decade in Northern Ireland; and (iii) what preventative steps her Department is taking to prevent human trafficking in Northern Ireland. (AQW 18869/17-22)

Mrs Long: Equipping Northern Ireland to identify and eradicate modern slavery and human trafficking is a key priority. Further to my response to AQW 17987/17-22, my Department has now published the 2021/22 Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Strategy, which sets out key actions to pursue offenders; protect victims; and prevent trafficking in all its forms. This reflects the broad range of work that is needed to tackle a complex and often hidden form of criminality. The Strategy can be found at:

<https://www.justice-ni.gov.uk/publications/modern-slavery-and-human-trafficking-strategy-northern-ireland-21-22>

The Human Trafficking and Exploitation (Criminal Justice and Support for Victims) Act (Northern Ireland) 2015 provides that a person found guilty of an offence of slavery, servitude and forced or compulsory labour or an offence of human trafficking is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for life. Section 5 of the Act amends the Criminal Justice (Northern Ireland) Order 2008 relating to sentencing provision for human trafficking and slavery-like offences. In doing so, section 5 brings these new offences under the ambit of the public protection sentencing framework provided for under Articles 13 and 14 of the 2008 Order so that, where the court considers it necessary for the purposes of public protection, it can impose a life sentence, an indeterminate custodial sentence or an extended custodial sentence. Individuals subject to such sentences would also be subject to the relevant release, licence and recall arrangements. It is for the independent judiciary to decide on the appropriate sentencing of those convicted of such offences.

Over the period 2010 to 2019 - there were 11<sup>3</sup> convictions at courts in Northern Ireland for human trafficking offences. Cases taken under the Human Trafficking and Exploitation (Criminal Justice and Support for Victims) Act (Northern Ireland) 2015 can be extremely complex, and securing a conviction is challenging. In cases where it is not possible to secure prosecutions for trafficking, other offences are considered. As noted in my response to AQW 17987/17-22, you may be aware that the Public Prosecution Service (PPS) recently consulted on its revised Policy for Prosecuting Cases of Modern Slavery and Human

  2. Figures relate to cases where there was a conviction for at least one human trafficking offence.

Trafficking, which is aimed at providing practical and legal guidance to prosecutors dealing with such cases. Details of the existing policy can be found at: <https://www.ppsni.gov.uk/publications/policy-prosecuting-cases-modern-slavery-and-human-trafficking-draft-consultation>. I understand that the PPS is currently reviewing responses received during the consultation.

My Department alongside key statutory and non-statutory partners recognises the importance of taking a preventative approach to modern slavery and human trafficking. Under the 2021/22 Strategy, this includes seeking to reduce vulnerability to exploitation and re-exploitation, strengthening cross-sector resilience against modern slavery and raising public awareness to reduce demand and increase reporting. Activities include: ongoing support and promotion of initiatives to educate and provide rights-based information through NGO Engagement Group initiatives; engagement within and across statutory agencies to raise awareness of risk and promote good practice; and working through the Organised Crime Task Force subgroup on Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking to identify and respond to emerging issues.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister of Justice how many people had taken a Selective Serotonin Reuptake Inhibitor in the weeks before their death, for each year since 2019.

(AQW 18986/17-22)

Mrs Long: Selective Serotonin Reuptake Inhibitors (SSRIs) refers to a group of drugs not just one on its own; consequently I am therefore unable to answer on the basis that the Coroners Service for Northern Ireland can only complete a search of records where a death has been reported to the Coroner and where a specific drug has been mentioned in the formulation of the cause of death.

It should be noted that Coroners enquire into deaths reported to them that appear to be unexpected or unexplained, as a result of violence, an accident, as a result of negligence, from any other cause other than natural illness or disease, or in circumstances that require investigation.

Miss Woods asked the Minister of Justice whether she has received responses from her all her Executive colleagues on proposals for raising the minimum age of criminal responsibility.

(AQW 18996/17-22)

Mrs Long: I can confirm that the position in relation to responses from my Executive Colleagues on proposals for raising the minimum age of criminal responsibility remains as it was in my answer to your previous question AQW 6608/17-22. At that time, responses had been received from the Ministers for Communities, Finance and Infrastructure. No further responses have since been received.

As you know, I am fully supportive of taking steps to increase our MACR, in line with international standards and recommendations from a range of youth justice reports. I will therefore continue to press for Executive colleagues to engage on this important issue.

I am currently considering the introduction of a legislative proposal to increase MACR as part of the Justice Bill. However, any such proposal will require Executive approval and I intend to seek this in the coming weeks.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister of Justice when AQW 16403/17-22 will be answered.

(AQW 18999/17-22)

Mrs Long: My response to AQW 16403/17-22 was issued to the Member on 24 March.

Mr Allister asked the Minister of Justice who, apart from the PSNI and related security services, can provide security for Executive Ministers undertaking their public duties.

(AQW 19346/17-22)

Mrs Long: My Department is not responsible for arranging security services for Executive Ministers.

Ms Anderson asked the Minister of Justice what percentage of applications for criminal damage compensation were paid in the last twelve months.

(AQO 2094/17-22)

Mrs Long: Last financial year, my Department received 122 applications for criminal damage compensation.

53 of those applications were fully processed during that 12 month period. Compensation was paid in relation to 6 of those applications which equates to 11.3% of the applications for which the assessment process was completed.

Two applications were withdrawn and processing was not completed within that 12 month period for the remainder of the 122 applications.

Mr Givan asked the Minister of Justice for an update on the New Decade, New Approach commitment to increase police numbers to 7,500.

(AQO 2095/17-22)

Mrs Long: The Member will be aware that the funding package accompanying the New Decade New Approach (NDNA) document falls well short of the amount needed to deliver all the priorities set out by the British and Irish governments and that the delivery of additional police numbers to 7,500 is, therefore, largely dependent on the availability of Executive funding. In light of the NDNA commitment, my Department had submitted a bid to increase the number of police officers to 7,500.

The PSNI final resource opening allocation for 2021-22, subject to debate and vote by the Assembly, is £761.7m. In addition to this, PSNI has now received an in-year allocation of £12.3m. £9.8m of this will enable the PSNI to retain its current police numbers of approximately 7000, with £2.5m enabling the recruitment of 100 officers in 2021-22 towards the NDNA commitment to increase police officer numbers to 7,500.

The annual recurring costs of these additional officers will need to be provided for in future baselines from 2022-23. The Finance Minister has advised that future budgets will depend on the funding available and it will be for the Executive to agree allocations at that time.

I will continue working with Executive Colleagues, including the Minister of Finance, and the Chief Constable, to ensure we have a police service that is properly resourced in all aspects for the challenges it faces.

Mr Lunn asked the Minister of Justice for an update on legislation enabling wills to be legally recognised when written in the Irish language.

(AQO 2097/17-22)

Mrs Long: The New Decade, New Approach agreement committed the First Minister and deputy First Minister to bring forward a framework recognising and celebrating Northern Ireland's diversity of identities and culture and accommodating cultural difference; and that legislation in respect of the Irish language would make any necessary statutory provision for wills to be validly made in Irish, as an option and matter for individual choice.

No express provision in respect of wills was, however, included in the draft legislation that was published alongside New Decade, New Approach.

Importantly, the draft legislation did, however, include provision to repeal the Administration of Justice (Language) Act (Ireland) 1737, which would remove any possible legislative obstacle to the court admitting to probate or otherwise dealing with an Irish-language will.

I look forward to that legislation being brought to the Assembly.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister of Justice for her assessment of the Ballymurphy inquest findings.

(AQO 2098/17-22)

Mrs Long: Firstly, I wish to pay tribute to the courage and fortitude of the families over the last 50 years. It is not only unfortunate that it took so long for them to hear the findings of the Coroner that their loved ones were "innocent and their deaths were without justification", but the lengthy delay reflects poorly on how the UK government has chosen to discharge its legal obligations to addressing the legacy of the troubles.

I wish to express appreciation for the efforts of the Coroner and the Legacy Inquest Unit who worked with the families and their legal teams to bring this complex series of inquests to completion.

As Minister for Justice it is not appropriate to comment on each and every finding. These will rightly be considered by those for whom they have potential operational implications.

Instead, my assessment focuses on the implications for the UK Government and us, as elected representatives for the people of Northern Ireland. The Inquest findings tell the UK Government it needs to find the political will to deal with the outstanding legacy issues honestly and in a way which ensures that both truth and justice will prevail.

Responsibility for legacy legislation was a commitment made by the UK Government, in New Decade, New Approach. The commitment was, within 100 days, to publish and introduce legislation in the UK Parliament to implement the Stormont

House Agreement, to address Northern Ireland legacy issues.

Not only did that not occur but the change of approach announced in March 2020 and in the last week, proposes to take the focus away from a justice resolution to a truth recovery and reconciliation system. It is more than disappointing that the detail of the UK government proposals continues to be sadly lacking.

My concern is that any deficiencies within the Westminster proposals or legislation, which fail to meet UK legal obligations whether domestic or international, will place significant additional pressures and cost upon Northern Ireland's justice system. I say this against the background that the only tangible progress delivered since the Stormont House Agreement in 2014 has been the Coroners Legacy Inquest Project.

I have stressed to the Secretary of State the importance of adequately resourcing the justice system in Northern Ireland to discharge the legacy pressures we will have to address.

Mr Middleton asked the Minister of Justice to outline what her Department is doing to address human trafficking in Northern Ireland.

(AQO 2101/17-22)

Mrs Long: My Department is responsible for the policy and legislative framework relating to modern slavery and human trafficking. Tackling this form of criminality is a key priority.

I am due to launch the Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Strategy for 2021/22, which sets out how my Department and its partners will work towards the eradication of these crimes in Northern Ireland. The Strategy sets out actions under three themes: Pursuing offenders; protecting victims; and preventing this form of criminality.

In implementing the strategy, my Department provides support and assistance to adult potential victims of modern slavery and human trafficking through contracted support providers. This helps to ensure that the needs of potential victims are met, including in respect of appropriate secure accommodation, assistance in obtaining healthcare, translation and interpretation services and assistance with repatriation.

In addition, my Department co-ordinates the Organised Crime Task Force and through its Modern Slavery Human Trafficking Sub Group, works collaboratively to identify, understand and tackle the issues alongside key operational partners. My Department works with civil society through the NGO Engagement Group to inform the development of policy and to raise awareness of modern slavery and human trafficking. I also launched a consultation seeking views on measures to improve transparency in supply chains in both commercial and public sector organisations.

Addressing complex issues relating to modern slavery and human trafficking requires a long term, holistic and collaborative approach. I am therefore seeking to move towards a three year strategy, subject to the Assembly approving the relevant provisions within the forthcoming Justice Bill. This will provide my Department and its partners with the opportunity to address a range of issues on a more comprehensive, long term basis.

Much progress has been made, and my Department will continue to work in partnership with a wide range of stakeholders to disrupt traffickers and to safeguard those who have been exploited.

Department for the Economy

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for the Economy whether laptop repair shops will be able to open when COVID-19 restrictions are introduced on 27 November 2020.

(AQW 10761/17-22)

Mrs Dodds (The Minister for the Economy): This is not within the remit of my Department.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy when AQW 14111/17-22 will be answered.

(AQW 15442/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: AQW 14111/17-22 was answered on the 24 March 2021.

Mr Chambers asked the Minister for the Economy whether her Department has any plans to require caravan site operators that have received financial assistance during periods of site closure to refund site tenants who have had to pay a full year annual fee despite sites being closed.

(AQW 16907/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: It is not for my Department to intervene on this matter. This is a contractual issue between the caravan owners and the owners / managers of the caravan park on which they are sited.

Mr Gildernew asked the Minister for the Economy to outline what direct engagement she has had with the Minister of Health on workplace safety from COVID-19, including inspections by the Health and Safety Executive.

(AQW 17127/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: There has been engagement between myself and the Health Minister on workplace safety as part of discussions at the Executive. This resulted in the creation of an Engagement Forum, where workplace safety in relation to Covid-19 was discussed. HSENI were represented on the Forum.

Mr Givan asked the Minister for the Economy to confirm whether touring caravans and motorhomes are included in the relaxations of COVID-19 restrictions applicable from the 30 April 2021 which meet the criterion as being self contained tourist accommodation.

(AQW 17459/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: A review of the current restrictions took place on 15 April and package of relaxations were announced.

From 30 April, overnight stays are permitted in self-contained tourism accommodation (such as self-catering houses, caravans and motor homes). This includes any accommodation which does not require guests to share washing facilities, toilets or kitchens.

Guests can only share holiday accommodation with the people they live with in their household, and people in their bubble.

Information on the current COVID-19 Regulations and what they mean can be found on NI Direct at: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you>

Ms Kimmins asked the Minister for the Economy whether her Department will be delivering a second payment for the Newly Self-Employed Support Scheme.

(AQW 18129/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The Newly Self-Employed Support Scheme (NSESS) provided a one off grant of £3,500 to newly self-employed individuals (sole traders and those in partnerships) whose business was adversely impacted by Covid and who at the time of the scheme launch were not eligible to access support from the UK government's Self-Employed Income Support Scheme (SEISS).

The scheme launched 3 December 2020 and closed to new applicants on 19 February 2021. To date it has paid out a total of £8.7m in financial support.

Going forward, my focus is on the full and un-interrupted re-opening of the NI economy. I have listened to many business representatives and employers in recent months, and this has confirmed my belief that the best way to support all of our local businesses is to enable all of our people to commence working and trading as soon as possible, in line with the published roadmap, 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions', and the associated health regulations.

Dr Archibald asked the Minister for the Economy to provide details of the dates of her meetings since she took up office with (i) representatives of the universities or university colleges; (ii) representatives of the further education colleges; (iii) representatives of other training providers; (iv) further and higher education trade union representatives; and (v) student union representatives.

(AQW 18250/17-22)

Mr McCrossan asked the Minister for the Economy whether the COVID-19 Restart Grant scheme will be available in Northern Ireland.

(AQW 18313/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The Department for the Economy (DfE) has led in the delivery of business related support, providing approximately £440 million of much needed funds to support local businesses from all sectors and occupations throughout Northern Ireland, with the primary aim of helping these businesses to survive the pandemic, and protect as many local jobs as possible.

Whilst these schemes have closed to new applicants, payments under my Department's Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme (CRBSS) Part A and Part B will continue to be paid automatically for the period that restrictions apply, as appropriate. The Department has no plans to introduce any new schemes at this time.

As we look forward, my Department's focus is on a speedy and un-interrupted re-opening of the NI economy, in line with the Executive's roadmap 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions', and the associated health regulations.

My Department has also published its 'Economic Recovery Action Plan', which sets out a number of key actions and proposals in the short to medium term as we emerge from Covid-19. These actions will enable local companies and businesses to avail of global economic opportunities; help our people to prosper through new and better jobs; increase our skills base, and improve our productivity and competitiveness.

Also, as part of the 'Action Plan', my Department will launch the High Street Stimulus Scheme, which will provide individual adults with a prepaid card to be spent at 'bricks and mortar' businesses including retail and hospitality in our towns and cities throughout Northern Ireland, when it is deemed safe and most effective to do so.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy (i) what independent or internal assessments or reviews into the NI Sustainable Energy Programme, including its value for money, have taken place; and (ii) to detail the conclusions of those assessments or reviews.

(AQW 18455/17-22)

Mrs Dodds:

(i) A review of NISEP took place in 2019, carried out by the Utility Regulator along with the Department for the Economy and the Consumer Council for Northern Ireland. The review process included a Call for Evidence and extensive stakeholder engagement, alongside research overseen by the Consumer Council for Northern Ireland.

(ii) The NISEP review highlighted that there remains strong support for NISEP as an energy efficiency programme and for the ring-fencing of funding for vulnerable customers. The review also highlighted that from 2010, NISEP has consistently delivered high lifetime customer benefits (based on the value of the lifetime energy saved).

The main outcome of the review was a decision to extend the NISEP until 2025, or until a decision regarding any potential replacement is decided upon in the context of the new Energy Strategy (whichever is sooner).

Dr Archibald asked the Minister for the Economy (i) how many investors engaged with Invest NI regarding potential inward investment opportunities; and (ii) how many new foreign direct investment projects have commenced, in each of the last three years.

(AQW 18500/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Invest NI has a strong pipeline of FDI engagements and potential investment opportunities. However, Invest NI is unable to provide the specific investment prospect figures as this information is commercially sensitive and would give its main competitors an unfair insight into the agency's work to attract inward investment.

The historical number of FDI projects secured for Northern Ireland as a result of Invest NI's efforts is detailed in the table below. This table details the last three years published to date. The figures for 2020\21 will be released within the Invest NI year-end 2020\21 press releases later in this calendar year. Until such time this information remains commercially sensitive and cannot be detailed in this response.

Year	Number of New to NI FDI Projects Approved
2017-18	23
2018-19	17
2019-20	28

Invest NI continues to promote Northern Ireland as a destination of choice for mobile foreign direct investment, based on a compelling value proposition that combines our key strengths of a talented and loyal workforce, advanced telecoms infrastructure, a pro-business environment, competitive operating costs and proximity to major markets.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy for her assessment of the statement by the chair of the Carbon Trust, Dame Julia King, that using electricity directly is always going to be better than turning electricity into hydrogen and using the hydrogen.

(AQW 18648/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I am not aware of the statement to which you refer, however, Dame Julia King, while giving evidence to the House of Commons Science and Technology Committee on 3 March 2021, stated her full support to the UK Government for the development of both blue and green hydrogen.

Hydrogen is a cross-cutting, multi-modal capable fuel, meaning it can be used in multiple energy sectors, providing benefits where direct electrification is challenging or not possible.

I look forward to the responses to the Energy Strategy Options Consultation to identify potential applications in Northern Ireland and inform future policy in this area.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy to detail (i) the current and planned employment initiatives her Department is engaged with East Londonderry; and (ii) the number of employment or training places that will be created as a result.

(AQW 18687/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department invests significantly right across Northern Ireland, in what could be regarded as training and upskilling.

Employers create apprenticeship opportunities in line with their business needs. My Department's ApprenticeshipsNI and Higher Level Apprenticeship programmes provide funded apprenticeship training at levels 2 to 7 across a range of occupational areas. Apprentices are employed and paid directly by employers, and training is delivered through Northern Ireland based colleges, universities and non-statutory contractors, several of which are located in the East Londonderry constituency.

In addition, the Apprenticeship Return, Retain, Result and Recruit schemes are in place to incentivise employers to return apprentices from furlough and recruit new apprentices, including those previously made redundant. To date a total of £127,668 has been paid to employers in East Londonderry under both schemes, which has helped return 43 apprentices from furlough and create 38 new apprenticeship opportunities.

The amendment to the current age-eligibility criteria by the end of this year for apprenticeships under the ApprenticeshipsNI programme will also create new opportunities for those aged 25 and over in East Londonderry and across Northern Ireland.

My Department is introducing reforms to the vocational education landscape this September with Skill for Life and Work and the NI Traineeship. This new provision will help to ensure there is a well understood progression pathway that meets the needs of participants, the labour market and the wider economy.

Skills for Life and Work is a vocational education programme for young people aged 16–17 years (with extended age eligibility for those with a disability or from an in-care background) who require training primarily at Entry Level and Level 1. The first participants will commence on programme in September 2021.

The training will be primarily aimed at young people aged 16-17, with extended age criteria for some groups. It aims to deliver a portfolio of personal development, employability and essential skills alongside professional and technical training.

The NI Traineeship is the new full-time Level 2 vocational education and training provision that will provide participants with the opportunity to achieve a full level 2 outcome. Developed in partnership with employers, the Traineeship will provide participants with the skills and qualifications necessary to secure employment in their chosen occupation. The Traineeship combines vocational training, structured work placement and numeracy & literacy qualifications to support an individual's progression onto a Level 3 Apprenticeship, other Further Education qualifications or into employment. The programme will be delivered by Further Education Colleges throughout Northern Ireland, including those in the East Londonderry constituency and will be open to all age groups. When fully operational Traineeships will be available across more than 30 occupational areas.

The ESF programme Priority Axis 1 & 2 is designed to fund activity to enhance and extend employment opportunities, in particular, for those groups at a disadvantage in the labour market who are unemployed, including long term unemployed or economically inactive. In Call 2 of the 2014 – 20 NI ESF programme 4 Projects located with the East Londonderry consistency were approved funding for the period April 2018 – March 2022.

Enterprise NI Ltd (ENI) and Roe Valley Community Education Forum (RVCEF) Ltd were approved funding under the unemployed and economically inactive strand for projects with 4 year total eligible costs of £2.9m. At the end of year 3 these 2 projects have enrolled 61% (1467 participants) against a 4 year targets of 2396. At the end of year 3 they have achieved into employment rates of 39% against a target of 19% and into education rates of 22% against a target of 10%.

Limavady Community Development Initiative (LCDI) and Rapid were approved funding under the disability strand for projects with 4 year eligibility costs of £1.5m. At the end of year 3 these 2 projects have enrolled 81% (219 participants) against a 4 year target of 272. At the end of Year 3 they have achieved their into employment rate of 9% and have achieved an into education rate of 25% against a target of 18%. These results were achieved despite the COVID restrictions of Year 3.

The Assured Skills programme is a demand-led, pre-employment training programme which helps individuals gain the skills they need to compete for guaranteed job vacancies with new Foreign Direct Investment companies and expanding local based businesses.

In the North West, through the Assured Skills Academy model, the programme has supported both FinTrU and Alchemy Technology Services Ltd, delivering industry-focused training that helps equip participants with the skills demanded by growing companies.

To date 13 academies have been completed for these employers in the North West, resulting in the upskilling of 243 people for financial and technology roles. 229 of those participants secured employment with the two companies.

A new Financial Services Academy is ongoing with 19 people currently in training, and a Technology Services Academy has recently launched with 20 further positions available.

Over the course of this financial year Assured Skills hopes to support at least another 3 academies for FinTrU and Alchemy in the North West.

Assured Skills has also funded 2 collaborative Welding Academies, partnering with NWRC, which has resulted in 25 people being upskilled, and 24 of those being employed as welders.

My Department is working closely with NWRC to develop a series of additional Collaborative Welding Academies that are expected to be delivered before March 2022. This highlights my commitment to ensuring that my Department responds positively to the needs of the manufacturing sector given the pivotal role it will play in the recovery of the economy.

In 2020/2021, the Skills Intervention Programme delivered upskilling courses for individuals whose employment status was impacted by the pandemic. Further Education Colleges and local Universities (including UU & NWRC) provided a range of online courses to facilitate the programme engaging with individuals across Northern Ireland including East Londonderry.

In 2021, as part of the Executive's Economic Recovery Action Plan, a Flexible Skills Fund has been established to help upskill and reskill individuals to meet the needs of the economy as we emerge from the pandemic and continue to grow the Economy beyond it. This three-year programme, with funding provided from the Department of Finance and the Northern Ireland Office, will build on the work of the Skills Interventions Programme. This programme will be encouraging engagement of participants right across all regions within Northern Ireland.

The Flexible Skills Fund will be utilised to support a range of educational opportunities from entry level to Level 7 qualifications. Initial delivery of the Flexible Skills Fund will be provided by the further and higher education sectors. Courses will be linked directly to the priority areas for economic growth. Courses will enable longer term employment opportunities for individuals across all regions of Northern Ireland.

Ms Sheerin asked the Minister for the Economy whether the appeals process for the Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme will be expanded to reconsider business grant applications which have been rejected by the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme but which are eligible under the CRBSS.

(AQW 18784/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme (CRBSS) parts A and B closed to new applicants at 6pm on the 7th April. I can confirm that a process is being developed that will allow for applications to the CRBSS if they have been rejected from the Localised Restrictions Support Scheme (LRSS) close to or after the closing date of the CRBSS.

There are ongoing discussions with other relevant Government Departments to discuss and set out this process, the details of which will be published in coming weeks alongside information on how potential applicants will be notified of their eligibility to apply for the Scheme.

Mr Carroll asked the Minister for the Economy to outline how many employers are estimated to deny or restrict bereavement pay.

(AQW 18884/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: In the absence of routine or official recording of such information, there is no readily available credible source through which it is possible to determine or estimate how many employers deny or restrict bereavement pay.

That said, I am aware of many employers who do in fact offer paid compassionate or special leave as a way of supporting staff in the event of bereavement and I would obviously encourage all employers to do so.

Even in the event of an employer not offering paid bereavement leave, all employees have a 'day 1' right to unpaid time off to deal with emergencies involving dependents, which includes the death of a dependent. This right extends to attending the funeral of a dependent and for arranging the funeral or making any other necessary practical arrangements.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy, given the impact of COVID-19, to outline the action she is taking to support students leaving post-primary education to take their next steps towards further or higher education.

(AQW 18890/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department's Careers Service offers impartial advice and guidance to all pupils in their final years of post-primary education, on all the options available including further and higher education, apprenticeships and higher level apprenticeships and employment.

Over the past year Careers Advisers have worked with schools to ensure that young people could access personalised support digitally through email, telephone or video calls. To date 16,500 pupils have accessed this service this year and Careers advisers will continue to offer support over the summer period to help students make informed decisions about their career options.

My Department is continuing its investment in the Further Education (FE) estate to deliver modern, efficient, fit for purpose campuses that are welcoming, comfortable, healthy, neutral and vibrant places to learn and innovate.

In 2020, two major capital projects to build new campuses were completed in Banbridge and Armagh with a further new campus, in Enniskillen, being completed in April 2021. It is hoped that sector wide marketing and promotional campaigns undertaken over the coming months will encourage increased number of students leaving post primary schools in 2021 to avail of the state of the art, accessible facilities, offering significantly improved student facilities and support infrastructure and providing an enhanced curriculum offering, utilising the latest technology and equipment.

This capital investment has taken place alongside a major investment by my Department in college administrative systems meaning that learners can now apply and enrol on-line for courses at their local FE colleges. This is particularly important during the current public health restrictions removing the need for large numbers of learners on-site at a particular time.

Colleges have the capacity and are particularly well placed to accommodate any students who have found their education disrupted by the recent pandemic and will provide them with the knowledge, skills and support they need to progress to employment or higher education.

In order to raise public awareness of these opportunities available through FE, DfE has now commissioned the six colleges to work together to create a collective identity for the sector and to develop an annual campaign which will focus specifically on promoting the unique product offering for full time FE including higher education (HE) provision.

The Department recognises the clear potential for learning deficits to affect people who are entering higher education this coming year, due to the impact of the pandemic and officials are in discussions with both the HE and FE sectors on how best to mitigate this.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy (i) for her assessment of concerns that due to decisions on providing predicted grades for A-level courses for this year, students seeking to move into higher education through access to higher education courses are at a disadvantage, compared to students undertaking A-levels; and (ii) what action she is taking to ensure fairness amongst all prospective higher education students.

Mrs Dodds: An offer of a place in higher education is often made based on predicted grades at the point of application and before results are known. This applies equally for applicants on Access courses and A-level courses. When results are published, those who fulfil their offer of a place are admitted.

As autonomous bodies, universities are responsible for their own policies and procedures on admissions. No additional action is necessary to ensure fairness, as Access students will be treated in the same way as other Level 3 applicants in the 2021 admissions cycle.

Mr Newton asked the Minister for the Economy to confirm the awarding bodies and the level of vocational qualifications that may be attained by trainees on her Department's supported apprenticeship programmes.

(AQW 18924/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department continues to fund the off-the-job training of apprentices enrolled in the ApprenticeshipsNI and Higher Level Apprenticeships programmes from Level 2 to Level 7.

A wide range of vocational qualifications are offered across both of these apprenticeship programmes. The awarding bodies providing these qualifications are listed below.

Ms Bailey asked the Minister for the Economy given amendments to the Industrial Emissions Directive and Large Combustion Plant Directive that come into force in August 2021 and that will have the effect of limiting emissions from gas turbines used in energy generation, for her assessment of whether any decision on the Islandmagee gas storage project should be delayed until the outcome is known of the Energy Strategy for Northern Ireland

(AQW 18925/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Northern Ireland has benefitted from significant increases in electricity generation from renewable technologies, in particular from on-shore wind. However, wind generation is intermittent, and there is a need to maintain sufficient fossil-fuelled generation to meet electricity demand when renewable generation is not available. Gas-fired generation is the least polluting conventional generation and, while gas-fired plants will have to comply with all relevant emissions legislation, they will remain an essential part of our generation mix, at least in the short to medium term, contributing to our security of energy supply.

My Department issued a three month public consultation on Energy Strategy policy options on 31 March 2021, and intends to publish the new strategy by the end of this year. As the Energy Strategy is developed, further consideration will be given to security of supply risks and potential mitigations, and this may include energy storage considerations.

The Islandmagee gas storage project is being taken forward by private sector developers without direct financial support from Government, and the decision to proceed with the project, subject to finalising outstanding consents and approvals, is a matter for the developers.

Ms Brogan asked the Minister for the Economy whether she will roll out the period poverty pilot scheme to further education colleges in September 2021, to coincide with the roll out in universities.
(AQW 18941/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The six Further Education colleges in Northern Ireland currently provide access to free sanitary products within the majority of their campuses.

Notwithstanding this, colleges will, in line with the Higher Education pilot, be funded for a period poverty pilot scheme in the next academic year.

My Department's Further Education Division is undertaking a comprehensive review of Student Support in FE colleges which does, amongst other things, seek to quantify trends and demand for free sanitary products for students, and make appropriate recommendations for improvement, if necessary. The data provided by the pilot in further education will help inform this review.

Ms S Bradley asked the Minister for the Economy further to the additional job losses at Collins Aerospace Killeel, whether she has made any representations to the UK Government with a view to developing a financial support package aimed at hastening the recovery of the Aerospace Industry.
(AQW 18953/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I meet aerospace industry representatives and the sector body, ADS, on a regular basis, most recently with the ADS NI Council in March, to hear directly about the extraordinary challenges being faced by Aviation and Aerospace, induced by COVID-19. I also meet Whitehall Ministerial colleagues bilaterally and as part of a Devolved Nations Group to represent the economic interests of Northern Ireland including Aerospace.

There are no specific Covid response measures available to the aerospace sector; however businesses within this sector have availed of the Coronavirus Business Interruption Loan Scheme (CBILS) and Coronavirus Large Business Interruption Loan Scheme (CLBILS), Job Retention Scheme ('CJRS') and other fiscal measures to mitigate against the challenges of the pandemic.

To date, the UK Government has put substantial support in place to help. The aerospace sector and its aviation customers are being supported with almost £11 billion made available through the Bank of England's Covid Corporate Financing Facility, grants for research and development, loan guarantees and support for exporters.

In addition, I have also lobbied directly to the chancellor in February 2021 to seek clarification at the time on the possible extension of the CJRS as aerospace companies had expressed their concern that if this were to end in April it would have had a significant impact on the number of employees being made redundant. This was subsequently extended to September 2021.

BEIS and Invest NI are working jointly, and in partnership with ADS, to support the aerospace industry in Northern Ireland through programmes like the Aerospace Technology Institute, National Aerospace Technology Exploitation Programme, Sharing in Growth and 21st Century Supply Chain Programme (SC21) Competitiveness & Growth.

Invest NI has also rolled out a series of COVID-19 response programmes aimed at supporting business across a number of areas including capital investment, operational excellence, supply chain resilience and strategic planning. These programmes have been received positively by both the aerospace sector and wider NI industry enabling businesses to remain viable and competitive as they implement their exit plan from the current pandemic.

I fully appreciate the challenges faced by the NI aerospace industry and shall continue to do everything possible to represent the interests of the sector.

Mr O'Dowd asked the Minister for the Economy whether the British Government's Higher Education (Freedom of Speech) Bill will have any impact on local higher education institutions in terms of conditional access to funding.
(AQW 18956/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: No.

Mr McGrath asked the Minister for the Economy whether consideration has been given as to when universities can expect to return to face to face learning, including the indicative timescales.
(AQW 18970/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I recently announced £4.1million for the provision of a safe working, learning and research environment in our Higher Education Institutes and all our Higher Education students have access to asymptomatic testing. With these measures, and the reduction in levels of Coronavirus transmission and positivity, I believe that we should be facilitating the return for all students as soon as it is possible and appropriate. I asked Executive colleagues to consider the current advice and am pleased that they have agreed to progress to stage 4 of the "Pathway to Recovery" which allows for increased face-to-face teaching for Higher Education and student extracurricular and support activities to be resumed.

As our Universities are autonomous institutions, the implementation and model of this provision is for them to consider based on public health advice from the Executive. However this change allows providers sufficient time to plan the curriculum, with appropriate mitigations, for the new academic year and also offers reassurances to students about what their student experience will look like.

Mr Hilditch asked the Minister for the Economy to outline what support her Department has invested, over the current mandate, in improving career prospects for former military personnel (i) generally; and (ii) in politics.
(AQW 19018/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department does not have specific data on support for military personnel.

However, the Careers Service offers personalised advice and guidance to all, including former military personnel, about career options. Careers advisers have access to up to date information, developed by the Department's economists, on the various pathways available, suited to the specific needs, talents and circumstances of each individual. They can advise on how to acquire skills in demand, and to help people compete for employment in growing and emerging sectors. Contact details for the Department's Careers Service is available on Nirect/careers.

My Department also plays a key role enable and support people to obtain the skills and qualifications needed in order to progress to a higher level of education and training or into employment.

In addition to the existing provision, the draft Skills Strategy sets out a programme of actions required to modernise Northern Ireland's skills system. In the short-term, the priority of the draft Strategy is to respond to the economic impact of the Covid-19 pandemic. The draft Strategy will establish a skills framework to address the key, long term structural issues in our economy, which includes too many individuals with low, or no skills; limited opportunities for high paying jobs and pathways for career progression, a 'skills deficit' and comparatively poor productivity performance.

My Department recently published 'A 10X Economy' which sets out the economic vision for Northern Ireland over the next decade and a commitment to encourage greater collaboration and innovation to deliver a ten times better economy that will benefit all the people of Northern Ireland. The importance of transforming the skills system is central to delivering an economy that is 10x stronger, 10x more prosperous and 10x more resilient.

Mr Dickson asked the Minister for the Economy for an update on repayments of the loan provided to Presbyterian Mutual Society by the NI Executive.
(AQW 19025/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: As at 31 March 2021 £131.5m has been repaid from the £175m loan provided to the Presbyterian Mutual Society leaving a balance outstanding of £43.5m.

Current forecasts indicate there will potentially be a shortfall of £18.5m and an Expected Credit Loss provision, with budget cover, has been recognised to cover this in the Department for the Economy's 2020/21 accounts.

In addition, due to the order of repayment of the various loans, a £50m loan provided under the Mutual Access Fund is now considered unrecoverable, however this had been written down to nil in previous years.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy to detail the breakdown, by sector, of those workers currently on furlough.
(AQW 19041/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The latest HMRC information on the furlough scheme shows there were approximately 99,400 employments furloughed in Northern Ireland on 31 March 2021. Of those on furlough locally, almost a third (31%) were partially furloughed.

The number of employments on furlough in Northern Ireland is broken down by sector in the table below.

Sector	Employments on Furlough in NI on 31 March 2021
Agriculture, forestry and fishing, Mining and quarrying, Energy production and supply & Water supply, sewerage and waste	910
Manufacturing	9,560
Construction	5,590
Wholesale and retail; repair of motor vehicles	24,760
Transportation and storage	3,080
Accommodation and food services	23,290
Information and communication, Financial and insurance & Real estate	3,850
Professional and scientific and technical	4,300

Sector	Employments on Furlough in NI on 31 March 2021
Administrative and support services	4,990
Education	1,470
Health and Social Work	4,150
Arts, entertainment and recreation	6,150
Other service activities	5,060
Public administration and defence; social security, Households & Other	2,290
Total	99,400

The two sectors with the highest number of people on furlough are Wholesale & Retail and Accommodation & Food Services. It is important to note that these figures relate to March and with the easing of restrictions since then, particularly the reopening of non-essential retail, hospitality and accommodation, I would expect to see further reductions in the number of workers on furlough over the coming months.

However, I am pleased the furlough scheme is being made available for businesses until the end of September. That will provide a basis for economic recovery to gain momentum, supported by my Department's Economic Recovery Action Plan. Building that momentum will be key to delivering my longer term vision for the NI economy as set out in 10X Economy – an economic vision for a decade of innovation.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy what action she is taking to address the increasing number of employers that are firing staff in order to re-hire them on lower pay and less favourable conditions of employment.
(AQW 19077/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I would direct the Member to my response to AQW 17614, which also relates to the matter of 'fire and re-hire' practices in Northern Ireland.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy whether she will introduce legislation to amend the Employment Rights (Northern Ireland) Order 1996 to specify that fire and re-hire redundancies will automatically be regarded as unfair dismissals.
(AQW 19078/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: I would direct the Member to my response to AQW 17614, which also relates to the matter of 'fire and re-hire' practices in Northern Ireland.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy whether the outcome of the RHI Tariff Review consultation includes a backdating to 1 April 2020 of any resulting tariff increase.
(AQW 19080/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The outworking of the 2020 Tariff Review public consultation was reflected in options 2 and 4 of the recent consultation on the future of the Non-Domestic RHI Scheme, which concluded on 9 April 2021. The final decision on the future of the Scheme will be taken by the Executive collectively and the outcome of the consultation will assist the Executive in making its determination.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy what action she intends to take to address economic hardship amongst RHI Scheme participants as reported in the Buglass Review of Economic impact.
(AQW 19081/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: The findings of the Buglass Report were considered in the development of options for the future of the Non-Domestic RHI Scheme, which were subject to recent public consultation. The final decision on the future of the Scheme will be taken by the Executive collectively and the outcome of the consultation will assist the Executive in making its determination.

Ms Hunter asked the Minister for the Economy what steps her Department is taking to support the wedding events industry.
(AQW 19152/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Since March 2020, the NI Executive and the UK Government have introduced an unprecedented number of interventions and packages of financial support to help those who have been affected by the consequences of Covid-19.

The Department for the Economy (DfE) has led in the delivery of business related support, providing approximately £485 million of much needed funds to support local businesses from all sectors and occupations throughout Northern Ireland, with the primary aim of helping these businesses to survive the pandemic, and protect as many local jobs as possible.

Businesses in the wedding events industry may have been eligible for support under my Department's Covid Restrictions Business Support Scheme.

Many businesses in this sector may also have been eligible for support under UK Government schemes such as the Job Retention Scheme (furlough) for their employees and the Self-Employment Income Support Schemes (SEISS). I also launched the Newly Self Employed Support Scheme and the Limited Company Director's Support Scheme for individuals who have not been eligible for SEISS.

The Department has no plans to introduce any new schemes at this time. Rather, the Department's focus is on the full and un-interrupted re-opening of the NI economy, in line with the Executive's roadmap, 'Moving Forward: The Executive's Pathway Out of Restrictions', and the associated health regulations.

Mr McNulty asked the Minister for the Economy whether she is taking any measures to ensure the £100 High Street Voucher Scheme will be spent in local retailers and not in large multi-national outlets.

(AQW 19252/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: My Department will be undertaking a consultation and engagement process with all relevant stakeholders to inform scheme development.

Further information on the High Street Stimulus Scheme, including all the outlets where the pre-paid card can be used, will be made available through a multi-media advertising campaign to reach all audiences, prior to its implementation.

Ms Sugden asked the Minister for the Economy to detail any discussions she has had with Northern Ireland's universities regarding reimbursing halls of residence fees paid by students who had no face-to-face lectures during the tenancy and who didn't use the accommodation.

(AQW 19264/17-22)

Mrs Dodds: Earlier this year, I wrote to Northern Ireland's universities and university colleges, on behalf of students, asking them to consider how they might support their students by engaging with private accommodation providers, as well as reviewing their own accommodation policies (where applicable) to ensure they are fair, transparent and have the best interests of students at heart.

Over the course of the pandemic, the universities have taken measures such as rental pauses and releasing students from accommodation contracts, in order to relieve some of the financial strains being experienced by students.

I subsequently secured an additional £37.7million from the Executive to fund a financial support package for higher education. This package includes £3.1million to compensate universities for lost income arising from rental pauses and releasing students from accommodation contracts.

Ms McLaughlin asked the Minister for the Economy (i) whether year 13 and 14 students will receive EMA payments until the end of the current term; (ii) whether the summer bonus will be paid as normal; (iii) whether normal arrangements have been changed; and (iv) what consultation took place prior to the decision being taken.

Mrs Dodds:

- (i) As has been the case in previous years, Year 13 and 14 pupils who are entitled to Education Maintenance Allowance (EMA) will continue to receive EMA support until the end of the current school term as long as they continue to engage with learning on their course. It remains a matter for schools to decide the best way to deliver this learning for these pupils during the current summer term and to apply their schools' attendance policies in accordance with DE Circular 2020/08;
- (ii) Pupils who have been deemed by their Learning Centre (school) to have met their agreed performance-related targets will be eligible for the EMA June Bonus payment, as has been the case in previous years;
- (iii) Payment of the EMA weekly allowance continues to be dependent upon a pupil's attendance/ engagement with learning, and payment of the June Bonus contingent upon meeting agreed performance-related targets. Normal arrangements have therefore not been changed; and
- (iv) As schools are open as normal, the approach to payment of EMA and the end of year bonus has not changed, therefore a consultation exercise was not required.

Frequently Asked Questions and Guidance for Learning Centres (schools) on the operation of the EMA Scheme is available on the Student Loans Company's online EMA Portal.

Revised Written Answer

Department of Finance

In this Bound Volume, page WA 35, replace the answer given for AQW 16399/17-22 with:

Mr Muir asked the Minister of Finance to detail the COVID-19 schemes approved under Ministerial Direction during 2019/20 and 2020/21.

(AQW 16399/17-22)

Mr C Murphy (The Minister of Finance): I responded to your written Assembly Question AQW 16399/17-22 on the 24th March where I provided a list of Covid Schemes which had been taken forward under Ministerial Direction. Unfortunately my response contained two errors and I am now seeking to correct this and provide an update on the Ministerial Directions issued for Covid schemes since the original response.

The updated list of all COVID-19 Schemes for 2019-20 and 2020-21 approved to date under Ministerial Direction is attached at Annex A. This annex replaces the response issued previously.

A revised response has been necessary to remove Department for Economy's City of Derry Airport Public Service Obligation (CoDA PSO) 2021-23. Although funding was provided for the PSO in 2020-21 due to the impact of COVID-19, the payment from DFE to CODA did not require a Ministerial Direction. However, a Ministerial Direction was issued in 2020-21 to fund expenditure for the CODA PSO in 2021-22 and 2022-23 but this expenditure is not COVID funding.

I had also included the Reimbursement of Strike Pay to healthcare workers for the period November 2019 to January 2020 in the previous response. Although this was taken forward under Ministerial Direction, it is not part of a COVID-19 Scheme. I have now excluded it from the revised list as it relates to the reimbursement of lost pay for strike action undertaken in November 2019 – January 2020 that predated the outbreak of COVID here. Therefore it has now been removed from the Annex.

When the list was compiled in March, it included all COVID-19 Schemes delivered under Ministerial Directions at that time. However, further Ministerial Directions have issued for COVID-19 schemes since the Assembly Question was initially answered. The list in Annex A has therefore been updated to include these additional Ministerial Directions.

As I advised previously, my department is currently working on enhanced guidance to clarify the process to be followed in respect of Ministerial Directions. Guidance on the publishing of Ministerial Directions issued on 2 April under the cover of DAO 02/21.

Please accept my apology for the errors in the earlier response and I hope you will find this updated position helpful. I note you have issued a further question on the costs to date of these schemes. We have asked departments to provide this and I will forward the response once it is completed.

That this Assembly notes it is 31 years since the murder of human rights lawyer, Pat Finucane, and almost 20 years since the British Government committed to a full and independent public inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the murder; further notes the Supreme Court ruling that there has not been an Article 2 compliant inquiry into the murder; is concerned at the refusal of the British Government to hold the public inquiry which it promised; is further concerned that the British Government's approach risks undermining wider confidence in the rule of law and the administration of justice; reiterates that a public inquiry is the most effective means to get the truth about the scope and extent of state collusion in this murder; urges the British Government, in the public interest, to reconsider its response to the Supreme Court ruling; recognises, on March 12th 2021, the reopening of supervision by the Council of Europe Committee of Ministers into the murder of Pat Finucane; further recognises the significance of this unusual step by the Council of Europe Committee of Ministers which acknowledged with profound concern the delay in ongoing legacy cases generally whilst resuming supervision of measures by the UK government in order to ensure they are adequate, sufficient and timely; calls on the British Government to establish the Historical Investigations Unit and the other Stormont House Agreement legacy mechanisms so that families of all victims have access to human rights compliant investigations; and further calls on the British Government to initiate the independent, public inquiry it promised to the family of Pat Finucane in 2001.

Motion: Public Inquiry into the Murder of Human Rights Lawyer Pat Finucane

Proposed:

That this Assembly notes it is 31 years since the murder of human rights lawyer, Pat Finucane, and almost 20 years since the British Government committed to a full and independent public inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the murder; further notes the Supreme Court ruling that there has not been an Article 2 compliant inquiry into the murder; is concerned at the refusal of the British Government to hold the public inquiry which it promised; is further concerned that the British Government's approach risks undermining wider confidence in the rule of law and the administration of justice; reiterates that a public inquiry is the most effective means to get the truth about the scope and extent of state collusion in this murder; urges the British Government, in the public interest, to reconsider its response to the Supreme Court ruling; recognises, on March 12th 2021, the reopening of supervision by the Council of Europe Committee of Ministers into the murder of Pat Finucane; further recognises the significance of this unusual step by the Council of Europe Committee of Ministers which acknowledged with profound concern the delay in ongoing legacy cases generally whilst resuming supervision of measures by the UK government in order to ensure they are adequate, sufficient and timely; calls on the British Government to establish the Historical Investigations Unit and the other Stormont House Agreement legacy mechanisms so that families of all victims have access to human rights compliant investigations; and further calls on the British Government to initiate the independent, public inquiry it promised to the family of Pat Finucane in 2001.
