

Healthy Relations for a Healthy Future 2

A Good Relations Strategy 2017 – 2022: Promoting Good Relations amongst people of different religions, beliefs, racial groups and political opinions

"I think having good relations with others is vital to being able to work therapeutically and collaboratively with patients and also for the effective functioning teams, services and the system as a whole" (Staff)

"Good relations is said to exist where there is a high level of dignity, respect and mutual understanding and an absence of prejudice, hatred, hostility or harassment" (Equality Commission NI)

Introduction

This is a summary of the Belfast Health and Social Care Trust's second Good Relations Strategy 'Healthy Relations for a Healthy Future 2'. This strategy covers the period 2017 – 2022 and demonstrates our ongoing commitment to continue the work outlined in our previous strategy to promoting Good Relations amongst people of different religions, beliefs, racial groups and political opinions and to challenging sectarianism and racism.

"Belfast Trust is openly committed to promoting Good Relations amongst people of different religions, beliefs, racial groups and political opinions and challenging sectarianism and racism. One of the Trust's corporate values is to uphold and promote respect and diversity and as an employer to more than 20,000 people and serving a population of some 340,000, it is important that we build upon the programme of work undertaken in Healthy Relations for a Healthy Future 1 (the Trust's Good Relations Strategy 2012-2016). We are now developing Healthy Relations for a Healthy Future 2 Strategy to consolidate existing good practice and to progress new initiatives, so that accessible services are provided in shared spaces in an environment where everyone is valued, respected and treated with dignity and feel safe and comfortable accessing all Trust services irrespective of race, religion, belief or political opinion".

Martin Dillion, Belfast HSCT Chief Executive

This strategy is designed to meet the needs of service users and staff that represent a multicultural, multi-faith society and one, which still faces challenges in terms of the legacy of division. It is an important enabler of the Trust goals to drive quality and safety and to reduce barriers to services.

The contents of this strategy has been co designed and informed by feedback from a 12 week public consultation, an independent evaluation of the Trust's first Good Relations Strategy in 2012 – 'Healthy Relations for a Healthy Future' and a staff/service user survey to ensure it is meaningful and relevant to all stakeholders.

The Trust has seen an increase in diversity within the Trust staff, for example, as of January 2016, 4% belonging to the BME (black/minority ethnic) background.

Between and to 1 April 2016 - 31 March 2017 there were requests from the Trust for face to face interpreting in 30 different languages as well as 4,802 telephone interpreting sessions.

31,850

Top languages for interpreting: Polish, Lithuanian, Romanian, Portuguese, Arabic, Slovak, Tetum, Chinese – Mandarin, Hungarian and Bulgarian.

Census statistics in 2011 showed that in Belfast:

- 41% of the population identified as Roman Catholic
- 42% Protestant, Church of Ireland, Methodist or Other Christian
- 17% Buddhist, Hindu, Muslim, Jewish, Sikh, Other or None

How our Corporate Objectives complement and enable a Good Relations Strategy

Trust values

The promotion of good relations specifically contributes to our overall purpose to improve health and wellbeing and to reduce health inequalities.

respect & dignity

openness & trust

leading edge

learning & development

accountability

A Culture of Safety and Excellence

We will foster an open and learning culture, and put in place robust systems to provide assurance to our users and the public regarding the safety and quality of services. The Good Relations Strategy supports safety by ensuring all Trust facilities and locations are safe and welcoming for staff and users, providing an environment that enhances service delivery and that delivers highest standards of care.

Continuous Improvement

The Strategy will contribute to the Trust being leading edge in innovation at all levels in the organisation in terms of promoting good relations. We will utilise existing policies and initiatives that foster good relations and will develop new ones that reflect and meet the needs of service delivery, staff and service users in a new era of political, social and economic stability. It will embrace modernisation to mainstream good relations within the Trust.

Partnerships

Promoting good relations will build on and develop partnerships with staff, users, Trade Unions, Section 75 organisations and communities to ensure full utilisation and access to all Trust facilities. It will contribute to improved communication with partners to develop good relations and improve health and wellbeing and reduce inequalities.

Our People

The Strategy will assist the development of a culturally competent work force that is trained and skilled in embracing good relations and where sectarianism and racism are not tolerated. The Trust will continue to show leadership in promoting good relations for all staff through the implementation and evaluation of this Strategy, associated Policies and through the provision of a programme of training and awareness raising. Progress will be reviewed to ensure the aims of the Strategy are upheld.

Resources

Belfast Trust will work to optimise the resources available to us to achieve shared goals to ensure all our facilities have a welcoming environment for staff and service users. Resources will be used to facilitate staff training, develop partnerships, policies, programmes and initiatives that will contribute to the mainstreaming of good relations and the creation of an organisational culture that acknowledges and challenges racism and sectarianism.

How we developed our new strategy

As with our previous strategy, we were determined that Healthy Relations for a Healthy Future 2 would be meaningful and reflects the needs of both staff and service users alike, we therefore, conducted an evaluation of the previous Good Relations Strategy. The evaluation provided the opportunity for the Trust to evaluate and assess the impact of the previous strategy by asking the public and staff to tell us what worked and what did not work and what they felt should be included in the new Good Relations Strategy.

The Trust also engaged in a pre-consultation event with community and voluntary organisations, Trust staff and Trade Unions. A variety of mediums were used to maximise participation including face-to-face interviews with set questions with staff and service users. Interviews were also conducted with a wide range of individuals and groups including service users, staff, Trade Unions, community/voluntary and statutory organisations and Section 75 representative groups.

There was an online staff survey conducted, however, feedback from the 4264 (19%) Trust staff that responded to the National HSCNI (2015) survey was also used where relevant.

Views were also sought on good relations from 81 representatives who attended a broader regional engagement on equality and disability in January 2017.

In terms of the strategy, the Trust has been mindful of other key drivers and strategic development in terms of the Executive Office's promotion of Good Relations in the Together Building a United Community (TBUC) and the Belfast City Council's first Community Strategy Plan (The Belfast Agenda) to which people overwhelmingly responded saying they wanted "Belfast to continue to be a culturally rich and diverse city that is compassionate safe and welcoming to all."

Evaluation Process

The main areas that the Trust sought views on were:

What worked with the previous strategy?

What didn't work with previous strategy?

Which category in terms of race, religion and political opinion do you think has benefited?

What difference do you think good relations makes?

What national and regional issues should be considered?

What new initiatives should be considered?
